LIBRARY
ALABAMA COLLEGE
MONTEVALLO

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P Reynolds, pastor—preaching every secohd and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P. M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor. Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Bank Bros. are doing a lot of work now.

Patronize those merchants who advertise.

Pres. Reynolds is a very busy man these days.

The article on "the goat" will not appear this week.

John B. Randall, of Calera, was in town this week.

Prof. Will Tyler, of Gurnee, was in the city Saturday.

Dr. R. C. Jones, of Dogwood, visited our town Saturday.

Circuit court will convene at Columbiana on the 20th inst.

Mr. Ed Davis, with his mother, moved to Aldrich Monday.

Editor Graham, of the Shelby Sentinel, was in town Tuesday.

Imogene coal for sale by C. C. Vandegrift, Montevallo, Ala.

Mr. R. T. Newton will open a bakery here about October 1st.

Two more new brick stores to be erected. How does that hit you?

Miss Mattie Roebuck, of Birmingham, is visiting Miss Nonie Wells.

Prof. Smithson, of the Brierfield Normal College, was in town Saturday.

A light rain fell here Monday afternoon—not enough, though, to sow turnips.

Mr. Casey Fancher caught a fox Monday morning, and brought it to town alive.

Ask Louis Bowden if bed-bugs ever get too poor to be recognized by their odor.

We hear some talk of a dummy line to run from here to Aldrich. Let us have it.

Our citizens can get fresh bread daily in the near future. We are to h[ave] a bakery.

[I] understand that a warehouse [is to] be built here soon. Good. We [need] one badly.

[When] you want a clean shave or [a] hair cut, call on Felix Dotson. [Artis]sorial artist.

R. L. Rice, of the Blocton Herald, was in town Monday, [and] ave us a pleasant call.

[Capt.] O. A. Pickard, stock claim [agent] of the Southern, was in town [Mon]day, and gave us a call.

[Messrs.] F. B. and Eb Arnold, Josh [and] Drayton Trucks, of Six [Runs] town yesterday.

[Mr.] Morgan, manager of the [Morgan] & Co. store at Blocton. [was] Monday on business.

F. W. Rogan, dealer in staple and fancy groceries, will speak to his friends through the columns of the NEWS next week.

Messrs. James Battle and John McKinney, from near Six Mile, were in town Saturday, and purchased a large stock of goods.

Our town continues to improve. The sound of the saw and hammer can be heard on every hand. We'll boast of a city yet.

Messrs. Latham Bros. were too busy to write out their ad. for this week's issue. Keep your eye on their space next week.

C. C. Vandegrift is selling lots on his farm between Montevallo and Aldrich cheap. Call and buy one before he advances the price.

The editor says he is going to buy one of those cheap lots in the Vandegrift addition, build a residence, get married, and quit his meanness.

The Montevallo Steam Ginnery is now ready for work. It will be to your advantage to see Capt. McKibbon before having your ginning done.

Come to hustling Montevallo, and let the wide-awake firm of C. L. Meroney & Co. make you some prices. Don't forget that they are in their handsome new brick store.

Mr. Burgess Little, the clever and accommodating cashier of the Shelby County Bank, was in town Monday. We are glad to announce that the bank will be ready for business by the 20th inst.

Go to C. L. Meroney & Co.'s new brick store. They have groceries for the hungry, shoes for the barefooted, hats and caps to shelter the bareheaded, and clothing for the naked at prices to suit the stingy.

Mr. L. N. Bowden, who has been in the northern markets buying a large stock of fall goods for the enterprising firm of H. C & W. B. Reynolds, returned home Sunday. Mr. Bowden took in the Nashville Centennial while away.

The old and reliable firm of H. C & W. B. Reynolds is too well known to need any commendation from us. They are the pioneers of low prices, and they know the value of printers' ink. Watch their space next week, and see what they have to say.

Montevallo is as good a cotton market as you can find anywhere. Our cotton buyers pay the highest market price for the fleecy staple, and our merchants can furnish you with anything you want to eat or wear at rock-bottom prices. Bring your cotton to Montevallo.

When you come to Montevallo to do your trading, don't fail to call on Morgan Bros. before buying elsewhere. They have just opened up a new and fresh line of dress goods, novelty suiting, ribbons, etc, for the ladies. Their clothing department is complete in every respect. See their advertisement in another column.

Mr. John T. Wilson, living about 5½ miles southwest of Montevallo, had the misfortune to lose his residence, all of his meat, lard and molasses, and a lot of household goods by fire last Saturday night. The fire originated in the smoke house, and was first discovered about eight o'clock. Mr. Wilson's loss is about $1.000, with no insurance.

A young lady once asked us how to make "not enough" out of the word "enough." After a moment's meditation and thought we told her it was quite easy, and explained as follows: Take, we said, the 3rd, 2nd and 1st letters of the word "enough" for the first, and the 6th, 4th and 5th for the second, and you will have two words that signify something that is not enough for any young lady. Arrange the letters according to the above direction and

R W Hawthorne, Winston, N C; W B Steel, Birmingham, A X Marston Chattanooga, J T Steiner, Nashville Henry Meyer, Selma.

SOUTHSIDE DOTS.

The protracted meeting at Spring Creek was quite a success.

Mr. Walter Carlisle has returned to his home in Talladega for a few days.

Miss Realy Sessions has been quite ill for the past week, but is improving now.

When does the St. George give her grand opening? Echo when.

Mr. Kroell, what young man's orders for horse and buggy have you filled for 12 Sundays in succession?

Dr. E. G. Givhan is off on a visit for a few days.

The Gypsies are in town. Who are going to have their fortunes told? Mr Dol Banks already knows his.

The young people that were out driving Sunday afternoon got a good sprinkle, but that didn't mar their pleasure in the least.

"Honey, does you lub your man?" is the song of the Southside boys.

EVANGELINE.

SIX MILE ITEMS.

The Academy opened Monday morning with an enrollment of 84, with a fair prospect of 30 to 40 more in a short time. Quite a number of patrons were present. Rev. W H. Connell opened the exercise by reading the 2d chapter of Proverbs with a short comment, and offering a short prayer. Prof. Rasco gave a hearty welcome to all. Rev. J. M. Langston, chairman of the board of trustees, made an address, giving an interesting account of Six Mile school contrasting the past with the present. Capt. R. H. Pratt followed with some very expressive remarks on education. Rev. S. Smithson came next, and said we have all we need in the persons of our teachers, and if the parents will cooperate with them, they will have a school indeed. Rev. J N Langston, one of Bibb's noblest sons, followed with some great argument to push forward in education. Prof. H. L. Hicks came next with wit and humor, and made a splendid talk on getting and how to get a practical education. Prof. A N. Clayton, the new principal was next, and made a practical talk on education. Mr. R. J. Rotenberry offered some timely remarks of encouragement. Mr. H. L. Wallace said the war prevented him from getting an education, but he was a friend to education, and thanked God for the star rising in our beloved Bibb, which fits persons for every calling in life. Mr. Newton Langston gave some of his peculiar wit and humor. He also made some telling remarks aptly suited to the occasion.

The sick of our town are all about well again.

C. H. Moore has enlarged his store house and has greatly improved his stock of general merchandise.

Mr. Mose Cottingham's children have moved to Six Mile to attend school.

Capt. Pratt is working hard to promote the educational interests of Bibb H.

BLOCTON ITEMS

The public school opened Monday, the 13th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Rice visited Six Mile Sunday.

Cotton continues to come in, which shows that Blocton is a good cotton market.

Gov. Joseph F. Johnston passed through our town Sunday en route to Centreville.

Profs. Wallace and

...NT PAGE...

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

THE DICTIONARY HOLDE

Did you ever learn what fabulous results grew out of the manufacture by Mr. Noyes of an ornamental stand to hold the Dictionary? The story reads like a tale, but to tell it one must ask another question. Have you noticed the advertisement of the Aermotor company, which runs as follows:

43 sold in '93
2,200 sold in '93
6,200 sold in '99
20,000 sold in '01
60,000 will be sold in '02

...Windmill and Steel ... every 3 minutes. ... figures tell the ... of the ever-growing, ... everlasting ... Aermotor. Where ... goes the ... follows, ... and we "Take the Country."

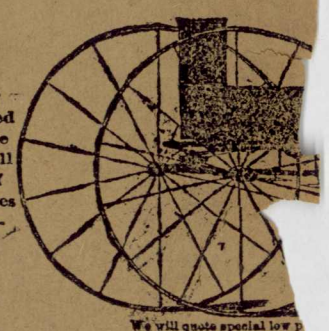
...that established business ... La Verne W. Noyes, and the ... awards with which it was built ... up until it is the ... therefore the Western ... and, crowded by two of the ... great Boynton ... was wholly furnished by the Dictionary Holder Manufacturing ... brings us back to the Dictionary ... upon this ... and sold ... increasing ... The secret of this ... Mr. Noyes has ... artistic ... ans ... excellence ... at a low ... Dictionary ... but they ... and in ... that ... could ... They ... every ... portion of the globe ... to the ... of the sea, and are kept by all ... wheelers.

...between ... tanooga and the North ... Through Sleepers ... Knoxville and Bristol.—... tween Atlanta, Vicksburg ... to California via New ... Choice of Routes to ... port.—Solid Vestibuled ... Service to Louisville. ... All this Magnificent Pa... mand. Buy your tickets ... Ask agents for detailed ...

W. C. RINEARS...

THREE QUARTER...

Spring in the world, also hung on Bro... Finely Finished; Bands, Seat-Rail... Yeing Silver-Plated; Leather Trimmed; ...



Write for our 56-page elegantly Illustrated Catalogue giving full details of all vehicles manufactured by us.

We will quote special low p...

RATTERMANN & LUT...

Do You Know

RAMON'S LIVER PILLS

and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses
The Tonic Pellet Invigora...

The little "Doctor's Book" tells all ... it and a week's Treatment free prov... word true. Complete Treatment 2... Brown Mfg. Co., ...

along the Alabama and Mobile rivers. Valley creek will have to be locked, dammed and considerably deepened at points, and it is estimated that eight locks will have to be erected along the Warrior river between the mouth of Valley Creek and Tuskaloosa.

State Treasury Statement.

The fiscal year with the Alabama State Treasury concludes on September 30, but it is already evident that the receipts for this year will be between $50,000 and $60,000 in excess of those of last year, whereas the increase in the disbursements will reach probably $200,000.

This increase in disbursements is due to the expense of the last legislature, which cost the State $53,000; an additional interest of $70,000 on the bonded indebtedness of the State, by reason of the increase of the contract rate on the graduated bonds; an additional appropriation of $15,000 by the last legislature to the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo; an increase in the appropriation to the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute at Talladega of $11,000, and an increase in payments from the school fund of $33,000 for public school purposes; the appropriation for codifying the laws, $12,000.

These several appropriations consumed $194,000 of the increase in disbursements and the balance represents the increase that is natural in the expense account of a growing State. Had it been possible to avoid these several extraordinary expenses, and had it not been for the Lott shortage, the treasury would have shown a profit this year of considerably over $60,000.

Briefly Noted.

A school building will be erected at Marshall.

Electric cars have superseded steam dummies on the Ensley line.

Montgomery's new cotton mill started last week with a full force of operatives.

The State Board of Health has elected Captain Amerine State quarantine manager.

Jesse Claxton, colored, shot and killed Richard Ford, colored, in Birmingham Friday night.

C. D. Summerlin was shot through the stomach by C. M. Barksdale at Brantley Wednesday, and will probably die.

Sixty skilled rolling mill men arrived in Birmingham Thursday from Pittsburg to accept positions in the rolling mills.

Temple Taylor, a negro woman, said to have reached the remarkable age of 115 years, died in Birmingham last week.

Wes Roane, colored, shot and killed Carrie Brown, colored, at Smythe's Mines, Jefferson county, Friday, the murder being the termination of a quarrel.

S. Carstenson, the man who fell into a vat of hot water at the Alabama Brewing Company's plant at Birmingham, died Saturday morning at 5 o'clock from his injuries.

Governor Johnston has appointed John Case, of Mobile, as tax collector of that county, to succeed Elisha B. Lott, who was recently removed from that office because of his heavy shortage.

In a drunken row Saturday afternoon Riley Fincher and Acker Hicks, cousins and farmers of the White Plains community, Calhoun county, Hicks fatally stabbed Fincher. Fincher died and Hicks is at large.

William Manning was shot and killed at Guntersville last Thursday by his son-in-law, John Rollins. Both were drinking at the time. They became enraged at one another, and engaged in a rough and tumble fight before the shooting.

The citizens of Jemison have appointed a committee of arrangements, who are preparing for a big barbecue at the meeting of the State Alliance, to be held September 22 and 23. Hon. M. W. Howard will be present, and deliver an address.

MISERY AND DEATH.

Gloomy Outlook for People Who Have Rushed to Alaska.

The steamer Cleveland has arrived from St. Michael's, bringing with her from the Yukon gold fields a story of distress and disaster.

The miners she has on board and officers in charge of the ship tell the story of the sufferings at Dawson. The winter has set in at the mining city of the frozen North and two great stores of the place have closed their doors, for they have nothing to sell. Those who have been seeking gold now must seek food or starve.

While there may be a tendency to exaggerate the actual condition of affairs, there can be no question that famine threatens the adventurous men and women who made their way to Klondyke. Hundreds of unruly are flocking to Dawson. violence are being made on ...rts.

Committee to Co... ...hington.

It is probable that the special committee appointed by the Birmingham Commercial Club to look after the matter of endeavoring to secure the government armor plate plant for Birmingham will visit Washington in a few days for the purpose of appearing before the special naval board that have the matter in hand and urging them to visit this city and investigate its claims. Congressman Underwood of this city, Congressman Gaines of Tennessee and Congressman Livingston of Georgia are expected to accompany the committee to Washington. The committee will meet Monday to take steps on the subject.

Big Deal in Coal Lands.

A big deal in coal lands has just been consummated. The parties were L. B. Musgrove and Maj. G. D. Fitzhugh and associates on one side, and wealthy New York parties on the other. The New Yorkers have bought fifteen thousand acres of coal lands in northwest Walker and Marion counties. Mr. Musgrove put in about eight thousand acres and Fitzhugh and associates the rest.

The purchasers will at once set to work to develop the lands by opening up large mines. Another town will spring up in the corner of Walker county and another field of development be opened.

Two Important Raids.

The revenue officers in Northern Alabama have made two important raids this week. At Rockway, in Limestone county, Deputy Collector Logwood and Deputy Marshal Charles Logwood captured and destroyed a 250-gallon copper still, together with all appurtenances, and 2,000 gallons of beer. The still was owned and operated by W. T. Harrison and James Robinson, who were arrested and carried to Huntsville.

Near Milan, in Jackson county, Deputy Marshals Skelton and Arnold captured and destroyed a moonshine establishment that has been running for several years past. It consisted of a fine copper still with a capacity of 120 gallons and a copper worm. This was owned by Walker Matthews, one of the wealthiest men in Paint Rock valley, who has made whisky for two years past in open defiance of the revenue men, who have never been able to locate his place of business.

Surveying the Warrior Canal.

United States Engineer Joseph Ri... ...ied by Assistants Barr...

...puties ... ...rth a terrible volley. The strikers were taken entirely by surprise, and as the men toppled and fell over one another, those who remained unhurt stampeded. The men went down before the storm of bullets like ten pins, and the groans of the dying and wounded rent the air. The excitement that followed was simply indescribable. The deputies seemed to be terror stricken at the deadly execution of their guns, and seeing the living strikers fleeing and the others dropping to the earth, they went to the aid of the unfortunates whom they had brought down.

Governor Hastings ordered out the Third Brigade, of which General Gobin is commander, and instructed General Schall to hold the First Brigade in readiness. The troops mobilized at Hazleton, and were on the scene before daylight. Capt. R. A. Paxton, U. S. A., attached to the national guard, started for Hazleton by direction of the Governor.

SEEKING PEARLS

People Flocking to the Ouachita Beds Near Malvern, Ark.

The excitement over the discovery of pearl-bearing mussels in the Ouachita river and its tributaries is running very high at Malvern now, and scores of people have engaged in the occupation of gathering the mussels and opening them in search of jewels.

Men and boys in every station of life, regardless of race or color, are flocking to the streams in which the mussels abound, and from early morning till dewy evening can be seen wading in the streams, shoveling out the rough-shelled gem-producers, which they are confident contains the highly prized pearl.

Several very fine specimens of the pink variety of pearls have been found and also those of a pure white variety. In most every instance they are imperfect in shape, but occasionally one of perfect shape and fine orientiss is secured.

VIRTUALLY ENDED

Is the Great Strike So Far as Certain States are Concerned.

The great miners strike, which was declared on July 4, was brought to an end Saturday so far, at least, as Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia are concerned, by the action of the interstate convention of miners, which has been in session at Columbus, O., since last Wednesday. After a day of voting and wrangling ... resolution

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE

For the Whiskers, Mustache, and Eyebrows.

In one preparation. Easy to apply at home. Colors brown or black. The Gentlemen's favorite, because satisfactory.

R. P. HALL & Co., Proprietors, Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

THEY ARE HERE

and are the prettiest line ever shown in the state. We have reference to our FALL STYLES IN HATS ....

Come and see the new shade,
MYRTLE GREEN
the first to show it.

J. BLACH & SONS,

ONE PRICE CASH CLOTHIERS,
1912-1914 First Ave.
Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College Street,
Nashville, Tenn.

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.
SEND FOR OUR SELF-MEASUREMENT BLANK

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED
If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
The Great Mail Order House
111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. B. HARRIS & CO., Pike Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS LADIES DON'T LIE.

Mrs Martha A Johnson

Malvern, Ark., says: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years, and find it a great deal better than "Zeilin's Regulator" and "Black Draught." It has been of great benefit to my Daughter and Niece during their monthly troubles for Obstructed Menstruation. There should be no home without it.

The Turn of Life.

The cessation of the menses usually occurs between the ages of forty and fifty. Great irregularity takes place in the periodic discharges for some time before the final cessation, the female usually experiencing sudden flashes of heat, fullness in the head, headache and other evidences of constitutional disturbance. The nervous system sympathetically responds, and there is great irritability and melancholy, the patient is discouraged and has a sense of fullness or suffocation.

At no time in her life does a woman need more constant care and watchful tenderness, nor has more need for a remedy to invigorate and strengthen her. The bowels should be kept regular with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, and if Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is used during the whole of this critical period, it will invigorate and enrich her blood, soothe and strengthen her nerves and thus relieve the suffering and enable her to pass safely through the dangers, prolong her life and afford her strength and joy in her declining years.

W. A. P. Euston

Pine Bluff, Ark., writes: Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine has been a God send to myself and family for 20 years. It cures Chills and Fevers, Bilious Fevers, Sick Headache. I think there is no comparison between it and "Black Draught" and "Zeilin's Liver Regulator."

Fullness of Blood in Head.

Where there is great determination of blood to the head, the blood-vessels of the brain become greatly congested, and there exists flushed face, giddiness, especially on stooping, and throbbing pain in the head, increased by movement. It may be caused by living too freely; too late rising in the morning, combined with an inactive life. Menstrual derangements in females will often occasion it. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is especially made for this, and it cures.

O. K. WASHING.. ..MACHINE

GREATEST IMPROVEMENT in WASHERS in 20 YEARS.
PENDULUM
Pat. Dec. 15, 1896.
Saves 50 per cent. of labor.
Can be operated standing or sitting. No more work than rocking a cradle.
NO BACK-ACHE with this machine.
If dealers in your place don't handle them YET write us and get one at Wholesale PRICE.

H. F. BRAMMER MFG. CO., Davenport, Iowa.

DO YOU SPECULATE? I have exclusive inside information on two stocks: $100 invested immediately will make $500 profit. Write CHAS. HUGHES, 63 Wall St., N. Y.

Are You Thinking of Buying a COTTON SEED MILL?

If so, it will pay you before doing so to investigate the ENTERPRISE MILL

It is the CHEAPEST, the SIMPLEST and most PRACTICABLE mill for plantation use on the market. Its grinding parts are made of tool steel and are regulated by a steel spring so as to prevent breakage when rocks, nails and other foreign substances are fed in with seed. It is guaranteed to grind cotton seed and to separate meal from hulls. Send for descriptive catalogue.

PERRYMAN & CO., Birmingham, Ala.

BOOKKEEPING

Thoroughly Taught for . . $1.00 by Abrahamson's Bookkeeping Chart.

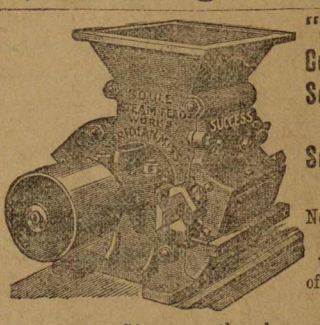
NO TEACHER REQUIRED.

Booklet giving full particulars, free. Address

Chas. M. Abrahamson,
Camden, N. J.

Principal and Founder Abrahamson Business College. Established 1880.

OLD SORES & Ulcers Cured. 1 mo. treatment $1. A. ROBERTS, New Berne, N.C.



"Success" Cotton..... Seed Huller and Separator.

Nearly doubles the Value of Seed to the Farmer.

All up-to-date Ginners use them because the Growers give their patronage to such gins. Huller is PRACTICAL, RELIABLE and GUARANTEED. For full information Address
SOULE STEAM FEED WORKS, Meridian, Miss.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Trade-Mark.

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Tra...

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester,

SO YOU ARE PLEASED

... WITH ...

"ALABAMA BRAND" ROLLED ...

We knew you'd like 'em;
Everybody does

McMILLAN-LEE CO., Wholesa...
Birmin...

Ha! h

"You remember," s in the bald wig, "he went to Chicago four
"I do," answered th
the pea-green whiskers.
"Well, now, all the w to Wheeling."—Cincinnat

A Pitiful Case.

"You are an orphan, you
Mr. Spokes to an applicant
"Yes, sir."
"How long have you bee phan?"
"I am an orphan by birth, si change.

A Frenchwoman has invented a bicycle exerciser consisting of a resting on the floor with two upr posts, one for the handle bars and other for the pedals, the latter be connected to a shaft carrying a spro et wheel, which is geared to a bra mechanism to make the work hard easy, as desired, a speed indicator ing attached to the handle bar.

Want Bugs Protected.

For some time past British entomo gists, or bug-hunters, have been ex cised over the extermination of cert insects in consequence of the zeal of collectors, who roam over the coun with butterfly nets. It would be cult to protect butterflies and moth
Legislation, as has been done for b so an association has been formed der the auspices of the Entomolog Society of London. The members a to leave rare insects alone for aw and to do all in their power to curb sporting instinct in others. The in collector who abides by it will be n than human, remarks London Grap
Imagine a stamp collector agreeing to pick up a rare specimen from roadside, yet a similar temptation be met and have to be resisted by insect collector.

The Worst Boy in School.

He was about the worst boy in school and the teacher had punish him again and again until she had gun to consider him in the light o natural enemy, and she felt that boy's feeling for her must be alm one of hatred. So it was in the nat of a surprise when, in view of the proaching holiday separation, ot boys of the school brought to her d little gifts of remembrance, to have bad boy approach with some hesitat and place a box of candy on her de
"But I don't think I can take Tom," she said. "You have been bad a boy; you have seemed to everything you could to displease m
"Oh, please take it, Miss Blan said the bad boy in entreating to
"I worked after school hours to get money to get it."
And someone felt tears coming v near the surface then, for the bad was a poor boy and had not so m pleasures in life that he could be pected to sacrifice any of them for a one.—Exchange.

A Beautiful Blotchy Face.

Right off you say, "Impossible!" And so i Tetter, Eczema, Ringworm or any other s ugly skin disease makes the handsomest hideous. "Tetterine" will cure them. It' only cure—certain, safe, sure. 50 cent druggists, or by mail for price in stamps
T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred any case of Catarrh that c
Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY &
We, the undersigned, have k ney for the last 15 years, and be fectly honorable in all business and financially able to carry out tion made by their firm.
WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggist
Ohio.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wh
Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, ing directly upon the blood and mucous faces of the system. Testimonials sent Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggi
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or ner ness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's G
Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise
DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for chil teething, softens the gums, reducing inflan tion, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a b

Piso's Cure for Consu tion has sa many a doctor's bill.—S. F. HARDY, Ho
Place, Baltimore, Md., Dec. 2, 1894.

More and Great

Are the cures produced by Hood's parilla than by any other medicin you are suffering with scrofula, salt hip disease, running sores, boils, p dyspepsia, loss of appetite or tha feeling, take Hood's Sarsaparilla may confidently expect a prom permanent cure. Its unequaled re due to its positive merit. Rem

Hood's Sarsapari

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Pur

Hood's Pills do not cause pai gripe. All druggist

A

!

hat appall

acks !

will get more r store than outh.

and are bought
We cannot sell for do.

---

ods Therein:

NOTIONS.

arry notions, and more notious than are here, and don't forget the prices

WAY, WAY DDWN.

HATS.

The latest styles. the latest prices, is the motto of this department. Come and see them and you will be convinced.

NESS.

Harness, Whips and Blankets of are here, and at prices that for low-se you.

Trunks and Valises

All sizes, all kinds, and waiting for your inspection for you to purchase one. The price is right.

hat we carry in our well you and save you nce. It is a nd the

Cordia

MONTEVALL

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDA

GENERAL NEWS

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

NEGRO POSTMASTER SHOT.

Turkey and Greece to Sign a Treaty of Peace—Two Texans Shoot and Kill Each Other—Statue to Canovas to be Erected by Spain.

Frank Lockridge accidentally shot and killed himself at Spring Hill, Tennessee.

Professor Andrews has withdrawn his resignation as president of Brown University.

General Ignacio Andrade will succeed General Crespo as president of the Venezuelan republic.

Captain Thomas McDermott has been nominated by the Republicans for mayor of Chattanooga.

A disastrous wreck occurred on the Wisconsin Central Friday, resulting in the death of five persons.

J. H. Loftin, the negro postmaster at Hogansville, Ga., was shot Wednesday night by unknown parties.

Gaines & Fuller's cotton gin, corn mill, flour mill and planing mill were burned last week, with a loss of $4,000.

The National Road Parliament met in Nashville Friday, and selected Omaha as the next place of meeting.

Lillie Texas Young, 18 years of age, was found murdered near Salem, Va. Robert Foulz has been arrested for the crime.

Paul de Pierre, formerly vice-consul of the French republic at New Orleans, killed himself by inhaling illuminating gas.

C. S. Preston, a Kansas City drummer, was fined heavily last week at Brunswick, Ga., for refusing to show his health certificate.

The coal miners' strike, as far as the Pittsburg district is concerned, is off, and the 22,000 diggers will resume work at the 65 cent rate.

A small pox patient, a negro boy, was placed in the pest house at Columbus, Ga., Friday. This is the only case of this disease in this locality.

A statue to Spain's murdered premier, Canovas del Castillo, is to be set up in Madrid, the municipal authorities of that city having just unanimously decided to thus honor his memory.

The long overdue steamer Excelsior, which left St. Michaels, Alaska, for San Francisco port six weeks ago, but was compelled to put back to Unalaska for repairs, arrived Thursday with sixty-three passengers and about one million dollars in gold.

It is understood the federal administration will take steps looking to the apprehension and punishment of the assailant of Loftin, the colored postmaster at Hogansville, Ga., who was shot on Tuesday.

Georgia Republicans say that it is ...tty well settled that Gen. Long... will be appointed railroad com...ner to succeed General Hamp...ne time next month; at any ...r the 1st of November.

...mperial government of Austria ... full satisfaction for injuries ...ian subjects at ... punishment of ... in that affair, ...ce of American ... Kaufman, Tex., ..., of Abbott, two ...men of that sec... been friends ...tes, shot and ...bott last Thurs...

...e says it is re... ...s that the Sul... council of min... Empire have ...s of peace with ...r the ambassa... ...d that it is ex... ... of the treaty ... next.

A sensation has been caused at Berlin and elsewhere by a statement that the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, son of the late Archduke Karl Ludwig and Princess Anneuceta, daughter of the late King Ferdinand II of Naples, heir presumptive of the throne of Austria-Hungary, was married in London last week to a middle class lady from Kohlscheidt, near Aix-la-Chapelle. The name of the lady is not given.

W. Entrekin, a respectable farmer of Marshall county, Alabama, has fallen a victim to the rigid internal revenue laws. He made application for a license for an apple brandy still recently, and while waiting for the arrival of the license, and until other forms could be observed, he made a few quarts of brandy for home use. Revenue officers arrested him for illicit distilling. On this charge he was tried before a commissioner and bound over to the grand jury.

PRESIDENT DIAZ ASSAULTED.

Ignacio Anulfo Strikes the Oresident as He Was Riding in a Procession.

Ignacio Anulfo, a violent character, assaulted President Diaz of Mexico on Thursday during the military procession. The man was felled by a companion of the president, and was immediately taken into custody by the authorities. The attack was made while the president was riding at the head of a procession celebrating Independence Day. As the president neared the Alameda, there was a disturbance in the crowd on the sidewalk, and a well built, muscular man, with flowing black hair and mustache, forced his way past the gendarmes and soldiers, and jumped between the president and General Pradillo, and the chief of staff, Monasterio, and dealt a blow at the back of the president's neck. The violence of the blow was diminished by the fact that he was crowded between the president and the officers immediately following him. The president turned round and caught sight of his assailant, and resumed his march with admirable coolness.

Meantime, Chief of Staff Monasterio hit the man with a cane, who, turning, seized it and broke it. General Pradillo then hit him a powerful blow in the neck, felling him. The gendarmes rushed forward, and some of the mounted officers and police seized and pinioned him. He was taken into a side street and led away, the people shouting: "Give him to us! We will hang him!" But the gendarmes succeeded in keeping their prisoner, being reinforced by cavalrymen, the great crowd shouting and running behind.

Some think the assailant merely made the assault for the sake of gaining notoriety, having read the accounts of the assassination of Canovas.

Later advices state that Diaz's assailant was lynched.

WILL BE GREEN AGAIN.

Green will again be the color of the postage stamps. Chief Johnson, of the bureau of engraving and printing, recommends the change on two grounds. He says green is more suitable for government documents, and not so glaring and vivid. It is also cheaper, and will result in a saving of between $8,000 and $10,000 a year, a sum Secretary Gage deems sufficient to take into consideration. The secretary of the treasury and the postmaster-general have approved the recommendation, and the green two-cent stamps will soon make their appearance.

SAGASTA TALKS.

Senor Sagasta, the Spanish Liberal leader, in an interview on the subject of the Cuban insurrection, says the uprising, instead of dying out, is spreading considerably. Sagasta says the situation in the Philippine Islands is serious. He also asserts that the Carlist propaganda in Spain cannot be viewed with indifference, and expresses the belief that reconciliation between the political parties in Spain is impossible so long as the Conservatives are in power, and in conclusion Sagasta says: "In my opinion the Cortes will not meet, but if they do meet their existence is ephemeral."

YELLOW FEVER.

Report of Its Progress by the Marine Hospital Bureau.

RAPID INCREASE OF VICTIMS.

New Orleans in a State of Alarm—Many Towns in Southern Mississippi Have the Disease, and the Outlook is at Present Gloomy,

The official bulletin of the marine hospital bureau will contain in its forthcoming issue a synopsis of the yellow fever situation, with a summary of the cases and deaths up to the 14th instant. The list of cases and deaths is lower than that reported in press dispatches from infected points, but they are all that are officially established. The summary by States is as follows:

States.	Cities.	Cases.	Dths.
Ala.	Mobile	1	0
La.	New Orleans	2	0
La.	New Orleans	2	0
La.	New Orleans	7	0
La.	New Orleans	5	0
Miss.	Barkley	8	4
Miss.	Barkley	1	0
Miss.	Edwards	12	1
Miss.	Ocean Springs	4	2
Miss.	Ocean Springs	1	0
Miss.	Pascagoula	1	0
Miss.	Pascagoula	1	0
Miss.	Perkinston	1	0

The synopsis covers the outbreak from its inception, with all the bureau orders, reports from surgeons, boards of health, etc., concerning the status of the fever at various points. The bulletin says:

"A brief synopsis of the occurrence of yellow fever in the South is given as follows:

"Beginning with the report of Past Assistant Surgeon Wasdin, of September 3, stating that the situation at Ocean Springs needed investigation, and his detail to proceed to that place and make an investigation in connection with the members of the Mobile board of health, and his subsequent report on September 6, stating that an autopsy made by himself confirmed the diagnosis of yellow fever, the representatives of the State boards concurring, precautions were immediately taken by the bureau directing Past Assistant Surgeon Wasdin to arrange for a cordon, employ necessary help and turn matters over to Surgeon Murray on his arrival, and to notify the railroad agents until a cordon should be established to sell tickets only to points north of Nashville, or points in mountainous districts, and to keep a record of all persons leaving, with points of their destination, notifying the local authorities."

After detailing the assignment of surgeons to various points, the synopsis proceeds:

"The total number of cases at Ocean Springs September 8 was two in a sick list of forty persons, and one case resulting in death was reported from New Orleans, whose illness, it is stated, commenced at Ocean Springs. Train inspection at the Alabama line was established on the 9th. On the same day yellow fever was reported at Scranto, Miss., and several suspicious cases in one locality in New Orleans were examined by experts of the Louisiana state board of health, train inspection on the Louisiana line having been inaugurated several days previously by the Louisiana board. On the 10th six new cases of sickness were reported by three physicians at Ocean Springs.

"The suspicious case at Scranton was examined by Dr. Guiteras and reported to be yellow fever. On the 10th Surgeon Carter reported a case at Perkinston, Miss., contracted at Ocean Springs."

The report then refers to the twelve suspicious cases reported on St. Claud street, New Orleans. No positive diagnosis of yellow fever was made; nine of the case...

prepare... camp n... "Pass... at Jack... ern Mis... tion can... "Passe... Memphi... spection... sippi riv... Each ... of cases...

LA... From ... Day end... viously r... picious c... der treat... At Edw... thirty-fou... reported. New Or... and two d... uation he... aspect. There h... two cases... with only... Three ne... day at Bil... viously rep... At Scran... ta and ma... coast cases... ed daily. A case of... Kansas Cit... Mississippi.

A report ... Vicksburg, ... Railroad an... railroad had ... gether. No ... trains are be... stringent qu... by the healt... tion of the c... main quiet ... change and t... abated some.

The health ... adopted an or... on the Alaba... road from en...

By virtue of a proclamation issued by the State health officer, Florida is now guarded against any persons from the infected yellow fever districts.

VICKSBURG HOT.

Board of Health Pass Resolutions Denouncing Meridian's Actions.

The following resolutions were passed by the board of health in Vicksburg, Miss.:

"Resolved, That we most emphatically condemn the action of the Meridian authorities, who, in utter disregard of the dictates of humanity, have refused to allow the Alabama and Vicksburg trains to pass through that city, these trains taking women and children seeking refuge from the danger which menaces them here. This action deprives the stricken town of Edwards and other points along the road from obtaining supplies and ice, medicines and other articles necessary to their comfort. We respectfully ask the governor of the State to call out National Guards and suppress such lawless and inhuman demonstrations."

SNOW IN COLRADO.

Reports received at the weather bureau indicate a general snow fall in the mountains. Snow is several inches deep at Cripple Creek and Central City.

REVOLUTIONISTS SUCCEED.

Private advices received at San Francisco Thursday convey the information that after two days of hard fighting the garrison of Barrios' soldiers at Quezalentango succumbed to superior numbers, and the revolutionists are masters of the situation in Guatemala. This is understood as the equivalent to the end of the career of Reno Barrios as Dictator of the Central American Republic.

FOUR PEOPLE KILLED.

Ten... ore In...

...one... an Education.

She Has the Best ... in the South.

IF YOU WANT AN EDUCA...

SHE ...

IF YOU WANT A HOME,

SHE CA...

Her People are the Kindes...

We want all Good People ... with us.

---Come to---

MORGAN BROS.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

TO BUY YOUR

ALL WOOL DRESS GOODS!

With the Best Linings and Trimmings to Match.

Also the Latest Things in Novelty Suiting, Brilliantcens, Duck, Etc., Etc.

We have just opened

A BEAUTIFUL LINE of RIBBONS!

Including the Latest and Newest Things in Roman Stripes for Ties, Sashes and Belts!

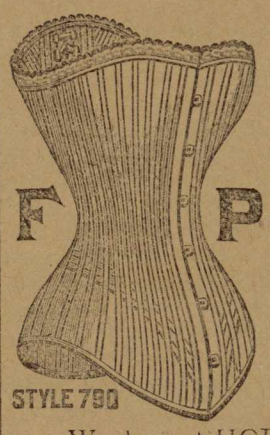
Our Clothing Department is full of Pretty Little Suits for the Boys and Handsome Suits for Men.



—WE ARE—

SOLE AGENTS

—FOR THE—

F. & P. CORSETS!

Try Them!

We have SHOES for the multitudes in all shapes and colors. We call your special attention to our line of DITTMAN SHOES for ladies and children.

Groceries Fresh and Sweet to Please All.

Goods Delivered Promptly.

This Space Belongs to

W. B. REYNOLDS.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable!

H. C. FANCHER & Co.

Montevallo, Ala.

First-Class Teams a Specialty.

Hacks Will Meet Every Train and Convey Passengers to any Part of Town.

PRICES REASONABLE.

Your ∵ Patronage ∵ Solicited.

Belle Ellen, Sept, 20—Slope No 2 of the mines here is on fire and considerable damage has already been done, Five men are beyond the flames, and are thought to be dead. They are miners who were cut off by the flames before they could be rescued. They are: Hubbard Foley and Herman Garner, white; Frank James, Henry Reeves and William Fairfax, colored. There maybe others but these are known to be cut off. The men are undoubtedly dead, as the fire has been raging some time. One of the state mine inspectors is here, and at his advice the entrace was closed to prevent the ingress of air to feed the flames. It is the intention of the fire fighters to pump water into the slope as soon as hose can be procured. A special train was run over the Louisville and Nashville, and that road is doing all in its power to save the mine. The men are beyond home. The fire is supposed to have originated from the steam pipes. The Belle Ellen mines are operated by the Bessemer Land and Improvement company, of which L. W. Johns is superinteudent. The mines are located a few miles below Blocton, and slope No. 2 has only been operated a short time. About 150 men are employed by the company here.—Age Herald.

KISSING.

The reason kissing is so pleasant, says an osculatory expert of scientific tendencies, is because the teeth, jaw-bones and lips are full of nerves and when the lips of persons meet an electric current is generated, and, chips in a facetious contemporary, ... don't have to have a dynamo

This Space Belongs to

S. A. Latham & Co.

This Space Belongs to the

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

BURGESS LITTLE, Cashier.

A HAPPY FAMILY

Dange
Ahea

Don't neglect

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P.M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor. Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.

J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each montn.

C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.

E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Dolf Banks has again had his wheel repaired.

Postmaster Zoidahouke of Maylene was in town Tuesday.

Walter Ozley, of Long-view, came to town this week and sold some cotton.

Mr. Frank Kroell, is now wearing a smile that is "child like and bland"

Mr. C. W. Plant, of Clanton, was in town Tuesday looking sor a location.

Mrs. R. S. Allen, of Birmingham, is visiting President Reynolds this week.

There has been the usual number of home-seekers in Montevallo this week.

Mr. T. A. Best is building an oven for his bakery. Look out for fresh bread soon.

Perhaps Mr. McKibbon has this week heard something like this. "I told you so."

Mr. West Hinton and Mr. James Butler, of Ebenezer, were in the city this week selling cotton.

Prof. Simmons, of the Polytechnic. returned to Montevallo Tuesday from his summer vacation.

Miss Fannie McMath returned on Monday last from Clanton, after an absence or several days.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy has returned from a summer resort, apparently much benefited by his outing.

Mrs. E. L. Fulton and daughter, Miss Leila, of Maylene, were in town Tuesday and purchased a large bill of goods.

Another proof of Montevallo's prosperity is the location here of two hustling merchants of the Hebrew persuasion.

Mr. D. C. Savage, of Maplesville, has moved here for the purpose of sending his girls to school. He also subscribed for the NEWS.

Gypsies seem to be stuck on Montevallo. They probably find no more convenient quarters than their picturesque camp on the banks of Shoal creek.

Tis said that only the rich can enjoy life. We are not acquainted with the size of some of the boys finance, but one of them is enjoying life to the fullest, that we can testify.

Son tells us (confidentially, of course,) that it "didn't u-ter was" that just any old thing could go just any old place: but now—oh, my! just any old thing.

Oh. no, the plumbers, carpenters and bricklayers are not wished at all to get the school buil[illegible]s in shape. But if [illegible] don't have [illegible] they'll [illegible]

Mc[illegible] one of the most [illegible]ular of the

THROUGH THE GRAND CANON.

Upon the earnest solicitation of the editor of the NEWS and others, I have attempted, in the few hours' notice given me. to write a short account of my trip through the West, omitting all minor details, and dwelling but for a moment upon a few out of the hundreds of points of interest which I visited. Everyone has, I believe, a more or less defined idea of his country, of its wealth, rapid growth and limitless possibilities, but not one in a thousand has any conception of the gorgeous beauty or the astonishing variety of its natural scenery. Though I had heard much and read more of the grandeur of our West and Northwest, my mind was but poorly prepared for the many surprises which followed each other in so rapid succession that it was impossible for me to grasp the preceding in its entirety, ere I was brought face to face with another.

As space will hardly admit of the treatment of more than one subject at a time, I will only give in this article a short description of the Grand Canon of the Colorado. Imagine a series of chasms more than two hundred miles long, between ten and twelve miles wide and varying in depth from five hundred to seven thousand feet, and you can form some conception of the magnificent proportion of this exquisite, if awful, work of nature. Few men have been half way down the Grand Canon; fewer still have stood on the edge of the water at the bottom of the gorge, looked upwards between the mighty walls of rock and gazed at the heavens through the space intervening between the grandest and most astonishing precipices the world has ever seen. It must not be understood that for the entire length of more than two hundred miles the Colorado river runs between granite walls and one continuous precipice. The Canon is as varying as it is enormous: here a great gash in the earth with perpendicular walls on both sides of the river, marvelously symmetrical and almost mathematically parallel; there a rise less abrupt, forests of trees, and mountains of no inconsiderable size finding a resting place on the comparatively easy slope of the sides. Then again there is on the one hand a sameness of color and an absence of vegetation which speaks of solid rock of impenetrable thickness, and not far distant a blending and harmony of color, gorgeous in its beauty and exquisite in its contrasts. In places almost dark, so difficult is it for the light to penetrate, the depth being so great and the channel so narrow. A little farther on we enter a soft, subdued radiance, which gives to every leaf added beauty, and reminds one forcibly of the passage which tells us that when the Almighty had finished His work of creation He "saw everything that He had made and behold, it was good." Thus through an entire afternoon did we feast our eyes upon this sublime panorama, gliding out upon the open just as the west grew crimson with retiring day and the "stooping sun was gathering up his spent shafts to store them in his glittering quiver."

C. T. ACKER.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Dr. H. W. Harrison, of Dogwood, was in town Tuesday purchasing goods.

Pink Davidson went up to Elliottsville Sunday to see some of the Girls.

Wm. Bean and J. D Stripling are still making syrup.

Walter Harrison is attending the protracted meeting on Pea-Ridge this week.

W. E Harrison is out hustling for the Grand-jury nowadays. Look out boys.

Mr. W. E [illegible]

SOUTHSIDE DOTS.

Miss Lois McCauley has returned from Six Mile. She reports quite a jolly visit.

Miss Claude Bryan and Mr. D. P. Banks spent quite a pleasant day yesterday with Misses Dunnam, friends of Miss Bryan, who live near Helena, Ala.

Mr. John Kroell has our sympathy. But never mind, John, maybe your papa will have another picture made of the St. George and then you will get in.

We are glad to see Messrs John and Walter Carlisle, after a pleasant visit to their mother.

What was it that cost $27·00 ?

Several of the young people contemplate giving an amateur entertainment for sweet charity.

It came to the ears of the city reporter, that an early marriage might be looked for.

There are quite a number of young people counting stars now.

EVANGELINE.

A SHELBY GIRL.

Miss Lula came from Shelby the other day,
And then I felt as happy as a jay;
And when she returns home,
Around that place I would like to roam.

Fayette thinks he is the proper stuff,
But he is nothing but a bluff;
He had better keep an eye on this pig,
Or I will make him dig.

Fayette's girl lives at Maylene,
I think he is acting real mean
By trying to love two:
But that is the way he will do,

Sam is going to Shelby on the first,
And Fayette will go too, or burst;
And I hope the other geut will be with her.
And see Fayette trot off like a kicked cur.

If with anyone she wishes to case,
I am willing to hold first base;
And run through the whole race,
With a swif and untiring pace.

I have forgotten all of the past,
I think I have found my girl at last;
Other boys their eyes on her may cast,
But I dare them any love of her to ask.

J. M. B.

March 22. A. D., 1897.

If we could write poetry like the above, do you think we would plod along the dreary paths of journalism? Do you suppose if we had the heaven-born gift of song in such a degree that we could take hold of the hearts of millions and warble two or three little ditties like that, or write an effigy before breakfast, or construct an eonic, anapestic twitter like the above, that we would carry in our own coal trim our own lamps and wear a shirt two weeks at a time? Echo answers no!

BOARDERS WANTED.—Apply at the NEWS office.

MEDLEY.

Arranged from a collection of my mother's old music.

"Young ladies, pray 'listen to me,
And be just as quiet as nice,
While I sing you a song, 'tis not very long,
But contains quite a piece of advice.
"Don't marry a man if he drinks"—or "Eats sour krout or drinks ginger pop—
Or ever goes down to The blacksmith shop"—for That's "Home, Sweet Home."
There's no place like
"Just before the battle, mother,"
I am thinking most of you,
While upon the field I'm watching—
"For my own sweet Maggie dear, Sitting by my side"—with
"No one to love,
Nothing to eat,
Roaming alone,
With nothing to eat."
"Sad is my heart—
Joy is unknown—for
I'm in Montevallo and I can't get back—
"Home by the deep heavy sea
Where the wild waves
May roll around me—but

GE
De Lad
We Se
Good Live
Tean
FRA
DO
W
BA
Hand-
We
and alv

-:- Lime, Cement and Sand ! -:-
AT LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES.
Examine our work and prices and you will be convinced.
BANKS BROS.,
Owners of Montevallo Brick Yard,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.

This Space is Reserved for
F W ROGAN

E TOPICS.

of General Interest to bamians.

AL APPOINTED.

Hamilton, has been of the Northern Al- e is a man of mid- in various govern- the past thirty present a United received and ac- of E. B. Lott, . The county al- 0,000 in his ac- suspended him. e solicitor not ent which was al says: "Re- otwithstanding, I will go to Al- Southern State. trict will be ta- nt the best the nd steel indus-rapet on top of e store building o.. Montgomery, warning on the day, killing Lon fatally injuring pular young clerk s made the follow- this State: Frank States Marshal for ict of Alabama; gistrar of the land e, Ala., vice Ellis V. Cashin, receiver at Huntsville, Ala. ed.

ION ACCEPTED.

ALABAMA.

Y ACCIDENT.

LABAMIANS.

OKE OVENS.

en are pushing work enditure by the Se- pany of Syracuse, N. . They are erecting coke ovens, at a cost hich a bi-product sav- engines, boilers, etc., making the whole in- $400,000.

WORKS COMPANY

worth of stock has for a new water to supply Birming- w company will be Artesian Water Compa- erate a franchise issued by the present city administration to C. Bradshaw and associates. The gentlemen who compose the company have completed arrangements for the purchase of the celebrated artesian wells at Gate City.

ng some startling facts to light. Friday eight negro men and boys, reported to the grand jury to be at work on the farm of Ex-Sheriff J. W. Pace, were summoned to appear before the grand jury, and failing to do so, attachment was issued for them and deputies sent down to the Pace farm to enforce the attachments. The eight negroes were found by the deputies and brought before the grand jury. After hearing what the negroes testified, the Solicitor, with the entire grand jury, repaired to the court room and there the eight negroes were examined in open court as to why they had failed to respond to the summons issued.

They all swore that they were not allowed to come. Three of the negroes testified that they had been at work on the Pace farm for more than five years; that they had never had a trial of any kind, but had been taken up by Dan Scott at Sylacauga and taken to Pace's farm, locked up at night and forced to work during the day for more than five years. All of the others, except two, testified that they were brought from Sylacauga by the same man and in the same manner.

They all testified that they had been whipped and had scars on their bodies from it. One of them, who tried to escape about two weeks ago, had been run down by dogs, and as punishment for running off had been made to lay down and horses run over him, from which he had sores which have not yet healed. Attachments have been issued for other negroes who are reported to be at Pace's and every effort will be made to find them. The judge gave the grand jury a special charge, urging them to sift the matter to the bottom.

Briefly Noted.

S. A. Pilley has been appointed postmaster at Troy.

Bill Reed has been arrested at Gurley, charged with robbing the postoffice there some days ago.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has accepted Governor Johnston's invitation to visit Alabama some time this fall.

Probate Judge S. B. Baker, of Cleburne county, died at his home in Edwardsville Tuesday. He leaves a wife and two sons.

John T. Wilson, who lives five miles below Montevallo, lost his residence and smoke house by fire. The total damage was $1,500.

At Jonesville, near Birmingham, a young woman whose name used to figure in Birmingham's social chronicles has established a frog farm.

Yellow fever refugees cannot stop in Birmingham. Some of them have tried the experiment and in each case they have been turned back.

The Colbert County Bank failed last Thursday. It is probable that all claims will be paid, as the liabilities are estimated to be only about $6,000.

Amzi McDaniels, a 14-year-old white boy, was bathing in the river at Montgomery with three companions, when he got beyond his depth and was drowned.

Old man Hames, aged 80 years, who has been on trial at Scottsboro for killing James Swatts, has been acquitted. It is stated that Hames probably owes his acquittal to his age.

The Cullman county tax books show a total assessment of property for 1897 of $1,851,416, an increase over 1896 of $112,839. The reported amount of assessments made by the tax commissioner is $117,656.

The work on the new railroad from Columbus to Montgomery is rapidly nearing completion. The grading between Tuskaloosa and Columbus is almost done and it will not be long before track laying will begin.

There is a boy in Limrock, Jackson county, only 3 years old, that weighs 103 pounds. He has a cousin, a girl, 13 years old, weighing 225 pounds.

September 29 has been appointed as Alabama Day at the Centennial.

John White, a young man living five miles north of Waterloo, was seriously hurt by a falling tree. He was already a cripple and was not able to get away when the tree fell. It struck him across the right side and the leg was terribly crushed. It is not thought he will recover.

State Normal College, Troy, Ala.

The "College authorities" have postponed the opening from Sept. 21, as first announced, to Sept. 28, so as to better adjust to circumstances. The excellent health of Troy, and the generosity of her people toward the College and its students, insure all of safety, comfort and progress. This College annually turns out scores of fully, or partially, trained teachers, and school officers call for these, as it pays to have trained teachers as it does trained workmen of any kind. Alabama will soon admit no other kind where the lower part of the frame joining with the crank hanger goes up to a point near the top of the front wheel. This connection gives the machine a sensitive steering device.

Side Combs.

Side combs never were worn so much. And never were they so long. Some resemble the combs which extend from ear to ear which are worn by children. The material is shell or imitation. But they must be put in carefully (outside the strands over the roll) in such a way as not to destroy the rotundity of the halo. Sets of three combs, each four inches long, are also sold.

One arrangement of combs or another is quite necessary for outdoor use, because the wind is not respectful of pompadours. Bangs, decidedly, are passe. Such stray locks as have not grown to manageable lengths are curled and allowed to nestle about the forehead. But they must not have a fixed appearance.

The back hair is done high or low according to individual preference. Oftenest it is twisted in Psyche effect. It is the saying of many women who know that a proper hairdress saves half a season's wardrobe. This, because whatever her gown, a woman always feels distinguished if her head is at its best.

Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald: The days and the nights are filled with music. Birmingham is a music-loving town. It displays no weakness to be moved by weakness. Its wondrous harmonies search the subtlest windings of the soul, the delicate fibers of life where no memory can penetrate, and binds together your whole being, past and present, in one unspeakable vibration.

ALABAMA CAR SERVICE GROWS.

The Alabama Car Service Association handled last month 21,343 cars, as against 12,709 cars for the same month last year, the difference in favor of August, 1897, being 8,574 cars, an increase of 70 per cent.

The largest number of cars handled in any one month last year by the association was 14,931. The business in August, this year, was greater than that by 6,412 cars, or about 65 per cent.

The total number of cars handled last year was 160,216. At the August rate of this year the total for 1897 will reach over two hundred thousand.

ATTACKED BY A CATAMOUNT.

Alice Groy, a member of a family who are camping at Elk River Falls, about nineteen miles below Decatur, was attacked and wounded by a catamount Tuesday night. The young lady was sleeping on a cot about midnight and was awakened by some creature breathing in her face. She screamed and the beast sprang upon her, burying its claws in her bosom. The animal escaped before any of the male members of the family could get there, but it was followed by the dogs and men and finally shot. It was a catamount, and measured three feet six and a half inches in length. In a near-by cavern three half-grown catamounts were discovered and killed. The young lady was not dangerously wounded.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Mr. Francis M. Purifoy, a son of Hon. John M. Purifoy, has been appointed private secretary to President Powers, of the University of Alabama, and post adjutant for the next year.

Mr. Purifoy is admirably equipped for the duties of the position. He [illegible] 1886-87 in the Univer-

A MOTHER'S EFFORT,

A Mother Sees Her Daughter in a Pitiful Condition, but Manages to Rescue Her.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind.

The St. Paul correspondent for the New Era recently had an item regarding the case of Mabel Stevens, who had just recovered from a serious illness of rheumatism and nervous trouble, and was able to be out for the first time in three months. The letter stated that it was a very bad case and her recovery was considered such a surprise to the neighbors that it created considerable gossip.

Being anxious to learn the absolute facts in the case, a special reporter was sent to have a talk with the girl and her parents. They were not at home, however, being some distance away. A message was sent to Mr. Stevens, asking him to write up a full history of the case, and a few days ago the following letter was received from Mrs. Stevens:

"ST. PAUL, IND., Jan. 20, 1897.
Editors New Era, Greensburg, Ind.

"DEAR SIRS: Your kind letter received and I am glad to have the opportunity to tell you about the sickness and recovery of Mabel. We don't want any newspaper notoriety, but in a case like this where a few words of what I have to say may mean recovery for some child, I feel it my duty to tell you of her case.

"Two years ago this winter Mabel began complaining of pains in her limbs, principally in her lower limbs. She was going to school, and had to walk about three quarters of a mile each day, going through all kinds of weather. She was thirteen years old and doing so well in her studies that I disliked to take her from school but we had to do it.

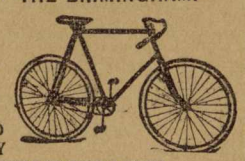
"For several months she was confined to the house, and she grew pale and dwindled down to almost nothing. Her legs and arms were drawn up and her appearance was pitiful. Several doctors had attended her, but it seemed that none of them did her any good. They advised us to take her to the springs, but times were so hard we could not afford it, although we finally managed to get her to the Martinsville baths. Here she grew suddenly weaker, and it seemed that she could not stand it, but she became better, and it seemed that she was being benefited, but she suddenly grew worse, and we had to bring her home.

"She lingered along, and last winter became worse again, and was afflicted with a nervous trouble almost like the St. Vitus' dance. For some time we thought she would die, and the physicians gave her up. When she was at her worst a neighbor came in with a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and wanted us to try them as they were advertised to be good for such cases, and her daughter had used them for nervousness with such good results that she thought they might help Mabel.

"We tried them. The first box helped her some, and after she had taken three boxes she was able to sit up in bed. When she had finished a half dozen boxes she was able to be out and about. She has taken about nine boxes altogether now, and she is as well as ever, and going to school every day, having started in again three weeks ago. Her cure was undoubtedly due to these pills."

(Signed) MRS. AMANDA STEVENS."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. The Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—(they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

. . . THE . . .
LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
Manufacturers of "THE BIRMINGHAM."
Everything Pertaining to
BICYCLES.


THE LARGEST AND MOST THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED REPAIR SHOP IN THE SOUTH.
Mail Orders receive prompt attention.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

THE GEORGIA TELEGRAPH SCHOOL

Teaches telegraphy thoroughly, and starts its graduates in the railway service. Only exclusive Telegraph School in the South. Established nine years. Sixteen hundred successful graduates. Send for illustrated catalogue. Address GEORGIA TELEGRAPH SCHOOL, Senoia, Georgia.

DRUNK ARDS can be saved without their knowledge by Anti-Jag the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, N. Y. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

A MOUNTAIN OF GOLD! 100 SHARES OF STOCK FOR $10.00 In one of the largest gold properties in Colorado. One hundred and sixty acres, patented, gold-bearing ground and solid mountain of $7.00 ore. Subscription limited. Address, Broker BEN A. BLOCK, Denver, Colo. Member Colo. Mining Stock Exchange.

Popular Songs. Send 25c. in stamps for "I'm Dreaming of the Past" and "Hearts Like Mine Cannot Forget," with this notice to Wiley B. Allen Co., Portland, Oregon.

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. B. HARRIS & CO., Pike Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

OLD SORES & Ulcers Cured. 1 mo. treatment $1. A. ROBERTS, New Berne, N.C.

GET RICH Quickly. Send for Book, "Inventions Wanted." Edgar Tate & Co., 245 Broadway, N.Y.

Am. N. U. No. 38 1897.

IS IT . .
Shoes
You are needing? If so, we can please you, not only in Style, Comfort, Fit and Durability, but PRICE.
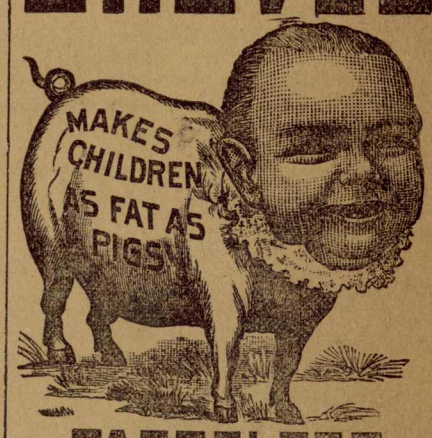
. . . . Now what more do you want?
All Styles, Season 1897-98, Now Ready,
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO WHEN ACCOMPANIED BY CASH.
J. BLACH & SONS,
One Price Cash Clothiers,
1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

GROVES



TASTELESS CHILL TONIC
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.
GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
ABNEY, CARR & CO.

$1.00 FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.
PROPOSITION 1.
SQUAW VINE WINE CERTIFICATES.
Write us 1st How long you have used or sold Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine. 2nd State Diseases it cured. 3d Give names of those it cured. 4th State the difference between its strength and action and the strength and action of McElree's Wine of Cardui. On receipt of letter enclosing recently taken Photograph we will send you a $1.00 Bottle Squaw Vine Wine (FREE).
PROPOSITION 2.
LIVER MEDICINE CERTIFICATES.
Write us 1st How long you have known, used or sold Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. 2nd State Diseases it cured. 3d Give names of those cured. 4th State the difference between its strength and action and the strength and action of J. H. Zeilin & Co.'s "Liver Regulator" and the Chattanooga Medicine Co.'s "Black Draught," both of which contain Woody Bulbs of Roots and Stems of Herbs, and have sold at about 6 cents per package, and should not retail at over 10 cents if consumers are not imposed upon, while Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, made from the purest and most carefully selected Drugs, regardless of cost, with the Bulbs of the Roots and Stems of the Herbs by our secret process extracted and thrown away, cannot be sold at less than 25 cents. The reason of the difference is this:
On June 30th, 1893, the Supreme Court enjoined J. H. Zeilin & Co. from manufacturing and selling medicine under the name of "Dr. Simmons' Liver Medicine."
Zeilin's answer to our bill said, the medicine was designed as "cheap negro medicine for the negroes of the Mississippi Valley." And Zeilin's manager testified in the case, and Zeilin's advertisements said "that all the Liver Medicine they make is made by the same formula." What more conclusive evidence could there be that all their Liver Medicine is "cheap negro medicine?"
Again, the United States Court, in the Zeilin case at Knoxville, Tenn., enjoined the old proprietors of the article now called "Black Draught" from perpetrating fraud by using the words constituting our trade name, and "Black Draught" was not known till after 1876; yet they falsely advertise that it was established in 1840, and filch our trade by allowing their customers to untruthfully represent it as the same as our genuine article, they giving color of truth to the deception by publishing the picture of a Dr. Simmons on their wrapper, thereby associating their article with our Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine, which he established in 1840, and every package of which has borne his picture since 1860.
On receipt of letter enclosing a recently taken Photograph we will mail you a $1.00 Package Liver Medicine (FREE).
C. F. SIMMONS MED. CO.,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

SO YOU ARE PLEASED
. . . WITH . . .
"ALABAMA BRAND" ROLLED OATS!
We knew you'd like 'em; Everybody does
McMILLAN-LEE CO., Wholesa

NEWS.

MBER 30, 1897. NO. .40

AGUE.

eedom for the ts.
n, of the Cuted States, on owing address
he League:
rk is about to
. Last spring of this repub-ted by the leg-oke for Cuban hundreds of responding to gue, have made opinion is on insurgents and ssors. Now the for Cuba is at nding voice of the reached the execudelay has been l the retribution at past delinquencies.
ain, with a patriotic him, will do that the murder, plunder nny in Cuba, allow-sovereign states. The ith guns, if necessa-ber of this League uphold the president
Let all, when the moto him: "All divis-water's edge."

R COSTS SPAIN.

mber of Men and War Furnished.
nt has been is-of men and ions of war lippine is-ons now in

May,
to

MONTEVALLO

The Hustling,
The Bustling,
The Rustling.

The Most Enterpr ing Little City in e State.

the Best Chances for t Female College

CATION, OFFERS THE

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

CLIFTON NEWTON,
Editor and Proprietor

MONTEVALLO, ALA.,
Thursday.Sept. 30, 1897

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class matter.

Rates of Advertising Furnished on Application.

Advertisers Will do well to get our rates and place their cards in the NEWS. There is no better medium tor advertising.

NOTICE.

Some of our friends seem to think that Mr. Lee Rice has some interest in the NEWS. We wish to state that we have no partner.

CLIFTON NEWTO

A new powder mill will soo be in operation near Boyles Gap. Its capacity will be 300 kegs per y.

When the Angel Gabriel ots his horn over Montevallo he ill stop several in their ascent fo he sin of not patronizing their ome paper.

John A. Gafford, who as si- nated Francis Bartow Lloyd Lu- tus Sanders), near Greenv la. last August, stands a good ce of going by the neck-ti

Miss Maggie Miller er of the late Judge Wm. or years one of the most nt Republicans in Tusca d Alabama, has been appoi post- mistress at Tuscaloosa, vice Major McCalla, Democrat, removed.

T. N. Lowe, alias Tom Lowe. alias Tom Smith, was convicted in the circuit court of Shelby county on the 25th inst., for rob the express car near Calera and sentenced to ten years in penitentiary, the lowest per under the law. Surely, "the of the transgressor is hard."

Patronize those who adve It is safe to patronize those want your trade and ask it thr the columns of their home p You will find you can do b with such dealers. The man will ask for your trade is the who will treat you so you come again when once you ca

Montevallo is growing. We all both see and feel it. What are you doing to help the town's growth? If you are following the first impulse that comes to us all, you are speculating on the growth of the town and the necessities of the people. You are figuring to yourself how much you can make here, how much there.

If you are following a nobler impulse that also comes to us all, you are preparing to make sacrifices for the benefit of the people and the town.

"What does it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" What does a man do for himself if he works for self and self interests alone, and does uothing for his neighbors, his friends, his enemies—for humanity?

MR. REYNOLDS EXPLAINS.

HE WRITES CONCERNING THE $1,000 PAID HIM AT MONTGOMERY.

Age Herald.

Montevallo, Ala., September 25.—H. C. Reynolds, President of the Girls' Industrial School, at Montevallo, has written Gov. Johnston a letter concerning the $1.000 recently voted Reynolds at a meeting of the board of directors here. The communication is dated Montevallo, Sept. 21, and is as follows.

I desire to make some corrections regarding a report of the meeting of the board of trustees held at your office last Saturday. The report states that the money lost in the Commercial bank was the private funds belonging to the girls of the college, which was in my hands to pay board, etc. Now, I contend, and the gentlemen of the board who favored refunding me the money contend th this is not the fact. I was charge of the school as ac dent by Gov. Oats, wit ty to organize and 12. 1896. I was i for boarding and adver out th wor

C.

First in

We sell

Full Va

v

Remem

MONTEVALLO

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, SE

GENERAL NEWS

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

FATHER SHOOTS HIS SON.

Peace at Last Declared Between Greece and Turkey.—A Rapist Meets Summary Punishment.—Revolution Rife in the Nicaraguan Republic.

Sylvanus Johnson was hanged at Key West, Fla., Thursday for rape.

The Missouri fruit crop will aggregate $25,000,000 for the present year.

Early frosts in Kentucky and Tennessee killed much tobacco last Tuesday.

Carrie Fleming, a refugee from Mobile, died in Atlanta of yellow fever Thursday.

The Cumberland Island hotel, near Brunswick, Ga., has been destroyed by fire, the result of a stroke of lightning.

Revolution is rife in the Nicaraguan republic. The government is using stringent measures to suppress the rebellion.

Almost the entire business portion of Arlington, Ga., was destroyed by fire last Tuesday. The loss was about $75,000.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday the mercury dropped to 49 degrees, breaking all previous records for September.

A would-be rapist by the name of Sam Jenkins, at Crawfordville, Fla., was caught, bound and thrown into Mud Lake.

Joe Jones, a colored man living at Palatka, Fla., got drunk, fell into a shallow stream and was drowned in fourteen inches of water.

At Columbus, Ga., the Southern railway's freight depot and the sash, door and blind factory of Butts & Cooper were destroyed by fire. The loss aggregates $60,000.

Ex-Inspector General of Police Velasques of Mexico City committed suicide in prison, where he had been placed for killing Arroyo, the assailant of President Diaz.

It was officially announced Monday that peace between Greece and Turkey had been signed, and the ministers of war and marine have so notified all the Turkish military and naval commanders.

Joseph C. Stephens, of Baltimore, aged 64 years, shot and dangerously wounded his son, Robert J., aged 23, in a quarrel over the latter's intended marriage, which was to have taken place Thursday night.

The bankers of London have made a vigorous protest against the policy of the government of the Bank of England in announcing its willingness to maintain one-fifth of its bullion reserve in silver.

An appeal has been made to Surgeon-General Wyman to order Dr. Guiteras to investigate immediately the very suspicious fever now prevailing in Galveston, Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

Burrell Tillman, colored, was waylaid and shot at Blackshear, Ga., by unknown parties as he was leaving home. Tillman was not seriously hurt. Suspicion rests upon Marshall Goodman and Marion Bailey.

W. E. Clark, a resident for the past eighteen months of Linton, Fla., a town at the south end of Lake Worth, drowned himself in one of the fresh water lakes in the edge of the Everglades near that place last week.

In the reorganization of the Central of Georgia John M. Eagan, now vice president, will be elected president. This marks another step in J. Pierpont Morgan's project to secure control of all the railway and steamship lines in the Southern States.

A Floridian from Cuba reports that the recent filibustering expedition for the island was captured, and that nineteen men on the vessel were slain [illegible]. He adds that Ha[illegible]g from a beef

[illegible] Tennessee river [illegible] damage[illegible]

A feud of long standing between James Reeves and Lawrence Austin, brothers-in-law, had a bloody termination near Roby, Chester county, Tenn. The two men met in the public road and Reeves shot Austin in the head with a double-barreled shotgun. Austin died, and Reeves escaped. Both are well-known planters.

Frank Short, a well-known country merchant, a few miles south of Abingdon, Va., was killed in a runaway late Tuesday evening while on his way home from Abingdon in a cart. A peculiar feature which connects itself with his death is the fact that his lifeless body was picked up on the very spot where some three years ago his brother, Bird Short, shot and killed two men, Lee Simmons and Henderson Dinkens.

JUDGE KILGORE DEAD.

The Well-Known Ex-Congressman From Texas Passes Away.

Judge Kilgore, ex-Congresman from Texas, died at Ardmore, I. T., Thursday.

As a member of Congress from Texas, Judge Kilgore was one of the best known men in public life. He was called "Buck" by his intimate friends, and attracted wide public attention in the Fifty-first Congress by kicking in a green baize door which had been locked by order of Speaker Reed during one of the filibustering scenes that made the first "quorum counting" Congress memorable. He supported President Cleveland ardently, and after he was retired from congress the President appointed him one of the judges of the Indian Territory.

Mr. Kilgore was born in Newnan, Ga., February 20, 1835. In 1846 he removed with his parents to Rusk county, Texas, where he received a common school education. He served in the Confederate army, first as private and by successive promotions reached the grade of adjutant general, serving as such in Ector's brigade, Army of the Tennessee. He was wounded at Chickamauga and in 1864 was confined as a prisoner in Fort Delaware. He was admitted to the bar after the war and in 1875 was a member of the Texas constitutional convention. He was a presidential elector in 1880 on the Hancock and English ticket and in 1884 was elected to the State Senate for four years and in the following year was chosen president of that body for two years. He was elected to the Fiftieth, Fifty-first and Fifty-second Congresses as a Democrat.

BANISH A KING.

Drunami, of Benin, Sent to a Penal Settlement.

Lagos, West Coast of Africa.—Drunami, the king of Benin, who has been on trial at Benin City since August last, with a number of his leading chiefs, charged with being concerned with the massacre of the unarmed expedition under British Consul Phillips, has been condemned to be transported to Calabar, a slave settlement of British West Africa. Three of the king's chiefs were previously sentenced. Two of them were shot and their bodies displayed hanging in the streets for twenty-four hours. The third of these chiefs escaped a similar fate by committing suicide.

FATAL MINE EXPLOSION.

Several Miners Were Killed and Others Entombed.

An explosion terrible in its effects occurred in the Williamson Company's coal mine, three miles north of Marion, Ill. Fifteen wounded miners, two of whom have since died, have been rescued; one was found dead when the rescuing party went down the shaft. Several are severely crushed, and may die. They say there are five or six miners imprisoned in the burning mine, but they cannot be reached on account of smoke and fire. These men are no doubt killed. The explosion was caused by natural gas.

BIG SHIPMENT OF SPONGES.

W. P. K. Decker, the leading sponge dealer of Anclote, Fla., has shipped all the sponge he had ready to Philadelphia, in response to an urgent telegram. The value of the three hundred bales he sent there is estimated at $5000.

DON CARLOS ONCE MORE.

SURPRISED.

United States' Attitude Causes a Sensation in Madrid.

OVER-CONFIDENCE IN WEYLER

The General Impression at Madrid is That the Spanish Government Will Try to Drag Negotiations Along, Unless It Rejects Uncle Sam's Good Offices.

The attitude of the United States has caused a great sensation at Madrid, because opinion has been lured on by the optimistic communications of the Spanish minister at Washington upon the character and duration of the correct attitude of the United States government, and that, too, despite several warnings from Mr. Olney and Mr. Cleveland's message.

The official bulletins of Captain General Weyler have also received too much confidence, when the United States every month was receiving from its consuls and special envoys totally different news.

The general impression at San Sebastian and Madrid is that the Spanish government will try to drag negotiations along, unless it rejects purely and simply the good offices of the United States, on the ground of public opinion and on the further ground that the opposition would not permit it to tolerate foreign intervention, even though amicable.

The government organs roundly deny that Minister Woodford has mentioned an ultimatum, but the public mind is not altogether relieved thereby. The policy of the government in denying and suppressing news and directly denying the truth of almost everything in any way unpalatable must always tend to increase public uneasiness.

The use of the word ultimatum is exaggerated. General Woodford doubtless expressed himself energetically, but between this and fixing a period of six weeks to end a widespread insurrection under pain of taking up the cause of the insurgents against a friendly power, there is a very wide distinction, and more especially so in the present political situation, when a change of government more or less radical cannot be distant.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

Grows More Alarming at Infected Points as the Days Go By.

New Orleans.—Eminent physicians believe that the work of the Board of Health is productive of good results, and that the fever is not spreading, but on the contrary, is being confined to localities. Up to Friday there have been a few less than 100 cases and fifteen deaths. The death rate is in the neighborhood of 15 per cent. It was in 1878 16 per cent, so that up to the present time the disease is about as virulent as it was in the last great epidemic that visited New Orleans.

Mobile.—Up to and including Friday there have been forty-one cases, six deaths, nineteen discharged and sixteen under treatment. With one or two exceptions, the sick are doing well. The board have still the satisfaction of reporting very slow progress of the fever toward an epidemic visitation. Much active work of a sanitary nature is being done by the city authorities, and new methods of quarantine and disinfection are about to be put in practice under the advice of the board.

At Edwards, Miss., the situation is still growing worse. There have been 133 cases reported up to Friday, with only four deaths; 44 are convalescent, and 85 under treatment.

At Biloxi the spread of the fever is not so rapid, though there are new cases reported daily. There have been fifty-eight cases to date.

The situation in other infected towns along the coast remains unchanged, with a small number of cases developing daily.

The second case of yellow fever to develop in Louisville, Ky., was announced by Health Officer White last Thursday. The first case was that of Frank DeRumsey, who died in an infirmary in that city on August 16.

THE CUBA[illegible]

President Allen S[illegible] Cuban

President Etha[illegible] ban League of th[illegible] Thursday issued t[illegible] to the membershi[illegible]

A year of patri[illegible] end in grandest [illegible] nearly every gov[illegible] lic, at our request [illegible] lature of his St[illegible] independence. [illegible] thousands of citi[illegible] the appeal of this [illegible] it manifest that [illegible] the side of the C[illegible] hostile to their o[illegible] hour of emancip[illegible] hand. The comr[illegible] nation has at las[illegible] tive. Though t[illegible] much too long, s[illegible] hand will excus[illegible] Our minister in S[illegible] president behind [illegible] which shall end [illegible] and medieval tyra[illegible] ing its entry into [illegible] nation is ready w[illegible] ry. Every mem[illegible] should be alert to[illegible] in such policy. [illegible] ment comes, say[illegible] lons end at the [illegible]

WHAT WA[illegible]

Statement of Nu[illegible] Munitions of [illegible]

An official stateme[illegible] sued showing the number [illegible] the quantities of the muniti[illegible] sent to Cuba and the Phi[illegible] lands during the insurrecti[illegible] progress in those quarters.

Between November, 1895, and [illegible] 1897, the Spanish government sent to Cuba 181,738 soldiers, 6,261 officers, of whom forty were generals, 212,542 guns, 320,406 kilograms of powder, 92,088,670 cartridges, 160,712 swords, 91 cannons, 12 mitrailleuses and 29,500 shells.

Since the outbreak of the present revolution in the Philippines the government has sent 27,706 soldiers, 881 officers, of whom nine were generals, 43,100 guns, 24 cannons, 24,910 kilograms of powder, 21,726,585 cartridges and 30,604 shells.

ELECTION IN CUBA.

Bartolome Masso Vice President of the Republic.

According to advices from Puerto Principe, Senor Bartolome Masso has been elected vice president of the Cuban republic, Gen. Maximo Gomez has been appointed minister of war and Calixto Garcia major general, General Gomez remaining commander-in-chief of the Army of Liberation.

Word comes from Santa Clara that General Gomez has ordered a new invasion of Western Cuba, with a view of profiting by the rainy season.

It may be safely estimated that more than 150,000 native Cubans have disappeared from various causes. In certain towns entire families have been wiped out. Sickness continues at a high rate among the troops, probably about 37,000 soldiers being on the sick list, most of them victims of fever.

[illegible]BLE CYCL[illegible]

A [illegible]
Lati[illegible] in [illegible] pers[illegible] wer[illegible]
we[illegible] mu[illegible]
ast[illegible]

the[illegible]

She Offer[illegible]

an Education.

She Has the Bes[illegible]

in the South.

IF YOU WANT AN EDU[illegible]

SE[illegible]

WAYS ⁘ LEADING!

MERONEY & Co.

the First in Public Improvements.

ering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

he last to raise prices on an advancing market.

thing you want with but one motto:

for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WANT YOUR TRADE.

We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store.

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS

Were too busy opening and marking new goods to write their advertisement this week. Watch this space next week.

They have the biggest stock of goods ever brought to Montevallo.

---Come to---

MORGAN BROS.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

TO BUY YOUR

ALL WOOL DRESS GOODS!

With the Best Linings and Trimmings to Match.

Also the Latest Things in Novelty Suiting, Brilliantcens, Duck, Etc., Etc.

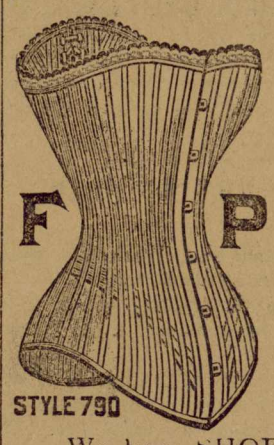
We have just opened

A BEAUTIFUL LINE of RIBBONS!

Including the Latest and Newest Things in

Roman Stripes for Ties, Sashes and Belts!

Our Clothing Department is full of Pretty Little Suits for the Boys and Handsome Suits for Men.



—WE ARE—

SOLE AGENTS

—FOR THE—

F. & P. CORSETS!

Try Them!

We have SHOES for the multitudes in all shapes and colors. We call your special attention to our line of DITTMAN SHOES for ladies and children.

Groceries Fresh and Sweet to Please All

Goods Delivered Promptly.

Livery, Feed and Sale Stable!

H. C. FANCHER & Co.

Montevallo, Ala.

First-Class Teams a Specialty.

Hacks Will Meet Every Train and Convey Passengers to any Part of Town.

PRICES REASONABLE.

Your ⁘ Patronage ⁘ Solicited.

Shelby County Bank.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business.

Collections - Promptly - Made - and - Remitted!

Make Your Notes Payable at This Bank.

Don't ... glec

...at
...put in
...ing presi-
...n full authori-
...open it on Oct.
...nstructed to arrange
... places for the pupils
...e it thoroughly through-
...e. I immediately went to
...ip the entire expense for the session course, issued a prospectus which stated what the terms would be. This was presented to the board, and no objection was offered to it. The girls made payments on these expenses to me, there being no treasurer for the school, for which I receipted them in the name of the school, as president. In these amounts incidental fees were also paid to me, which of course belonged to the institution, and was not the private money of the girls, as the article stated. All this money was in turn deposited by me in the name of the "Girls' Industrial School" in the Commercial bank of Selma. In the latter part of December this bank failed, carrying with it ... these funds, of a $1,0... the ...ds

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P.M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Calera boys are again becoming pious. So nice.

Mr Sam Farrington visited Columbiana yesterday.

Mr Jas Battle from near Six Mile, visited H C Fancher Sunday.

S P Dayidson, of Dogwood, spent a few hours in the city to-day.

Mr R T Newton is in Columbiana this week, serving on the jury.

We hope Mr. Jack Frost will call Mr. Yellow Jack right early in the game.

We understand that a party is figuring on starting a dairy on Mr. Vandegrift's place.

Mr. Frank J. Kroell has bought out the livery and feed stable of H C Fancher & Co.

If you wish to buy a lot to build on, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has some bargains to offer.

Mrs C F Grove left Tuesday for Blocton, where she will remain for several days visiting friends.

The editor hasn't suffered very much yet from the cold weather. Ice-juice is still quite agreeable.

Great Gee Whiz! what a stock of canned goods, groceries and eatables H C & W. B. Reynolds have laid in!

When you are in need of a good article of coal, call on C. C. Vandegrift, who will supply you promptly

Miss Ada Dill left for Blocton Sunday evening, where she has accepted a position as milliner for Mrs W W Perry.

Just as we go to press we learn of a most horrible crime committed at Cary's mines Tuesday night. All parties concerned are white. We have learned no particulars.

Prof. Ruffin has a large attendance at his school, and is giving perfect satisfaction to his patrons. Montevallo must not forget to grow a good male school building while she is growing.

The NEWS presumes to speak for Montevallo people in offering a cordial welcome to Mr. Savage and family. Mr. Savage occupies the Williams house at upper end of Main street.

Mr J S Harris, of Maylene, was in town Tuesday. Mr. Harris was once a miner, and in getting off of a train in Indiana about three years ago, he fell, and the cars ran over him, cutting off both legs above his knees.

...odwin, D. D S, of S'oan, ...own Tuesday, and gave ...t call. Dr. Goodwin ...ntevallo in a few weeks

If everybody will co-operate with the NEWS and let the editor know of the arrival and departure of their friends and such other news as they wish published, everybody can see what their friends are doing, and we guarantee the arrangement to be satisfactory all around.

Capt. D. W. Shivers, of Gallion, and his family, came in this week. Capt, Shivers has engaged the Magnolia hotel for the winter. This very handsome and convenient building will no longer be occupied by the festive drummer, but will be adorned in a short while by a number of pretty school girls.

C. L. Meroney and Co. speaks to their friends this week through the advertising columns of the NEWS. They can be found in their handsome new brick store near the bank. They will give you full value for every nickle you spend with them. Read their ad, and don't forget to call on them when you want bargains.

Among late arrivals is Miss Pattie Purnell. Miss Purnell resided in our town during the session of '96 7 as housekeeper for President H. C. Reynolds. We are unacquainted with her purposes for the ensuing year. Miss Purnell spent the summer at her home in that most pleasant of summer resorts, Monteagle, Tenn.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Geo. Kroell, to be found in another column. Mr. Kroell is one of the pioneer citizens of Montevallo, and is to well known to need any commendation fron. us. He receives new goods daily, buys more cotton and sells more goods than any other merchant in town. Call on him when you come to town.

We direct your attention to the advertisement of the Shelby County Bank. This is a new enterprise in Montevallo, and has been open for business only a few days. The cashier, Mr. Burgess Little, was for several years cashier of the Blocton Savings Bank, and is a young man of high moral character and a Christian gentlemar. We can conscientionsly recommend him to the citizens of Montevallo as such. If you have any money hoarded up, take it to the bank, and make a deposit, and it will be safe from burglars and fire

SOUTHSIDE DOTS.

We are glad to welcome Miss Ethel Strong home again.

Mr. Rogan, please order some more "peanut brittle" candy.

Mrs. Vandegrift will move into her handsome new residence in about two weeks.

Mrs. James McConaughy is going to have her handsome residence on Main street repainted.

The Palace Photo Car will leave our little town this week for Selma, They did some beautiful work here.

Girls, make good use of your time, No more smiles, no more bows, and no more "tete-a-tete." School starts Monday.

Mr. Will Reynolds has been enlarging and beautifying his house, and he is now ready to welcome the girls to his hospitable home.

A certain young lady not far from here knows by this time that the kick of a cow is not the most acceptable form of a milk punch.

EVANGELINE.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Quite a crowd from here attended church at Maylene Sunday night.

E S Lovelady went down to Montevallo Wednesday to sell some cotton.

It is said that Montevallo is buying more cotton than any three towns in Shelby County.

Mr Frank Cunningham and his best girl attended church at Maylene Sunday night.

Quite a crowd of pic-nicers from Montevallo, passed through our city Saturday last en route to the big falls.

SPRING CREEK ITEMS.

Cotton picking is all the go in this section now.

Prof Foard is crossing over the ridge these days.

We learn that Mr C T Ingram has a very sick child.

Mr Fitzhugh Lee, of Italia, visited his father's family last week.

Our friend, J P, is carrying the day with the girls with his new buggy.

Mr T C McKiboon's new gin is doing splendid work, and is running in full blast.

Ray, she says she will take you if Ed don't come to time; so you had better spur up.

The health of this community is good, except chills, which have been plentiful this season.

Mr Oliver Alexander is putting in good time down the way. Talk up, Oliver. she is a fine girl.

Crops are short, especially cotton, which is such a low price. It is disheartening to the farmers.

Some more of the boys had better get buggies—maybe they can stand a better hand with the girls.

Rev P D Lee has peen confined to his bed for several days. but we are glad to see him up again.

Dr E G Givhan was in the community last Monday. Come again, doctor, we like to have you with us.

We have Miss Cora Oglesby with us now for a music and art teacher. Her many friends wish her success.

Rev J W Alexander filled Rev S G Oglesby's appointment last Sunday at this place, and gave us an exellent sermon.

P O West, Walter Knowles, Kirk Sessions and John Prestridge, passed through with their best girls Sunday last, en route to Shelby Springs.

A. H.

BLOCTON ITEMS

Water is very low in Blocton.

Mr. Al Johnson is visiting Calera

Sheriff Vance was in town a few days ago.

The Lanier Broom Co. is doing a nice business.

Mr. J. N. Campbell visited Centreville Saturday.

H. M. Beck, of Birmingham, was in town this week.

Mrs. Lum Dyer, of Stanton, visited our city Friday.

Reynolds is selling goods cheaper than ever before.

Blocton is the best cotton market in Middle Alabama.

A rain would do good—the ground is very dry and dusty.

S. J. Morgan visited home folks at Montevallo Sunday.

Dr W. J. Clarke, of Vance, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr N. Hedgecoth, of Bessemer, is in the city on business.

Mr. Bob O'Glispy got stuck Friday night, so the boys say.

Mr. Wm. Brown, of Affonee, called to see us a few days ago.

Bring your cotton to Blocton and get the highest market price for it.

Mr. W. C. Pratt, of River Bend, called to see us one day last week.

Mr. S. R. Coleman, of Ardella, has accepted a position at Alpine, Ala.

Hon. W. L. Pratt visited Birmingham last week on professional business.

M V Mathews, insurance agent, is doing a land office business he says.

If you want to know who is selling goods in Blocton, call at Reynolds'.

cotton, and the fleecy staple continues to roll in.

Mr. L. M. Clements, of Vance, was a pleasant visitor to our town a few days since.

Go to Mrs. W. W. Perry's for your hats. She has a large stock which she sells very cheap.

Suttle Town string band was out serenading Saturday night, and reported lots to drink.

Miss Ada Dill, of Montevallo, has accepted a position with Mrs. W.W. Perry, in Suttle Town.

J. M. Dobbins is putting up a gin near Centreville, and came here for his machinery Monday.

The Protestant Methodists are conducting a protracted meeting in Campbelltown this week.

Hon T. S. Dark says he is a candidate for matrimony, and will be elected by a large majority.

We regret to learn of the illness of little Joe Smith, son of E. Smith. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Jackson, of Centreville, called to see us Saturday. He says times are lively around Centreville.

Mr. S. J. Morgan has been down in South Alabama again. We won't tell all we hear about him, but look out.

What do you think of a merchant that won't advertise in his home paper? Do you think he deserves any trade?

Mrs W. W. Perry has purchased a nice stock of millinery goods, and will open up in a few days in West Blocton.

Capt. W. O. Hill is given up to be the best cotton weigher in this section. He is fair to the farmer and the cotton buyer.

Married, at the residence of Mr. Al Johnson, in West Blocton, on Friday evening. Mr. Wm. Brice and Miss Paralee Johnson.

The yellow jack causes coal trade to be a little slack with our operators We want to see jack frost come down and knock it out of the box.

We are glad to see Mr. Will McCool up again. He has almost recovered from the accident happened him on the Southern railroad not long since.

Sheriff Vance's wagon carried the big safe of the Bibb County Trust Co. to Centreville last week. It weighed about three tons, and will hold all the money in Bibb county safely.

Mr. Eugene Huey, of Marion, who has been in South America for a year, is visiting his brother, B. M. Huey, Jr., of this place. Eugene is looking well, and we are always glad to have him with us.

Mise Tera Harrison, a most charming belle of Helena, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Sharpe, of this place, for some time, has returned to her home in Helena. Several of the boys look sad.

Married, in McGraw Town, on Sunday last, by Rev. L F. Whitten, Mr. Oliver Rollins and Miss Ida Fitts. Mr. John Reindel, Suttle Town's best barber, dressed the hair of the bride and groom for the occasion, Several damage suits will be filed at once against the Belle Ellen Co., and the chances are said to be good for heavy damages. Bowman and Harsh, and Campbell & Thomas represent the plaintiffs. Some lively litigation is on hand.

CARY & LOVING,

Attorneys at Law,

CENTREVILLE & MONTEVALLO.

Will practice in all the courts of the State.

J. M. REYNOLDS,

GEO.

MONTEV

Dealer in

The Lat

Ladies' Dress

Uniform Goods

We Set the Pace in Prices

MY S

Good Goods a

IN CONN

Livery, : Feed : a

Good Horse

Teams Furnish

Carefu

FRANK J. K

DO YOU W

WELL, WE

BANKS

Hand-made Bricks Ar

We do all kin and always kee

-:- Lime, Ceme

AT LOWEST

Examine our and you will b

BA

Owners of Mon

MONTEV.

This Space

F W

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

RECOMMEND IMPEACHMENT.

At Florence the grand jury rendered a sensational report Friday evening, recommending the impeachment of Sheriff Carson for drunkenness in office, and giving a gentle warning to the road commissioners for several beats that the roads must be worked better.

BIG FIRE AT EAST LAKE.

College Station, near East Lake, is in ashes. The entire business portion was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. Twenty-one frame buildings went up in the flames in the remarkably short time of a few minutes. The total loss is estimated at more than $20,000, largely covered by insurance.

PUT UP THE BARS.

The existence of a case of yellow fever in Atlanta caused Captain M. H. Amerine, State quarantine officer, to institute a rigid quarantine against that city Friday. The order went into effect at sunrise, and the regulations are the same as those applied to New Orleans and other infected districts.

IN SEARCH OF GOLD.

Col. I. B. Stone, Greer Mason, John Freeman, Schuyler Harris, J. F. Walker, P. B. Laidlow and George Ragsdale compose a party that has left Athens for Arizona, where they will seek gold. The party had made considerable preparation for the trip, and has ample equipments for prospecting.

ROASTED.

A negro woman named Duncan locked her three small children in her dwelling near Coosada last Friday night and went to a party. Fire broke out at midnight and burned the house to the ground. The children were roasted under the bed, where they had crawled, seeking protection. The woman is guilty of murder under the law of Alabama.

SHORTAGE PROMPTLY PAID.

In the examination of Commissioner Culver's books last week a shortage of $[illegible],000 was discovered, which was promptly paid by Mr. Culver. The commissioner explains that the shortage was due to errors appearing in his vouchers, caused by the continued illness of his chief clerk, Donald Sessions, who died last month, his assistant not being able to keep up with all the work.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

The president has made the following appointments for this State:

Leander Bryson, marshal for the Middle district of Alabama; James C. Leftwitch, colored, receiver of public money at Montgomery; Robert Barbour, register of the land office at Montgomery; Judge Steele, register at Huntsville, and H. V. Cashin, colored, receiver of public money at Huntsville.

DEMAND FOR PIG IRON.

It is given out that Alabama furnaces have sold pig iron up to January 1 next year.

As a result a number of orders are being accepted for delivery after that date. Such conditions have not prevailed in this section in many months, and the activity of the pig iron market is the subject of much comment.

Fifteen furnaces are in blast in the Birmingham district, and two others are ready for the torch. Heavy shipments of pig iron are reported.

TAX ASSESSOR SHORT.

Assistant Examiner Foster has found another former tax assessor almost $3,400 short in his settlements with the State and county. Mr. Hugh J. Stephenson, of Colbert, is the unfortunate, but, according to the special report, his delinquency appears to be the result of an accident rather than of a deliberate intention to wrong the State. He is now arranging to pay the State the full amount he is due. It will take his home and all that he possesses to pay up, it is stated, but he promises that the State shall not lose a cent by him.

FIVE MINERS ENTOMBED.

Slope No. 2 of the mines at Belle Ellen is on fire, and considerable damage has already been done. Five men are beyond the flames, and are thought to be dead. They are miners who were cut off by the flames before they could be rescued. They are: Hubbard Foley and Herman Garner, white; Frank James, Henry Reeves and William Fairfax, colored. There may be others, but these are known to be cut off. The men are undoubtedly dead, as the fire has been raging some time. One of the State mine inspectors went county, J. A. Ellerbee, Greensboro; Jefferson county, I. W. McAdory, Birmingham; Macon county, A. B. Paine, Tuskegee; Madison county, J. D. Humphrey, Huntsville; Montgomery county, John J. Hunter, Montgomery; Perry county, J. D. Cross, Marion; Pickens county, O. A. Chappell, Dillburg; Talladega county, J. B. Graham, Talladega; Washington county, T. C. Bowline, Leroy.

A CONTRACTOR KILLED.

J. G. Lallande was shot and killed by A. Stoneking at Tuskaloosa Friday. The cause of the shooting seems to have been over a very trivial matter, the two men having had a quarrel over treating a crowd to cigars. There was nothing thought of the matter until shortly afterwards, when they met again in a saloon and Stoneking offered to treat to drinks. Lallande refused, saying he would not drink with one who was not a gentleman. Stoneking then left the bar and went to a hardware store, where he purchased a 38-calibre Colt's pistol. Returning in a short time and entering the front door of the saloon, he saw Lallande standing at the cigar case. Stoneking began cursing and abusing Lallande, and as Lallande turned to face him Stoneking drew his pistol and fired once, the ball striking Lallande in the abdomen, who immediately sank to the floor in a dying condition. Stoneking was immediately arrested and taken to jail. Lallande was junior member of the contracting firm of Dunn & Lallande of Birmingham, who are grading the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. Stoneking was also a contractor.

QUARANTINE ROLL.

The following places are now being strictly quarantined against by Alabama in general and Birmingham in particular:

Atlanta, Ga., Cairo, Ill., Jackson, Miss., Vicksburg, Miss., New Orleans, La., Mobile, Ala., Edwards, Miss., Scranton, Moss Point, Perkiston, Barclay, Brantley, Mississippi City, Ocean Springs, West Pascagoula, Beauvoir, Chef Mentor, Lookout, Rigolets, Waverly, Poutchartrain Junction, Micheaud, Pass Christian and other places.

There is a strict quarantine on each and every place, Atlanta not excepted. No passengers are allowed to come from any of the places except they have been absent from said places more than ten days.

No baggage, mail or express matter or freight, is allowed to enter the State in general and Birmingham in particular, except they have been subjected to a thorough fumigation.

The officers in and around Birmingham have received instructions not to relax efforts in stopping people from Atlanta from entering the State. The newspapers of Atlanta will not be allowed to enter Birmingham without first having been well fumigated.

Briefly Noted.

Gaino is a new postoffice established in Barbour county.

The armor plate board will visit Alabama about November 1.

Alabama Day at the Centennial has been postponed until October 22.

The Berney National Bank of Birmingham has become the United States depository.

Rev. Daniel Murray died at Mobile Friday morning of yellow fever after five days sickness.

A. J. Estes was knocked down and robbed of $400 near Stillman, Jefferson county, last Monday.

Mrs. Alice Jones shot her uncle, George Patrick, a farmer, at Selma, Thursday for an alleged insult.

The tax values of Jefferson county for 1897 have been fixed at $29,099,862, a falling off from 1896 of $1,291,504.

Fire destroyed the lumber plant of the Foshee Lumber Company at Hammac. Loss, $20,000, with $8,000 insurance.

The altitude of Birmingham will be placed in figures on all the public buildings in that city by the government.

Since a case of yellow fever has developed in Atlanta a strict quarantine has been inaugurated by Alabama authorities.

No passengers south of Flomaton, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, are allowed to travel to other parts of the State on account of the quarantine regulations.

The Illinois Car and Equipment Company has been organized, and has purchased the properties of the United States Car Company at Anniston. The plant is now partially in operation, and in a short time the entire plant will be busy, with a force of 1,000 employes.

The prisoners in the Colbert county jail had almost sawed their way to liberty last Monday morning when discovered by Ed Grisham, the son of the sheriff. Two of the iron bars were [illegible] This is [illegible] used

The Last Bugle-Call.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has discovered that the last summons to battle in the Civil War was a bugle-call to charge, given by Nathaniel Sisson on the field of Appomattox.

Mr. Sisson enlisted when the war broke out, and at its close was a bugler under Custer. His regiment was in the saddle before day on the eventful eighth day of April, and began to skirmish with the enemy. An hour later they reached the position from which the memorable call to charge was blown.

The next moment two of General Gordon's aids rode out in advance of the column. One of them carried a towel fastened to a musket. General Gordon stated afterward that the towel was soiled and ragged; but, old and torn as it was, it carried a message of peace to the whole country.

General Custer, seeing this flag of truce, halted his charging column, and rode alone to the tent of the Confederate General. When he came out he said to General Kapehart, uncovering his head, "General Lee is treating for capitulation."

The war was over.

The men nearest to him caught the quiet words and burst into a frenzied cheer. They were men who had fought bravely, but who thanked God now that the war was ended. The cheer swept down the valley, and the hills shook with the shout—which meant peace.

Let us hope that Nathaniel Sisson's bugle-call to battle on that April morning was the last that shall ever summon brother to charge against brother in this land of ours.—Youth's Companion.

A Wonderful Pump.

A pump built for the stamp mills of the Calumet & Hecla Company is considered one of the most marvelous pieces of mechanism ever put together. Without crowding in the least and with as much apparent ease as one would work an ordinary cistern pump, this great engine delivers 2,500,000 gallons of water in twenty-four consecutive hours, and does this continuously. It is almost noiseless, so perfect is the adjustment; indeed, persons standing just outside of the building can scarcely hear its beating. Standing inside by the great pit from which the water is drawn almost the only sound is the in-rush of the water as the pump lifts more than a thousand gallons at every stroke. This immense piece of machinery is engaged in supplying water to the works, where 5,000 tons per day of conglomerate rock are pulverized into sand, fine enough to be swept away by the rush of water. The nicety of adjustment may be imagined from the fact that the current of water lifts and sweeps away the sand, but does not disturb the copper that settles to the bottom of the pans.

The Chilkoot Indian Packers.

"At Dyea is a small trading post, kept by a white man, around which is gathered a village of Indians or Siwash, belonging to the Chilkoot tribe. They are by no means ill-looking people. The men are strong and well-formed; the women (naturally, when one considers their mode of life) are inferior to the men in good looks. These women have a habit of painting their faces uniformally black with a mixture of soot and grease, a covering which is said to prevent snow-blindness in the winter and to be a protection in summer against the mosquitoes. Some have only the upper part of their faces painted, and the black part terminates in a straight line, giving the effect of a half mask. At the time of our arrival the Indians were engaged very busily in catching and drying small fish. This fish is very oily, and when dried can be lighted at one end and used as a candle; and for this purpose it is stored away against the long winter night."—Outing.

A Cow With a Wooden Leg.

Director-General E. C. Lewis, of the Tennessee Centennial, who owns a farm at Sycamore, Tenn., had a very valuable Jersey cow that in some way or other broke her left hind leg. Because of certain feelings of sentiment, he was very loath to shoot her if it could possibly be avoided.

Major Lewis called in a surgeon and had the leg amputated, and then a carpenter carefully fitted a wooden leg to the stump. It healed readily, and in a very short time the cow could get around as well as any animal on the place.

Peggy lived for several years after losing her leg and died only a month ago. She would, when things did not go just right, stand on her three good legs and kick everything within reach with her artificial member.

Immigration Figures.

The highest immigration record, excluding the arrivals of aliens not so classed, is that of 1882, when the prodigious number of 788,992 came, following the previous year's 669,431, till then unprecedented. In 1883 there was a heavy falling off to 603,322, and the decrease went on until 334,203 was reached in 1886. Then the tide again [illegible] and with some variations an-

Papa Crumley—"I judge a man, sir, by the company he keeps." Mr. Suitor—"Yes, sir. I hope you will bear in mind that I've been keeping company with your daughter for over two years."—Philadelphia North American.

Pokeleigh—"I met an old scientist today who claims to be able to square a circle." Brokeleigh—"Pshaw, I can do that myself! Just loan me a round dollar and see how quick I'll turn it into a square meal."—New York Journal.

Why is a foreign nobleman who marries an American heiress like a sailor? Because he's a mariner for money.

COMPLETE

Our stock for the fall and winter season of 1897-98 in all departments, and is brimful of late and pleasing novelties . . .

and now awaits mail orders when accompanied by cash.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., NASHVILLE, TENN.

. . . THE . . .

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,

Manufacturers of "THE BIRMINGHAM."

Everything Pertaining to BICYCLES.

THE LARGEST AND MOST THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED REPAIR SHOP IN THE SOUTH.

Mail Orders receive prompt attention.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DRUNK ARDS can be saved without their knowledge by Anti-Jag the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, N. Y.

Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

does for the hair just what its name says it does—it renews it. Fading, falling, thin locks are stimulated to look fresh and new by its use; nature does the rest.

SOUTH CAROLINA LADIES DON'T LIE.

Mrs. C. M. Gowan

Inman, S. C., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine for years, with the best of results for Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Indigestion and Swollen Feet. It cured Mrs S. Hammett of a complication of diseases; she says it saved her life. I think it far excels "Zeilin's" and the "Black Draught" medicine.

Falling of the Womb.

The cases of uterine displacement are very numerous and constitute a prolific cause of intense and wide-spread suffering. Its symptoms are bearing-down or dragging sensations, pain or weakness in the back, sometimes a sense of goneness at the pit of the stomach. It may result from too frequent childbearing, wearing garments that compress the waist and abdomen, overlifting, standing on the feet too long, and general debility.

We would strongly urge the use of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine which will purify and vitalize the blood, give tone and strength to the muscles of the uterus, so that it will be kept in place. To facilitate a quick and complete recovery, we recommend as an injection our Mexican Female Remedy, which will produce the happiest results.

M. A. Rutherford

Walhalla, S. C., writes: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine more than 20 years, for Torpid Liver and Dizziness. I take a dose every two weeks and feel all right. I know it is far Superior to "Zeilin's Regulator," in my case.

Womanhood.

The health and well-being of mankind depend upon the physical health and perfection of womanhood. Among the diseases which most impair the female constitution are leucorrhœa, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, chlorosis, scanty or too profuse menstruation. These diseases can be cured. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is a delightful remedy to take, entirely harmless, free from narcotics, purely vegetable and produces no unpleasant after-results. It is unequalled as a uterine tonic and curative agent for all female diseases, as it is impossible for weakness of the uterus and generative organs to exist when it is faithfully and persistently used. Constipation is another bane of woman's life which can be cured by using Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

Are You Thinking of Buying a COTTON SEED MILL?

If so, it will pay you before doing so to investigate the ENTERPRISE MILL

It is the CHEAPEST, the SIMPLEST and most PRACTICABLE mill for plantation use on the market. Its grinding parts are made of tool steel and are regulated by a steel spring so as to prevent breakage when rocks, nails and other foreign substances are fed in with seed. It is guaranteed to grind cotton seed and to separate meal from hulls. Send for descriptive catalogue.

PERRYMAN & CO., Birmingham, Ala.

The Wonder of the Century!

MEXICAN Hair Restorative.

Beautifies and invigorates the hair in a remarkable manner. Stops it from falling out. Cures dandruff and positively

Restores Gray Hair to Its Original Color,

rendering it soft, glossy, luxuriant and beautiful. Thousands endorse it as the nonpareil of all preparations of its kind. Try it and be convinced that as a dressing, beautifier and invigorator it stands without a rival or a peer. For sale by Agents at $1 per bottle, or send to us, and it will be sent prepaid on receipt of price. Every bottle bears the signature of the secretary, W. H. Matthews, M. D., and is guaranteed. Manufactured ONLY by the

MEXICAN HAIR RESTORATIVE CO., Des Moines, Iowa.

Wanted, Local and State Agents.

"Success" Cotton Seed Huller and Separator.

Nearly doubles the Value of Seed to the Farmer.

All up-to-date Ginners use them because the Growers give their patronage to such gins. Huller is PRACTICAL, RELIABLE and GUARANTEED. For full information Address

SOULE STEAM FEED WORKS, Meridian, Miss

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited, (Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

SO YOU ARE PLEASED . . . WITH . . . "ALABAMA BRAND" ROLLED OATS!

We knew you'd like 'em; Everybody does

McMILLAN-LEE CO., Wholesale Birmingham

Am. N. U. No. 39. 1897.

MONTEVALLO NEW

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1897.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

THE POPE EXTREMELY ILL.

Shipping Cattle to Cuba—A Favorite Actor Dead—Famous Mines Sold to an English Syndicate—Boneo Shaken by an Earthquake—Death by Asphyxiation.

Washington City had a $1,000,000 fire last Wednesday night.

King George of Greece has invited M. Zanis to form a new cabinet.

Gen. Baquedano, commander-in-chief of the Chilean army, is dead.

Atlanta is to have another sky scraper in the shape of a ten-story office building.

Mrs. Caroline Rivinius and her four children were found dead by asphyxiation from gas last week.

Henry George has been nominated for mayor of Greater New York by the democratic alliance.

J. P. Gurr, a farmer living at Snow, three miles from Unadilla, Ga., was mysteriously shot and killed on last Friday.

Earthquakes are reported to have shaken many places on the northeast coast of Borneo and a new island has been thrown up near Memphkaul.

Advices received tend to confirm the reported deal for the sale of an English syndicate of the famous Rossaland mine and the Leroy, in Idaho, for $5,000,000.

It is said that the Pope's weakness is increasing and that the church dignitaries are afraid he will not rally from the extreme feebleness and exhaustion he now betrays.

Hosea Townsend of Colorado has been appointed to succeed the late Judge Kilgore as judge of the United States District Court for the Southern district of Indian Territory.

Reports that Colonel Baldermero Acosta, of the Cuban army, had been captured by the Spaniards is untrue. He has safely landed in Vera Cruz, but is seriously wounded.

Harry Clifford, once a favorite actor, and who had been leading man of Lester Wallack and Ada Rehan, died in Bellevue Hospital, New York, the past week, aged 35 years.

Otto Boehlin, a prominent cattle buyer of San Antonio, Tex., has a contract with the Spanish government to ship 10,000 head of cattle a month for several months to Cuba.

John R. McLean has withdrawn from the race for United States Senator in Ohio. A. J. Warner has announced his candidacy at the hands of the Legislature to be elected this fall.

Fire at Willow Springs, sixteen miles from Chicago on the drainage canal, destroyed nearly half of the town and made fifty families homeless. The loss is $50,000, with little insurance.

Officers have arrived at Deadwood, S. D., from the Hole-in-the-Wall country having in their custody the three missing Belle Fourche bank robbers. The capture was only effected after a lively fight.

Willis Collins was shot and killed by Z. A. Leggett near Mayo, Fla., on Friday. Both men were prominent, Leggett being chairman of the democratic legislative committee. They quarreled over a pasture.

The Virginia Coal and Coke Company, operating at Stonega, Va., has awarded to J. A. L. Minor & Co. the contract to build an additional 150 coke ovens at Stonega, Va. The work will be commenced at once.

James T. Drummond, a prominent and wealthy citizen, and president of the Drummond Tobacco Company, of St. Louis, died Thursday. Mr. Drummond's wealth, aside from his tobacco plant, is estimated at $3,000,000.

The friends of John Y. McKane, [illegible] several years ago [illegible], are making very [illegible] to bring about his [illegible] ceeded in obtaining [illegible]tance from Sena-

J. M. Moore and Charles Rich, wanted at Marshall, N. C., where they are under sentence to be hanged for burglary, which is a capital offense in that State, if committed after midnight, were captured in Montana last week and will be taken back to North Carolina to pay the penalty of their crime.

Several hunters found the body of Peb Falls, a notorious white woman, dangling at the end of the rope, fastened to the limb of a tree, in Rockingham county, Virginia, last week. When discovered the body was in the first stage of decomposition. It is supposed that the woman was hanged by negroes, who had been her companions lately.

Macon, Ga., is in the midst of the greatest religious revival she has ever known. An immense tent capable of holding 3000 people has been spread on the English lot opposite the city hall, and night after night it is crowded with people drawn thither to hear the preaching of Dr. H. M. Wharton of Baltimore, who is conducting the revival.

CRUELTY TO WOMEN

And Outrage on Americans Charged Against Dictator Barrios.

The steamer San Blas arrived from Central American ports the past week with authentic details of the revolution in Guatemala: Barrios, needing money, applied to Don Juan Apricio, a well-known capitalist, through the medium of Gen. Roque Morales, who is noted for his cruelty. Knowing that the loan would mean his financial ruin, Apricio hesitated, and was taken promptly to the castle and strung up by the thumbs. Upon refusal to accede to the demands made upon him, Apricio was lashed until he fainted from the torture, and still being obdurate when he recovered from his lost senses, Morales cursed and shot him dead. His many friends, however, had their revenge shortly afterward, for when the city of Quegaltenago was taken General Morales was shot without the courtesy of a trial.

Grave accusations of cruelty to women, the wives and daughters of men who had joined the revolutionists, are made against Dictator Barrios.

The San Blas brought a party of fourteen Americans up from the scene of the revolution, all of whom say it will be a long time before peace is again restored. They state that Americans are thrown into jail on the very slightest provocation, upon the ground that they are plotting against Barrios. Even the stars and stripes were not allowed to float over their residences.

LEVYING TRIBUTE.

Wily Scheme of a Colored Preacher and Politician.

Felix R. Sims, a colored Baptist preacher and politician, postmaster at Thebes, Liberty county, Ga., was arrested the past week by Deputy Marshal White on a warrant sworn out before United States Commissioner J. F. Lewis, charging him with using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

Sims has been writing to a number of fourth-class postmasters in the First Congressional district, and as the representative of a certain republican committee, of which W. H. Styles, former representative from Liberty, and others, are members, has demanded tribute from them, in exchange for which the aforesaid postmasters were to receive the endorsement of this committee, which, it was said, would insure their appointments. Without this endorsement they were informed that they could not hold their jobs. These postmasters were assessed all the way from $10 to $75, one of them having bought the endorsement of the committee for the latter amount.

A LOCAL KLONDIKE.

Excitement continues to prevail in an acute degree near Purdam Springs, north of Little Rock, Ark., over the discovery of gold. Persons from Cincinnati and elsewhere have been buying up tracts of land in that vicinity in the past few weeks. They have gone about it quietly, and without manifesting a disposition to get their names into the papers, and this fact strengthens the belief in the merit of the developments so far. If the subdued excitement breaks forth in its fullness there promises to be a second Klondike epidemic.

TREND OF TRADE

Bradstreet's Shows Increased Activity in Many Lines.

STANDSTILL IN GULF STATES.

The Volume of Trade, as a Whole, Exceeds the Record of 1892—Wheat and Corn Decline Slightly in Price—Many Industries Increase Working Force.

Bradstreet's trade review for the past week says:

General trade is marked by increased activity in wool, hides, iron and steel and their manufactured products, but business in the quarantined districts remains at a standstill, and at all except a few northwestern distributing centers in spring wheat States, where business is relatively most active,, there is a check to the demand for dry goods, hats and clothing. Favorable reports come from a section extending from Knoxville to St. Paul and from Omaha to Milwaukee. The tendency is to increase estimates for the wheat crop and increase the probable yield of cotton.

The price movement shows a long list of unchanged quotations this week, including iron and steel staples, wool, hides, print cloths, lumber, nails, copper, pork, beef, coffee and sugar. Increases are confined to a nominal advance for anthracite coal, 25 cents for Bessemer pig iron, fractional gains for leaf tobacco, naval stores, butter, lard and another advance for woolen goods. Potatoes have reacted from the extremely high prices at the west and cotton is off further. Lead is lower, as are corn, oats and flour, in sympathy with wheat, which dropped 2 cents on Bradstreet's reported increase of nearly 10,000,000 bushels n the world's visible stocks.

Wheat (flour included as wheat) exports from both coasts of the United States and Montreal this week slightly exceed those of last week, the total aggregates 5,924,246 bushels, against 5,808,825 bushels last week, 4,215,294 in the week a year ago, 2,613,866 bushels in 1895, 3,243,100 bushels in 1894, and 3,189,000 bushels in 1893.

Corn exports show a considerable falling off, the total being 3,108,601 bushels against 4,022,000 bushels last week, 3,165,000 bushels a year ago, 1,383,754 bushels in 1895, 98,000 bushels in 1894 and 642,000 bushels in 1893.

The total number of business failures in the United States for nine months reported by Bradstreet's is 9,833, a decrease of 13 per cent from the corresponding total last year, but 6 per cent more than in 1894 and 11 per cent fewer than in the corresponding period of 1893. This year's failing corporations, firms and individual report $118,684,000 liabilities, a total of 30 per cent smaller than one year ago, about 6 per cent larger than in nine months of 1895 and of 1894, and 64 per cent less than in the corresponding period of 1893. The rate of failures in proportion to the number in business is decreasing. With reference to liabilities the falling off is noticeably rapid.

Business failures throughout the Dominion of Canada amounted to 1,501 for the past nine months, a falling off as compared with last year of 150, or less than 10 per cent. Total liabilities are $10,653,000 this year, against $12,219,000 last year.

INLAND SEA.

The Largest and Deepest on the Continent May Be Forming.

A dispatch from Tucson, Ariz., says that passengers who came in on the belated California train state that the cause of the delay were floods in the Salton basin. It was the rumored belief that the waters of the Gulf of California had broken over the sandbar which separates the Gulf from the basin. If this should prove to be true Southern California will have the largest inland sea on the continent, some places more than 300 feet deep, and a rise would come up through the Gulf to a point opposite Yuma to a port of the inland sea. In the meantime many [illegible]

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS.

Withdrawal Accepted by the Queen, Who Will Summon Sagasta.

The Spanish cabinet has resigned. The queen has accepted the cabinet's resignation, but has asked General Azcarraga to continue in office until a solution of the crisis is found. Her majesty will summon the leaders of the various parties and the presidents of the chambers to consult as to the situation. Senor Sagasta has been telegraphed for, and it is believed that the liberal leader will be asked to form a cabinet.

The ministry whose resignation has just been announced was constituted as follows:

Prime minister and minister for war—General Marcelo de Azcarraga.

Minister for foreign affairs—The Duke of Tetuan.

Minister of marine—Rear Admiral Don Jose M. Beranger.

Minister of finance—Don Juan Navarro Reverter.

Minister of commerce and agriculture—Don Aureliano Linares Rives.

Minister for the colonies—Don Tomas Castellano.

Minister for the home department—Don Fernando Cos-Gayon.

SANGUILLY'S VIEWS.

Gen. Julio Sanguilly, who was arrested in Cuba, tried, convicted, pardoned and released at the request of the United States government, said a few days ago, discussing the Spanish crisis:

"I do not believe the formation by Sagasta of a liberal cabinet will have any effect on the Cuban insurgents. The Cubans have gone too far to accept autonomy. They are in a better condition now to fight to the end for absolute freedom than ever before. Why accept autonomy when freedom is at hand? Sagasta knows as well as anybody that the Cuban ultimatum on the offer of autonomy will be absolute and unconditional freedom. There will be no half-way measures. I thought President McKinley would do something for Cuba, and I still think he will do something for the struggling country. He has already caused much consternation among the conservatives, and whatever he has done in the matter of his communication given to Minister Woodford, it has certainly given an incentive towards the formation of a liberal ministry."

WEYLER HAS RESIGNED.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Havana says: The Herald's correspondent is informed on the highest authority that Captain-General Weyler has sent his resignation to Madrid to take effect as soon as practicable. General Weyler's resignation is one of the results of the resignation of the Azcarraga ministry, and is due to his belief that a liberal cabinet will be placed in power in Spain.

ANXIETY IN HAVANA.

There is great anxiety in political and commercial circles in Havana to know what is to be the outcome of the cabinet crisis at Madrid. The general opinion is that the conservatives will be called upon to form a new cabinet.

GOLD STANDARD ADOPTED.

News has reached the state department that the merchants in Bluefields, Nicaragua, have adopted the gold standard. Prices will be given in silver for goods sold for cash, but in the case of credit transactions, every charge is to be in gold, and either gold or its equivalent will be exacted at the time of payment.

ATLANTA OBJECTS.

In view of the fact that the rigid quarantine being enforced against Atlanta by Alabama and Mississippi is proving a great hardship to the people of both those States, the Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta has adopted a resolution reciting the fact that Atlanta is a perfectly healthy city, and that no yellow fever exists here, and calling upon the city, State and national authority to use their influence in having the quarantine modified to reasonable requirements.

President Neal, of the Chamber of Commerce, has addressed a [illegible]

MONTI

The Hu

The Bu

The Ru

The Most Enterpri
the State.

She Offers the B
an Education.

She Has the Bes
in the South.

IF YOU W[illegible] EDU

IF YOU WANT [illegible]

SL[illegible]

Her People are the Kin

We want all Good Peo with us.

ATTENTION!

YOUNG LADIES!

A CZAR ORDER HAS GONE FORTH!

You Are Not Allowed to Buy Your Uniforms from Us!

—o—

But We Are the Undisputed and Acknowledged Leaders in

FIRST-CLASS DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, RIBBONS

FANCY GOODS AND VELVETS!

A Beautiful Line of Shoes That Will Bear Inspection and Please You!

We want your trade, and promise genteel and courteous treatment, but coerse no one to trade with us.

YOUR FRIENDS,

Morgan Bros. and C. L. Meroney & Co.

Miss Ada Quinn is visiting Hargrove.

Do your banking business with the Shelby County Bank.

Mr. Jas. Stevens, of Birmingham, was in town Tuesday.

Mr J N Campbell visited Centreville Monday on business.

Mr. Henry Parker, of Centreville, died Oct. 5th, after a long illness.

Mr Walter Tatum, of Belle Ellen, was a visitor to our town last week.

M P Champion, of Scottsville, was in t... purchasing goods.

...idge, of Wood... ...ool at Monte...

...arn of the illness of ... We hope for him a ...overy.

...r G D Rice visited Centreville ...st week. Mr Rice is a good furni...ure man, and is doing a good busi...ess.

Rev J. M. McCord, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered a fine sermon to a large congregation Sunday night.

Rev L. F. Whitten, pastor of the M. E. church, delivered a most feeling sermon Sunday evening in McGraw Town.

Mr Samuel Hill, of Vance, was a pleasant visitor to our town Saturday, and gave us a call and subscribed for the News-Herald.

...Levy & Co. sold several horses

Ed Jones, of Buck Town, lost his dwelling by fire last Friday night. All of his household goods were saved. The fire was caused by a defective stove flue.

The protracted meeting in Campbell Town closed Thursday night of last week. There were eight accessions to the Methodist Protestant Church.

Mr Burgess Little, cashier of the Shelby County Bank, was among his friends here Sunday. Burgess has many warm friends, who are always glad to welcome him.

On last Saturday night, Mr. S. W. Price, who lives on Stack Hill, heard a rap at his door. He opened the door but found no one there. After a little investigation, he found a beautiful little babe, well wrapped in a cozy basket. Of course Steve carried it in the house, and he and his estimable lady will tenderly care for it.

Cotton continues to roll in, although the price is very low. But the people know that Blocton is a good cotton market, and they know goods are cheaper here than in any other town in Middla Alabama.

Rev. T. B. Dison, of the Missionary Baptist church, administered the ordinance of baptism to three new converts near No. 7 mine last Sunday evening. The names of the parties baptized were Misses Mollie and Kate Suskey and Mr Walter Morse.

Died, near Jamesville, on Monday, Oct. 4th, 1897, John T. Hunt, aged about 28 years. Mr. Hunt was one of the brightest and most popular yonng men in Bibb county, and numbered his friends by the score. His death is universally deplored, and is mourned by a host of relatives and friends. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Ora Wallace, of Blocton. The funeral occurred on Tuesday, and was largely attended.

DO YOU WANT BRICKS?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.

Hand-made Bricks Are the Best on the Market.

We do all kinds of brick work and always keep

...d Sand!

GEO. KROELL

MONTEVALLO, ALA.,

Dealer in Everything!

The Latest Styles in Ladies' Dress Goods & Millinery.

Uniform Goods for School Girls.

We Set the Pace in Prices, and Will Not be Undersold!

MY SPECIALTY:

GOOD GOODS AT LOW PRICES!

IN CONNECTION,

Livery, : Feed : and : Sale : Stable!

Good Horses, Good Rigs!

Teams Furnished Day or Night.

☞Careful Drivers,

FRANK J. KROELL, - - M'g'r.

Shelby County

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P. M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each montn.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Mr Ed Lyman visited Columbiana Tuesday.

Mr S B Gibson's friends call him "Buddie."

A nice line of stationery, cheap at J. W. Martin's.

Dr Harrison, of Dogwood was in town yesterday.

We will publish a directory of the School next week.

Mr C C Vandegrift has moved into his new dwelling.

Paper and envelopes 9 cents a box at J. W. Martin's.

Mr John McKinney, of Six Mile, was in town Monday.

Major Strong says we will have rain soou Let it come.

Mr Burgess Little visted his father's family at Blocton Sunday.

I sell Coats thread 4 cents per spool. J. W. Martin.

Rev W. I. Sinnott will preach at the Methodist church Sunday.

It you want nice candy and apples call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Editor N. A. Graham, of the Shelby Sentinel was in town Mouday.

Every body is busy now. Every merchant says, "this is my busy day."

Mr J D Farrington has charge of the dormitory. We congratulate the girls.

Dear girls, we haven't forgotten you. We will please you in our next issue.

Messrs Jno T Wilson and C G Smith, of Brierfield, were in town yesterday.

We will publish an article on "Great Salt Lake," next week by C T Acker.

Rev P. L. Abernathy delivered a very appropriate sermon Sunday to a large congregation.

Mr J H Davies and daughter visited Capt. Shivers this week. Miss Davies entered school.

When you need anything, be sure to see Morgan Bros. before buying. It will be for your interest.

Mr Chas. Acker left last week to attend Medical College at Birmingham. We know he will be a credit to Montevallo.

The editor of the NEWS wants to get married, but can't find anybody that will have him. Poor fellow, he's in a bad fix.

We are glad [illegible] sets [illegible] he

OPENING EXERCISES OF THE GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL.

At 9:30 o'clock a. m., Mrs. Babb, the presiding teacher, tapped the bell for silence. Then Rev. Paul L. Abernathy read an appropriate chapter of the Bible, and Miss Lee, who presides at the organ, announced the old time song, "Coronation," which was beautifully sung by the school girls and teachers. A very able and expressive prayer was offered by the Rev. M. P. Reynolds, after which the president, Capt. H. C. Reynolds, in a very dignified manner, arose and introduced Bro. Abernathy, who welcomed the girls to our beautiful little town. He spoke in a manner that cheered the hearts of those who had just left home and friends to take up their abode among the warm hearts of the Montevallo people.

Next, Bro. M. P. Reynolds, pastor of the Baptist church, was introduced, and made some timely remarks, and welcomed the girls to his hospitable home, where he said they might come at any time and kiss his boy, who, by the way, is only two years old.

Prof. R. J. H. Simmons was then called on by the president to make a short talk. Mr. Simmons, in his usual kind and impressive manner, spoke of the improvements the president had made and what the state at last had done for the girls. He compared this school for girls to the A. & M. college and the University for boys.

Mr. W. C. Fowler, of Opelika, made an encouraging talk for the school, after which Mrs. Babb was introduced to the girls as their presiding teacher. It was certainly a treat to listen to such an able address deliyered in a dignified and lady-like manner.

The president closed the exercises with one of the most impressive and practical talks we have ever heard Never has a man worked so faithful and with so much zeal for anything as Mr. Reynolds has for this school. He has left nothing undone, and it is marvelous how much has been done in the way of improvements in so short a time. May he live long to stand at the head of this growing institution.

We were pleased to see so many girls present. They seemed cheerful and well pleased with the school, appreciating the many golden opportunities the state is now offering them.

MY DEAR GIRLS:

How glad I am to be back with you, and how rejoiced I am to greet so many new faces, all beaming with hope and joy. The girls of last year are perfectly at home, and we are sure from their past record that they will give the right hand of fellowship to each new girl until she realizes that she is a part of us. Let's

"From all a closer interest flourish up,
Tenderness touch by touch and last of these Love, like an Alpine harebell hung with tears
By some cold morning glacier trail at first, and feeble, all unconscious of itself,
But such as gathers color day by day."

In this way we'll grow into one large sisterhood, each esteeming others better than herself, thereby we shall be trained in the fullest and sweetest affections. We will cast selfishness to the shades of Pluto its primitive home. More than a hundred years ago Algernon Sidney uttered a prophecy to this effect: "A nation grows great just in proportion as the people making up the nation grow wise enough to do [illegible] duty and bold enough [illegible] rights. We [illegible] helps ple have grown wise enough to do their duty and bold enough to claim their rights. Our men have grown purer and our women are more cultivated and the outlook of our country is glorious, taking the Girls' Industrial School as a pivot on which the telescope revolves through which we view the world. Does not "the axis of the earth stick out visibly through the center of Montevallo?"

Now girls and young women, what part are we to play in this drama? You have come to us from various homes and schools all over the state. You are going to reflect credit on those dear parents, homes and schools, first by your lady-like demeanor. I'll give you one word that covers it all—Charity.

Do you remember we had a Sunday-school lesson in August on that word which means love? and "charity doth not behave itself unseemly"—i. e, it is courteous.

Of course we have not come here believing that no one knows quite so much or can teach quite so well as our old teacher. Bless your old teacher. We love the whole brotherhood. But we are young, and we'll not be prejudiced. Do you know, girls, that "prejudice is the greatest obstacle to intellectual, social or religious progress? It is prejudging without a hearing: therefore it is the child of self imposed ignorance, and it is said to be strongest where the mind is weak and narrow, yet it always poses in the garb of reason." We will get acquainted with one another, with our teachers and with their methods. We will not live in an atmosphere of egotism, assuming to know all that may be known on the subject; neither will we arrogate to ourselves a monopoly of superior wisdom. But I hear some girl say, "As you are presiding teacher, why not tell us how you are going to control us?" I control you! Why, I expect every young lady to control herself. You'll be placed on your honor, and that means that you will be a womanly woman. We shall earnestly endeavor to be regular, prompt, decorous, successful and moral, all of which will immensely strengthen our will-power. We are here to build character, and education of the will gives self control and decision of character. "Self control from principle is cardinal."

By this culture you will grow self reliant and become admirable women.

"Cultivate good dispositions. Hopefulness, cheerfulness, good nature, sweetness, patience, contentment, joyousness—all go to make up that much desired characteristic

"A singer sang a song of cheer,
And the great world listened and smiled;
For he sang of the love of a father dear
And the trust of a little child;
And the souls that before had forgotten to pray,
Looked up and went singing along the way."

The habit of feeling cheerful and hopeful develops cheerfulness and hope, which enter into a grand life that is always worth living. Baldwyn tells us that an emotion repressed grows weaker, and one who habitually represses her fiery temper acquires self-control." Then he adds: "We must work to a programme The railroad has its time-table, and the school has its program No less does the pupil need to have a systematic plan of work. The programme is a wonderful conservator of mental and physical energy. Working to a program gives tenacity of purpose and greatly strengthens the executive powers which leads to success To accomplish all "we must cultivate the conscience which will give us self-control and lead to [illegible] grandest womanhood and finally [illegible] the companionship of the

KLO[illegible]

Is surmounted b[illegible] the st[illegible]

Gold, Silve[illegible]

And a small amou[illegible] goods and better [illegible] any estab[illegible]

Our lines are full and [illegible] in car load lots, F[illegible] and will not b[illegible] less money[illegible]

A few of our Department[illegible]

Dry Goods.

This is our pride. We handle only the very best, and sell at the lowest possible price. Anything you want—from 4½ cent calico to the best silks are kept in stock. The ladies are respectfully invited to call and examine this stock.

CLOTHING

We represent the larges[illegible] ing Establishment in this [illegible] besides a large and well a[illegible] stock for you to select from, an[illegible] fit your person or pocket.

SHOES.

Here we can fit peasant or king, rich or poor. We sell them as low as 25 cents per pair, and every pair guaranteed as represented.

Underwear.

Everything that is kept in th[illegible] larger cities can be found on ou[illegible] counters, and at prices that othe[illegible] dare not attempt.

HARDWARE.

This department is complete, the prices low, the goods the best. Anything from a nail to a steam engine.

Saddles, Brid[illegible] every descriptio[illegible] ness will surpri[illegible]

Canned Goods.

We bought a car load of this on[illegible] article, and you can buy at retail [illegible] us for the price others pay whole[illegible] sale.

Crockery.

You can't mention a thing in this line that cannot be found on our shelves or counters, at prices that cannot be equalled.

Furniture.

Yes! we carry a full line of Fur[illegible] niture, and pay the spot cash for i[illegible] and can and will save you money Come and examine for yourself

The above are only a few of the many lines [illegible] assorted stock. That we can please [illegible] money, we know from past experie[illegible] pleasure to show our goods, [illegible]

Public [illegible] are Invited [illegible] girl ment was a ss Cay-Vashing-

in Paris," te departrench lan-entative o'

enne; "I unto insist on n American
r.

of Things.
ow what to do
He's been two ollege, and still his class.
-Make a chiropo-
.

mean people who ies," but the good going.

Trade School. of investigation has ugh, with interesting superintendent of the chool, says the Jewish census of the graduates ee years shows that, of hose course it has been ce, more than two-thirds successfully engaged in mechanical trades. This on of the values of the iod has the added import-posing finally of the conten-
Russian Jews are not apt for artisans. Intelligent the branches taught and a insistence on good workman-ve insured an opportunity for aduate to earn a living even in n of "hard times." It is certain taste of the sturdy independence h a career will forever preclude arn to the debasing conditions of weat shop.

SHE SUCCEEDED.

y Queen Victoria Remembered as Old English Lady.

n old lady in rural England sursed her friends by announcing at ble one night that she would go to London in June to see the jubilee procession. Some of her relatives warned her of the burdens of age and failing health, but she would not listen to their objections.

"I know," she said, "that I am eighty-three, but I was in Westminster
Abbey when the Queen was crowned, and I shall go up to London to see the jubilee parade."

The objectors shifted their ground.
They mentioned the high prices which windows and platform-seats were already commanding, and suggested that she was hardly rich enough to hire any place along the six-mile route.

"I shall arrange that little detail," she replied, confidently. "I shall write to the Queen about it. She will know my name, for it is one of the oldest in England. She will insist upon having a seat provided for me."

The old lad's enthusiam amused her friends, but she was wiser than they were. She wrote a respectful letter to the queen, relating her good fortune in having been a witness to the coronation service, and also of the first jubilee festivities ten years ago, and adding that although she was 83 and very feeble, she was bent upon going up to London and seeing the second jubilee show.

The letter was sent to Windsor palace, and was answered by the Queen herself with little delay. She was touched by the old lady's anxiety to witness the parade, and moreover recognized the name as one which had come down from the era of the Norman Conquest. The reply was cordial and gracious, and was in the Queen's own hand. She thanked her correspondent for the loyal interest displayed, and announced that she had given orders that a window in Buckingham Palace should be reserved for her on the day of the jubilee parade. She hoped that one of the oldest and most respected of her subjects would live to occupy a seat in the window.

When this gracious letter was received the old lady was triumphant, and all her friends were called upon to rejoice with her.

"I knew," she told them, "that the Queen had a kind heart, and also a good memory for a historic name like mine."

The Queen has a womanly instinct in such matters. She knew how much pleasure she could confer upon a worthy lady of ancient lineage by exceptional kindness and honor. By thoughtful and considerate deeds like this she has endeared herself to her subjects.—Youth's Companion.

er's

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

EFFECT OF THE DROUTH.

The continued drouth is playing havoc with navigation on the Tennessee river. The river is lower now than for fifteen years, and no boats are running between Florence and Knoxville. Boats are tied up all along the river, and great quantities of merchandise lies at the various landings awaiting shipment.

A FATAL FALL.

While the residence of J. W. Echols, at Gurley, was burning Thursday morning, Dr. J. C. Flynt fell in a dry well twenty feet deep, and was probably fatally injured. The top of the well had burned, and Dr. Flynt fell through, carrying a mass of flames down with him. Dr. Flynt is a prominent physician and a distinguished Mason.

WILL GO TO TUSKEGEE.

Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, will visit the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Tuskegee, of which Booker T. Washington is founder and principal, Wednesday, November 17, 1897, for the purpose of delivering an address at the formal opening of a new building to be devoted to training in agriculture, horticulture, dairying, etc. This is the first building in the negro schools to be devoted to agricultural purposes.

FIFTH BODY FOUND.

The body of Billy Fairfax, the fifth miner who perished in the fire in the Belle Ellen mines in Bibb county, was recovered Friday.

All the water has not been pumped out of the mines yet. The body was found just under the first sheet of water, and as quickly as possible it was carried to the outside and buried.
There was no telling how Fairfax had died, whether from burns or from smothering. His body had been decomposed for some time.

DROPPED DEAD AT BIRMING-HAM.

Dr. P. K. McMiller, a justice of the peace and a well-known citizen of Birmingham, dropped dead in his office early Thursday morning of apoplexy.
He had been in good health apparently, and had just come down for his day's business when the fatal stroke occurred. Dr. McMiller was nearly 60 years old, and had resided in Birmingham for about fifteen years. He was secretary of the local camp of Confederate Veterans for many years.

SHORTAGE IN LANE'S ACCOUNTS

State Examiner Cowan reported to the Governor Thursday the result of his investigation of the books and accounts of the department of agriculture during the term of office of ex-Commissioner Hector D. Lane. The sum of the report is that Mr. Lane's chief clerk, Mr. Leslie A. Smith, of Limestone, has been found to be due the State $2,750. The amount will be made good in a few days, as Mr.
Smith has means sufficient to protect the State from loss, and his bondsmen are worth many times the amount.

POLITICS IN JEFFERSON.

A call has been issued for a meeting of the county democratic executive committee for October 9 to receive the resignation of Hon. John H.
Miller, county chairman, and elect his successor. Mr. Miller is an avowed candidate for circuit judge of the Ninth judicial circuit, and desires to be released from the committee chairmanship in order to make his race un-hampered. The two leading candidates for chairman are Alderman
Henry B. Gray and Dr. J. S. Gillespy, the former a gold man and the latter a free silverite.

MATTHEWS COTTON MILL SOLD.

The Matthews cotton mill at Selma, Ala., a plant which cost $350,000, and which has been closed for several months on account of foreclosure proceedings necessitated by the failure of the Commercial bank January last, was sold Friday to Dr. O. F. Cawthon, of Mobile; Dr. A. W. Cawthorn and
O. H. Cawthorn, of Selma, for $70,200.
The Cawthorns are largely interested in cotton mills at Stonewall, Miss., and other places. They announced that the mill will be started up in thirty days, and will be run to their full capacity. It requires 350 hands to man the plant.

STATE FINANCES.

The cash in the State strong box was counted by the Governor and Secretary of State Thursday, the last day of the fiscal year. The amount on hand exactly balanced with Treasurer
Ellis' statement.

The following was shown as the condition of the treasury:

Balance September 30, 1896, $58,319.-
... October 1, 1896, to
Mobile and Ohio railroad. Oil mills, lumber mills, cotton factories and other industries are proposed to be established. The company claims to have plenty of financial backing.

BRIEFLY NOTED.

Boats are tied up along the Tennessee river on account of low water.

The Alabama river at Selma is two feet lower than ever before known.

The telephone line connecting Gadsden and Ashville has been completed.

The new rolling mill at Sheffield will soon be under way of construction.

KILLED HIS FRIEND.

Details of a Foul Crime Unearthed in Montgomery.

A murder case rivaling in horrible details the Guildensuppe tragedy has developed at Montgomery.

Oscar Gillis, porter for Marks & Kohn, grocers, and John Glover, butler for Henry Weil, roomed together in an outhouse on Mr. Weil's fashionable residence premises on Perry street, four blocks from the business center.

Two weeks ago Gillis disappeared, and the following day some unknown person telephoned his employers that the porter had gone to visit friends in South Alabama.

Last week Glover left the city without notice.

Friends of Gillis suspected something was wrong, and told the police their suspicions, but the officers, knowing the sensational disposition of the negro, ignored the matter. Some local reporters, however, made a story out of the rumors for the afternoon paper in Montgomery recently. This stirred up interest in the case, and that night reporters and some of Gillis' friends commenced a careful investigation.

It was learned that there had been gambling in Glover and Gillis' room one night about two weeks ago; that Gillis had won, and had several hundred dollars; that Gillis had disappeared; that a negro who had seen Glover several days afterwards digging a deep trench in Weil's garden, was told by Glover that it was intended to bury some weeds and trash; that the negro cook, who occupied a room adjoining Glover's, had seen him lift Gillis' body over the brick division wall one night about a week afterwards, and was told that Gillis had been sick and was being taken to the train.

The investigating party found that the garden had been recently worked and sowed in turnips, but by candle light and with the aid of a fence paling the location of the alleged trash pit was discovered by the looseness of the earth above it.

After industrious digging, Gillis' badly decomposed body was found shortly before 1 o'clock Saturday morning, wrapped in quilts and bound with cord like an Egyptian mummy.

Evidence since obtained indicates that after the card players had gone Glovers crushed his roommate's skull with a bed slat and then cut his throat with a razor. That he then wrapped the body in a quilt and kept it in his room about a week, then dug the hole in the garden, buried it in the dead of night, sowed the ground above it in turnips and left the city for Atlanta.

The police are trying industriously to capture him.

The best acquaintance a man has is the stranger who knows neither good nor bad of him.

A. Chapman and W. R. DeLoach, the present incumbent, have announced for probate judge of Hale county.

It is said that $1,000,000 in checks, registered letters and money orders for Montgomery people is held up in Mobile on account of mail quarantine.

The State convention of the Baptists of Alabama will be held at the East Lake Baptist church beginning Friday, November 12, and running into the following Tuesday.

Governor Johnston wants competent volunteers to attend the waterways convention to meet at Davenport, Ia., October 5. Only one delegate has been appointed—N. H. Sewell, of Bessemer.

J. M. Hardy, of Limestone county, was arrested by revenue officers on Thursday on the charge of counterfeiting, and was committed to jail. He had in his possession a mould for counterfeiting nickels.

The merchants and farmers of Camden and vicinity are suffering serious inconvenience for lack of facilities for shipping cotton. It has been eighteen days since a boat left any wharf in that part of the river on the way to any market.

Wednesday morning Dick B... negro well digger, was o... damp air in an old w... land, which he atte... He fell from t... hauled up a... brought ...

'Herbert Watts is a clever fellow. He couldn't find an umbwellah that would roll tight enough to suit him. What do you suppose he did? "I cawn't imagine." "He had an umbwellah cover made for his cane."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SOMETHING NEW

In our business is the making of Suits to order. A perfect fit guaranteed or money refunded. Send for self-measurement blanks.

Mail orders attended to promptly when accompanied by cash.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., NASHVILLE, TENN.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

The Great Mail Order House

111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

The Wonder of the Century!

MEXICAN Hair Restorative.

Beautifies and invigorates the hair in a remarkable manner. Stops it from falling out. Cures dandruff and positively

Restores Gray Hair to Its Original Color,

rendering it soft, glossy, luxuriant and beautiful. Thousands endorse it as the nonpareil of all preparations of its kind. Try it and be convinced that as a dressing, beautifier and invigorator it stands without a rival or a peer. For sale by Agents at $1 per bottle, or send to us, and it will be sent prepaid on receipt of price. Every bottle bears the signature of the secretary, W. H. Matthews, M. D., and is guaranteed. Manufactured ONLY by the

MEXICAN HAIR RESTORATIVE CO., Des Moines, Iowa.

Wanted, Local and State Agents.

... THE ...

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,

Manufacturers of "THE BIRMINGHAM."

Everything Pertaining to BICYCLES.

THE LARGEST AND MOST THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED REPAIR SHOP IN THE SOUTH.

Mail Orders receive prompt attention.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

KLONDYKE IS ALL RIGHT.

But why pay $1.00 a share for stock with nothing but "talk" to back it, and 8,000 miles from home? I will sell you dividend paying Colorado Gold Mine Stock for 25 cents a share, in certificates from 100 shares up. Other stocks in proportion. Address, Broker BEN A. BLOCK, Denver, Colo. Member Stock Exchange. Suite 306-7 Symes Building.

DRUNKARDS can be saved without their knowledge by Anti-Jag the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, N. Y. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

CANCER CURED AT HOME; send stamp for book. Dr. J. B. HARRIS & CO., Mitchell Building, Cincinnati, Ohio

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

GROVES

TASTELESS CHILL TONIC

IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS. WARRANTED. PRICE 50 cts.

GALATIA, ILLS., Nov. 16, 1893.

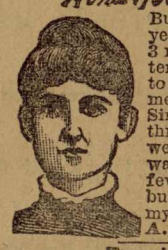
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—We sold last year, 600 bottles of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave such universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,

ABNEY, CARR & CO.

GEORGIA LADIES TELL THE TRUTH.

Mrs Mayor Spence



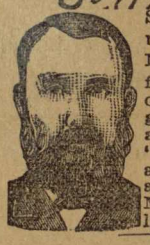
Bullards, Ga., writes: Eight years ago I had Slow Fever 3 months. Five Doctors attended me, but I continued to grow worse until I commenced taking Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine three times a day, and I was well before one Package was taken. Have taken a few doses "Black Draught," but did not think it cleansed my Liver as well as Dr. M. A. S. L. M.

Female Complaints.

There are two critical and even dangerous periods in female life, when the greatest care is necessary.

The first, when the girl passes from childhood to womanhood; if through ignorance or neglect this mysterious development is interfered with or thwarted, even in the smallest degree, they are liable to some malady frequently proving most serious, such as hysteria, fits or even consumption; while at the second period, called "change of life," there is often much distress and danger. At both these periods of life Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is invaluable, and it is recommended that a dose of it be taken twice a week for some time, between and during the menstrual periods, and for strengthening the system we strongly urge the use of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, a dose at bedtime.

R. J. Redock



Seville, Ga., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine in my family for 20 years with success in many cases of Indigestion and Sour Stomach. I think it superior to "Thedford's Black Draught" and "Zeilin's Regulator," and I shall recommend Dr. M. A. S. L. M. as long as I live.

Hysteria

Is caused by natural or acquired feebleness of constitution, mental suffering and, chiefly, derangements of the sexual system, such as menstrual irregularities, delayed development of the generative organs, or too strong sexual propensities. During a fit, the patient's clothes should be loosened; she should have an abundance of fresh air. The sudden, copious and continuous application of cold water to the head and face will cut the fit short. Between the paroxisms, Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine should be taken to correct torpidity of the bowels, and a course of treatment with Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine which is specially adapted to remove the uterine disorders.

O. K. WASHING MACHINE

GREATEST IMPROVEMENT in WASHERS in 20 YEARS.

PENDULUM

Saves 50 per cent. of labor.

Pat. Dec. 15, 1896.

Can be operated standing or sitting. No more work than rocking a cradle.

NO BACK-ACHE with this machine.

If dealers in your place don't handle them YET write us and get one at Wholesale PRICE.

H. F. BRAMMER MFG. CO., Davenport, Iowa.

THE GEORGIA TELEGRAPH SCHOOL

Teaches telegraphy thoroughly, and starts its graduates in the railway service. Only exclusive Telegraph School in the South. Established nine years. Sixteen hundred successful graduates. Send for illustrated catalogue. Address GEORGIA TELEGRAPH SCHOOL, Senoia, Georgia.

SO... ARE PLEASED

...ED OAT...

MONTEVALLO NEW

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1897.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSES BURN

Negro Lynched for Running Quarantine Gauntlet—Weyler Granting Amnesty to Political Prisoners—Maryland and Virginia Revive Boundary Dispute.

Edward Langtry, the Jersey Lilly's husband, died last Friday.

At Chicago Friday there was one death and two prostrations from heat.

Nine prisoners escaped from the county jail at Brunswick, Ga., Thursday.

The little town of Flat Creek, Tenn., was almost totally destroyed by fire a few days since.

At Camden, N. J., Eli Shaw was arrested for the murder of his mother and grandmother.

Frank Pollard was shot and probably fatally wounded by Will James on the river bank about a mile from Chattanooga.

The Dry Goods Record estimates the cotton crop for 1897-98 from 8,953,788 bales to 9,371,542 bales of 500 pounds each.

Friday's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $211,330,575; gold reserve, $150,164,136.

Maud G. Badgley, a clerk in the general land office at Washington, committed suicide Friday by jumping from a bridge.

Mrs. William J. Olmstead, of Troy, N. Y., recently gave birth to four children, two boys and two girls. The children weighed 6½ pounds each.

T. J. Peeples was convicted at Dalton, Ga., Friday for receiving stolen goods from the Bohannon gang, and recommended to the mercy of the court.

Douglas Boult, a negro leader, was lynched at a small settlement about fifteen miles from New Orleans. His offense was running the quarantine gauntlet.

John Armstrong Chanler, the divorced husband of Amelie Rives and great-grandson of John Jacob Astor, is reported to be insane in the Bloomingdale asylum.

Tom Kendall was lynched at Cleveland, Ark., last week for taking part in a race riot recently. He is the third man to meet a violent death as the result of the riot.

General Weyler, the retiring captain-general, of Cuba, has granted amnesty to forty-six more political prisoners, including several women who have been confined on the Isle of Pines.

The president has decided to appoint a special commissioner with plenary powers to carry into effect the reciprocity provisions of section 3 and 4 of the tariff act, approved July 24.

Reinforcements of Spanish troops for Cuba are being hurried forward by the military authorities. About 5,000 additional soldiers will leave Spain for that island before the end of the present month.

The official and unofficial returns of the Indianapolis, Ind., election Thursday show the vote for mayor to be: Taggart democrat, 20,188; Harding republican, 16,180; Taggart's plurality over Harding, 4,008.

Maryland and Virginia have revived the old dispute as to the boundary line between the two states. Governor Lowndes, of Maryland, has informed Governor O'Ferrall that he will proceed to settle the matter.

Seven tobacco warehouses and eight cottages in Durham, N. C., were burned Thursday afternoon entailling a loss of about $400,000, with $200,000 insurance. It was the most destructive fire Durham has known since he big blaze of 1885.

Ex-Senator Robertson died in Columbia, S. C., last week. He was [illegible] South Carolina under the [illegible]ime and was succ[illegible]tor Butler. Mr. [illegible] paralyzed for [illegible]timated to be [illegible].

At Macon, Ga., Constable William Limba, son of a justice of the peace of Powersville, in Houston county, and Barker Amos, colored, fought a desperate duel at the home of Amos, about two miles from Powersville. As the result both men are dead.

It is said that a filibustering expedition, including Jose Lorretto Cespero, an American citizen, and fourteen others, has been landed at the entrance of the river Arimao, province of Santa Clara, and has succeeded in joining the insurgent forces commanded by Regio.

J. Bennett Stanford, who has just returned to London from taking part in an expedition to Somaliland, brings news of the annihilation at the end of June of an Abyssinian army of 3,000 men under the control of the famous Gen. Mackonnen, of which number only 63 men escaped.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that the sultan is making strenuous efforts to obtain the withdrawal of American missionaries from the interior of Asia Minor. If his efforts should be successful the policy of exterminating the Armenians could be accomplished without European witnesses.

The official Gazette at Havana published an edict signed by the military judge calling upon Evangelina Cossio y Cisneros to present herself for a term of fifteen days in jail, and ordering all civil and military authorities to endeavor to apprehend her, and, if captured, to send her to Havana jail.

The international court of arbitration, which is to pass on the British-Venezuela boundary has been completed by the selection of M. Maertens, a distinguished Russian jurist, as umpire, and arrangements are being made for the assembling of the court at Paris during the late summer or fall of next year.

The organization of the greatest combination of window glass manufacturers ever formed in this country was completed at Camden, N. J., last week. It was named the "American Window Glass Company," and is composed of all the factories of the country except half a dozen small concerns. The capital stock of the company was fixed at $1,200,000, but the actual capital represented in the combination aggregates nearly $30,000,000.

ROUGH TIMES IN TENNESSEE.

Negroes and White Caps Have a Pitched Battle.

Levans, Carroll county, Tenn., was the battleground last week for waring factions, and one dead and four probably fatally wounded is the result. A large party of whitecaps went to the home of Dot Prince, a negro, and riddles the doors and windows of his cabin with bullets, breaking his arm in the engagement. The negro, with his arm dangling by his side, reached the window and fired repeatedly into the gang, groans and yells testifying to his deadly aim.

The morning sun disclosed a horrible sight. William Sires, a respected white man, was lying dead in a pool of blood, surrounded by four companions dying from hideous wounds. Three of the wounded men will die.

Intense excitement prevails, and a race war is predicted, as the whitecaps are swearing vengeance on the negroes, who defiantly dare them to do their worst.

The negro Prince is fortified within his cabin and apparently proposes to defend his home to the death.

The whitecaps have notified the negroes to leave the county on several occasions and threats are made to exterminate them if they refuse to leave.

Sires was literally shot to pieces and died instantly.

Split in Two.

A terrible accident occurred at a saw mill, some fifteen or twenty miles from Sparta, Tenn., last Saturday, in which Bud Russell lost his life.

In getting out some heavy timber they were using trucks. It seems that Russell got caught on the carriage somehow, and was carried to the saw, which struck him on the left leg, splitting it, and extending up his body, cut his right breast in two and then crossed to the right side, coming out at the neck. The right and left sides were hurled some distance in opposite directions. The sawyer seemingly knew nothing of it until he saw the pieces flying through the air. Russell was about 30 years old and leaves a wife and one child.

STEAMER SINKS.

Nearly 200 Lives Lost by the Fearful Disaster.

THE SHIP WAS OVERLOADED.

A Number of Spanish Soldiers and Several Civilians Among Those Who Perished—The Sinking Occurred About Eight Miles Off the Cuban Coast.

The coasting steamer Triton, from Havana to Bahia Honda, province of Pinar del Rio, has been wrecked between Dominica and Mariel, on the north coast of Havana province. The steamer went ashore Friday morning during heavy weather, grounding about eight miles from the coast. The purser and one of the passengers have arrived at Mariel. They say they have no knowledge regarding the fate of the captain, fifty passengers, soldiers and civilians, and the thirty members of the crew of the Triton. The missing passengers include several well-known merchants.

The Spanish gunboat Maria Cristina and the tug Louise have left Havana port for the scene of the wreck.

Later—It is now said that the Triton had on board over 200 passengers, soldiers and civilians, and it is feared that they have all perished, in addition to the thirty men composing the steamer's crew.

Owing to the heavy sea that was running the gunboat Christina found it impossible to reach the scene of the disaster until Friday night.

Only the purser of the ship and one passenger were saved.

Among those who were lost were two navy and two army officers, a commissary official and seventy-seven privates.

On board of the Triton was $31,600 in silver to be used for the payment of the Spanish military and naval forces.

The Triton, it is said, was overloaded. She carried a large quantity of ammunition and groceries, and had on board ninety-three rifles for the government troops.

DALTON IS EXCITED.

Prominent Merchants Alleged to Be Participants in Shady Work.

T. R. Ellison, a merchant of Whitfield county, Ga., and John H. Bender, formerly a merchant of Dalton, and son of a wealthy citizen of that city, were both found guilty of receiving stolen goods in the train-robbery cases now on trial at Dalton, Ga.

T. J. Peebles, at present the local agent of the Western & Atlantic railroad at Dalton, is on trial for the same offense. The greatest excitement exists in the little town, as the evidence is being slowly elicited, showing complicity of leading citizens, whether knowingly or not, in the extensive robberies that have been going on for years, and for which the Southern railroad has had to pay large sums to shippers and consignees.

Jesse Langston, convicted Thursday of receiving stolen goods, is a wealthy merchant of Whitfield county. He was fined $750 by the court and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, conditioned on his paying the fine within the next ten days. His sentence has thrown consternation among the other accused business men, which was greatly emphasized when it was announced that Drew M. Peebles, a leading merchant, member of the city council and candidate for mayor, was found to be missing from the city, and that forfeiture was taken in one case against him.

ENGLAND WILL CONFER.

Experts Start for America to Discuss the Seal Fisheries Question.

The British foreign office Friday intimated to the United States ambassador, Col. John Hay, that a meeting of seal experts of Great Britain, Canada and the United States will occur as agreed upon by the Marquis of Salisbury.

It is learned that Prof. Dancy Thompson, the seal expert of the British foreign [illegible]

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

Making Its Appearance in Other Towns On and Near the Coast.

The yellow fever situation at New Orleans is still very critical. Friday the number of cases reported reached high water mark, 48 cases developing on that day, and 3 deaths occurring. Total cases of yellow fever to date; 774; total deaths from yellow fever to date, 84; total cases absolutely recovered, 351; total cases under treatment, 339.

Nineteen at Biloxi.

The board of health of Biloxi reports new cases 19, total cases 374, total deaths 14, now under treatment 89.

Scranton had 9 new cases Friday. No deaths.

McHenry reports 2 new cases.

No new cases have developed at Galveston, the four cases passed on by Dr. Guiteras having recovered.

The situation at Edwards, is growing more favorable, 8 cases having been reported for Friday.

Six suspicious cases at Cayuga have been reported for investigation.

Situation at Mobile.

Only 5 cases were reported at Mobile Friday. The official bulletin issued by the board of health shows that there have been a total of 152 cases in this city, with 21 deaths to date.

Eight cases have been reported at Flomaton, Ala., seventy miles north of Mobile, and 10 at Wager, with 1 death.

THREE KILLED.

Collapse of the Robinson Opera House in Cincinnati.

"The Dangers of a Great City," on the stage ot Robinson's opera house, was cut short in its performance by a tragic realization of the actual dangers of a great city. The house was fairly well filled.

A little before 8:50 o'clock a lady in the audience says she heard a creeping noise, which continued for five minutes before the catastrophe.

Presently the plastering began to fall in small particles at first, but enough to alarm some of the timid or cautious, who retired. A little later the plastering began to shower down in great chunks.

Suddenly, and with a crash, the great central truss of the ceiling, eighty feet long and thirty feet wide, came plunging down. The ends of it struck on the two gallery wings and doubled it up in the center, sending it down into the parquet with a great scattering of joists and timbers. Nothing on the stage was harmed.

There were moans from the injured. The salvage corps with its wagon was first on the ground and it was followed by all the police patrol wagons, who carried the injured to the Cincinnati hospital.

The list at the hospital showed three dead, five dangerously, if not fatally wounded, and twenty-six more or less seriously injured

This disaster recalls one which took place in the same building in Februarry, 1876, when a score or more were killed in a rush to get out of the building on account of a false alarm of fire.

WILL STAND TOGETHER.

Five Brotherhoods Organized Into a Solid Compact.

At a meeting of the representatives of railroad workers at Peoria, Ill., Friday the International Federation of the standard railroad organizations was accomplished. After many years of failure to harmonize, the several orders have reached an agreement which amalgamates and unites them, and creates the greatest and strongest body of organized railroad labor men ever formed.

This task has just been performed by the conference of the grand officers and representatives of the several orders which have been in session in Peoria all this week. The conference was composed of committees representing the following organizations:

Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will [illegible]

ONLY FAIR.

Activity of Merchandise Som[illegible] what Less Pronounced.

WHEAT EXPORTS EXPAN[illegible]

Unseasonable Weather Has Had an Uni[illegible] vorable Influence on the Distribution Merchandise—Indications of a Smal[illegible] Cotton Yield Than Previously Compile[illegible]

Bradstreet's trade review says:

The activity in staple lines of me[illegible] chandise is less pronounced than [illegible] month ago, due to interior merchan[illegible] having supplied their demands for t[illegible] time, a gradual increase of the terr[illegible] tory included by the yellow fev[illegible] quarantine, the low price of cotton, [illegible] tendency in the Missouri river valle[illegible] and spring wheat states to hold whea[illegible] for higher prices and the farmer[illegible] being busy with fall planting.

Higher prices have an unfavorabl[illegible] influence on the distribution of mer[illegible] chandise throughout the central wes[illegible] and at Chicago and St. Louis sale[illegible] have fallen off.

A well known representative o[illegible] Bradstreet's, after extended investiga[illegible] tion, gives reasons for anticipating [illegible] much smaller yield of cotton tha[illegible] trade requirements indicates. H[illegible] looks for the Texas crop not to exceed[illegible] 2,000,000 bales, or less than last year, while the Missouri valley will produce[illegible] less than an average crop and Arkansas be in less favorable situation than last year. The long and severe drought of the latter part of the season, he says, destroyed all hope of a top crop and will materially cut short the latter yield.

The position of the cotton goods industry is no more favorable, but Fall River manufacturers report business brisk, prices steady and unwillingness by merchants to accept further orders.

Advances of Bessemer are reported. Pig iron and steel billets meet with quick sales, but prices are firmly held. Some steel mills are not able to keep up with orders. The domestic consumption of pig iron last month was extraordinarily heavy and promises to greatly stimulate production.

With the slackening off in the rate of distribution of merchandise the upward movement of prices is correspondingly checked, and in this the third week in succession, the number of staples for which quotations are lower are greater than those that are higher or unchanged. There are nominal advances for lard and men's shoes, but prices for pork, sugar, other forms of iron and steel than those named, for [illegible] lumber, coal, hide[illegible] changed. Quotati[illegible] butter, potatoes, w[illegible] flour, beef, coffee, co[illegible] and lead.

Wheat exports [illegible] the total for th[illegible] among the larg[illegible] total exports of [illegible] as wheat) this week [illegible] the United States aggreg[illegible],720 bushels, against 4,825,641 bushels last week, 4,156,817 bushels in this week a year ago, 2,409,000 bushels in 1895, 3,192,000 bushels in 1894, 2,709,000 bushels in 1893 and 3,270,000 bushels in 1892.

Corn exports were 2,224,000 bushels this week, against 2,109,000 last week, 1,711,000 bushels a year ago, 1,680,000 bushels in 1895, 113,553 bushels in 1894, 1,123,000 bushels in 1893 and 701,000 bushels in 1892.

There are 196 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 237 last week, 279 in the week a year ago, 289 two years ago, 253 three years ago and 340 four years ago.

There are 44 business failures reported throughout the Dominion of Canada this week, compared with 45 last week, 30 in the week a year ago and 37 two years ago.

Where Love Has Lingered.

Benjamin F. Hunt, a former resident of Rochester, N. Y., now in his 85th year, is about to wed Mrs. Jul[illegible] A. Sherman of W[illegible] of our moral natures, and our rence for God. It confounds all ideas of justice, goodness and titude. It offends the ears of our earthly friends, God's holiest loveliest men and women, and ds a thrill of anguish through ir hearts. It is opposed to all as of courtesy, to all rules of po- ness, and to all regulations for ntlemanly behavior.

Therefore let us not fail to attire r thoughts in the most pure and steful garments, and adorn them ith the most refined beauties of nguage.

"Thou shalt not take the name of e Lord thy God in vain: for the ord will not hold him guiltless that keth his name in vain."—Ex. 20:7.

JAMES M. BENTON, JR.

April 25th, 1897.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

The Age-Herald improves with every issue.

What's the matter with the Sunny Southland?

The Columbiana Chronicle is up to date—it looks like prosperity.

The Shelby Sentinel has enlarged. Bro. Graham gets up a good paper.

BLOCTON ITEMS.

Cotton is still declining in price.

Last Saturday was pay-day at Belle Ellen.

Why can't West Blocton get a postoffice?

Died, in Centreville, on Saturday last, Mrs. J. T. Casey.

Mr. John Quinn, of Woodstock, called to see us this week.

Mr. L. P. Wallace, of River Bend, called to see us this week.

William Canterberry, of Vance was in town a few days since.

We regret to learn of the serious illness of W. W. Yeager, of Centreville.

Messrs. Burgess Little and Dennis Mitchell, of Montevallo, spent last Sunday with home folks in Blocton.

Died, near Blocton, on the 14th inst., of typhoid fever, Mr. Judge Miller. He was only in the bloom of life.

We are glad to state that the little child of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dyer, who has been sick so long, is improving.

...don't our commissioners ...nce a dwelling house ...other counties have sheriffs?

...roner Walters, why ... the verdict of the ...lle Ellen fire? Are ...tewash?

...n to subscribe for the News-Herald and get a nice family Bible or five of the best novels for $1.00. This is a good offer.

Cotton still comes in, although the price is very low. Our merchants pay more for cotton than any merchants in the county.

Mr. Ben Hoskins, of Aldrich, has accepted a position with Miller & Co., on the new railroad as commissary clerk. Ben is a good business man.

Sheriff Vance went up to Birmingham Friday and brought back Will Kimbrell, who is charged with numerous high crimes and misdemeanors.

The Southern railroad company have commenced putting in two new iron bridges east of here on Coperas creek, between Blocton and ...their line.

Died, in River Bend, on Monday last, a daughter of Mr. D. L. McKinney. Mr. McKinney's friends sympathize with him in the loss he and his family sustained.

Messrs Jas Bass, E D. Reynolds and W. J. Loveland went down to Faunsdale to be present at the marriage of S J. Morgan and Miss Margaret Walker on Wednesday last.

It seems from our directory that outside of the Tenn, Coal, Iron & R. R. Co. there is no store outside of Suttletown. Well, we guess that is correct. We go by what we see advertised in our home paper.

The subscription list of the News-Herald is growing fast. A single trip of the editor to Six Mile, Centreville, and Jamesville resulted in twenty-five new cash subscribers. Every one of them received an elegant family Bible, free, as a premium

A Few Prices
—AT THE—
Racket : Store.

Pins, per paper,	3 cents.
Thread, per spool,	3 "
7 inch Rubber Combs,	7 "
Toilet Soaps, per cake,	4 "
Collar Buttons, per card,	3 "
" " gold, each,	5 "
Silk Watch Guards, worth 50c,	17 "
Day Books, worth 5 cents,	1 "
Envelopes per pack,	4 "
Note Paper, per quire,	3 "
Paper and Envelopes, per box,	9 "
Tablets, 60 pages,	2 "
Pencils,	1 "
Pens, best Falcon, per dozen,	8 "
Tin Milk Pans,	4 "
Wash Pans,	5 "
Cake Pans,	9 "
8 qt. Dish Pans, regular price 25,	12 "
2 quart Coffee Pots,	8 "
8 inch Steel Fry Pans,	15 "
Dippers, worth 15 cents,	5 "
Milk Strainers,	10 "
Corsets, worth 75 cents,	37 "
Handkerchiefs, worth 10c,	3 "
" best,	5 "
Towels, worth 15 cents,	5 "
Suspenders, regular price 25c,	17 "
Men's Socks, 10c. grade,	5 "
Ladies' Hose, worth 20c,	7 "
Children's Hose, best,	10 "

Everything Else Equally Reasonable.

I Do All Kinds of Watch Work.

I will clean any Watch for	$1 00
Put in any Mainspring,	1 00
Balance Staffs, any kind,	1 50
Case Springs,	50 cents.
Crystals,	15 to 50 "
Hands, each,	15 "

Yours for Bargains,

The Racket,
J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

TO THE PUBLIC.

I take this method of informing the citizens of Montevallo and vicinity that I am now prepared to do all kinds of contract and carpenter work. Satisfaction guaranteed, or no charges made. Before closing any trade call and see me at the store of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. Respectfully,
W. J. RHODES.

FELIX DOTSON.
THE FIRST-CLASS BARBER,
Montevallo, Alabama.
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

CARY & LOVING,
Attorneys at Law,
CENTREVILLE & MONTEVALLO.
Will practice in all the courts of the State.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
St. George,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
Now, and Centrally Located.
Special attention given the commercial man.

KLONDYKE GOLD!

Is surmounted by untold dangers that appall the stoutest hearts, but

Gold, Silver or Greenbacks!

And a small amount of either will get more goods and better goods at our store than any establishment South.

Our lines are full and complete, and are bought in car load lots, FOR CASH. We cannot and will not let others sell for less money than we do.

A few of our Departments and the Goods Therein:

Dry Goods.

This is our pride. We handle only the very best, and sell at the lowest possible price. Anything you want—from 4½ cent calico to the best silks are kept in stock. The ladies are respectfully invited to call and examine this stock.

NOTIONS.

Oh! yes, we carry notions, and more notions than we want. They are here, and don't forget the prices on Notions are WAY, WAY DOWN.

CLOTHING.

We represent the largest Tailoring Establishment in this country, besides a large and well assorted stock for you to select from, and can fit your person or pocket.

SHOES.

Here we can fit peasant or king, rich or poor. We sell them as low as 25 cents per pair, and every pair guaranteed as represented.

HATS.

The latest styles, the latest prices, is the motto of this department. Come and see them and you will be convinced.

Underwear.

Everything that is kept in the larger cities can be found on our counters, and at prices that others dare not attempt.

HARDWARE.

This department is complete, the prices low, the goods the best. Anything from a nail to a steam engine.

HARNESS.

Saddles, Bridles, Harness, Whips and Blankets of every description are here, and at prices that for lowness will surprise you.

Canned Goods.

We bought a car load of this one article, and you can buy at retail of us for the price others pay whole sale.

Crockery.

You can't mention a thing in this line that cannot be found on our shelves or counters, at prices that cannot be equalled.

Furniture.

Yes! we carry a full line of Furniture, and pay the spot cash for it, and can and will save you money. Come and examine for yourself.

Trunks and Valises

All sizes, all kinds, and waiting for your inspection for you to purchase one. The price is right.

The above are ony a few of the many lines that we carry in our well assorted stock. That we can please you and save you money, we know from past experience. It is a pleasure to show our goods, and the ...West

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P. M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Mr. Rogan is a favorite with the girls.

A nice line of stationery, cheap at J. W. Martin's.

John Ingram of Calera visited Montevallo Sunday.

Overshoes at Reynolds from 15 to 50 cents per pair.

Will Perry has accepted a position with Meroney & Co.

Leave your laundry at Rogan's.

Mr. Sam Morgan of Blocton was in town Monday.

Fresh bread every day at Rogan's.

Mr. Frank Kroell has several fine horses for sale.

Paper and envelopes 9 cents a box at J. W. Martin's.

Read what Newton & Nolen, the hatters, have to say.

Rogan keeps a nice line of cakes.

Burgess Little visited his "grandmother" in Blocton Sunday.

Peanut brittles at Rogan's. Try them.

WANTED—A pair of good mules, Apply at NEWS office.

Just received, a lot of fresh grapes at Rogan's.

If you have land to sell it will pay you to see us before selling.

Fancy candy from 10 to 80 cents per pound, at Rogan's.

Mr. Geo. Kroell keeps the best of everything, so the ladies tell us.

I sell Coats thread 4 cents per spool. J. W. Martin.

We want some young lady to write the school news for us.

Mr. T. A. Best says we will have home baked bread soon.

Three well attended services in Montevallo last Sunday morning.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Prof. Ruffin received his fine mare from Cleveland, Tenn., Saturday.

Miss Addie Banks, of Cleveland, Tenn., is visiting Mrs M. C. Banks.

Girls, when you want ribbon, remember we are the people. H C & W B Reynolds.

Mr. D. C. Savage came up Sunday and spent the day with his family.

Capt. C. C. Vandegrift is finishing one of the prettiest residences in the town.

...my is your best friend. ...ticisms and strengthen ...nts.

...me of the girls say ...ney & Co.

A complete line of ladies' and gents' mackintoshes—prices to suit all purses—at Reynolds.

Morgan Bros.' store is always crowded. They sell lots of goods, "and don't you forget it."

President Reynolds has everything running smoothly now. Everything is organized and working nicely.

If you want to see a pretty sight, take a half holiday and go up and see how the girls are getting along.

Mrs M. C. Banks has just returned from Cleveland, Tenn., where she has been visiting friends.

The Montevallo Lime Company had a little misfortue this week—their kiln fell in. We are sorry, boys.

Fire has been in the woods east of town for several days. Fences have been in danger—a few have burnt.

Elders W. P. Peden and G. W. Kerr, of Pickens county, visited the family of Elder James G. Thornton last week.

Ed Stores, a negro sport, got himself into trouble by letting a hog take up with him. He sold the hog to Mr. Banks.

Just received, at Reynolds', a handsome line of stationery at prices never before equalled. Box paper from 3 cents to 45 cents per box.

We haven't been able to get a list of the girls—they haven't all regersted yet. We will have a directory as soon as we can get the names.

There are, no doubt, some good amateur musicians among the Polytechnic girls. If not presuming too much we would suggest the organization of a string band.

We send out a good many copies regularly to people who have not subscribed. If you receive the paper we expect pay. If you don't want it, please notify us.

Read the advertisement of D. J. Moreland in another column. He can repair anything from a bycicle to a steam engine, and guarantees satisfaction in every instance.

A jolly crowd of gusts accompanied bridegroom Morgan southward on Tuesday evening. In it were E D. Reynolds of Blocton, Frank West, W. B. Reynolds and Geo. Morgan.

H C & W B Reynolds have just closed a deal for 719 yards of all silk velvet in the latest shades, at one fourth of actual cost. You can take choice of the entire lot for 29 cents per yard.

We call the attention of our readers to the card of W. J. Rhodes, to be found elsewhere. Mr. Rhodes is a practical workman and any one engaging his services can rest assured their work will be well done.

H. C. & W. B. Reynolds know the value of printer's ink. They know it pays to advertise, and they do advertise. You won't find them asleep. They keep up with, if not in front of, the procession.

Superintendent Moore, of Blocton, is as good a manager and as satisfactory a superintendent as any company ever had. The Tennessee company could hardly have found a better man for this position.

You will notice that Montevallo merchants advertise. That proves they are up to date. They take some pride in their town. We have every firm in town except one, and we expect them to advertise soon.

President Reynolds has accomplished wonders in the last few months. We don't think any other man could have filled his place. We know he will make our school the best in the south. If he don't, it won't be his fault.

Snake ...

We offer special inducements to boarding houses. We will give, free of charge, a quart bottle of hair restorative (our own make) if we cannot demonstrate to you that we can save you money on all groceries. Give us an order and be convinced. H C & W B Reynolds.

Mike Kelley, a "Wandering Willie," called on us recently and left the following lines. We are pleased to state, however, that Mr. Kelley has gone to his winter quarters.

The Calera girls have got the blues,
The Dogwood girls can't afford new shoes;
The Brierfield girls don't treat us right,
But the Montevallo girls are out of sight.

Mr. J. S. Ogletree, of Blocton, was in town Monday. He saw from a small local ad. that a dairy was needed in Montevallo, so he came over to see about it. He went out to look at Mr. Vandegrift's farm, and was very much pleased with the location. Mr. Ogletree thinks he will locate here.

MAYLENE ITEMS.

Our town has a nice string band.

The health of our town is very good at this time.

The mines at this place are running on full time.

Mr. John Hunter is visiting friends in Florida.

Mr. Festus Caddell is visiting friends in Blocton.

We think there will be another wedding in our town soon.

Miss Nannie Fulton, is visiting friends at Sagina this week.

R. L. Rice, of the Blocton News-Herald, called to see us last week.

Miss Carrie Hunter, a most charming belle, is visiting relatives in Georgia.

Miss Mamie Gentry, of Aldrich, is visiting friends and relatives in our town.

Our friend, Mr. Townsend, of the Tuscaloosa Marble Works, called to see us last week.

We are glad to announce that Mrs. Frank Weaver, who has been ill for some time, is improving.

Married, at Maylene, last week, at the residence of the bride's father. Miss Maylene Ingram and Mr. John Liddcout, of Bessemer.

DIXIE.

J. M. REYNOLDS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - - - ALA.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND
ABSOLUTELY PURE

B. B. B. Always Cures.
Botanic Blood Balm

The Great Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Eating and Spreading Sores, Eruptions, and all SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES. Made from the prescription of an eminent physician who used it with marvelous success for 40 years, and its continued use for fifteen years by thousands of grateful people has demonstrated that it is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new rich blood, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties.

WRITE FOR BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent freight paid by BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE DICTIONARY HOLDER

Did you ever learn what fabulous results grew out of the manufacture by Mr. Noyes of an ornamental stand to hold the dictionary? The story reads like a fable, but to tell it one must tell another question: Have you ever noticed the advertisement of the Aermotor Company, which starts out as follows:

45 sold in '88
2,280 sold in '89
6,268 sold in '90
20,040 sold in '91
60,000 will be sold in '92

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 2 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Yet that establishment belongs to La Verne W. Noyes, and the means with which it was built up until it is the third largest manufactory in the West—and is exceeded by two of the great Harvester companies—was wholly furnished by the Dictionary Holder business. This brings us back to the Holder, and suggests inquiry as to how it does and how it still holds the field, increasing rapidly from year to year.

The secret of that success is this: Mr. Noyes has made a most perfect, attractive, artistic article, and has maintained a high standard of excellence and supplied the article at a low price. The merit of these Dictionary Holders has been so great that they literally sold themselves, and in such great quantities that a small profit on each one has made the result above mentioned.

They have gone to almost every habitable portion of the globe, even to the remote islands of the sea, and are kept by all booksellers.

ALWAYS :- LEADING!

C. L. MERONEY & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE

Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store.

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

Shelby County Bank

Get Fixed a...
Have a Practical W...
D. J. M...
Can Re...
From a Bicycle
He Does All K...
SATISFACTIO...
Don't forget that J. D. Moreland ...
Try him, Low prices, good work.

DO YO...
If so, You ...
You Will Find Everything ...
WE BUY COT...
NE...

"Do Unto Others as ... Unto You,"
H. C. & W. B. Reyn...
—THERE ...
CLOVES AND SPICE, ...
RUBIFO...
LI...
Rose Water
MENNEN'S TA...
Gilt Edge Shoe Po...
Bromo...
Permanganate of...

If You Are Not...
By Bu...
CANDIES, FRUITS, ...
—F...
F. W. R...
He Keeps Constantly on Han... Candies from the W...
Peanut Britte and a...
Fancy Candy from 10...
A Well Selected and ...
THESE GOODS SIMPLY ...
Fresh Bread ...
Laundry Every...
If you are not sweet get sweet...

DO YOU W...
WELL, WE ...
BANKS...
Hand-made Bricks Are...
We do all kin... and always kee...

Gladstone's Career Equaled.

Mr. Gladstone, who celebrated his 87th birthday on the 29th of December, is younger than a former American Congressman and Cabinet minister whose old age is as vigorous as that of the great English statesman. Col. Richard W. Thompson, of Terre Haute, Ind., who was a Whig leader in the days of Jackson and Clay, who was the close friend of Lincoln, and who served as Secretary of the Navy under Hayes, will be 88 if he lives to the 9th of next June.

If, instead of being influenced by a hazy and undefined feeling, we bring clear thought to bear upon it, we shall find that the only supreme and final test of conduct must ever be the convictions which we hold at the time.

Not whether any other person or the whole world approve or disapprove, nor even whether we may or may not continue in future years to maintain them ourselves, must be our question, but whether at the present moment we believe in our inmost heart that such a course is the true and right one to pursue.

If this be not our guide—if any other voice, opposing that of conscience, be obeyed—then we act in defiance of our own moral sense, which is plainly the snapping of character.

Coining of Silver.

The common impression that the government is coining no silver is a mistake. The coinage of silver is still continued, although by the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act no bullion is now purchased by the government for use in coinage, there being on hand November 1, 1893, the enormous stock of 140,699,852.67 ounces.

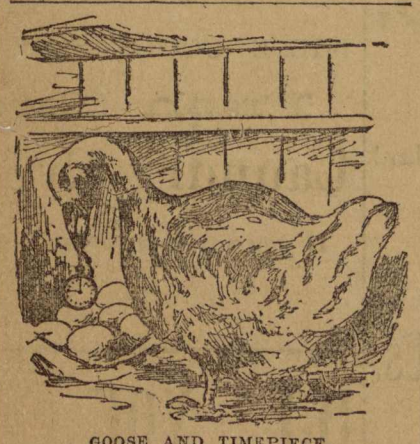
Animals and the Weather.

Many naturalists insist that animals have a special sense which enables them to foresee approaching changes in the weather and conduct themselves accordingly. Hens, ducks and geese are well known to make preparations for rain, and hours before the change is apparent to human beings these creatures may be seen oiling and dressing their plumage. Pigs frequently prepare a shelter for themselves before a storm; a pig carrying a mouthful of straw is to the farmer a sure sign of rain. Dogs and horses exhibit unusual lassitude before rain, and the cat washing her face is, among housewives, a certain sign. The croaking of the "rain crow" is considered, in the country districts, as an indication of bad weather, while even ants and bees, when rain is approaching, seek their homes, the former retiring to their holes and closing the entrance, while the latter hurry to their hives as though conscious that danger was in the air.

A PECULATING GOOSE.

Carried Off a Gold Watch, and Got Servant in Trouble.

It is doubtful is another dumb animal ever caused greater mischief than a goose did recently in Lanesboro, N. Y. That goose stole a dozen valuable articles and brought about the discharge of a servant. For a long time the family of Mr. Albert Jenks has been missing valuables, and charged their disappearance to Miss Annie Coogan, a domestic. The girl was threatened with arrest to make her confess and when she protested her innocence she was discharged. As articles continued to disappear the famliy was in a quandary. A pet goose had a trick of knocking at the door in quest of dainties, and on being admitted would go all about the house. One afternoon recently Mrs. Jenks was amazed to see the goose take a gold watch and chain in its mouth and go outdoors. She followed and saw it hide the timepiece in its nest. Thus the mystery of the missing articles was explained. Among the dozen articles found in the nest were two gold thimbles, two scarfpins, a tortoise shell comb and a watch. The parents of the Coogan girl threaten to sue the Jenks for defaming their daughter's



GOOSE AND TIMEPIECE.

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Killed While Coupling Cars.

W. N. Waddell, of Opelika, was killed by a freight train at LaGrange, Ga., Saturday. He was a flagman and in coupling cars was knocked down and both legs severed from his body, and death quickly followed.

Fair Grounds Attached.

Saturday Sheriff O'Brien attached for debt all the lands, buildings, etc., composing the State Fair grounds, which are situated on the Birmingham & Bessemer railroad. The attachment was made on a writ sued out in the city court by Thomas G. Hewlitt against Hayden Dargin for $15,000.

Students Break Up an Institute.

The sale of the lands and building of the Alabama Mineral academy, at Huntsville, recently under a decree of the chancery court to Captain Milton Humes was continued Friday. The academy had a metoric career several years ago, and while its prospects were brilliant for becoming a great institution, was broken up by a rebellion of students.

Lands for Northern Farmers.

John M. Green, of Chicago, general manager of the South Alabama Emigration and Development company has purchased a large tract of land located in Baldwin county from Messrs. Abbert, Samuel and Edgar Adler, of Birmingham. Mr. Green said it was the intention of the company to induce Northern farmers to remove to the South and settle on these lands.

Birmingham Quarantines Montgomery.

Birmingham has quarantined Montgomery. This action was taken at a special meeting of the city council held Saturday morning, and it was taken because of the report that suspicious cases of sickness, which it is thought may possibly be yellow fever, prevailed in the Capital city. The following places have also quarantined against Montgomery, Selma, Eufaula, Union Springs, Prattville, Ozark, Troy, Dothan and Columbus, Ga.

A Horrible Death.

Dr. Timothy Burke of Lowndes county, left Montgomery Thursday afternoon on the Hayneville macadamized road for his home at Hayneville, driving a mule to a buggy. As he was crossing the track of the Midland road a few miles west of the city his vehicle was truck by a gravel train and Dr. Burke was thrown upon the track and cut half in two by the wheels of the loaded cars. The mule was killed and the buggy demolished.

Will Make the Final Survey.

Colonel R. T. Barksdale, chief engineer of the Atlanta & Alabama Air Line, has located his camp three miles from Selma, preparatory to making the final survey, and work will be commenced immediately on the completion of the $100,000 subscription from the citizens of Selma. All but $11,000 of this amount has been subscribed and leading citizens are hustling to raise that amount. The first car load of grading tools has arrived and work is expected to begin on the 25th instant. The road is projected from Atlanta to Selma with New Orleans as its ultimate southern terminus.

Lawlessness in Dallas.

Lawlessness runs rampant near Richmond, in the southern end of Dallas county. Several months since West Ethridge rode up behind Allie Coleman, a wealthy farmer, and blew the top of his head off with a double barrel shotgun. He has managed to elude arrest. Later, Barrett Duckworth, Coleman's body servant, was assassinated in his house, and public opinion laid the crime at Ethridge's hands. A month ago Shelley Sumner, a nephew of Ethridge, was killed by Charles Nelson, a relative of Duckworth. Thursday night Frank Banks, a cousin of Nelson, was shot from the darkness while standing in the door of his home. All of the murders are thought to have grown out of the Ethridge-Coleman killing. Not an arrest has so far been made, although officers have made repeated raids. It is stated that a prominent citizen of the neighborhood, who has condemned the lawlessness, has had his life threatened.

A Refugee Train Wrecked.

Friday the regular passenger train running since the quarantine on the Mobile & Birmingham railroad between Thomasville and Selma, was totally wrecked between Eleanor and Safford, about twenty-five miles from Selma. There is no turn-table at Thomasville, and the engine was backing into the city pulling the baggage Celebration of Alabama Day.

Governor Johnson has issued a proclamation, in which he calls on the people of the state to attend the Nashville Centennial on Alabama Day, the 22, and make that day a brilliant one. He reminds the people that the Centennial management have extended every courtesy to Alabama and has furnished the state a splendid opportunity to advertise its matchless resources. He suggests that Alabamians should show their appreciation by celebrating Alabama Day with enthusiasm and numbers worthy of their state.

Briefly Noted.

Bill Gambrill, in a difficulty at Finson, was shot and killed by a negro, last week.

James W. McCrary, a prominent merchant of Greensboro, died Thursday, aged 77.

Farmers in the vicinity of Ozark are preparing to plant from two to twenty acres of wheat each this fall.

Sam Fields, colored, who shot and killed his wife last July, was convicted last Thursday and sentenced to be hanged.

Montgomery has closed her pest house, all cases of smallpox having been discharged and no suspicious cases remaining in the city.

Will Hunter, the desperate negro convict, who escaped from Pratt Mines last week, was shot and captured at Warrior by Marshal Blackburn.

Judge Alex Boarman arrived in Birmingham from Washington last Thursday, and the United States Circuit and District court was opened Friday.

Hon. Charles A. Whitten has received his commission as chief enumerator to retake the Lowndes county school census under the special law of 1896 and 1897.

In case the yellow fever reports should prove true at Montgomery, the governor will be forced to temporarily locate the executive office of the state in Birmingham.

About noon Thursday E. P. Lacy, a grandson of Senator Pettus, and his private secretary, while out hunting was accidentally shot in the left arm, a wound being inflicted which necessitated amputation.

Captain Beckert, of the Government Secret Service, aided by a detective, last week captured and arrested, ten miles south of Tuscumbia, John Clakely and William Hooper, charged with making and circulating counterfeit silver money.

The Jefferson Volunteers, Birmingham Rifles and Troop D, will, in all probability go to Nashville on Alabama Day. It is expected that they will carry forty men each and will possibly be accompanied by the Bessemer Rifles and the Huey Guards.

Montgomery had a yellow fever scare the past week. The board of health met and made the following statement regarding the suspicious cases: After a careful analysis of the symptoms of the few cases reported as suspicious, there is not a case that is at all typical of yellow fever and not a single case is seriously sick.

Four Daring Burglars Arrested.

Chief of Detectives Colleran and four of his men, at Chicago, Ill., have effected one of the most important captures of criminals reported for years past. As a result of the efforts of the officers four of the most successful and daring burglars of the United States and Canada are under arrest and $25,000 worth of stolen property is in the hands of the police awaiting identification.

The men under arrest are "Sheeney Joe" Rubenstein, the leader and brains of the gang; James Williams, Harry Rogers and James Flaherty.

Letters in the men's possession which have passed between them showed they had been taking a flying trip from coast to coast, robbing right and left.

The Review of Reviews says that Editor Stead, while in Washington recently, learned that unless the sealing question was settled speedily the United States will order the destruction next session of the whole herd of seals on the Pribyloff islands.

When "The Girl From Paris" and her company went to the Montgomery depot to take the train for Selma they were prevented from going by quarantine regulations. Instead of bewailing their misfortune they spontaneously burst into song and an impromptu open air concert on the depot platform elicited great applause from the by-standers.

Arbitration Prospects.

There is a good prospect of the speedy conclusion of a general arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States. There is reason to believe President McKinley will propose a clause in the treaty providing that before any subject is finally referred to the court of arbitration such reference shall be approved by

HE WAS A BRILLLANT CLERK.

How a Virginia Prodigy Gave a 10 Per Cent. Discount.

I once had a promising bud of genius in my store down on the James River, said a Virginian to a reporter. I keep a general store there, and this bud, that promised to bloom into seven kinds of a loo loo flower, came to me from the far end of Prince George County, on the introduction of a friend of mine and his, who said as he wasn't good for anything else, perhaps he might be made handy in a store. I took him, just to be accommodating, of course, and promised to give him a chance to rise.

He was about 19 years old, and wrote poetry between times, so I put him to sweeping out as a starter. He could sweep well enough, and after a week I put him to doing the chores, and advised him to study the stock while he was resting.

After about six weeks of this kind of training I concluded he knew enough to take charge of my scrap counter, which was a counter where I put all my old stuff about every sixty days, with the most of it marked in big figures and with the additional information to those looking for bargains that there would be 10 off for cash.

Trade was lively the morning I put him at it, and he was doing as well, if not better, than the more experienced clerks, for I noticed several people getting around his way and getting out pretty quick with what they had bought. I didn't think much about the whys and wherefores until the young fellow came to me at the desk with a suit of clothes in his hands to ask me to explain something. The suit bore a large white card inscribed with a big black "$8."

"I don't quite understand this," says he. "The others I sold were marked $10.75, $11.50, $11.98, $12 and $12.48, and it was easy enough to calculate what 10 off would be and sell them for 75 cents, $1.50, $1.98, $2 and $2.48, but I'll be doggoned if I see how you're going to throw $10 off of an $8 suit, unless you want to give the customer $2, and I reckon you ain't that liberal, even at the scrap counter, are you?"

It mighty near gave me a spasm, that did, concluded the gentleman, and I put another clerk at my discount counter p. d. q.

A doctor, writing on the subject of the suppression of useless noises in cities, which he claims will hasten toward convalescence many a patient whose nerves are now too racked by perpetual racket to give the system a chance of recuperating, says he remembers one delightful ward in his training school wherein the "sister" used to insist on a "silent hour," from 2:30 to 3:30 daily. It was the only ward in the hospital which enforced this golden rule, alike beneficial to the nurses fortunate enough to be drafted there and the patients therein, who flourished and blossomed forth into amazing convalescence under the silence system and the good nursing which accompanied it. For the "sister" was a born nurse, and she had the real sympathy and womanliness which caused her to appreciate the balm and healing of that one quiet hour in the day.

It was a male surgical ward, and the patients, on first admission, used to chafe somewhat at "sister's" dictum—against which there was no appeal—of "no conversation or newspaper reading during the hour." But gradually each patient came to appreciate the soothing lull in the busy hum of the ward, and "sister" and her staff used to watch with satisfaction how patient after patient fell gradually under the soporific quiet of the time, and went off into comfortable sleep, which frequently lasted long after the prescribed limit. The good humor of the ward was most exceptional.

The senior surgeon of the hospital was never tired of saying, "The patients here, sister, get on as if by magic. What spells of witchcraft do you weave to heal them so quickly?"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

There is no perfume in the world equal to the perfume from a barrel of apples.

DRUNK ARDS can be saved without their knowledge by Anti-Jag the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, N. Y. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

BUY YOUR RINGS OF THE MAKERS. This Gold Filled Baby Ring sent on receipt of 10c. Stamps taken. D. M. WATKINS & CO. CATALOGUE FREE. Mfg. Jewelers. PROV., R. I.

ALABAMA LADIES

Brave as Lions.

Mrs. Mattie Davenport.

Jenifer, Ala., writes: My Husband was cured of Biliousness by Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, which I have used 10 years. Have tried both Zeilin's and "Black Draught," and I think the M. A. Simmons Medicine so far Superior that one Package of it is worth three or four of either the other kinds.

Insufficient Menstruation

Is sometimes caused by non-development of the parts, sometimes by obstructions in mouth of vagina, and sometimes by constipated bowels, but usually results from a debilitated condition of the system, which prevents nature from overcoming any unusual exposure, such as fright or getting feet wet. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine builds up the system and cures the disorder, while Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cures the constipation, indigestion, loss of appetite, pains in back, hips, head and limbs, which are usually present.

John L. Brown

Shellman, Ga., writes: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 15 years. It cured me of Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Nervousness and Sleeplessness. It cured my Wife of a Female Complaint. My two Aunts have been greatly benefited by it in their old age. Have used "Black Draught" but think Dr. M. A. S. L. M. far superior to it.

Skin and Eyes Yellow.

This disorder finds its direct cause in some derangement in the liver and its closely allied glands. The bile, instead of passing out through the bowels, has been obstructed, and finding no outlet through its usual channels, has accumulated and been taken up by the absorbents and distributed over the system, poisoning the blood and disturbing all the functions of the body. In the treatment of this disease, Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine should be taken night and morning until the complexion becomes clear.

Spurn Frauds that court you for your money. The imitations that try to take the place of the Original Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, while by interested dealers sold as "the same," are advertised as "not the same," and you may be courted and deceived for your money at the expense of your health. Beware!

DID YOU SAY

It was a little previous for an OVERCOAT?

It may be as to the weather, but not if you want a good and unbroken stock to select from. Prepare yourself in time.

STRICT ATTENTION TO MAIL ORDERS.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham Ala.

311 N. College St., NASHVILLE, TENN.

OUR

GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

The Great Mail Order House

111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

EXPERT REPAIRING.

DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

The LOOSLEY CYCLE COMPANY

Manufacturers of the Celebrated . . "BIRMINGHAM." Offer the facilities of their factory and the intelligence of their expert workmen when you need repairing of any kind on your bike. Write for catalogue and prices.

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Am. N. U. No. 42. 1897.

SO YOU ARE PLEASED

. . . WITH . . .

"ALABAMA BRAND" ROLLED OATS!

We know you'd like 'em; Everybody does

McMILLAN-LEE CO., Whole

MONTEVALLO NE

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1897.

Ohio is to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of its existence as a State with an exposition in 1903.

"Providence permitting, and unless the bottom drops out of the peace of Europe, there will be a world's fair in Paris in the year 1900," observes Harper's Weekly.

A citizen of Pogue Bluffs, Me., has such faith in the educational and moral influence of the press that he has ordered a good newspaper sent at his expense to each family in the town.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat observes: It is a curious fact that a club of women formed in New York to go to the Klondike has engaged a man to do the cooking and dish washing. Unless he is fastened matrimonially he will be apt to "give notice" when he reaches the diggings.

Moonshiners have made things so uncomfortable, not to say dangerous, for J. P. Wooten, a constable in Breathett County, Kentucky, that he has recently equipped himself with an absolutely bullet-proof steel shirt. The accounts do not explain the apparent immunity of the rest of his body from the guns of the illicit distillers.

There is a lonely island in the South Atlantic known as Tristan d'Acunha, and on it lives as head of its population one Peter Green, who, during sixty years' residence, has saved many lives from shipwreck. In recognition of his services to humanity and particularly British subjects, the Queen has sent him a framed portrait of herself, with a suitable inscription.

"The Grand Army men have done wisely in rejecting the proposition to change the time of the observance of Memorial Day from May 30 to the last Sunday in May," believes the New York Observer. "There are many incidental occurrences connected with Decoration Day exercises which would introduce an incongruous element into our Sabbaths if the change were made."

Owing to the fact that it is one of the German servant girl's duties to shine shoes, and that the porters attend to it at the hotels, there are few bootblacks in Berlin. In fact, there are but six—one at each of the leading depots. Their trade, of course, comes from arriving travelers. It is curious to see among the patrons of these bootblacks who ply their vocation in the open more women than men.

The Florida Citizen rhapsodises thus: When winter comes in other lands 'tis Florida's jubilee, and joy breaks forth on every hand and laughs from sea to sea. And when our groves shall bloom again not even the frogs shall croak, we'll teach the birds the sons of men in "English as she's spoke;" no richer land on all the earth recalls the days of old than this whose dews kiss maiden sands and love them into gold.

In calling to order the Farmers' Congress at St. Paul, Minn., President B. F. Clayton made the statement that the agricultural interests of the country were sorely in need of vigorous legislation, and that more of our national lawmakers should come from the rural districts. As the warrant for this statement President Clayton declared that the farming element of the country embraced over 30,000,000 people, or more than one-third of our national population; but that in spite of this fact, the agricultural interests of the country were represented by only thirty-five memb rs out of a total ... Nation House of Rep- ...nly one in the ... adds the At- ...is statement is ... While there ...

NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

A NATIONAL BANK CLOSES.

Dakota State Officers Arrested for Embezzlement—Fire Destroys the Business Portion of Oceola, Ark.—A Boiler Explodes with Fatal Results—Other News Items.

The state board of health of Mississippi has quarantined that state against Alabama.

Tobacco experts will meet in New York November 1 to arrange a uniform method of classification.

The president appointed Matthew B. McFarlane, collector of customs for the district of Tampa, Fla.

A boiler of a steam launch belonging to the battleship Texas exploded at Boston Friday. Several were hurt, none fatally.

J. M. Hamilton & Co., one of the oldest hardware houses of Nashville, assigned Thursday. Liabilities, $12,953; assets not given.

The president has appointed Medical Director W. K. Van Reypen to be surgeon general of the navy, to succeed Gen. Bates, deceased.

Several points in southwest Virginia report having experienced an earthquake shock Friday night.

State Auditor Mayhew, Ex-Auditor Whipple and Chief Clerk Anderson, of South Dakota, were arrested on charges of embezzlement last Thursday.

The outhouses of the West Tennessee asylum for the insane at Bolivar, Tenn., were destroyed by fire. Damage, $25,000. The main buildin gs escaped the flames.

Fire destroyed the business portion of the town of Osceola, Ark., a river town a few miles north of Memphis. Details are meager, but it is believed the loss will reach $100,000.

"Mac" Cannon, the leading merchant of Dalton, Ga., was pronounced guilty by the jury for buying stolen goods from Walter Bohannon, chief of the notorious robber gang.

George Westerman, aged 60, shot his young step-daughter at Madrid, Mo., and then blew his own brains out. He had been suspected of criminal intimacy with his step-daughter for some time.

By his request the only announcement that the New York Sun of Monday contained was this simple note at the top of its editorial page: "Charles Anderson Dana, editor of the Sun, died yesterday afternoon."

Deer Lick, Ky., reports a wedding in which the bride and groom represent extremes of age, greater perhaps than any wedding on record. The groom, Joel Davis, is 70, and the bride, Miss Belle Whitaker, is 12.

Thursday the jury in the case against Capt. T. J. Peebles, who has been on trial at Dalton, Ga., on the charge of receiving stolen goods, returned a verdict of "not guilty." This is the first acquittal in the car robbery cases.

A boiler in the Detroit, Mich., Cabinet Company's factory exploded Friday with fatal and disastrous results. At least two men were fatally injured, one of whom has since died, and ten men were more or less seriously injured.

The National bank of Asheville, N. C., has closed its doors. No statement has yet been made. As soon as the announcement of the closing of the bank was circulated a run was begun on the Battery Park bank, the only one remaining in Asheville.

Thursday morning George Young, a farmer residing two miles south of Blue Earth City, Minn., shot and killed his wife, his two boys, aged 2 and 4, and himself. All died instantly. Business and domestic troubles form the only explanation of the deed.

Since Thursday night there have been persistent rumors in Havana that General Castillo, the well-known insurgent, has been killed in an engagement with the Spanish troops. The reports, however, have not been officially confirmed.

At Tallahassee, Fla., A. McMahon, a prominent young member of the state militia, was shot and killed by Dr. Lightfoot, a Cherokee Indian and a professional gambler, in a quarrel over dice in a saloon. The assailant was recently released from jail at Paris, Texas.

Thursday night a museum exhibited at Holgate, O., in a large car, which had on exhibition a glass and wire cage containing 400 snakes. The crowd was so great that the cage was crushed, allowing the reptiles to run at large. Among the collection were a number of black diamond rattlesnakes, measuring from five to seven feet long. They were stepped upon by the crowd and several persons were bitten. All the doctors in town were summoned to give medical aid.

At Springfield, Mo., Raymond Allen, 12 years old, went to school carrying a portion of a stick of dynamite. The explosive, which the boy had found, was in his pocket with a knife, top and marbles. In getting to his seat the boy banged his dangerous collection against the desk, causing an explosion which will probably cost him his life and which was heard for two blocks. The teacher, Miss Mack, was close by and had her skirts torn into shreds, but she was not hurt.

MILLIONS WILL BE SPENT.

Annnal Report of the Chief of Engineers the Army.

Gen. Wilson, chief of the engineers of the army, has made his annual report to the secretary of war. It is devoted to the fortifications and river and harbor improvements of the country. Estimats for coast defenses for the years 1898 99 are as follows:

Gun and mortar batteries, $5,000,000; purchase of land for fortifications, $500,000; protection, preservation and repair of fortifications, $100,000; preparation of plans for fortifications, $5,000; sea walls and embankments, $55,000; torpedoes for harbor defense, special purchase of sub-marine mines and necessary appliances to operate them, for closing the channels leading to principal seaports, for needful case maters, gale batteries, etc., to render it possible to separate submarine mines, $150,000. Total, $5 810,000.

For continuing work on the rivers and harbors the principal estimates in a number of Southern states are as follows:

Georgia—Savannah harbor, $450,000; Savannah harbor maintenance, $100,000; Savannah river, $100,000; Darien harbor, $75,000; Altamaha river, $50,000; Oconee river, $50,000: Ocmulgee river, $50,000; Cumberland Sound, $450,000; inside water route between Savannah and Fernandina, Fla., $56,000; Flint river, $26,500.

Florida—St John's river, $500,000; Indian river, $29,000; Key West, harbor, $225,000; Charlotte harbor and Pease creek, $25,000; Saracotta bay, $42,500; Manatee river, $29,000; Apalachicola bay, $50,000; Pensacola harbor, $50,000.

Alabama—Chattahoochee river, $93,500; Alabama river, $156,200; Coosa river between Rome, Ga., and the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway bridge, $256,922; Coosa river from the bridge to Wetumpka $1,000,000; Mobile harbor, $60,000; Mobile harbor maintenance, $60,000; Black Warrior river, $190,500; Warrior river, $500,000; Tombigbee river, from mouth to Demopolis, $200,000; Tombigbee river from Demopolis, Ala., to Columbus, Miss, $500,000.

SPAIN'S REPLY

To Minister Woodford Summed Up in a Few Words.

In the special note to United States Minister Woodford the government declares that Spain has done all in her power to end the war in Cuba, and cites the many sacrifices which have been made by the nation, the number of troops sent to Cuba and the reforms which are to be carried out in the island, which are fully described.

The note ends with the statement that "Spain will not admit the right of any foreign power to interfere in any of her affairs."

The note also declares that if the United States does not stop the sailing of filibustering expeditions from American ports Spain will re-establish the right to search vessels anchoring ... Cuba ...

ARMY REPORT.

General Miles Submits Estimates to the Secretary of War.

MORE SOLDIERS ARE NEEDED.

The General Wants Two More Regiments of Artillery and Five of Infantry—Will Take Fifty-eight Million Dollars to Put the Country in Condition of Defense.

Gen. Miles, major-general commanding the army, has made his report to the secretary of war. In it he makes reference to the reports of the general and other officers subordinate to him in rank. Gen. Miles says in part:

"The army, although inadequate in point of numbers, was never in a higher state of efficiency, both as to the character and qualifications of its officers and intelligence and loyalty of its soldiers. Important changes and improvements have been made along the Atlantic and gulf coasts, and especially in the mounting of modern artillery and the appliances adopted for the defense of the coast."

Attention is called to the condition of affairs in Alaska and a number of recommendations relative thereto are made.

Continuing, the report says: "During the last ten years much attention has been given by the government to the question of coast defenses, and most beneficial results are now becoming apparent. Approximately $26,000,000 has been appropriated by the government, which is nearly one-third of what is required to put the country in a safe condition of defense. Although the general desire of our people is to maintain a condition of peace with all nations and the policy of the government is one of good will and peaceful relations with all others, yet nothing could be more injudicious than to remain in a condition of insecurity and permit the lives of millions and the accumulated wealth of many generations to be destroyed or endangered by any foreign power with which we are liable to come in contact."

He recommends fortification appropriations as follows:

Hampton Roads, $463,000; approaches to Wilmington, N. C., $397,000; Charleston harbor, S. C., $150,000; Key West, Fla., $50,000; Pensacola harbor, $32,000; approaches to Mobile, Ala., $307,000; approaches to New Orleans, $319,000; Galveston, Tex., $419,000.

He recommends strongly an increase in the army of at least two additional regiments of artillery.

He also urges the necessity of adding five infantry regiments to the army and recommends that congress fix a standard of strength on a basis ot the total population. This standard, he thinks, should be a maximum of one enlisted man to every 1,000 population and the minimum one soldier to every 2,000 population.

Fever Gives Way to Tragedy.

Interest in the progress of the fever in Biloxi was swallowed up in the contemplation and excitement of a most horrible murder and arson committed upon a most estimable couple of elderly people living out on Back Bay, about three or four miles from the city.

Word was brought to the city about 4 o'clock Friday morning that the Parkhurst property had been burned and that Mr. J. L. Parkhurst and his wife had been consumed in the flames. A man named Gibson, his wife and one Volkes are under arrest.

The autopsy held showed that the aged couple had been murdered, and evidence showed that they had been killed before they retired at night. Rumors and threats of lynching are rife.

No More Appointments at Present.

The president has determined not to consider any new appointments until congress meets, owing to many requests that have come from senators and representatives that consideration be held up until they can see the president; also the great pressure of other business, which is ...

STILL INCREASING.

The Yellow Fever Situation Shows Ma... Progress in Many Places.

The board of health reported ... following new cases at Montgom... Friday night: Hugh McCutche... Mrs. Biggio, F. M. McQueen, W... McDaniel, Terrence R. Hardaway, ... O. Parker, D. L. Bray, Ed Bigg... Miss Mollie Mulcahy, child of ... Prendergrast, 6 years old. Dr. G... teras, after visiting sixteen patie... six of whom were old cases, repor... that the disease prevailing was ... typical fever. In an address, he s... the fever was not contagious; that ... germs were responsible for its beco... ing epidemic. Pleasant McAdams di... Friday night of yellow fever. He w... only 18 years old.

A case of fever has developed at N... tasulga, forty miles east of Montgo... ery, and two are reported at Robins... Springs, ten miles north.

Friday night at 7 o'clock the yell... fever cases had nearly reached fifty ... New Orleans, and there had been fi... deaths.

Ten new cases were reported F... day at Mobile, five of whom were tak... from the Italian bark Livomus. The... were two deaths. Total cases to dat... 197; deaths, 23; recoveries, 123. und... treatment, 36.

President Thornton, of the Men... phis board of health, Friday night off... cially declared that a case of yello... fever exists in Memphis. The case i... that of B. H, McFerrin. He is a yar... conductor, and was taken sick Sun... day

One new case is reported from Ca... yuga, Miss.; under treatment, 15.

Bay St. Louis has 1 case.

Clinton has 11 cases under treat... ment.

At Edwards there are 4 new cases... Total to date, 487; deaths, 26; dis... charged, 436; convalescent, 48; unde... treatment, 37; in the country—death... 4, all white; total cases, 55.

Selma reported a suspicious case o... fever Friday night, and wired Dr. ... Guiteras to come and investigate.

RETURNED FROM HAWAII.

Senator Morgan Talks Enthusiastically About Annexation.

Senator Morgan and his daughters and F. M. Hatch, the new minister from Hawaii, were among the passengers who arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu upon the steamship Bolgic the past week.

Senator Morgan expressed himself as well pleased with what he saw and the manner in which he was entertained while on the islands. He is more than ever enthusiastic on the subject of annexation, and intimated that Hawaii may become a part of this country before the close of the coming year. He said:

"Hawaii is certainly going to be a state, but whether it will be at the time of its annexation or later remains to be seen. Should it be annexed as a territory the Hawaiian commissioners will recommend that the island should be admitted to statehood and a special act of congress would undoubtedly follow.

"I have favored annexation from the beginning, but I was surprised upon investigating the matter to find that the arguments in favor of the movement had been underestimated. In my opinion, Hawaii is absolutely indispensable to the United States, and we must have these islands. The only opposition found was that of a few of the Lilioukalani royalists who have no weight over there and are for the most part royalists for revenue only."

Senator and the Misses Morgans will leave here for their home at Selma, Ala., in a few days.

Secretly Arming.

It has just leaked out at Fort Smith, Ark., that the full-blood Cherokees have been secretly arming themselves and securing large quanties of ammunition for several weeks, but it has been especially brisk since the return of the attorney sent to Washington to enjoin the Dawes commission from proceeding to make the citizenship rolls. The majority of the Cherokees are opposed to the treaty, but the most bitter feeling is among the ignorant full-bloods. They are preparing to resist any attempt to change their tribal government. Several leading advocates of allot...

ere is Harry A. Cassin?

ed to Appear in an Atlanta Crimi- l Court When His Name Was Called.

BEZZLED $71,000 OF FUNDS WHILE ASHIER OF AN ATLANTA BANK. SAID TO BE IN SOUTH AFRICA AND DOING WELL.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25.—Harry A. Cas. ex-bank cashier, is a fugitive from stice and not even his friends can say ere the ex-cashier is. When his case is called in the superior criminal urt this morning he did not respond d his counsel shook his head when ked by the court if he could produce e body of his client.

Cassin was indicted last spring for nbezzling $71,000 of the funds of the eorgia Loan, Savings and Banking mpany, a corporation in which he as the trusted cashier. He gave bond the sum of $10,000, which was signed y Banker F. M. Coker, of this city, hom it is said was indemnified against ss by the father in-law of the young anker.

It is said that Cassin is now in South frica, and that he is doing well in a usiness venture in which he is en- aged.

Cassin was at one time one of the nost popular young business men of Atlanta, and was very highly connected, having married the daughter of Judge Hillyer.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Go to busy Montevallo to buy good goooods dirt eheap.

D. B. Lacey and family of Maylene, spent Sunday in town.

Seaborn Hinton went over in the Ebenezer settlement Sunday.

Charles Allen, of Birmingham, visited our town one day last week.

Dr. H. W. Harrison has leased his coal mine to W. L. Clark &Co.

W. P. Ryan and family contemplate making Livingston their futnre home.

Mr. Dock Flliott, of Ganadarque, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in our town.

Pat Harrison says if the mail trains don't start to running again at once he will go South instead of North.

Dr. R. C. Jones who is attending the medical college at Bessemer, came down Saturday to see home folks.

Messrs. Walter and James Harrison have returned from Belle Ellen from a lengthly and very pleasant visit.

Miss Maggie Houser who is visiting relatives in and around town, is spending a few days at Maylene this week.

Dr. Givhan reports Mrs. M. L. Wooten's child convalescing. We learn that the child had a very complicated disease, and that Dr. Givhan showed fine spun skill in his diagnosis and treatment of the case. B. Y. H.

BLOCTON ITEMS

Mr Edmonds, of Scottsville, was in town Monday.

Mr John James, of Jamesville, was in the city last week.

John T Ellison, of Centreville, was in the city a few days ago.

Editor Nunneley, of the County Press, called to see us a few days ago.

Professors Langston and Wallace visited home folk at Six Mile Sunday.

Blocton has quarantined against all the world. Why does it not frost and kill the vellow fever out?

Our friend, John C Brock, agent at Belle Ellen, spent Sunday in our town. Mr Brock is looking fine.

The Southern passenger train from Selma to Birmingham has been stopped on account of the yellow fever in Selma.

Messrs J N and A L Campbell and Rush Collier took in the exposition at Nashville last week.

Grade work on the new railroad from here to the main line near Centreville is nearing completion. It don't take our people always to build a railroad.

Mr John Porter received a telegram Monday, announcing the death of his brother-in law, Mr W A Walburn, who was killed at Johns Monday. Mr Walburn was machinist at Johns for the T C I & R R Co.

It has been given out officially that N L Wilson has been appointed postmaster at this place. All people in our city regret very much to see our faithful friend, C C Collier, put out; but of course the Republicans have things in their power and will do as they see fit. Mr Wilson has only been a Republican a short while. He was a candidate in 1896 for sheriff of Bibb county on the Republican ticket.

WANTED ACENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING Co., Louisville, Ky.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!

C. L. MERONEY & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE

Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

KLONDYKE GOLD!

Is surmounted by untold dangers that appall the stoutest hearts, but

Gold, Silver or Greenbacks!

And a small amount of either will get more goods and better goods at our store than any establishment South.

Our lines are full and complete, and are bought in car load lots, FOR CASH. We cannot and will not let others sell for less money than we do.

A few of our Departments and the Goods Therein:

Dry Goods.

This is our pride. We handle only the very best, and sell at the lowest possible price. Anything you want—from 4½ cent calico to the best silks are kept in stock. The ladies are respectfully invited to call and examine this stock.

NOTIONS.

Oh! yes, we carry notions, and more notions than we want. They are here, and don't forget the prices on Notions are WAY, WAY DDWN.

CLOTHING.

We represent the largest Tailoring Establishment in this country, besides a large and well assorted stock for you to select from, and can fit your person or pocket.

SHOES.

Here we can fit peasant or king, rich or poor. We sell them as low as 25 cents per pair, and every pair guaranteed as represented.

HATS.

The latest styles, the latest prices, is the motto of this department. Come and see them and you will be convinced.

Underwear.

Everything that is kept in the larger cities can be found on our counters, and at prices that others dare not attempt.

HARDWARE.

This department is complete, the prices low, the goods the best. Anything from a nail to a steam engine.

HARNESS.

Saddles, Bridles, Harness, Whips and Blankets of every description are here, and at prices that for lowness will surprise you.

Canned Goods.

We bought a car load of this one article, and you can buy at retail of us for the price others pay whole sale.

Crockery.

You can't mention a thing in this line that cannot be found on our shelves or counters, at prices that cannot be equalled.

Furniture.

Yes! we carry a full line of Furniture, and pay the spot cash for it, and can and will save you money. Come and examine for yourself.

Trunks and Valises

All sizes, all kinds, and waiting for your inspection for you to purchase one. The price is right.

The above are ony a few of the many lines that we carry in our well assorted stock. That we can please you and save you money, we know from past experience. It is a pleasure to show our goods, and the Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P. M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Montevallo ought to be incorporated.

Sheriff Vest was in the city Saturday.

Dr. J. W. Pratt, of Aldrich, was in town Monday.

Overshoes at Reynolds from 15 to 50 cents per pair.

Mr. Dolf Banks visited Blocton one day last week.

Dr. R. H. Hargroye, of Maylene. was in town Monday.

WANTED—A pair of good mules, Apply at NEWS office.

Attorney Leper, of Columbiana. spent Sunday in our town.

If you have land to sell it will pay you to see us before selling.

Hon. W. F. Aldrich and wife were in town Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Ed Ivey, of Blocton, spent a short while in town Tuesday.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Mr. Dolf Banks left Wednesday for Nashville, to take in the Centennial.

Mr. John Arnold, of Woodstock, spent several days in Montevallo this week.

Mr. F. A. Flowers, of Bolling, Ala, is visiting his daughter, Mrs Dr. Wilkinson.

Mr. Walter Carlisle left yesterday for Talladega, where he will remain for several days.

Girls, when you want ribbon, remember we are the people. H C & W B Reynolds.

There was a heavy frost here on Tuesday morning. We are safe now from yellow fever.

Mr. Robert Wilson, of Ebenezer settlement, was in town Wednesday purchasing goods.

Messrs. M. A. Owen, J. T. Wilson and Frank Wilson, of Brierfield, were in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. W. B. Reynolds returned home Saturday from a visit to her parents at Faunsdale.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand all the time and can deliver on short notice.

A complete line of ladies' and gents' mackintoshes—prices to suit all purses—at Reynolds.

Mr. S. M. Venable, of Talladega, qua[illegible]

The foot bridge needs repairing badly. If it is not fixed soon, some body is liable to fall through and get crippled.

Capt. R. H. Pratt, Prof. J. E White, Rev. Smitherman, Wm. C. Trott and Willie Pratt, of Six Mile, were in town Tuesday.

Montevallo don't take the interest in her churches that she should. We would like to see our people take more interest in church affairs.

Just received, at Revnolds', a handsome line of stationery at prices never before equalled. Box paper from 3 cents to 45 cents per box.

Mr. Walter Carlisle came near being killed Tuesday. While fixing some scaffolding a plank fell on his head knocking him insensible for awhile.

Miss Leila Sessions, who has been quite sick for several weeks at the residence of Mr. Bryan. is, we are glad to learn, improving. She is now able to sit up.

Mr. Pleas. West, who lives near town, had the misfortune to lose his horse and buggy Sunday night. Some thief got away with it while Mr. West was asleep.

H C & W B Reynolds have just closed a deal for 719 yards of all silk velvet in the latest shades, at one-fourth of actual cost. You can take choice of the entire lot for 29 cents per yard.

Mrs. S. O. Pitts, of Vicksburg, Miss., is visiting her sister, Mrs Dr. Wilkinson. We will say for the benefit of our citizens that Mrs. Pitts has been away from the infected districts for over twenty days.

Mr. W. A. Walburn, brother in-law of Mr. L. S Craddock, of this place. was killed Monday at Johns, Ala., while at work at the mines. We did not learn the particulars. The bereaved ones have our sympathy in their affliction.

Just received—Five hundred Ladies' Capes of the most fashionable and stylish makes. Prices from $1.00 up to $10 00. Children's Cloaks from $1.00 to $1.50 — all sizes and colors.
H. C. & W. B REYNOLDS.

We regret to learn that there is some trouble existing between the trustees and teachers of the Normal college at Brierfield. We have not learned the particulars, but hope all difficulties will be settled, and that this good school will go on as usual.

The editor of the NEWS is thinking seriously of going to New Zeland to assume full control of a daily paper there, the official organ of that country. The editor of the Sunny Southland seems to want to run this part of the moral vineyard, and we thought we would give him a chance.

The Scott vs. Scott case was tried in Attorney Reynolds' office last Saturday before Judges Ozley and West. The plaintiff was represented by Brown & Longshore, of Columbiana, and the defendant by Messrs. Reynolds, Lyman and Cary. The case was decided in favor of the defendant.

We offer special inducements to boarding houses. We will give, free of charge, a quart bottle of hair restorative (our own make) if we cannot demonstrate to you that we can save you money on all groceries. Give us an order and be convinced. H C & W B Reynolds.

We have a job office and can do your work. Some seem to think they can do better elsewhere. What would our [illegible]erchants think of us if [illegible] to Birmingham, [illegible] certain arti[illegible]ght here at [illegible]ndustry, (Thursday) morning. They will keep on hand fresh fish and eysters, and will be prepared to serve you on short notice. Give them a call when you feel like trying a bait of fresh oysters, either raw, stewed or fried.

On last Thursday morning about five o'clock our citizens were aroused by the alarm of fire, and it was soon discovered that an empty house between Mr. Vandegrift's and Dr. F. F. Crowe's residences, was in flames. By heroic efforts on the part of our citizens the beautiful new residence of Mr. Vandegrift and the residence of Dr. Crowe were saved. The property destroyed belonged to Dr. J. D. Trammell, and we understand it was insured.

Just as we go to press, we learn of a fatal accident that happened Mr. Robert Killingsworth, living 7 miles south of Montevallo, on Tuesday. While working with a thrash the bands became entangled some way, throwing the machine against him, and catching him between the machine and wall, cutting him almost in two, causing death in a few hours. He leaves four motherless children, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their irreparable loss.

A protracted meeting commenced at the M. E. Church Sunday, conducted by Rev. John Andrews, of Calhoun county. Dr. Andrews delivered forcible sermons Sunday night, Monday morning, Monday night and Tuesday night, but we regret to say very little interest was manifested. He had to leave Wednesday morning, and the regular pastor, Rro. Abernathy, announced Tuesday night that the meeting would still go on, and that he would be assisted by Bro. Wheeler, a well-known evangelist. We do hope that much good will result from this meeting.

Married, at Faunsdale, Ala., on Wednesday morning, Oct 20th, at the residence of the bride's father, Hon. Mims Walker. Mr. Samuel J. Morgan, of Blocton, and Miss Margaret Walker. Rev. Dr. Otts, of Greensboro, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by relatives of the bridal pair. The stately old house was superbly decked with flowers and garlands of roses and smilax. An elaborate breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left for an extended trip east. After their return they will reside at Blocton, where Mr Morgan is identified with the Tenn. Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. W. B Reynolds, and the groom a brother of Mr. G. W. Morgan, both of our town. The NEWS extends to the happy couple its congratulations and best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous voyage aleng the sea of life.

On last Saturday night a NEWS man, in company with another party, procured a horse and buggy from Mr. Frank Kroell, and started on a trip through the country to Blocton. After driving a few miles we ate heartily of cheese. crackers and apples. Although the night was quite dark and cool, the trip was devoid of incident until we reached Pratt's Ferry. Here we decided to ford the river, and after getting about half way across our horse stepped into a hole, and we were afraid we were going wrong, and thought we would call the ferryman and get him to pilot us across After yelling until our throats were sore, and getting no response from the ferryman, we were about at our wit's end to know what to do. There we were, middle way the river, and neither of us could swim. Our partner, suffering from neuralgia and rheumatism, was afraid to get his feet damp, so the NEWS man, without [illegible] horse took a wrong road, and after driving about a mile we discovered we were in an old timber road, and had to retrace our way back to the main road. Finally we got straight again, and drove into Blocton about 2 a. m, Sunday. After spending a few hours with wife and babies, the NEWS man left Blocton at 11 o'clock and reached Montevallo at 6 p. m., tired, hungry and sleepy.

CARD OF THANKS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.,
Oct. 21st, 1897.

MR. EDITOR:

Will you allow us, through the columns of the NEWS, to express our sincere thanks to the noble people of Montevallo for their heroic work in preventing our house being burned this morning?

It seemed to be beyond human power to prevent a house from being burned so near the one which was on fire. But by God's providential interference and an increased energy and a greater effort on the part of the people, our house was saved from the consuming flames.

We shall always feel thankful to our Heavenly Father and to the courageous people who took such an active inteaest in our behalf at a time when help was so much needed.

Yours, with the greatest respect,
C. C. VANDEGRIFT & FAMILY.

WHAT A DOLLAR WILL BUY
—AT THE—
Racket ∴ Store.

1 Ladies' Waist Set,	15
1 pair Men's Socks,	05
1 quire Note Paper,	03
1 pack Envelopes,	04
1 best Lead Pencil,	01
1 pair Men's Suspenders,	17
1 paper Pins,	03
6 balls of Thread.	05
1 spool Coats' Thread.	04
144 Agate Buttons,	05
1 card Bone Collar Buttons,	05
3 boxes Blue Hen Matches,	05
1 pair Bath Towels,	14
12 yards Torchon Lace,	12
1 Day Book,	02
	$1.00

I Do All Kinds of Watch Work

I will clean any Watch for	$1 00
Put in any Mainspring,	1 00
Balance Staffs, any kind,	1 50
Case Springs,	50 cents.
Crystals,	15 to 50 "
Hands, each,	15 "

Yours for Bargains,
The Racket,
J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

TO THE PUBLIC.

I take this method of informing the citizens of Montevallo and vicinity that I am now prepared to do all kinds of contract and carpenter work. Satisfaction guaranteed, or no charges made. Before closing any trade call and see me at the store of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. Respectfully,
W. J. RHODES.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
St. George,
ALEX. A. WALL Prop.
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New, and Centrally Located.
☞Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 Per Day.
☞LARGE SAMPLE ROOM FREE.

J. M. REYNOLDS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO. - - - ALA.

CARY & LOVING,
Attorneys at Law,
CENTREVILLE & MONTEVALLO.
Will practice in all the courts of the State.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed!
Have a Practical Workman to Do Your Work!
D. J. MORELAND
Can Repair Anything
From a Bicycle to a Steam Engine!
He Does All Kinds of Wood Work.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
Don't forget that J. D. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him, Low prices, good work.

DO YOU EAT?
If so, You Need Good Meat.
You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.
WE BUY COUNTRY PRODUCE.
NEWTON & NOLEN.

"Do Unto Others as You Would Have Them Do Unto You," is the difficult motto of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds' Drug Department!
—THERE THEY KEEP—
CLOVES AND SPICE, AND ALL THAT'S NICE.
RUBIFOAM,
LISTERINE!
Rose ∴ Water ∴ and ∴ Glycerine!
MENNEN'S TALCUM POWDER!
Gilt Edge Shoe Polish for Ladies' Shoes!
Bromo-Quinine!
Permanganate of Potash and Others.

If You Are Not Sweet, Get Sweet
By Buying Your CANDIES, FRUITS, NUTS, CAKES, ETC., —FROM—
F. W. ROGAN!
He Keeps Constantly on Hand the Finest Assortment of Fr[illegible]
Candies from the World renowned TENNY.
Peanut Britte and a Fresh Lot of [illegible]
Fancy Candy from 10 to 80 Cents [illegible]
A Well Selected and Assorted Lin[illegible]
THESE GOODS SIMPLY [illegible]
Fresh Bread
Laundry Every
If you are not sweet get sweet h[illegible]

DO YOU WA[illegible]
WELL, WE M[illegible]
BANKS
Hand-made Bricks Are t[illegible]
We do all kin[illegible]

A poor miner in Pennsylvania is said to have fallen heir to $75,000 by the death of an uncle who came to him in the disguise of a tramp and was kindly received. This story reads as though it had been written by some William Whiskers with a fancy for tales of imagination and a desire to have his kind treated well by those whom they would in the future solicit for "handouts."

The first thing the women will do when they get into power will be to enact a law compelling a man to love only one woman at a time.

Ant Pie.

Savages, we know, indulge in such luxuries as grubs and locusts, but for a civilized white man to finish up his dinner with a dish of raw ants seems too nasty to be credible. Yet in Mexico it is the custom—and a custom adopted by plenty of colonists and visitors.

The ant eaten is called the honey ant, and is perhaps as curious an insect as lives. With a tiny head and legs, it has a huge body as big as a large pea, and this is yellow and swollen with excellent honey.

In each nest there are 300 or 400 of these honey ants, which are attended by thousands of others. The honey ants hang on to the roof of the cells in the nest while the others feed them. They are, in fact, living storehouses of winter food. An observer says that if one of the honey ants falls from his perch a worker will go and pick him up and replace him. This is as if a man were to walk up the face of a cliff carrying a large buffalo or cart horse on his back.

Value and Price.

"I suppose, of course, that's a $100 wheel."

"That's what it is."

"How much did you pay for it?"—Chicago Post.

The life of a farmer has often been called a life of drudgery. There is no occupation that has a larger ratio of inspiriting labor to one whose tastes are in harmony with rural life. The weak point in American farming has been the lack of appreciation of the equipments necessary to a successful career. Too many of them have been willing to be thieves of the soil's resources, that they might swell their bank accounts. To the young man or young woman fairly educated there is no more promising field of enterprise.

Prayer and Profanity are all right in their proper places, but have Tetter or Eczema, or Salt-Rheum or Ringworm, better save your breath and buy "Tetterine." 50 cents a box at drug stores, or by mail from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, price 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

Piso's Cure is the medicine to break up children's Coughs and Colds.—MRS. M. G. BLUNT, Prague, Wash., March 6, 1894.

...icted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac ...'s Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c.

...S HUMOR

...rsaparilla and ...ned.
...dous humor, ...nder my ...

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Gang of Box Car Thieves Arrested.

West Jones, Will Jordan, Josh Lee, Russell Banks, Lawrence Thompson and Reuben Jones, six alleged clever colored car thieves, have been landed in the Jefferson county jail.

Yellow Fever at Selma.

Selma is in the throes of the yellow fever scourge. The outcome of Dr. Guiteras' visit to that city is a report that seven cases were under treatment and that the fever has existed in a mild form for three or four weeks.

Ground in the Machinery.

Bone Bagley was caught in the machinery at Hagin's cotton gin, near Markton, twelve miles north of Gadsden, and was literally ground to pieces. When the fragments of flesh and bones were withdrawn from the ginnery they presented a ghastly and sickening sight, the largest member of his body being not larger than an ordinary sized gourd.

A Record Breaker.

The Howard-Harrison Iron Company, at Bessemer, cast its first 72-inch pipe last Saturday. It will be one of an order for twelve for the New Orleans and Northeastern railroad, to be used in culverts. This immense pipe will be the largest in existence, being 72 inches in diameter, 12 feet 6 inches long, 2 inches thick and will weigh ten tons.

Governor Cannot Remove Him.

At Rockford Judge Carmichael rendered his decision in the Moore vs. Nolen case Wednesday in favor of Mr. Moore. This case is the one in which the constitutionality of the law which gave the governor power to remove a tax assessor was assailed, Mr. Moore being the old assessor and the one Governor Johnston removed when Nolen was appointed.

Miners Organizing.

The miners of Alabama will officiate with the United Mine Workers of America, and will at once begin to perfect the organization. A convention of the miners of the Birmingham district was held Friday for the purpose of considering the question of affiliating with the United Mine Workers of America or of maintaining a distinct state organization. A vote was taken which resulted in a victory for the national organization by a majority of 33 votes out of a total of 77 cast.

Camps will be organized and a state convention will be called to perfect a district organization under a charter granted by the United Mine Workers of America. It is estimated that when the organization is perfected 10,000 men will be enrolled.

New Road Is Commenced.

The first dirt on the Atlanta and Selma Air-Line was broken Thursday in the eastern suburbs of Selma with imposing ceremonies. Mayor Meyer and members of the city council, Col. Mitchell, president of the road, and a large number of citizens were present when the first scraper, drawn by four mules, was imbedded into the earth by Mrs. Watkin M. Vaughan, who had been selected as the sponsor for the road. There was speech-making and cheering. Fifty mules and one hundred men were put to work and these will be quadrupled in a few days. When ten miles are graded track will be laid and trains put on. The road will then be pushed through Autauga, ...e, Coosa, Elmore, Tallapoosa, Clay and Randolph counties and on to Atlanta.

Progress of the M. & O. Extension.

A well-known contractor has made the following statement regarding the state of affairs on the construction of the Montgomery & Columbus extension of the Mobile & Ohio: "Over 90 per cent of the grading has been completed. This work will have been completed in three weeks from date. The wood work is also nearly completed. Track-laying is in active progress. They have laid twenty-five miles of rails from Columbus and eight miles from the Montgomery end, thirty-three miles altogether. The track-layers expect to arrive at the Warrior bridge at Tuskaloosa in sixty days, but will be probably later than that at that point. The bridge at Tuskaloosa will not be completed for three months yet. That will be the last work to be done. The road will then be ready to be operated. Contracts for depot buildings, section houses, round houses, etc., were to have ...n let at Tuskaloosa on October ... but letting leans Dr. Purser passed through Birmingham and delivered a sermon at the First Baptist church. He said that he would return to New Orleans if it appeared to him to be his duty to do so. He said he had been a soldier in the war, and he intended to act as a soldier, a man and a Christian, with God's help, in this matter.

He went back to New Orleans, took sick last Saturday, and the rest has been told. He died like the veteran he was—in the midst of the fight.

Dr. David Ingram Purser was born in Copiah county, Miss., December 24, 1843. He went to the front on the Confederate side when the war broke out with the "Seven Stars Artillery," and participated in seventeen engagements. His war record was a brilliant one. He began to preach the gospel actively in 1870, and served as missionary between Port Gibson and Natchez, and after at Crystal Springs and Wesson, Miss. Subsequently he did evangelistic work all the way from New Orleans to St. Louis.

Briefly Noted.

W. R. W. Cobb has been appointed postmaster at Gurley, and Byron Trammell postmaster at Five Points.

The little step-daughter of T. A. Christian, of Wiley, was choked to death the past week by swallowing a persimmon.

Work has commenced on the rebuilding of the Anniston Pipe & Foundry Company's plant, which was recently burned.

Opelika has progressed more this year than any one year in its history. It is estimated that over $90,000 has been spent for new residences alone.

Milton Clark, a good old negro, was killed by his son, Milton Clark, Jr., near Montgrmery last week. They disputed over the ownership of land.

The wages of the miners employed in the America mines have been advanced 2½ cents. The America mines are located in Walker county, and employ about 250 men.

The president has appointed the following postmasters for Alabama: Bloc ton, Newton L. Wilson; Brewton, Nicholas G. Schad; Ozark, S. D. Clark; Pratt City, Andrew J. Prince.

The state quarantine officers were instructed Saturday night not to let any passengers from Selma stop in Alabama. Since the quarantine against Selma the trains over the Southern have been discontinued. There are no trains to Montgomery or Memphis.

A rigid quarantine is maintained by Selma against Mobile and Montgomery, by reason of which the Mobile and Birmingham and Western of Alabama railroads have abondoned their train service.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Alabama Baptist Convention in Selma the annual meeting of that body, called at East Lake for November 12, was postponed on account of quarantine regulations.

A. W. Coleman, a white brakeman on the Central of Georgia railway, attempted to couple two cars Thursday morning. The drawheads broke and he was badly mashed and may not recover.

CAR ROBBERS SENTENCED.

The Dalton Gang, Merchants and All, Must Pay the Penalty.

The most remarkable car robbery case on record in the south came to an end at Dalton, Ga., Saturday in the superior court, Judge Alonzo Fite presiding.

During the past three weeks eighteen robbers charged with systematically looting cars on the Southern railway, extending over a period of five years have been tried and found guilty. The ringleader, Walter Bohannon, was convicted in five cases and was sentenced by the court to ten years in the penitentiary. His gang, Tom Kineman, Ben Pearce, Sam Painter, Lute White, Bill Long and Ed Morris, the latter colored, received sentences from three years to one year.

The merchants convicted of receiving stolen goods from the robbers are as follows, all prominent in business and social circles in Dalton and North Georgia:

C. M. Cannon, T. P. J. Peeples, J. H. Bender, Anderson Giddens, Clee Combee, G. W. Haron, W. B. McCarson, J. Kirkefarrar, Ed Roberts and Jesse Langston. The court sentenced all these merchants to pay fines ranging according to their ability to pay from $1,000 down to $25 and one year on the chain gang, the latter sentence to be suspended on payment of the fines and costs.

NO SILVER.

Great Britain Refuses to Enter Into a Monetary Conference.

Lord Salisbury has sent to Ambassador ...ay the reply of the British ... of the

THE JOKERS' BUDGET.

OBLIGING HIM.

"I want a dollar, Jones, and I want it bad."

"All right. Here's a counterfeit."

WORSE.

Mrs. Klondike—And did the landlord press you for money?

Tramp—No'm. He stomped on me, mum.

IMPORTED OR NATIVE.

Facetious Customer—Bring me a couple of links of dog.

Obliging Waiter—Certainly, sir; Dachshund or mongrel?

DISSATISFIED.

"When did she first seem to become dissatisfied with your present?"

"When she accidentally ran across the price mark."

A POPULAR YOUNG MAN.

Miss Laura—Do you believe, Mr. Litehed, that stolen kisses are sweetest?

Chollie—Aw, weally, I don't know. I've never had to steal any yet.

MAKING PROGRESS.

"So you proposed to her," said Willie Wishington's friend.

"Yes."

"Did she give you any encouragement?"

"Some. She didn't laugh."

HAD HIS TROUBLES.

"Dear heart!" he protested.

He pressed his hand nervously to his brow.

"Give me liver," he exclaimed, abruptly, for he had but seven cents.

SELFISH.

"Why do prosperous men always say that the ladder of success is made up of broken rounds?"

"Well—they do it so that other fellows won't try to crawl up after them."

GREAT DEMAND.

"That Miss Goldrick seems to be awfully popular with the young men."

"Popular is no name for it. Why, do you know her father has actually got out a printed form of declination of offers for her hand?"

A PUZZLED YOUNGSTER.

Willie—Ma, can people leave parts of themselves in different places?

Ma—No; don't be ridiculous.

Willie—Well, Mr. Jiggs said he was going to Arizona for his lungs.

BY THE BOTTLE.

Ethel—Who was that man you just bowed to?

Penelope—That was Dobson, the great composer.

Ethel—A composer, did you say?

Penelope—Yes. He manufactures soothing syrup.

NO POSSIBLE DANGER.

"What do you consider the most absolutely certain way to distinguish toadstools from mushrooms?"

"Cook them, get some other man to eat them, and then watch his symptoms."

A RULE OF RECOGNITION.

"I can tell everything that man writes," remarked the discerning citizen.

"How?"

"If it's poetry he begins each sentence with 'O,' and if it's prose he begins it with 'I.'"

AN EXAMPLE.

"It's the man who persists as'll rise in the world," remarked Mr. Rafferty, sententiously.

"Thrue fur yez," replied Mr. Dolan. "An' fur proof Oi kin point till the tombstone iv a fri'nd thot persisted in thawin' dynamite be a shtove."

AND SO IT GOES.

"This article, 'How to Keep Well,' is not completed," said the editor-in-chief.

"No, sir; the editor of the Health Column took some lobster last night, and he hasn't been able to work today," replied his assistant.

ANSWERED.

"What are the "Powers' of Europe?" inquired the very young woman.

The veteran diplomat looked at her thoughtfully and then replied:

"For a long time past they hav been chiefly conversational Powers."

FULLY APPRECIATED.

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the enthusiastic tourist from Boston, as the steamer came in full sight of the fortress of Gibraltar.

"It is great," asserted the equally enthusiastic tourist from Chicago; "I wonder what the British Government would take to let that rock be used for advertising purposes."

CAUSE FOR REJOICING.

Sunday School Teacher: And when the prodigal son returned home his father fell upon his neck and blessed him. Why did he do that?

Scholar: 'Cause he was so glad to think he didn't come back with a wife and family, I s'pose.

NO RECOMMENDATION.

"Did you buy that horse Skeemer wanted to sell you?"

"No, sir-ee! Afraid of him."

Persons afflicted with blackheads should scrub the face with hot water and castile soap nightly, and avoid all greasy or fatty foods, rich soups, cake, pastry, pie, pork, salted meats, rich desserts, butter to excess, cheese, sausage, cocoa and chocolate, and, above all, intoxicants.

The following is an excellent specific for weak and irritable nerves, taken before meals: One teaspoonful of tincture of calumba, in water, and after meals take one teaspoonful, in water, of this mixture: Bromide of soda, four drams; tincture of nux vomica, four drams; compound tincture of lavender up to three ounces.

One of the severest penalties to which criminals in Holland were in ancient times condemned was to be deprived of the use of salt.

IT IS TIME

To cast aside your summer garments and put on heavier clothing . . .

A complete line of

WEARING APPAREL

For men and boys in all departments. . . . . .

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave.
Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., NASHVILLE, TENN.

EXPERT REPAIRING.
DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.
The LOOSLEY CYCLE COMPANY

Manufacturers of the Celebrated . . "BIRMINGHAM." Offer the facilities of their factory and the intelligence of their expert workmen when you need repairing of any kind on your bike. Write for catalogue and prices.

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

H. F. BRAMMER MFG. CO., Davenport, Iowa.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

Prevents the hair from falling out, and makes a new growth come in. You save what you have and get more. No gray hair.

Alabama Marries Mississippi

Mrs. Mary Haywood

Oxford, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 25 years. I know it cures Dizziness of Head, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, and many other diseases. I tried "Thedford's Black Draught," but did not find it to be half as good as the M. A. Simmons Medicine.

Leucorrhœa—"Whites."

This is a disorder from which few women escape at some period of their lives. It is in the nature of nasal catarrh. In a healthy condition the lining membrane of the genital organs secretes sufficient mucus to moisten them, but if the mucus membrane is congested or inflamed, the secretion becomes profuse, irritating and offensive. The best results will follow the use of our Mexican Female Remedy as an injection, and a dose twice a day for some time of that great uterine tonic, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine, will cure the complaint.

G. W. Irby

Energy, Miss., writes: M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine has been used 20 years in my Father's family for Nervousness, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Biliousness. My Sister was confined to bed for months from Enlargement of Liver. Our Doctor gave her up to die. She began taking M. A. S. L. M. and was soon entirely well. There is no just comparison between M. A. S. L. M. and Zeilin's Liver Regulator. The latter by careful test having been found not so reliable has been discarded.

Menstrual Irregularities.

Puberty is the period when menstruation is established. It is the time when the girl becomes a woman, and also the time from which many female diseases date. The menstrual flow usually continues from three to six days and comes on about every twenty-eight days. The quantity exuded varies from two to eight ounces, but the amount consistent with the health of one person may be excessive and weakening in another. The function is regarded as being regular when its effect upon the system is favorable. The departures from healthy menstruation are numerous and should be corrected by using Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE
AND BUYERS' GUIDE
FALL AND WINTER
1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED
If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
The Great Mail Order House
111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

Are You Thinking of Buying a COTTON SEED MILL?

If so, it will pay you before doing so to investigate the ENTERPRISE MILL

It is the CHEAPEST, the SIMPLEST and most PRACTICABLE mill for plantation use on the market. Its grinding parts are made of tool steel and are regulated by a steel spring so as to prevent breakage when rocks, nails and other foreign substances are fed in with seed. It is guaranteed to grind cotton seed and to separate meal from hulls. Send for descriptive catalogue.

PERRYMAN & CO., Birmingham, Ala.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s
Breakfast COCOA

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

Trade-Mark.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DOCTOR

By J. Hamilton Ayers, A. M., M. D.

...this most V... for ... does

MONTEVALLO NEW

VOL. II. MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1897.

A writer in a magazine has made the prophecy that in 300 years from now the world will know only three languages—English, Russian and Chinese. The English language will be spoken all over North and South America, in Australia, India, Africa, New Zealand and the islands of Australia and the Pacific. The Russian tongue will have conquered all Europe except Great Britain, and all Asia except India. Chinese will hold sway over the rest of the world.

The commissioners in charge of the construction of the new State Capitol of Minnesota have, after several weeks' consideration, decided to build the superstructure out of Georgia marble, announces the Atlanta Journal. The edifice is to cost over a million. When Georgia built her million dollar Capitol, she went to Indiana for the stone. This shows just how far Minnesota is ahead of Georgia when it comes to selecting building stone and how far Georgia is ahead of all other States in producing it.

It is probably the general impression that posters and handbills are modern inventions, but it has just been discovered that the ancient Romans practised this method of advertising. In digging at Herculaneum there was brought to light a pillar covered with bills, one on top of another. The paste used to stick them was made of gum arabic. The bills, when separated and examined, were found to be programmes and announcements of public meetings, and even election proclamations.

The Militar Wochenblatt laments the slackness of the German people in supporting their navy. There are only thirty-four German warships, against England's 226, and to bring Germany up to the proper naval level at least 150 armorclads and cruisers are wanted. German marine trade has so increased within the last few decades that her interests are spread all over the world. There are 100,000 Germans on the West Coast of South America and in Central America, yet no German warships have appeared there since 1891. Whilst Frenchmen pay a sum about equal to $5 for the army and navy yearly, and the Englishmen about $4, the Germans pay about $3, of which only something less than a sum equal to fifty cents goes to the navy.

Maternal love cannot always be that holy thing people generally consider it. A curious proof of the fact comes from Stafford Springs, Conn. A landlord there, thinking to compliment the wife of one of his Italian tenants, told her he wouldn't think of offering her less than his prize-winning brown Leghorn rooster in exchange for such a charming child as the babe of ten months she was carrying in her arms. Two days later the woman called at the landlord's house, demanded the rooster in exchange for her child, and would not be put off until the landlord bribed her with a barrel of apples to call the trade off.

William Spohn Baker, who has just died in Philadelphia, was the owner of a collection of Washingtoniana that many judges pronounced the most complete in existence. It consists of engraved portraits and biographies of Washington, together with boo[k]s on Washi[ng]ton[s],"

GEORGE DEAD.

The Noted Single-Taxer Passes Suddenly Away.

BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

At the Time of His Death He was Candidate for Mayor of Greater New York on the United Democracy Ticket—His Son's Name Substituted for Mayor.

Henry George, the candidate of the Jeffersonian democracy for mayor of Greater New York, died Friday. His death is thought to have been due to apoplexy.

Mr. George had just returned to the Union Square Hotel from several large mass meetings in the Borough of Queens and Brooklyn.

The work of the night seemed to have told on him. He complained of being tired, but his friends and relatives, who awaited him, thought it was only the natural fatigue due that follows such hard campaign work as Mr. George had been doing. Not long after reaching the hotel he retired. It was about 3:30 o'clock when Mrs. George was awakened. She found Mr. George sitting in an arm chair.

Mrs. George at once grew anxious as to her husband's condition. Mr. George gradually grew incoherent and lapsed into unconsciousness.

A call was sent to a physician, and he came without delay. Mr. George was still unconscious. All efforts to revive him failed. Without a sign of recognition to those around him he passed peacefully away at 4:45 o'clock.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Henry George, political economist, was born in Philadelphia September 2, 1839. He attended the public schools until 14 years old, learned the printer's trade, went to sea, and settled in California in 1858. He worked at his trade in a newspaper office until 1866, then changed to a reporter, rose to be editor, and became part proprietor. While editor of the Sacramento Reporter he was in harmony with the democratic party, but bitterly opposed to the railroad and other monopolies of the state.

Shortly afterward he entered upon literary work, his first publication, on land-ownership, was Our Land and Land Policy. The attention which this attracted led him to a very detailed and laborious investigation into the causes of industrial depressions and the increase of want with the increase of wealth. In 1879 he published the results of his investigations under the title of Progress and Poverty, and in August, 1880, removed to New York. His books gained an immediate and wide reputation, and within a few weeks after his arrival in New York he was in receipt of requests from all parts of the country to give public expositions of his theories. He then went to Ireland to study the land question. While abroad he lectured throughout England, Scotland and Ireland. Returning to New York and resuming lecturing, his views were adopted by the United Labor party, which made him its candidate for mayor of the city in 1886. He received 68,110 votes against 90,552 for Abram S. Hewitt, democrat, and 60,435, for Theodore Roosevelt, republican.

In 1887 he was nominated by the same party for secretary of state, but was defeated.

His sixth book, Protection or Free Trade, was published in 1886, and The Condition of Labor: An Open Letter to Pope Leo XIII., 1891.

At the time of his death Mr. G[eorge] was a candidate for mayo[r] York, having received [the] tions of the silver D[emo]lites, single ta[x]

MUST TAKE WHAT'S LEFT.

Southern Looms Are Destined to Make the Cotton Goods.

At Thursday's session of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association, held in Philadelphia, a large number of technical papers were read. One of the most important papers was by Arthur Parkinson, of Previdence, R. I., on the "Manufacture and Export of Cotton Goods," during which he said:

"It is well known that Southern manufacturers, with the present conditions, can undersell or compete easily with the Eastern mills on medium and coarse fabrics and the future looks dark for New England. The facilities of manufacturers have been so increased that in many lines of goods the existing manufacturing establishments can produce a vast amount more than the United States can consume, and it seems likely each year will cause stagnation for the industry, and, of course, the usual stoppages of the mills during certain periods. As a result of this continued competition in certain lines of goods for the home market, the prices are low, wages are low and tariff legislation cannot help matters for the merchant. The jobber is bound to buy in the cheapest market, and that means Southern looms will be engaged ahead and the New England mills must take what is left."

PULLMAN'S WILL PROBATED.

Two Sons Get But a Small Share—Charible Institutions are Remembered.

The will of George M. Pullman was filed for probate last Thursday. To his widow he left the homestead on Prarie avenue. Sufficient funds are also set aside to provide her with an income of $50,000 yearly during her life. One million dollars each is left in trust for his two daughters, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, of Chicago, and Mrs. Carolan, of San Francisco. An income of but $3,000 yearly is provided for his two sons, George M. Jr. and Sanger W.

About $150,000 in sums of $10,000 and $20,000 is left to various charitable institutions in Chicago. A sum of $200,000 is given for the erection of a manual training school in Pullman, which is also endowed with $1,200,000. Five old employees are give $5,000 each. Two sisters and two brothers of the dead millionaire are given $50,000 each and another brother gets $25,000.

The total value of the estate is shown by the petition for letters testamentary $7,600,000. Of this amount $6,800,000 is personal property and $800,000 realty.

How They Stand in Georgia.

According to the report of Judge Turner, principal keeper of the Georgia state penitentiary, there are a goodly number of farmers in tho state prison, but only two newspaper men—one reporter and one printer. There are 975 laborers and 863 farmers in the penitentiary. Of the other occupations, none are represented by over 100. Carpenters come next, with 28, and brickmasons next, with 27. There are 24 painters and 21 cooks, 18 sailors and 15 coachmen. Eleven merchants are doing penal service, but the prison walls enclose but 2 newspaper men—1 reporter and 1 printer—while the school teachers show up with 5 convicts, and, strange to say, the preachers are represented by 2 zebra-striped workers. There are 58 women in the penitentiary.

Mississippi Isolated.

Mississippi h[as] s[truck] the final blow against railr[oad] tion in that state so l[ong] fever epidemi[c] it maintinst adns are from zen is- y

NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events of the Day Epitomized.

A TOWN WASHED AWAY.

A Son Born to Ex-President Cleveland—Peruvian Cabinet Resigns—Louis Redwine Pardoned—Presidential Appointments—Weyler Leaves Cuba.

The Georgia legislature convened last Wednesday.

The Tennessee Centennial closed Saturday night.

The dutchess of Teck, cousin of Queen Victoria, died last week.

Wm. J. Bryan is making a number of speeches in the Ohio campaign.

Wheat is again on the rise, the price having advanced 3 3-4c. the past week.

Heavy frosts fell in Northern Texas and Indian Territory Friday morning.

Hon. Harry C. Truesdell, chief justice of Arizona, died at Phoenix last week.

A freight train ran over and killed Mrs. H. C. Adgate Thursday near Monticello, Ga.

A son was born to the household of Grover Cleveland, the former president of the United States, last Thursday.

General Weyler left Havana Saturday for Madrid accompanied only by his general staff officers and aides de camp.

The Georgia legislature has passed a bill to prevent the hunting or catching of opossums between March 1 and October 1.

At Wilkesbarre, Pa., the grand jury yesterday returned a true bill against Sheriff Martin and his deputies for the Latimer shooting.

Floods have washed away every building in the town of Ahumada, State of Chihuahua, Mexico. The town has a population of 1,200 persons.

Rev. J. L. Burdine, a Baptist preacher at Fickens, S. C., shot and killed his wife and then himself. It is said he was just getting off a spree.

Hiram Gilbert Hotchkiss, president of the H. G. Hotchkiss International Prize Medal Essential Oil Company, and known as the "peppermint oil king," died at Lyons, N. Y., last week, aged 87 years.

A special from Lima says that the Peruvian cabinet has resigned because of the effort of the chamber of deputies to pass a vote of censure. President Pierola has refused to accept their resignation.

The president has appointed Gen. James Longstreet, of Georgia, commissioner of railroads, vice Wade Hampton, resigned, and Meflin W. Gibbs, of Arkansas, a negro, consul at Tamative, Madagascar.

Mrs. Helen Densmore, of California, and London, who has been actively engaged in Mrs. Florence Maybrick's case for four years, for the first time expresses hope that the unfortunate woman will soon be at liberty.

The president has pardoned Louis Redwine, now in the Columbus, O., penitentiary, and convicted in Atlanta six years ago for complicity in the loss of funds in the failure of a national bank. His term would expire November 4.

States Attorney Deneen, of Illinois, has arranged to place the second Luetgert trial on the docket for Monday, November 8. If more time is desired by the defense they will have to secure it by making a formal request for a continuance.

Fire in St. Louis last Wednesday destroyed the white stone building occupied by the general offices of the Wabash railroad. The fire was caused by a lighted cigarette carelessly dropped by a clerk. The estimated loss of the company is $500,000.

Edward A. Scholeder, of Otter [C]reek, Ia., who threatened to emulate [Z]teau if the executive refused [to] cure for him certain rights to [w]he claims to have been wrong-

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Fever at Prattville.

There was one death from yell[ow] fever at Prattville Saturday. Th[ere] are no new cases.

Supreme Court Convenes This Week.

The supreme court of Alabama [will] convene in Mongomery Novembe[r] despite the fact that yellow fever prevalent in that city.

Alone in the World.

Centreville citizens served notic[e] the postmistress there not to rec[eive] the mail from the horseback carri[er] who brings it from Randolph, on Selma branch of the Southern railw[ay] and people of that town are hea[r] nothing from the outside world.

Senator Morgan Improving.

United States Senator John Morgan who is in San Diego, Cal. slowly regaining his strength. He been free from fever for over thi six hours, but must remain quiet some days yet. His trouble is du[e] an injury to his knee which he rec[eiv]ed while in Hawaii.

To Operate Gold Mines.

The Alabama-King Mining comp[any] has been reorganized with a capit[al] $100,000 and headquarters in Atla[nta] This company will mine for gol[d] Jackson's Gap, Tallapoosa cou[nty] where it owns the Bonner-Terrell p[ro]erties, containing 200 acres. T[he] development shafts have been sunk several open cuts have been m[ade] Assays of the ore have run as hig[h] $80 per ton.

Selma People Encouraged.

The yellow fever situasion at S[elma] continues to improve. There been no new cases for several d[ays] and all fever patients have been charged. There is not a serious of sickness of any kind in the city. fact, the health of the city was n[ever] better. Quarantine restrictions ag[ainst] all infected localities have been established. Dr. Mullins offers a ward of $1,000 for a trace of ye[llow] fever in Selma, and says there has b[een] none there since 1853.

Removing to Anniston.

The machinery of the United S[tates] Rolling Stock company's plant at [De]catur is being moved to Anni[ston] where it will be combined with company's plant there. It is cla[imed] the removal will cost the com[pany] dear, as they are under an iron contract with the Decatur Land [Com]pany not to move any of the p[lant] An attempt was made some time [ago] to remove it, but it was stopped b[y] junction. Since then the com[pany] made a heavy bond and is now g[oing] ahead doing the thing they were joined not to do.

Harsh Words Produced Death.

Last week at Huntsville Bert Hu[ghes] noticed that his 3-year-old dau[ghter] had her grand-mother's snuff box instructed her to put it away. A[s] in executing his specific reques[t] ered the father, and giving aw[ay] is temper he scolded the child violent manner. From a playful happy expression the child's fac[e] came livid with conflicting emot[ions] her eyes suddenly gave forth a r[ay] ngless stare, and it reeled to the nsensible. Efforts at resuscit[ate] were fruitless, and a physicia[n] summoned, but the child died after his arrival.

Fatal Accident at Gate City.

An accident at the Alabama r[iver] mills at Gate City Thursday mo[rning] resulted in the death of Lindsey kins and William Washington, negroes. A big band wheel i[n] guide mill burst while going at th[e] of one hundred revolutions per m[inute] smashing another wheel nearby ing down rafters about the bu[ilding] and flinging heavy pieces of iron directions. One piece of the over 1,000 pounds in weight thrown into the yard where L[ee] Dorkins and Wm. Washingto[n]

TOWN GIRLS' LITERARY CLUB.

We, the young ladies of the A. P. I. who board in town, met Friday afternoon, October 29th, in the college chapel for the purpose of organizing a literary society.

With the assistance of Mrs. Babb and Miss Stalworth, acting president and secretary pro tem, respectively, we very successfully organized with fifty-three members, cheerfully accepting as a motto this little quotation of Rory O'More, "There is luck in odd numbers."

The following young ladies were elected as officers:

Miss Wilma Saunders, – President.
" Katie Campbell. Vice "
" Neill Chandler, – Secretary.
" Sallie Fuller, – – Treasurer
" Lucile Wilkinson, – Scientist.
" Dora Fondey, – – Bookist.
" Etta Davis, – – Reporter.
" Annie Whitten, – Musician.
" Irene Langley, – – Critic.

The executive committee met on Monday afternoon and selected for the first subject our own beloved State, "Alabama," which, through the medium of this school, is doing so much for the young ladies of the state.

The faculty was unanimously elected to honorary membership.

The society will hold its regular meetings every Saturday evening in the college chapel.

There being no further business before the society, we adjourned.

SECRETARY.

The Hicks 1898 Almanac and Paper.

We are informed that the 1898 Almanac of Prof. Irl R. Hicks is now ready, and judging from its past history, it will not be many weeks in finding its way into homes and offices all over America. It is much larger and finer than any previous one. It contains 116 pages, is splendidly printed and illustrated on fine book paper, having the finest portrait ever given of Prof. Hicks. It will no longer be denied that the publications of Prof Hicks have become a necessity to the family and commercial life of this country. His annual, "Word and Works," aside from its storm, weather and astrological features, has taken rank with the best literary, scientific and family magazines of the age. Do not believe hearsay and reports. See Hicks Almanac and paper for yourself. You will then know why they are so popular. They are educators of the millions, and unrivaled safeguards to property and human life. It is matter of simple record that Prof. Hicks has foretold for years all great storms, floods, cyclones and tornadoes, even the recent terrible drouth over all the country. The Almanac alone is 25 cents per copy. The paper is $1.00 a year and the Almanac as a premium. Address

WORD AND WORKS PUB. CO.,
2801 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

BLOCTON ITEMS.

Reynolds visited Birmingham today.

J F Curtis visited Birmingham last week.

Will Sims visited home folk Sunday.

Sheriff Vance called to see us a few days ago.

Jeff West, of Calera, is in the city for a few days.

The circuit court was postponed on account of yellow fever.

W D Thomas is in Birmingham attending U S Court.

County George Smith, of Centreville, is in town Tuesday.

S Ambrose, of Bismark, is visiting relatives in our town.

Dan Monroe, of Birmingham, visited Mr Burgess Little, cashier Shelby County Bank, visited home folk last Sunday.

Rev J M McCord preached his farewell sermon at the Baptist church Sunday night.

We had a nice rain on Sunday, which did away with all the dust. Now we want a frost.

The board of health met Saturday night and decided to raise the quarantine, so visitors can come in.

Married, at Belle Ellen, on Thursday night, October 28th, Mr James Fancher and Miss Josie Hudgins.

Rev Dr Whitten preached a most powerful sermon on education at the Methodist church Sunday night.

Somebody had gaul enough to start a barber shop in Col M Sims' back yard by placing their sign there.

Hon Oscar W Underwood, M C, was a pleasant visitor to our town last week. He was enroute to Centreville.

Mr and Mrs S J Morgan returned from their Eastern bridal tour Sunday. They will make their future home in Blocton.

John Morrison has a first-class grist mill, also a blacksmith shop, and can do all kinds of repair work on short notice.

Quite a crowd of young people from our town attended the meeting at Mt Moriah Sunday, and all had to drive back in the rain.

Don't fail to bring your cotton to Blocton. We will pay you more for it than any merchants in Alabama. H C & W B Reynolds.

Married, at the residence of J W Piper, on last Wednesday evening, Mr William Redd and Miss Mattie Harvin. We wish them success on the sea of life.

Rev J M McCord, pastor of the First Baptist church at this place, has resigned, and Rev M P Reynolds of Montevallo, will probably take charge of the church.

Deputy Sheriff A P Davidson arrested a negro named Jud James near Green Pond last Friday who was wanted in Jefferson county for burglarizing railroad cars.

Do your banking business with the Shelby County Bank. All parties living in Blocton can transact their business with the president, William Walker, near postoffice.

We are the largest cash buyers of dry goods, groceries and furniture in Alabama, and will save you money on anything in the dry goods or furniture line. H C & W B Reynolds.

News reached this office Monday of the burning of the school house at Six Mile Saturday night. From all indications the house must have been set on fire. All of the school furniture was lost except the piano.

Coffins are something none of us want until we have to have them, and for the benefit of those who have to buy them, we will guarantee to sell them from 10 to 25 per cent cheaper than any house in Alabama. This guarantee is backed up by the well-known firm of H C & W B Reynolds.

WANTED ACENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

KEEP STEP!
DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES
TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE
$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address
The Advertiser Co
MONTGOMERY, ALA.

B.B.B. Always Cures.
.....Botanic Blood Balm

The Great Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Eating and Spreading Sores, Eruptions, and all SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES. Made from the prescription of an eminent physician who used it with marvelous success for 40 years, and its continued use for fifteen years by thousands of grateful people has demonstrated that it is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new rich blood, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties.

WRITE FOR BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent freight paid by BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

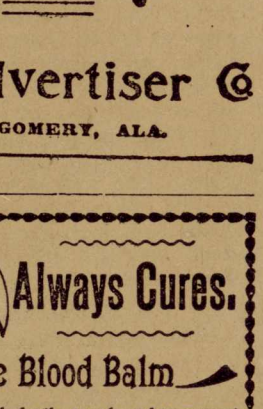
THE DICTIONARY HOLDER

Did you ever learn what fabulous results grow out of the manufacture by Mr. Meyer of an ornamental stand to hold the dictionary? The story reads like a fairy tale, but to tell it one must ask another question: Have you ever noticed the advertisement of the Aermotor Company, which starts out as follows:

45 sold in '88
2,200 sold in '89
6,268 sold in '90
20,040 sold in '91
60,000 will be sold in '92

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. Do These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-reaching, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Own the Country."

Yet that extraordinary growth of business with which it was built up until it is the third largest user of steel in the West (and only exceeded by two of the great Harvester companies) was wholly furnished by the Dictionary Holder business. This brings us back to the Holder, and suggests inquiry as to how it took and held and still holds the field, increasing rapidly from year to year.



The secret of that success is that Mr. Meyer has made a most perfect, artistic, attractive article, and has maintained a high standard of excellence and reduced the article to a low price. The merit of these Dictionary Holders has been so great that they literally sold themselves, and in numerous instances that a small portion of each one has made the result above mentioned.

They have gone to nearly every habitable portion of the globe, even to the remote islands of the sea, and are kept by all dealers.

TEXAS!
THE QUEEN IS TEXAS

LOOK OUT FOR

MORGAN BROS.

They will tell you something in this space next week.

Come and See Them!

They Will Save You Money!

Directory.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor—preaching every second and fourth Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. W. Lyman, Supt. Prayermeeting every Wednesday night at 7.30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 P.M. Ladies Aid Society meets at 4 P. M. on Monday after the 2d and 4th Sunday.

METHODIST —Rev. L. P. Abernathy, pastor Preaching every first and third Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., S. H. McCauly, Supt. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 P.M

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A F & A M—Meets on Saturday nights before first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W, M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. Meets every 2d and 4th Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in every month. GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

Rates of Subcription.

One year, cash in advance,.....$1.00
Six mouths, cash in advance,.....50
Three months, cash in advance,.....25

Local.

Another heavy frost Wednesday morning.

The dormitory is well protected from fire.

Mr. D. B. Lacey, of Maylene, was in town to-day.

Mr. J. H. Harris, of Imogene, was in town Tuesday.

We would like to know what became of that eagle.

WANTED—A pair of good mules. Apply at NEWS office.

Cashier Little visited his best girl at Blocton Sunday night.

Col. J. L. Peters, of Columbiana, was in town yesterday.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Newton & Nolen are doing a land office business at their market.

Brother Farrington is kept busy attending to his large family.

The college has twenty-four sewing machines—twelve new ones.

The editor has had his upper lip cleaned off. Have you noticed it?

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Marching in double file. the girls will reach over a quarter of a mile.

Charleton Smith, of Brierfield, was in town Tuesday and gave us a call.

Our people can rest easy about yellow fever—cold weather has arrived.

Mr. Sam Curry, one of our most successful farmers, was in town Tuesday.

Messrs. W. E Harrison and F. J. Kroell went to Wilsonville Monday on business.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

There are twelve new pianos at the college this session—making a total of thirty.

Ask the junior partner of the White Elephant what a goo-goo is. He can tell you.

Mr. James Vest, of Columbiana, is spending a few days in Montevallo this week.

dam M. Myatt, representing Marx, Birmingham, was day.

has been turned on at , which makes it very e girls.

Messrs. W. E. Lovelady and W. A, Lucas, of Dogwood, were in town Monday.

There are 223 girls learning dressmaking at the Industrial School. Sensible girls.

Six new typewriters have just been received at the college, making fourteen in all.

Mr. Sam Farrington is very well. You would think so if you could see him firing the furnace.

Bob and Will Evans, the hustling janitors at the college, are kept busy making fires these cold days.

By calling at the NEWS office you will learn a secret.

163 pupils are taking music at the Polytechnical institute. You can have all the music you are looking for.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man that can fix you when you need fixing. He is a fine workman.

We are glod to learn that little Raymond Savage, who has been quite sick for several days, is improving.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Mr. W. L. Ambrose, of Blocton, was in town last week looking for a strayed or stolen mule. He didn't find it, though.

Morgan Bros. are the up to-date people. Read their new advertisement in this issue. will pay you to visit their store.

$88 00 a session it costs to attend the Industrial School. This is the cheapest school, as well as the best, in the State.

Mr, Joe Smith, of Blocton, who is State quarantine officer between Birmingham and Montevallo, spent Saturday in town.

Messrs. W. B. Reynolds and W. S. Cary spent a few days on the river fishing, this week. We learn they had good luck.

We regret to learn that Miss Alvisson, one of the boarders at the dormitory. is quite sick. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Alex. Wall, proprietor of the St. George hotel, has our thanks for the finely flavored Havana cigars presented this office Tuesday.

This space should be occupied by a friend of ours who don't advertise. If you will guess who he is we will tell you something of interest.

It has not been found necessary to punish a single pupil in the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo during the month of October. A fine record, that.

Quite an excitement was caused Monday night by the alarm of fire, but it proved to be only soot burning in a chimney at the residence of Mr. Theo Allen.

Mr. W. P. Ryan and Dr. Henry Harrison, of Dogwood, were in town Saturday, and gave us a pleasant call. The doctor left a subscription with us before leaving town.

When you are hungry and want a square meal, call at the White Elephant restaurant, on Main street. Newton & Nolen are the people, and can serve you on short notice.

Editor C. N. Whittaker, of the Sunny Southland, Calera, was in town Saturday, and gave the NEWS office a pleasant call. Come again, brother, you are always welcome.

Rain commenced falling Sunday morning and continued until Monday noon. In the afternoon the wind shifted around to the northwest, and fires were very acceptable before night.

President Reynolds receives many letters from ambitious girls who have taken a primary course, but are not able to enter college. Some noble man could do a great deal of good by starting a fund for such girls.

Mr. B. F. Barber, of Brimingham, had the contract for the steam fitting and plumbing work of the college. President Reynolds is well pleased with Mr. Barber's work. In fact, it couldn't have been done any better. Mr. Barber is located at 313 north 20th street, Birmingham.

Call at the NEWS office and learn something of interest.

Mr. Michael Fulgham, an old citizen of Bibb county, happened to a fatal accident at Randolph one day last week. He was standing in front of his team, when a negro came by with a truck wagon, frightening his horses, which ran over him, causing his death in a few hours.

We spent a part of last Thursday in Brierfield While there we visited the normal college. We believe Brierfield will have a good school. They expect a large number of students next term. Dr. Whitfield will please accept our thanks for courtesies shown us while there.

While strolling around town Saturday night, we heard the name Newton mentioned, and stopped, thinking some one had called us, but after listening awhile we soon found out that Newton wasn't as nice a man as he thooght he was. "Would to God some power would Messrs J. H. Holcombe manager of E. E Forbe music house of Birmingham and F. S. Rice, traveling salesman of this territory, were in town today shaking hands with friends. Both are energetic young business men and we wish them success.

One of our young men visited his best girl at Newala Sunday. He rode his wheel. It rained while he was there, and the roads got pretty muddy. He started back about 4:30 p. m., and when he got within about four miles of home he had to abandon his wheel on account of the mud. He said he left it under a farmer's wagon shed. He walked in all right enough, and was wet and muddy when he got home.

News reached Montevallo Sunday afternoon that the male and female academy at Six Mile had burned to the ground Saturday night. We have not been able to get any particulars. We regret to hear of this great loss, and hope the good people of Bibb county will get together and erect a new school building at once. Six Mile Male and Female Academy was one of the oldest institutions of learning in the State. It was known far and wide for its educational qualities, and under the superintendency of Capt. Pratt, who was principal of the school for many years, many noble men and women have gone from its halls, and are today living testimonials of old Six Mile Male and Female Academy.

WHAT A DOLLAR WILL BUY
—AT THE—
Racket :· Store.

1 Ladies' Waist Set,	15
1 pair Men's Socks,	05
1 quire Note Paper,	03
1 pack Envelopes,	04
1 best Lead Pencil,	01
1 pair Men's Suspenders,	17
1 paper Pins,	03
6 balls of Thread.	05
1 spool Coats' Thread,	05
144 Agate Buttons,	05
1 card Bone Collar Buttons,	05
3 boxes Blue Hen Mate	05
1 pair Bath Towels,	14
12 yards T
1 Day Bo

I Do A
I will c
Put in Balanc
Case S
Cryst
Hand

MON

T
I ta
citizer
I am contra factio
Befor me a nolds

Mon
☞S mercia
R
☞LA

J. M
A MONTE

CA

Get Fixed a
Have a Practical W
D. J. M
Can Re
From a Bicycle
He Does All
SATISFACTI
Don't forget that J. D. Morelan
Try him, Low prices, good work.

DO YO
If so, You
You Will Find Everythin
WE BUY C
NE

ALWAYS

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A writer in the current issue of one of the magazines says the average salary of a full professor is $2,000. A full student gets no salary. He gets fired.

Switzerland is importing large numbers of American bicycles. If this thing continues we may presently expect to hear that the Alpine guides have equipped themselves with American wheels.

Clark Geare, of Martinsville, Ind., a war veteran, has just returned $350 of back pension money which he had received on account of physical disability, on the ground that he has recovered his health, and is therefore no longer entitled to a pension. The pension officials say that the case is almost unprecedented.

An enthusiastic church member of Philadelphia has just contributed $1 to the church on his birthday, pledging himself to double the amount on each anniversary of his birth for the rest of his life. If he keeps this pledge and lives long enough the church will have plenty of money, for the amount of his offering on his birthday twenty-five years hence will be something over $16,000,000.

Soldiers, sailors and marines in the active service of the United States are the only persons in the country who can send their mail C. O. D. If their letters are marked "soldier's letter," "sailor's letter," or "marine's letter," as the case may be, and under these words appears the signature of the commanding officer, the postage, but at single rates only, will be collected on delivery.

The vice of intemperance is a hard one to deal with, and in Turkey they have an entirely original way of subduing it. When a society gentleman in the land of the Sultan is found in an intoxicated condition reeling down the street he is taken and given bastinado—a cudgeling; the second and third time he is found in this condition he is chastized, but after the third time he becomes privileged, and is entitled to be carefully taken home by a policeman.

The gradual cooling of the lava which for the last few years has been flowing from the small crater at the foot of the cone of Vesuvius has occasioned an increase of volcanic activity in the central crater, which had become almost obstructed. Now the top of Vesuvius is lighted up every night by the incandescent lava within the crater, while immense pieces are ejected to a great height, accompanied by clouds of steam and ashes. This new activity renders the summit of the mountain difficult to ascend, but the interesting spectacle attracts many visitors.

Wisconsin appears to have a measure of success in the collection of a tax on personal property. A recent compilation of th eassessment roll showed the confessed ownership of 15,574 musical instruments of all [illegible] use over the mountain trails. They are just as serviceable to flounder through the mud and over the boulders of the treacherous trails as would be better horses, and they can be more readily spared if lost.

An American woman in Spain tells this story in the Independent: "Burguete is near one of the mountain passes leading into France, and from its situation is liable to visits from various orders of tramps anxious to avoid the custom-houses along the regular route. One of these gentry happening to pass through the village the day a certain theft had been reported was arrested on suspicion and whipped severely to force a confession. As nothing but a denial could be wrung from him another vagrant was arrested and subjected to the same treatment, with the same result. It was eventually discovered that a small boy, hidden behind the church tower, had been the culprit. There was no redress for the men; they expected none, and would have been incredulous if told they were entitled to any. Amazed at the indifference with which this act of tyranny was received, I expressed my own indignation. 'What would you?' was the reply, with a gesture intended to throw the responsibility of the act upon the world at large. 'They are worthless fellows; doubtless they have done other evil deeds if not this one.'"

THEY SHOOT HORSES.

Profitable Sport Pursuing the Wild Equines in Nevada.

Profitable Sport Pursuing the Wild Equines in Nevada.

The act passed by the last Nevada Legislature authorizing the killing of wild horses throughout the State has developed a profitable industry and camps of hunters have been established at all of the springs and water courses where the bands resort. The hides sell for $2 each and the hair of their manes and tails bring 15 cents a pound. The growth of the latter on the wild equine species is far more profuse than on the tamed animals, a weight of nearly ten pounds of hair being frequently obtained from one carcass.

The first hunters to take the field after the law went into effect realized handsomely, frequently shooting from six to ten a day, but since the slaughter began the animals have come to view man as a relentless foe and as soon as one is sighted or scented by a band they bound away over the hill, plain and canyon at a speed that defies pursuit, never halting while their supposed enemies are in sight or hearing.

The vast plains, hill slopes and valleys in Humboldt County, west of Humboldt River, extending to the Black Rock and Pueblo Mountain ranges on the Oregon and Idaho borders, is a favorite grazing region for wild horses, bands numbering thousands roaming at will over the broad stretches of hill and plain, keeping in fine condition [illegible] sting on [illegible]unch grass, [illegible]exterminated, [illegible]utless herds [illegible]ofore from [illegible]ties as the [illegible] claim the [illegible]s as their [illegible]king cat- [illegible]ndaries. [illegible]e equine [illegible] pounds, [illegible]he wild flowing [illegible]weeping [illegible]venting [illegible]o rarely [illegible]row of [illegible]g, sight [illegible], as the [illegible]be seen [illegible]y when- [illegible]domain. [illegible]hift for [illegible]ded up [illegible]nd soon [illegible]eir cap- [illegible]hter of [illegible]an in- [illegible]erwise [illegible]ion. [illegible]n two [illegible]he heat [illegible]out the [illegible]ns used [illegible]iver oil, [illegible]uch of, [illegible]n, fresh [illegible]uts. [illegible]es that [illegible]cerning [illegible]atment [illegible]mes of [illegible]ts. He [illegible]nuts as [illegible]heir di- [illegible] ladies, [illegible] doctors [illegible]nics till [illegible]t on his [illegible]ncerning [illegible]: "I now [illegible]s. One [illegible]digestive [illegible]d it has [illegible]ut what [illegible]nless it

AMERICAN MUSICAL PRODIGY.

Miss Augusta Cottlow Among the World's Foremost Musicians.

Miss Augusta Cottlow, the American musical prodigy whose home is in Shelbyville, Ill., is said to be one of the foremost musicians in the world. Although not yet out of her studies, she has managed to amaze and delight the leading musicians of Europe with her superb performances on the piano. For the past two years she has been studying under Herr Tappert and Professor Busoni. The latter, when asked by Miss Cottlow for the amount of his charges, replied: "Gussie, there can be no talk of business between artists. You are an artist. Your music delights me. If I can be of any help to you in your career I shall do all in my power for you. You may take my aid as a courtesy from an older artist to a younger one." Miss Cottlow began her musical studies at 3 years of age. At 5 she made her debut in public. From that time she was in demand. At 9 she was placed in charge of Professor Wolfsohn of Chicago and began her studies in harmony and counterpoint under Professor Gleason. She plays the most difficult music from memory. She won New York musicians with her performances of Beethoven's concerto in C, which she played with the Thomas orchestra three years ago. She has lately turned her mind to composition. Her first piece, "A Romanza" for violin and piano, was bought and published in Germany.

MISS AUGUSTA COTTLOW.

The London papers are telling an amusing incident of the Prince of Wales' visit to Canada thirty-seven years ago. On his journey through the provinces a large number of petitions and addresses of welcome were presented to him from every class and society. One address sent by the lumberers and raftsmen of the Ottawa Valley concluded with the words: "Long may you remain Prince of Wales!"

This very doubtful compliment was no slip of the pen, for when the foreman of the raftsmen was questioned on the subject, he declared that the address meant exactly what it said:

"We are perfectly satisfied with the queen, and want her to remain on the throne as long as she can."

In view of the queen's jubilee, this former raftsman, Mr. Alan Manson, wrote the other day to the prince, reminding him of the incident, and received the following reply:

"His royal highness perfectly remembers the incident to which you refer. His royal highness greatly appreciates and thanks you for your kind and loyal sentiments, and he will not fail to make them known to the queen."

An Unfortunate Admission.

Husband (shaving)—"Confound the razor!" Wife—"What's the matter now? You're dreadfully cross-tempered." Husband—"The razor is so abominably dull!" Wife—"Dull? Why, I ripped up an old skirt with it yesterday and it cut beautifully!"—Tid-Bits.

The Minneapolis Journal editorially remarks: "We have just presented an ultimatum to Peru, who owes us $50,000." If Peru knows what is best for her she will lose no time in settling with that Minneapolis editor.

Hungry

The hair is like a plant. What makes the plant fade and wither? Usually lack of necessary nourishment. The reason why Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its normal color, stops hair from falling, and makes it grow, is because it supplies the nourishment the hair needs.

Hair.

UNDERWEAR

Is the most important thing next to man's skin; ours is the kind that does not itch. . .

MAIL ORDERS WITH CASH PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., NASHVILLE, TENN.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

The Great Mail Order House

111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

TENNESSEE'S BEAUTY SPEAKS FOR HER SEX.

Pearl Ogden

Doyle's Station, Tenn., writes: Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine needs no commendation. It speaks for itself. It cures Liver Disorders and breaks up Biliousness and Bilious Colic. I think it is far better than "Thedford's Black Draught."

Menstrual Suppression.

This occurs in early womanhood, especially when the constitution is not strong. It may result from sudden exposure to cold, immersion of the hands and feet in cold water, sitting on the cold ground or damp grass, sedentary habits, confining occupations, continued standing on the feet, irregular hours and forcing the development of the mind at school. Rest is essential and moderate exercise in the open air most beneficial. The bowels should be moved at least once a day by small doses of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, and the restorative effects of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine should be secured by taking regularly a dose three times a day for several weeks.

A. V. Beets

Celina, Tenn., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years for Sick Stomach, Loss of Flesh, Low Spirits. It also cures Liver Disease, Biliousness, Constipated Bowels. It does not gripe, and takes less to operate on me than either "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's," and it has a more thorough and gentle effect, and leaves my system in better condition than either "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's."

General Lassitude.

We are provided with five organs for keeping the blood pure; they are the skin, the kidneys, the liver, the lungs and the bowels. The blood becomes impure for one or both of two reasons:

First, something impure has been put into it; Second, the five excretory organs have not been sufficiently active.

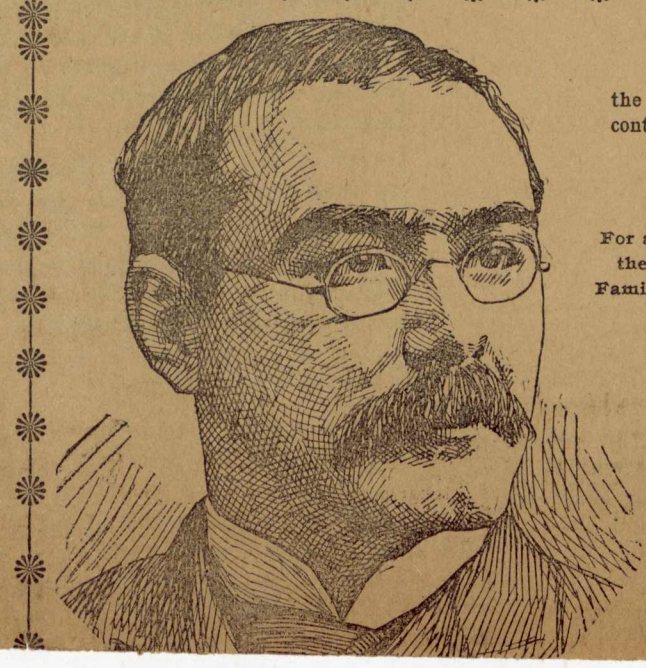
Owing to its complicated formation, the blood is liable to many morbid changes. If any of the organs just mentioned are not in perfect working order, so that impurities are retained, the blood becomes disordered and even diseased. When corrupted, its impurities are absorbed by the tissues, causing eruptions, fevers, lassitude and langour. For restoring the above organs to a healthful condition there is no medicine so effective as Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medi-

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

CHEW STAR TOBACCO--THE BEST. SMOKE SLEDGE CIGARETTES.

JUST THE BOOK YOU WANT to refer to constantly, is our handy CONDENSED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, as it treats upon about every subject under the sun. It contains 520 pages, profusely illustrated, and will be sent, postpaid, for 50c. in stamps, postal note or silver. When reading you doubtless run across references to many matters and things which you do not understand and which this book will clear up for you. It has a complete index, so that it may be referred to easily. This book is a rich mine of valuable information, presented in an interesting manner, and is well worth to any one many times the small sum of FIFTY CENTS which we ask for it. A study of this book will prove of incalculable benefit to those whose education has been neglected, while the volume will also be found of great value to those who cannot readily command the knowledge they have acquired. BOOK PUBLISHING HOUSE, 134 Leonard St., N. Y. City.

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR 50c.



Rudyard Kipling,

the famous story-writer, is only one of many celebrated contributors engaged to write for the next volume of

The Youth's Companion

For all the Family. 52 Times A Year.

To show the varied strength and charm of The Companion's original features for 1898, we give the following partial list of

Distinguished Contributors

Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone
Hon. Thomas B. Reed
Hon. Justin McCarthy
Hon. George F. Hoar
Lieut. Peary
W. D. Howells
Mme. Lillian [illegible]
Mrs. Burton [illegible]
Octave Th[illegible]
Mary E. [illegible]

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, '97. NO 46

Probate Judge

How Does This Come at You?

I Can Tell You Where to Buy the Most Goods for $.

The Racket is the Cheapest Store in Montevallo!

These Prices Will Prove It. Read and See!

What They Have Not, They Will Gladly Order for You.

STATIONERY.

Note paper, per quire,	3
Envelopes, per pack,	4
Paper and Envelopes, per box,	9
Examination Tablets,	10
Pencil Tablets,	5
Ink "	5
Best Lead Pencils.	1
Falcon Pens. per dozen,	8
Spencerian Pens, "	10
Memorandum Books, 1 cent up
Large day books, 72 pages,	24
Pen staffs, each,	1
Erasers, each,	1
Stenographer's Pencils.	5

Anything else in this line cheap

NOTIONS—Cheaper than ever

Coats' Thread, per spool,	4
6 Balls of Thread,	5
144 Agate Buttons,	5
Suspenders, per pair,	10
1 dozen bone collar buttons,	3
Needles, per paper,	3
Pins 3 and 5 cents
7 inch combs,	7
3 inch fine combs,	4
Hair brushes,	15
Whisk Brooms,	10
Lamp Wicks, per yard,	5
Shaving Brushes 3 cents up
Case Knives per set,	47
4 boxes Blue Hen matches,	5
Elastic webbing, per yard.	5
Best Toilet Soap,	5
Corsets worth 75 cents, at	37
Lace pillow shams, per pair,	25
Lace curtains, per pair,	75
Blankets, worth $2,	$1 24
Bath towels, per pair,	14
Socks, 5, 7, 10 and	15
Ladies' Hose, 5, 7, 10, 15 and	25

Also a nice line of Ladies' Undervests too cheap to mention, but the very things for winter—ask to see them.

HANDKERCHIEFS

I have a nice line at any price from 3 cents up When in need of anything in this department, it will pay you to visit us.

LAMPS! LAMPS!

We sell them to suit your money—see if we don't!

Nice stock of Fancy Lamps, best in town, at $1 58 cents.

Beautiful Vase Lamps,	$1 27

Lamp chimneys, 4 cents up.

I have hand lamps 15 cents up.

I have a line of lamps suitable for Christmas presents.

Get my prices and see my goods before buying elsewhere.

TINWARE. WOOD WARE, GLASSWARE,

Cheaper Than Ever Known Here.

8 quart Dish Pans,	12
10 " " "	17
2 " Coffee Pots,	8
4 " " "	15
2 " Cake Pans,	4
2 " " " with stem,	9
6 " Milk Buckets,	10
1 " Dippers,	5
3 " Stew Pans,	10
Wash Pans, 5 cents up.
Strainers,	10
Egg Beaters.	4
Kitchen Forks,	4
Graters—large size,	4
3 Hoop Cedar Water Buckets,	39
Fiber Water Buckets,	74
Coffee Mills, best,	49

Many other articles just as useful and equally as cheap, which I have not space to mention, but will take pleasure in showing you.

JEWELRY!

Yes, I keep a nice line of up-to-date Jewelry, such as Watches, Chains, Charms, Rings, Pins and novelty goods in Sterling and Silver Plate. Also Clocks, Rogers' flat ware, Spectacles, etc.; in fact, most anything to be found in a jewelry store. When in need of anything in the jewelry line I will make it to your pocket book's interest to call on me.

I do all kinds of Watch and Jewelry repairing, and guarantee all my work first-class.

A word about clocks: You can buy any clocks of a regular merchant, but he cannot guarantee them because he cannot mend them when out of order. I can, and it is money to you to remember this when in need of a good time piece real cheap.

I am always glad to see you and to show you my goods, whether you want to buy or not.

Yours anxious to please,

THE RACKET,

J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,

MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

GATE TO THE GOLD FIELDS.

Wonderful Growth of the Town of Skaguay.

Skaguay is a modern wonder. Not many weeks ago the place practically did not exist. To-day, with its carefully laid out streets and its scores of well stocked and cosy private dwellings, it presents all the appearance of a thriving Northwestern town. Houses are being rushed up with astonishing rapidity, while merchants are so numerous and enterprising that competition has already reduced their wares to almost bottom prices. The starting up of a steam laundry has caused the "biled shirt" to be accepted as good form in this out of the way settlement, while the establishment of thirteen saloons plainly indicates the prevalence of a generous atmosphere of conviviality.

The New York Herald's special correspondent, in an entertaining article published herewith, gives a graphic description of Skaguay as he found it entering the fourth week of its municipal existence. He says:

Nothing in the history of Western boom towns will compare with the mushroom growth of Skaguay. Ben Moore, the man who located the town site, left for the Sound on August 10, at which date there was his own log cabin, the store and the bunkhouse of the Alaska and Northwest Trading Company and a number of tents. When he returned there were whole streets of wooden dwellings, which the owners had themselves located and had paid a registry fee to United States Commissioner Smith of five dollars. Not only were these newcomers permitted to locate on Captain Moore's land on payment of the fee, but it is said that Mr. Smith accepted the fee and gave a registration receipt to half a dozen different people for the same plot of land. The newly appointed Land Commissioner and Register, Mr. Dudley, will therefore have some difficulty in unravelling the conflicting real estate ownership on the town site.

Skaguay is on a tide flat, with a tide running over twenty feet, and therefore has a stretch of half a mile below tidewater mark. All the passengers by big steamers are taken off in row boats, with a pull of from one to two miles, according to the state of the [illegible], when they ar[illegible] on the backs of the boatmen t[illegible]ratively dry land. It is amusi[illegible]r the shrieks of the women [illegible]n the back of the boatmen spl[illegible] through the water.

Only a month ago, w[illegible]en the Willamette landed her couple of thousands of gold seekers, all the freight and passengers' luggage were landed in these small boats, or small scows, and dumped on the shore pell mell, higgledy-piggledy, from which each owner had to hurry to secure his particular goods before the rapidly incoming tide ruined them or swept them away. Immense scows are now in use, big enough to take the whole of a ship's cargo. These, when loaded, float to shore on a high tide, and each owner gets out his own goods as soon as he can, and woe to him whose belongings chance to be near the bottom of the huge pile.

I watched the steamer Queen unload in this way. There was a good deal of hustling, necessarily, but I heard no complaint of any goods being stolen or lost—except temporarily. In fact, [illegible]he whole community seems wonder[illegible]lly honest considering that the black [illegible]ep of the continent are herding in [illegible]direction.

[illegible]chants in tents leave their goods [illegible] outside all right; pilgrims [illegible]ir camps on the trail, with all [illegible]ngings scattered about; yet [illegible]es of pilfering have been [illegible]l only one theft of money. [illegible]the case of a man named [illegible]n, of Seattle, who for [illegible] $1400 in his kit under [illegible]his tent. He left his tent often in perfect confidence, but one day he found his belongings had been disturbed and that the money was gone.

Another Seattle man at once gave him $100 with which to take out his feed, for he had already gotten his goods some distance along the trail. But this was only the beginning of Davison's bad luck. He was one of the first on the trail, and worked beyond his strength. Just past the summit he had an attack of pneumonia, and, getting worse instead of better, had to give up. He is now here waiting for the next steamer, having left his outfit with his partner, who hopes to sell it to some one who will pay for the difficult journey they made with it up the pass.

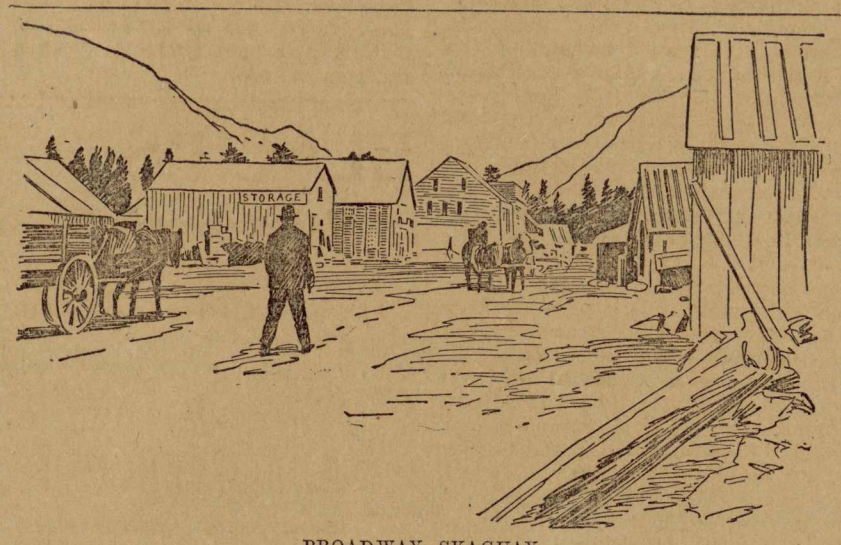
There does not appear to have been any pilfering of goods left on the beach from the steamers. In a short time there will be no chance for this. The two long piers are hotly competing for the honor of being first completed and early next month both will be in operation. That of the Skaguay Wharf Company is already piled to its ocean end, a length of over fifteen hundred feet, in a curving line from the northern to the southern side of the bay, thus blocking off all further competition in this line. This will be known commonly as the Juneau Pier, its promoters being J. P. Jorgensen, hardware merchant; E. Valentine, jeweler, and E. D. Sylvester, editor of the Searchlight, all of Juneau. The other pier will be known as the Seattle Dock, as it is largely backed by capital from that Sound city. This starts from the street south of Broadway and runs straight to the completed dock under the cliff. Both will have warehouses, to which goods will be taken direct from the ship, and there await the proper claimants.

These two great piers are impressive to the incoming stranger, who knows that the town is only a month old, but as to the rest he can see but little from the steamer's decks. Tents dot the shore the whole of its width, with here and there a small wooden building. The latter are rapidly taking the place of the canvas homes and stores, for the reason that cold weather and heavy rains have set in, and more especially very high winds. Captain McKinney, the Chairman of the Vigilance Committee, estimates that there are now one hundred and fifty buildings of wood, and that there would have been many more but for the scarcity of lumber. There is a sawmill hard at work now, lumber is coming in by every steamer, and nearly every one having the purpose to winter here is putting up a habitation of wood. Many are erecting larger and more substantial buildings than their needs require, as a speculation, hoping to sell at a large profit when the rush is renewed next spring and when they once more pack up for the Klondike.

Probably as many as fifty of such substantial dwellings are going up.

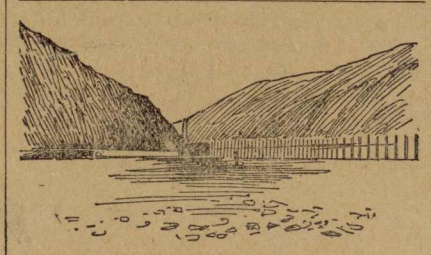
A curious phase of the situation among those who have decided to winter here is that nearly every one of them believes that he has just the natural gifts necessary to make a successful merchant. They are all putting their great stakes into goods, which they hope to turn into money again, with a large profit, by the spring, and then sell out an established business when the weather permits them to leave for the gold fields. Thus is the new city building up. There are thirteen saloons, a majority of their proprietors having plans for getting to the Klondike as soon as possible, and there are between three and four hundred merchants of whom the same thing may be said.

Not only on Broadway, but along the intersecting streets and among the big timbers on each side of the trail, are these merchants' tents and stores, little and big, and all sorts and conditions of men are interested in them, from the spectacled, muscleless store clerk, clumsily handling the saw and the axe on his new building, to the stolid backwoodsman, to whom the making of change is a difficult mental operation.



BROADWAY, SKAGUAY.

One would think that the town would be overdone with so many merchants, and perhaps it will be soon, when the steamers are fewer and passengers on them not numerous enough to be worth mentioning. But there is a population of over five hundred still in tents, and it is believed that there will be continual coming and going until the beginning of December, to be then renewed the month following. So many merchants, however, has had the effect of bringing down prices, which, considering the freight charges, are now rapidly getting to the bottom, making it nearly as cheap to winter here as at Juneau or any other northern point.



SKAGUAY BAY.

But the visitor must not expect luxuries. He must be content with a bunk and provide his own bedding. The bunk will cost him from seventy-five cents a night up. Meals at cheap restaurants are fifty cents each. He will, however, in all probability, hire a tiny shack and learn to cook for himself if he is to be a gold hunter. Then, as before stated, he will find the price of the bare necessaries of life no higher in proportion than Seattle. Flour is $1.50 per sack, potatoes $1.25, bacon twelve to fifteen cents per pound.

The infant city is well laid out, and not only on Broadway but on most of the side streets on either side up to where the trail turns off to the left into the timber there are new stores and residences. Among the timber also there are many merchants, in tents or rough shacks. In the early history of the city—that is, three weeks ago—boiled shirts were publicly derided, as were also shaven chins. Now there are four barber shops and two or three signs reading "Troy Laundry." There is also a bath house in course of construction, and this is a luxury that tired men coming off the trail will appreciate. Lumber is still scarce, rough lumber at nine dollars per thousand feet at Seattle selling for about twenty-five dollars here. There is little doubt that a hundred or more buildings will be erected during the next thirty days.

Now, what are the prospects of Skaguay's permanency? The men who are building the wharves and the three-story hotel and other buildings evidently believe in its future growth and prosperity. Yet there is nothing to give it the slightest hope of permanency except as an entrance to the gold regions. That they do not at the present time possess any such entrance that is at all what a highway for the expected crowds in the spring should be is conceded. But the intention now is to build a wagon road along the Skaguay River to the foot of the mountain. This will cost a great deal of money, but it will in all probability be carried out, for every one who has made an investment here understands the situation. It is estimated that from 100,000 to 150,000 gold seekers will flock to Alaska next spring, and that they will begin to come in in February. Skaguay must be able to announce long before then a better trail than the present one or the trade will pass her by and the town boom will be "hushed." She will also have others besides the Dyea trail to compete with, and, in short, her future depends entirely upon her making the best inland route to the Yukon territory that can be made. Her citizens are remarkably public spirited and liberal. A town meeting two nights ago subscribed $1500 for fire protection in a few moments. A surveyor is now mapping out a route for a wagon road along the river. Money will have to be raised to meet the cost of this road and work on it be started immediately to insure the permanency of Skaguay as a port and as a town of even its present proportions.

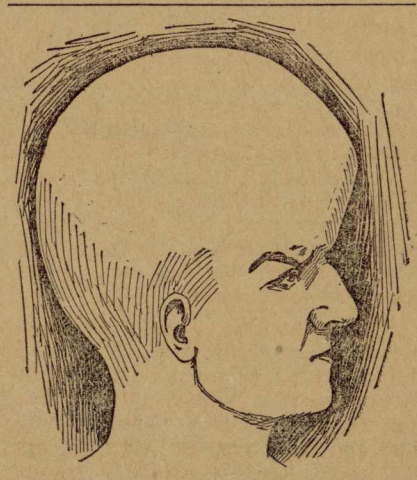
THE BEGINNING OF THE TRAIL.

WILL USE NO LANGUAGE.

How Coming Generations Will Look and Act, According to a Scientist.

This is the way Dr. R. M. Burke, President of the psychology section of the British Medical Association, says the head of the man of the future will look.

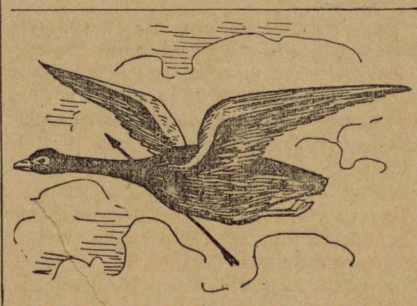
The new race, he says, will use no language because it will need none. The interchange of thought between individuals because it will be simply a mental effort on the part of each unaccompanied by any physical manifestation whatever. As one person evolves his idea the other will instantly grasp it by means of a subtle telepathy, which even now is the gift in a more or less modified form of many people who are only vaguely conscious of their strange power, and, in many instances, too timid and fearful of ridicule to publicly confess it or attempt to develop it. With future generations this gift will become more and more frequent in individuals and of greater and greater power, until this silent interchange of thought is at last as common as is now speech and writing. Nor will his powers stop even there. He not only will be able to exchange thoughts with people thousands of leagues away, but will be able to see them as distinctly as though they were physically present and even see if he chooses what is passing anywhere in the world. There will be an end of eyes and ears, the gross physical channels through sensations now must pass to the mind. They will all go, for they will all be useless—as useless as the mechanism of the voice, by which sensations and ideas are now conveyed from the mind outward. There may be some scar or meaningless excresence where these organs once were, just as now there are physiological suggestions of man's ape origin—humiliating reminders of the brute ancestry from which the godlike being was evolved. But that will be all, and even that will melt away and disappear at last.



HEAD OF THE MAN OF THE FUTURE.

Thousands of Miles Arrow-Pierced.

Some years ago H. N. Clement, an Indiana farmer, shot at a flock of wild geese in the Kan Ka Mee marsh and bagged several of them. One of them wore as a breastpin an arrow nine inches long. The arrow was so unique in formation that it could be ascribed to no tribe of Indians in the United States or in any other country. Finally Professor O. T. Mason, of the National Museum, said the bird and arrow could have come from no other place of the globe than the Yukon Valley. Thousands of miles the goose had flown with an arrow in its breast before turning up its legs at the shot of a Hoosier farmer.



FLYING FROM THE YUKON PIERCED BY AN ARROW.

American Woman Honored.

Mrs. May French Sherman, the African explorer, recently elected a member of the English Royal Geographical Society, is the only woman ever thus honored. She is an American by birth.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Fatal Affray in Cherokee County.

In a difficulty that occurred at Noah between Henry Kines and Hiram Jordan Kines received a blow on the head that will probably prove fatal.

May Build Two Furnaces.

It is stated that the Howard-Harrison Iron Company, of Bessemer, is shortly going to considerably enlarge its plant by the erection of two furnaces to furnish the pipe works with the pig iron needed to make pipe.

Opened and Adjourned.

According to program the members of the supreme court went to Montgomery Saturday, and organized and adjourned court until November 29. A special train carried them to the capital where they remained thirty minutes.

Two Fatal Accidents.

Two fatal railroad accidents occurred near Stevenson within the last few days. Sunday "Uncle" Charley Caperton, a negro said to be over 100 years old, was run over by a train and killed, and Tuesday John Shirley, a young man who lives near Bass, was run over and killed near that place.

A New Industry.

Ground has been broken for the plant of the Southern Iron and Steel company at Birmingham. The company will manufacture iron columns, structural iron and wire fencing and will start with a capital of $25,000. About fifty skilled workmen will be employed and from present prospects the plant will be kept running the entire year.

Misfortune, Then Reward.

Near Huntsville two weeks ago Mr. Williams had the misfortune to lose by fire his house with its contents, baled cotton and farming implements, in fact everything he possessed. A few days ago he received a letter from a friend in Texas summoning him to come at once and take possession of 1,500 acres of rich farming land, to which he had fallen heir through death of an uncle.

Quarantine Raised.

The Governor issued a proclamation Thursday raising the quarantine as to all that portion of the State lying north of a line running east and west through Calera. Persons from all infected districts can now enter the northern part of the State, except where local quarantines are still maintained. Mayor Evans, of Birmingham, also issued a proclamation declaring the quarantine annulled against all cities and towns.

A $70,000 Fire at Selma.

There was a large fire in Selma Wednesday. The blaze started in the business house of Cawthon & Coleman and burned furiously. It caught from the cellar where a negro turned over a lamp and set off a lot of turpentine. The loss on their stock will be $60,000, insurance $30,000. The building is damaged about $5,000. Ullman & Son, from smoke and water, will be damaged $5,000, fully insured.

Extract From the Treasurer's Report.

The State Treasurer has made his annual statement for the year ended September 30. The receipts for the year were shown to be $2,174,644.37, and the disbursements $2,188,955.20. This excess of disbursements arose from the fact that several extraordinary expenses incurred by the State were paid by the treasurer during the year. Among others the expense incident to holding the last legislature; that incident to the preparation and printing of the new code, and increased appropriations to the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo, and other State institutions. The new tax laws and the improved business methods that are being enforced new in the several counties of the State will, it is believed, cause the treasury to show a handsome profit next year.

BRIEFLY NOTED.

T. W. Lloyd has been appointed postmaster at Dolomite.

Work on the Atlanta and Alabama Air-Line in the vicinity of Selma is progressing rapidly.

Abraham B. Jones, of this state, has been appointed by President McKinley as consul at Tuxpan, Mexico.

In the U. S. Court at Birmingham the Cahaba wreck cases came up Friday and were continued to Nov. 22.

The broom makers of Birmingham have organized and elected officers. Efforts are also being made to form a union among bicycle makers and repairers.

The annual coal product of Montana has showed an uninterrupted increase each year since 1877.

Influence of the Imagination.

Fear has killed many a man before to-day. There is an old story of a king whose favorite was condemned to die for a crime. Before his execution, however, it was discovered that he was innocent, and the king, in order to give his favorite and agreeable surprise, took the place of the executioner, using a towel instead of an axe. But the man was killed as instantly as if his head had been cut off.

In modern times some French men of science obtained permission to perform similar experiment on a man condemned to be guillotined. They bound him to a table, and told him that arteries would be opened in various parts of his body, and that he would be bled to death. He could not expect to live more than half an hour. He was then blindfolded. He was pricked in various parts of the body, and at the end of half an hour was dead, although he had lost very little blood.

The Common Goal.

Hurry—What's the great aim of modern life?

Scurry—To be rich enough to get everything one doesn't want.—Brooklyn Life.

Natural Selection.

"I don't know what's going to become of that boy of mine. He was never known to get anything right."

"Make a weather prophet of him."—Exchange.

A rich man's wife has a better time than a poor man's wife, but the richest man is always the hardest working man in every community.

Only two cures in 111 years, with no break in the church services, is the record of the village of Vallon sur Gee, in the department of the Sarthe, France. Abbe Pineau held the place from 1785 to 1842, when Abbe Paris, who is still the parish priest, succeeded him.

A Georgia editor who is traveling abroad writes to his paper from Rome to say: "We are greatly shocked to find this city in such a state of decay." Well, it used to be quite a lively town, but of course after the late Julius Caesar took that Roman punch from Mr. Brutus and quit the city government fell into the hands of ward politicians and the town went to pieces. Is it any wonder that the Coliseum leaks?

A Good Honest Doubter is a person we like to meet. We like to have such a man try Tetterine. He will be more enthusiastic than anybody else once he's cured and convinced. Tetterine is for Tetter, Eczema, Ringworm and all skin diseases. 50 cents a box at drug stores or by mail from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address
F. J. CHENEY, & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

We have not been without Piso's Cure for Consumption in 20 years.—LIZZIE FERRELL, Camp St., Philadelphia, Pa., May 4. 1894.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. per bottle.

ITS WORST FORM

All Symptoms of Catarrh Have Disappeared Since Taking Hood's.

"My daughter has had catarrh in its worst form since she was four years old. She obtained only temporary relief from medicines until she began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Since using this medicine the disagreeable symptoms of the disease have entirely disappeared." M. W. Silspy, Hartland, N. Y. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills assist Digestion and cure Constipation. 25 cents.

EXPERT REPAIRING.

DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

The LOOSLEY CYCLE COMPANY

Manufacturers of the Celebrated . . "BIRMINGHAM." Offer the facilities of their factory and the intelligence of their expert workmen when you need repairing of any kind on your bike. Write for catalogue and prices.

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DRUNKARDS can be saved without their knowledge by Anti-Jag the marvelous cure for the drink habit. Write Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, N. Y. Full information (in plain wrapper) mailed free.

Am. N. U. No. 45. 1897.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

At last Mr. Henry M. Stanley has emerged from the matrimonial obscurity into which he plunged some five years ago.

A farmer in Madison County, Indiana, announces that he has discovered a new corn. Well, he'd better look after it a little before it becomes too troublesome.

There are now twenty-seven societies in the United States membership in which depends on descent from ancestors who distinguished themselves by coming over to America at an early date, or by being participants in American wars prior to 1861.

Lake City, Florida, has set out to make the dancer pay the fiddler in a novel way. The town has appointed a single night watchman and decreed that he shall be paid at the rate of $2.50 for each arrest made, the prisoner to furnish the money.

"Until recently," remarks the Boston Transcript, "we believed that oxygen rendered the protoplasm of the organ phosphorescent with disengagement of the phosphoretted hydrogen." It is indeed a sweetly solemn thought, brother, that at last you have been set right upon that all-important matter.

The gold production of 1897 is likely to exceed that of 1896, which was the largest in the history of the world. Advices from Eucador show that mines being developed there are reported richer and more extensive than those of South America, where such enormous quantities of gold have recently been produced.

In the French navy it has been found that the electric search-light employed on men-of-war injuriously affects the eyes of seamen who have to work about the light, and dark blue spectacles are supplied to them for protection. Brown eyes are less affected than gray or blue ones, the reason suggested being that the former are more heavily charged with pigment.

A Philadelphia policeman the other day arrested a little boy in knee breeches, to the great indignation of some bystanders, who went to the station house to make a complaint against the policeman. At the station they learned that the little boy was "Dublin Joe," a notorious pickpocket, forty years old, and that his pockets were filled with other people's money. No complaint was entered.

A young student in a certain theological seminary recently persuaded a fellow-student to listen to him while he rehearsed a sermon. His subject was "Light." With a violent gesture with the right arm he said, "Blot out the sun." With a similarly frantic movement of the left arm he roared, "Blot out the moon!" Then, with a combined gesture made up of both arms, he bellowed, "Blot out the stars!" But it was enough. The auditor arose to leave with a hoarse, cruel whisper, "Turn off the gas."

In the single State of Massachusetts there are more than 1,200 miles of electric railway, while in England, Scotland and Ireland combined there are only 200 miles. Moreover, nearly all the electric roads in the British Islands have been built and equipped by American contractors. This country has led all others in the use of electric power for traction purposes, and the construction of similar roadways in other nations is conducted almost exclusively in accordance with American models and methods.

A Cincinnati firm of contractors is making considerable trouble among business men of its class in that city by its unusual methods. One of the firm is an old circus man, and being well acquainted with the capacity of elephants for work, he secured one of the animals, which is now used on the firm's contracts for grading. The monster is hitched to an immense plow, saving the work of ten horses and five or six men, and the firm for which he works is thus enabled to underbid all competitors because of the saving made.

In commenting on the automatic hot-water supply now furnished in certain parts of London by dropping a penny in a slot machine attached to a lamppost, "The London Telegraph" suggested that food may soon be furnished in the same way. Whereupon a correspondent writes: "It may interest some of your readers to know that the problem is already solved, and that in the exhibition grounds at Brussels there is a cafe which provides hot and cold luncheons entirely by the automatic method, and I can say from experience that they are very good. By placing a franc in the slot a chop or steak, with potatoes, can be procured, hot and well cooked; another franc will produce a half-bottle of wine; half a franc will supply a plate of cold meat, with salad and roll, and a nickel of ten centimes will extract a piece of bread and butter and cheese, or a 'brioche.' Besides all this a nickel will draw an excellent glass of hock from one of the two large vessels in the centre of the cafe."

Again the important question, "How Long are Women Beautiful?" is disof beauty does not reach itshrdludlu cussed in an English journal, one writer maintaining that "the fullness under the age of thirty-five or forty." This claim is disputed by another writer, who cites the opinion of women themselves, as shown by the undoubted fact that "any woman who craved admiration on the score of her personal appearance would be vastly more pleased were her age to be guessed as being thirty rather than forty." Well, it all depends, as Pitti Sing would observe. The race and the woman must be considered. In some tropic lands women are either wrinkled and shriveled or fat and shapeless grandmothers before they reach the age mentioned. In England and in this country it often happens that the "fullness of beauty" in women "does not reach its zenith under the limit of thirty-five or forty." The age limit is very elastic, depending on many things that help to make or mar the beauty which is woman's most coveted possession.

In the Atlantic Monthly the celebrated African explorer announces his return to the literary workshop by discussing at some length the progress of civilization on the dark continent. "Twenty-five years ago," says Mr. Stanley, "the whole of central Africa was nothing more than a continental slave park. To-day it is largely the abode of intelligence and civilization. In 1884 began the partition of Africa among the various European powers, with the result that the French Congo now has a population of 9,000,000; German East Africa, 7,000,000, and British Africa, 10,000,000. In addition to the evidences of progress which these figures represent the tide of civilization has poured into Africa from all parts of the globe. According to Mr. Stanley the area of central Africa is equal to that of the United States, including Alaska, with half of Mexico added. Its population at the present time numbers 48,000,000, of which 3,000,000,000 are whites. On account of the vast fertility of central Africa the future of this favored region is bright with promise.

How it All Happened.

He was in doubt.

There was no particular reason why he should be in doubt, but, of course, that has nothing to do with the case. Up to a certain point in the courtship it is the privilege of every lover to be in doubt, and if he were not he would be tempted to believe something was wrong.

On this particular evening he made up his mind that he would reach the point where doubt ends or know the reason why.

Thus it happened that he got a little closer to her than usual, when he found that they were sitting side by side on the sofa.

"Did you ever think about marriage?" he asked.

"No," she replied.

Of course, that was a lie. Of course, he knew that it was a lie, and she knew that he knew it. Consequently she wished that she hadn't answered so hastily; but that is so customary to a woman that it should attract no attention.

"If I were a woman like you," he said reproachfully, "I would think of it."

"Would you?" she inquired carelessly.

"Yes, I would," he answered agressively.

"Perhaps, she suggested tantalizingly, "you wouldn't mind telling me just what course your thoughts would take—if you were a woman like me."

"I don't know that I can give the exact course of reasoning," he answered, fearful that he might be getting beyond his depth, "but if I were a woman like you I feel pretty reasonably sure that I would marry a man like—er—like me."

"You do?" she said, coloring a little, but still speaking in the same tantalizing tone.

"Yes, I do," he returned doggedly.

"Well, if I were a man like you," she asserted, "I wouldn't expect a woman like me to do anything of the sort until a man like you had asked her to."

It is no trick at all to hold the course or true love after the mariner once gets his bearings so long as the signal lights continue to burn, and thus it happened that their bark sped merrily on its way.—Chicago Post.

The Use of a Cat's Whiskers.

A cat's whiskers may seem to you to be merely ornamental. They are organs of touch, attached to a bed of fine glands under the skin, and each of these long hairs is connected with the nerves of the lip. The slightest contact with these whiskers with any surrounding objects is thus felt most distinctly by the animal, although the hairs themselves are insensible. They stand out on each side of the lion as will as the common cat. From point to point they are equal to the width of the animal's body. If we imagine, therefore, a lion stealing through a covert of wood in an imperfect light, we shall at once see the use of these hairs. They indicate to him, through the nicest feeling, any obstacle which may present itself to the passage of his body; they prevent the rustling of boughs and leaves, which would give warning to his prey if he were to attempt to pass too close to a bush; and thus, in connection with the soft cushions of his feet and the fur upon which he treads—the claws never coming into contact with the ground—they enable him to move toward his victim with a stillness equal to that of a snake.

INHERITS A MILLION.

Euphemia McKay, a Cook of Long Island, Gets a Big Fortune.

Here is a portrait of Miss Euphemia McKay, the cook who has fallen heir to a large fortune. She has gone to her old home in Scotland to receive $1,000,000 left to her under the will of her uncle, who went away to Africa years ago while she was a child to seek his fortune.

EUPHEMIA M'KAY.

In time the child, growing into a woman, came across the ocean and settled in Canada. Twenty years of the drudgery of domestic service made but a little change in her. In the course of these years her father and mother died, and the uncle returned to Scotland with his fortune. Of late Miss McKay has been employed by Mr. Lawrence, of Bayside, L. I., as a cook. She says she has no higher ambition than to make her home in Flushing and help the poor.

BLACH'S

Price-Hewn Sale

Is now going on in full blast. Prices slaughtered on Men's and Boys' new . . . .

FALL SUITS AND OVERCOATS.

MAIL ORDERS WITH CASH PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED
If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
The Great Mail Order House
111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

Seattle Klondike Alaska

FREE INFORMATION BY SEATTLE, WASH., CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUREAU.

SEATTLE, KLONDIKE, ALASKA. Washington State. Seattle, 65,000 population; Railroad, Commercial, Mining and Agricultural Centre; Best Outfits; Lowest Prices; Longest Experience; Largest City; Safest Routes; Address Secretary.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer

It is a renewer, because it makes new again. Old hair is made new; the gray changed to the color of youth.

MISSISSIPPI GIRLS NOT AFRAID.

Martell Tabor,

Crape, Miss., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 18 years. It is the best of all Liver Regulators. It cures Sick Headache, and is a great deal more popular than "Black Draught" or any other liver medicine in this country.

Menstrual Non-Appearance.

Absence of the flow may arise from some organic defects or from abnormal condition of the blood or nervous system. As the time approaches there are many symptoms that should be apparent to an intelligent mother. When they are tardy, the attempt to establish this function is attended with pain in the head, loins and back, chilliness, nausea and bloating of the abdomen. The treatment necessary is moderate out-door exercise, the use of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine to correct the action of the digestive organs and a dose twice a day for some weeks of that great uterine stimulant, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine.

W. W. Graves

Postmaster, Merchant and First Assistant Principal Hebron Normal High School, Fuller, Miss., writes: I am 25 years old, and my Father, who died when he was 75 years old, had been using and selling Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine ever since I could remember. It does all that is claimed for it, and is as staple as Sugar, Flour and Bacon. I consider it much Superior to "Zeilin's Medicine," which I don't use at any price.

Girls Approaching Puberty

Frequently suffer from irritability, restlessness, smothering sensations, palpitation of heart, depression of spirits, nausea, constipation and sometimes fainting spells. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine, taken with the original Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, quickly relieves these and other distressing symptoms and assists nature in performing its natural functions at the proper time.

Look Out.—Don't let the preparation called "Black Draught" come into your house on the fraudulent pretension of being "just the same" as M. A. S. L. M. It is "not" the same. If the component parts were the same there is as much difference between them as between day and night. Beware of all imitations.

YELLOW FEVER

PREVENTED BY TAKING

"Our Native Herbs"

the

Great Blood Purifier and Liver Regulator.

200 DAYS' TREATMENT $1.00

Containing a Registered Guarantee.

32 page Book and Testimonials, FREE. Sent by mail, postage paid. Sold only by Agents for

THE ALONZO O. BLISS CO., Washington, D.C.

$12 3000 BICYCLES

must be closed out at once. Standard '97 Models, guarant'd, $14 to $30. 95 models to $20. 2d hand wheels $5 to $15. Shipped to anyone on approval without advance deposit. Great factory clearing sale $12 EARN A BICYCLE by helping advertise us. We will give one agent in each town FREE USE of a sample wheel to introduce them. Write at once for our Special Offer. Mead Cycle Co., 136 Avenue F., Chicago, Ill.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

CHEW STAR TOBACCO—THE BEST. SMOKE SLEDGE CIGARETTES.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Trade-Mark.

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

JUST THE BOOK YOU WANT to refer to constantly is our hand

CONDENSED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, a treats upon about every subject under the sun. It contains 520 pages, profusely illustr and will be sent, postpaid, for 50c. in stamps, postal note or silver. When reading you less run across ref- matters and things understand and will clear up for plete index, so that it may be is a rich mine of valuable interesting manner, and is times the small sum of FIFTY CENTS which we ask for it. A study o prove of incalculable benefit to those whose education has been neglected, will also be found of great value to those who cannot readily command t have acquired. BOOK PUBLISHING HOUSE, 134 Leonar

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR 50c.

erences to which you which you. It referred to easil information, p well worth t

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

CLIFTON NEWTON, Editor & Prop.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class matter.

Advertisers will do well to get our rates and place their card in THE NEWS. There is no better medium for advertising.

Thursday. Nov. 11, 1897.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, consul-general at Havana, sailed for his post of duty on the 10th inst.

The Sunny Southland of Calera has moved up salt river. We understand they will issue tri-annually.

The backbone of yellow fever is about broken, and refugees are beginning to return to their different.

Ex-Congressman Alex. C. Davidson, of Pery county, died at his home near Uniontown Sunday morning.

The Advertiser continues to roast the governor for leaving the capital and making Birmingham the temporary seat of government in order to get away from the yellow fever at Montgomery. The governor didn't want yellow fever.

Cotton is lower than it has been in many years, and while there is no prospect of the price getting very much better, yet we believe if the farmers could hold it until next spring they could realize a much better price for it. But it is not always good policy to hold cotton.—Ex.

The continued increase in price of flour should be a warning to our farmers to raise wheat. The greatest difficulty we labor under is lack of good mills to grind it. Then, too, our people think any poor land will do for wheat and that it's as well to plow shallow as deep for raising wheat. All this is a sad mistake. The better the land, the deeper it's broke, the more pains you take soaking the seed in blue stone, getting seed from north of us and other advantages, the better it will pay. Let our farmers have their mercnant send to Tennessee and get two best varieties of seed wheat and begin anew to raise home supplies. It will pay you.

While in Tuscaloosa last week the editor called at the county jail where Stoneking is in a cell charged with murder. After talking with the prisoner a short while we found him inclined to be a peaceable, quiet citizen, although there seems to be strong prejudice against him. He has a family in Tuscaloosa, and some of the best people in that city say he was justifiable in doing what he did. Where prejudice exist people only look on one side of the question. We have had experience along that line and know whereof we speak. Justice should be done at all times and under all circumstances. People are sometimes deprived of their liberty unjustly.

call especial attention to the sement of the Atlanta Consti sixth missing word contest, und elsewhere. We have ngements to club our pae Weekly Constitution. ant to enter the contest chance of winning a l at the NEWS office r both papers, and be forwarded at

BLOCTON ITEMS.

Hon. J M. McMaster returned Saturday from Birmingham, where he has been attending U. S. court.

Mr. G. D. Mitchell, of the Montevallo News, visited home folk Sunday.

Quite a number of our professional men visited Centreville Saturday on some contest business.

We are glad to see our friend, Dan Belcher, up again after an illness of three months.

Editor Rice and Attorney Campbell visited Tuscaloosa last week.

Our barber, John Reid, visited Jamesville last week.

N. L. Wilson and T. C. Wallace returned Saturday night. We don't know what success they had, but hear they have the names of Messrs. Nelson Fuller, Dave and Ad Cruise to their valuable document,

Don't you forget that Elocton is the place to do your trading. We can safely say that there is no yellow fever nor small pox in our town.

Professor Williams, of Belle Ellen, was in the city Sunday.

We regret very much to learn of the illness of Miss Gracie Hill, of McGraw Town.

Rev. A. E. Burns, of Gadsden, preached at the First Baptist church here Sunday morning and night.

Mr. H. E. Reynolds visited home folk at Montevallo Sunday.

Mr. M. C. Caldwell, of Bismarck, was in the city a few days since.

Mr. Sam Cottingham, of Randolph, was in the city this week.

Dr. C. M. Campbell, of Scottsville, spent Sunday with his parents in Campbelltown.

Mr. Forest Collier visited Birmingham Monday.

Editor Rice and Attorney Campbell spent a few days this week in the Magic City on legal business.

Mr. B. H. Ellard, of Centreville, was in town a few days ago.

McCool sells groceries and miners' supplies as cheap as any house in Blocton.

Rev. Sutton Smitherman, pastor of Campbell Town Baptist church, filled his regular appointment Sunday.

Richard Jesse Nelson arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. L. Nelson, of Campbelltown, one day last week.

Professor Langston, of Six Mile, was in the city a few days since on professional business.

We regret to say that Mr. Cundiff Robertson is very sick with typhoid fever at the residence of Mr. Dison, in Campbelltown.

Why not come in and pay up your subscription? You know it is due. Don't fail to come in and settle same at once.

NEWS-HERALD,
Per R. L. Rice, Manager.

Mr. B. M. Huey, Jr., Southern Express agent at this place, who numbers his friends by the score, was married on Wednesday night, 10th inst., to Miss Rosa Haynes, of Sardis, Ala.

Married, at the Stroupe House, in this city, on the 10th inst., by Rev. M. W. Robison, of Bessemer, Mr. Frank M. Holly, of Centreville, and Miss Emmie Palmer, of Blocton.

Married, at the Campbelltown Baptist church, on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, by Rev. Sutton Smitherman, Mr. Samuel Lindsey and Miss Mary J. Blake. We extend congratulations to the young couple and wish for them a long, happy and prosperous life.

The News-Herald wishes all three of the young couples a long and happy life. This beats the record three weddings in one town in one day.

SPRING CREEK.

Mr. Thomas Alexander, of Elliotsville, visited Spring Creek on Sunday last. We learn that he has purchased the Black farm, and will in the near future make this his home We welcome him.

Since the cottou picking season is over, Prof. Yeager's school has increased in numbers. He is doiug fine work in the school room

Mr. William Large, of Brierfield, visited his sister, Mrs. Huff, this week.

Messrs. Edwards and Northcutt, of Chilton county, visited the family of John Allen this week.

Mr. William Prestridge had a very valuable horse to fall and break its leg on last Sunday.

Several of our farmers are making preparations to sow wheat.

Some people have a great curiosity to know who Billie is. They don't think he is very smart. Billie can't see himself as others see him.

BILLIE.

KEEP STEP!
DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND
ABSOLUTELY PURE

B.B.B. Always Cures.

.....Botanic Blood Balm

The Great Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Eating and Spreading Sores, Eruptions, and all SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES. Made from the prescription of an eminent physician who used it with marvelous success for 40 years, and its continued use for fifteen years by thousands of grateful people has demonstrated that it is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new rich blood, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties.

WRITE FOR BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent freight paid by

BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

LOOK OUT FOR

MORGAN BROS.

They will tell you something in this space next week.

Come and See Them!

They Will Save You Money!

Don't Eat Biscuits
When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY
BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

Local.

Wonder if the rats are bad at the dormitory?

The farmers are blue, and we can't blame them.

M. A. Owen, of Brierfield, was in town Monday.

Mr. John Hunter, of Maylene, was in town Saturday.

Mr. Henry Burke, of Ashby, was in town yesterday.

Sheriff Vest, of Columbiana, was in towu yesterday.

The dormitory dining room will seat 90 at one time.

Trade is a little dull on account of the low price of cotton.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

A new fence has been placed around the college campus.

Quite a crowd came over from Calera Friday to visit the college.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Mr. G. D. Mitchell spent Saturday and Sunday with his family at Blocton.

You can get home baked bread now. Best's bakery is running full time.

Three new girls at the college last week, and several more expected soon.

Mr. Herbert Reynolds, of Blocton, spent Sunday with his father's family here.

Mr. Morgan Lisle, of Blocton, was in town Tuesday, and gave us a pleasant call.

A. C. DeShazo is building a residence in south Montevallo, nezt to Mr. A. M. Cross.

Mr. C. C. Vandegrift informs us that orders are coming in every day for his Imogene coal.

Mr. J. J. Little, of Blocton, spent Sunday ic our town witn his son, Mr. Burgess Little.

Mr. J. J. Carlisle has returned from Talladega, where he has been visiting his mother.

Rev. M. P. Reynolds preached a very impressive sermon at the Baptist church Sunday night.

President Reynolds is having the chapel stairway covered. Probabiy he thinks it will rain soon.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

The quarantine has been raised in the northern part of the State, and we have regular train service now.

The college well is ninetv feet deep, and the tank fifty feet high. The pump will force water 200 feet.

The dormitory fire escape is being changed and improved. Mr. Edwards, of Birmingham, is doing the work.

We understand that Rev. M. P. Reynolds has been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Blocton.

A young man of our city sent a young lady a basket of grapes with his picture to prevent them from becoming seen.

Mr. T. A. King, travelling salesman for E. E. Forbes' music house, Birmingham, is at home for a few days on the sick list, Major Strong loses the postoffice, and we regret to see him leave. He has made us a good postmaster, and we will miss him much.

We spent Saturday at Aldrich. Everything was very lively out there. In fact, it looked a little like Montevallo—everything so busy.

Mr. George A. Peters, of Maylene, spent part of Sunday with the editor. Mr. Peters lived quite awhile in Colorado, the editor's old home.

While on a professional visit to Calera Monday, Dr. Givhan's horses became frightened at a train and ran away, making a wreck of his buggy.

Dr. F. F Crowe has been appointed postmaster at this place. We wish the doctor much success, and believe he will make us a good postmaster.

Dr. Andrews, editor of the Alabama Advocate, preached at the Methodist church Sunday. The doctor never fails to interest his congregation.

Mr. L. S. Craddock removed his family to Shelby, Ala., last week, where they will in future reside. We wish Mr. Craddock much success in his new home.

Mr. Thomas McCumber, supervisor for the Singer Manufacturing Co., with headquarters at Birmingham, was in town Friday aud gave us a pleasant call.

James Tenny, of Columbiana, was in town a few days ago looking for a location for a blacksmith shop. We understand he will occupy Mr. Vest's shop after January.

Our churches can't hold all who would like to attend services. There was an overflow service at the Baptist church Sunday, the Methodist church couldn't hold them all.

Mr. Dave Woolley has accepted a position with Mooney & Woolley, at Strassburg. He said he couldn't do without the NEWS, and sent us fifty cents for six months subscription.

Rev. A. E. Burns, a travelling evangelist, and also a most excellent preacher, will fill the pulpit at the Baptist church to-night (Thursday.) If you want to be well entertained, don't fail to go and hear him.

On the fourth Sunday in this month, at 7 o'clock p. m., there will be a union thanksgiving service at the Baptist church, consisting of several short talks, songs and prayers. All are cordially invited.

Mr. Alex. A. Wall, proprietor, of the St George hotel, has just received a beautiful register, made by the Hatch Hotel Register Co, of Des Moines, Iowa. The register contains advertisements from several of the leading business firms in town.

Thirteen seems to be a favorite number with Mrs. Hudson. Her department has 13 instruments, her postoffice box is No. 13, and thirteen girls board at her boarding house.

In company with Rev. P. L. Abernathy, we visited Concord last week, one of Bro. Abernathy's churches. While there, we visited the school. Mr. James Moore, the teacher, treated us with a great deal of courtesy. If appearance counts anything, Mr. Moore has a fine school, as everything is fixed up so nicely. He takes a great interest in his school, which is the best we have ever seen in the county. Bro. Abernathy made a very interesting talk to the pupils. We certainly enjoyed our trip, and hereby extend thanks to Bro. Abernathy for his kindness.

Mr. W. B. Reynolds, who owns the building occupied by the Shelby County Bank, has just had a beautiful sign painted on the large glass front of that building. The sign is composed of only three words—"Shelby County Bank," and is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." This pretty sign was painted by Mr. Frank Vest, of Birmingham. Mr. Vest is a son of Sheriff Vest, and was born and reared in Montevallo, where he has a host of friends, who are always glad to hear of his success. This beautiful work of art cost $50 00, and must be seen to be appreciated.

We took in several of the departments at the college yesterday. Mr S B Gibson chaparoned us. We were very much interested in the typewriting department, which is conducted by Mr. Gibson. He has 13 machines and 65 pupils. More so in the telegraphy department. Mrs. Hudson told us several things we didn't know. We were afraid to talk much, as we did't know any too much about telegraphy—it all sounded alike to us. We didn't forget the cooking department. Mr. Gibson promised us a lot of good things. We found that the girls liked good things as well if not better than ourself. They left the dishes, but that was about all. Miss Evans, who has charge of this department, promised to save something for us next time. She has 12 classes and 210 pupils.

The Dormitory Polytechnic Club had its second meeting at the hall on Saturday, Oct. 30th, but owing to the illness of one of their number, only a part of their program was carried out. The hall was prettily decorated for hallow'een. One feature of the occasion was a mammoth pumpkin man that winked and blinked from his elevated position in the corner in solemn approbation of the evening recitation and songs, interspersed with the usual hallow'een observances of telling fortunes, etc. The club wore the colors of orange and blue, and decided upon a monogram pin of gold.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Saturday, Nov. 13th.

The D. P. C. reporter will be glad to furnish some items for the NEWS of each meeting.

Among other things we are happy to announce that we have at length had steam turned on in the building and our rooms made exceedingly comfortable, as the friends most interested in the proceedings of the dormitory might possibly discover by the use of a good field glass, as well as some other most entertaining facts—chicken for dinner on Sundays, for instance.

REPORTER D. P. C.

WANTED ACENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!

C. L. Meroney & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE.

☞Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store.☜

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

Watch this space next week.

A SONG OF AUTUMN.

Ho for the bending sheaves,
Ho for the crimson leaves
  Flaming in splendor!
Season of ripened gold,
Plenty in crib and fold,
Skies and depth untold,
  Liquid and tender.

Far, like the smile of God,
See how the goldenrod
  Ripples and tosses!
Yonder, a crimson vine
Trails from a bearded pine,
Thin as a thread of wine
  Staining the mosses.

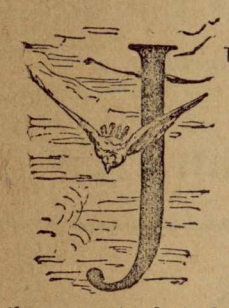
Bright 'neath the morning blue
Sparkles the frosted dew,
  Gem-like and starry.
Hark how the partridge cock
Pipes to his scattered flock,
Mindful how swift the hawk
  Darts on his quarry!

Autumn is here again—
Banners on hill and plain
  Blazing and flying.
Hail to the amber morn,
Hail to the heapt-up corn,
Hail to the hunter's horn,
  Swelling and dying!

—James Buckham, in "The Heart of Life."

A WEDDING RECEPTION

By HELEN FORREST GRAVES.



"JUST what I expected!" said Miss Delavigue, mournfully.

She was sitting out on the balcony, where the mignonnete and asters were all a blaze of vivid color, to enjoy the sunset; but she didn't enjoy it any more, after Muriade Vail had told her the news. There was a band playing in the little park, whose green grass and sparkling fountain formed such a pretty picture, but she did not hear its music any longer.

"Married!" said Miss Delavigue, lifting her hands and drawing a sepulchral sigh—"married! Does the whole world think, and dream, and trouble itself about nothing else?"

"I'm very sorry, aunt," said Muriade, "but—"

"No, you are not," interrupted Miss Delavigue. "Don't begin, at this late day, to tell me falsehoods."

"I don't mean that I'm sorry because I've promised to marry Tom," said Muriade, with a bright spot on each cheek, "because that would be a falsehood. No, indeed, I'm not sorry; but I mean I'm vexed to disappoint you, aunt."

Muriade was a dark, Spanish-eyed girl, with brows like two perfect arches; a red, cherry-cleft mouth, and the most roguish of dints, scarcely large enough to be dignified with the name of dimple, that came and went in a capricious fashion in her chin. She stood, with folded hands and head slightly drooped, before the prim, elderly lady, whose black silk dress resolved itself into such perfect folds, and whose iron-gray curls hung so precisely on either side of her face.

"Didn't I take you when you were seven years old, and bring you up as a young lady should be brought up?" sadly demanded Miss Delavigue.

"Yes, aunt."

"And haven't I had you educated at Mademoiselle Melisse's, with extra piano lessons, and your voice cultivated at two dollars a lesson?" went on the old lady.

"Yes, aunt," confessed Muriade.

"And," severely went on the catechist, "just as you were getting to be a real companion for me in my advancing years, you forget all this, and run off with—Tom Whitworth."

"I haven't run off with him, aunt!" flashed out Muriade, scarcely knowing whether to laugh or cry.

"But you would if you couldn't wring a consent from me. You know you would," said Miss Delavigue. "You'd scramble down a ladder, or climb out of a fourth-story window."

"I love him, aunt," said Muriade, earnestly; "and he loves me."

"Rubbish!" said Aunt Delavigue, with an energy which nearly tipped her eye-glasses from her Roman nose. "You mean that he loves your expectations. He loves the idea of inheriting my money and this brown-stone house, and all the shares in the Mexican silver mines. That's the beginning and the end of it!"

"Never, aunt!" cried poor Muriade.

"That's well," grimly pronounced Miss Delavigue; "because I've my own ideas on the subject. I don't know that I'm at all too old to marry myself."

"Aunt!" exclaimed Muriade, in surprise.

"Why not?" said Miss Delavigue. "I suppose there can be old fools as well as young ones."

"But," pleaded Muriade, "are you in earnest?"

"Why shouldn't I be in earnest?"

"Aunt," burst out Muriade, "is it Major Larkington? Is it? Oh, I know it is! And oh, aunt, dear, I do so hope you will be happy! And Major Larkington is perfectly splendid, since he got his false teeth, only, aunt, those tedious stories of his about the war in Florida—won't you get tired of them, if you're obliged to hear them every day?"

Miss Delavigue looked in some perplexity at her niece. She had supposed that this hint would have filled Muriade with dismay and disappointment; but on the contrary that young lady appeared to accept the idea as the most natural thing in the world. And Tom Whitworth, chancing, entirely by accident, of course, to come in just about that time, coincided in Muriade's view of affairs entirely.

"The jolliest thing I ever heard of," declared Tom, who was a fair-complexioned young Saxon, with curly yellow locks, a blonde moustache and superb teeth—which latter was a fortunate circumstance, because Tom Whitworth was always laughing. "It's regular middle-aged romance!"

"I dare say," said Miss Delavigue, primly. "But what do you say to some one else getting all my money?"

"Dear me!" said Tom, lifting his blonde brows. "It was Muriada I wanted, not your money, Miss Delavigue. Of course. if you chose to leave it to us, after you had done with it, it would have been very acceptable. Ready cash always comes handy. Now, you know that, Muriade, as well as I do," in response to a warning gesture from his fiancee.

"Oh, Tom, you are such a bungler!" said Muriade, half laughing, half crying.

"Well, perhaps I am," confessed Tom. "But I want Miss Delavigue to understand the whole thing. The money is hers, and we don't grudge it to her. And we're ready to work for our own, aren't we, Muriade? I'm not rich, but my office brings me a thousand dollars a year, and we're both going to economize like everything—aren't we, Muriade? And Major Larkington's a brick, and we hope you'll be happy, exactly as we're going to be."

And Tom Whitworth squeezed Miss Delavigue's hand until the old lady cried out for mercy.

"And now, aunt," said Muriade, radiantly, "when is the wedding to be? And why haven't you said anything about it before?"

Miss Delavigue hesitated a little. She blushed. Apparently she did not know what to say on the spur of the moment.

"Well," she faltered, "Major Larkington did say something about the twentieth of December."

"Christmas-time!" exclaimed Muriade. "Oh, Tom, how perfectly delightful! Couldn't we manage to have our wedding at the same time?"

"No," said Tom, stoutly. "We must be married on the first of December. You said we should, Muriade, and you mustn't go back of your word."

"But, Tom, it would only be three weeks."

"Three weeks or three days," stoudly maintained Tom Whitworth, "you promised me, and I can't let you off."

"Well, then, you obstinate fellow," said Muriade, "we can be back from our trip just in time to dance at Aunt Delavigue's wedding."

"Agreed!" said Tom, looking very happy, indeed.

Apparently the young couple were in no wise discomfited at the idea of going to housekeeping on a capital of love, and love alone.

Tom Whitworth began to look diligently around among dim old auction rooms and musty second-hand stores, to find something astoundingly cheap and delightfully comfortable, wherewith to garnish the small cottage which he had decided to take a little out of town, so as to economize in rent.

And Muriade joined a cooking class, made herself a bib-apron, and began to come down into Miss Delavigue's kitchen to experiment in pies and puddings, dainty little tea-biscuit, and salad which might have tempted an anchorite to break his vows.

And she studied up the question of polishing brasses, cleaning plate-glass, mending china, and darning table linen with notable earnestness. And she was more affectionate than ever with her aunt.

"Because," she told Tom, "there is something so pathetic about Aunt Delavigue's happiness, coming so strangely in the autumn of her life. And I'm afraid, Tom—now don't tell anybody—that Major Larkington is only going to marry her for her money. For he is certainly ten years younger than she is, and he has only come from Philadelphia once to see her since the engagement."

"Love is like the measles," said Tom, philosophically. "Every one has it a different way."

While Miss Delavigue, who had been judge and jury all by herself, at least rendered the verdict to a public consisting of herself, alone.

"They love each other, after all. My money had nothing to do with it. Tom loves Muriade, and Muriade has not ceased to love her old aunt, now that she no longer believes herself to be an heiress. There is such a thing as honor, and truth, and real affection in the world, after all."

The first of December came, and Miss Delavigue gave Muriade the prettiest of weddings, under a marriage bell of white rose-buds and smilax, with an artistic little dejeuner, and the bride went away in a dove-colored silk dress, with daisies in her hat.

"But, aunt," she said, "it's so strange that Major Larkington isn't here?"

"He couldn't come," said Miss Delavigue. "He'll be on hand on the twentieth. Mind you and Tom get back in time!"

"Oh, we'll be sure to do that!" said Muriade. "And be sure, aunt, that you thank the major for the dear little pearl locket that he sent me."

The twentieth of December came; so did Mr. and Mrs. Tom Whitworth, fresh from the icy spray of Niagara Falls.

Miss Delavigue's parlors were once more decorated with the choicest hot-house flowers, while Souberetti's men were arranging the supper-table. The old lady herself, in pearls, point lace, and the palest of lavender silks, stood in the middle of the room, receiving her guests. Major Larkington himself was there, looking very stiff and military, and an old-young lady in a dress exactly of the same pattern of Miss Delavigue's.

"You are late, Tom and Muriade," said the hostess, beamingly. "The marriage ceremony was performed half an hour ago. The major thought he would rather have it over before the guests began to arrive. Stop! Don't congratulate me! I'm not the bride. This," introducing the old-young lady with the profusion of curls, and the slight soupcon of powder on her cheek bones, "is Mrs. Major Larkington, and my old schoolmate, Helena Dove, who has given me great pleasure by accepting my hospitality on this occasion."

"Delighted. I am sure!" stammered Tom, staring with all his eyes.

"Many congratulations!" faltered Muriade, scarcely less amazed.

And then they took advantage of a stream of newcomers, who monopolized the bridal pair and taxed Miss Delavigue with her duplicity.

"Sold," said Tom, succinctly, "completely!"

"Aunt, how could you deceive us so?" said Muriade.

"I didn't deceive you," said Miss Delavigue, laughing. "I said there could be old fools as well as young ones, and I say so still. And you yourself mentioned Major Larkington! I didn't feel myself called upon to go into any disclaimers, although I knew then that he was engaged to Helena Dove; and the only point I gained was the certainty that my dear niece and nephew were not heartless fortune-seekers, but loved me just as well as if they believed themselves my heirs, as well as the conviction that Tom Whitworth loved Muriade just because she was Muriade, and not the rich old woman's only relation."

Miss Delavigue made her will the next day, and she left all her money to Muriade and Tom, because she was easy in her mind at last.

"It was a regular conspiracy," she said; "but it revealed to me exactly what I wanted to know."—Saturday Night.

A Magnetic Island.

The stories of magnetic mountains that exert an attraction that cannot be withstood on all vessels that come into their vicinity have some foundation in reality, and that, too, in the neighborhood of Germany. The well known island of Bornholm, situated in the Baltic, and belonging to Denmark, may be regarded as a huge magnet. Although the power of this magnet is not so great that it can draw the nails out of ships, as was told of the island in the "Arabian Nights," the magnetism of the rocks on the island of Bornholm can cause a good deal of trouble to ships in quite another way. It exerts such an influence on the magnetic needle that it can cause a vessel to turn perceptibly aside from her course. This is quite possible, as the effect of this magnetic island is perceptible at a distance of nine and a half miles.—Glasgow Herald.

What "Ocean Springs" Is.

Ocean Springs, the scene of the fever epidemic, is the oldest French settlement on the Gulf Coast. In 1682 La Salle and Tonty, after having explored the Northwestern country, paddled down the Mississippi River to its mouth and claimed all the sourrounding country in the name of the French King. Several years later France sent out colonists who settled at Ocean Springs, which, however, they called Fort Biloxi, the name having been changed in recent years. The plague which visited these early colonists from time to time was probably nothing more nor less than yellow fever.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

ROOF OF THE WORLD.

AN UNKNOWN COUNTRY AND ITS STRANGE INHABITANTS.

Lassa, in the Land of the Lama, the Impenetrable Mountain Realm of Thibet—Its People Are Savage and Depraved.

A few years since, two Russian explorers, MM. Menkhoudjinoff and Oulanoff, arrived at Shanghai after a journey of two years and nine months through Thibet, in the course of which they penetrated to the capital, Lassa, and had actually had an interview with the great Dalai Lama himself. The wonderfulness of this feat can only be appreciated in the light of the knowledge that no European has ever before entered Lassa within the memory of the living world. The few explorers who have dared the perils of the wild and snowy changs, lofty plateaus, the robber Dokpas or dwellers in black tents, the Chinese guards and the Thibetan soldiery, have only succeeded in struggling through dreary miles of deserts and along monsoon-swept marshes, and have returned with only half-glimpsed descriptions of the innumerable monasteries, the prayer-mills or rattles and the buttered tea of this unique and most unknown country.

This impregnably barred Lassa is the dwelling place of the Dalai Lama, the chief priest of Thibet and Mongolia. This religious pretender is worshipped as the earthly incarnation of Buddha. Incense is burned to him before a gigantic idol of the god of Jamba, a monstrous image of clay and gilt with jeweled head, which sits enthroned in the great white palace of the Potala. Lamaism is a hybrid Buddhism, just as Mohammedanism is a hybrid Christianity.

The utter exclusion of all foreigners from this strange land has been and is undoubtedly due to the fear of the Thibetan hierarchy of priests that this absurd imposition of their red and yellow religion, which has completely enslaved the Thibetans, might be speedily overthrown by the Christian "devils;" They are afraid the wealth of the monasteries would be revealed. At present the priests own Thibet as absolutely as though they held fee-simple to every foot of its ground. The Chinese empire holds a nominal temporal sway, but dares not—if it would—disturb the Dalai Lama and his army of priests. MM. Menkhoudjinoff nd Oulanoff are the first travelers who have gazed upon and entered that city hitherto as inaccessible as the north pole.

The immense territory of Thibet is almost completely surrounded by mountain ranges of appalling magnitude, which, especially along the southern, western and northern frontiers, constitute formidable barriers against ingress. From the Pamir plateau, in the extreme west, ("the world's backbone,") radiate the great natural ramparts, which shut out India on the one hand and the Tartar countries of Bokhara and Turkestan on the other. No Asiatic or western conqueror has even dared to penetrate this mountain world, and even Genghis Khan, the scourge of Asia, whose ravages extended from Pekin in the east to Moscow in the west, was obliged, when invading northern India, to take the circuitous rout via Kashghar and Afghanistan, instead of crossing Thibet. Secure on their lofty plateau, and practically isolated from the rest of the world, the people have remained undisturbed for ages, and have developed characteristics for which we would vainly search in any other race of the globe.

The Thibetans occupy a very low position in the scale of human advancement, especially if judged from our western standard of civilization. Their culture is inferior to that of most semi-barbarous races, comparing unfavorably even with that of certain Indian tribes of the American continent, such as the Pueblos, Zunis, etc. In physiognomy and general appearance they strongly resemble the inhabitants of Swedish Lapland, as well as the Eskimos of Northern Siberia, being short-sized, broad-shouldered and possessed of the same angular Mongolian features Indeed, the Thibetans are, perhaps, the most ill-favored of Turanian races. A close interbreeding during many centuries of isolation has produced a striking facial similarity, and has developed a peculiarly repulsive normal type of countenance. A broad, very low forehead, excessively prominent cheek bones, oblique eyes, and coarse bristly black hair are characteristics which do not materially enhance the beauty of the "human form divine," but the most singular peculiarity of the Thibetan face is the almost total absence of the bridge of the nose. Among a dozen Thibetans, chosen at random, hardly one will be found whose nasal organ is not so completely flattened or sunk in the middle as to be practically level in the middle as to be practically level with the eyes. Seen in profile such a face presents a ludicrous appearance; there is one continuous line of cheek bone, with the tip of the nose sticking out like a solitary beacon. But a compensatory providence has added to the ears what is lacking in probosial circumference, and it is but fair to state that the auricular appendages of the average Thibetans are of generous size.

The Thibetans are absolutely without gratitude. They will demand tremendous rewards for feeble services, steal everything within sight, regard politeness and gentleness as indications of cowardice, and merely refrain from stabbing their guests because their courage fails them. Poisoning is popular, and the Thibetan is so suspicious of his own countryman that he will drink and eat nothing until his host partakes plentifully before him. The character of all the Thibetans, settled and nomandic is the same—cowardly, faithless and immoral. They are servile to the brave, insolent to the fearful and mere tools in the hands of the lamas, or monks. They are false to their best-friends, as is witnessed by their desertion of the French missionaries who have been their most constant helpers.

Their physique is notably good, and they stand cold and hunger admirably. They are active, and at first view, lighthearted and genuine; but in reality are cunning, foul and unlovable. They are very unclean, rarely or never bathing their persons. The dress of the common people consists of a very dirty, greasy sheepskin robe which they use as bedding at night. The taste for trading is very strongly developed, and they seize every opportunity to make money. Vast quantities of tea are consumed by them, and they enjoy it, especially when mixed with butter and salt. Their tea is sold in bricks and is of a very inferior quality. During all discussions of state and in their ordinary assemblies, each man has a cup before him which is continually replenished.

The population of Thibet proper and Chinese Thibet is 8,000,000. Looking at the enormous strentch of country over which these millions are distributed, it is apparent that the country is very sparcely populated.—Boston Transcript.

A DECLINING INDUSTRY.

Same Skill No Longer Required in Making Famous Straw Hats.

A strike in the gentle, smiling valley of the Arno, says a Rome correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, has drawn attention to the straw-plait industry there. It is one that is greatly affected by change of fashions, and has its periods of prosperity and depression. The days have gone by when the property about Florence was divided among a few manufacturers of straw hats (what the English call Leghorns), who when marrying their daughters gave them a dot of several thousand of scudi, (each scudi being worth four shillings), and a straw hat, the strands of which, less than a millimetre in width, were made of straws so fine that, after being woven, a magnifying glass was needed to distinguish them. Now rich travelers travelling through Florence go no more to the Via Porta Rossa to pay 100 francesconi (£22 for a straw hat to take home as a present.

Fashion has transformed the Florence straw industry. The profit now comes from the quantity, not the quality; and consequently the hand work at one time sought after and well paid has gradually decreased in price until the wages of the workers are infamous. When the wholesale price of a hat, all made and sewed, is a penny or two—and there are those at even a lower price—it is easy to imagine what compensation the straw-workers get for the twenty-five to thirty-five yards of made strands which are necessary for one hat.

The skill formerly required in the plaiting is, however, no longer required. Once it was an art, now every one can do it—the boys and girls who drive the cattle to pasture, the women at home, beggars, all those who have nothing else to do. In the mountains the men who break stones have been seen at straw-plaiting in their few leisure moments, and even men who drive coal carts. This "vulgarization" and overproduction will, in the end, be the death of the industry. There have been immense exportations, especially to America, and, consequently, an overstocked market; and until some means are found of diminishing the production the industry will go from bad to worse, with the gravest consequences to those who live by it.

There are exporters who buy the straw plait in bulk, paying if not sufficient for the work, more than is warranted by their own profits, and who only continues the business out of charity for the poor people of the district. But this in many cases does not prevent them from being accused of profiting by the necessities of the workers. Hence the strike.

Another misfortune for this industry is the new United States tariff, which raises the duty on worked straw from 25 to 35 per cent of its value. Besides the Italian productions have to struggle, in America, against the competition, increasing day by day, of the Japanese and Chinese straw. The outlook is indeed dark, for no matter how the poor Florentine straw-plaiters protest and strike, they have no remedy. It is a question of overproduction for a constantly diminishing market.

A paper in Western ntario is being sued for libel because it asserted that a member of the local baseball team could not play baseball.

The breaking of the bottle liberates a certain amount of gas, and the heat of the fire generates more, thus working its own destruction.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Pointed and Pithy Paragraphs.

TWO MISSIONARIES MURDERED IN CHINA.

Trial of the Crew of the Competitor in Progress—Married in a Lion's Cage—Miners' Strike Settled—Memphis Visited by a Fire—Other News Notes.

England politely declined to take part in fisheries convention at Tampa.

Prof. George Fredrick Holmes, of the University of Virginia, died last week.

Daniel Morgan, while asleep, walked out of a window at Nashville and was killed.

Cuban patriots in New York will protest against proposed Spanish reforms in Cuba.

The trial of the crew of the schooner Competitor before the naval court martial at Havana was begun Monday.

The Singapore Chamber of Commerce recommends the gold standard for the Straights settlement, Malay Peninsula.

Hattie, the 7-year old daughter of J. C. Norris, who lives near Chattanooga, was fatally burned last week, by having her dress ignited.

A young couple were married in a lion's cage in Boston last week. The ceremony was witnessed by 5,000 people. A lion on either side were the attendants.

The Carter Package Company's plant at Memphis, manufacturers of wooden buckets, etc., was entirely destroyed by fire last week. Loss, $20,000; no insurance.

The Cologne Volks Zeitung announces that the Rhenish missionaries, Nies and Henle, have been murdered in the southern part of the Chinese province of Shan Tung.

The differences between operators and miners in Tennessee have been settled. The scale at which the men will work, under the new agreement, is 5 cents lower than last winter's scale.

In an old dilapidated house in Atlanta the body of Mrs. Zion Bridwell, an old woman, was found cold in death hanging to the rafters last Friday night. Her husband has been arrested for the crime on suspicion.

Mrs. Celia Wallace, of Chicago, has taken a fancy to Evangelina Cassio y Cisneros, the Cuban refugee, and offered to adopt the Cuban maid and make her an heiress to a fortune estimated at $500,000. It is probable that she will accept the offer.

James Ponder, former Governor of Delaware, died at his home in Milton Friday of paralysis, aged 78 years. He was for years active in State politics as a Democrat, served as Speaker of the State Senate and was elected Governor in 1870, serving four years.

A slight earthquake was felt at Helena, Mont., Thursday, rocking buildings. It was of seven seconds' duration, but as yet no damage is known to have been caused by it. The shock was also felt in Butte and Anaconda. Many people were shaken out of bed, chimneys fell and plate glass was broken.

The United States consul at San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, has informed the department of state that Noberte Arguello, who killed an American citizen named William Wilson at Rama in 1894, has been arrested and sent to the interior as a prisoner. His punishment was demanded by our government.

The Spanish government, as the result of the deliberations of the Ministers over the utterances of General Weyler, former captain-general of Cuba, has come to the decision to try him by court martial no matter where he lands, if he confirms the accuracy of the press reports of his utterances.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that the porte, under the threat from the Bulgarian government that unless the promised Berats to the Bulgarian bishops in Macedonia should be granted before 10 o'clock a. m. Thursday, Bulgaria would declare independence, finally acceded to the demands and granted the berats.

British Ambassador to the United States Sir Julian Pauncefort has been instructed to ascertain the views of the government of the United States in regard to a reciprocity treaty with the West Indies.

The cotton men of Austin, Texas, have issued an estimate of the total cotton crop for the 1897 season, placing it at 9,948,091 bales, divided as follows: Alabama, 1,094,025; Arkansas, 797,412; Florida, 64,347; Georgia, 1,296,624; Louisiana, 627,868; Mississippi, 1,296,624; North Carolina and Virginia, 562,278; South Carolina, 883,192; Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma, 887,558; Texas and Indian Territory, 2,896,732.

Major Mac Murray, commanding the First Artillery at Fort Barrancas, Fla., has been instructed by General Wilson, the chief of engineers, to restore the walls of old Fort San Carlos, near Barrancas. This is the oldest and most interesting old fortress in the United States. It was originally built by the Spaniards and was several times captured by the American army under General Jackson in 1821. It will now probably be supplied with rapid-fire guns.

NO DIMINUTION YET.

Uncle Sam's Pension Roll Grows Larger, as Seen by the Report.

The first annual report of Commissioner of Pensions H. Clay Evans to the secretary of the interior was made public Friday.

There were added to the rolls during the year 50,101 new pensioners, and there were restored to the rolls 3,971 pensioners who had been previously dropped, a total of 54,072. Losses were 3,960 by death, 1,074 by re-marriage of widows and mothers, 1,145 by legal limitation (minors), 2,683 for failure to claim pension for three years and 360 for other causes, an aggregate of 41,122.

The whole number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1897, was 976,014. The net gain over the previous year was 5,336. It will thus be seen that the pension roll has not yet begun to show any diminution. Seven widows of revolutionary soldiers and nine daughters of revolutionary soldiers are still on the rolls.

The amount disbursed for pensions by the pension agents during the year was $139,799,242.12, and the amount disbursed by treasury settlement was $150,475.23, a total of $139,949,717. This exceeds the amount disbursed during the fiscal year 1896 by the sum of $1,854,480.

NEW YORK'S PATRONAGE.

Second Only to That of the President of the United States.

More than 55,000 persons will directly or indirectly draw pay from the city in the first administration of the mayor of Greater New York. The salaries of 33,000 of these whose names will be actually on the city's pay roll will aggregate $33,000,000. Part of this amount represents the salaries and patronage of the other officers elected on Tuesday, but this is comparatively small, most of the total representing the patronage of Greater New York's first mayor, Robt. A. Van Wyck.

Second only to the president of the United States, in the value of his patronage, the first mayor of the greater city is first in the significance of this patronage. With his colleagues-elect, of the same political party as himself, Mr. Van Wyck can lead an army of office-holders, and those indirectly employed by the city, as great as the Army of the Potomac.

Tragedy at Gallatin, Tenn.

The Dismukes-Rhodes affair at Gallatin, Tenn., a few days ago, has at last resulted in a tragedy. Thursday afternoon John Rhodes was standing in the public square, when Martin Dismukes came out of the court house and fired at Rhodes with a double-barreled shotgun. Rhodes ran a few steps and fell. Bystanders rushed in and prevented Dismukes from firing again. The gun was loaded with buckshot. One ball struck Rhodes in the shoulder and another entered just under the heart, inflicting probably fatal wounds.

The shooting was the outcome of an attack upon ex-Senator Dismukes by the Rhodes boys a few days ago. Martin Dismukes tried to kill Rhodes on the day of the attack on his father, firing once at him, but striking a bystander

TEN MORE VICTIMS.

Yellow Fever Death Rate at New Orleans Heavier.

Friday's record of fever cases in New Orleans is not encouraging. Thirty-one new cases deveioped and ten deaths occurred. The situation, while it has not improved any, is not considered worse. To date there have been 1,706 cases and 223 deaths.

Mobile reports eleven new cases and one death for Friday.

Other cities and towns report as follows: Montgomery, deaths 1; Cayuga, 1; Biloxi, 2; Scranton, 3; Bay St. Louis, 3, deaths 1; Memphis 1.

Plunged Into a River.

The Chesapeake and Ohio vestibule express, known as the "F. F. V.," from Cincinnati to Washington, was wrecked near Old Shadwell, five miles east of Charlottsville, Va., Thursday afternoon. Four persons were killed and seventeen injured. All the cars except the baggage car and the Richmond sleeper were derailed. Two cars were pludged end foremost down the steep embankment and one of them went into the Rivannia river, which at this place skirts the track. The day passenger coach and the express car were badly wrecked. The accident was caused by the breaking of the axle of the front truck of the locomotive.

TRADE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER.

Resumption of Traffic and Prospective Revival in Staples Are Features.

TRADE STIMULATED BY THE COLD WEATHER.

October Made a Splendid Record on Failures—Moderate Reaction in Iron and Steel—Leading Manufacturing Industries Continue Fairly Well Employed.

Bradstreet's trade report says in part:

Killing frosts south, the raising of quarantine embargoes in nearly all states invaded by yellow fever, the resumption of traffic and a prospective revival in demand for staple merchandise constitute the trade features of the week.

Rains in central western and western states, followed by colder weather have favored farmers and stimulated demand from interior store keepers. Jobbers in northwestern states are awaiting seasonable weather to stimulate the movement of heavy dry goods and winter clothing. Features at larger Pacific coast cities are confined to sales of merchandise and provisions for the Klondike, and the heavy foreign shipments of wheat and flour. New England centers report that orders from the west exceed those from the south or east. Leading manufacturing industries continue fairly well employed. While there has been a moderate reaction in iron and steel, furnaces and mills continue well employed, and the outlook for higher quotations next year is unchanged.

In addition to lower prices for southern and Bessemer pig and for steel billets quotations for naval stores, wools, copper, coffee, pork, flour, oats and wheat are lower, while those for cotton, print cloths, sugar and beef are unchanged, and corn, lead and lard a shade higher. Exports of wheat (flour included), from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week aggregate 5,477,156 bushels, compared with 5,911,691 bushels last week, 3,477,000 bushels one year ago.

Exports of Indian corn this week amount to 2,199,550 bushels, compared with 1,589,000 bushels last week, 2,407,000 bushels in the corresponding week one year ago.

There are 223 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 218 last week; 223 in the week a year ago, 260 two years ago, 261 three years ago and as compared with 333 in the first week of November, 1893.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

The President of Brazil Attacked by a Desperate Soldier.

A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says: At 1 o'clock Friday afternoon a soldier of the Tenth battalion, which constitutes part of the local garrison, attempted to shoot President Moraes with a pistol. The president was just landing at the marine hospital after visiting the steamer on which General Barbardosa, minister of marine, had returned from Baia.

The by-standers frustrated the attempt, but Colonel Moraes, the president's nephew, was slightly wounded in disarming the soldier.

General Bitancour, minister of war, then interfered and was himself stabbed. The wound was so serious that he died soon afterwards.

An Ill Fated Train.

A passenger train on the St. Louis and Southwestern road, known as the "Cotton Belt" route, was ill fated, and death marked its run Friday. Near Mount Pleasant the train ran over J. C. Beasley, ex-section foreman, who had fallen asleep on the track. He was instantly killed,

About thirty miles further west, near Greenville, three negro children were playing down among the timbers of a trestle bridge. They scampered up to the track, trying to escape. Two were killed between the rails. The other child died an hour later.

A few miles further west, near Wylie, a passenger named J. C. Davis entered the toilet room and committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

May Open Arbitration Negotiations.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, who is just back from London, probably will confer with Secretary Sherman at an early date concerning the reopening of negotiations for an Anglo-American treaty of arbitration. Mr. Sherman made known to the British authorities some months ago that the president would view with favor a reopening of the negotiations, and was hopeful that a peace treaty ultimately would be secured. The British officials were much gratified at this suggestion, but no negotiations were entered upon. Since then Sir Julian has visited London and has had an opportunity to learn the views of the foreign office.

NEGRO COLONY LAUNCHED.

Mrs. Lillian K. Ray, an English Woman, at the Head.

Saturday witnessed the formal opening of the Cedar Lake negro colony in Morgan county, promoted and backed by Mrs. Lillian K. Ray, the wealthy English woman, who represents a syndicate of English capitalists. Application was made for a city charter, and a provisional government elected. Several hundred negroes were present, and seem to be in earnest with the movement. The colony comprises 367 acres of fine wheat and tobacco lands, beautifully located, on either side of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, three and a half miles from Decatur.

Mrs. Ray has donated the lands to the colony, and built thereon school and church buildings and donated $10,000 on condition that 140 houses are built by the negroes within another year. She has enlisted the aid and support of many prominent and wealthy people. She read a letter to the gathering from President Smith, of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, promising aid and support to build a depot, side tracks, etc., and give all necessary shipping concessions. She has the promise of a wealthy Providence, R. I., firm to erect a 20,000 spindle cotton mill at a cost of $60,000, and a cigar factory. She will be materially aided by Thomas J. Lipton, an English millionaire. He is interested in tobacco culture, and his plantations in Cuba having been destroyed has decided to invest in Alabama, as he believes tobacco culture here will be profitable.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS NOTES.

New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the most important new industries for the week ending Nov. 6, The Tradesman reports the following: A flouring mill at Lebanon, Tenn.; gas works to cost $60,000 at Newport, News, Va.; the Tisdale Mining and Manufacturing Co., capital $33,500, at Butler, Ga.; the Huguenot Mining and Milling Co., the Arctic Circle Mining Co., capital $1,000,000, and the Grand Encampment Mining and Milling Co., capital $500,000, at Charleston, W. Va.; the Morgan County Cannel Coal Co., capital $25,000, at Frankfort, Ky.; the Carter Coal and Iron Co., capital $100,000, at Pulaski, Va., and the Jackson-Meshier Mining Co., capital $60,000, at Rome, Ga. The Peerless Clay Co., capital $18,000, has been incorporated at Butler, Ga.; the New York Petroleum Co., capital $500,000, at Parkersburg, W. Va., and the Frost Cotton Oil Co., capital $20,000, at Frost, Texas. A knitting mill will be erected at Burlington, N. C.; a rope and twine mill at Griffin, Ga.; a furniture factory at Little Rock, Ark.; a $10,000 lumber mill at Hamilton, N. C.; a $20,000 sawmill at Minneola, Ga., and $45,000 lumber mill at Vinton, La.

Other woodworking plants will be established at Brantford and Holley, Fla.; Belair and Cordele, Ga., and Elkin, N. C.

The Fever Situation.

The yellow fever report for Monday was more favorable than has been noted since the disease made its appearance and it is now apparent that the backbone is broken. Following is the report for the day: New Orleans, new cases 14, deaths 7; Mobile, new cases 6, deaths 2; Flomaton, new cases 3, deaths 0; Montgomery, new cases 1, deaths 0. Total new cases 24, deaths 9.

Nineteen Were Drowned.

The Western Transit company's steamer Idaho, which left Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday for Chicago, laden with package freight, foundered off long point on Lake Erie during a furious gale. The first mate and one sailor, who succeeded in reaching the rigging, were rescued by the steamer Mariposa. The rest of the crew, numbering nineteen, were undoubtedly drowned.

Durrant Must Hang.

The United States Supreme court Monday affirmed the decision of the circuit court for the California circuit refusing a writ of habeas corpus to William Henry Theodore Durrant, under sentence of death for the murder of Miss Blanche Lamont in San Francisco in April 1895.

Prominent Georgian Dead.

Col. Sam M. Carter, one of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of North Georgia, died Monday morning at his plantation in Murray county after an illness of eight weeks.

China Wants the Gold Standard.

According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, the emperor of China and the board of revenue have approved a memorial petitioning for the establishment of the gold standard and the collection of imports in gold. It is doubtful, however, if this will have any practical result.

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Killing at Bessemer.

John Crutcher, of Birmingham, was shot and killed at Bessemer by W. J. Crook.

Preparing for Mardi Gras.

Preparations are now being made for the celebration of mardi gras in Birmingham February 22 and 23.

To the Klondyke.

The mail carriers of Birmingham have organized a Klondyke Gold Mining company and will send one of their number to the New Eldorado in January.

James H. Little Dead.

James H. Little, formerly solicitor of Jefferson county, died at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Laura Little, at Livingston, Monday morning.

Clear of Fever at Montgomery.

The report of the Montgomery board of health Sunday was the most encouraging since the beginning of the epidemic. There were no deaths and no new cases.

Commissioner Appointed.

James R. Guin has been appointed United States commissioner to take the office formerly occupied by Marshal Dan Cooper. The appointment was made Saturday night by Judge Bruce.

Called to Eternal Rest.

Col. Alexander C. Davidson, ex-member of Congress from the old Fourth Alabama district, died Sunday morning at his residence in Uniontown. Deceased was 71 years of age.

New Postmasters.

The following postmasters were appointed for this state Saturday: Autaugaville, Lewis D. Hicks; Bell Mills, Ellen E. Hunt; Goldville, John W. Powell; Golightly, D. M. Norwood; Hollywood, James Riddle; Loftin, G. W. Willis; Montevallo, F. F. Crow; Ur, J. J. Wesley.

To Manufacture Spathite Iron.

Work is being pushed repairing the old Vanderbilt furnace near East Birmingham. It is intended to have the plant ready for the torch within the next sixty days at the latest. This furnace is to manufacture spathite iron altogether. It was recently purchased by parties from Tennessee, headed by Col. Sharpe, of Nashville.

Brained His Wife.

A fiendish crime was committed at Dolomite Saturday night by Aaron Bradley, a negro man about 50 years of age. Bradley had just been released from jail and, it is said, went to the house of his wife at that place and a quarrel ensued. He left the house, but returned later with an axe and was ordered from the house by the woman. Bradley resented the repremand with two blows of the axe upon her head, felling her to the floor and immediately fled.

Two Stills Destroyed.

Friday night Captain W. C. Hanlin and Deputy Collectors Nabers, Cole, Barker and Burgess discovered two stills right together, two miles northwest of Buchanan, in Cleburne county. Both were in operation and the alleged owners were on the spot. The stills were of 20 and 30-gallon capacity, and were turning out fresh "mountain dew" at a rapid rate. Twelve hundred gallons of beer was emptied upon the ground and both stills destroyed. Green Serrett and his son, Bass Serrett, were arrested.

Anniston in Luck.

A deal has been closed to move the Jacksonville Hosiery mill down from Jacksonville to Anniston. The new mill will be known as the Anniston Hosiery mill, and will manufacture men's and children's hosiery, making a specialty of fast black hosiery, and will have in connection with it a dye house. The mill will employ about fifty hands. All the machinery is new and up-to-date. The work of removal will commence at once, and the mill will be at work in Anniston by or before the last of this week.

To Sail for Cuba.

General Fitzhugh Lee, consul-general at Havana, will sail for his post of duty on Wednesday.

Football Doomed.

Representatiue Cole's football bill prohibiting match prize games of football in Georgia where admission fees are charged, came up in the house Monday with a favorable report from the general judiciary committee with an amendment striking out "games of like character." This was adopted and the bill passed by a vote of 91 to 3.

OPINIONS OF A WOMAN.

More men would marry if women made themselves more attractive to them.

Loud talking women seldom hear much good of themselves.

All men are not as black as they are painted.

Few men find it difficult to fall in love though they have little trouble in loving rich girls in preference to poor ones.

The average married man looks upon marriage as a lottery, and that he has drawn a blank.

There are many women who drive their husbands to drink.

The world is full of women who have sacrificed happy lives for duty.

A man or woman who seek divorce without cause invariably get the worst of it before the final end comes.

Men will talk about women, though few women are talked about who do not deserve it.

If some men could see themselves as women see them there would be a great shortage in the vanity market.—Ex.

Henry George was traveling once on a sleeping car. The porter came to brush the dust off and "work" him for the customary quarter. There were but few passengers. George reflected on the fact that Pullman paid his poor black hireling little or naught, and relied on their ability to brush and gouge the public instead and determined to give him all the change he found in his pocket. He thought there might be about 60 cts but there actually was $3 in quarters, halves and dimes. He gave it all to the darkey, who dropped his broom and stared at the tip and then at George. "This all fo' me, boss?" he gasped. "It's all for you," replied George. The darky looked at the little rusty, modest man, and again at his handful of silver. "Wow!" he ejaculated, "it's true as de good book puts it, you nevah cain tell how fah a toad kin jump twell you sees him hop."

Birmingham, Oct. 23.—Capt. W. H. Hughes, representative [illegible] the Tennessee Coal, Iron [illegible] road Company, who [illegible] Vera Cruz six weeks ago [illegible] a cargo of 1,200 tons of Alabama coal to introduce that product in Mexico, has returned and reports having laid the ground work for an extensive coal trade in that country. The Inter-Oceanic Railroad, to whom the sample load was sold, was so well pleased that it made a contract for a year's supply, 100,000 tons, to be used instead of English coal and native wood. Contracts will probably be made with other large consumers in Mexico as soon as their contracts with the English expire.

The recent action of Congress in removing the discriminating duty imposed upon Mexican ships loading coal shipments at American ports places the Alabama article in Mexico on an equal footing with the English, free of duties, while the freight rate is greatly in Alabama's favor.

The farmers in some sections of Alabama will grow wheat on a large scale next year. Those in this section who would doubtless have experimeted with it could not get seed to plant on account of the quarantine. While our farmers in this section cannot try it another year, they can inform themselves on wheat growing and culture and be prepared to do so in the future. Farmers can make more raising wheat at one dollar per bushel than they can making cotton at 5 cents a pound. It is not too late now to plant wheat if our farmers could procure seed. Any time between now and the last of November will do to sow wheat and if the quarantine is raised they can get the seed and plant on a small scale.—Ex.

B. W. [illegible], JR.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
COMMERCIAL LAW A SPECIALTY. ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2.00 per day.
Large sample room free.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

The SIXTH MISSING WORD CONTEST

The Atlanta Constitution Offers

One Tenth Of the Subscriptions

Received from those entering the Contest to name properly the missing word in the following sentence:

"Once given the passion for _____, that one of the precious metals will be most in demand which is cheapest." ∴ ∴ ∴

And, in Addition

TO THE 10 PER CENT, WE WILL GIVE

$100 Cash Extra

For the first Six Correct Guesses, as follows: $50 for the First Correct Guess and $10 Each for the Next Five, in their order, provided the same are received in our office on or before December 1st.

THE PERIOD COVERED

By This Contest shows about 16,000 expirations for The Weekly Constitution, and, of course, we want them all to renew and to enter the Contest.

THIS MEANS $1,600

For the Missing Word Fund, and every additional subscriber entering the contest will swell the amount the more.

This period also compares with our First Missing Word Contest last year, in which Mr. M. L. Brittain secured the prize—$1,033.50. As that was our First Contest, there were more than 5,000 subscribers received during the time, who did not enter for prize. It will not be so this time, for the plan is widely advertised and we have paid out within the past twelve months NEARLY $5,000 CASH upon the Five Missing Word Contests. The series has been of extraordinary interest, and the idea seems to grow in the public's favor.

The book containing the sentence is a standard publication and has been sealed up and placed with Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of The Constitution, who will hold it safely until January 1, 1898.

The sentence speaks for itself and submits a very plain proposition for you to solve.

The Contest Began November 1, 1897.
The Contest Ends January 1, 1898.

This contest lasts two months and the amount to be divided will probably be in the neighborhood of $2,000. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

The Greatest of All American Weekly Newspapers for One Year.

Keep That in View and Send Your Guess With Your Dollar for a Year's Subscription

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the two months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of contest:

WE PROPOSE TO PUT 10 PER CENT of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the fund.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent; there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

THE CONTEST BEGAN NOV. 1ST—We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses and on December 1st we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during December we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

THE CONTEST CLOSES JAN. 1ST—At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for January 1st is "....."

The above is the plan of The Constitution Contest, which all subscribers to that paper and ours, subscribing under the clubbing offer announced elsewhere, may enter. Address orders to

THE MONTEVALLO NEWS,
Montevallo, Ala.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep . . . . . .

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.
Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD.

Montevallo, Alabama.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1$, '97. NO 47.

How Does This Come at You?

I Can Tell You Where to Buy the Most Goods for $.

The Racket is the Cheapest Store in Montevallo!

These Prices Will Prove It. Read and See!

What They Have Not, They Will Gladly Order for You.

STATIONERY.

Note paper, per quire,	3
Envelopes, per pack,	4
Paper and Envelopes, per box,	9
Examination Tablets,	10
Pencil Tablets,	5
Ink "	5
Best Lead Pencils.	1
Falcon Pens, per dozen,	8
Spencerian Pens, "	10
Memorandum Books. 1 cent up
Large day books, 72 pages,	24
Pen staffs, each,	1
Erasers, each,	1
Stenographer's Pencils.	5

Anything else in this line cheap

NOTIONS—Cheaper than ever

Coats' Thread, per spool,	4
6 Balls of Thread,	5
144 Agate Buttons,	5
Suspenders, per pair,	10
1 dozen bone collar buttons,	3
Needles, per paper,	3
Pins 3 and 5 cents
7 inch combs,	7
3 inch fine combs,	4
Hair brushes,	15
Whisk Brooms,	10
Lamp Wicks, per yard,	5
Shaving Brushes 3 cents up
Case Knives per set,	47
4 boxes Blue Hen matches,	5
Elastic webbing, per yard,	5
Best Toilet Soap,	5
Corsets worth 75 cents, at	37
Lace pillow shams, per pair,	25
Lace curtains, per pair,	75
Blankets, worth $2,	$1 24
Bath towels, per pair,	14
Socks, 5, 7, 10 and	15
Ladies' Hose, 5, 7, 10, 15 and	25

Also a nice line of Ladies' Undervests too cheap to mention, but the very things for winter—ask to see them.

HANDKERCHIEFS

I have a nice line at any price from 3 cents up When in need of anything in this department, it will pay you to visit us.

LAMPS! LAMPS!

We sell them to suit your money—see if we don't!

Nice stock of Fancy Lamps, best in town, at $1 58 cents.

Beautiful Vase Lamps,	$1 27

Lamp chimneys, 4 cents up.

I have hand lamps 15 cents up.

I have a line of lamps suitable for Christmas presents.

Get my prices and see my goods before buying elsewhere.

TINWARE, WOOD WARE, GLASSWARE,

Cheaper Than Ever Known Here.

8 quart Dish Pans,	12
10 " " "	17
2 " Coffee Pots,	8
4 " " "	15
2 " Cake Pans,	4
2 " " " with stem,	9
6 " Milk Buckets,	10
1 " Dippers,	5
3 " Stew Pans,	10
Wash Pans, 5 cents up.
Strainers,	10
Egg Beaters.	4
Kitchen Forks,	4
Graters—large size,	4
3 Hoop Cedar Water Buckets,	39
Fiber Water Buckets,	74
Coffee Mills, best,	49

Many other articles just as useful and equally as cheap, which I have not space to mention, but will take pleasure in showing you.

JEWELRY!

Yes, I keep a nice line of up-to-date Jewelry, such as Watches, Chains, Charms, Rings, Pins and novelty goods in Sterling and Silver Plate. Also Clocks, Rogers' flat ware, Spectacles, etc., in fact, most anything to be found in a jewelry store. When in need of anything in the jewelry line I will make it to your pocket book's interest to call on me.

I do all kinds of Watch and Jewelry repairing and guarantee all my work first-class.

A word about clocks: You can buy any clocks of a regular merchant, but he cannot guarantee them because he cannot mend them when out of order. I can, and it is money to you to remember this when in need of a good time piece real cheap.

I am always glad to see you and to show you my goods, whether you want to buy or not.

Yours anxious to please,

THE RACKET,

J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,

MONTEVALLO, - - - - - ALA.

Old-Time Scotch Obituary.

The following death notice appeared in the Edinburgh Weekly Magazine of March 2, 1775: "Feb. 12—At New Reay, in the county of Caithness, much regretted, Francis Tait, parochial school master there, in the one hundred and second year of his age; a man of an athletic form, of a saturnine complexion and his size about six foot. He lived chiefly upon vegetables, was a favorite of the muses and at times drank freely. He was no less distinguished for his piety than for the good order he observed in his school, for his easy method of teaching and for infusing into his pupils a laudable spirit of emulation. He retained his senses to the last."

Over Half a Million for a Book.

The highest price ever offered for a single volume was tendered by a number of wealthy Hebrew merchants of Venice to Pope Julius II. for a very ancient Hebrew bible. It was believed to be an original copy of the Septuagent version of the scriptures, translated from the Hebrew into Greek in 277 B. C. The sum mentioned to Julius was $600,000, but the Pope declined the offer.

The Answer.

"Say, aren't those woolen clothes warm this kind of a day?"

"I don't know; I haven't asked them. If they are like me they are, though."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Nonsensical Notion.

Some folks actually believe that they can cure skin diseases through their stomachs. It's absurd on its face—absurd on the face of the man who believes, too, because his disease stays right there. Stays there till he uses Tetterine. It's the only safe and certain cure for Tetter, Ringworm, Eczema and other itchy irritations. Good for dandruff, too. At drug stores, 50 cents, or by mail from J.T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Rudyard Kipling

Has written one of his best stories for the 1898 volume of the Youth's Companion. "The Burning of the Sarah Sands" is its title, and it is a stirring tale of heroism in the ranks. Those who subscribe to The Youth's Companion now will receive the paper free for the rest of the year, and The Companion's twelve-color calendar for 1898. The Companion's yearly calendars are recognized as among the richest and most costly examples of this form of art. Illustrated Prospectus of this volume for 1898 and sample copies of the paper sent on application. Address, The Youth's Companion, 207 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed to in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

SEAL

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

I can recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption to sufferers from Asthma.—E. D. TOWNSEND, Ft. Howard, Wis., May 4, 1894.

CURED HIS CATARRH

Getting Better Very Soon After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My son had catarrh very badly and we could get nothing to do him any good. He was much run down. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla and after he began taking it he was soon getting better and is now well." Mrs. J. M. W. Hills, Antrim, N. H.

Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

SURE MONEY IN COTTON.

The price of cotton is at all times controlled by a few New York and Liverpool operators. I am fully posted in advance of all their intentions, and can show you how to make money by investing in Cotton, with none of the risks of speculation. Write for full particulars.

H. L., P. O. Box 1044, New York.

Electric Light on Battlefields.

Special attention is being given by the French military authorities to the questions of succoring the wounded on battlefields when night comes on after a great battle. Experiments have been made with powerful electric arc lights, but the apparatus has conditions. At length it has been practically determined that the ambulance corps men shall wear little incandescent glow-lamps in their hats, just like ladies of the ballet in a spectacular extravaganza. Each man is to carry a little primary battery in his pocket for the production of the current. The wounded in need of succor will look out for the little moving lights, and if possible drag themselves toward them. —Paris letter.

Number of Foreign Cardinals.

Cardinal di Rende's death, according to the Tablet, has made the number of foreign Cardinals greater than that of the Italian for the second time within twelve months. There are now thirty-one of the former to thirty of the latter, a state of things which, until within a few years, had not occurred for many centuries.

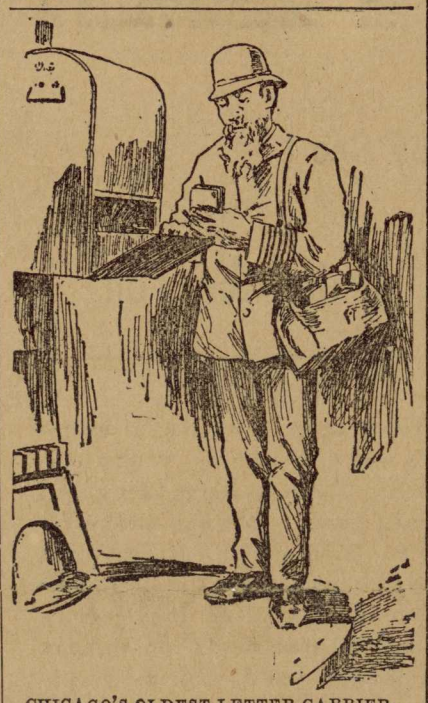
Not Very Cleanly.

The natives of Alaska never change their clothes, unless they are worn out. They are considered the filthiest race of beings on the earth.

CHICAGO'S VETERAN POSTMAN.

Abram D. Jones Thirty Years a Letter Carrier in the Windy City.

Letter carriers are now wearing their service stripes. Each stripe is indicative of five years of service. The greatest honor to be conferred, that of six stripes, was awarded to Abram D.



CHICAGO'S OLDEST LETTER CARRIER.

Jones, the veteran letter carrier of Chicago. It was in 1867 that Jones received his appointment. At that time General Frank S. Sherman was postmaster. Jones had come here from New York a mere lad and gained his position through the influence of Judge Henry Fuller. He has remained in continuous service ever since, a period of thirty years, in which the veteran letter carrier has never paid the penalty of a single day's suspension for blunders. He has served at the central station, says the Times-Herald, since the day of his appointment, and has passed through all the various vicissitudes of the growth of the postoffice. In May, 1895, he was transferred at his own request to the Englewood station, where he is now in active service. Of fifty-one carriers appointed simultaneously with him in 1867, he is the only one who still remains. He is the only man among 1,500 postal clerks who wears six stripes.

Destructive Bullets.

Lee-Metford bullets were made effective during the recent Benin expedition through the soldiers shaving off the tops. This caused the case to drop off when the rifle was discharged, and enabled the leaden inner part to inflict a wound severe enough to stop the onset of attacking parties.

For Coughs or Colds, for Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Throat Troubles or Lung Diseases, you can't beat and you can't better

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Half size bottle, 50c.

TALMAGE'S SERMON

SUNDAY'S DISCOURSE BY THE NOTED DIVINE.

God Among the Stars—Our Own World the Smallest of Them All, Was Selected as the Theatre For Sin and Sorrow as an Awful Example to Others.

TEXT: "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heaven."—Amos, ix., 6.

This is first-rate poetry from Amos, the herdsman. While guarding his flocks at night, he got watching the heavens. He saw stars above stars, and the universe seemed to him like a great mansion many stories high, silver room above silver room, silver pillars besides silver pillars, and windows of silver and doors of silver, and turrets and domes of silver rising into the immensities, and the prophet's sanctified imagination walks through that great silver palace of the universe, through the first story, through the second story, through the third story, through the twentieth story, through the hundredth story, through the thousandth story, and realizing that God is the architect and carpenter and mason of all that upheaved splendor, he cries out in the words of the text, "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heaven."

The fact is that we have all spent too much time on one story of the great mansion of God's universe. We need occasionally to go upstairs or downstairs in this mansion; downstairs, and in the cellar study the rocks, or upstairs and see God in some of the higher stories, and learn the meaning of the text when it says: "It is He that buildeth His stories in the heaven."

"Astronomy was born in Chaldea. Its mother was Astrology, or the science of foretelling events by juxtaposition of stars. The Orientals, living much out of doors and in a very clear atmosphere, through which the stars shone especially lustrous, got the habit of studying the night heavens. In the hot seasons caravans journeyed chiefly at night, and that gave travelers much opportunity of stellar information. On the first page of the Bible the sun and moon and stars roll in. The sun, a body nearly three million miles in circumference and more than twelve thousand times as large as our earth; the moon, more than two thousand miles in diameter. But God is used to doing things on such an omnipotent scale that he takes only one verse to tell of this solar and lunar manufacture. Yea, in three words all the other worlds are thrown in. The record says, "The stars also." It takes whole pages for a man to extol the making of a telescope or microscope or a magnetic telegraph or a threshing machine, or to describe a fine painting or statue, but it was so easy for God to hang the celestial upholstery that the story is compassed in one verse: 'God made two great lights, the greater light to rule the day and the lesser light to rule the night. The stars also!' Astronomers have been trying to call the roll of them ever since, and they have counted multitudes of them passing in review before the observatories built at vast expense, and the size and number of those heavenly bodies have taxed to the utmost the scientists of all ages.

But God finishes all He has to say about them in three words, "The stars also!" That is Mars, with its more than fifty-five million square miles, and Venus, with its more than one hundred and ninety-one millione square miles, and Saturn, with its more than nineteen billion square miles, and Jupiter, with its more than twenty-four billion square miles, and all the planets of our system of more than seventy-eight billion square miles, and these stars of our system, when compared with the stars of the other systems, as a handful of sand compared with all the Rocky Mountains and all the Alps. "The stars also!" For brevity, for ponderosity, for splendor, for suggestiveness, for sublimity piled on sublimity, these words excel all that human speech ever uttered or human imagination ever soared after: "The stars also!" It is put in as you write a postscript—something you thought of afterward—as hardly worth putting into the body of a letter. "The stars also!" Oh, what a God we have, and He is our Father!

Read on in your Bibles, and after awhile the Bible flashes with the aurora borealis or northern lights, that strange illumination, as mysterious and undefined now as when, in the book of Job it was written: "Men see not the bright light which is in the clouds. Fair weather cometh out of the north." While all the nations supposed that the earth was built on a foundation of some sort, and many supposed that it stood on a huge turtle, or some great marine creature, Job knew enough of astronomy to say it had no foundation, but was suspended on the invisible arm of the Almighty, declaring that "He hangeth the earth upon nothing." While all nations thought the earth was level, the sky spread over it like a tent over a flat surface, Isaiah declared the world to be globular, circular, saying of God: "He sitteth upon the circle of the earth." See them glitter in this scriptural sky—Arcturus, Orion, the Pleiades, and the "bear with her young."

Without the use of telescope and without any observatory and without any astronomical calculation, I know that the other worlds are inhabited, because my Bible and my common sense tell me so. It has been estimated that in the worlds belonging to our solar system there is room for at least twenty-five trillion of population. And I believe it is all occupied, or will be occupied, by intelligent beings. God will not fill them with brutes.

He would certainly put into those worlds beings intelligent enough to appreciate the architecture, the coloring, the grandeur, the beauty, the harmony of their surroundings. Yea, the inhabitants of those worlds have capacity of locomotion, for they would not have had such spacious opportunity for movement if they had not powers of motion. Yea, they have sight, else why the light, and hearing, else how get on with necessary language, and how clear themselves from advancing perils? Yea, as God made our human race in His own image, He probably made the inhabitants of other worlds in His own image; in other words, it is as near demonstration as I care to have it, that while the inhabitants of other worlds have adaptations of bodily structure to the particular climate in in which they dwell, there is yet similarity of mental and spiritual characteristics among all the inhabitants of the universe of God, and made in His image they are made wonderfully alike.

Now what should be the practical result of this discussion founded on scripture and common sense? It is first of all, to enlarge our ideas of God and so intensify our admiration and worship. Under such consideration, how much more graphic the Bible question, which seems to roll back the sleeve of the Almighty and say: "Hast thou an arm like God?" The contemplation also encourages us with the thought that if God made all these worlds and populated them, it will not be very much of an undertaking for Him to make our little world over again, and reconstruct the character of its populations as by grace they are to be reconstructed.

What a monstrosity of ignorance that the majority of Christian people listen not to the voices of other worlds, although the Book says, "The heavens declare the glory of God," and, again, "The works of the Lord are great and to be sought out." How much have you sought them out? You have been satisfying yourself with some things about Christ, but have you noticed that Paul calls you to consider Christ as the Creator of other worlds, 'by whom also He made the worlds." It is time you Christians start on a world hunt. That is the chief reason why God makes the night, that you may see other worlds. Go out to-night and look up at the great clock of the heavens. Listen to the silvery chime of the midnight sky. See that your children and grandchildren mount the heavens with telescope for alpenstock, leaping from acclivity of light to acclivity of light. What a thoughtful and sublime thing that John Quincy Adams, the ex-President, borne down with years, undertook at the peril of his life the journey from Washington to Cincinnati that he might lay the corner-stone of the pier of the great refracting telescope, and there making his last oration. What a service for all mankind when, in 1839, Lord Rosse lifted on the lawn of his castle eighty miles from Dublin a telescope that revealed worlds as fast as they could roll in and that started an enthusiasm which this moment concentrates the eyes of many of the most devout in all parts of the earth on celestial discovery. Thank God that we now know our own world is, bounded on all sides by realms of glory, instead of being where Hesiod in his poetry described it to be, namely half way between heaven and hell, an anvil hurled out of heaven, taking ten days to strike the earth, and hurled out of earth, taking ten more days to strike perdition:

From the high heaven a brazen anvil cast,
Nine days and nights in rapid whirls would last;
And reach the earth the tenth; whence strongly hurled,
The same the passage to th' infernal world.

I thank God that we have found out that our world is not half way between heaven and hell, but is in a sisterhood of light, and that this sisterhood joins all the other sisterhoods of worlds, moving round some great homestead, which is no doubt heaven, where God is, and our departed Christian friends are, and we ourselves through pardoning mercy expect to become permanent residents. O, what a God we have, and He is our Father.

Furthermore, I get now from all this an answer to the question which every intelligent man and woman since the earth has stood has asked and received no answer. Why did God let sin and sorrow come into the world when He could have prevented them from coming? I wish reverently to say I think I have found the reason. To keep the universe loyal to a Holy God, it was important in some world somewhere to demonstrate the gigantic disasters that would come upon any world that allowed sin to enter. Which world should it be? Well, the smaller the world the better, for less numbers would suffer. So our world was selected. The stage was plenty large enough for the enactment of the tragedy. Enter on the stage Sin, followed by Murder, Pain, Theft, Fraud, Impurity, Falsehood, Massacre, War and all the abominations and horrors and agonies of centuries. Although we know comparatively little about the other worlds, lest we become completely dissatisfied with our own, no doubt the other worlds have heard and are now hearing all about this world in the awful experiment of sin which the human race has been making.

It is no longer to me a mystery why so small a world as ours was chosen for the tragedy. A chemist can demonstrate all the laws of earth and heaven in a small laboratory, ten feet by five, and our world was not too small to demonstrate to the universe the awful chemistry of unrighteousness, its explosive and riving and consuming power. On the tower of Pharos, Egypt, a metallic mirror was raised which reflected all that occurred both on land sea for a distance of three hundred miles, and so Egypt was informed of the coming of her enemies long before their arrival. By what process I know not, but in some way this ship of a struggling earth, I think, is mirrored to distant worlds. Surely this one disastrous experiment of a world unloosing itself from God will be enough for all worlds and all eternities.

But notice that as other worlds rolled into the first book of the Bible, the Book of Genesis, they also appear in the lost book of the Bible, the Book of Revelation. They will take part in the scenes of that occasion which shall be the earth's winding up, and a tremendous occasion for you and me personally. My father was one night on the turnpike road between Trenton and Bound Brook, N. J. He was coming through the night from the legislative halls, where he was serving his State, to his home, where there was sickness. I often heard him tell about it. It was the night of the 12th and the morning of the 13th of November, 1833. Suddenly the whole heavens became a scene never to be forgotten. From the constellation Leo meteors began to shoot in all directions. For the two hours between 4 and 6 in the morning, it was estimated that a thousand meteors a minute flashed and expired. It grew lighter than noonday. Arrows of fire. Balls of fire. Trails of fire. Showers of fire. Some of the appearances were larger than the full moon. All around the heavens explosion followed explosion. Sounds as well as sights. The air filled with uproar. All the luminaries of the sky seemed to have received marching orders. The heavens ribbed and interlaced and garlanded with meteoric display. From horizon to horizon everything in combustion and conflagration.

Many a brain that night gave way. It was an awful strain on strongest nerves. Millions of people fell on their knees in prayer. Was the world ending, or was there some great event for which all heaven was illuminated? For eight momentous hours the phenomenon lasted. East, west, north, south, it looked as though the heavens were in maniac disorder. Astronomers watching that night said that those meteors started from 2200 miles above the earth's surface and moved with ten times the speed of a cannon ball. The owner of a plantation in South Carolina says of that night scene. I was suddenly awakened by the most distressing cries that ever fell on my ears. Shrieks of horror and cries of mercy I could hear from most of the slaves on three plantations, amounting in all to about six or eight hundred. While earnestly listening for the cause I heard a faint voice near the door calling my name. I arose, and taking my sword, stood at the door. At this moment I heard the same voice still beseeching me to rise, and saying: "Oh, my God! the world is on fire!" I then opened the door, and it is difficult to say which excited me most, the awfulness of the scene or the distressed cries of the Africans. Upwards of 100 lay prostrate on the ground; some speechless and some uttering the bitterest cries, but most with their hands raised, imploring God to save the world and them. The scene was truly awful, for never did rain fall much thicker than the meteors fell toward the earth.

The spectacle ceased not until the rising sun of the November morning eclipsed it, and the whole American nation sat down exhausted with the agitations of a night to be memorable until the earth itself shall become a falling star. The Bible closes with such a scene of falling lights, not only fidgety meteors, but grave old stars. St. John saw it in prospect, and wrote: "The stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs when she is shaken of a mighty wind." What a time that will be when worlds drop. Rain of planets. Gravitation letting loose her grip on worlds. Constellations flying apart. Galaxies dissolved. The great orchard of the universe swept by the last hurricane letting down the stars like ripened fruit. Our old earth will go with the rest, and let it go, for it will have existed long enough to complete its tremendous experiment. But there will be enough worlds left to make a heaven of, if any more heaven needs to be built. That day finding us in Christ, our nature regenerated, and our sins pardoned, and our hope triumphant, we will feel no more alarm than when in September, passing through an orchard, you hear the apples thump to the ground, or through a conservatory and you hear an untimely fig drop to the floor. You will only go upstairs into another story, a better lighted story, a better furnished story, a better ventilated story, a better pictured story, and into a story where already many of your kindred are waiting for you, and where profits and apostles and martyrs will pay you celestial visitation, and where, with a rapture beyond the most radiant anticipation, you shall bow before Him that "buildeth his stories in heaven."

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

The Duke of Argyle has held his title for fifty years.

Ex-Secretary Carlisle has decided to locate in New York City.

Senator Gorman will retire from political life at sixty years of age.

Princess Kaiulani has sailed for Hawaii to look for a missing throne.

Jules Verne, the veteran story-teller, has been married fifty-five years.

Rear Admiral Alexander Colden Rhind, a naval veteran, died in New York City a few days ago.

Nathan Fellows Dixon, ex-United States Senator, died at his home in Westerly, R. I., after an illness of about three weeks.

Major Handy, United States Commissioner to Paris, has returned after securing 200,000 square feet of space at the great exposition of 1900.

Mark Twain cables from Europe that the report that he is out of debt is a lie. The genial humorist claims the right to gloat over his poverty.

Henry George, the younger, was until recently the editor of the Jacksonville (Fla.) Citizen. He is an able, accomplished fellow and is thirty-four years old.

General Wade Hampton, the ex-Senator and Railroad Commissioner, while in the Senate, was regarded by his associates as being without a rival, in handling a chafing dish.

Eugene Field's son, Fred, is a student in Drury College. His mates call him "Daisy" and relate anecdotes which tend to show that he has a goodly share of his father's wit and humor.

Alexander Milton Ross, the noted scientist who died in Detroit a few days ago, was a compositor in New York when William Cullen Bryant, then editor of the Post, discovered his talent and became interested in him.

The Mikado of Japan, though passionately fond of horse racing, allows no betting on his track, and pursues the sport purely for sport's sake. He has agents now in this country looking for twenty first-class horses for the imperial stables.

Sir Arthur Haliburton, the British Under Secretary of State for War, who has just retired, after a career of forty years in the public service, is a son of Judge Haliburton, of Nova Scotia, who is known in American literature as "Sam Slick."

Blue Jacket, late chief of the Shawnee Indians, who died the other day near Chetopa, Kan., was once a Baptist Minister. He was over eighty years old. He was, when a young man, a close associate of Tenstaquatawa, the prophet.

CYCLING NOTES.

"Jimmy" Michael has earned $25,000 on his bicycle this year.

A new cycle tire made of extremely fine steel has recently been patented.

The League of Ameeican Wheelmen has a membership of more than 100,000 and is now by far the largest association of its kind in the world.

A new 200-mile road record for the State of Massachusetts has been established by R. C. Bell, who made the distance in fourteen hours and ten minutes.

Reading, Penn., claims the honor of constructing a bicycle for the future Emperor of Japan, Prince Yoshihito, who is a young man of about nineteen years of age.

J. Platt-Betts, the English rider, now in Australia, has reduced the one mile Australian record from one minute forty-eight seconds to one minute 47 2-5 seconds.

The Czarina of Russia is taking lessons on the bicycle at Darmstadt, and practises daily in the private school grounds. The Czar is already an experienced cyclist.

The Parisians have taken to the wheel as no other people in the world. They utilize it for all sarts of purposes, and everybody rides, from the soldier to the artists' girl models.

Among the latest novelties in Paris are handle-bars covered with pigskin and bound with silver-gilt. Attached is a pigskin bag in the side of which is inserted a small watch.

Cycling among the aristocracy of England has come to stay, says the London correspondent of Bearings, for since the example was set by Albert Edward himself, all of the nobility have hastened to get a wheel.

Several of the new chainless bicycles have been delivered to purchasers and one prominent wheelman rode one nearly thirty miles over New Jersey turnpikes. He expressed himself satisfied with the running qualities of the new machine.

One of the objections to a brake of the ordinary type is that it is rather difficult to deal with in case one uses an adjustable handle-bar. The adjustable handle-bar has come into general use, and is found to be entirely free from the objections that were alleged against it when it was first brought into vogue.

After many experiments a really interesting and practical game to be played by men and women mounted on bicycles has been evolved. It is called "Royal," and meets with great favor at all cycling centers. The game requires two teams of nine riders each, two coachers, two judges, a timekeeper, a scorekeeper and referee.

Next year the chainless bicycle will probably come into general use. Already one great bicycle company is manufacturing them and others will no doubt follow. They will look queer enough after the chain wheels have been so long in use. They are said to make better time and to be less likely to get out of order and dirty than

The army of China is sometimes put down at 9,00,000 soldiers.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

ITEMS OF INTEREST ON AGRICULTURAL TOPICS.

Correcting Acid in Soil---Violet Disease--Put Pelargoniums in Pots---Making a Market for Buster---Etc., Etc.

VIOLET DISEASE.

There are several diseases affecting violets, the most destructive of which are root galls and leafy spots. So far no entirely satisfactory remedy has been found. Air-slaked lime dusted over the plants and soil is the most effective.

CORRECTING ACID IN SOIL.

Soils are said sometimes to be "sour," and lime is recommended to correct their acidity. In most cases a good underdrain will effect a permanent cure. These sour soils are usually very rich when drained, as their acidity has kept the most exhaustive crops from growing on them.

PUT PELARGONIUMS IN POTS.

The pelargoniums (Lady Washington geraniums) should be shifted into larger pots when they are done blooming, the branches cut back, the plants kept partially shaded until autumn. Let them grow slowly through the winter in a cool place, and toward spring, when buds begin to appear, they will bear heat, light and plenty of water. Remember, the pelargonium is a spring-blooming flower.

MAKING A MARKET FOR BUTTER.

Wherever a farmer sets himself to the work of dairying, he ought also to find some place to sell his butter product to private customers, rather than sell it to dealers, to be worked off with common and inferior stock. There are many in every neighborhood who would gladly contract their supplies of butter if they knew where they could get it of uniform quality. But to make this butter retailing successful there must be arrangements of silos and grain feeding for the winter dairy, so that good butter can be provided for customers in winter as well as in summer.

A PRODUCT OF POOR FARMING.

We generally think that the wide-awake and up-to-date farmer has the advantage in everything. He generally has, but the old saying that no rule is without its exception holds good here. The farmer who keeps the best hogs cannot grow a good quality of bristles. If he has one of the hairy breeds that show strong vitality, the bristles from a two or three-year-old boar may be worth keeping as bristles. But they will be far inferior to bristles from the wild hog as it ranges the forests of Continental Europe. The best brands of bristles have always come, and probably will continue to do so, from Russia. They are very stiff, and not even the bristles from the wild hog as it runs in Southern woods are as good. Probably our Southern wild pigs are mostly killed before they have attained age enough to have their bristles mature.—Boston Cultivator.

SMALL FRUITS.

The current bushes and grape vines can very easily be increased by taking well-ripened wood of this year's growth, as soon as the leaves fall, and cutting into pieces of three buds each Set these so that only the top bud is above ground in good soil upon the south side of some building or wall about 10 inches apart, and when the ground has frozen an inch or so deep cover with mulch a few inches deep. Do not uncover until the ground thaws out in the spring, and if the work is well done, nearly every one will live and begin to grow. Keep them free from weeds through the summer, and they will be ready to set in the fall or the following spring, as may be preferred. One can scarcely have too much of these fruits, and the greater number do not use them half freely enough. But little space is required to grow enough of them for family use, and not only every farm, but every village lot should be supplied with them. Neither those who own or those who hire tenements like to expend much in growing fruit around the houses, yet if the owners would try to improve their grounds in this way they would possibly get a better class of tenants and keep them longer, and some of them could use money to pay rent that now goes to the fruit pedlers.

DISEASES AMONG POULTRY.

These days many complaints come in of various forms of disease among poultry, while many run along year after year without any disease. When disease strikes a flock it has a discouraging effect on the breeder. Writing on this subject H. B. Geer in the Epitomist says:

"The chicken business is all very nice until disease comes along, and then comes the rub. At this season—August and September—when the weather is hot and cool by spells, that spectre of the poultry yard, chicken cholera, is very likely to stalk abroad. Now, we are free to say that we have never yet, in all the years that we have raised chickens, been able to define cholera—to corner it so to speak, and to tell just exactly what is is. Perhaps the old-time chicken cholera of our grandfathers has played out.

"We have dysentery among our chickens at times, particularly among the very smallest ones when in brooders, and then it often proves disastrous. But when grown fowls take the dysentery it does not spread, only one or two at a time being affected.

"There is, however, another disease that comes in the autumn that carries off the chickens young and old, and will keep it sometimes till all are gone. It is what we call limberneck in the South, and we suspect very strongly that it was the cholera of the olden times.

"It is nothing more nor less than the natural result of carelessness and impurity combined. It comes of the chickens eating the maggots contained in dead animal matter lying about on the surface of the ground in some fence corner or out-of-the-way place, and it will kill the chickens just as long as a new one comes along and is contaminated by it. Why chickens should pick, scratch about and eat the maggots in such stuff we do not know, but we do know that they will do it, and that it will kill them, too.

"So, if disease comes along now, and the chickens begin to die suddenly and mysteriously, go and make a search for the cause of the disease and bury it. Bury all the chickens that die too. Suffer nothing dead to lie unburied on the premises."

DAIRYING ADVANTAGES.

J. W. Newton, Stowe, Vermont, a practical dairyman, speaking of the advantages of dairying over other branches of farming, says: "The first advantage of dairying is that it takes less fertility from the soil than other branches of farming, sugar-making alone excepted. Authorities differ, but the following figures are approximately correct, round numbers being given. A ton of each product mentioned below takes fertilizing material from the soil as indicated by the figures: Corn, $6; oats, $7.50; hay, $6; clover, $9; potatoes,$2; fat oxen, $12; milk, $.250; cheese, $21; butter, 50cts.

"A ton of wheat takes seven dollars out of the farm and sells for less than sixteen dollars. A ton of butter takes fifty cents worth of plant food from the farm and sells for from four to six hundred dollars. Comment is useless.

"Second.—Butter is a condensed product. Nothing can be made or grown on the farm which brings as much per pound. Farms remote from market, and communities far from railroad can send butter from the farm or creamery with the least possible expense. Hardly any other far product can be loaded, a hundred to a thousand dollars worth at a time, upon a wagon and drawn to a shipping point so readily as butter. The dairyman can condense tons of fodder and crops grown on the farm into dairy products, and send them to market in compact and portable form.

"Third.—Butter is a finished product. It is made ready for the consumer either in the private dairy or the local factory or creamery. The only exception is where cream is sent long distances to a central station from skimming stations scattered over a large seciton of country. But this exception only proves the rule. Much that is produced on the farm is raw material, and must be manufactured or otherwise prepared for use after leaving the farm.

"Fourth.— Darying brings in a constant income. The man who sells crops of any kind has to wat until he can market his crops once a year. There is a little satisfaction in this. It is unbusiness like to go without cash fifty-one weeks and then have a lot of money come in at one time. The dairyman has an income nearly or quite fifty-two weeks in a year.

"Fifth.—Dairying gives constant remunerative employment. The grain or potato grower must spend a large part of the year in enforced and demoralizing idleness, but the dairyman finds profitable work through the year and his work is most profitable in the winter time.

"Sixth.—On the dairy farm the work is better divided. The grain harvest comes so close to haying that it often gets mixed up with it to the detriment of both; but where corn is grown and put into the soil for dairy feed,and not so much or no grain raised, the harvests are several weeks apart. Then in winter dairying, there is a let up in the dairy work at the busiest season of the year on the farm, while the dairy needs the most work when other farm work is lightest.

"Seventh.—Skill and brain work get better pay in darying than in any other branch of farming. To produce fine dairy products requires something besides hard work. The dairyman must have knowledge and skill and exercise great care. These are required in breeding and feeding dairy cows, and in handling dairy products. And the care bestowed and the skill exercised get pay in hard cash as they do in no other branch of farming.

"Eight.—There is more room at the top, greater opportunity to improve, than in any other farm work. Cows produce from150 to 500pounds of butter per year, and butter sells from ten cents to one dollar per pound. No other branch of agriculture shows anything like this, or gives such a chance to rise."

POULTRY NOTES.

First crosses produce vigorous fowls; the second cross produces mongrels.

Cater to the wants of your patrons. If they want white eggs, supply them.

Now is a good time to market the old non-laying hens. The hustling singers will fill the egg basket.

Do not let your fowls suffer for water during the dry weather. Thirsty hens will not lay.

When the combs and wattles of the fowls are of a bright red color it indicates a condition of health.

Provide nice, new nests for the hens, so they will not be compelled to seek the straw stack or half loft.

There is no lack of interest in the business, but there is much to learn and so many obstacles to overcome.

Those who expect to raise poultry without devoting constant care and attention to them will generally make a failure.

When you can enter the hen house after dark and hear no wheezing it proves there are not any roupy fowls in the flock.

When the fowls are kept busy scratching, the hens laying and singing and the cooks crowing, these are signs of good health.

Cull your flock. Resolve to keep better fowls and give them better care, and you will soon see an improvement that will do you good.

If you are a fancier, begin now to prepare your birds for the shows. Groom your fowls as you would your horse—therein lies half the battle.

Pick out a yard of the early pullets and feed them for eggs. If they can be got to begin laying before cold weather they will make the much-desired winter layers.

More and better stock is what is needed, and to secure it takes work and patience. Attention to the small details and constant care and watchfulness are absolutely necessary.

When fowls are judiciously fed, made to take exercise, and their quarters kept clean and free from lice, there is comparatively no trouble with sickness, except in cases of contagion.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS NOTES.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the new industries for the week just ended The Tradesman reports the following: The Batesville Compress Co., capital, $30,000, Batesville, Ark.; electric light plants at Corbin, Ky.; Camden, S. C.; Brownsville, Dallas and Terrell, Tex.; extensive chemical works at Wilmington, N. C.; the Novelty Mill Co., capital, $200,000, at Parkersburg, W. Va., and other large flouring mills at Gaither, Ark.; Cherryville, N. C., and Lebanon, Tenn. Engine works will be erected at Portsmouth, Va.; the Charleston Land and Mining Co., capital, $500,000, has been chartered at Charleston, W. Va.; the Whitney Coal Co., capital, $10,000, at Louisville, Ky.; the Buford Saddlery Co., capital, $12,000, at Buford, Ga.; the West Virginia Torpedo and Powder Co., capital, $50,000, at Sistersville, W. Va.; the Consumers Petroleum Oil Co., capital, $12,000. at Corsicana, Tex., and the Williamson Oil Co., capital, $50,000, at Welch, W. Va. A cotton mill will be erected at Scooba, Miss., and woodworking plants will be established at Campbellsville and Dickson, Tenn., and Gilmerton, Va.

The enlargements are also an important feature of the week, among the number being: The Gordon Chemical Works, at Round Mountain, Ala., the plant of the Augusta (Ga.) Street Railway Co., at a cost of $25,000; the Macon (Ga.) Gas Light and Water Co.'s plants, at a cost of $100,000; the Alabama Foundry and Machine Works, New Decatur, Ala.; and cotton mills at Meridian, Miss., New London, N. C., and Yorkville, S. C. The Marietta (Ga.) Paper Mfg. Co. will increase its capital from $150,000 to $250,000.

Suicide of a Farmer.

Ira Lee, one of the leading farmers in Oconee county, South Carolina, strangled himself on his farm Saturday, by twisting his suspender around his neck. He had been in bad health.

Highwayman Gets $4,000.

The mail carrier was held up at Warren, Idaho, by a lone highwayman and ordered to dismount from his horse. The carrier was then told to cut the mail sack open, which he did, and the robber took all the registered mail and letters. There was about $4,000 in cash.

Chief Arthur will order a strike on the Ohio River Railroad unless the discharged engineers, Taylor, Shigsley, Bartell and Creel are reinstated.

Kelly Gets Thirty Years.

Joseph E. Kelley, one of the Great Falls bank robbers and self-confessed murderer of Cashier Stickney, was Friday sen enced at Dover, N. H., to thirty years imprisonment.

The Common Goal.

Hurry—What's the great aim of modern life?

Scurry—To be rich enough to get everything one doesn't want.—Brooklyn Life.

A woman who has married as often as three times, is bound to have trouble. She may escape it with her first and second husbands, but her third husband is bound to cause a scandal of some sort.

A SUCCESS

...BLACH'S...

Price-Hewn Sale

No wonder with such PRICES on this fall's newest

Suits and Overcoats

for Men and Boys.

MAIL ORDERS GIVEN PROMPT ATTENTION WITH CASH.

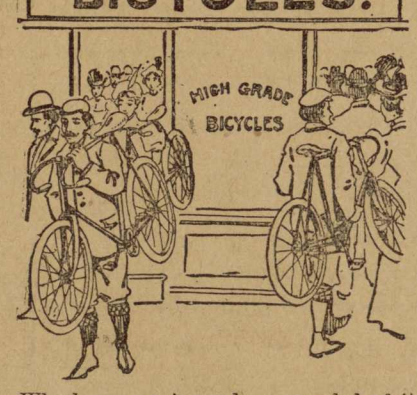
J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

STILL SELLING WHEELS.

BICYCLES.



Wheels are moving and we are glad of it. We have gained the confidence of the public by our square dealing and now we reap the benefit. It's not as brisk in the bicycle line as lately, and so we will make concessions.

THE "BIRMINGHAM," $40.

Most complete and best repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corn

responds readily to proper fertilization.

Larger crops, fuller ears and larger grain are sure to result from a liberal use of fertilizers containing at least 7% actual

Potash

Our books are free to farmers.

GERMAN KALI WORKS, 93 Nassau St., New York.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

GET RICH Quickly. Send for Book, "Inventions Wanted." Edgar Tate & Co., 245 Broadway, N.Y.

Am. N. U. No. 46. 1897.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

TRUTHFUL LADIES SPEAK OUT

Mrs. Mary E. Brocker

Pocahontas, Tenn., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 15 years. It cured me of Palpitation of the Heart; Sick Headache and Female Trouble. My Husband uses it for Bilious and Malarial disorders. In this section it is as staple as Meat and Bread. We think it much Superior to J. H. Zeilin's Liver Medicine.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson

Jenifer, Ala., writes: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 20 years. It cured J. M. Clark of Sick Headache, and M. L. Powell of Heaviness and Tired Feeling. Have used "Black Draught" and Zeilin's Regulator, but find the Dr. M. A. Simmons to be the best Medicine.

Mrs M A Harkins

Lono, Ark., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 20 years for Sick Headache, and cannot speak too highly of it. Have used Zeilin's Liver Regulator, also "Black Draught," but found both very inferior.

Miss. R. Cattes

Cobden, Ill., writes: For Liver and Female Troubles nothing except Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine did me any good. "Black Draught" did me no good.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. The Great Mail Order House 111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

YELLOW FEVER PREVENTED BY TAKING "Our Native Herbs" the Great Blood Purifier and Liver Regulator. 200 DAYS' TREATMENT $1.00 Containing a Registered Guarantee.

32 page Book and Testimonials, FREE. Sent by mail, postage paid. Sold only by Agents for THE ALONZO O. BLISS CO., Washington, D.C.

$12 3000 BICYCLES must be closed out at once. Standard '97 Models, guarant'd, $14 to $30. 96 models to $20. 2d hand wheels $5 to $15. Shipped to anyone on approval without advance deposit. $12

Great factory clearing sale. EARN A BICYCLE by helping advertise us. We will give one agent in each town FREE USE of a sample wheel to introduce them. Write at once for our Special Offer. Mead Cycle Co., 136 Avenue F., Chicago, Ill.

Seattle Klondike Alaska

FREE INFORMATION BY SEATTLE, WASH., CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUREAU.

SEATTLE, KLONDIKE, ALASKA. Washington State. Seattle, 65,000 population; Railroad, Commercial, Mining and Agricultural Centre; Best Outfits; Lowest Prices; Longest Experience; Largest City; Safest Routes; Address Secretary.

CHEW STAR TOBACCO--THE BEST. SMOKE SLEDGE CIGARETTES.

20 CENTS IS OUR PRICE. SIXTY PER CENT. SAVED.

Twenty Cents is our price—Seventy-Five Cents is store price for this Hand Painted, Hard Enameled Brooch, Two Pearls and Imitation Diamonds. Sixty per cent. saved buying direct of the Manufacturers. Our whole output is sold direct from the factory to the people. Send for our Illustrated Catalogue, showing how you can make a good living selling our goods in your own town. No capital is required. A boy or girl can do it as well as anyone.

T. M. WATKINS & CO., MFG. JEWELERS, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

JUST THE BOOK YOU WANT to refer to constantly, is our handy CONDENSED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, as it treats upon about every subject under the sun. It contains 520 pages, profusely illustrated, and will be sent, postpaid, for 50c. in stamps, postal note or silver. When reading you doubtless run across references to many matters and things which you do not understand and which this book will clear up for you. It has a complete index, so that it may be referred to easily. This book is a rich mine of valuable information, presented in an interesting manner, and is well worth to any one many times the small sum of FIFTY CENTS which we ask for it. A study of this book will prove of incalculable benefit to those whose education has been neglected, while the volume will also be found of great value to those who cannot readily command the knowledge they have acquired.

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR 50c.

BOOK PUBLISHING HOUSE, 134 Leonard St., N.Y. City.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

CLIFTON NEWTON, Editor & Prop.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class matter.

Advertisers will do well to get our rates and place their card in THE NEWS. There is no better medium to advertising.

Thursday. Nov. 18, 1897.

The quarantine is off.

Mark Hanna needs fumigation.

Yellow fever isn't so bad after all.

The Age-Herald wants dollar gas. We want dollar whiskey.

Farmers always sell their cotton when prices are falling. If cotton is high, they hold it for higher prices.

We have been wondering why the gas company charged so much for gas in Birmingham. We were in the city Saturday, and thought from the smell that they probably chaarged for leakage.

Will the Age-Herald investigate?

EDITOR NEWS:

If you will allow me the space, I will tell you of some things that should be stopped. Of course, some will kick. If you like, I will send them in next week.

SUBSCRIBER.

We will print anything not personal.—EDITOR.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The County Press of Centreville is one of the liveliest papers in the State.

The Age-Herald is making a big fight for dollar gas. The Age-Herald is always on the side of the people.

Although we don't agree with the Mobile Register, we admire their pluck.

The Sunny Southland of Calera has gone to pastures new.

A STAMP TRUST

It costs the government now just 5 cents for 1,000 stamps delivered anywhere in the United States. One thousand 2-cent stamps are sold for $20. It will thus be seen that Uncle Sam has a trust worth having, and that his profits are not to be despised, even by a bloated bondholder. In fact, Uncle Sam is envied so much by other capitalists that frequen ly other parties start into the business of printing stamps, without first securing a license or even trying to get one.

Sometimes the secret service office catches the guilty parties, but in case due discretion is exercised the counterfeiting of stamps is not very difficult, as little close attention is bestowed upon them in the mails. But the expense is so great and the returns so small that the counterfeiters do not linger long at a stamp job. During a single year the bureau of printing and engraving prints about $80,000,000 worth of stamps. This is over an average of $1 per head for every inhabitant of the United States, and indicates that we are a great race of letter writers, assuming that each person writes one letter a week. All people who write letters, however, are not thoughtful enough to prepay them. Some idea of the number of delinquent correspondents who like to send their letters postage due may be obtained from the fact that during the last fiscal year the value of postage due stamps affixed to letters without sufficient postage aggregated $450,658, mostly in 1-cent and 2 cent stamps.—Washington Star.

BLOCTON ITEMS.

Why not call and pay your subscription? It is due.

Don't fail to come to the grand ball on pay-day night.

Mr. E. N. Cottingham called to see us on Monday last.

Mrs. Auton is very sick. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Daisy Hayes has been very sick, but is now convalescent.

Mrs. Bryson made a business visit to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. Walton C. Pratt, of River Bend, was in town this week.

Mr. Bush Riley has been laid up several days with a lame foot.

Hon. W. W. Shortridge, of Woodstock, was in town Monday.

Mrs. W. D. Cross is manager of J. J. Pledger's book business. We wish her success.

The Southern railroad company is putting in two iron bridges on their line near Hargrove.

Mrs. Gilbert will move to Bessemer this week. Her friends regret that she is going away.

Blocton had three weddings in one day last week. How is that for weddings these hard times?

Mr. Burgess Little, cashier of the Shelby County Bank, at Montevallo, visited home folk Sunday,

R. L. Rice, ex-editor of the Blocton News-Herald, is visiting friends in Blocton. We wish him success in his new business.

There will be a grand ball at Odd Fellows' hall on the night of pay-day, when a ten dollar guitar will be given the best dancer.

Mr. J. S. Ogletree will remove to Montevallo in the near future, where he will open a dairy. He is a good man, and we wish for him success in his new business.

N. L. Wilson, the new postmaster, took charge of the postoffice on the 16th. We regret to see Mr. Collier leave the office, for he has served the people of this town very faithfully while he has been postmaster.

We understand that 15 out of 16 of the damage suits in the Cahaba river wreck were compromised last week. Those that were compromised were represented by Bowman & Harch, of Birmingham, and Campbell & Thomas, of Blocton.

While in Birmingham a few days since, we had the pleasure of calling at E. E. Forbes' music house, and seen the celebrated Kranich & Bach's high grade and world-renowned pianos, also some of the finest organs that were ever brought to this state. So be sure, if you want the best, call on or write E. E. Forbes, Birmingham.

DOGWOOD.

Rev. T. J. Martin of Bessemer, delivered quite an able and influential sermon to quite a large congregation last Sunday.

Misses Hunter and Lacey, also Messrs. Vance Hayes and James W. Lacey of Maylene, attended church at this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davidson of this place, are spending a few days at Ganadarque with friends and relatives.

Mr. Isaac Powell of this place, went up to Birmingham last week and purchased a bran fired new top buggy and a fine horse. What's next, Uncle Ike?

Osce Burke of Ganadarque, spent Saturday and Sunday in town with relatives and friends.

W. E Harrison went out somewhere Sunday to see the girls, but we are nnable to say where he went

Rev. F. M. Wood and wife of Jemison, spent a few days in town last week with friends.

B. Y. H.

State of Alabama, Shelby County.
Probate Court, November Term,
November 8th, 1897.

Estate of Sarah E. Wells, Deceased.

To the American Mortgage Company of Scotland, Limited, creditors of said estate:

The said estate having been reported insolvent by H. R. Wells, administrator thereof, the 13th day of December, 1897, has been appointed to hear and determine upon said report. You are, therefore, hereby given notice to be and appear at my office, at the Court House of said county, on said day, to contest the same, if you think proper.

Witness my hand, at office, this 8th day of November, 1897.

D. R. McMILLAN,
Nov18-3t. Judge of Probate.

WANTED AGENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

KEEP STEP! DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND ABSOLUTELY PURE

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C.A.SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

LOOK OUT FOR

MORGAN BROS.

They will tell you something in this space next week.

Come and See Them!

They Will Save You Money!

Don't Eat Biscuits When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....	$1.00
Six months, cash in advance	.50
Three months, cash in advance..	.25

Local.

Hello!

Who sells below cost?

Buy from our advertisers.

Everybody take the NEWS.

C. L. Meroney tells the latest.

Boys, you had better be careful.

Mrs. O. W. Puls is very sick with fever.

Wonder what that joke is on Mr. Gibson?

Thanksgiving is coming—so is Christmas.

Dr. Gunn, of Calera, was in the city Monday.

The company store at Aldrich is being painted.

Mr. Charles West visited Tuscaloosa last week.

Mr. Osce Burke, of Saginaw, was in town Monday.

Miss Adelle Barnett, of Brewton, Ala., is in the city.

Mr. A. J. Day, of Ashby, was in the city Saturday.

Mr. F. F. Patterson, of Selma, was in the city Monday.

Dr. J. W. Pratt, of Aldrich, spent Tuesday in the city.

Charles Douglass, of Ebenezer, was in town Tuesday.

There are three new houses going up in south Montevallo.

Mr. Walter Howell, of Bessemer, was in the city Tuesday.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Friday was tax day, and there was a big crowd in town,

Dr J. D. Trammell, of Gurnee, was in town this week.

Mrs. Walter Eddings, of Six Mile, was in the city Tuesday.

Rev. F. M. Wood, of Jemison, was in the city this week.

It will be to your interest to buy from a man who advertises.

Editor N.A. Graham, of the Shelby Sentinel, was in town Monday.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Mr. A. L. Arnold of Six Mile, was in town yesterday and gave us a call.

Rev. N. J. Jarvis, of Dogwood, was in town a few hours Tuesday.

Mesdames Charles and Jas. Nash, of Aldrich, were in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Ned Seale and Wm, Bean, of Dogwood, were in town Tuesday.

Subscribe for the NEWS.

Mr. Burgess Little spent Sunday last with home folk at Blocton.

Rev. Mr. Sinnott, of Columbiana, filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Messrs. James Lacey and Vance Hayes, of Maylene, were in the city Sunday.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

Mr. Ed Wilson of Brierfield, was in town yesterday and gave us a pleasant call.

It makes one have that tired feeling to hear the gold bugs talk about the bank sign,

The state and county tax gatherers were looking after their business here last week.

Professor Gibbons, president of Brierfield Normal college, was in town Saturday,

Mr. S. L. Bell, of Brierfield, agent for the Singer sewing machine, was in town Tuesday.

Rev. M. P. Reynolds preached a very interesting sermon at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mrs. H. R. Wells has just returned from Benton, where she has been visiting her father.

Call for Window Glass at H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. A large supply at reasonable prices

One of our subscribers surprised us with a dollar. We are now wondering what to do with it.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Mr. D. J Moreland went to Birmingham Saturday to have an operation performed on his hand.

The citizens of Bibb county are rebuilding the school bnilding at Six Mile, recently burned.

Mr. F. S. Rice, representing E. E. Forbes' music house, Birmingham, was in town this week.

The NEWS intends to show up some of our c. o. d. fish aristocrats pretty soon in their true colors.

There was some stock sold in town Monday at mortgage sale. We are sorry that such things have to happen.

Prof. Clayton, of the Six Mile normal college, has resigned, and has returned to his home in Mississippi.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Dr. Latham, of Ensley City, was visiting his wife this week, who has been spending some time with Mrs S. A. Latham.

On next Sunday Rev. P. L. Abernathy will preach his last sermon for this conference year. Of course we all expect him another year.

Messrs. W. S. Cary, R. S. Killough and several others left town Monday, to spend several days fishing and hunting on the Warrior river.

Our young Jew merchant, Michael Wolowitz, borrowed a wheel to ride to Calera last Sunday, and went two miles the other side before he discovered his mistake,

Mr. J. H. Brown is delivering nursery stock this week. He sold a great many fruit trees in this section. We are glad that the farmers are taking some interest in the fruit culture.

The Southern passenger and mail train from Birmingham to Selma, due to arrive here at 9.30 a. m. was about five hours late yesterday on account of a break down at Gurnee Junction.

The editor spent yesterday at Brierfield, and while there visited the normal college. We were very much surprised at the progress the school had made since we were there last. The school has been reorganized, and they now have a full set of teachers. The new president, Prof. Collier came from the Chattanooga normal college, where he had taught for some time, and comes highly recommended. From what we saw we think Brierfield normal college has a bright future, and we would advise anyone desiring to enter school to go to Brierfield.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire, in this public way, to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors—the good people of Montevallo—for their many manifestations of sympathy, during the severe illness of our little boy, Raymond.

D. C. & MRS. SAVAGE.

DON'T MISS
One of the Comforts of Life
—WHEN—
25 Cents
WILL SECURE IT FOR YOU.
ENTHYMOL FACE POWDER
—AT—
H. C. & W. B. Reynolds' Drug Dep't.

The Cosmos Club held its first literary meeting in the college chapel Nov. 13th, 1897.

The rostrum presented an autumnal appearance, while entwined among the red and golden leaves could be seen the graceful branches of bambo; the colors of the club—purple and white—encircled the stately columns of the chapel.

Having chosen for the first subject our own beloved "Alabama," the following program was rendered most successfully:

Prayer by Bro. Sinnott.

Address by the president, Miss Wilma Saunders.

Song, "My Country, 'tis of Thee," by the Club.

Reading of minutes by the secretary, Miss Niel Chandler.

Song, "Alabama," by the Club.

Vocal solo, Miss Katie Campbell.

Reading, Miss M. O. Henderson.

Vocal solo, Miss Carrie Lum.

Recitation, Miss Annie Whitten.

Reading, by Miss Lucie Leeper.

Vocal Solo, Miss Mamie Brown.

Report of the Scientist, Miss Lucile Wilkinson.

Report of the Bookist, Miss Dora Fonde.

Song No. 411, by the Club.

Closing prayer, Rev. M. P. Reynolds.

Immediately preceding the closing prayer, the young ladies present were pleasantly entertained by an interesting and beneficial talk from President H. C. Reynolds.

Several visitors and members of the faculty were present; also some of the sister clubs among the young ladies of the school, and added greatly to the occasion by their clearly expressed enjoyment of the evening.

After having chosen for the next subject "Whittier," the club adjourned to meet again November 27th,

Long live the Cosmos Club.

ENTHYMOL BOWDER,
Contained in Dainty Dusting Bags.
For the BATH, NURSERY, COMPLEXION.
ANTISEPTIC, ABSORBENT, REFRESHING.
—AT—
H. C & W. B. Reynolds' Drug Dep't.

TWO LOVES.

The woman he loved while he dreamed of her
Danced on till the stars grew dim;
But alone with her heart, from the world apart,
Sat the woman who loved him.

The woman he worshipped only smiled
When he poured out his passionate love;
While the other somewhere kissed her treasure most rare,
A book he had touched with his glove.

The woman he loved betrayed his trust,
And he wore the scars thro' life;
And he cared not nor knew, that the other was true,
But no man called her wife.

The woman he loved trod festal halls,
While they sang his funeral hymn;
But the sad bells tolled ere the year was old,
O'er the woman who loved him.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!

C. L. Meroney & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE.

Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store.

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

Watch This Space Next Week.

THE BRIGHT DAYS.

The bright days—they are coming, no matter what they say;
Beneath the snows of winter dreams
the violet of May,
And sometime—in the future, in the golden years to be,
There'll be blossoms in the desert and the streams'll sing to sea.

The bright days—they are coming;
there's a twinkling of the light.
In the storm that sheds its shadows on the starry brow of night.
And some time—in the future, when the clouds have faded far,
The sun will greet the morning and the night will claim a star.

The bright days—they are coming; in the cities, in the dells
There's a whisper of the music from the morning's golden bells.
And sometime—in the future, when the skies are bending blue, There'll be angels at the windows and they'll kiss their hands to you!

F. L. Stanton, in the Constitution.

MUSIC AND MATRIMONY.

"I am sure there can be no harm in it, mamma."

Maria's cheek was slightly flushed as she spoke the words, and something that was almost a tear gave a humid softness to her hazel eyes. She was a slight, delicate young girl, slender and willowly in her figure, and with a complexion that was transparently pale, save when some sudden emotion sent the crimsom tide over its surface. Her dress of deep mourning was plain, and even course in its detail; but there was womanly taste down to the very arrangement of its somber folds.

"Harm? of course there is no harm," sighed Mrs. Cooper, mechanically raising her handkerchief to her eyes. "But who would ever have supposed that Harry Cooper's daughter would be reduced to giving music lessons, and to advertise for pupils in the daily papers? If your poor, dear papa had but lived?"

"But, mamma, only listen!" said Maria, taking up the paper; "it is nothing so very terrible, after all—'Wanted, a few pupils on the piano, at moderate prices. Apply by letter to M. C.,—— street.' You see, mamma, I have only given the initials of my name."

"It is just as degrading!" sighed Mrs. Cooper.

"I do not see any degradation," pleaded Maria, earnestly. "Since it has become necessary for me to earn our daily bread, where is the harm of availing myself of one of the accomplishments on which so much money has been expended? Indeed, mamma, I feel quite proud to think I can make my knowledge of music serviceable."

"Just like you, Maria—you never had the least bit of aristocratic blood in you!" groaned the lady in the widow's cap and bombazine draperies. "You are the very counterpart of your poor, dear father."

Maria, who had been gazing listlessly out of the window, suddenly sprang up at this moment.

"Mercy on us child! what's the matter?"

"It's the postman, mamma—he is coming here! Perhaps my advertisement may have been answered—who knows? This is the second day of its insertion, you know."

She ran lightly down-stairs, and opened the door before the red-armed servantmaid had got fairly across the kitchen threshold.

"M——— C———?" said the postman, inquiringly, as he sorted a note from his neatly-tied packets.

Maria caught the letter, and ran up to her mother's room with it, her eyes sparkling with animation.

"A real, veritable answer, mamma—my first pupil! What do you think now? See, I am to go to Fifth avenue this afternoon at 3 o'clock to give three lessons a week. The writer wishes to know if I consider three dollars a lesson enough. Enough! Why, mamma, I feel rich! Isn't it splendid?"

"Who is it?" languidly questioned the mother.

"The letter is signed C. Harvey—probably some lady who wishes her little girl to attain a knowledge of music, mamma. That is quite encouraging."

Mrs. Cooper, however, only heaved a deep sigh, and stitched industriously away at her sewing, with an ominous shake of her head.

As the hour-hand of the little gilded clock—one of the few relics they had ventured to preserve of more prosperous days—jumped toward the figure three, Maria arranged her pretty hair with even more care than she usually bestowed and donned bonnet and shawl, to set forth on her mission.

"Good-by, mamma."

"Good-by, Maria. I only hope you'll not be disappointed."

It was a little discouraging to Maria to have cold water sprinkled on her buoyant hopes in this sort of way, much as she was accustomed to her mother's shady views of life; but she bit her cherry-red lips violently, and winked back the tears that sprang to her eyes, trying to remember that she was no longer little Miss Cooper, but a dignified music mistress.

She rang the bell at No. — Fifth avenue, a handsome house, with a vestibule paved with mosaic marble.

"I wish to see Mrs. Harvey."

"Mrs. Harvey?" repeated the servant, with a puzzled air.

Maria handed him the letter.

"You see I call on business," she said, quietly. "I presume I am expected?"

The man, a gray-headed, respectable-looking old servitor, glanced from the letter to the young lady and back again, in some astonishment. However, he returned the letter with a bow.

"What name shall I give, ma'am?"

"No name; announce me as the music-teacher, if you please."

She followed the man through a wide hall to a door, which he threw open with the words:

"The music-teacher, sir."

It was a large, handsome room, elegantly decorated with pictures and crimsom window-hangings. At the further end stood a grand piano, closed, however, and on a sofa beyond sat a gentleman of about thirty, reading. He was dark and handsome, with black hair and a bronzed complexion, like that of a man who had spent many years in foreign countries. As Maria entered he rose with rather a perplexed expression of countanence.

"May I inqrire what has procured me this honor."

Maria blushed, stammered, and at length succeeded in faltering out the words:

"I am sorry to interrupt you, sir, but I called to give a music lesson, according to appointment. Will you please introduce me to my pupil?"

"You are——"

"I am the person, sir, who advertised under the initials M. C."

The gentlemen's turn for embarrassment had come now, it seemed, for he colored scarlet up to the very roots of his hair.

"I thought—I understood—that M. C. was a man?"

"No, sir," faltered Maria; "but I assure you I can produce the very best testimonials of my ability to teach music. If you will summon my pupil——"

Mr. Harvey laughed and loked even more embarrassed than before.

"There are misunderstandings all round," he said; "at least, it would seem so. The truth is—I hope it will make no difference, but—well, I may as well speak out at once—I am the pupil."

"You, sir?"

Maria stood dismayed, her soft, hazel eyes fixed wonderingly on the tall six-footer who towered above her, as he stood leaning against the mantelpiece.

"The fact is," said he, speaking rapidly, to cover this embarrassment, "my life has nearly all been spent in India, and now, on my return, I am anxious to acquire some of the accomplishments, which I have always coveted. And— But you are weeping!"

It was too true. The disappointment had been too keen for Maria's seif-control, and the tears had begun to drop noiselessly on her bonnet ribbon. She brushed them nervously away.

"It is nothing," she faltered; "only the—the disappointment. We are poor, and had so counted on a music scholar, and—"

Poor little Maria! she fairly broke down here, and hid her face behind her crape veil.

"But I do not see why we should both be disappointed, I in a teacher, and you in a pupil," said the gentleman, earnestly. "Of course, you will not care to come here to give an old bachelor his lessons, but is there any good reason why an old bachelor shouldn't come to your residence? I assure you I'm ready to be convinced that you will make an excellent teacher."

Maria smiled through her tears. There was something very ridiculous in the idea of that stalwart, handsome fellow calling himself an old bachelor.

"May I come?" persisted he, as he moved toward the door.

"I will see if mamma considers it proper," she said.

"I should like to state the question to mamma myself," said the gentleman. "May I not accompany you home, and— perhaps—take my first lesson?"

Maria was half uncertain whether she was doing right or wrong, but the bright, frank eyes of the stranger pleaded powerfully in his behalf; so she said, a little ungraciously:

"Yes, if you choose."

Mrs. Cooper was considerably astonished to see her daughter return with red eyes and a tall escort, but after mature deliberation, she decided that Mr. Harvey might, with propriety, receive lessons from her daughter, provided that she presided over the piano. And so——

But what is the use of spinning a story into endless length when our whole purpose will be answered precisely as well by a peep into the handsome drawing-room in Fifth avenue, about three years subsequently.

A bright fire glowed in the grate, and beside the window sat Mrs. Cooper, stately as ever, with a baby grandson crowing on her knee, and making vain snatches at her gold spectacles. Mr. Harvey was at his writing table, busily engaged in letter-writing. The door opened, and a pretty, hazel-eyed young wife came in—our old friend Maria.

"Harry, I want to cut a pattern," she said, taking an old newspaper from one of the compartments of the open desk. "May I have this paper? It is about the right size."

He looked up into her brilliant eyes with arch tenderness.

"My love, I would rather give you almost anything else in my possession."

"Why?" she asked, leaning over his shoulder, as he unfolded the rescued paper and glanced eagerly over it.

"Because, dearest, if it hadn't been for this paper, I should never have had the sweetest wife in the world."

And he pointed smilingly to the tiny little advertisement in an obscure corner:

"Wanted, a few pupils on the piano, at moderate prices. Apply by letter to M. C., No. — — street."

ICELAND PONIES.

Equine Marvels of Strength and Endurance.

If the camel is the ship of the desert, the Iceland pony is the cab, train, omnibus and tramcar of the wonderful country to which he belongs. To begin with, he is a misnomer. He is not a pony in the ordinary sense of the word; he is a horse; in bone and sinew, in strength and endurance, in manners and deportment—a horse in everything, in fact, except inches, and a sober, steady hard-working horse too. He is a "concentrated essence" of horseflesh. He can swim like a fish, climb like a goat and jump like a deer. He sticks at nothing, and takes every variety of travel—bog, lava bed, sand, bowlders and grass mounds—with undistrubed equanimity. If he has to ford one or two rivers, with strong currents flowing girth-deep, it is all in the day's work. Only give him time and periodical halts for refreshment, and he will do his fifty miles per day, and thrive upon it.

Iceland ponies are bred in hundreds in the large grass plains in the southern districts of the island. Little or no care is taken in selection, so the breed remains unaltered and unimproved, the average pony standing from eleven and a half to twelve and a half hands, though here and there one will reach to nearly thirteen hands. Every variety of color is seen, but skewbalds of many shades are the commonest. The chestnuts, as a rule, are the finest and the browns the hardiest. Beautiful cream colors, with light points, are not infrequent; black is very rare and roan also. Their paces are fast, considering the size of the animal, a journey of thirty-two miles being often done in six hours or less, with heavy baggage. They trot, canter and gallop, but the pace most esteemed by the natives is the amble or "skeid," in which the fore and hind legs on a side are advanced simultaneously, giving a running action. A good "pacer" is considered very valuable, and is often sold for a high price. Some of these ponies amble so fast that they keep ahead of another going at a hand-gallop, and they maintain the pace for a day's journey under a weight of eleven to fourteen stone. Iceland ponies are steady and fast in harness, though wheels are a comparatively new departure in their country. They travel mostly in strings, often tied head and tail. Hay, baggage and household goods are thus transported, and building materials also. You meet a "timbur-lestur," or timber team, of from eight to ten ponies, one carrying planks trailing on each side, another strips of iron, another bundles of tools; a certain number of spare animals running loose, and not infrequently a foal or two.

It is as rare to see a dead Iceland pony as a dead donkey, though their skulls are often visible, half trodden into the miry ways surrounding the farms. The pony begins work at six or seven years—hard work, that is to say. He is early apprenticed to his trade by following his mother at her avocations, and when he is foot-sore is strapped upon her back. He works well up to twenty years and over, and often remains sound to a ripe old age. He feeds on the fat of the land in summer, and in winter, if his owner is poor, must live on his wits and his stored condition. Farmers who are fairly well off keep their animals in during winter and feed them on hay; but, notwithstanding, many of the ponies have a hard time of it. The Icelanders, however, keep their steeds as well as their means allow, and treat them altogether in a brotherly fashion.—London Globe.

Oiling the Waves.

Lighthouses in Denmark are supplied with oil, which is pumped on the waves during a storm. This explains the fact that two or three vessels are always to be seen round each lighthouse in rough weather.

The low-cut bodice this winter will be worn with very long sleeves made tight-fitting at the wrists by means of loops and jweled buttons, the sleeves spreading out around the hand like the petals of a flower. Fullness at the top of the sleeve should be reduced to a minimum.

The remarkable echo at Eagle's Nest, on the banks of the Killarney, Ireland, repeats a bugle call 109 times, each clear and distinct.

The deepest river bed is said to be the Niagara, under the Suspension Bridge.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Big Contract Let.

The Anniston Pipe & Foundry Company let the contract Thursday for the brick and carpenter work necessary in rebuilding the big shop to Mr. W. W. McAfee, formerly of Anniston, but now of Atlanta. The contract for the steel roof will probably be let next week.

A Young Lady Drowned.

While attempting to ford the river near Tuscumbia, Miss Barrett and two companions were thrown from their wagon. They landed on an island and were picked up in a boat by a negro. The boat capsized shortly after all got into it, and Miss Barrett was drowned. The others escaped.

Greenville is the Fever Line.

Governor Johnston, acting under advice of a majority of the board of health, issued a proclamation Saturday removing quarantine on Alabama mails and freight and exempting all points in the state excepting those south of Greenville from quarantine regulations on and after Tuesday morning.

Sixteen Damage Suits Settled.

Sixteen of the suits against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, growing out of the Cahaba river wreck of December 27, were compromised Wednesday, and will be dismissed from the docket in the United States Court. It is probable that the remaining suits will be compromised.

Orphans' Home for Colored Children.

The Alabama Colored Orphans' Home is the name of a new association to be formed by Birmingham ministers. The home will be opened November 26 for the reception of orphans and other destitute colored children. It is proposed to secure a tract of thirty or forty acres of land near the city and erect suitable buildings thereon.

A Strike in Walker County.

Fifty miners employed in the Mountain Valley mines, in Walker county, are out on a strike. The men were given an increase of five cents on the ton a short time ago, and everything ran smoothly for a few days, when, it is alleged, the mine operators increased the price of all goods in the commissary to correspond with the increase in wages. This caused the strike.

Arresting Postal Law Violators.

Postoffice Inspector Warren, of the Chattanooga division, has succeeded in breaking up and arresting a big gang of postal crooks in North Alabama. During the past week he has arrested not less than fifteen men, all on the charge of using the mails to defraud. The field of operation seems to have been the neighborhood around Attalla, Weaver's Station and Union Grove. The particulars of this successful raid have not been given out yet.

Grading in Rapid Progress.

The work on the grading of the Selma & Atlanta Air Line has been going on despite the yellow fever scare and the quarantine. About two miles and a half have already been graded, including two large fills. Friday a car load of new scrapers, which have been in quarantine, arrived and were put to work with about fifty more mules. Contractor Carson states that in a few days a level stretch of country will be reached and rapid progress will be made.

Profitable Gold Mining.

A piece of ore taken from a mine in Cleburne county recently, assayed $1,000 to the ton in gold. This was an exceptionally rich piece of ore. The general ores, as taken from mines in this locality, run from $5 to $150 per ton, and where the ore is not too refractory from $3 to $5 per ton makes very profitable mining operations. The Royal mine at Tallapoosa is working $3 to $4 surface ore at a cost not to exceed $1.25 per ton, is running 100 tons daily and intends shortly to increase the capacity of its mill to 200 tons.

Forming a Union Label League.

A labor organization is now being formed in Birmingham which may play some part in the local political affairs, and especially in the next general election. The new organization will be known as the Union Label League, and will have for its chief purpose the encouragement of the use of the union label and the furtherance of the interests of organized labor in general. Its doctrine will be to encourage home merchants and manufacturers to use the union label and employ union help, and it will endeavor to elect to office such men as are friendly to organized labor.

Mortgages Non-Taxable.

The court of Madison county commissioners has delivered a ruling on the subject of taxation of chattel mortgages which will result in a great loss to the state treasury if the courts of other counties make the decision. In reporting assessments on escaped property, Tax Commissioner Turner assessed chattel mortgages in Madison county to the amount of nearly $300,000. The tax asessor entered these on his books and delivered them to the collector. A number of mortgagees holding crop and chattel mortgages decided to contest the right of the county offices in making these assessments, with the result that the commissioners, on the advice of Judge Richard Walker, an ex-judge of the supreme court, decided the mortgages to be non-taxable property.

Meetings Arranged.

Definite arrangements have been made for taking up the subject of the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada and to this end meetings have been fixed between Hon. John W. Kasson, who is specially designated by President McKinley to conduct the reciprocity negotiations, and Sir Louis Davies minister of marine. This is the result of a long and friendly conference held between Secretary Sherman and Sir Wilfred.

ALABAMA NEWS GLEANINGS.

A movement is on foot to build a new Christian church in Selma.

Sunday school organizations are being formed in the various counties.

The Marion county prisoners are confined at Vernon jail, as the jail at Hamilton is undergoing repairs.

Dr. Thomas R. Ward, a prominent physician of Greensboro, died Sunday night. He was 71 years old.

Calhoun county Confederate Veterans will purchase Sulphur Springs camp grounds and erect a home for needy old soldiers.

The receipts at the treasury will likely enable the auditor to send out the Confederate pension warrants about the last of the month.

All of the railroads except the Louisville and Nashville have resumed the running of their trains suspended on account of the quarantines.

The Montgomery city council has elected Ed. Houser, a railroad engineer, to fill the vacancy caused by the death from yellow fever of Alderman Deming.

The Italian colony in Baldwin county is reported to have succeeded beyond expectations. The hills surrounding the members' homes are vine-clad, and in their gardens, which are carefully cultivated, they have planted olive trees and other fruits. The promoters of the colony are very much pleased with the outlook.

Three Indians Hanged by a Mob.

At Bismarck, N. D., Alexander Coudot, Indian half breed, Paul Holytrack and Philip Ireland, full blooded Indians, the first of whom was sentenced to death for the murder of six members of the Syicer family last February and had just been granted a new trial by the supreme court, and the latter two self-confessed accessories in the murder, were taken from the county jail in Emons county Saturday night and lynched. The lynching had been apparently cooly planned and was carried out without a break in the programme.

In Each Others Arms.

Rome Bronson and Florence Williams, his betrothed, were overtaken by a storm on Blackpoint Mountain, near Little Rock, Ark., and both perished. After an all-night search they were found dead locked in each others arms under a tree where they had taken refuge from the storm. They had been struck by lightning. The bodies were interred in the same grave on the mountain side on their wedding day.

Will be Included in Amnesty Decree.

Dispatches from Madrid confirm the previous reports to the effect that the prisoners captured on board the American schooner Competitor, in April, 1896, will be included in the general amnesty decree soon to be issued. The second trial by court martial of the Competitors' crew was to have begun on Monday last, but was postponed on account of the sickness of the president of the court.

Banks Fail.

Three banks, respectively located in Leavenworth, Ind., and at Marengo and English, with deposits estimated to aggregate $160,000, have closed their doors. R. H. Willet, cashier of the parent bank and principal stockholder in the other two concerns, has left for parts unknown.

Sovereign Aspires to the Presidency.

A special from Louisville, Ky., says that J R. Sovereign, the retiring general master workman of the Knights of Labor, has resigned his position in order that he might push his candidacy for president of the United States in 1900.

The horses of German cavalry regiments are to be entirely shod with paper shoes, recent experiments as to their durability and lightness having proved very satisfactory.

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

CHATTANOOGANS TO BUILD A COTTON MILL.

A Polar Expedition to be Dispatched to the Arctic Regions—Mt. Vesuvius in Active Eruption—Two Boys Killed While Watching a Circus Loading.

At Helenwood, Tenn., Maynard Cecil was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Sheriff Kenton.

At Maryville, S. C., fire destroyed the Frederick Demining Industrial School for the colored race.

Ex-President Cleveland has named his son Richard Folsom, in honor of Mrs. Cleveland's father.

The general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church appropriated $1,139,940 to domestic and foreign missions.

Charles Page Bryan, of Illinois, has been appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to China.

John C. Bullit, Jr., formerly or Big Stone Gap, Va., once a prominent lawyer of Duluth, Minn., committed suicide in New York Friday.

Fire destroyed the foundry and machine shops at Middlesboro, Ky., Thursday, entailing a loss of $500,000, with insurance of $100,000.

The Texas cold storage law has been declared unconstitutional. This law attempted to prohibit the storing of liquors in local option towns.

The building known as "The Lion" in Chicago was burned the past week. The building and contents were valued at $160,000. Insurance $130,000,

The Young Men's Business League of Chattanooga has undertaken to raise $50,000 to build a cotton mill. Outside capitalists will put in a like amount.

The British steamer Governor, from Galveston for Newport News, passed Cape Henry Friday. She signalled the Weather Bureau office that her cargo was on fire.

At Hayden, Ky., in a row over politics, John Sebre shot and killed Henry Davis, and Sebre was shot and mortally wounded by Mollie Davis, a sister of Henry.

Edward Hankins was hanged Thursday at Danville, Va. He was 52 years of age. His crime was the murder of Dr. John Roy Cable, a prominent citizen of Danville.

President J. J. Durragh, charged with wrecking the Kansas City Safe Deposit & Savings bank, has been found guilty and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

United States court at Chattanooga decided that the eastern band of Cherokee Indians had no rights as citizens, and cannot make contracts without the sanction of the government.

It is reported that Commissioner of Pensions H. Clay Evans will soon remove from Chattanooga to Philadelphia, Pa., the state of his nativity, where he will actively engage in politics in the Keystone state.

The Russian minister to the United States, M. Kotzebue, has been relieved of his post at his own request owing to his ill health. His successor has been appointed in the person of Count Cassini, present Russian minister at Pekin.

The eruption of Mount Vesuvius, which began on Monday last, is increasing in activity. The spectacle is grand. Columns of smoke and tongues of flame are belching forth from the central crater, while showers of cinders are falling.

King Oscar and a number of private persons have contributed sufficient money to insure the dispatch of a Swedish polar expedition in 1898, which will be led by Professor Nathorst, the geologist. The cost of the expedition is estimated at 70,000 crowns.

While watching the Pawnee Bill Company load their stock at Girardville station, Pa., Enoch Davis, aged 19; Henry Jones, aged 21; Edward Davis, aged 22, and Frank Grady, aged 24, were struck by an engine. Enoch Davis and Henry Jones were killed. and the last two seriously injured.

By an almost unanimous vote the Georgia house of representatives agreed to appropriate $500 for the painting of a life-sized picture of the late Charles F. Crisp, to be hung in the state capitol. The original bill called for an appropriation of $1,000, but passed with an amendment making it $500.

The expert who has been engaged for several months in examining the books and accounts of ex-State Treasurer Bartley, of Nebraska, submitted his report of the legislative investigating committee showing Bartley's shortage to be $870,000. Bartley is now in the Douglas county jail under a twenty-year sentence in the penitentiary.

James R. Sovereign, who has been general master workman of the Knights of Labor for the past four years, was relieved of his office Friday by the general assembly, which has been in session in Louisville, Ky., since Monday last. Harry A. Hicks, of District 263, New York City, was chosen to fill Mr. Sovereign's place.

The bubonic plague is raging in the districts of Poona, Shotapur and Suri, India. It has also appeared at Kota, near Karachi in Sinde, and at Jand Kawal, in Junudulun district. Near Hardwar a colony of monkeys have been attacked by the disease. The authorities are destroying and isolating the diseased animals.

The attack on President Moreas, of Brazil, and the killing of General Betancourt, late minister of war, last Friday afternoon, was the result of a widespread conspiracy. The government's proclamation declaring the federal district of Nictheroy in a state of seige has been ratified by congress, which has passed a bill confirming it.

"LORD" BERESFORD'S ILL LUCK.

His Father-in-Law Drops Dead—Pelkey's Brother Gets the Fortune.

Thursday afternoon Alexander Pelkey, the father-in-law of the notorious Sidney Lascelles, alias Lord Beresford, dropped dead in the office of the Lee house at Fitzgerald, Ga.

Mr. Pelkey was about fifty-two years of age, and came to Fitzgerald from Rhode Island nearly two years ago. His property interests at Fitzgerald is composed of a handsome brick block, a number of fine business and residence lots, worth in the aggregate nearly $15,000. His property and other interests in Rhode Island is supposed to be about $35,000, making in all nearly $50,000, to which his only brother, at Westerly, R. I.. was made heir, with request that he provide for Clara, Lascelles' wife, in case she ever gets rid of her "hypnotic husband," whom she still follows in his career of crime, utterly unable to break the magnetic spell which he has over her.

PENNSYLVANIANS IN THE SOUTH.

Several Thousand Veterans Come to Dedicate Monuments to Fallen Heroes.

Governor Daniel H. Hastings, of Pennsylvania, and staff and the Commander-in-Chief, General J. S. B. Goben, of the Grand Army of the Republic, with his staff, arrived in Chattanooga a few days since to visit Chickamauga battlefields. Many special trains loaded with Pennsylvanians also accompanied the governor and several thousand veterans.

The event was for the regimental dedication of monuments. The survivors of the regiments engaged in the Chickamauga battle gathered around the monuments erected in their honor and dedicated them with appropriate exercises. Their exercises consisted principally of addresses, music and the unveiling of the monuments.

WHITECAPS' BLOODY WORK.

Two White Girls Are Given a Terrible Beating in Ohio.

From Oakwood, Ohio, comes the news of an outrage perpetrated Thursday night by whitecaps upon two girls, Edith and May Roberts, aged 17 and 19 years. Ten days ago the young ladies received a whitecap notice warning them to leave the town and county, but they paid no attention to it. Last evening they retired early, and during the night they were awakened by a band of eight or ten men entering their room and dragging them from their beds in their night robes to the road, where they were terribly whipped by a cat-o'-nine-tails. After beating the two girls, the whitecaps gave them a coat of tar and feathers and took them back to the house, where they were found unconscious the following morning.

The Low Water Mark.

General Wade Hampton, who has just been succeeded by General Longstreet as commissioner of railroads, has submitted to the interior department his report for the past fiscal year. He says that the year marked the low water mark of railway construction. During the year thirty-four companies, with 5,441 miles of road, passed into the hands of the courts and fifty-eight others, previously placed in receiverships, were sold at foreclosure. A steady improvement in railroad earnings during the first six months of the current year is noted, an improvement particularly apparent in the bond-aided Pacific railroads.

Receiver Asked For.

A bill for receiver and injunction has been filed in the United States federal court against the Southern Home Building and Loan association, of Atlanta, Ga. The bill was brought by stockholders of the association who reside in Alabama, and who claim that the association cannot pay its withdrawal stock and that it is being conducted at a great loss to the stockholders. The charge is also made of insolvency, and the court was asked to name a receiver to take charge of the association's business and hold the assets subject to the future orders of the court.

EXPERT GUITERAS' REPORT.

A Summary of the Doctor's Observation in the Recent Epidemic.

SAYS IT CAME FROM THE ISLAND OF CUBA.

Declares Microscopes Cannot Establish Diagnosis of the Disease--Will Spread More Rapidly When Dengue Fever Exists--Insists Upon Report of First Case.

Dr. John Guiteras, professor of oxygenal patenology in the University of Pennsylvania, has made a report to Surgeon General Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, of the result of his investigations of yellow fever during the recent epidemic in the South. The report is largely technical in character, but also contains some observations of general interest in connection with the development of the disease.

Dr. Guiteras says that the conditions existing in Cuba during the early part of the past summer made it very probable that yellow fever would extend from the island to this country.

Discussing the general subject of yellow fever diagnosis, Dr. Guiteras holds that during life the miscroscope could not establish a positive diagnosis of the disease. He speaks of this in connection with the statement that an erroneous belief has prevailed throughout the South, especially among physicians who were not practical miscroscopists, that the instrument should be an important aid in the diagnosis of the disease. It is pointed out that even with the assistance of post mortem examinations, Sanreil, the yellow fever expert, was able to discover his bacillus in 56 per cent only of the cases examined.

Dr. Guiteras says as far as our present methods go it would be impossible to distinguish between a drop of yellow fever blood and bload from a healthy man. Reference is made to the prevalence of a widespread mild epidemic fever during the present outbreak of yellow fever, many of the cases of which Dr. Guiteras thinks were types of dengue. Yellow fever appears to spread more rapidly when there is an epidemic of dengue prevailing. All evidence goes to show that a prevous attack of dengue does not protect against yellow fever and the former must be looked upon as an entirely distinct diseases.

Dr. Guiteras thinks the cause of yellow fever epidemics is to be found in the introduction into a community of cases that are not suspected to be the disease, which occurs probably most frequently in connection with colored people, who usually have the fever in a mild form. The importance of the diagnosis of the first case of yellow fever in a community is strongly insisted upon.

In concluding Dr. Guiteras speaks of the interference with his movements by the fears of communication that he might convey the disease from place to place, fear, he says, which was in part genuine and due to ignorance, but was also in part a pretended fear by those who knew better.

A DEATH-DEALING ENGINE.

Two Men Are Instantly Killed in a Saw Mill Disaster.

In White's saw mill at Elkmont Springs, Tenn., Thursday, a terrible accident occurred, which cost the lives of Simon Whit, owner of the mill, and George Cook, the engineer, and the complete demolition of the mill property. The trouble was caused by a belt slipping off and striking the small belt of the governors. This was displaced and the machinery ran wild. The large fly wheel, unable to resist the terrible speed, began to part and sections of it were thrown over the room. Cook was struck by a piece of the wheel and instantly killed. Mr. Whit ran in to see what was the matter and received a death blow. The mill was completely wrecked and there was little left of the engine when steam was finally shut off.

Durrant Granted a Respite.

William Henry Theodore Durrant, who was sentenced to be hanged at San Quentin, Cal., last Friday, for the murder of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, was granted a respite by the supreme court of California a few hours prior to the appointed hour, on a writ of probable cause.

Closed Their Work.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy ended their fourth annual convention at Baltimore. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Kate Cabell Currie, Dallas, Tex., president; Mrs. D. G. Wright, Baltimore, first vice-present; Mrs. Helen C. Plane, Atlanta, Ga., second vice-president; Mrs. J. P. Hickman, Nashville, Tenn., senior secretary; Mrs. Annie W. Duncan, Vicksburg, Miss., corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Jefferson Thomas, Atlanta, treasurer.

The convention adjourned to meet next year in Hot Springs, Ark.

POST-EPIDEMIC CRUSADE

Will Be Inaugurated by the Marine Hospital Service.

Now that the yellow fever epidemic in this country has been brought practically to an end by the appearance of cold weather the marine hospital service is preparing to begin a post-epidemic crusade for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of the contagion next year. The officials of the bureau will cooperate with the health authorities of the various states affected in conducting a thorough disinfection of the districts in which the fever gained a foothold. The cleansing of all infected cities will be urged and each house in which there was a case of fever will be thoroughly fumigated. It is believed that by pursuing this course the country can be protected against another yellow fever epidemic in 1898.

Montgomery Clear.

No new cases of yellow fever and no deaths were reported at Montgomery Friday. Only five cases have been reported the past week, and almost all of the patients have practically recovered.

New Orleans Almost Free.

The number of new cases of yellow fever at New Orleans Friday was 7; deaths, 2. Total cases of yellow fever to date, 1,790; total deaths from yellow fever to date, 559.

At Mobile Friday three new cases and one death was reported.

All other towns infected are free from new cases, and the end of the epidemic is at hand.

NO BLUFF IN THIS.

Germany Orders a Warship to Port au Prince to Defend Her Honor.

The German warship Geflon is unde orders to sail for Port au Prince, Hayti, this month, in order to insist upon redress for the arrest there of Herr Lueders, a German subject, and his unlawful imprisonment, for which Count Scherwein, the German minister at Port au Prince, has demanded an indemnity. Lueders is now believed to be in Germany, having been released from prison in order to avoid further complications, the natives of Port au Prince having threatened to mob the German legation and lynch Lueders. The fitting out of the warship is being hastened as much as possible. The officials of the German foreign office do not believe the matter will be adjusted for some time to come, because the Haytian government has assumed a stubborn attitude.

A dispatch from Berlin says: "The United States is credited here with offering its intervention in the difficulty between Germany and Hayti, but the German government is waiting for the arrival of Herr Lueders and the report of Count Schwerein, due by the next mail packet."

A PASSENGER TRAIN BURNED.

A High Wind Overturned a Car and the Train Rushed Into It.

A passenger train on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis road was derailed and entirely consumed by fire Thursday morning near Lewisport, Ky. No lives were lost, and, so far as is known, no one was seriously injured.

The accident was attributed to the freak of the high wind, which overturned a box car standing on the Lewisport siding. The car fell directly across the main track and near a sharp curve in the road. It was not seen by the engineer of the passenger train until it was too late to stop the engine, and the train rushed into the obstruction, caught fire and before anything could be removed was entirely consumed.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

To be Protected—Gen. Blanco Issues an Order to Allow No Molestation.

Captain-General Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to fnrnish all the necessary protection to bring about a general resumption of planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout Cuba, especially in the way of the sugar crop. He sets forth that all the officials are to lend unstinted assistance to the owners of plantations and farmers in their efforts to gather their crops and tend their cattle. They are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who are apprehensive of grinding sugar cane and to offer them assurance and the necessary military forces.

Renew Hostilities.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that some Greek bands which crossed through the Thessalian frontier, between Dishkat and Domenik, have been repulsed by the Turks, who killed many of the invaders and captured a large number of prisoners. The Turks also seized 150 rifles and 170,000 cartridges belonging to the Greeks.

Autonomy Not Wanted.

Generals Maximo Gomez, Arranguren, Arango and the late Adolpho Castillo, all opposing the acceptance of anything short of independence for Cuba, assert that autonomy would not be worth the paper it is written on.

AN INFUSION OF NEW LIFE

Marks Trade Conditions on Account of Colder Weather.

INCREASE IN IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION.

Railroad Earnings Show Small Gains. Slight Re-action in Cotton Noted. Movement of Grain Continues Heavy. Southern States in the Increase.

Bradstreets trade review says: One of the most significant features of the business situation is found in the co-u tinued heavy weekly totals of the bank clearings, that for the six days ending Nov. 11 amounting to $1,347,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent. over the preceding week and 13 per cent. compared with the second week of November, 1896, when business began to revive sharply in speculative lines.

Railroad gross earnings shows smaller gains as comparisons begin to made with more nearly normal conditions one year ago. Total October earnings of 117 companies operating 100,000 miles of road, aggregate $55,464,339, a gain of $5,000,000 over September and 9 per cent. over October a year ago. This gain compares with gains of 14 per cent. in September and 12.5 per cent. in August over corresponding periods in 1896. The Pacific Southwestern and Central Western roads made the best showing.

Other favorable features are the continued firmness and activity in wool, iron and steel. The heavy output of iron and moderate reduction of stocks last week suggests the improbability of the advance in prices of iron and steel next, which so many have hoped for.

The slight reaction in the price of cotton, in view of the extreme depression to which that staple had been subjected, attracts attention as the possible beginning of the end of the prolonged decline. Already there is an improvement in the price of and demand for cotton yarns.

The unfavorable influences in price movements this week are declines for cottons and print cloths, the latter touching the lowest price on the record. Wheat, lard and lead are also heavier, and wire nails have been shaded. There is a long list of staples for wh[illegible] prices are unchanged. The mor[illegible]tant advances are confined [illegible] oats, hops and t[illegible].

Colder weather in the central west and northwest has stimulated demand for winter goods, particularly clothing.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week amount to 5,445,542 bushels compared with 5,590,000 bushels last week, 4,664,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 3,325,000 bushels two years ago, 2,909,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 2,645,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Exports of Indian corn this week amount to 2,651,546 bushels against 2,199,000 bushels last week, 3,782,000 bushels in the week a year ago.

There is an increase in the number of failures, the total throughout the United States this week being 273, compared with 223 last week, 258 in the week one year ago, 279 two years ago, 280 three years ago and 270 in the second week of November, 1893.

The large proportion of this week's increase over last week's is in New England and Southern states.

THIRTY KILLED.

A Russian Wedding Party Struck by a Locomotive.

A terrible accident has occurred near Bielostok, Russian Poland, resulting in the death of thirty persons. A wedding party was returning from the church to the home of the bride. All were in one wagon, a huge vehicle drawn by eight horses. The road along which they rode crosses the railroad tracks on the level, and the driver, either through carelessness or ignorance of the train schedule, pushed his swiftly moving horses upon the crossing just as the express was coming in. The locomotive struck the vehicle squarely, killing many members of the party outright and maiming others so that they soon expired. Not a member of the party escaped.

ALL IN BLAST.

First Time in Three Years Such Has Been the Case.

For the first time in over three years every blast furnace in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, is in operation. In addition to this, more furnaces are in operation here than ever before for the past summer; four new plants completed and placed in active work. There are thirty iron furnaces in this county now making from two to three blasts every twenty-four hours. The daily output of smelted iron is approximately 10,000 tons.

It is estimated that there are 1,300,000 Irish people in Australia.

THE PRIDE OF ALABAMA.

Great Educational Work Still in its Infancy.

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

At Montevallo, Where 330 of Alabama's Fair Daughters Are Receiving a Practical Education.

A. S. C., in Age-Herald.

Montevallo, Nov. 13, 1897.

Alabama's most interesting educational institution, of which in the course of time the people of Alabama will be most proud, is the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo.

Note the name! It is not "The Young Ladies' Finishing Academy of Montevallo." No, indeed! The institution is exactly what its name implies, for it is a hive of industry from which will emerge no graduates with a smattering of music, fine arts and the 'ologies and a lofty contempt for honest work, but carefully trained women equally at home in the drawing-room and the kitchen, the counting-house and the office.

This school owes its legislative birth to Senator Sol D. Bloch, of Camden, its actual existence to Capt. H. C. Reynolds, of Montevallo, its president.

The object and aims of the school are described as follows in the act of the legislature which created it in 1892:

"The board of trustees shall possess all the power necessary and proper for the accomplishment of the trust reposed in them, viz:

"The establishment and maintenance of a first-class industrial school for the education of white girls in the state of Alabama in industrial and scientific branches, at which said girls may acquire a thorough knowledge of kindergarten instruction and music, also a knowledge of telegraphy, stenography, photography, phonography, typewriting, printing, bookkeeping, indoor carpentry, electrical construction, clay modeling, architectural and mechanical drawing, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, cooking, laundering, house, sign and fresco painting, home nursing, and such other practical industries as from time to time [illegible] may be suggested by experience tend to promote the general object of said Girls' Industrial School, to-wit—fitting and preparing girls for the practical industries of the age."

To the trustees was left the selection of the best location for the new institution, and their choice fell upon Montevallo, partly because of its proximity to the geographical center of the state, but mainly on account of the exertions made by Capt. H. C. Reynolds on behalf of the town. So recently as Jan. 1, 1896, their choice was announced. Yet I heard from S. B Gibson, secretary, that 330 pupils were enrolled. That determined me to see the school, which I did on last Friday.

Montevallo means a hill in a valley. And the place is aptly named, for just at the edge of the coal belt in Shelby county is a valley some four square miles in area, in the middle of which stands a plateau with gently sloping sides. On the southern slope nestles the little town, on the level plateau stands the buildings of the Girls' Industrial school, surrounded by twenty five acres of sward and woodland, donated by the town to the institution.

Like everything else in this world those buildings have a history. The brick edifice which formed the nucleus was built by the father of Gen. Shelby shortly before the war, and by him presented to Shelby county for high school purposes. It was only 70x50 feet, with a court in the center, when Capt. Reynolds was appointed president of the new school in 1896, and in it the real work of the school commenced. Since then President Reynolds has increased its frontage to 160 feet, and made it a solid building, with two wings in the rear connected with it by covered galleries.

The other large building is entirely new, and is used for dormitory and dining room purposes. It has three stories and a basement, and is constructed of pressed brick and stone. Although complete in itself, it is but a part of the left wing of the magnificent structure which has been planned as the college building, and which will be built as funds will permit.

In such a short article it is impossible to enter into a full detailed description of the buildings, suffice it to say that they are heated by steam plentifully supplied with pure water, and are hygienically perfect. Small, isolated cottages are scattered about the grounds to accommodate music pupils and save the nerves of those not going through the delights of one, two, three, four—one, two, three, four.

Any school may have buildings, not every one has such perfect system as the one in question. A separate class-room is provided for each course of study, but all must be in attendance at 8 15 a. m., in the chapel, which is in the centre of the class-rooms, and seats the whole number of pupils. After religious exercises, the pupils march off to their several class rooms, and therein lies the secret of the system.

Instead of a class remaining in a room, bored to death by their unvarying environment and visited by the various teachers of the several branches, each class room is devoted to one branch, and the pupils go from room to room to be taught. They select their own branches and then are assigned their hours for visiting the different teachers.

Each lesson lasts from half an hour to an hour, and at the close of each the school bell summons all to the chapel, where they take their seats and are checked off by sixteen monitors. This is done for two reasons, to see that none play truant, and to avoid confusion. Their pretty noses counted, off they march again to the next class-rooms on their itinerancy. Not only does this system prevent confusion, but this minute interlude and the scamper from class-room to chapel and away again is healthful for the girls.

In my limited space I cannot describe in extenso the work of the teachers. I would that I could. President Reynolds has entrusted the management of the educational work to Mrs. Mary C. Babb, the lady principal, and the uniform excellence in all departments speaks volumes for her fitness for the position. She has selected a most able corps of assistants. I spent the whole day going from one class room to another, and in none found the antiquated system of teaching children by note like a lot of parots. What the pupils at Montevallo are taught they will remember, for they are trained to think, not to repeat.

All the young ladies are receiving in the so-called "polite" branches instruction which will fit them for the best society, but many of them are also taking practical lessons in stenography, typewriting, dress making and cooking, which will make them useful members of the social system if necessary. Many of them make their own dresses, and also earn money by doing work for others. The fair-faced students of national cookery are not taught from books, but make real dishes in real pots and pans on a real stove, and they enjoy their lessons. I ate a "pop over" and drank a cup of chocolate of their making, and both were delicious.

The faculty is composed of H. C. Reynolds, president, Mrs. Mary C. Babb, lady principal, R. J. H. Simmons, mathematics, Miss Mary G Stallworth, junior mathematics, Miss Annie Kennedy, English and history, Miss S. Fitts, junior English and history, Miss Bettie Haley, pedagogy, Miss Louisa Alston, geology and physiology. Miss Susie Fox, stenography, S. B. Gibson, typewriting, Mrs. Florence Hudson, telegraphy, Miss Ella McCombs, art. Mrs G Nelson, dressmaking and needle work, Miss Leo Sanders, assistant dress making and needle work, Miss Nellie Evans, scientific cooking, Miss Addie Lee, directress in music, Miss Laura Dale, piano and guitar, Miss Sallie Crumpton, voice culture, Miss Edna Bush, piano, Mrs. S. E. Cothran, piano and voice. Dr. Edgar Givhan is the college physician.

With all this the cost to each pupil for the term of eight months for tuition, board, fuel, lights, attendance, laundry, free use of all text books and medical attention is but $88. This is solely due to the management and devotion of Lresident Reynolds, and when I learned the astounding fact, I honored him.

I must close, although I could fill a page. I wish that all the Age-Herald readers could see the work accomplished by President Reynolds, added by the board of trustees in the past eighteen months. I wish they could see the 330 happy, healthy, bright-faced girls, all pretty as becomes Alabama girls, and all as genuine ladies as ever made the ground bless them for stepping on it.

The Girls' Industrial school of Alabama is in its infancy, but it is a lusty childhood, and I for one hope that it may not be long before public spirit has aided it to its full projected growth. If the state will appropriate enough money the buildings can be completed, and then one thousand of the future moulders of men's minds and characters will every year be sent into the world to make it better.

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - Ala

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

KEEP STEP!

DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM

High Grade Tobacco

AND

ABSOLUTELY PURE

B.B.B. Always Cures.

.....Botanic Blood Balm

The Great Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Eating and Spreading Sores, Eruptions, and all SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES. Made from the prescription of an eminent physician who used it with marvelous success for 40 years, and its continued use for fifteen years by thousands of grateful people has demonstrated that it is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new rich blood, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties.

☞ WRITE FOR BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent freight paid by

BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Do You Want Bricks ?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, '97. NO 48.

How Does This Come at You?

I Can Tell You Where to Buy the Most Goods for $.

The Racket is the Cheapest Store in Montevallo!

These Prices Will Prove It. Read and See!

What They Have Not, They Will Gladly Order for You.

STATIONERY.

Note paper, per quire,	3
Envelopes, per pack,	4
Paper and Envelopes, per box,	9
Examination Tablets,	10
Pencil Tablets,	5
Ink "	5
Best Lead Pencils,	1
Falcon Pens, per dozen,	8
Spencerian Pens, "	10
Memorandum Books, 1 cent up
Large day books, 72 pages,	24
Pen staffs, each,	1
Erasers, each,	1
Stenographer's Pencils,	5

Anything else in this line cheap

NOTIONS—Cheaper than ever

Coats' Thread, per spool,	4
6 Balls of Thread,	5
144 Agate Buttons,	5
Suspenders, per pair,	10
1 dozen bone collar buttons,	3
Needles, per paper,	3
Pins 3 and 5 cents
7 inch combs,	7
3 inch fine combs,	4
Hair brushes,	15
Whisk Brooms,	10
Lamp Wicks, per yard,	5
Shaving Brushes 3 cents up
Case Knives per set,	47
4 boxes Blue Hen matches,	5
Elastic webbing, per yard,	5
Best Toilet Soap,	5
Corsets worth 75 cents, at	37
Lace pillow shams, per pair,	25
Lace curtains, per pair,	75
Blankets, worth $2,	$1 24
Bath towels, per pair,	14
Socks, 5, 7, 10 and	15
Ladies' Hose, 5, 7, 10, 15 and	25

Also a nice line of Ladies' Undervests too cheap to mention, but the very things for winter—ask to see them.

HANDKERCHIEFS

I have a nice line at any price from 3 cents up When in need of anything in this department, it will pay you to visit us.

LAMPS! LAMPS!

We sell them to suit your money—see if we don't!

Nice stock of Fancy Lamps, best in town, at $1 58 cents.

Beautiful Vase Lamps, $1 27

Lamp chimneys, 4 cents up.

I have hand lamps 15 cents up.

I have a line of lamps suitable for Christmas presents.

Get my prices and see my goods before buying elsewhere.

TINWARE, WOOD WARE, GLASSWARE,

Cheaper Than Ever Known Here.

8 quart Dish Pans,	12
10 " " "	17
2 " Coffee Pots,	8
4 " " "	15
2 " Cake Pans,	4
2 " " " with stem,	9
6 " Milk Buckets,	10
1 " Dippers,	5
3 " Stew Pans,	10
Wash Pans, 5 cents up.
Strainers,	10
Egg Beaters,	4
Kitchen Forks,	4
Graters—large size,	4
3 Hoop Cedar Water Buckets,	39
Fiber Water Buckets,	74
Coffee Mills, best,	49

Many other articles just as useful and equally as cheap, which I have not space to mention, but will take pleasure in showing you.

JEWELRY!

Yes, I keep a nice line of up-to-date Jewelry, such as Watches, Chains, Charms, Rings, Pins and novelty goods in Sterling and Silver Plate. Also Clocks, Rogers' flat ware, Spectacles, etc.; in fact, most anything to be found in a jewelry store. When in need of anything in the jewelry line I will make it to your pocket book's interest to call on me.

I do all kinds of Watch and Jewelry repairing, and guarantee all my work first-class.

A word about clocks: You can buy any clocks of a regular merchant, but he cannot guarantee them because he cannot mend them when out of order. I can, and it is money to you to remember this when in need of a good time piece real cheap.

I am always glad to see you and to show you my goods, whether you want to buy or not.

Yours anxious to please,

THE RACKET,

J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,

MONTEVALLO, - - - - - ALA.

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Happenings of a Week Throughout Our Commonwealth.

Teachers' Fund Sent Out.

State Treasurer Ellis Friday sent out the money due the public school teachers for the fourth quarter ending September 30. The amount due the teachers was $109,957.62. This amount is considerably smaller than previous quarters.

Cotton Warehouse Burned.

Wednesday fire broke out in the cotton warehouse of A. G. Henry & Co. at Guntersville. The warehouse and 100 bales of cotton were consumed. Loss $25,000; no insurance. Origin of the fire supposed to be incendiary.

Will Apply for a Charter.

The coal miners are organizing local assemblies at the various collieries in the state, and will in a short time have enough assemblies to apply to President Ratchford, of the United Mine Workers of North America, for a charter as a district.

Inviting Them South.

The chamber of commerce of Huntsville is in correspondence with the mercantile clearing house of Boston with the view of having representatives of New England cotton mills come to Huntsville and see the advantages offered by the city os a cotton manufacturing center. Very favorable replies have been received.

Opening New Colonies.

A new colony that has sprung up practically of its own accord at McDonalds, Morgan county, but bids fair to excite some interest before long. Here a number of sturdy Germans have settled and will plant vineyards. Bismarck, another proposed German colony near Decatur, has been lagging on account of quarantines, but bids fair to reawaken. The town has been laid out and it is ready for settlers.

Union Labor League Organized.

A Union Labor League was organized in Birmingham last Friday, the intent of which is to strengthen and aid union labor. The following officers were elected: R. L. Russell, president; W. S. Lopez, vice-president; W. G. Turner, secretary; J. H. F. Moseley, treasurer. Only union men are elegible to be elected to fill the offices, but the membership is open to all persons in sympathy with the movement.

Birmingham as a Cotton Market.

The vast strides that Birmingham has made in the past few years as a cotton market has placed her fifth in receipts among the interior cities of the south—Memphis, Atlanta, Augusta and Montgomery alone receiving more. From 8,000 bales a few years ago, the receipts will this year reach 110,000. This change has been wrought by the cotton buyers who have located in Birmingham and created a market for the fleecy staple.

Reward Offered for Murderer.

About two weeks ago Mr. Wade Childree, one of the best citizens of Covington, a gentleman of high character and respected of all the good people, was assassinated about 8 p. m. while sitting in his own room and reading the Bible. He is not supposed to have had an enemy and no cause can be assigned for his murder. The solicitor has made diligent efforts to ascertain the assassin and failed. The family have offered a reward of $250 and the governor ordered a like reward to be paid by the state for the arrest and conviction of the assassin.

Live Times in Danville.

The people of Danville and vicinity are in earnest over their new railroad project. There will be an immense gathering ten miles from Danville Saturday. They will have an old-fashioned picnic and barbecue. Speakers will be imported from abroad to address the assembled multitude.

There will also be done some practical railroad building. They will have miners and prospectors and iron workers there. The miners will dig the coal and iron out of the ground, and the iron workers will smelt the ore in the presence of the assembled people.

M. & O. Surveying a Line to Birmingham.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad is now seeking an entrance into Birmingham. For several weeks a large corps of engineers have been at work surveying the route. They are now at work between Blocton and Bessemer. The country in that vicinity is the very wildest imaginable and considerable time will be necessarily consumed in selecting the route and surveying small parts of it. The road is expected to use the line of the Birmingham, Bessemer and Powderly road as an entrance into Birmingham.

Has Fired His Last Engine.

E. P. Bishop, engineer on the first section of freight train No. 25, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, shot and killed Wiley Clay, his negro fireman, Thursday night, near Oxmoor, while the train was in motion. The negro was told to fire the engine, but insolently refused to leave his seat. Clay was again told to stir up the fire, and it is said that he sulkingly got off his seat and drawing his pistol, fired one shot at Engineer Bishop, and then attacked him with a knife, severely lacerating his left breast. Engineer Bishop struggled with the negro and reaching for his gun he fired one shot, striking the negro in the breast, killing him instantly.

Some Sample Crops of Cotton.

The cotton crop in the section around Uniontown continues to be wonderful. Mr. Sid Knight claims that he will make 350 bales, an average on one plantation of eighteen bales to the mule. On last Friday from four and a half acres that had been picked over once he gathered 8,500 pounds of seed cotton. Mr. W. B. McKnight reports that he will make thirty-three bales with two mules. Mr. W. H. Munford, the most successful farmer in this section, besides making a fine crop of everything, including a big crop of hogs, will make 450 bales of cotton. He says he has one man who will make twenty bales with one mule. He says he has numbers of them who will make from fifteen to eighteen bales to the mule.

Canada's Representative in Birmingham.

Canada has sent a representative to the Birmingham district to investigate the report that iron was being extensively made in this district by convict labor. Her majesty's government has a very rigid law against anything entering its domains which has been manufactured by the aid of convict labor.

Alabama pig iron has in the past year been gaining quite a foothold among the manufacturers of her majesty's dominion. The fact that convict labor is employed in some of the coal mines of the state has become known across the border, and Mr. Atkinson was sent here to investigate and make a report.

This is entirely a new phase of the convict question in Alabama.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

A Bimetallic club was organized in Bessemer last week.

L. Seligman, of Montgomery, wholesale paper dealer, has made an assignment.

Revenue officers are getting in their work in Randolph county. Three stills have been raided within the past week.

John T. Blakemore has leased several mines of clay and iron in Cherokee county, and will shortly begin to operate them.

A clean bill of health was issued by the Mantgomery board of health Friday, and the opinion prevails that the yellow fever microbes are all dead.

Bernard Long, dry goods, was closed by the sheriff, at Selma, Thursday. The failure is attributable to dull business incident to the yellow fever scare.

Examiner Foster has made a report on the sheriff's office in Cherokee county. He finds the present sheriff's accounts correct and but little complaint to make.

John K. Collins, foreman of the Louisville and Nashville switching crew at Montgomery, was run over and killed last week while attempting to make a coupling.

The Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of Alabama will convene in Montgomery on the first Tuesday in December next, the 7th inst. The Grand Chapter meets on Monday, the 6th.

Sam Fields, colored, convicted of murder and sentenced to hang at Abbeville December 3, has had a respite granted to December 10, when he will hang with James Glover, convicted of murder at Columbia recently and sentenced to hang December 10.

R. E. McLain died at the Hillman hospital in Birmingham from injuries received about six weeks ago. The deceased was employed as flagman on the Southern railroad, and was hurt in the Woodlawn yards, having his left arm broken and left leg crushed.

Thomas M. Wadsworth was killed near Dismal recently while repairing the floor of a neighbor's house. He made a misstep and fell through between the sleepers, a distance of about six feet, to the bottom of a cellar, falling on his head, and he only lived a few hours.

Election Riot in Colombia.

The crew of the steamship Holstein, which has arrived at New York from Santa Martha, Colombia, reported having heard a rumor that forty men had been killed at Bogota, the capital of the Colombian republic. They were mainly policemen, and the election riot in which they fell occurred on Nov. 1. A presidential election is to take place on Dec. 5.

James A. Beard, one of the pioneers of Floyd county and North Georgia, died Thursday.

BILL ARP'S WEEKLY LETTER.

PHILOSOPHER ON A LECTURING TOUR IN NORTH CAROLINA.

LIVELY RIDE ON A CIRCUS TRAIN.

After Undergoing Many Hardships He Is Landed Among His Friends and Is Royally Welcomed.

"Hard, hard, indeed, is the contest for freedom and the struggle for liberty." "There is no rest for the wicked." This world is all a fleeting show, and Jordan is a hard road to travel, I believe! There are other ejaculations I might utter, for of late there has been trouble on the old man's mind. You see, I was invited over here to talk to these people in a humorous and philosophic way, and my wife said as the larder was getting low and the girls needed some more winter clothes, and the tax man was bobbing around and the grandchildren would be expecting something for Christmas, she thought I had better go. So she packed my valise with my best clothes, and fortified me with a little drug store of camphorated oil and flannel and liver medicine and paregoric and cough drops and quinine and headache powders, and so forth and so on. We kissed goodby all round and I departed feeling like I was being driven off from home by sad necessity. I took the Seaboard Air Line at Atlanta bound for Charlotte, via Monroe, but our engine broke down at Greensboro about dark and this delayed us three long, dreary hours, and when we reached Monroe it was way after midnight and the Charlotte train had gone. There were three nice ladies aboard and several gentlemen, who were greatly disappointed, but the conductor was kind and sympathetic and said there was a circus train near by that was going to Charlotte right away and if we didn't mind riding thirty miles in a cab he would get us the privilege. The ladies, said yes, and we did, too, and climed in. It was as dark as Erebus. We felt our way to find seats, but there was nothing but some long tool boxes whose lids were hard and cold. There was no fire and the wind blew through a broken glass on the back of my head. The ladies chatted away merrily, for they were going home, but I wasn't and I couldn't chat to save my life, for I was very tired and thought of that good soft bed at home. By and by the conductor came in with a lantern and took up our tickets and left us in the dark again. About that time the animals got restless and the lion gave an unearthly howl. You see this was a menagerie train.

"The animals went in two by two,
The elephant and the kangaroo," and every time the cars careened about or swung round a curve we could hear some devilish noise ahead of us. "Oh, mercy," said the youngest girl, "suppose they break out!" "They will eat the tenderest and sweetest first," said I. "Lions always do." I pulled my cloak up over the back of my head and ruminated. For two long hours we jogged along, for the train was running slow to suit the wild beasts and we were of no consequence. It was near 3 o'clock when we got to the suburbs of Charlotte and stopped. Nobody was looking for us—nobody rushed forward to meet us, no porter nor hackman—no omnibus or street cars, not even a wagon or an ox cart or a darky. The moon had hid herself to keep from seeing our misery, but we seized our grips and wraps and satchels and made a march for the electric lights. My companions soon separated from me and I marched in single file with my big valise full of clothes and the drug store, and struggled for three quarters of a mile up the long and hard sidewalk. I am not used to arc lights, and the flickering shadow of every tree and telegraph pole looked like a man in ambush who was fixing to hold me up. I had forgotten where the hotels were, and unconsciously passed them, for the doors were all shut, and there was no sign. By and by I met a policeman and he conducted me back to the hotel, and I was as thankful as I was tired and humble. My pitiful tone of voice secured me kind attention and a bed. When a man is far away from home, his warmest welcome is an inn. But I did not rest well.

A 10 o'clock supper, on fried sausage and scrambled eggs and stale oysters, disturbed my corporosity and I dreamed that the tiger got loose and came prowling and howling around the car and somehow I got a hatchet out of the tool box and lifted the young lady through the port hole upon the roof, and volunteered to defend her with my life and my sacred honor. The tiger made desperate leaps to get up there, but every time he got a paw on the eave, I cut it off and let him fall back again. I don't know what became of the other ladies, but think that other wild beasts got in and eat them up. The men had all fled prematurely, but I saved the pretty girl, the sweetest and tenderest, before I woke up. Who wouldn't, in a dream? What curious things are dreams, anyhow! The next trouble on the old man's mind came over him at Salisbury, where I was billed to lecture that night. On my arrival I found that august body, the Presbyterian synod in session. Preachers and elders innumerable were scattered among the good people all over town. They were holding night sessions, and wouldn't have adjourned for McKinley or Grover Cleveland or the yellow fever or a fire. But this was not all, the Episcopal bishop was to lecture on the Holy Land, where he had been recently, and I knew that I would fall between and get smothered. Mr. Marsh seemed to feel very bad, and apologized by saying that when he booked me he did not know of these meetings. "Well," said I, "the saints will all go to these meetings, but you have sinners in this town." He admitted that there were some. And so I went ahead and lectured, and was surprised to see before me a select and cultured audience, select, and I hope elect according to Presbyterian theology.

So all is well that ends well. The next evening found me at the nice little town of Marion, in western North Carolina, away up in the land of the sky. They are good people there, I know, for they filled the court house that night and gave me an ovation. The old soldiers are thick in that region, and they came out to hear me, and some of us got together and talked of old Bob Lee and Joe Johnston and Generals Early and Render and Whiting and Hoke and Ransom and Pettigrew and Clingman and others. Their eyes watered and their hearts burned within them, and they got closer and closer together. What a people these tar-heels are—these descendants of the Scotch! About every other name is Scotch, a McLane or McFall or McLaurin or McArthur or McSomethingelse, and then there are Alexanders everywhere and Caldwells and Carlyles. After the lecture we had a musicale at the hotel by the gifted Gruber family, who keep the hotel, Mr. Gruber and Mrs. Gruber and their seven children. I have heard much music during my long life, but I never heard any better anywhere. How the old man's fingers did dance upon the strings; how sweetly did the still handsome matron sing the "Last Rose of Summer" and other old time songs of Scotland! What delightful chords came from the piano under the touch of the young ladies and the sweet little black-eyed girl of only ten summers! And when they played "Home, Sweet Home," with variations, I could hardly restrain my tears. I felt like we all ought to hold a seance if we could with John Howard Payne and tell him how the world loved him for his song. I had sweet dreams that night. I am still on the grand rounds talking to the unpretending people of this grand old state. It seems to have got out, however, that I had joined John Robinson's circus and gone off with it. Some of these mischievous drummers told that. Yours on the wing.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

State Normal College.

In spite of the scare from pestilence and quarantine, the State Normal College at Troy went on the even tenor of its way with a good attendance, and as good work as the state ever had done for it by any institution.

Troy enjoys the distinction of being 596 feet above sea level, and yellow fever has never come within fifty miles of it, and it is not believed by those well informed that the disease can spread at such altitude, if health measures are carefully observed.

Out of the several thousands of students in the State Normal College there in the ten years past, only two deaths have occurred at the college, and these from pneumonia and measles.

The college never had brighter prospects, and many new students are expected at the new term to open December 7. President Eldredge has calls for trained teachers from every direction, and the demand is above the supply. As school officers learn the value of teacher training they will insist more and more upon it. The State Normal College at Troy delights to serve school officers, schools and teachers.

Says the Iowa Is the Best.

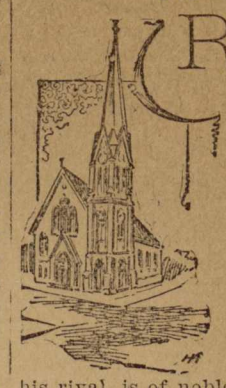
Commodore Dewey, president of the naval trial board, has returned to Washington from the sea trial of the Iowa, which he declares is the best ship of her class in the world.

The convention of the striking coal miners of the Northern Illinois field, at a late hour Friday night, reached a secret agreement, which will be made known in a few days to the various local organizations interested. It is believed it has taken steps looking to the securing of a compromise.

Apples are growing in great abundance in New Zealand, and that country promises to become a formidable competitor in European markets to American fruits, as the apples can be shipped profitably.

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.



REPENTANCE begins at the cross.

Idleness is danger seed.

Wisdom has a short tongue.

Unbelief is Satan's counsel chamber.

Sinful pleasures have a sweetened sting.

He who honors his rival, is of noble type.

Love has a short life, unless given away.

It is doubtful honor to be fondled by curs.

Good humor makes youth bloom in old age.

Be what you want others to think you are.

He that does nothing makes but one mistake.

Do not slight the man because he has done wrong.

Build higher, foolish man, earth is too low for safety.

Opposition is the mill that fans the chaff out of us.

If the heart is converted, the purse will be in reach.

Scolding a child is like currying a colt with a pitchfork.

Defeat in the right is better than victory in the wrong.

He that cannot control himself has a bad master already.

The best quality of manhood blossoms in the nursery.

When honor talks louder than habit you have the right way-bill.

Bury your troubles and plant blooming evergreens on the grave.

The Great Master never rocks his little children in downy cradles.

Putting our best foot foremost is pushing a half counterfeit into circulation.

Many a sore-eyed man sets up for an eye doctor, and does a thriving business at it.

An empty purse and a miser's heart are two of the hardest things in the world to fill.

Cover an ass with a lion's skin, and he will soon manage to poke his ears out somehow.

If some one would find a remedy for the bad memories of debtors, he could make a fortune.

It is hard to believe that sin gilded with gold is the same hideous thing that it is in common clay.

The man who blames himself for the worst things that happen to him will put the blame at the right door.

The best way to wait for the coming of the Lord is to be found trying to make the world what he will make it when he comes.

That the heart has longings which the world cannot satisfy, is one evidence that man is greater than the world in which he lives.

The Answer of Prayer.

The answer of prayer stands knocking at the door of the prayer meeting in Acts 12: 13. That was too unexpected an occurrence for the assembly of believers. They avowed that the maid bearing the information was either crazy or had seen a ghost. How surprised faithful Christians often are if a prayer is really heard. Answers to prayer are recounted with unending exclamation marks, whereas answer of true prayer ought to be considered the most natural experience in God's universe. Much praying is a mere performance. A farmer coming to town read at a physician's door, "Please pull the bell." He pulled until a head was poked out of the window inquiring, "Well?" "Oh, I've read the sign and thought it no more than polite to pull," was his response. The only response that could perhaps be given by many who feel themselves called upon in the Bible to pray. They do not read that the young Pharisee transacted many a prayer before heaven said of him, "Behold, he prayeth." Their arrows shot heavenward have plenty of feather but no point. They do not spread the fleece, like Gideon, for the dew to descend upon.—F. W. C. Meyer.

The Likeness of Christ.

It is not merely by watching the life of Christ as illustrated by His actions, or His principles set forth by His words, that we gain likeness to Him. There is a strange power in personality to affect other natures. The child grows to be like one whom he constantly watches. He may or may not make a conscious effort for that likeness, but the likeness comes. People of larger growth, maturer, more independent development, are often strangely drawn by constant contact into likeness to one another, without so much as a thought of the process. John says: "We shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is." What we need here is to see Christ—see Him, not merely as He was, but as He is, and we shall find the likeness taking hold upon us and fashioning us into itself.

Oldest German Newspaper.

The Magdeburg Gazette, probably the oldest newspaper in Germany, last month celebrated its 250th anniversary. It is still conducted by representatives of the Faber family, which founded it in 1647, just at the close of the Thirty Years' War. The present heads of the venerable journalistic dynasty are the two brothers, Robert and Alexander Faber, perpetuating a line almost a century and a half older than that which rules over the London Times, the greatest if not the oldest of newspapers. Magdeburg took on the decorations of holiday in honor of its venerable Gazette, which well deserved them.

Atchison ball players are becoming stuck up; they call practice "rehearsing."

Three Good Things.

Three good things about Tetterine, besides the one great, good fact that it cures, are that it is painless, harmless and has no bad odor. It is the only sure cure for Tetter, Ringworm, Eczema. Cures them so they stay cured. No matter how long you have had them, 50 cents gets a box at druggists, or by mail for 50 cents in cash or stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally, and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

---

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

---

Berlin savings banks note an increase of about $80,000,000 last year in the sum of th deposits.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Joseph de L'Etoille, of Ottawa, Canada, says that his airship will soon be ready to make a trip to the Klondike.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has no equa as a Cough medicine.—F. M. ABBOTT, 383 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 9, 1894.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. per bottle.

CATARRH CURED

Troubled For Two Years and Health Very Poor.

"I was troubled with catarrh for two years and my health became very poor. I heard so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I decided to try it and after taking a few bottles I was entirely cured." A. H. McDermmot, 85 Bolton St., Marlboro, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion, biliousness. Price 25c.

"Rust,"

the dread of the cotton grower, can be prevented. Trials at Experiment Stations and the experience of leading growers prove positively that is the only remedy.

Kainit

We will be glad to send, free of charge, interesting and useful pamphlets which treat of the matter in detail.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

YELLOW FEVER

PREVENTED BY TAKING

"Our Native Herbs"

the

Great Blood Purifier and Liver Regulator.

200 DAYS' TREATMENT $1.00

Containing a Registered Guarantee.

32 page Book and Testimonials, FREE. Sent by mail, postage paid. Sold only by Agents for

THE ALONZO O. BLISS CO., Washington, D.C.

CHEW STAR TOBACCO--THE BEST. SMOKE SLEDGE CIGARETTES.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

PATENTS Inventors' Guide free. EDGAR TATE & CO. Patent Solicitors, 245 B'way, N.Y.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

TEMS OF INTEREST ON AGRICULTURAL TOPICS.

Chopped Clover For Hens---Late Sown Winter Crain---Crop Reporting---Moulting---Horse Dictionary, Etc., Etc.

CHOPPED CLOVER FOR HENS.

In the winter season, grass and clover in the fields are frosted and innutritious. Fowls eat a great deal of vegetable food during the summer, and when it becomes of little value they suffer. This is their moulting season. Lime and nitrogen are needed to replace their feathers. Second-growth clover cut in small pieces and fed with grain will supply this need, and put the fowls again in condition to resume laying.

LATE-SOWN WINTER GRAIN.

It is not the size of fall growth made, but its character, that decides whether it can stand winter freezing and thawing. A late-sown small growth, if vigorous, will come out all right. In fact, for some reasons the small top is best, as it does not evaporate so much. Nothing can prevent the soil freezing on the surface lower than the grain roots reach in their fall growth. If there is a great amount of leaf on winter grain it is more easily killed to the root than where the growth is small.

CROP REPORTING.

Among farmer crop reporters the tendency to overestimate conditions and yields seems to be quite general. Usually the more enterprising and progressive farmers engage in this work, men who prefer to look upon the bright side of things, and an optimistic view of the situation results. Local pride sometimes sways the judgment of the reporter. Extraordinary yields are heralded far and wide, while in case of poor yields mum's the word, and this has its influence upon the mind that guides the pen of the harvest reporter. Then there is the self-interested fellow who is laboring to boom some particular section of country. His motives are selfish, if anything, and the farm press should unite in squelching him. We believe in intelligent reporting, but in studying the situation we are brought face to face with this tendency to overestimate. Many farm reporters are careful and accurate; some, however, should study situations a little more thoroughly before jumping at conclusions.—The Epitomist.

MOULTING.

Young poultry usually moult twice during the first twelve months, therefore young thoroughbred stock should not be condemned until after the second moult for feathering or off-colored feathers. The first feathers are rarely perfect. The newly hatched Barred Plymouth Rock does not show the barring on the down, but is dark all over except a small light spot on the top of the head. Even the first large feathers, while they may convey an idea of what the matured bird will look like, they will show many imperfections. Even the apparently matured cockerel that has taken a prize at the show may in the next season's moult be unfit for further showing, and vice versa. Some speciments seem to lose their feathers in a few days, while others drag along all through the moult. This is largely due to a greater or less temperature of the fowl's body.

The hearty-eating, warm-blooded bird is the first one to moult.

Birds intended for exhibition can be helped, after they are well along in the moult, by pulling out all feathers that come easy—without drawing blood—especially the wing and tail feathers. —Agricultural Epitomist.

HORSE DICTIONARY.

A white spot in the forehead is a star.

A white face from eye to eye is a bald face.

A white stripe in the face is a blaze.

A stripe between the nostrils is a snip.

A white eye is a glass eye.

A horse has pasterns, not ankles, and there is no such joint as a hind knee or fore shoulder.

White below the pastern joint is a white pastern. Above the pastern, a white leg.

White around the top of the hoof is a white coronet.

A star, blaze or bald face can't be anywhere except on the face.

A snip can't be anywhere except on the nose.

Amble, a gait like pacing, but slower, in which the two legs on the same side are moved together.

Appel, the gentle tug on the rein given by the horse at each step.

Croup, that part of the horse back of the saddle.

Bore, to bear on the bit.

Bucking, leaping vertically into the air with all four feet, and coming together on the ground.

Elbow, joint of foreleg next above knee lying next to horse's side.

Forearm, that part of the leg between the elbow and knee.

Forge, to strike the toe of the forefoot with the toe of the hind one; very often the result of bad shoeing.

Hand, one-third of a foot—four inches.—Western Rural.

ORCHARD CULTIVATION.

Good tillage increases the available food supply of the soil; it also conserves its moisture.

Trees should be made to send their roots deep into the soil, in order to fortify against drought. This is done by draining the soil, and by plowing the orchard rather deep.

This deep plowing should begin the very year the trees are set, and it should be continued every spring until the habit of the tree is established.

Moisture is retained in the upper soil by very frequent but shallow tillage, by means of which the surface of the land becomes a mulch for the soil beneath.

Tillage should be begun just as soon as the ground is dry enough in spring.

This tillage should be repeated as often as once in ten days through growing season—from spring until July or August.

Tillage should not exist for the purpose of killing weeds.

Late cultivation may be injurious by inducing a late growth. At all events it can be of small utility when the tree begins to mature and rains become frequent. This season of respite gives the grower the opportunity of raising a green manure, and of adding fertility to his land at trifling expense and with no harm to his trees.

Fall plowing may be advisable for farm crops, but not for orchards.

Only cultivated crops should be allowed in orchards early in the season. Grain and hay should never be grown.

In general, level culture is best. The modern cultivators and harrows make such cultivation easy.

Trees, especially apples, are often trained too high, because of difficulty of working close; but modern tools permit the heads to be made low.

Harness with no projecting hames nor metal turrets should be used in bearing orchards. Those requiring no whiffletrees are also useful.

Potash is the chief fertilizer for fruit trees, particularly after bearing.

Potash may be had in wood ashes and muriate of potash. An annual application of potash should be made upon bearing orchards of the muriate from 500 to 700 pounds to the acre.

Barn manures can be used with good results, particularly on old orchards.

Cultivation may be stopped late in season, and a crop then be sown upon the land. This crop may serve as a green manure.—L. H. Bailey, in Orchard Bulletin.

THE PROFITABLE HOG.

There has always been a profit in feeding hogs for the fall market. And until cholera begins to show itself in some large herds, there was little risk in breeding and fattening hogs on almost any farm where corn was plenty. But since only high-bred stock is considered worth keeping for profit, the breeding and fattening of hogs requires as much care and has a greater risk than any other stock on the farm. This is no doubt due to the constant in-breeding among the breeds that put on fat early and are ready to market at 250 to 300 pounds in nine months.

The rapid development due to high feeding on rich food diminishes the vital power of the animal, and the early fattening before the bones are fully formed weakens the frame so that the nine months pig has become a helpless mass of fat with little power to take any exercise, which is always necessary to vigorous animal life.

This difficulty is exaggerated by breeding from sows that are not themselves fully developed and cannot therefore give much vitality to their offspring. The mother should be perfected in age, in size and constitution before she can give a vigorous life to her offspring.

Swine breeders sometimes overlook this important fact, because the pigs are to be sold for market often before they are a year old, and hence their short life is not sufficiently taken into consideration.

The Poland China, the Chester Whites and the Berkshires seem to be the favorites among feeders; the first two breeds named, perhaps, have been pushed too far in the tendency to take on fat and often become helpless before they are grown.

The Berkshires do not mature so early, and are larger and stronger framed; and they have the advantage of more lean meat, which is becoming more in demand. A cross between mature sows of Berkshire and a compact male of Poland China or Chester, would be perhaps a good cross for vigoroug hogs and the production of pork with a desirable quantity of lean meat. The Jersey Red is another breed which makes good mothers with large litters and good milkers. These should not be bred until they are more than a year old and then crops between them and the Chester White or Polands have been found to produce good-sized, vigorous pigs which mature early. In-breeding should be carefully avoided in the pure breeds and yet the male in any herd should be pure bred, but not related closely to any cross bred sows in the herd, when he is used. These cross-bred Jersey Reds sometimes prove very profitable breeders, and often raise fine litters of pigs until they are six or seven years old. An old sow should be kept as long as she will raise fine pigs.

A New "Ad" Scheme.

Advertising threatens to break out in a new place. Many barber shops in this city have recently received from a corporation, officered with men of distinguished surnames, a circular proposing an ingenious enterprise. The company writes to obtain the privilege of posting advertisements on the walls and ceilings of barber shops at such points as shall come within the range of vision of persons that submit themselves to the hands of the barber and his assistants. It is the hope of the company that the barbers will yield up their wall space in return for so many shares of stock per chair in the company, and the glittering hope is held out that when the business is once well established the stock at a par value of $10 will pay dividends of 50 per cent. annually. It is announced that the business is already established in 3,000 barber shops in Philadelphia.—New York Sun.

A WINNER

FROM ITS INCEPTION, OUR

Price-Hewn Sale

Send us an order, accompanied by the Cash, for a SUIT or OVERCOAT and you will be remarkably surprised at your investment. . . .

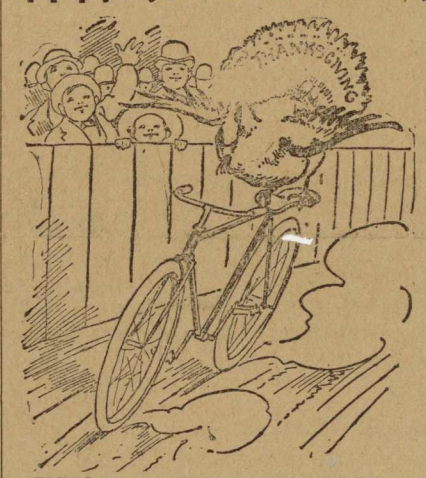
J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave.

Birmingham, Ala.

A THANKSGIVING WINNER



IT'S A WINNER;

They Say Our "BIRMINGHAM" Bicycle is a Bird.

It does fly along at a pretty good clip. Fact is, in the race for favors the Birmingham is far ahead of all competitors. Nothing on the track comes anywhere near it. Good to have, easy to buy.

$40.00.

Most complete and best repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

Am. N. U. No. 47. 1897.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

It doesn't cost much, yet it adds wonderfully to the looks. It is youth for a few cents. No gray hair. No dandruff.

GEORGIA LADIES HATE SHAMS.

Mrs. R. A. Gove

Whiteville, Ga., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 15 years for Sick Headache, Costiveness, and no woman passing through the Change of Life should be without it. It acts on me more mildly and thoroughly than the "Liver Regulator" made by Zeilin or the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Company.

Nervous Depression of Women.

A woman will often without knowing it commit slow suicide for her family. She will think, toil and worry for her children. Too often they do not appreciate it. Her tired nerves and weary body at last reach a stage when she is almost powerless for any kind of mental or physical work, and she is depressed and worried over the consciousness that she is unable to perform her accustomed duties. Her organs of digestion are disordered and although there is a constant disposition to rest, wakefulness and loss of power to sleep are serious indications of nervous depression. What she needs is a course of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine to restore a healthy functional activity and give tone and vitality to her nervous system. At the same time the stomach, liver and kidneys should be stimulated with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

Jas. A. Cantrell

Ball Ground, Ga., writes: I have known Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 20 years, and that it cures La Grippe, Headache and other complaints. I think it is stronger than "Zeilin's Regulator" and "Black Draught," and that it gives better satisfaction.

Pains in Lower Back.

After reaching maturity, and especially after passing through the experience of maternity, most women find their health seriously damaged, if not entirely impaired. The painful and weary dragging and bearing down sensation in the back almost every woman has at times experienced. Sometimes these are from uterine displacement, but often they are simply from weakness. Women who have to bear heavy burdens, to undergo severe fatigue or to endure crushing disappointment, are subject to this and many other diseases. We cannot too strongly recommend the use of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine, the great female tonic and regulator.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED
If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

The Great Mail Order House

111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

Sterling Silver Filagree Pin.

The newest and most beautiful Scarf Pin on the market today. To introduce our latest Holiday Catalogue we will send the Pin on receipt of EIGHT CENTS — CATALOGUE FREE.

D. M. WATKINS & CO., M'f'g Jewelers
59 Page St., Providence, R. I.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Trade-Mark.

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

JUST THE BOOK YOU WANT to refer to constantly, is our handy CONDENSED ENCYCLOPEDIA OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE, as it treats upon about every subject under the sun. It contains 520 pages, profusely illustrated, and will be sent, postpaid, for 50c. in stamps, postal note or silver. When reading you doubtless run across references to many matters and things which you do not understand and which this book will clear up for you. It has a complete index, so that it may be referred to easily. This book is a rich mine of valuable information, presented in an interesting manner, and is well worth to any one many times the small sum of FIFTY CENTS which we ask for it. A study of this book will prove of incalculable benefit to those whose education has been neglected, while the volume will also be found of great value to those who cannot readily command the knowledge they have acquired. BOOK PUBLISHING HOUSE, 134 Leonard St., N. Y. City.

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR 50c.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

CLIFTON NEWTON, Editor & Prop.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class matter.

Advertisers will do well to get our rates and place their card in THE NEWS. There is no better medium for advertising.

Thursday. Nov. 25, 1897

Don't think that every sad eyed woman you meet has loved and lost. Perhaps she loved and got him.

Week before last we clipped three items from the Evergreen Courant, intending to give them the proper credit, but the paper got misplaced. Bro. Salter, we will try and be more careful in the future.

We received last week a copy of the Tacoma (Wash.) Daily Ledger, a 7 column, 16 page paper editor by C. M. Shultz. It is filled with interesting reading and gives all the information one can desire about Klondike.

Some time ago the name of Representalive Howard, of Fort Payne, was prominently mentioned by the leading populists as a suitable man for the next governor of Alabama. Mr. Howard has declined, so it is said by Republicans, and Cougressman W. F. Aldrich is said to be the man.

Saturday afternoon a permit was granted Jaeger & Stockmar for the Phil Schillinger Brewing Company to expend seven thousand dollars in improving their plant on Avenue E and Twenty-second street.

The same parties were granted a permit to erect a two-story brick bottling works for the Alabama Brewing Company at a cost of ten thousand dollars. In addition to this a sum of two thousand dollars is to be expended in other buildings about the main plant. Something over one hundred thousand dollars has already been expended on this plant.—Age-Herald.

It would be a good idea for the farmers to hold meetings in every locality at an early date and discuss fully the use of commercial fertilizers next year. And at these meetings it would be a still better idea to resolve to try farming another year without the use of commercial fertilizers at all. We believe they would find it would pay them. Guano does not pay, and we believe the truth of the assertion can be demonstrated to every farmer if he will try farming just one year without it.—Evergreen Courant.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Mining circles are stirred up over the arrival of J. F. Allen from Kansas City, who is shipping a carload of specimens of ore from Tennessee, Georgia and North Carolina to Kansas City. Mr. Allen sad: "I am sent here by a syndicate to secure specimens of gold ore from this district. I will secure a carload, which will be shipped to Kansas City to the smelter, where it will be tested and an estimate be made."

When asked who formed the syndicate Mr. Allen said. "That I am not at liberty to say. I don't see why there should not be gold here. You have everything else in this district, and I would not be surprised at any time of hearing of diamonds and pearls being found. There is good prospect of gold being found in this section in abundance. Not another Klondike, you understand, but enough to pay the parties to take it out."

J. H. Eckels, the brains of the treasury department, has an article in the October Munsey on the financial condition of the country. His argument is first-class old-party doctrine, as he states the only real relief the people can get is by allowing the national bankers full swing in issuing their wildcat currency, thus entirely relieving the poor old government from the onerous duty of running its own monetary affairs. The noble patriots, both foreign and domestic, represented by Eckels, stand ready to sacrifice themselve to the utmost in carrying out the comptroller's ideas of finance. The article in question is wonderfully well written—so much so, in fact, that it must cause tears of joy to gurgle from the eyes of the faithful hidebound partisans of both old parties for both are owned by the same money ring. Mr. Eckels ingenuously states that the "greatest need in our country today is a sound currency issued by the national bankers of the United States." From their own standpoint Mr. Eckels' admirers are eminently satisfied that this is the truth, the whole truth, s'help 'em. Any old fairy tale, so long as it is against the interest of the working classes, is accepted as gospel truth by your fanatical old party idolator, and so long as the party prospers the people can go to blazes. —Reno (Nev) Plaindealer.

NOTICE.

To Confederate Soldiers and Widows

I have to day received warrants on the State Treasurer for all of those who made application before me this year as Confederate soldiers and widows of such, and the same are ready for distribution at this office. Please call, or send written order for same.

D. R. McMILLAN,
Judge of Probate.

Columbiana, Ala., Nov. 22, 1897.

BLOCTON ITEMS.

The editor has moved to McGraw Town.

Tuesday was pay day and all of the mines were idle.

Mr. J. B. Wadsworth left Monday for a short visit to Huntsville.

Mr. Thomas McCumber has been in town several days on business.

Married, in No. 2 town recently, D R Richard and Miss Mary Hillman.

B. M. Huey and wife spent last Sunday in Bessemer with relatives and friends.

Rev. George E. Boyd, the popular pastor of the Woodstock circuit, was in Blocton Monday last.

Pastor Whitten, of the Methodist church, preached the thanksgiving sermon at the Baptist church Thursday.

Attorney Logan, of Centreville, was among the audience at the M. E. Church Sunday night. He is a handsome man and a good lawyer.

Rev. Sutton Smithermau preached an excellent sermon last Suuday at the Third Baptist church. Subject, "Unbeliet."

Presiding Elder Dobbs spent last Monday with his good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Whitten. He is a popular preacher and good presiding elder.

The Blocton cemetery, near Mt. Carmel, looks better and is in a better condition than it ever has been. Our people have not forgotten the dead.

The mines are running more regular than they have for some time, and would run full time if the cars could be had. The company has plenty of orders.

Supt. P. B. Thomas, of Hargrove was circulating among his numerons friends here Monday. His face always wears a smile when in Blocton greeting his friends.

The music and singing at the Methodist church last Sunday night were exceptionally good. Professor Wallwork can play a cornet equal to the best. The solo by Prof. Verner was very good.

The church workers of Mt Carmel are collecting money to ceil the church and put in a stove. There will be preaching on the second Saturday and Sunday, instead of the first. G. W, Freeman, pastor.

Pastor Whitten preached twice last Sabbath on "The Battle of the Giants." At night he touched up the licensed liquor traffic pretty lively, and also showed the awful consequences of the drinking habit.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,

DENTIST,

BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

Will be in Montevallo Monday, Dec. 13, 1897, for several days, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. All work guaranteed. Teeth extracted without pain.

State of Alabama, Shelby County.

Probate Court, November Term,
November 8th, 1897.

Estate of Sarah E. Wells, Deceased.

To the American Mortgage Company of Scotland, Limited, creditors of said estate:

The said estate having been reported insolvent by H. R. Wells, administrator thereof, the 13th day of December, 1897, has been appointed to hear and determine upon said report. You are, therefore, hereby given notice to be and appear at my office, at the Court House of said county, on said day, to contest the same, if you think proper.

Witness my hand, af office, this 8th day of November, 1897.

D. R. McMILLAN,
Nov18-3t. Judge of Probate.

WANTED ACENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

WE OR OUR DEALERS can sell you machines cheaper than you can get elsewhere. The NEW HOME is our best, but we make cheaper kinds, such as the CLIMAX, IDEAL and other High Arm Full Nickel Plated Sewing Machines for $15.00 and up. Call on our agent or write us. We want your trade, and if prices, terms and square dealing will win, we will have it. We challenge the world to produce a BETTER $50.00 Sewing Machine for $50.00, or a better $20. Sewing Machine for $20.00 than you can buy from us, or our Agents.

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO.

ORANGE, MASS. BOSTON, MASS. 23 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. CHICAGO, ILL. ST. LOUIS, MO. DALLAS, TEXAS. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. ATLANTA, GA.

FOR SALE BY

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured. A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U.S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C.A.SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

LOOK OUT FOR

MORGAN BROS.

They will tell you something in this space next week.

Come and See Them!

They Will Save You Money!

Don't Eat Biscuits When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY
BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

Local.

Mr. Sam Large, of Calera, was in the city Sunday.

Mr. J. L. Walker, of Helena, was in town Tuesday.

Sheriff Vest, of Columbiana, was in the city Friday.

J. W. Brantley, of Brierfield, was in the city Tuesday.

Mr. Charles Dunham, of Helena, was in town Saturday.

Mr. A. M. Cross made a business visit to Pelham Friday.

Dr. Hargrove, of Maylene, attended church here Sunday.

Mr. W. E. Trucks, of Six Mile, was in the city Tuesday.

Mr. J. E. West visited his mother at Columbiana this week.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Mr. Gene Fancher returned home from Coaling last Thursday.

Mr. Emmett Welsh, of Birmingham, was in the city Monday.

Mr. O. P. Head and wife, of near Six Mile, were in town Tuesday.

Young ladies, the editor is single, and is a candidate for matrimony.

Dr. Givhan's horses ran away again Saturday, but did no damage.

We are sorry that the Birmark boys don't know what a goo-goo is.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Mr. Henry Burke, of Ashby, the hustling coaling man, was in town Saturday.

Dr. Wilkinson and W. L. Nolen bagged a good many birds one day last week.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

Mr. Smith, of Maylene, section foreman for the Southern, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. James Oakley and Mr. John Mulkey and wife, of Ashby, were in town Saturday.

Latham & Co. will sell you cloaks and jackets at 25 per cent. below wholesale price.

Messrs. Sam Curry, M. A. Owen and C. G. Smith, of Brierfield, were in town Saturday.

Mr. Harrison Splawn, who lives near Centreville, was in town Saturday, selling cotton.

Mr. E. A. Camp, of Bismark, day manager at Birmingham Junction, was in the city Tuesday.

Mr. Andy Langston and sister, of Six Mile, were in town Tuesday.

Mr. J. W. Benton, of Saginaw, was in town Tuesday and bought a big bill of goods.

Call for Window Glass at H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. A large supply at reasonable prices.

Capt. D. W. Shivers has been on the sick list for the past week. He has been having chills.

Messrs. James Lucas, Wm. Walker and Jabe Thompson, of Dogwood, were in the city Monday.

Miss Carrie Lum sang a beautiful solo—Holy City—at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

The Industrial school has representatives from fifty out of the sixty-six counties in the State.

Mr. W. C. Berger, an experienced jeweler, recently from Centreville, is in town for a few days.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Thanksgiving services will be held at the Methodist church to-day, to which everybody is invited.

Mr. Michael W. is getting very fleshy—in fact, so much so that he has discarded his knee pants.

Mr. William Walker, of Blocton, president of the Shelby County Bank, was in town Monday.

Mr. Charley Lanore, representing Cawthon & Coleman, druggists, of Selma, was in town Monday.

Messrs. R. J. Rotenberry, Charley Wyatt and J. M. Farrington, of Six Mile, were in the city Saturday.

If you want something pretty, and something that will keep you warm, get a cloak from Latham & Co.

Messrs. John and Walter Mulkey, two of Bibb's enterprising young farmers, were in the city Tuesday.

Mr. Sam. J. Morgan, of Blocton, spent Sunday and Monday in our town with his brother, G. W. Morgan.

Latham & Co. have purchased a large quantity of ladies' and children's cloaks and jackets at a great bargain.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Ida Broadhead. The family have our sympathy in their hour of distress.

The city market has just received a large supply of pumpkins and cushaws. Also, about forty frying size chickens.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Mr. John W. Alexander has the thanks of the NEWS force for a nice package of home-raised pecans presented Tuesday.

Mr. H. Pfaff, acting receiver for the Brierfield Coal & Iron Co., was in town Tuesday looking after the interest of the stockholders.

You had better go to Latham & Co.'s and get one of those cheap cloaks before they are all picked over. They are going like hot cakes.

The NEWS man spent Saturday night and Sunday last very pleasantly at Bismark, at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Thompson.

Mr. Walter Brown, an old Montevallo boy, but now with Obendorf & Ullman, Selma, was circulating among his many friends here Monday.

Rev. M. P. Reynolds filled the pulpit of the Methodist church Sunday night, and preached a very forcible and instructive sermon. His subject was "Dry Bones."

Mr. Dolph Banks, who has many friends here, has gone to Houston, Texas, where he will make his future home. We wish him success in the Lone Star State.

Mr. Lasenby, of Wetumpka, spent several days last week with his daughter, who is a pupil of the Industrial school. Mr. Lasenby was much pleased with the school.

Our wide-awake merchants, H. C. & W. B. Reynolds, had dirt broken Monday for their handsome new brick store, to be erected on the corner of Church and Main streets.

Mr. John Draper returned Monday evening from a two week's visit to his mother at Oxford. While absent he took in the Calhoun county fair, and reports a big time.

Mesdames DeYampert and Ogletree, of Montgomery, are visiting their daughters at the Dormitory. They are waiting for the weather to get cooler before returning home.

Just as we go to press, we learn that Mr. Pickett, of Aldrich, had the misfortune to lose his dwelling and all of his household and kitchen furniture by fire Tuesday night. No insurance.

W. H. Daniels, better known as "Billie, the Shoe Man," was in town this week representing a well-known Boston shoe house, with the best line coming down the pike, as he expresses it.

Mr. G. A. Lunsford, of Gold Hill, Ala., has just closed a deal with Mr. John H. McMath for his farm near town, and will remove to Montevallo on the first of January and put up a first-class dairy.

A huga juga was discovered near Montevallo last Friday by some fellows who had drank too freely of Chilton county dew. From the description we got of it, we would advise Barnum to get a corner on all of Chilton county output.

Dr. J. W. Pratt, of Aldrich, left Monday night for Seattle, Wash., where he will remain until spring, when Major Howison, of Randolph, and others will join him, and the party will go to Alaska. Dr. Pratt will superintend the construction of a boat while at Seattle, and have everything in readiness by spring.

Russell Bros., photographers, of Anniston, are in the city for a few days. On Monday they photographed the bank building, C. L. Meroney & Co's store, and the Industrial school buildings and grounds with all the pupils and teachers present. The latter picture will be placed in the catalogue of the Southern railway.

There will be union Thanksgiving service at the Baptist church next Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The first thanksgiving by M. P. Reynolds. The effects of giving thanks, P. L. Abernathy. Why give thanks, Prof. Simmons. Each of the above talks not to exceed ten minutes in length. After this there will be voluntary talks. All are invited to attend. There will also be some special music for the occasion.

We call attention to the card of Dr. E. A. Wilson, dentist, in another column. Dr. Wilson has recently returned from a trip through Canada and the Eastern States, and comes highly recommended. While away he purchased a complete outfit of the latest and most improved instruments. In his office, 117½ N. 20th street, Birmingham, Ala., everything moves by electricity, being the most complete of the kind in the city.

We call especial attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Brierfield Normal College and Commercial Institute. Profs. Collier and Gibbons, well-known educators, are at the head of this institution, and have a splendid corps of trained teachers. Young men and young ladies desiring thorough work, and who desire to be judged strictly by its results, can do no better than attend the Brierfield Normal College.

Call and pay your subscription.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College
AND
COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.
It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.
It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.
It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION!
SPLENDID BUILDING!
GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES!
FIVE INSTRUCTORS!
VERY REASONABLE TERMS!

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!

C. L. Meroney & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE.

Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

Watch This Space Next Week.

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

JAPAN DEMANDS INDEMNITY FROM HAWAII.

Shaker Colony to Be Established in Georgia—Latest Estimates of the Year's Cotton Crop—A Countess Suicides—No Foot Ball in Georgia.

W. S. Tyler, late professor of Greek language and literature in Amhurst college, died Friday night at the age of eighty-seven.

Governor Atkinson, of Georgia, has appointed Hon. Hal T. Lewis to succeed Judge Spencer Atkinson on the supreme bench.

At Augusta, Ga., William Moody committed suicide by shooting himself. Domestic troubles seem to have been the cause that led to the act.

At Athens, Ga., Miss Lizzie Cross, aged 17 years, committed suicide by taking poison. It is believed she was temporarily insane at the time.

The Japanese government has demanded the sum of $200,000 in gold from Hawaii by way of indemnity in connection with the emigration affair.

Robert Wiswall, a wealthy New England capitalist, fell down a flight of steps in Atlanta, and received injuries from the effects of which he will die.

A woman, about 20 years of age, who claimed she was the Countess Theresa Ulfeld, a Russian, committed suicide at Edinburg, Scotland, last week.

An artillery wagon loaded with powder and gun cotton exploded in Mexico City, Mex., killing four men and wounding eight soldiers and citizens fatally.

John Sangin, white watchman at the city pesthouse at Chattanooga, was struck by a train on the Nashville Railroad track and received injuries from which he will die.

Morrow Bros., at Clarksville, Tenn., have secured the contract for tobacco for the Italian government. About 15,000,000 pounds of dark tobacco is required for next year.

Mr. Coles' anti-football bill passed the Georgia senate Thursday by an almost unamimous vote. The bill has already passed the house, and now awaits the governor's approval.

A soldier of the First artillery named Joseph Kreig, died in the hospital at Fort Barancas, Fla., last Saturday. An autopsy was held and the attending physicians declared it yellow fever.

The 115th session of the Virginia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is in session in Danville, and will continue a week or more. Bishop Oscar P. Fitzgerald, of Tennessee, is presiding.

The Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, met in Nashville Thursday in called session and elected George W. Cain treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Dr. Thomas B. Holt.

Gov. McLaurin, of Mississippi, has issued his proclamation making Greenwood a city, entitled to exercise all the rights and powers conferred by charter 93 of the code of 1892. Greenwood has a population of over 2,000 people, and is still growing.

Dr. J. R. Slingerland, the head of a Shaker colony in Ohio, is in Savannah for the purpose of taking steps to organize a colony in Georgia. He went out with parties for the purpose of looking at some land and says the colony will purchase 15,000 acres to start with.

The latest estimate of this year's cotton crop is 10,500,000 bales, against 7,750,000 in 1896 and 9,900,000 in 1894, the big crop year, making an increase of about 25 per cent over last year's crop, and an increase of about 10 per cent over the big crop of 1894.

At Chicago two policemen have been detailed to guard the residence of P. D. Armour. The reason for the precaution is a rumor from Minneapolis that a speculator who lost money in wheat has gone insane and left Minneapolis with the avowed purpose of killing Armour.

The New England cotton manufacturers have entered a protest against the loose way in which cotton is baled in the South, saying it is poorly ginned, poorly handled, poorly baled. overhooked and subject to robbery from the time it leaves the planter's hands until it reaches the mills.

Commissioner General Powderly, of the Immigration Bureau, received a telegram from Inspector Baldwin, in Mississippi, stating that he had secured the arrest of nineteen others of the party of Austrian stave-cutters, making forty-seven in all. Inspector Baldwin was instructed to bring the forty-seven immediately to Baltimore for deportation to Austria and to leave a deputy to find the two still missing.

Since the McKinley administration came into office, March 4th last, twenty-seven American prisoners have been released in Cuba.

The National Odd Fellows' Home and Sanitarium will be opened under favorable auspices at Gainesville, Fla., November 26. By this benevolent enterprise a pleasant and agreeable home and sanitarium will be afforded to the afflicted and ailing members of the order throughout the United States.

It is officially stated that the government considers it necessary that all Spanish residents in the island of Cuba, from the ages of 14 to 40, should enlist as volunteers on behalf of the government. It is asserted that the chiefs of the volunteers assured General Pando that his proposal met with their approval.

The Interstate Commerce Commission desires to correct the recently published statement that only the New York Central & Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads are fully equipped with safety appliances. Out of 436 roads that have reported to the commission in the matter of safety appliances, 75 roads, or 17.20 per cent., will be equipped with automatic couplers by January 1.

The memory of the most famous crime ever committed in Arkansas—the assassination of Hon. John M. Clayton—has been revived by the receipt of a letter by Governor Jones, written from Pitts, Ga., by a person signing the name of Luther Akins. The writer of the letter recalls the crime, inquires about rewards, and states that he can locate the murderer and produce proof of guilt.

CANADA WILL NEGOTIATE.

Will Send a Commission to Washington to Act Jointly With a Similar One.

Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir Louis Davies have returned to Ottawa, Ont., from Washington. Within a couple of hours after their arrival a meeting of the cabinet was held at which the premier explained the recent negotiations with President McKinley and his ministers. As a result of the meeting, it is stated that the cabinet has decided to send a commission to Washington composed of men familiar with the various questions involved to meet with a similar body of men appointed on behalf of the United States, with Ex-Secretary Foster at its head, and to endeavor to reach a settlement on all boundary and other questions at present at issue between the two countries.

Six Cases of Fever at McHenry.

Six well-marked, although mild cases of yellow fever were reported at McHenry, Miss., Friday. The old patient was discharged November 2d, seventeen days ago, and the people felt confident that the fever had run its course. These cases will probably be the last, as jack frost is now taking a hand in the fight.

NEW ORLEANS.

There were six new yellow fever cases Friday and no deaths. There was another cold morning and a trace of frost, and the germ is considered dead, the new cases having been contracted during the recent warm spell and only developing now.

MOBILE.

A light frost was noticed at Mobile Friday morning. There were two new cases of fever and one death for the day.

Contract for Road Awarded.

The contract for the construction of the El Paso and Northeastern railroad was awarded to George S. Good & Co., of Lockhaven, Pa., Friday.

This road opens to El Paso the rich gold and coal fields of the White Oaks country and one of the finest agricultural and stock districts in the state of Texas. Vast quantities of material for the new road are arriving and the contractors will begin throwing dirt Monday.

A light frost was reported in New Orleans Thursday morning, and the fever will soon be a thing of the past.

The Competitor's Crew Pardoned.

The state department at Washington has been notified that the crew of the Competitor, captured in Cuban waters in 1896, charged with filibustering, tried and sentenced to death, have been pardoned by the Queen and will be returned to New York.

There were four prisoners, namely, Alfred Laborde. the captain, a native of New Orleans; William Gildea, Ona Melton and Charles Barrett.

Toll Gate Raiders Active.

The toll gate raiders are again active in Kentucky. At Nicholasville thirty-five masked men rode up in front of the court house square and gave three yells for the inauguration of free toll roads in Jessamine county. The first gate on the Lexington pike and the first gate on the Kenne pike were soon destroyed. Another party of seventy-five horsemen passed on to the Sulphur Well pike. The first gate there was cut into kindling wood. Three gates on the Danville pike shared the same fate. Fully 300 night raiders are out.

SECRETARY BLISS' REPORT.

Big Reduction in the Amount of the Pension Roll Expected.

NEW LAWS FOR ALASKA RECOMMENDED.

Indian Population of the United States Given—Opening of the Wichita Reservation Would Promote That Country's Development.

Secretary of the Interior Bliss, in his annual report, made public last week, submits estimates aggregating $156,532,419 for appropriations by congress for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899.

Discussing pensions, he says 200,000 pension claims are awaiting adjudication, and it is estimated that 40 or 50 per cent of these will be finally admitted. If they are rapidly adjudicated they will swell the pension roll from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. When, however, these claims are adjudicated, and the first payment made thereon, the amount of the pension roll will decrease very rapidly, possibly to $125,000,000 or $130,000,000 the first year.

* * *

About the Indians.

To total Indian population of the United States, exclusive of the New York Indians and the five civilized tribes, approximates 177,178, located on 177 reservations, which contain approximately 33,404,837 acres. Of these, 4,545 have accepted allotments of land, which aggregate about 644,147 acres.

Secretary Bliss says while the opening of the Wichita reservation in Oklahoma to white settlement would greatly promote the development of that country, yet, in view of the unsettled condition of the questions affecting their rights, until there is further legislation he does not see how it can be done without causing great injury and distress.

* * *

Concerning Alaska.

Concerning Alaska Secretary Bliss says existing conditions demand a radical change in the laws relating thereto and he recommends that the public land laws be extended to that district; that additional land offices be created and appropriations made to carry them into effect; that the granting of way for railroads, telegraph and telephone lines and the construction of roads and trails be specifically authorized; that provisions be made for the incorporation of municipalities, providing for the holding of elections, defining qualifications for voting and giving such powers as are used and exercised by municipalities elsewhere; that the legal and political status of the native population, which is in doubt, be defined; that citizenship be extended to the Metlakahtla Indians, who emigrated from British Columbia, and under authority of an act of congress, approved March 3, 1891, to occupy Annette island; that complete territorial government be authorized and established and that represenation in congress be granted.

* * *

Work on the Nicaragua canal is still suspended, and the company reports liabilities consisting of the amounts still due the concessions to the company of $6,705,000 of bonds, and not exceeding $100 cash liabilities outstanding unpaid; assets, unused capital stock, $518,500 first mortgage bonds, and the 2,420 shares of capital stock received in liquidation, the concession, rights, privileges, franchises, etc., which it now owns; plants, equipments, lands, railway supplies and other property in Central America, including the lands between the lakes and the Pacific.

* * *

A recommendation is submitted for separate appropriations for the civil service commission, to be expended under its own supervision.

A Fatal Street Duel.

J. W. Harris, of the Waco (Texas) Times-Herald, a morning paper, and W. A. Harris, his brother, on one side, and Judge G. B. Gerald, a prominent citizen, fought a duel on the street Friday evening. W. A. Harris was shot dead, J. W. Harris wounded fatally, his body being paralyzed, and Gerald shot in the side. He may die. The trouble was the outcome of the mobbing of W. C. Brann, publisher of the Iconoclast.

SLAVERY GOD'S INSTRUMENT,

Said a Colored Bishop, at a Conference in Virginia.

Bishop L. H. Halsey, of the African M. E. church, addressed the Virginia conference of the M. E. church, south, at Danville, last week, by invitation. In the course of his remarks he declared that the institution of slavery was an instrument in the hands of God for the spread of the gospel, and it is the mission of the southern negro, who has been civilized and Christianized through slavery, to Chaistianize their fatherland—Africa.

MORGAN TALKS ABOUT HAWAII

NEED HAVE NO FEARS OF FOREIGN OPPOSITION.

Since His Return He Favors Annexing the Island Stronger Than Ever.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, member of the committee on foreign relations, has reached Washington on his return from Honolulu, where he went to post himself on the annexation question. For the first time, he submitted himself to an interview on the result of his trip, and in part said:

"My conclusions, based on my observations, are only a full confirmation of what I had previously believed, that it is our national duty, and will be in every way advantageous to all concerned, to annex Hawaii to this country. I have studied the questions from the most authentic and reliable sources. The establishment of an outpost of the United States within the tropics, and 2,200 miles from our coast, challenges the inquiry whether such action is necessary to our national welfare. Our northwestern possessions on the Pacific along the Aleutian Archipelago, are over 1,000 miles west of Honolulu. This gives us control of practically the entire American coast of the north Pacific. The intervention of the British possessions from the straits of Fuca to the northern boundary of Alaska creates a powerful reason for our occupation of Hawaii. Without imputing to Great Britain any other motive than to extend her national policy of commercial conquest, it seems very obvious that if she should acquire dominion of Hawaii and open and fortify Pearl harbor, her military fortress at Esquimalt, on the island of Vancouver, co-operating without, would cut our coast line in two and would leave us incumbered with a mass of territory in Alaska, whose defenses would be almost impossible, and the enormous advantages of which would be lost to us. The Vancouver coal fields would give the British navy almost irresistible advantages in case of war and virtual dominion of commerce in time of peace.

"There would not be the slightest difficulty in the character, condition or wish of the 31,000 native people of Hawaii. They are far better adapted to American citizenship than many millions of those whom we have welcomed here from southern Europe and better adapted than the Indians, Mexicans and native Alaskans.

"Except among the few who expect personal favors and advancement from re-establishment of the royal government, the general body of the Hawaiian population will rejoice in the honor, safety, peace, and prosperity which annexation will bring. Morally and practically, the silent invasion of Hawaii from the orient (the Japanese) violates all the declared policy and often expressed purposes of the United States, to protect those people against foreign interference. The island as a national possession would richly reward us for expenditure of a hundred millions. The annexation would cost us nothing and will not at present excite the open opposition of any nation."

A SINGULAR MISTAKE.

In Attempting to Capture a Murderer One Officer Shoots Another.

News of a singular mistake, which came near having a tragic ending, comes from Uhland, Ala., near Columbus, Ga., while the sheriff with a posse of men were endeavoring to capture a negro murderer, who was located by the officers in a house near Uhland. The building was immediately surrounded. The sheriff and Frank Peppers, one of the posse, went to the back of the house to prevent the desperado escaping in that direction. For some reason the sheriff sent Peppers around to the front of the house again. As Peppers turned the corner of the house he was perceived by Gus Farrows, another member of the posse, who, thinking it was the negro who was trying to escape, blazed away at his brother officer with a double-barreled shotgun. Peppers fell to the ground, and Farrows was about to pour a load of buckshot into him if he attempted resistance, when he happened to perceive his mistake.

Most of the shot lodged in Peppers' arms, and although he is seriously wounded he will probably recover. The sheriff, hearing the shot, rushed around the house, thinking that the negro was escaping. In the midst of the confusion the negro slipped out the back door and escaped.

Steamer Bluff City Burned.

The magnificent Anchor Line steamer Bluff City, one of the finest and newest boats on the Mississippi river, which left St. Louis Wednesday bound for New Orleans with forty passengers and 1,000 tons of miscellaneous freight on board, burned to the water's edge at Chester, Ill., Thursday.

All passengers and the crew escaped to land without injury, but nothing on board was saved. The total loss will aggregate $100,000. A number of valuable race horses, being taken to New Orleans for the races there, lost their lives.

A MODERATE IMPROVEMENT

Colder Weather Has Done Much to Accelerate Retail Trade.

AN ACTIVE DEMAND FOR IRON PRODUCTS.

Some Planters Have Been Compelled to Sell Cotton at a Loss—Cotton Goods Weak—Wheat Exports Unusually Heavy for the Week.

Bradstreet's review of trade says: There is a moderate improvement in staple prices and in distribution of woolen goods, shoes, hats and hardware in the region tributary to Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. Tennessee and Louisiana jobbers report a revival of demand from the interior merchants, with some of the business delayed by yellow fever quarantine. Trade reports from Georgia and Texas are quite irregular. Some cotton planters are compelled to sell cotton at a loss to meet advances made earlier in the season, and have little or no surplus with which to buy merchandise. Others, notably in Texas, continue to hold cotton, which delays mercantile collections, and in some sections has an unfavorable influence. Colder weather northwest and in the central Mississippi and Missouri river valleys has helped retail business.

Manufacturers of iron, steel, agricultural implements, stoves, railway cars and woolen goods report an active demand and large output, although the appearance of speculative steel has resulted in weakening the prices of billets and a like tendency on the part of Bessemer pig iron.

Higher prices are recorded for wheat, corn, oats, syrup, hides, shoes, leather, and for turpentine. The reaction in iron and steel is likely to be followed by an advance if the present rate of consumption continues. Lower prices for wheat flour and pork are expected to recognize the advances in wheat and Indian corn, so that a lower price for copper is practically the only important decline for the week.

Wheat exports show a heavy increase alike over last week and last year, and with one exception, that of the second week in September, is the largest single week's total on record.

The total exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States this week aggregate 6,635,792 bushels, against 5,445,542 bushels last week, 3,937,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,916,000 bushels in 1895, 3,312,675 bushels in 1894, and 2,764,080 bushels in 1893. The total exports of the second week of September, 1891, were 6,974,000 bushels.

Corn exports also show a gain aggregating 3,209,790 bushels for this week, against 2,975,721 last year, 1,743,000 in 1895, and 189,000 in 1894.

There are 235 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 273 last week, 308 in the week a year ago, 323 two years ago, 295 three years ago, and as compared with 358 in the like week of 1893.

THREE THOUSAND SHEEP BURN.

Prairie Fire Ten Miles Wide Sweeps Through Texas Counties.

A terrific prairie fire passed through Lubbock, Hale and Crosby counties, Tex., last week, doing great damage to the ranges.

It originated east of Crosby county, burned eastward through Crosby before a severe west wind, until it reached a point north of Emma, when a norther arose, bringing the fire south in its awful fury. The flames came leaping, making a fire ten miles wide and traveling at lightning speed. At least 400 square miles of territory were burned. Cattle suffered and many were burned to death. North of Emma, three thousand sheep were burned in one flock and many farmers lost their winter feed, fire burning it in the stacks.

Tammany Grows Generous.

The members of the executive committee of Tammany hall have subscribed $20,000 for the starving people of Cuba and a like sum for the poor of New York city. The Cuban check was handed to Senor Tomas Estrada Palma and other members of the junta who had called to seek the aid of Tammany in behalf of their starving countrymen.

Train Wrecked in Arkansas.

Train No. 2 on the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis, which left Birmingham, Ala., for Kansas City, was derailed just west of Williford, Ark., Thursday morning. The combination coach, chair car and sleeper went over the bank, the combination car going into Spring river. The chair car and sleeper were both consumed. It is supposed that the truck gave way.

One passenger, J. T. Hoover, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., was fatally injured and about thirty others more or less seriously hurt. It is believed none of the latter will die.

IT was growing dark when Miss Martie, with her basket on her arm, came into the corner market to buy her Thanksgiving dinner. The basket was absurdly small, but Miss Mattie was little herself, and when she set it on the high counter and stood blinking in the bright light, the calf's head at her elbow seemed to be grinning at them both.

"Well, Miss Mattie," called out the market man, in his hearty fashion, "I see your mind is not set on a turkey this time, but just wait till I start this basket off for Cap'n Lawson's and I'll show you the right thing—a plump little duck I clapped into the safe this morning, thinking to myself that's the very moral of a treat for Miss Mattie."

Miss Mattie looked embarrassed and rubbed her forefinger uneasily over a small coin that lay in the palm of her hand under her glove. It was a silver five-cent piece, and she had taken it with much hesitation from a little store of pieces, most of them given her when she was a child. For herself she could have got along very well with bread and tea, but somehow it seemed a dishonor to all her happy past not to have something special on Thanksgiving; and so she had a feeling of real pity for it, lying there warm and snug in her palm, and so soon to go tumbling into the heap of clashing, jingling coins tossed about by the butcher's greasy fingers, or perhaps into the pocket of that horrible apron with blood-stains on it. Miss Mattie shuddered, but quickly recovered herself to say, cheerfully:

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Simmons; but don't you think ducks are a sight of trouble, what with the stuffing and the roasting and needing to be looked after and basted regular? I made up my mind to something simple, and I don't know anything that's easier got or more relishing than lamb chops. Two lamb chops is about what I thought of, Mr. Simmons. You know there's only me."

Mr. Simmons had not seen the five-cent piece, but he understood just as well as if he had, and he began to cut the chops at once, talking all the time to relieve his own embarrassment and assuring Miss Mattie that "if folks only knew it, there was nothing like lamb chops to encourage your appetite and strengthen you up all over."

"But you'll have to take three chops," looking curiously at the money Miss Mattie laid in his big hand, "or I'll have to make change, and change is scarcer than hen's teeth to-night. You might have company unexpected, you know, and an extry chop would come in handy."

Miss Mattie laughed so genially that the market man ventured to slip a sweetbread and a bunch of yellow celery into the basket on the sly. He would have loved to put in the duck, but that would have looked as if he suspected her reason for not buying it, and, bless you, he knew better than that. Some people have feelings, though their faces are red and their hands coarse and greasy.

Miss Mattie went very happily down the street. She had lighted her lamp before she went out, and a cheerful little ray smiled encouragingly at her as she came to the gate. All the other windows in the weather-beaten old house were black and empty and looked to the lonesome little woman as if all sorts of hobgoblins might be peeping out at her from the gloom behind them, for Miss Mattie's neighbors had gone away on a Thanksgiving visit and taken the whole family. At least they said "the whole family," but at the very moment Miss Mattie came to the gate a member of the family was huddled up in a corner of the doorway, cold, hungry and much perplexed to understand what had become of all his friends and why, in spite of his pitiful plea, no one came to open the door for him. He heard Miss Mattie and ran hopefully to meet her, limping as he came, for he had a stiff leg.

"Why, Tommy Barnes," said Miss Mattie, stooping to pat his rough yellow head, "you don't mean to say your folks have gone off to Thanksgiving and left you beeind. Well, if I ever! How dreadful—thoughtless—and you a cripple besides!"

Tommy kept on crying, but he had his eye on the door while Miss Mattie was fitting her key, and the minute it opened he darted in.

"That's right, Tommy," said Miss Mattie; "just make yourself at home. You and I'll have our Thanksgiving together. That extra chop will be wanted after all, and I'm going to make riz biscuits."

She put away her bonnet and shawl and hung the basket on a nail in the back-room without even looking at the contents, though Tommy Barnes watched her keenly with a shrewd suspicion of something good, and a faint hope which nothing in his past experience justified that he might come in for a share of it. Miss Mattie was accustomed to being alone, and she scarcely thought of Tommy, as she trotted about, setting the sponge for her biscuits in a pint bowl, putting a little cup of broth on the stove to warm for her supper, making her tea, toasting her bread, and at last sitting down by the table in the little green chair with a patchwork cushion. Up to this point Tommy had sat quietly by the fire, having learned by many severe lessons that little folks should be seen and not heard, but when Miss Mattie poured out the savory broth the delicious odor was too much for his fortitude, and with one bound he sprung into her lap.

"Bless me," said Miss Mattie, "if I hadn't clean forgot you, and you half-starved, I dare say. There, get down. I never could abide cats around my victuals."

She put Tommy gently on the floor, crumbled some bread into the bowl of broth, cooled it carefully and set it down for him to eat.

"It's pretty rich for me anyway," she said, as she made out her supper with toast and tea.

It was perhaps well for Tommy that he took an early promenade next morning around the back yards of the neighborhood, and secured several valuable tid-bits, for Miss Mattie had very little to offer him. She baked her delightful little [illegible] biscuits, and enjoyed them immensely, finding them lighter and more digestible without butter. She read a Thanksgiving psalm and went about trying to sing in a little chirrupy voice like a brown sparrow. She brought in the small basket and flushed over the unexpected treasuretrove, but took it kindly as a bit of neighborly goodwill. The sweetbread, white and plump and all ready for cooking, reminded her of old Mrs. Morrison, just beginning to sit up and watch the people go by the window. What a toothsome dainty this would be for her, and what a delight that she should be able to take it to her as she went to church, yes, and some of the celery, too, for a relish. The chops were transferred to a plate on the shelf, the sweetbread wrapped in a fine old napkin and laid back in the basket with the best half of the celery, and the biscuits Miss Mattie had saved for dinner.

"The cold bread will go just as well with chops," she reflected, and prepared for church with a glow of happiness such as she had not known in a long time.

It helped to a real feeling of thankfulness, especially when she thought of old Mrs. Morrison, and how pleased she had been with the unexpected gift. She laughed a little to herself as she returned to her own door after service, remembering how when Sally Morrison had commiserated her on being alone Thanksgiving Day, she had assured her she had company invited—Tommy Barnes, from the next door, who was spending a couple of days with her, the rest of the family being away.

"I hope 't wa'n't a sinful untruth," she said, smiling at Tommy, who lay peacefully sleeping on the braided rug, "but if old Miss Morrison had set in to have me stay to dinner, I shouldn't a' known how to get away, and she is such a talker."

With a long, clean apron over her best frock, Miss Mattie began cheerfully to make her small preparations for the Thanksgiving feast. She had meditated leaving one chop for breakfast, but her walk and happiness had made her hungry and she decided to cook them all.

But where did she put these chops—she was getting so forgetful—she could have sworn she put them on the shelf—could she have left them in the basket after all? Her perplexed eyes fell from the shelf to the floor, and there, just peeping from the wood-box was the plate, and two small, very small, bits of bone, gnawed quite clean and white.

Ungrateful Tommy Barnes, lying there in peaceful slumber, with those precious chops rounding out your yellow sides, if justice had befallen you then and there you might not have lived to steal again. But into the midst of Miss Mattie righteous wrath came the reflection that Tommy must have been hungry, and the fault after all was partly her own for putting temptation in his way, "though how anything could have been further out of his way than that shelf, I don't really see," she added, dolefully.

At that minute Tommy Barnes waked from his nap, transformed himself into a camel, yawned in a frightfully tigerish fashion, and proceeded to sharpen his claws on the rug, the sacred rug into which had been braided some precious old garments dear to Miss Mattie's heart. It was a straw too much to have insult added to injury, and springing from her chair, she cuffed Tommy in such vigorous fashion that three or four hearty blows found their mark before the astonished sinner could withdraw his claws and bound out at the back door, left ajar in the search for the chops. At that instant a resounding knock on the front door sent Miss Mattie's heart to her throat with a sudden leap, as if justice were already coming to take her in hand for unreasonable cruelty.

When Miss Mattie was peacefully pattering about, unconscious of the cruel trick fate and Tommy Barnes had played her, Mrs. Deacon Giles was surveying her husband with a disturbed and tearful face.

"You don't mean to tell me," she repeated, "that the minister's folks ain't comin' at all, and you and me has got to eat this big dinner alone? Here, I stayed home from church to tend to it. Oh, you needn't to look as if you thought it was a judgment. Josiah I wouldn't be such a hippercrit as to pretend to be thinkin' of spiritooal things when I was wonderin' if Sarah Ellen would remember to baste the turkey. Seems to me they might let us know sooner."

"But I told ye, mother, it was a telegram come just before church. You can't regerlate telegrams like the weekly newspaper, or stop folks from dyin' unexpicted."

"Then, why didn't you rush round and get somebody else? Mercy sakes! 'Twon't seem like Thanksgiving at all——"

"SHE WAS TUCKED IN THE YELLOW SLEIGH."

"Didn't seem to be anybody to ask but old Mis' Morrison and Marthy Ellison. I drove round by the Morrisons, but the old lady was just having something relishing Miss Mattie had fetched in. They said they invited her to dinner, but she had comp'ny; one of them Barneses next door."

"Fiddlesticks!" said the deacon's wife, in a very disrespectful tone, "You just drive straight back and bring Marthy Ellison up here to dinner. Tell her I don't take any excuse, and, if she can't come otherways, she can bring her comp'ny along, though the way them shif'less Barnesses impose on her is a mortal shame."

Good Deacon Giles had learned docility in many years of experience, and the double knock at Miss Mattie's door followed as quickly as could be reasonably expected. Miss Mattie attempted neither excuse nor hesitation, but accepted her good providence with radiant delight.

"Mother said to fetch your comp'ny along," said the deacon, glancing doubtfully about the small room. "We heard you had one of the Barneses. I kinder hope 'tain't the cross-eyed one that stole my pears."

"Oh," said Miss Mattie, laughing into the little mirror, as she tied her bonnet, "he's had his dinner and he's gone out."

She didn't say that he had eaten hers also, but at Mrs. Giles's hospitable table, under the genial influence of generous fare and pleasant old-time reminiscences, she told the story of Tommy Barnes and the lamb chops in a way that made the deacon lose his breath with laughter. And when she was tucked into the yellow sleigh for the ride home, Mrs. Giles stopped at the door to say:

"I put some bits of bones and things in a basket under the seat for Tommy. Takes a sight of stuff to reely fill up a cat fur 'nough to give his moral principles a fair showin'."

Tommy was on the step waiting to welcome Miss Mattie, which shows his forgiving disposition, and, though he got as much as was good for him out of the basket under the seat, Miss Mattie very wisely concluded that the mince pie, roast chicken and cranberry sauce could hardly have been meant for his delight, so she locked them in the cupboard, saying decidedly:

"This time, Tommy Barnes, I'll give your moral principles a fair showing." EMILY HUNTINGTON MILLER.

THE JOYS OF THANKSGIVING.

On Desert Air.

Winthrop—"If Freddie is going to spend Thanksgiving with his grandmother, perhaps you'd better buy him that tin horn."

Mrs. Winthrop—"I spoke to him about it, my dear, but he said it would do no good to him, as grandmother is deaf."

O HEART, GIVE THANKS.

O heart, give thanks for strength, to-day,
To walk, to run, to work, to play!
For feasts of eye; melodious sound;
Thy pulses' easy, rhythmic bound;
Ten servants that thy will obey;

A mind clear as the sun's own ray;
A life which has not passed its May;
That all thy being thus is crowned,
O heart, give thanks!

Feet helpless lie that once were gay;
Eyes know but night's eternal sway;
Souls dwell in silence, dread, profound;
Minds live with clouds encircling round;
In face of these, thy blessings weigh!
O heart, give thanks!

—Emma C. Dowd.

THE JOKERS' BUDGET.

COLD VICTUALS.

Jones-Brown—Will you contribute to my Klondike grub stake?

Brown-Jones—Yes, I'll contribute the ice.

ANOTHER MASTERPIECE.

"Have you seen Pegreen's new painting?"

"No; what's the subject?"

"'Death on a High-Grade Wheel,' a companion piece of 'Death on a Pale Horse.'"

'TIS THE GUN.

"Why is it that Chumpley always buys another new gun at the opening of the game season?"

"Because the one he had the year before never killed anything."

PLENTY OF THEM.

"You say you love my daughter?"

"I love her, sir, with every fiber that I possess."

"Every fiber?"

"Yes, sir. I'm in the rope and cable business, sir."

THE CHEERFUL IDIOT.

"I see," said the shoe clerk boarder, "that there is a king in Africa who has been drunk for fifteen years."

"That," said the Cheerful Idiot, "is what might be called a soaking reign."

THE OLD, OLD DELUSION.

"Darling," he whispered, "it costs no more to keep two bicycles in repair than one."

Love is eternal; its delusions, even, are mutable only in respect of their terms.

IT WOULDN'T WORK.

"One touch of nature, you know, old man——"

"Of course, of course; but you're not nature, and consequently I refuse to be touched."

Thus the promptness with which he saw the point saved him.

SIZED HIM UP.

An Irishman, who had jumped into the water to save a man from drowning, on receiving a sixpence from the rescued man, looked first at the sixpence and then at the donor, saying:

"Be jabers, I am overpaid for that job."

EVERY SEAT WAS TAKEN.

Barnes Tormer—Every seat was taken at our last performance.

Roscius de Hamm—I heard about it. I was told that the audience carried off the benches as the only way of getting any return for their money.

AS BETWEEN MEN.

"Yes, dear, I met your father, and told him that I wanted to talk with him as one man with another."

"And"——

"Well, that was the kind of talk I got. With all the temper he has, I am sure he would never have used such language in talking to a woman."

KEEPING HER WORD.

"Madam," said the attorney for the defense, "do you recognize the prisoner as your husband?"

"No, sir," she indignantly replied, "I told him when he got into trouble before that if he repeated the offense I would never recognize him again!"

TRYING TO DEFRAUD HER.

Horton—How is it that you always put on such a long face and talk so discouragingly when your wife happens to be present? At other times you are one of the most enthusiastic prosperity boomers I know of.

Henley—I promised her away along last spring that I'd get her a new sealskin sacque this fall, if business picked up.

IN HARD LUCK.

Billiken—What's the matter, Williken?

Williken—Matter enough. You know, some time ago I assigned all my property to my wife, to—to keep it out of the hands of—of people I owe, you know.

"Yes."

"Well, she's taken the money and gone off—says she won't live with me because I swindled my creditors."

AREA.

"Let me," urged the merchant, "sell you a cyclometer. It will tell you just how much ground you have covered."

The man with the slender legs took the cyclometer in his hands, gazed upon it earnestly for a moment, and then smiled bravely through his bicycle face.

"Have you none that registers in acres?" he asked, with a palpable effort to be bright.

HE COULDN'T HELP IT.

"Why is it," asked the young lady who was being shown through the establishment, as she stopped beside the man who gets up the "funny column," "why is it that you humorists always look so solemn?"

"Because if a fellow has to make a living at it this joking becomes a mighty serious business."

Then, of course, she said:

"Why, how funny!"

Some of the consular offices of the United States have been held by the same men for 20 years, and Mr. Hardegg has been consul in Syria for 26 years.

THE MOBILE AND OHIO.

Birmingham News.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a reference to the constantly reviving rumor that the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, which is building an extension from Columbus, Miss., to Montgomery, Ala., via Tuskaloosa, with branches to Brookwood and Blocton, is going to come into Birmingham by a line to be built from Blocton or Brookwood to Bessemer, where it is stated that the Mobile and Ohio will come into control of the Birmingham, Powderly and Bessemer steam dummy line recently sold to the Birmingham Railway and Electric Company, and thus enter the city.

A News reporter received authentic information on this subject from Chief Engineer Merriwether, of the Mobile and Ohio, at the Morris Hotel this morning. The reporter put the question to Mr. Merriwether point blank as follows:

"Mr. Merriwether, is the Mobile and Ohio Railroad coming into Birmingham?"

"That the Mobile and Ohio Railroad would like to come into Birmingham," replied Mr. Merriwether, "there is no doubt, but it is equally true that the road has no such intention at present. The road has no more idea of building a line to Birmingham at this time than I propose to do it individually. There is absolutely no truth in the report that we are heading this way.

"It is true," continued Mr. Merriwether, "that a party of suvreyors have been in the field on a line coming this way from Blocton, but what they are there for I do not know. I have been asked if they represent us, and I have said they do not. What they are doing I do not know, but I do know that they are not surveying a route to Birmingham for the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

"For one thing, the Hanover Construction Company cannot build to Birmingham under the present contract. There were four million of 5 per cent. bonds issued, and the contract plainly states that they are to be used to build the extension from Montgomery to Columbus with extensions to Blocton and the Warrior coal fields. There is no provision for doing anythiug else, and we could not consider a line to Birmingham under the funds thus raised.

"We have been somewhat set back on the Warrior extension by not finding the coal mines in operation we expected to find. For this reason we may have to push on to Brookwood, but that is all the further extension we can make now.

"No; we do not meditate coming into Birmingham; we have not bought or dickered for the Birmingham, Powderly and Bessemer dummy line: we have no project laid out for entrance into this city."

Mr. Merriwether, speaking of the construction of the extension from Columbus to Montgomery, said; "Rails are now laid from the Columbus end to within fifteen miles of Tuskaloosa. We expect to be in Tuscaloosa by December 1, and trains will be able to operate between Columbus and Tuscaloosa for work of construction if not for regular service, by January 1."

KEEP STEP!
DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - Ala

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free.

The SIXTH MISSING WORD CONTEST

The Atlanta Constitution Offers

One Tenth Of the Subscriptions

Received from those entering the Contest to name properly the missing word in the following sentence:

"Once given the passion for ....., that one of the precious metals will be most in demand which is cheapest." ∴ ∴ ∴

And, in Addition

TO THE 10 PER CENT, WE WILL GIVE

$100 Cash Extra

For the first Six Correct Guesses, as follows: $50 for the First Correct Guess and $10 Each for the Next Five, in their order, provided the same are received in our office on or before December 1st.

THE PERIOD COVERED By This Contest shows about 16,000 expirations for The Weekly Constitution, and, of course, we want them all to renew and to enter the Contest.

THIS MEANS $1,600

For the Missing Word Fund, and every additional subscriber entering the contest will swell the amount the more.

This period also compares with our First Missing Word Contest last year, in which Mr. M. L. Brittain secured the prize—$1,033.50. As that was our First Contest, there were more than 5,000 subscribers received during the time, who did not enter for prize. It will not be so this time, for the plan is widely advertised and we have paid out within the past twelve months NEARLY $5,000 CASH upon the Five Missing Word Contests. The series has been of extraordinary interest, and the idea seems to grow in the public's favor.

The book containing the sentence is a standard publication, and has been sealed up and placed with Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of The Constitution, who will hold it safely until January 1, 1898.

The sentence speaks for itself and submits a very plain proposition for you to solve.

The Contest Began November 1, 1897.
The Contest Ends January 1, 1898.

This contest lasts two months and the amount to be divided will probably be in the neighborhood of $2,000. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

The Greatest of All American Weekly Newspapers for One Year.

Keep That in View and Send Your Guess With Your Dollar for a Year's Subscription

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the two months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of contest:

WE PROPOSE TO PUT 10 PER CENT of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the fund.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent; there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

THE CONTEST BEGAN NOV. 1ST—We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses and on December 1st we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during December we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

THE CONTEST CLOSES JAN. 1ST—At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for January 1st is "....."

The above is the plan of The Constitution Contest, which all subscribers to that paper and ours, subscribing under the clubbing offer announced elsewhere, may enter. Address orders to

THE MONTEVALLO NEWS,

Montevallo, Ala.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD.

Montevallo, Alabama.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2, '97. NO 49.

How Does This Come at You?

I Can Tell You Where to Buy the Most Goods for $.

The Racket is the Cheapest Store in Montevallo!

These Prices Will Prove It. Read and See!

What They Have Not, They Will Gladly Order for You.

STATIONERY.

Note paper, per quire,	3
Envelopes, per pack,	4
Paper and Envelopes, per box,	9
Examination Tablets,	10
Pencil Tablets,	5
Ink "	5
Best Lead Pencils,	1
Falcon Pens, per dozen,	8
Spencerian Pens, "	10
Memorandum Books, 1 cent up
Large day books, 72 pages,	24
Pen staffs, each,	1
Erasers, each,	1
Stenographer's Pencils,	5

Anything else in this line cheap

NOTIONS—Cheaper than ever

Coats' Thread, per spool,	4
6 Balls of Thread,	5
144 Agate Buttons,	5
Suspenders, per pair,	10
1 dozen bone collar buttons,	3
Needles, per paper,	3
Pins 3 and 5 cents
7 inch combs,	7
3 inch fine combs,	4
Hair brushes,	15
Whisk Brooms,	10
Lamp Wicks, per yard,	5
Shaving Brushes 3 cents up
Case Knives per set,	47
4 boxes Blue Hen matches,	5
Elastic webbing, per yard,	5
Best Toilet Soap,	5
Corsets worth 75 cents, at	37
Lace pillow shams, per pair,	25
Lace curtains, per pair,	75
Blankets, worth $2,	$1 24
Bath towels, per pair,	14
Socks, [illegible] and	15
Ladies' Hose [illegible] 10, 15 and	25

Also [illegible] of Ladies' Undervests too cheap to mention, but the very things for winter—ask to see them.

HANDKERCHIEFS

I have a nice line at any price from 3 cents up When in need of anything in this department, it will pay you to visit us.

LAMPS! LAMPS!

We sell them to suit your money—see if we don't!

Nice stock of Fancy Lamps, best in town, at $1 58 cents.

Beautiful Vase Lamps,	$1 27

Lamp chimneys, 4 cents up.

I have hand lamps 15 cents up.

I have a line of lamps suitable for Christmas presents.

Get my prices and see my goods before buying elsewhere.

TINWARE, WOOD WARE, GLASSWARE,

Cheaper Than Ever Known Here.

8 quart Dish Pans,	12
10 " " "	17
2 " Coffee Pots,	8
4 " " "	15
2 " Cake Pans,	4
2 " " " with stem,	9
6 " Milk Buckets,	10
1 " Dippers,	5
3 " Stew Pans,	10
Wash Pans, 5 cents up.
Strainers,	10
Egg Beaters,	4
Kitchen Forks,	4
Graters—large size,	4
3 Hoop Cedar Water Buckets,	39
Fiber Water Buckets,	74
Coffee Mills, best,	49

Many other articles just as useful and equally as cheap, which I have not space to mention, but will take pleasure in showing you.

JEWELRY!

Yes, I keep a nice line of up-to-date Jewelry, such as Watches, Chains, Charms, Rings, Pins and novelty goods in Sterling and Silver Plate. Also Clocks, Rogers' flat ware, Spectacles, etc.; in fact, most anything to be found in a jewelry store. When in need of anything in the jewelry line I will make it to your pocket book's interest to call on me.

I do all kinds of Watch and Jewelry repairing, and guarantee all my work first-class.

A word about clocks: You can buy any clocks of a regular merchant, but he cannot guarantee them because he cannot mend them when out of order. I can, and it is money to you to remember this when in need of a good time piece real cheap.

I am always glad to see you and to show you my goods, whether you want to buy or not.

Yours anxious to please,

THE RACKET,

J. W. MARTIN, Proprietor,

MONTEVALLO, - - - - - ALA.

BILL ARP'S WEEKIY LETTER.

HAS MORE TRIBULATIONS DURING HIS LECTURE TOUR.

ANOTHER RIDE ON FREIGHT TRAIN.

However, All's Well That Ends Well. Philosopher Visits Spot Where Great Men Are Buried.

Charlotte, N. C., is a growing city of 20,000 people. Charlotte has the best advertising sketchbook I ever saw. It is beautifully printed and illustrated and seems to be founded on facts. They are distributed from all of the hotels and are pleasant reading on the train. It tells all about the health and climate and altitude and business and resources and public morals, but what amazed and impressed me most was the circle map that shows the number of cotton mills within a radius of 100 miles from Charlotte. On this map are black dots numbering the mills at every town and the aggregate is 210, or about 62 percent of all the mills in the south. These mills operate 1,621,000 spindles and 14,000 looms and are capitalized at $50,000,000. This little book contains a tabular statement of all these mills by name and capacity. Charlotte has eleven of her own.

Now, I was ruminating about this in connection with five cent cotton. And there is some comfort in it, for we keep at home all the profit there is in manufacturing and we give employment to thousands of our poor and dependent people. Suppose that every township in Georgia had a cotton mill and that all its earnings were spent and scattered in the community, then we wouldn't feel so bad over the low price of the great staple. We would indirectly share in the profits of manufacturing.

Once again I visited the old time-honored cemetery—the first graveyard of old Mecklenburg county. I was sorry to see that it has of late been neglected and has grown up in briars and weeds. I took note of some of the old inscriptions, and this one especially attracted my attention:

"Oh, Crux—ave spes unica.

"Sacred to the memory of Patrick Harty, who was born in Tipperrary, Ireland.

"It is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead that they may be loosed from their sins.—II Maccabees 12, 46."

There lies a good Roman Catholic, thought I. He went to purgatory and the priest prayed for him. Then I ruminated about Maccabees not being in the sacred canon, but was in the Apocrypha, and the Apocrypha was ruled out of the King James version in 1826. Then I turned to an old Bible that had the Apocrypha and found that the 12th chapter of II Maccabees had only forty-five verses, but the last three had the same injunction to pray for them who are dead, and furthermore that Judas Maccabees raised among his soldiers 2,000 drachma as a sin offering for those who were slain. I make no comment on this. Martin Luther translated the Bible and left in it these two books, as he said, for human consideration.

There is another tombstone at Cheraw that interested me, for it marks the grave of no man or woman now known. It reads as follows:

"My name—my country—what are they to thee
What—whether high or low my pedigree;
Perhaps I far surpassed all other men,
Perhaps I fell below them all—what then?
Suffice it, stranger, that thou seest a tomb,
Thou knowest its use—it hides no matter whom."

The other morning about daybreak I left Charlotte for Lumberton, on the Wilmington road. The breakfast house was 70 miles away at Hamlet, and when I got there I heard the conductor say: "Twenty minutes for breakfast." But I dident hear him say change cars for Wilmington and points this side. You see I am getting quite deaf in one ear and can't hear at all out of the other, but my wife says it is astonishing how quickly I hear the breakfast bell. We had a splendid meal, and I regained my seat in the same car. When about a mile from town the conductor called for my ticket, and recognized me as bound for Lumbertown. He frantically pulled the bell cord and told me to get off and hurry back, for maybe I could catch the Wilmington train. Right then I was distressed, for I knew there was no other train that day, and I was billed to lecture that night. The sand was shoemouth deep, but I gripped my baggage and foxtrotted about 200 yards and suddenly discovered that I would have to put on brakes for my wind was giving out. Another hundred yards and I had to stop and blow, for my heart was thumping like a bass drum, and there is so much heart failure nowadays that I got alarmed and put down my valise and sat on it. Just then I saw my train steaming away like a snake in the grass, and I involuntarily exclaimed, "Farewell, vain world, I'm going home." So I took my time and made haste slowly, and when I reached the station was the picture of disappointment and dispair. "What can an old man do but die?" I murmured. Wish now I had my photograph as I was foxtrotting through that sand, and then another as I saw that train steaming away without me. But all's well that ends well. I found a freight train that was going to leave for Lumberton at 11 o'clock, but the conductor couldent say when it would get there. I wired my friend that I was left, but to hold the fort, for I was coming—and he did. It was only forty-four miles, but it took us over eight long hours to get there. I had only time to wash up and brush up and eat supper, but I found a good house full awaiting me. My subject was "The Cracker and the Cavalier," and my friend introduced me by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have the pleasure of introducing to you the distinguished Georgia cavalier, who will now proceed to address the North Carolina crackers." Well, this brought down the house to start on, and put everybody in a good humor, especially when I apologized for my delay and portrayed my trials and tribulations. Lumberton is a good old town, and has the best waterworks that I have seen anywhere. They have four blowing artesian wells for public use, and many more private ones. These public ones, including pipes and everything, cost less than $1,000, and I know of many a town that would give $10,000 for similar privileges. Lumberton does not realize what a treasure that water is, for it is cold and pure.

The next stop was at Weldon, in Halifax county. I don't know what those people have done to McKinley, but he has already appointed eight negro postmasters in the county and six of them have accepted and are in office. The people are hot, I tell you, for the negroes outnumber the whites and brag that "their time has come at last, thank the Lord."

It used to be that when a man wasent irreverent enough to tell a man to "go to hell" he would tell him to go to "Halifax." I understand now what he meant. It has been nearly fifty years since I stopped at Weldon and the town hasent changed much. The people are high-toned and have good manners, for they live close to the Virginia line and come from aristocratic stock. From Weldon I journeyed to Washington, on Pamlico sound, a lively city of 6,000 people. I was escorted to the Ricks House, where all the drummers congregate, for Mrs. Rick is a mother to them all, and they love her. I found her house full of them. They come and they go on every train. I like the drummers and sympathize with them, for they are far from home and many of them have families and have to leave them, as I do, to make a living. I am a drummer myself, but I don't like the name. It is slang and does not fit such a respectable class of gentlemen. It origated from the old militia musters when drum and fife were used to call up the boys and get them in line. The sergeant would cry out: "Oh, yes; oh, yes; all who belong to Captain Jones' company parade here." Then the drum would rattle and the fife would whistle and the boys would gather and fall into line. Drumming now means come right here and buy my goods, and the drummer rattles his tongue with earnest alacrity. I feel sorry for them now, for 5-cent cotton has nearly ruined their business. But they keep going. They are everywhere. They get on and off at every station by night and by day. They keep up the hotels and largely help out the railroads. They are smart and good-looking and well behaved and know more about everything than any other class. They are constantly rubbing against the world and absorbing knowledge.

Well, this is the historic region where Sir Walter Raleigh's lost colony was planted and where Virginia Dare was born. I saw Virginia. Her name was on a beautiful steamer that was loading at the wharf. A sweet little girl laughed at me for not knowing all about Virginia Dare a long time ago. Her father says that Mr. McMillan, of Red Springs, has written a book about the lost colony and that the Croatans now have free schools that are separate from both white and black races. The lost colony amalgamated and miscegenerated with these Croatans and no doubt but that Virginia Dare's blood flows in some of their veins.

From here I am homeward bound and am happy on the way.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

To Become Coal Barons.

The Vanderbilt interests have a scheme on foot aiming at the control, through the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, of the soft coal markets of both East and West. Every part of the enterprise, from the ownership of the coal lands to the final delivery of the product, will be managed by one head, representing one interest.

A Mexico City dispatch says: Vera Cruz and Matlazan show clean bills of health, there being no fever in either city.

Passed the Painful Stage.

"Can you ride your bicycle yet?"

"Oh, yes! It seems just as easy now as it did before I began to learn."—Puck.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Hon. John L. Cobb Dead.

Hon. John L. Cobb, ex-state treasurer of Alabama, died at his home in Montgomery Wednesday night. He was 56 years old and had been prominent in business circles for years.

Cotton Gin and Lumber Yard Burned.

Fire at Hartselle recently destroyed the cotton gin and lumber yard belonging to Robert Sobatka. The loss was total. Forty bales of cotton and 30,000 feet of lumber comprised the principal loss outside of buildings.

Hon. Woodley C. Campbell Dead.

Hon. Woodley C. Campbell, city alderman from the first ward in Montgomery, coroner of Montgomery county, captain of a Montgomery cavalry company and a prominent business man, died at 7 o'clock Thursday morning in Atlanta. He had tbeen here several weeks under treatment of specialists. He had been in failing health for more than a year, as a result of an abscess on his liver.

Men at Work on New Extension.

The Nashville. Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad now has a force of 150 men at work near Cluttsville on the extension of the Middle Tennessee and Alabama. They are putting three miles of track to make a "Y" between Cluttsville and Madison "X" Roads. The line as surveyed, leaves Huntsville to the left. The contractors say that as soon as spring opens the line will be completed from the "Y" on through to Decatur.

Working for Armor Plate Plant.

Congressman Underwood, of the ninth Alabama district, the leader of the movement for the location of a government armor plate plant in the southern states will endeavor to have a provision attached to either the naval appropriation or to the sundry civil bill for the erection of an armor plate plant to be located at Birmingham.

He has been in correspondence with numerous western and southern members of congress and says he finds that a vast majority will support a measure of this kind. Mr. Underwood is very sanguine of success in his undertaking.

Acknowledges That Fever Existed.

Greensboro, Hale county, has acknowledged at last that yellow fever has prevailed in that city. Dr. Geddings, the government marine hospital surgeon, who has been in Selma disinfecting and fumigating the nine houses in Selma wherein existed yellow fever, received a telegram from Surgeon-General Wyman stating that the mayor and the board of health at Greensboro requested that someone be sent there to investigate and fumigate the houses. In the telegram Dr. Geddings was ordered to go at once to Greensboro and report to Mayor Randolph.

Seeking an Independent Organization.

A conference to organize an independent colored Presbyterian church in the United States is in session at Birmingham. The colored Presbyterians in the South have ever since the war affiliated with ths Southern Presbyterian assembly, but gradually they have been showing a disposition to flock to themselves, until the idea of organizing an independent church has finally taken shape in the conference which is now in session. The proposed church is to have national jurisdiction. The Southern Assembly is represented at the meeting by its committee on colored evangelization, of which Dr. A. L. Phillips, of Tuskaloosa, is secretary, and the Northern Assembly also has prominent members present to counsel the ministers and elders.

Iowa Farmers Locating in This State.

J. E. McMichael has just arrived in Morgan county as an advance guard for a large party of emigrant Iowa farmers, consisting of eleven families, who, he says, are traveling overland with all their stock, wagons and personal property, headed for Decatur. The distance they will cover is more than 800 miles. McMichael came on first in order to make certain essential arrangements. The large party will arrive here in a few days. McMichael says they are only a small number compared to the exodus that will come here a little later on, as soon as they can complete their arrangements to get away. This first party have obtained three large fertile farms about six miles west of Decatur, where they will locate.

Alleged Systematic Robbery at Huntsville.

The committee of aldermen, who have in charge the construction of city sewers at Huntsville, has made the startling allegation that the city has been systematically robbed for several weeks past, and right under their noses at that. The discovery was that a number of negroes, who have at some time been employed in the trenches, and since discharged, have been drawing money regularly every Saturday night for a week's work without having worked at all.

All of these negroes belonged to a gang superintended by C. M. Tardy. Investigation of the matter begun Monday morning with a called meeting of the city council. The sewer committee was instructed to make a thorough investigation. A closed meeting of this committee was held, and several of the laborers, who have drawn money to which they are not entitled, were placed on the witness stand, and testified that they have been paid a small amount each week to answer their names at roll call and to make application for their wages on pay day.

The city council held a special meeting, and Alderman J. D. Humphrey, paymaster in the sewer construction corps, resigned his position and demanded that his books be thoroughly investigated.

LETTER FROM WILSON.

Commissioner Culver Receives a Communication from Agricultural Department.

The following interesting communication has been received by Commissioner of Agriculture Culver, from Hon. James Wilson, secretary of the national bureau of agriculture:

"I will not have time to make speeches in Alabama, except at the technical institutions at Tuskegee and Auburn, and these will be only informal. I would be pleased to meet your farmers and spend a good deal of time with them, but my duties here are exacting, and my purpose in visiting the south is to study the conditions and consult with gentlemen like yourself, who are familiar with these conditions. I want to learn more about the south, so as to make this department as useful as possible to our people. This will be my business down there. and I must do it as rapidly as possible. I cannot be longer than four or five days in your state.

"I wish to meet the fellows in the field with their coats off and see what their greatest difficulties are. I would like to see what you have done to the soils of Alabama, to what extent they are used, what recuperative methods are used on the depleted soils, etc. I will make inquiry into the dairy industry of the state. During my stay here I intend making repeated visits to the south. This will be my first visit to Alabama, but I hope it will not be my last."

APPROACHING COMPETITION.

Trains on the M. & O. Extension Will Soon be Running.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad will be operating trains within ten days. The trains will be running from Tuskaloosa to Columbus, Miss. The road is complete in every detail to within ten miles of Tuskaloosa. The contractors, by using their new track-laying machine, complete two miles daily. The false work on all of the bridges between Tuskaloosa and Columbus has been finished. On the bridge across the Warrior river the crossties and rails are being laid. The iron work for the permanent bridges is on hand in Columbus, snd will be shipped by the first train over the line. The building of this extension has broken all records for quickness.

The grading from Tuskaloosa to Montgomery is almost complete. All that remains to be done in this line is the completion of the trestling. The rails for this end are in Tuskaloosa, having been taken there by the Alabama Great Southern road.

The corps of engineers at work between Birmingham and Blocton continue their surveying to Bessemer. On account of the extreme ruggedness of this part of the country the progress is very slow.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Fire destroyed six houses at Elyton last Thursday, entailing a loss of $4,000.

The Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, meets in Union Springs on the 15th of December.

The annual convention of the Alabama Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will convene in Birmingham, Dec. 2, and will continue two weeks.

R. A. Smith, of Fayette, has been justice of the peace for a longer period, perhaps, than any man in the state. He has held that office for nearly forty years with but few breaks.

Mrs. C. M. Wright has been commissioned to take charge of the postoffice at Leighton. Her husband, who was first appointed under McKinley, has been appointed deputy United States marshal by Hon. D. F. Cooper.

At the State Health Department at Montgomery Clerk Brassell has gone sufficiently into the matter to ascertain that the total cost to the state of quarantine will be about $9,000. Only a few more of those employed in the service are to be settled with.

Thursday night the Methodist church at Oak Bowery, near Opelika, was completely destroyed by fire, together with all the furniture, carpet and organ. The building has been standing there in a magnificent grove of massive oaks for nearly hall a century.

VICTORY OR DEATH.

Manifesto is Sent Out to All Cuban Sympathizers.

The Cuban constituent assembly, which met recently at Camaguey to remodel the constitution and elect a new president, issued a manifesto which reached the office of the Cuban junta in New York Friday.

The document is dated at Layaha, October 18, 1897, and is signed by Domingo Mendez Capote, as president of the assembly. The manifesto is addressed "by the representatives of the Cuban people to all those who have the independence and future welfare of Cuba at heart."

The document says that the assembly before adjourning deemed it its duty to proclaim, among other things:

"No special laws, no political reform or autonomy, nothing, in short, that the Spanish government may be willing to grant that means Spanish sovereignty over Cuba shall be accepted by the Cubans as a settlement of the war.

"Independence or death is and shall be the unalterable and sacred motto of the Cubans.

"The Cubans have not resorted to arms in order to obtain any political measures which does not once and for all solve the Cuban question. That is the reason we will accept nothing short of absolute independence.

"It is our purpose to constitute an independent state, orderly, prosperous and happy, over the ruin of a worn out colony.

"We are firmly determined to carry on war until victory or death crowns our efforts."

EXPLOSION OF NITRO-GLYCERINE.

Almost Wipes Chesterfield, Ind., Off the Map.

Chesterfield, Ind., was almost wiped off the map at an early hour Friday morning by an explosion of eighty quarts of nitro-glycerine which had been brought overland from Montpelier and placed in an open field half a mile from town. Marion Mansey and Sam Maguire were working in a gas well near by when the explosion occurred. Mansey was thrown fifty feet, but not fatally injured. Maguire was also thrown a hundred feet in the air and badly lacerated, but will recover.

James Gold's house, 300 rods distant, was blown to pieces. The explosion tore a hole in the ground down to the water line, and, so far as can be learned, was spontaneous. A three-ton engine was torn to fragments, and and every living animal near by was killed instantly. The little town of Chesterfield is a mass of ruins, every house being moved from its foundation.

WEDDED TO PELAGIC SEALING.

Canada Declines a Proposition Looking to a Suspension for a Year.

A reply has been prepared by the dominion government of Canada, and forwarded to Washington, in respect to the negotiations which are now going on between the countries. The government will not say what the reply is until it reaches Mr. Foster, at Washington, but it is understood that it is a refusal to stop pelagic sealing for a year, as the United States requested. The whole question depended upon this, and therefore it would appear that the negotiations are to fail in their object. However, there is a report that the Canadian government has proposed an alternative proposition for the consideration of the United States, which could be laid before congress at its next sitting and passed in time to deal with pelagic sealing and the questions of dispute next season.

M'KINLEY IS CAREFUL.

Has No Recommendations for Action Relative to Cuba.

It is understood that the President in his message, will suggest to congress that it would be inadvisable at present to take any action which would complicate the situation in Cuba. It is said that he will suggest that the passage of resolutions recognizing belligerency or independence would be inexpedient while the measures of reform proposed by Spain and to be carried out by Gen. Blanco, are being introduced. The release of the Competitor and other American prisoners, will be referred to as gratifying, and as relieving the United States from the necessity of intervention upon the ground of the protection of American life and property.

New Peruvian Cabinet.

A telegram from Lima, Peru, announces the formation of a new cabinet, as follows:

President of the cabinet and minister of interior, Lopez Dehando.

Minister of foreign relations, Dr. Grique de la Riva-Aguero, of the former cabinet.

Minister of justice, Dr. Jose Antonio de la Vallee Y Pardo.

Minister of war and navy, Col. Jose Rosa Gil.

Minister of the treasury, Signor Ignacio Rey, of the former cabinet.

Minister of public works, Dr. Ricardo L. Flores.

Rainmakers in this country have been apparently inactive this season, but a drought would have revived interest in their plans and theories. In Europe their experiments have attracted more attention. Germany offers a reward of $2,500 to any one who can produce a downpour of rain at moderate expense. It is suggested that inventors in this line should also discover how to stop excessive rains, with resulting floods. The favorite devices for rainmaking thus far are cannon explosives, balloons that burst at an elevation, compressed gasses and electric connections between the clouds and the earth.

The Loosley Cycle Co., of Birmingham, Ala., is the oldest and best equipped bicycle house in the South. All orders intrusted to them will receive prompt and careful attention. Prices reasonable. Send for their catalogue.

WRENS, GA.

"Having obtained a box of TETTERINE of Hunter & Wright, of Louisville, Ga., which I used in a case of itching piles of five years' standing. I spent $50 for different kinds of remedies and the skill of doctors, all for no good, until I got the TETTERINE. I am now well. Accept thanks." Yours, W. R. KING. By mail for 50c. in stamps by J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney, for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle

Piso's Cure for Consumption is A No. 1 Asthma medicine.—W. R. WILLIAMS, Antioch, Ill., April 11, 1894.

When instinct governs some men's actions instinct is only another name for a wife.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

The woman who is homely enough to stop a clock is not a success when it comes to stopping a street car.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.

Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

If a man loves a woman he will give up smoking for her sake, but if she loves him she won't ask it.

Don't Starve

Because Your Stomach Will Not Digest Food.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla and be cured. It will tone and strengthen your stomach and create an appetite. Then you may eat without fear of distress, your food will be digested and assimilated, and you will grow strong and healthy.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

PATENTS are Property. Represent Wealth. Can be Sold. Are Assignable. INVENT improvements in tools, implements, household articles, etc. Write F. S. APPLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, Warder Bldg., Washington, D. C. Free circular and advice. Low fees.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silve Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

Am. N. U. No. 48. 1897.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Cures

of scrofula, eczema, boils, sores, eruptions, etc., prove the claims made for Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best of blood purifying medicines. And it's cures that count. The story of these cures told by the cured is convincing. We send the book free. Address Dr. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

Jap Oxen Wear Sandals.

Heavy hauling and farm work in Japan are exclusively done by oxen. The Japanese teamster is very attentive to the animals intrusted in his care and always treats them with great kindness. He would not think of letting an ox go out without having placed a sort of sandal on its forefeet, which protect the animal's hoofs from injury. These sandals consists of a sole braided of rice straw, which is fastened to the hoof in the manner shown in our illustration.

SANDALS WORN BY OXEN.

"He merely kissed my hand. I could not speak for indignation."

"Yes."

"He must have thought me deaf and dumb."

But even in such a contingency, was it to be assumed that the hand was to perform all of the multiplex functions that usually devolve upon the lips?—Detroit Journal.

To Remove Tan and Freckles.

The juice of cucumbers pressed out with a lemon-squeezer is one of the most effective and simple remedies known for removing sunburn.

For removing freckles take one cup of milk and two spoonfuls of grated horseradish, and let it stand for one hour; then strain and bathe the face and hands in it.

A half a pint of rosewater and one spoonful of lemon juice is considered excellent for bathing the face in to remove tan.

A complexion wash, which is very highly recommended and removes freckles, is made of a quarter pound of oatmeal soap, shaved fine into one quart of soft, boiling water; stir until it is smooth and cool; then add a half pint spirits of wine and a quarter ounce of oil of rosemary.

The danger that lies in the use of inflammable hair washes, and which has already manifested itself in the death of two women in the city of London, has induced so eminent a scientist as Lord Kelvin to write a letter upon the subject, which was regarded of enough importance to be published in the London Times. The washes that have been responsible for these disasters are composed chiefly of gasoline or benzine, and are used by hairdressers to remove the natural oil that will collect in the hair of a healthful person. During such cleaning process explosions have followed and death has in two notable instances resulted. Lord Kelvin says that the explosion was due to an electric spark generated by rubbing or handling the hair. All persons are familiar with the experiment of producing electric sparks by stroking a cat's back, and Lord Kelvin holds that the evaporation of the benzine forms, with the air, an explosive gas that may be easily ignited by an electric spark. He says: "Ignition of vapor of benzine by electric spark is well known to dyers in their process for cleaning silks and other fabrics by boiling in large cauldrons of liquid benzine. When the goods are taken out of the cauldron and spread out to dry on a table explosions have often taken place, and I believe it is quite certain that an electric spark, caused by some slight friction between dried and partially dried portions of the fabrics, is the incendiary." Since the absence of a flame or a fire in a room does not insure immunity from these terrible accidents the ladies had better resort to the use of some other agent for cleaning the hair than those, the basis of which is an inflammable liquid that generates a gas easily exploded by an electric spark.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 5.

Lesson Text: "Christ's Humility and Exaltation," Phil. ii., 1-11—Golden Text: Phil. ii., 5—Commentary on the Lesson by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

1. "If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies." Consolation here is literally "one called to your side," and comfort is "one speaking beside you." So we might read, "If there is anything in Christ being ever with you and ever talking to you, and in having the constant companionship and guidance and teaching of the Holy Spirit, if there is anything in the tenderness and compassion of the Father manifested in the Son by the Spirit, then let it be seen in you to the glory of God that Christ may be magnified."

2. "Fulfill ye my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind." Oneness of the members of the body in the service of the head is something greatly desired by our blessed Lord, as is very manifest in His prayer in John xvii., and it will also be the great desire of all who are fully one with Him. Not only does He comfort us with the assurance, "As the Father have loved Me, so have I loved you," but He also adds, "This is My commandment, that ye love one another as I have loved you" (John xv., 9, 12).

3. "Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves." Another reading is, "In nothing follow self seeking." Jeremiah said to his scribe, Baruch: "Seekest though great things for thyself? Seek them not" (Jer. xvi., 5). Although the whole land was Abram's and not Lot's, yet rather than have strife Abram told Lot to take his choice and go whither he would. When the Philistines strove for the wells which Isaac had reopened, Isaac did not resist, but kept on yielding until there was room for all and the strife ceased (Gen. xiii., 8, 9; xxvi., 22).

4. "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." Not enviously, as some would pervert it, but desiring the welfare of others as much as or more than your own. Love seeketh not her own (I Cor. xiii., 5). Let Episcopalians seek and rejoice in the welfare of Methodists, and so Methodists of Baptists, Baptists of Presbyterians, and so one, all uniting heartily to seek the honor of the Head in the completion of His body, the church, which has no name but Christ (I Cor. xii., 12, 13).

5. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His (Rom. viii., 9). Now, every penitent sinner who truly receives Christ receives also the Spirit of Christ, but some are more controlled by and manifest more of that Spirit than others. It is the privilege of every believer to be filled with the Spirit (Eph. v., 18), and led by the Spirit and to walk in the Spirit, and when one is only willing to have no will but the will of God, no choice but God's choice, no way but God's way, no service but what He appoints, God will quickly fill that one with His Spirit and continue to fill him day by day and moment by moment.

6. "Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God." Another reading is, "Deemed not his equality with God a thing to grasp at." He was not always saying: "I am God; I created all things; I own the universe; I do as I please in heaven and on earth, and therefore you must bow to Me, and if you don't I will make you, for I have all power." Those who are always grasping at their position as if they might lose it, or at least some of the honor belonging to it, are very small people, or people of very small minds, whatever their position may be.

7. "But made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Him the form of a servant and was made in the likeless of man." He took not on Him the nature of angels, which would have been a very great humiliation, but as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, He also Himself likewise took part of the same (Heb. ii., 14, 16). He emptied Himself of the glory which He had with the Father before the world was, and consented to endure the limitations of a mortal body for over thirty-three years—not only so, but he consented to endure such limitation under the most limited of earthly conditions, such as the manger at Bethlehem, the humble home and the carpenter's shop at Nazareth.

8. "And being found in fashion as a man He humbled Himself and be came obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and give His life a ransom for many (Math. xx., 28). He consented to be despised and slandered and misunderstood, persecuted, blindfolded, buffeted, spit upon, scourged, led as a lamb to the slaughter, crucified.

9. "Wherefore also God hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name." He is now at God's right hand, with the Father on His throne (Rev. iii., 21), and in due time all kings shall fall down before Him and all nations serve Him (Pa. lxxii., 11). By His work and by that alone, which He has finished without help from man, eternal life is freely given to every one who receives Him, and a share in His glory and a place on His throne (John xvii., 22; Rev. iii., 21).

10. "That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth." And so it shall come to pass, for God has purposed it. "The Lord of Hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass, and as I have purposed, so shall it stand" (Isa. xiv., 24). John saw the consummation of it in his vision when he heard every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, saying, "Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever and ever" (Rev. v., 13). There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we may be saved.

11. "And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." It shall surely be, to the everlasting comfort and bliss of some and to the everlasting woe of others. Saved and unsaved shall all confess that Jesus Christ is Lord. The saved shall rejoice in Him as their Lord, while the unsaved shall have to confess Him as Lord to their everlasting confusion, but in each God will be glorified. See II Cor. ii., 15, 16. A good test as to whether we are now honoring Him as Lord is seen in verse 14 of our lesson chapter. If by the Spirit we have confessed Him as our Lord and daily do so, there can be in our lives no murmuring or disputing, no strife or envy. He is not Lord of these things.—Lesson Helper.

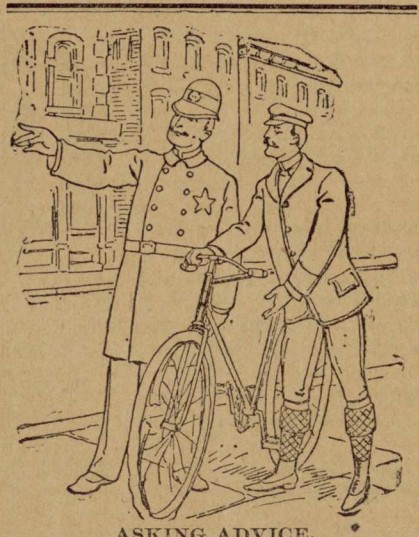
A complete electric plowing plant has been installed on a French estate.

Permanent Paste.

Soak an ounce of refined gelatine in cold water for an hour, then drain off and squeeze out the water as much as possible. Put the gelatine in a jelly-pot and place the pot in a pan of hot water over the fire. When the gelatine has melted stir in slowly two and one half ounces of pure alcohol. Put in a wide-mouthed bottle and cork tightly. This glue or paste will keep indefinitely, and can be melted for use in a few minutes by setting the bottle in a basin of hot water. As it contains a very small percentage of water, it affects the gloss of the prints but little and dries almost immediately.—Harper's Round Table.

Fortunes in Laces.

Large sums of money are represented by fine old laces. It is said that the Astors own lace worth $3,000,000, and that the Vanderbilts value theirs at $4,000,000. The pope is content with only $75,000 represented in lace, and the Princess of Wales boasts a collection worth $250,000.



ASKING ADVICE.

When you need advice tell your troubles to a policeman. When your wheel is broken tell your wheel troubles to The Loosley Cycle Co. Then you will have the difficulty overcome, the break repaired, your wheel restored to usefulness and the cost will be light. Also manufacturers of

THE "BIRMINGHAM."

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

THE LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

A miniature "Chainless Safety" free for a stamp.

Now Is the Time

To get you a SUIT or an OVERCOAT while the . . .

Price-Hewn Sale

Is going on. They are awfully cheap.

Mail Orders With Cash Promptly Attended to.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave.

Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

DR. O. T. DOZIER

(The Renowned Southern Specialist.)

Birmingham, Ala.

Successfully treats by mail, at office OR AT YOUR OWN HOME, all forms of Chronic, Nervous, Blood, Skin and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

CURES . . . GUARANTEED.

All Chronic Diseases of Lungs, Liver, Heart, Kidneys, Bladder, and all diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs are in my line of practice. Diseases peculiar to women, and all venereal diseases of either sex, positively cured by mild and safe remedies. Impediments to marriage, as Stricture, Varicocele, Impotency, Emissions and all evil results of self-abuse or excessive indulgence, quickly and permanently cured. I guarantee satisfaction in every case I treat. My valuable "Book for Men Only," and Symptom Blank for men or women will be sent free in plain, sealed envelope to all who apply. Consultation free, whether in person or by letter.

A FEW EXTRACTS FROM PRESS ENDORSEMENTS.

(Masonic Guide.)

Dr. Dozier can be relied upon to treat diseases in the most successful manner.

(People's Weekly Tribune.)

As a specialist Dr. Dozier is unexcelled by any living physician. * * He is a high-toned, cultured, Christian gentleman, strictly honest in all his dealings and financially responsible for all his contracts.

(Sumter Sun,)

Dr. Dozier is the leading specialist in Alabama, and is thoroughly reliable.

(Alabama Christian Advocate.)

His (Dr. Dozier's) professional standing is unimpeachable and his character as a gentleman and citizen is above reproach.

Address

DR. O. T. DOZIER,
Lock Box 113, Birmingham. Ala.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

Cotton,

like every other crop, needs nourishment.

A fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and not less than 3% of actual

Potash,

will increase the crop and improve the land.

Our books tell all about the subject. They are free to any farmer.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

GEORGIA

TO THE FRONT FOR TRUTH.

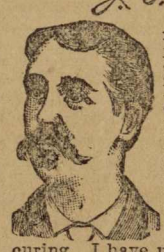
Mrs. L. A. Horton

Ranger, Ga., writes: Twelve years ago I had Heartburn, Kidney Disease, Constipated Bowels, Glimmering Before my Eyes, Belched up Gas, and other troubles. Was completely run down and in bed most of the time. Had a Doctor attending me, but nothing did me any good until I quit everything else and used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, which completely cured me. I have tried "Black Draught," but think Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is ahead of that or any other medicine.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Whenever one becomes sensible of the beating of their own heart, they are liable to be frightened and imagine they have some form of heart disease. If they really have palpitation, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine is a certain cure for it, but in the majority of such cases the trouble arises from some form of gastric difficulty. The stomach, distended with food and gases, will derange the heart in some persons, while indigestion with its many variations is responsible for very many so-called heart troubles. The digestive organs need to be stimulated by the use of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, when the general health will improve and the heart renew its normal action.

J. E. Irene



Athens, Ga., writes: In 1872 I had suffered for years from Bilious Headache, Dizzy Spells, with Black Spots before my eyes, Bad Taste in mouth, very little appetite. Two Packages Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cured me, and for 10 years I never had an annoying symptom. From living on river I contracted Malaria, which it is now curing. I have used Zeilin's "Red Z" and Thedford's "Black Draught" and found such a difference between them and M. A. S. L. M. that I did not like them at all.

Spread the News. Tell it far and wide that a medicine composed of cheap material and improperly compounded is a dangerous thing to fool with; the old proprietors of the article now called "Black Draught," and J. H. Zeilin & Co., proprietors of an imitation called "Simmons Liver Medicine," both have injunctions against them, enjoining them from using the words composing our trade name, but we learn those articles have been sold as "just the same" as ours, while neither of the proprietors in their advertisements claim theirs to be the same as ours.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED

If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

The Great Mail Order House

111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

YELLOW FEVER

PREVENTED BY TAKING

"Our Native Herbs"

the

Great Blood Purifier and Liver Regulator.

200 DAYS' TREATMENT $1.00

Containing a Registered Guarantee.

32 page Book and Testimonials, FREE. Sent by mail, postage paid. Sold only by Agents for

THE ALONZO O. BLISS CO., Washington, D.C.

Sterling Silver Filagree Pin. The newest and most beautiful Scarf Pin on the market today. To introduce our latest Holiday Catalogue we will send the Pin on receipt of EIGHT CENTS—CATALOGUE FREE. D. M. WATKINS & CO., Mf'g Jewelers 59 Page St., Providence, R. I.

Are You Thinking of Buying a COTTON SEED MILL?

If so, it will pay you before doing so to investigate the

ENTERPRISE MILL

It is the CHEAPEST, the SIMPLEST and most PRACTICABLE mill for plantation use on the market. Its grinding parts are made of tool steel and are regulated by a steel spring so as to prevent breakage when rocks, nails and other foreign substances are fed in with seed. It is guaranteed to grind cotton seed and to separate meal from hulls. Send for descriptive catalogue.

PERRYMAN & CO., Birmingham, Ala.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

CLIFTON NEWTON, Editor & Prop.

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class matter.

Advertisers will do well to get our rates and place their card in THE NEWS. There is no better medium for advertising.

Thursday. Dec. 2, 1897.

Mr. A. S. Carruthers, formerly with the Birmingham Age Herald has acquired a half interest in the Montevallo News, and will next week take full charge of the editorial and business departments of the paper. Mr. Carruthers is a well-known and experience newspaper man, and under his management the paper will, I am sure, be a welcome visitor in every home.

CLIFTON NEWTON.

Silver is the wheel of time. Just let 'er roll.

Mark Hanna will ride his party or get a good job.

If gold raised the price of wheat what lowered the price of cotton? We guess it is Republican prosperity.

Hon. John L. Cobb, ex-state treasurer of Alabama, died at his home in Montgomery on the night of Nov. 24th, aged 56 years. He had been prominent in business circles for years.

Topers may take warning from the fate of the score of men who died this week near Maplesville as a result of drinking wood alcohol. It would ultimately have been as bad if they had drank whiskey, for all alcoholic drinks eventually shorten life.

Charles L. McCormack, foreman of the T. C. I. & R. R Co.'s Robertstown furnaces at Bessemer, shot himself through the heart in his sleeping room at Bessemer about 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, 29th ult. It is thought the shot was accidental. The deceased was a brother of G. B. McCormack, general manager of the T. C. I. & R. R. Co. at Birmingham.

TRUE OF BOTH RACES.

At the recent meeting of colored Presbyterian ministers in this city, the Rev. L. J. Washington, while making a strong plea for the education of his race, said:

"The negro has the power of the ballot in his hand. With this power and uneducated, the negro race is a curse to the country. An ignorant man has no more business with the ballot than has a monkey with the Word of God."

This is a golden utterance and it should be kept before the people. It is not applicable to the blacks alone; it applies with equal force to the whites. It is a disgraceful farce to allow hundreds of thousands of men in this country to vote when they cannot read their ballots. It is dangerous folly to allow the vote of an illiterate negro or white man to kill the ballot of an educated and patriotic citizen.

Corrupt men and demagogues will always control the votes of the ignorant, whether they are white or black. Washington is right. The ballot in the hands of an ignorant man is a curse to the country. When intelligent negroes admit this it should cause the whites to make an effort to reform the evil.—Age-Herald.

Gov. Johnson returned to Montgomery Monday from Baltimore, where he has been for a week with Mrs. Johnson, whom he reports as already greatly relieved by the Johns Hopkins treatment, and that she will be entirely restored to her usual good health before a great while.

A HEAVY CORPSE.

San Francisco, Nov 29—Mrs Theresa Cardoza, a well known resident of this city, who died on Saturday, was buried yesterday in the Italian cemetery. She weighed over 600 pounds, and the undertakers had to break down the stairs of her late residence in order to lower the body into the hall. A special casket bound with iron was constructed for the remains, and as it was too large for any hearse in the city it was taken to the cemetery in a heavy express wagon. Mrs Cardoza had been married twice and leaves five children, the youngest being eighteen months old.

SOME GOOD USES OF "IF."

Chicago News.

If there is nothing in a man opportunity never troubles him.

If beauty was taxable there would be no delinquents among the fair sex.

If women are ever elected to congress there will be more than one speaker of the house.

If some men had to work in order to obtain a living they wouldn't live very long.

If your wife had it to do over again the chances are she would never marry you.

If there were anything in a name we might plant bird seed and expect to harvest a crop of birds.

If the shoe fits wear it—unless you are a woman, then, of course, you will want a size or two smaller.

If the wife could make biscuits like her husband's mother used to make and the husband would buy his wife clothes like her father use to buy, few marriages would be failures.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. E. F. Crowe & Co.

THE NAUTILUS CLUB

By far the prettiest and most enjoyable entertainment of the season was the "Thanksgiving Service" of the Nautilus Club in the college chapel last Thursday evening.

The musical numbers were beautifully rendered by the most talented young ladies in the school: the literary features unexcelled. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. M. P. Reynolds, followed by a responsive reading of the 136th Psalm. "America" was patriotically sung by the club and audience, and the roll call was answered with a Thanksgiving quotation by each member.

The president, Miss Margaret McArdle, in a prettily worded address, welcomed their friends and explained the object of the club, and the following programme was quite entertaining:

Reading of governor's proclamation, Miss Morrow.

Vocal solo, Miss Lum.

Reading, Miss Bozeman.

Recitation, Miss Robinson.

An original story, Miss Coates.

Vocal selection, Miss Brown.

Our causes for gratitude, Miss Ramsey.

History of Thanksgiving, Miss Lenoir.

Thanksgiving hymn, Club.

President Reynolds was called upon for a few remarks and was enthusiastically applauded.

The club's motto is "Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul," and their name was chosen in accordance. The nautilus, you know, is a shell fish, whose home is a spiral shell of the greatest beauty and delicacy. Day after day it labors to perfect its home, year after year it rears for itself mansions more stately, leaving ever the old abode for the new. The name is appropriate, for workers they are, and the best wishes of their friends are with them.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

WANTED AGENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND ABSOLUTELY PURE

TEXAS!

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE IS THE DIRECT LINE TO TEXAS AND THE SOUTH WEST

IT
IS THE SHORTEST LINE TO SOUTHERN TEXAS.
IS THE ONLY LINE TO TEXAS ALL UNDER ONE MANAGEMENT.
IS THE ONLY LINE GIVING CHOICE OF ROUTES VIA SHREVEPORT OR VIA NEW ORLEANS.
IS EQUIPPED WITH SOLID VESTIBULED TRAINS TO NEW ORLEANS AND WITH THROUGH SLEEPERS ATLANTA AND BIRMINGHAM TO SHREVEPORT.
CLOSE CONNECTION AT EITHER POINT WITH THROUGH SERVICE OF TEXAS LINES

OUR RATES AS LOW AS ANY!
CALL ON ANY Q & C AGENT OR ADDRESS
A. J. LYTLE, DIV. PASS'R AGENT, READ HOUSE, CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
J. R. McGREGOR, TRAV. PASS'R AGENT, 2005 1ST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
C. R. INEARSON, G. P. A. CINCINNATI, O.

B. B. B. Always Cures.

.....Botanic Blood Balm

The Great Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers, Eczema, Eating and Spreading Sores, Eruptions, and all SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES. Made from the prescription of an eminent physician who used it with marvelous success for 40 years, and its continued use for fifteen years by thousands of grateful people has demonstrated that it is by far the best building up Tonic and Blood Purifier ever offered to the world. It makes new rich blood, and possesses almost miraculous healing properties.

WRITE FOR BOOK OF WONDERFUL CURES, sent free on application.

If not kept by your local druggist, send $1.00 for a large bottle, or $5.00 for six bottles, and medicine will be sent freight paid by

BLOOD BALM CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College
AND COMEMRCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION!

SPLENDID BUILDING!

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES!
FIVE INSTRUCTORS!

VERY REASONABLE TERMS!

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!

C. L. Meroney & Co.

Are the First in Public Improvements.

First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!

And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.

We sell everything you want with but one motto:

Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE.

Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store

Yours to Please,

C. L. Meroney and Co.

They Will Save You Money!

Don't Eat Biscuits
When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY
BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

LOOK OUT FOR

MORGAN BROS.

They will tell you something in this space next week.

Come and See Them!

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance	$1.00
Six months, cash in advance	.50
Three months, cash in advance	.25

Local.

Montevallo
Still leads.
If you see it
In the NEWS, it's so.

Everybody that is anybody reads the NEWS.

For good meals, go to the city restaurant.

Mrs. J. F. Eddings says the News can't be beat.

We use Imogene coal, and find it to be first-class.

Don't mind the kicker—Montevallo is all right.

Mr. John Randall, of Calera, was in town Monday.

Montevallo pays more for cotton than Birmingham.

Miss Bessie Hoskins, of Aldrich, was in the city Sunday.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Mr. Richard Weaver, of Maylene, was in the city Saturday.

The NEWS is here to stay. We expect a new outfit soon.

Come in and pay us, please. We need some money just now.

Best's breed is good. Everybody eats it because it is the best.

Mr. Burgess Little spent Friday night in Blocton on business.

Henry Pitts attended Uncle Sam's court at Birmingham last week.

Mr. Louis Bowden made a business trip to Birmingham Friday.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Latham & Co. will sell you a suit of clothes anywhere from $3 to $9.

Mr. James Roebuck went to Columbiana on legal business Monday.

Attorney Arthur Leeper, of Columbiana, was in the city Saturday.

The editor is taking a special course at the Brierfield Normal College.

Friends, we make mistakes and will thank you when you tell us of them.

Mr. M. Wolowitz, of Birmingham, visited his son, Michael, here last week.

Our advertisers are up to date. It will pay you to see them before buying.

Messrs. W. L. Hubbard and John Bell, of Brierfield, were in town last Saturday

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mr. G. D. Mitchell spent Saturday and Sunday with his family at Blocton

Mr. Jim Milender, a cattle buyer from Birmingham, was in town this week.

Mr. John Carlisle left a few days ago on a visit to his mother at Talladega.

The wedding bells will ring on the South Side in the near future. Guess who.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

Messrs. A. G. Battle and John McKinney, of Six Mile, were in the city Monday.

Mr. C. D. Lawrence, of Selma, representing Clay & Hubbard, was in town Monday.

Messrs. W. L. and W. E. Trucks and P. M. Fancher, of Six Mile, were in town Tuesday.

Call for Window Glass at H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. A large supply at reasonable prices.

Miss Susie Reynolds, one of Dry Valley's fairest flowers, was in the city Friday shopping,

Mr. S. A. Curry, one of Chilton county's most prosperous farmers, was in town Saturday.

Mr. Marion Caldwell, of Bismark, spent Saturday and Sunday in Blocton with his father's family.

Dr. John Goodwin, dentist, of Sloan, Ala., was in town Monday, and gave us a pleasant call.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Mr, Walter Carlisle returned to Montevallo Sunday, after an absence of several weeks in Talladega.

Mr. J. E. J. Walters, representing the Lanier Broom Manufacturing Co. of Blocton, was in town Friday.

Mr. F. S. Rice, representing E. E. Forbes, Birmingham, was in town Tuesday, enroute to Centreville.

Capt. D. W. Shivers left Thursday of last week for Gallion, Ala., his old home, to recuperate his health.

We will give a year's subscription to the NEWS for the best article telling how to run a paper successfully.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Latham & Co. have purchased a large quantity of clothing for men, youths and boys, which they are selling below cost.

Cotton is brought here from Birmingham. There have been several bales brought here from the Birmingham district this season.

Messrs. Cary and Killough returned from their hunt on the Warrior river last Thursday. They report killing six deer and four turkeys.

The NEWS was misinformed last week about Mr. Dolf Banks going to Texas. He went to Talladega, but returned to Montevallo Friday.

Mr. J. E. Wilkinson, Jr., of Prattville, Ala., after spending a week with his brother, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, of our town, returned home Monday.

Mr. Zeke Fancher, who has been in Texas for several years, returned home Sunday, accompanied by his wife and baby. Zeke's many friends are glad to see him back.

Mr. B. F. Barbour, who did the plumbing work for the Industrial school, is in town this week winding up his work. While here he gave the NEWS office a pleasant call.

Prosperity comes quickest to the man whose liver is in good condition. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want something pretty, and something that will keep you warm, get one of those Clay Worsted Suits from Latham & Co.

Mr. W. H. Abernathy, of Birmingham, representing Arbuckle Bros., of New York, was in town Monday. Mr. Abernathy is a brother of Rev. P. L. Abernathy, of our town.

Mr. J. W. Little, one of the Southern's most popular railroad men, was in the city Saturday. Wes is a clever boy, and his many friends in Montevallo are always glad to shake his hand.

Mr. P. Burnett, of Uniontown, Ala., is visiting his daughter, who is a pupil at the Industrial school. Mr. Burnett gave us a pleasant call yesterday, and ordered the NEWS sent to his address.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa., says. "My child is worth millions to me: yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twenty-five cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy left Monday for Florence, where the annual conference of the M. E. Church, South, convened yesterday. It is earnestly hoped that Bro. Abernathy will be sent back here next year.

Capt. H. C. Reynolds returned yesterday from a trip to Tuskegee and Selma. He anticipates a full attendance of the trustees of the Girls' Industrial school to-morrow, including Gov. Johnston and Congressman Plowman.

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of Spring Hill Academy, Pickens county, Miss Melissa Thornton, a pupil of the Girls' Industrial school, was elected to fill a vacancy in that school caused by the death of Elder M. G. Lofton.

Mr. E. S. Ambrose, of Bismark, was in the city Monday. He told us that he had bought out the livery stable at Blocton recently owned by R. H. Hubbard, and that he took charge last Friday. We wish him success in his new venture.

Mr. L. Hacker, one of our merchants, went to Birmingham Sunday via Calera, and then went to Blocton Monday, where he remained for several days. He left his store in charge of his clerk, Michael Wolowitz, who will keep the business straight.

The Lanier Broom Manufacturing Co. of Blocton, Ala., shipped 165 dozen brooms to Birmingham merchants last week. They make the best brooms for less money than can be had elsewhere. It would pay our merchants to write them for prices. See their "ad" in this issue

The four Birmingham sports who drove a drag into Montevallo on Thanksgiving day got the cold shoulder for reasons which they doubtless understood and appreciated afterwards. They were not in such "high spirits" when they "dragged" themselves back.

The NEWS doesn't propose to give advice to the farmers of Shelby county. We know they know more about farming than we do. But we ask them where are they? We would like for them to get together and see if they can't do something to better their condition. We would suggest a club.

Dr. John Goodwin called at our office Tuesday and showed us some curious specimens of teeth which he extracted from some of his patients. One of the teeth was a peculiar looking object. The lower molar showed the salivary calculus deposited on it in a lump one inch long and one half inch thick. He has another tooth ate out with sanguinary tartar. These teeth are peculiar specimens, and if you meet with the doctor you would do yourself justice to see them, for he is always willing to show these curiosities, and any time you have any trouble with your teeth you will do well to have Dr. Goodwin examine them, as he charges nothing for examination.

Married, at Concord church, on Thanksgiving day, Mr. William Fancher, of Centreville, and Miss Lula Eddings, of Dry Valley. The church was handsomely decorated, and the doors and windows were closed, and the house beautifully illuminated. Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple left for Centreville, their future home, followed by the good wishes of all present.

Felix Dotson, the barber, was arrested week before last for carrying concealed weapons and using profane language in the hearing of females. He gave bond for his appearance at court, and his case was set for last Thursday. Dotson and his witnesses went to Columbiana Thursday morning, and he was tried in the county court and came clear of the concealed weapon case, but was convicted of using profane language in the hearing of females, although the female witness against him testified that she did not hear any profane language used.

When asked for information in regard to the case, the above facts were given us by Dotson and one of his witnesses.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

DORMITORY NOTES.

Did you see Mamie's new ring?

Gone crazy yourself, you loony.

Look out, girls, the infirmary is ready.

Isn't it strange how fond some people are of ambrosia?

Turkey! Gobbler! Turkey! Goose! Geese! Goose!

Mn mn mn—i i—sign, "Kitty." Ha, ha—O. K. Good-bye.

Burgess don't think it's fair for Captain to cash all the checks.

Only three weeks until Christmas, and the girls are beginning to wonder how long will be the holiday vacation. I wonder?

Didn't the girls look pretty last Thursday in their uniforms? Those Oxford caps certainly become the happy, smiling faces.

Mrs. W. E. Flemming, of Montgomery, was here Monday to see her daughter, Miss Mannie Bell, one of the pretty Dormitory girls.

The steps or stiles over the college ground fence have been replaced by pretty gates. Girls, don't prop the gates open and let the pigs in, please.

The latest beverage invented by the young ladies of the Girls' Industrial school is known as "cafe a la selle." It is coffee salted instead of sugared.

Some of the fair students at the Girls' Industrial school would like to know the name of the "mean, horrid thing" who substituted quinine for tooth powder.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Calloway, of Snowdon, enroute to Birmingham, stopped over a few hours Tuesday with their daughter, Miss Inda, who is a pupil in the institute.

The recital Saturday night by Miss Adele Barnett for the school girls at the chapel was quite a success. Miss Barnett is an artist, and Miss Bessie Hoskins, of Aldrich, sings very sweetly.

The Board of Trustees of the Girls' Industrial school will meet in our city to-morrow to review the workings of the school. They are sure to be royally entertained and greatly interested

If those young men or boys who go around making night hideous with their tin horns and pans would "cheese their racket," the citizens of Montevallo would appreciate it. Boys, it's not Christmas yet.

The three literary societies of the Girls' Industrial school held a called meeting Tuesday evening to arrange for united action on a Christmas programme. Great things may be expected from them during the coming holidays.

Miss Veda King, who has lately been travelling in Guatemala, arrived here last Saturday night and enrolled herself as a pupil at the Girls' Industrial school. Her new school mates keep her busy telling tales of her travels, of which they never seem to weary.

The Thanksgiving service at the chapel last Thursday was very pretty. The sermon by Rev P L Abernathy was a masterpiece. The solos of Miss Lum and Mr Will Abernathy were very sweet, as was also the quartette, "Pilot Me," by Mrs Cothran, Miss Crumpton, and Messrs Gibson and Abernathy.

Mrs. DeYampert, after spending several days with her daughter, Miss Linda, at the Dormitory, left Monday for her home in Montgomery, much to the regret of the many friends she has made. The visits of such charming and intelligent ladies as she always make us proud and happy, and we are loth to bid them adieu.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

BRIERFIELD DOTS.

Hello! how is this for good times? The long looked-for wane of prosperity has come and gone, and the long faces are to be seen in the country villages.

Cotton down, down, is the cry.

Prof Gibbons took in the marriage at Concord church Thanksgiving day between Mr W E Fancher, Jr., and Miss Lula Eddings, and reports a grand time. Rev F M Wood, of Jemison, officiated.

The school took holiday in the afternoon on Thanksgiving.

B M Large went to Six Mile Friday night, and came back all smiles.

Rev P L Abernathy preached his last sermon Sunday. Subject—"I know my Redeemer liveth." Hope conference will send him back.

The literary society gave our people a nice time in the shape of an entertainment last Friday evening.

Messrs. Joe Walker and E. E. Woodard are back in school after a long absence on account of sickness. Mr. Woodard spoke of going back to Tennessee when he began to recover, but he said he came to go to school, and is doing all O. K.

Rev. Jos. R. Wells has gone to Riverside.

The school is moving along nicely.

PICKWICK.

LANIER
BROOM
MFG. CO.
Blocton, Ala.
—Manufacturers of all kinds of—
BROOMS
—AND—
BRUSHES.
Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.
Write for Prices.
Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,
P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.
Will be in Montevallo Monday, Dec. 13, 1897, for several days, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. All work guaranteed. Teeth extracted without pain.

State of Alabama, Shelby County.
Probate Court, November Term,
November 8th, 1897.
Estate of Sarah E. Wells, Deceased.

To the American Mortgage Company of Scotland, Limited, creditors of said estate:

The said estate having been reported insolvent by H. R. Wells, administrator thereof, the 13th day of December, 1897, has been appointed to hear and determine upon said report. You are, therefore, hereby given notice to be and appear at my office, at the Court House of said county, on said day, to contest the same, if you think proper.

Witness my hand, at office, this 8th day of November, 1897.

D. R. McMILLAN,
Nov18-3t. Judge of Probate.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

ENDURANCE.

How much the heart may bear, and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, and not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body brings our end more nigh.
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife.
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel,
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life;
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way,
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape; we weep and pray;
But when the blow falls, then our hearts are still;
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind our life about another life;
We hold it closer, dearer, than our own.
Anon it faints and fails in deathly strife.
Leaving us stunned and stricken and alone;
But, ah! we do not die with those we mourn;
This also can be borne.

Behold! we live through all things—famine. thirst,
Bereavement, pain; all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life inflicts its worst
On soul and body—but we cannot die.
Though we be sick, and tired and faint, and worn—
Lo, all things can be borne!
—E. A. Allen in Chicago Standard.

Brought to Time.

BY MARION E. PICKERING.

Jerry Sanborn wheeled his shining new tandem out of the woodshed and carefully propped it against the piazza railing. Then he strode across the yard, shading his eyes with both sunburned hands, and peered intently at a snug farmhouse nestling against the neighboring hill.

"Tilly's got home from Sandport. That's her pink gown a-flittin' in and out of the garden. Now if I can only wheedle her into takin' a mornin' ride we'll see who's master of the situation. Two years now she's been puttin' me off in that bewitchin' way of her'n, and I'm tired of it. I hain't been spendin' my winter evenin's readin' up about Napoleon Bonaparte and General Taylor and all of them other determined fellers for nuthin'. I've been altogether too meachin'. It's high time I put my foot down and made Tilly come to reason, and I'm a-goin' to do it!"

Jerry set his jaws grimly, sprang astride the saddle, whirled rapidly down the winding road and soon presented himself, cap in hand, at the door of the Morgan homestead. Tilly herself appeared promptly, her comely face alive with dimples and her bright blue eyes dancing with mirth.

"Took a run over to show you this new machine o' mine," announced Jerry, with a sidewise wave of the hand.

"I saw you coming up the hill," responded Tilly demurely. "You looked for all the world like a big, long-legged grasshopper,"—with an irrepressible giggle.

"I only wish you darst try it a bit and see what an easy runnin' concern it is," pursued Jerry, a sudden flush mantling his broad forehead and losing itself in his curly locks. "But, of course, 'twould be risky, considerin' you ain't used to it," he added apologetically.

"Humph! There's never been a colt on the place that I couldn't bridle and ride, and 'tisn't likely I'm afraid of a newfangled contrivance like that," replied Tilly loftily.

"Well, I s'pose you might try it, but I warn you it's dangerous business," hesitated Jerry. "You have to take in sail a bit," with a critical glance at her newly starched gingham. Tilly darted upstairs and soon appeared in a trim walking skirt, with a jaunty Tam O'Shanter pinned securely to her shining brown braids.

After a few preliminary failures, she was securely seated and the tandem glided smoothly along the shady country road. Tilly sat erect, firmly grasping the handle bars with her plump fingers and thoroughly enjoyed the novel experience.

"Pshaw! This is as easy as riding old Roan to plow. Now I'm going home to finish my ironing."

"No, you're not, Tilly Morgan. You won't go home until you have given a plain answer to the question I have been askin', off and on, for two years or more," announced Jerry peremptorily, while his heart thumped heavily against his ribs and the roar of the Atlantic seemed surging in his ears. "Steady there!" as Tilly gave an indignant bounce that threatened to capsize the wheel.

"Jeremiah Sanborn, I'll never speak to you again! There's Uncle Moses and Aunt Debby and Dan out in their dooryard. I'll call for help as true as I live if you don't stop this minute," scolded Tilly.

"They can't catch up," replied Jerry coolly, gradually increasing speed.

Despite her valiant threat, Tilly sailed by the open mouthed trio with flaming cheeks and downcast eyes.

There was a long silence, while the tandem bowled merrily along. The perspiration streamed from Jerry's crimson forehead. The sun was mounting higher, the road was up grade, and Tilly was no lightweight.

"Jerry," she faltered at length coaxingly, "please take me home.

"You know the condition. Reckon we'll reach Centreville by noon at the rate we're spinning," vouchsafed Jerry uncompromisingly.

Another prolonged silence.

"Jerry!"

"Well?"

"What do you want me to say?"

"I want you to name the day when you will come and be mistress of the little home I've had ready and waitin' for you for a year and a half," said Jerry, sternly.

Tilly glanced about her uneasily. Far in the distance she could see the glittering church spires of Centreville.

"This is too ridiculous, Jerry."

"Well?"

"Will June 15 suit you?"

"Perfectly. Dismount and rest in the shade for a few minutes, and I will take you home at once."

Tilly meekly seated herself on a grassy rock beneath a hugh oak and covertly watched Jerry from beneath her long lashes. He was apparently engrossed in flecking every possible grain of dust from the shining spokes of the tandem, but his eyes shone with a triumphant light.

The long run home was performed in dignified silence.

Tilly sprung lightly to her feet. "I think you're just as m-mean as you can be, Jerry Sanborn," she sobbed as she flew into the house and slammed the door.

Safely inside, she hurried to the parlor and peeped through the blind. Jerry, with erect head and shoulders squared, was speeding down the hill, his long legs performing most extraordinary gyrations.

"My, wasn't he masterful, though! That's all I ever had against Jerry, he was too tame. If I said A, he had to say B, and so on through the whole alphabet. Now I'll get dinner out of the way and begin hemming my table linen."

And with a song on her lips Tilly whisked on a fresh apron, vigorously stirring the fire and darted down the cellar stairs after the potatoes.—Wheelman.

THE POLICE ROLL OF HONOR.

The Heroes of a Month - Drowning and Runaway Horses the Principal Source.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt writes for the October Century an article entitled "The Roll of Honor of the New York Police." Mr. Roosevelt says:

Perhaps the best way to convey an idea of why we awarded medals is to give a list of the men thus rewarded for two months. In October, 1895, we, on the 1st of the month, awarded a medal to a patrolman for peculiar gallantry in stopping a runaway horse under circumstances which made the act one of great danger to himself, and which doubtless resulted in saving the lives of those in the vehicle. The patrolman thus rewarded was also later made a roundsman, and put in charge of the bicycle squad, our attention having been first called to him by this act. On the same day we gave honorable mention, but without a certificate or medal, to three other officers; one had also stopped a runaway horse; another had rescued a man from drowning, and the third had arrested an insane man armed with a revolver, under circumstances which went to show that the officer's coolness and presence of mind saved both himself and the onlookers from death or injury at the hands of the armed maniac. On the 8th of the month we gave a medal to an officer who had rescued a boy from drowning by plunging into the water between the wharf and the steamer from which the boy fell, at the imminent risk of being crushed to death between the two, a fate from which he and the rescued boy were saved purely by his pluck and his skill as a swimmer. Honorable mention was made of two other officers—one for rescuing a boy from drowning and one for stopping a runaway horse. On the 15th yet another officer received honorable mention for saving a man from drowning; and on the 22nd a sergeant and two patrolmen were commended for the coolness and skill they displayed in stopping a prize fight and arresting both the participants and the spectators, though they were an uncommonly tough crowd, and showed immediate fight.

Unique Punishment for Prisoners.

A new and unique mode of punishing prisoners at the city jail who break the rules of the institution was announced recently at a meeting of the board of visitors of the jail. The prisoner is compelled to stand erect on a barrel in the jail yard, in sight of the other prisoners, for one hour for the violation of any rule. The time is lengthened for the second offence. The board considers it a more humane and at the same time more effective manner of punishing offenders than keeping them in their cells with ball and chain to their feet, with simply bread and water for nourishment. The plan so far has worked satisfactorily, and has been the means of improving the discipline at the place.—Baltimore American.

There are four millionaires in England to one in France.

CIVILIZED CANNIBALS.

Some Interesting Facts About the Battaks of the Island of Sumatra.

Sumatra is one of the largest islands in the world, and has a population of 8,000,000. Respecting some of the tribes of the interior hardly anything is known, inasmuch as the island had been crossed by white men only two or three times. The immediate neighbors of the Acheenese are the Battaks, a most interesting race of cannibals, who are quite civilized in their way, having a written language of their own. They know how to make firearms, even boring their gun barrels. Also they carve gun stocks in correct style, and are acquainted with the art of making powder. They find their own sulphur and saltpetre, using pieces of bamboo for cartridge cases and bits of coral for bullets. They are excellent agriculturists, and raise cattle. In addition they are clever gold and silver smiths, making filigree work and weaving gold thread.

The Battaks only eat prisoners of war or bad criminals. Formerly the habit of cannibalism among them was universal, and human flesh used to be sold in the country in open market, some chiefs eating it daily as a matter of liking. It is considered the greatest possible insult to a foe or punishment to a person guilty of a grievous crime to eat him. Besides the question of economy is considered. At a feast it was cheaper to slaughter six slaves at 100 guilders than to kill six buffaloes at 150 guilders. When a distinguished person died two individuals customarily went through a lot of buffooneries at the graveside, after which they were killed and laid in the excavation, the coffin being placed on top of them. Cannibalism is more or less mixed up with the religion of these people, who have their wizards and witch doctors to practice incantations.

The Battaks build houses of planks and strong beams, placing them on piles for the advantage thus given in defending them. Many of their villages are on almost inaccessible pinnacles in the hills, favorite spots being little plateaus formed by the broadening of a mountain range. Commonly they are surrounded by palisades, with watch towers. Much art and industry is put into the carving and painting of the woodwork of the houses. An outbuilding serves as a sleeping place and council house, rice being stored in the upper part. No light is kept at night for fear of attracting ghosts, but in emergency candles of resin are used. Communal houses serve as sleeping places for the unmarried men, sometimes 100 of them together. Here are hung up the heads of slain enemies and other trophies.

Nearly all of the highest peaks in Sumatra are volcanoes, and most of these are active. In the immediate neighborhood of these mighty chimneys, which hurl out masses of ashes and stone, are the fertile lowlands, with a dense population. The destruction of 40,000 human lives by the eruption of Sumbawa in 1815, and the washing away of 16,000 people by "tidal waves," following the eruption of Krakato in 1883 are not solitary instances.—New York Sun.

The Largest Crane.

Absolutely the greatest mechanical giant in the world is now lifting stone on a new sea wall on the north coast of Scotland. Not even the monster cranes used for lifting the governmental great guns can compare with this Titan, as it is called. It is capable of lifting 100 tons, and it could pick up a modern locomotive with as much ease as the same locomotive draws a train of cars. It could lift the cubic contents of 100 carloads and strew them over a wide section of the landscape. Its daily work is the placing in position of fifty-ton blocks of granite, of which the new sea wall at Peterhead is being built.

The length of its arms, reaching out from the central point of support, is exactly 100 feet, and it can set a sixty-ton block in the sea 100 feet deep and 72 feet from the outer edge of the masonry wall. This long arm is balanced by a shorter weight arm that carries the engine house, with the machinery for moving the Titan forward or backward on a railroad set into the finished masonry, and to run out or in on the long arm a traveling car from which are suspended the four-sheaved blocks through which is received the cable that lifts the great pieces of stone. The Titan itself weighs 700 tons, and is built of steel. The long arm swings about on a turntable, just as a bridge swings over a river. The wall which it builds and then travels over as it slowly advances into the sea is nearly 50 feet wide.—Los Angeles (Cal.) Times.

Breaking Up and Breaking Down.

"A man may be all broken up," said Mr. Billtops, "and yet not be broken down at all. Grief breaks us up, but we get over that, while a break down may mean a collapse, with recovery doubtful or difficult. In cold climates where ice forms in winter the rivers break up in the spring, and they are all in a turmoil then, but when summer comes they flow along placidly. So it is with us. We may be all broken up and get over it, but a break down is quite another matter.—New York Sun.

IN THE LEADING PULPITS

DR. TALMAGE DISCOURSES UPON "GOD AMONG THE SHELLS."

Rev. William H. Lewis, of Bridgeport, Conn., Discourses Upon "The Gift of Religious Consciousness" — All Men Are Possessed of Spiritual Capacity.

The New York Herald has offered a prize of $1000 for the best sermon, and three subsidiary prizes aggregating $1000 additional for the three next best sermons. Ministers of all denominations have been invited to compete for these prizes, and the sermons offered in competition will appear in the Herald's Sunday edition. Rev. William H. Lewis, D. D., whose name is appended to the initiatory sermon, is rector of St. John's, the largest and most fashionable Episcopal parish in Bridgeport, Conn., and is considered one of the ablest preachers. His subject is: "The Gift of Religious Consciousness," and the sermon in full is as follows:

TEXT: "And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin, for I feared thee, because thou art an austere man. * * * And he saith up to him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant."—St. Luke xix., 20-22.

The lord of the parable, about to go away into a "far country," had given to each of his servants a certain amount to make use of while he was away. For these three the amount given is specified, but to all his servants he gave something. "To each man," the parable says, "according to his several ability." Only three are specially designated, because they serve as sufficient illustrations of the highest, the medium and the lowest gift. Each receiver seems to have known that the amount handed him was not a gift outright, but a trust, and that his lord would eventually come back and make an accounting. Each, therefore, treated his trust according to the opinion he held of his lord.

The substance of the parable is evidently this—that in every man living there is implanted a certain spiritual capacity or ability; that men have this capacity in degree, so that one has clear and distinct ideas of God and his duty, another has less, and another almost none at all. But the trust of a spiritual instinct or consciousness, and of a conscience which recognizes this consciousness, belongs to all. None is so low in the scale of humanity that the thought of God does not somehow enter into his life; and whoever has this gift has also the intelligence to know that he has it, and to ask himself, at least once in his life, if only once, what he shall do with it.

With this consciousness of God and this conscience there comes a sense of responsibility; and with that there comes a certainty of judgment. We indorse the reasoning of the parable when we excuse the man of small capacity by saying that he does not know any better; of another, that he ought to have known better, and of a third, that he did know better; and the popular judgment condemns each man with a severity according to his gift of capacity, his conscience, his educated or uneducated sense of the value of the gift which determines his use of it, and the very worst sin of all in the popular judgment is to have made no use of the gift. It was the servant who knew his gift and his lord, even though he knew him wrongly, and then made no use of his gift, who excited his lord's anger.

Make much of the thought, for it has much in it. If we grant the universal consciousness of God and the universal conscience, then every one is bound to conduct himself always under pressure of the thought that one day he will be called upon to answer to God for his use of these capacities. If a man only recognizes God by taking His name in vain, that is a recognition. And in actual fact there are many people who excuse themselves in their neglect of religion on the very grounds on which this man of the parable rested his defence—viz., harsh and distorted ideas of God and religion. They do not see that logically a man with harsh ideas of God ought to be the stricter in his life for that, if he shapes his conduct by his theory and if he expects God to judge him by his own confession. If my whole idea of religion is that it is such a straight and narrow way that I cannot walk in it without help from above, and, knowing that I must walk in it if I would be saved, I have yet never sought that help, shall I care to plead this neglect as an excuse when I come to stand before a righteous judge? Whether the napkin in which we tie up our religious consciousness be clean and white with the starch and bluing and ironing of a self-satisfied morality or filthy with the stains of every self-indulgence will make no difference with the fact that we tied it up and buried it. When capital combines for selfish purposes we know what to say of it; when an anarchist wants a division of capital for his own benefit we can deal with him. But when a man puts his thousands in an old stocking and hides it under his chimney hearth we simply call him a miser—a miserable one. He may plead that he had no faith in banks, but we condemn him nevertheless. Again the common judgment illustrates the parable.

In some shops you may find a device to keep check upon business transactions. A little disc springs up in full sight of buyer, seller and employer, records the price and drops out of sight again. But at the close of the day, when the accounting is made, the registry is there and the balance must agree with that. A man's conscience is like this—every thought of God and duty that comes into mind is on record there—a good thought, or a mistaken thought, or a bad thought, it held up its signal for a moment in the presence of all who cared to look and made its unalterable record of what was done. When the time comes the judges—God and conscience, and even the popular judgment—will be at the count, as they now are at the transaction. He is a daring thief who with these three looking on can try to take money out of the box and throw up a blank. Every thought of God and duty is a talent, a pound, bringing with it a demand for interest upon the original capital of God's first gift of spiritual consciousness and conscience. When the day of reckoning comes we shall be condemned by every opportunity we have had to know and to do better. No belief can possibly warrant neglect. Whatever we think of God we are bound to do something.

WM. H. LEWIS, D. D.
Rector St. John's Church, Bridgeport, Conn.

THE SHELLS IN THE BIBLE.

Dr. Talmage Draws an Interesting Lesson From Them.

Dr. T. De Witt Talmage delivered in Washington a sermon on "God Everywhere." The subject of the sermon was "Conchology of the Bible, or God Among the Shells," as found in the text, Exodus xxx., 34: "And the Lord said unto Moses, Take unto thee sweet spices, stacte and onycha."

You may not have noticed the shells of the Bible, he said, although in this early part of the second book God calls you to consider and employ them, as He called Moses to consider and employ them. The onycha of my text is a shell found on the banks of the Red Sea, and Moses and his army must have crushed many of them under foot as they crossed the bisected waters, onycha on the beach and onycha in the unfolded bed of the deep.

I shall speak of this shell as a beautiful and practical revelation of God, and as true as the first chapter of Genesis and the last chapter of Revelations or everything between. Not only is this shell, the onycha, found in the Red Sea, but in the waters of India. It not only delectates the eye with its convolution of beauty, white and lustrous, and seriated, but blesses the nostrils with a pungent aroma. I spoke to you last Sabbath of God in the great; now I speak of God in the small, God in the infinite, and God in the infinitesimal.

It is a secret that you may keep for me, that in all the realms of the natural world there is nothing for me so fascinating, so completely absorbing, so full of divine suggestiveness as a shell. What? More entertaining than a bird, which can sing, when a shell cannot sing? Well, there you have made a great mistake. Pick up the onycha from the banks of the Red Sea, or pick up a bivalve from the beach of the Atlantic Ocean, and listen, and you hear a whole choir of marine voices—bass, alto, soprano—in an unknown tongue, but seeming to chant, as I put them to my ear, "The sea is His and He made it."

As the shell is only the house and the wardrobe of insignificant animals of the deep, why all the wonder and beauty of construction? God's care for them is the only reason. And if God provide so munificently for them, will He not see that you have wardrobe and shelter? Wardrobe and shelter for a periwinkle; shall there not be wardrobe and shelter for a man? Would God give a coat of mail for the defense of a Nautilus and leave you no defense against the storm? Does He build a stone house for a creature that lasts a season and leave without home a soul that takes hold on centuries and æons?

But while you get this pointed lesson of providential care from the shelled creatures of the deep, notice in their construction that God helps them to help themselves. This house of stone in which they live is not dropped on them and is not built around them. The material for it exudes from their own bodies and is adorned with a colored fluid from the pores of their own neck. It is a most interesting thing to see these crustacean animals fashion their own homes out of carbonate of lime and membrane. And all of this is a mighty lesson to those who are waiting for others to build their fortunes, when they ought to go to work and, like the mollusks, build their own fortunes out of their own brain, out of their own sweat, out of their own industries. Not a mollusk on all the beaches of all the seas would have a house of shell if it had not itself built one. Do not wait for others to shelter you or prosper you. All the crustaceous creatures of the earth, from every flake of their covering and from every ridge of their tiny castles on Atlantic and Pacific and Mediterranean coasts, say: "Help yourself, while God helps you to help yourself." Have great expectations from only two persons—God and yourself. Let the onycha of my text become your preceptor.

But the more I examine the shells, the more I am impressed that God is a God of emotion. Many scoff at emotion, and seem to think that God is a God of cold geometry, and iron laws, and eternal apathy, and enthroned stoicism. No, no! The shells with overpowering emphasis deny it. While law and order reign in the universe, you have but to see the lavishness of color on the crustacea, all shades of crimson from the faintest blush to blood of battle-field, all shades of blue, all shades of green, all shades of all colors from deepest black to whitest light, just called out on the shells with no more order than a mother premeditates or calculates how many kisses and hugs she shall give her babe waking up in the morning sunlight. Yes. My God is an emotional God. And He says: "We must have colors and let the sun paint all of them on the scroll of that shell, and we must have music, and here is a carol for the robin, and a psalm for man, and a doxology for the seraphim, and a resurrection trumpet for the archangel. Aye, He showed Himself a God of sublime emotion when He flung Himself on this world in the personality of Christ to save it, without regard to the tears it would take, or the blood it would exhaust, or the agonies it would crush out. When I see the Louvres and the Luxembourgs and the Vaticans of divine painting strewn along the eight thousand miles of coast, and I hear, in a forest, on a summer morning, musical academies and Handel societies of full orchestras, I say God is a God of emotion, and if He observes mathematics, it is mathematics set to music, and His figures are written not in white chalk on blackboards, but written by a finger of sunlight on walls of jasmine and trumpet-creeper.

In my study of the conchology of the Bible, this onycha of the text also impresses me with the fact that religion is perfume. What else could God have meant when He said to Moses: "Take unto thee sweet spices, stacte and onycha. Moses took that shell of the onycha, put it over the fire, and as it crumbled into ashes, it exhaled an odor that hung in every curtain and filled the ancient tabernacle, and its sweet smoke escaped from the sacred precincts and saturated the outside air.

Perfume! That is what religion is. But, instead of that, some make it a mal-odor. They serve God in a rough and acerb way. They box their child's ears because he does not properly keep Sunday, instead of making Sunday so attractive the child could not help but keep it. They make him learn by heart a difficult chapter in the Book of Exodus, with all the hard names because he has been naughty. How many disagreeable good people there are. No one doubts their piety, and they will reach heaven, but they will have to get fixed up before they go there, or they will make trouble by calling out to us, "Keep off that grass!" "What do you mean by plucking that flower?" "Show your tickets!" Oh, how many Christian people need to obey my text, and take into their worship and their behavior and their consociations and presbyteries and general assemblies and conferences more onycha.

But what thrills me with suggestiveness is the material out of which all pearls are made. They are fashioned from the wound of the shellfish. The exudation from that wound is fixed and hardened and enlarged into a pearl. The ruptured vessels of the water animal fashioned the gem that now adorns finger or earring, or sword hilt or king's crown. So, out of the wounds of earth will come the pearls of heaven. Out of the wound of conviction the pearl of pardon. Out of the wound of bereavement the pearl of solace. Out of the wound of loss the pearl of gain. Out of the deep wound of the grave pearl of resurrection joy. Out of the wounds of a Saviour's death, the rich, the radiant, the everlasting pearl of heavenly gladness. "And the twelve gates were twelve pearls." Take the consolation all ye who have been hurt—whether hurt in body or hurt in mind or hurt in soul. Get your troubles sanctified. If you suffer with Christ on earth you will reign with Him in glory.

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

WAGES ADVANCED BY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC

The Battleship Iowa Proves to be the Finest of its Class in the World—Snow Storm in the West—Ravages of Fire—Other News Notes.

The Laurada, held as a filibusterer. has been released.

The city council of Opelika will purchase a lot and erect thereon buildings for a jail, clerk's office, etc.

Pensacola, Fla., had a disastrous fire last week, in which $100,000 worth of merchandise and property was destroyed.

The first snow storm of the season swept over Wisconsin Thursday night in the form of a blizzard, which lasted eight hours.

The forty-seven Austrian stave cutters, sailed from Baltimore on the Lloyd steamer North Star. They were deported.

George Crawford, of Memphis, a brakeman on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley road, was killed Thursday at Clarksdale, Miss.

The Naval Trial Board is of the opinion that the new battleship Iowa is as one a vessel of her class as the world has ever seen.

Ten of the Mexicans who participated in the lynching of Arroyo, who made an assault on President Diaz, have been sentenced to death.

Mr. Ogilvie, the government surveyor, just returned from a year on the Yukon, reports in January, 1896, a temperature of 68.1 below zero.

A dispatch from Rome reports that a sanguinary conflict has taken place between the French and British at Nikka, in Lagos, Hinterland, Africa.

J. B. Embrey, a farmer, was shot and killed at Mount Sterling, Ky., by his tenant, L. A. Stull. They quarreled over a division of the tobacco crop.

The spread of the bubonic plague shows no signs of abatement at Poonah, Surat and elsewhere, in India. It has extended to Belgium and Ahmedague.

Walthall Camp, Confederate Veterans, of Meridian, Miss., will exhume the bodies of a number of Confederate soldiers whose resting place is in an old common and reinter them in the cemetery.

Governor McLaurin has issued a proclamation ordering an election in Quitman county, Mississippi, on Saturday, December 18, to fill the vacancy in the legislature caused by the death of J. R. Turner.

Fire broke out on the front street of Erin, Tenn., Thursday, destroying in one hour $15,000 worth of property. It was the second fire to visit the city within the past few weeks. Only eight business houses are left standing.

The planing mill of the Providence Lumber Company, in East Carroll parish, La., was burned last week, with a million feet of lumber, much of it quarter-sawed. Loss only partly covered by insurance, amount not stated.

The full-rigged ship Port Patrick of the Port Line, Glasgow, Scotland, Capt. Frank Hand, was almost wholly destroyed by fire at her dock in the East river, New York. Her cargo, valued at about $100,000, was also destroyed.

Arbuckle and the Havemeyer interests are hammering coffee down at New York. Rio No. 7 was put down to 9 cents by the Havemeyer interests and Arbuckle met the reduction. The war is on and there is no telling how low the price may go.

Alexander Brown & Sons, representing a syndicate of Baltimore, London, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg capitalists, have consummated the purchase of all the stock of the United Traction company, of Pittsburg, amounting to $20,000,000.

The organization of the Confederate Veteran's Reunion association was completed at Atlanta Wednesday. This is to be the active organization to prepare for the re-union to meet next year, the date of which is placed for June 21 and 22, the anniversary of the battle of Atlanta.

It was announced Friday that as a Thanksgiving present President George Gould, of the Missouri Pacific railroad system, advanced the salaries of all employees along the line 10 per cent.

William J. Bryan has given to the Missouri State university at Columbia $250, which is to be used annually for awarding a prize for the best essay on the science of government.

General Weyler has written a letter to a friend in Madrid saying he is prepared to support any political leader "to carry out the political heritage of Canovas," adding: "If I had been allowed to remain in Cuba the war would have been ended in May."

General Gonazales Lanuza, the famous Cuban criminal lawyer, who has been confined in a penal colony prison in Northern Africa for over a year, has been released. He is now on his way te Atlanta and will join his family there some time next week. General Ganzales was convicted of treason against the Spanish government in Havana and was sent to prison in Africa.

The appeal of the people of Ocean Springs, Miss., that the United States government, through the marine hospital service, disinfect places of yellow fever infection, has been acted on. It was decided that the marine hospital service proceed at once to fumigate all such places along the coast. The work will commence at Bay St. Louis. Biloxi, Scranton and other places up the coast.

The Nineteenth Illinois regimental monument erected on Missionary Ridge, near the Bragg headquarters, was formally dedicated Thursday, there being present at the ceremony about twenty-five survivors, all from Chicago. The monument is erected on the spot where the regiment first rallied and reached the crest of the ridge in the memorable engagement. The day is the thirty-fourth anniversary of the battle.

REBELS FIRING UPON HAVANA.

A Band of Insurgents Making It Lively for the Spanish.

On Sunday morning, for the first time in the history of the Cuban war, rebel bullets sought the palace in Havana, according to a dispatch from Havana. The shots came from Casa Blanca, six hundred yards across the entrance to the harbor, and while nobody was hurt, the palace with its numerous lights, was a shining mark, and must have heen hit. The Spanish authorities attempted to make light of the affair, but at the same time a reporter for La Lucha, who was on the spot, attempted to publish the facts and was arrested and is still incommunicado.

The attack on Casa Blanca was made by Brigadier General Raefel Cardenas and fifty rebels. They entered town shortly before midnight on horseback, and at the end of four hours each man led out of town a horse with one extra he had appropriated laden with clothing, provisions, silver plate and considerable money. Before they left they fired two volleys across the narrow harbor entrance at the palace and then coolly retired to a friend's house inside the Spanish lines and took supper, previously ordered. All this was done under the guns of Castle Moro.

It is learned from an insurgent source that the object of the rebels was to effect the release of Gen. Ruis Rivera and hand a citizen named Fumerio, who is known as a Spanish spy. They failed in the first only because of some misconception regarding the appointed time on the part of the confederates inside the prison, with whom arrangements had been made to admit the raiders into the fortress. Fumerio managed to escape across the harbor.

DOORS CLOSED AGAINST WOMEN.

Methodist Minister Refused to Let Mrs. Harris Preach.

Mrs. Harris, a female revivalist, has concluded a revival at Hillsboro, Ala., a few miles east of Courtland. Large congregations attended the services, including many from the adjacent counties, going forty and fifty miles to hear her.

The meeting was commenced in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, by authority of the board of stewards, but Rev. Anson West, presiding elder of the Decatur district, learning of the use of this church bo a female revivalist, went to Hillsboro and overruled the action of the board, interrupted the proceedings and caused a considerable flurry by officially closing the doors of the church to women preachers.

Mrs. Harris a widow of the late Robert Lee Harris, a noted evangelist of his time in this State.

State Normal College.

In spite of the scare from pestilence and quarantine, the State Normal College at Troy went on the even tenor of its way with a good attendance, and as good work as the state ever had done for it by any institution.

Troy enjoys the distinction of being 596 feet above sea level, and yellow fever has never come within fifty miles of it, and it is not believed by those well informed that the disease can spread at such altitude, if health measures are carefully observed.

Out of the several thousands of students in the State Normal College there in the ten years past, only two deaths have occurred at the college, and these from pneumonia and measles.

The college never had brighter prospects, and many new students are expected at the new term to open December 7. President Eldredge has calls for trained teacher from every direction, and the demand is above the supply. As school officers learn the value of teacher training they will insist more and more upon it. The State Normal College at Troy delights to serve school officers, schools and teachers.

WHEAT EXPORTS ARE HEAVY.

The Demand For Goods From the South Much Larger for the Week.

AS A WHOLE NO IMPROVEMENT NOTED.

Competition of Southern Mills, Overproduction by Manufacturers of a Single Staple Underlies Existing Large Stocks and Heavy Prices.

Bradstreet's financial review for the past week says:

Although speculation has been mainly in the hands of traders, an undertone of strength was apparent throughout the week's transactions on the stock exchange. There was no very severe pressure, and it is the general impression that stocks are in strong hands.

The approaching meeting of congress is regarded as the next speculative factor of importance, and it is concluded that large financial interests are waiting till the session begins and the attitude of the national law makers on the currency and Cuba is developed.

So far as the administration is concerned, the "street" at large has been favorably impressed, both by the pacific disposition that has characterized the negotiations with Spain and by the current reports that the President's message will deal largely with the currency and take a position satisfactory to sound money sentiment.

There was an absence of unfavorable development throughout the week, and more attention was paid to the continued increases in railroad earnings and to circumstances affecting the speculative position of particular properties.

London has not been a factor of any importance in our market, though the selling from that source has been larger than purchasing.

Notwithstanding the appearance of a demand for holiday specialties at some points in the South, at Chicago, St. Louis, and in sections tributary thereto, general trade throughout the country has shown no general improvement this week.

The Eastern cotton goods industry continues depressed. Consumers evidently do not intend to buy extensively until they beleive the price of raw cotton is ready to advance. Competition from Southern mills, more particularly overproduction by manufacturers who produce a single staple, underlies existing large stocks and the heaviness of prices. Converters and manufacturers of cotton yarns are situated relatively more favorably.

Other lines reporting seasonable distribution are manufacturers of woolens, clothing, shoes and jobbers of fancy groceries.

Iron and steel have not been in as active demand as expected, and are lower, notwithstanding furnaces and mills are supplied with orders sufficient to carry them well into next year. A favorable feature is found in advances in wages of operatives in various industrial lines.

Wheat exports, affected almost entirely in the holidays, showed considerable decrease from last week's total. The aggregate exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Canada this week are 5,465,153 bushels, against 6,653,000 bushels last week, and 3,513,000 bushels last year.

Corn exports also would have been larger but for this reason, amounting to 2,869,000 bushels, against 3,309,000 last week, and 2.920,000 last year.

There are 235 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 235 last week, and 296 in the week a year ago.

TO DESTROY THE EMPIRE

Is Alleged to Be the Purpose of the Austrian Social Democrats.

A special from Vienna says: Friday the Reichsweihr declared that the uproar in the lower house of the Reichstrath has no connection with the campaign against the language ordinance, but was due to the action of the International Social Democrats, who considered that the time has arrived to complete their destructive work against the state and empire. Continuing, the Reichsweihr says that in view of this fact the state cannot and will not yield.

Repetition of '49 Predicted.

J. W. Wilson, general manager of the Alaska Commercial company, of San Francisco, has just returned from Alaska, having made many trips to that country during the past few years. Mr. Wilson says the rush to the gold fields of California was nothing to what the wild stampede to the Klondike will be the coming spring. Already thousands of people in every state are getting ready for the trip. His advice to these prospectors is that they go prepared to withstand the rigors of the following winter, especially as there will be no reason to fear a scarcity of food.

M'KINLEY IN GOLD.

Scheme of Wealthy Capitalists to Make a Statue of the President.

Ada Rehan in silver is to be outshone by William McKinley in gold. The added fame which the actress acquired by posing for the Montana statue of solid silver, exhibited at the World's fair in 1893, is to be approached, if not eclipsed, by the president of the United States, who will furnish the figure for a life-sized statue of solid gold.

Mr. F. D. Higby, of Chicago, who has been commissioned by several wealthy capitalists to furnish such a statue for exhibition at the Paris exposition in 1900, is on his way to Washington to get the consent of President McKinley to pose for the figure.

"This statue, from the base up, will contain bullion to the value of $1,050,000," said Mr. Higby. "While it was designed primarily to place the statue on exhibit in Paris in 1900, the projectors of the Pan-American exposition to be held on Cayagua island, Nicaragua river, in 1899, are anxious to have it completed in time for exhibition there first.

SENATOR JAMES K. JONES.

He is Opposed to the Annexation of Hawaii.

Senator James K. Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the democratic national committee, has expressed his opinion of the Hawaiian annexation scheme, as follows:

"I am opposed to it:

"1. Because I am unalterably opposed to extending our territorial limits beyond this continent.

"2. Because the Hawaiian Islands are so remote from our coast line. Our defense in the event of war would be enormously expensive and troublesome to us.

"3. Because they do not comprise sufficient area to make a state, and their maintenance as a territory would violate the intent of the constitution.

"4. Because it would be almost impossible for congress to devise a government for them that would not result in confusion and failure.

"5. Because of the unfit and undesirable character of the population. No matter how favorable surroundings for improvement might be made, the large percentage of the population would remain unfit for citizenship.

"These reasons seem to me to be self-evident and convincing."

STAGE LINE TO KLONDYKE.

This is the Latest Proposed Mode of Getting to the Gold Fields.

An English company will establish a fast stage line from Great Falls, Mont., to Dawson City. The route is an entirely new one, and will be less than 1,200 miles. A portion of the route will be along the Mackenzie river. The line will be in operation early next spring, and the trip will occupy less than twenty days. They have purchased 600 horses, and engaged a superintendent for the line. The taverns for the accommodation of passengers and relay stations will be erected along the route, and an effort will be made to establish town sites. The company they represent is capitalized at $2,000,000.

Pension Rolls of Two States.

Georgia has this year upon its state pension roll the names of 10,437 men and women entitled to its privileges. They include 3,803 widows of confederate soldiers, 3,381 invalid soldiers, and 3,173 old confederate soldiers who are indigent. The widows are cared for by an annual appropriation of $240,000, the invalids get $190,000 and the indigents $150,000, making a total of $580,000.

In round numbers the pension list of Mississippi for this year amounts to 4,400. They get $17 each, except in a few instances where they receive $75. The pension list is steadily growing. The number of women (widows) drawing the pension greatly exceeds the men.

Mississippi's Convict Cotton Crop.

Hon. John D. McInnis, railroad commissionor, and member of the board of control, has been inspecting the convict farms and state crops. He is confident the state will make 4,000 bales of cotton and says he never saw such a crop of cotton in his life. He declares that land which was under water until the middle of June and then seeded to cotton will make one and a half bales to the acre.

A Record Cargo.

The British steamship Monarch, hence for Liverpool, went to sea Friday with the largest cargo ever floated, consisting of 22,535 bales of cotton, 60,000 bushels of corn, 11,200 sacks of cotton seed meal and 29,068 oak staves, being equivalent to 28,000 bales of cotton.

Received With Thanks.

Tom Cyrus, colored, was sentenced at Atlanta Thursday by Judge Candler to hang on December 22. "Thank you," he said to the Judge when sentence was passed. Cyrus killed Annie Johnson, maid of Governor Atkinson's wife.

CALL TO COTTON GROWERS.

President Lane, of the American Cotton Growers' Association,

ISSUES A STIRRING ADDRESS TO MEMBERS

Calling Them to Meet in Convention at Memphis, Tenn., December 20, to Devise Ways to Meet and Combat the Present Industrial Condition.

Hon. Hector D. Lane, of Alabama, president of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association, has issued an address to the cotton growers of America calling a meeting of the association at Memphis, December 20.

President Lane's address is as follows:

"In response to the earnest request of a large number of the most prominent cotton growers of the South, representing nearly the entire cotton belt, I am again induced to call the cotton growers of the South to meet in convention for the purpose of and with the hope that through mature deliberation we may arrive at intelligent conclusions as to the best procedure to meet and combat the industrial conditions that now confront us.

"It is the opinion of the best minds of your country that this consummation can only be reached by a resolute, continuous and systematic rule of action laid down by authorized representation, and adhered to by the masses of the cotton growers.

"I shall not waste space by indulging in arguments of the necessity of this action. Five cent cotton and its natural effect is its own most potent pleader in this cause, and the sounding adjectives of the orator and the well-rounded sentences of the journalists are not necessary to awaken the south to the sad realization of our condition and what is to follow without remedial action on these lines. The importance of the situation addresses itself to our common country.

"There is no one interested in the material prosperity of the south who will not have to bear their pro rata of this burden. Upon the part of the American Cotton Growers' Protective Association I appeal to all of our people to join us in a patriotic, systematic and conservative effort to cure these ills that now afflict us. All agricultural societies are requested to send representation. We respectfully invite the presence of bankers, commission men, merchants and all those directly or indirectly interested in cotton growing."

TRESTLE GIVES WAY

And Twenty-three Loaded Cars Plunge Downward, Killing Two Men.

Saturday, as a heavy freight train, bound north, on the Kentucky Central branch of the Louisville and Nashville road, was passing over a wooden trestle near Winchester, Ky., the structure gave way, precipitating twenty-three coal laden cars to the rocks, 65 feet below. The engine and tender passed over safely.

A number of bridge carpenters were at work at the bottom of the trestle when it fell. Most of them made their escape. James Harris and Warren Burch, however, were not so fortunate, and were killed. Their bodies lie buried under hundreds of tons of coal, lumber, etc. The monetary loss is not known at present, but it will be heavy.

WAS IT SUICIDE?

Coroner's Jury Says Mason Payne Hung Himself, But There is Doubt.

The dead body of a negro was found swinging to a tree near the northern limits of Meridian, Miss., last week. The police were notified, and persons living near the scene identified the body as that of Mason Payne, a negro, about 17 years of age, who lived in that vicinity.

A coroner's jury was empaneled, and after a short investigation a verdict of suicide was rendered. The death of the negro was peculiar, and the theory of suicide is not accepted by his relatives, or wholly by the authorities.

He was found with his feet touching the ground, and a slight twine cord, doubled several times, had been used to accomplish his death, which was evidently due to strangulatian.

DON'T HEED RUSSIA'S WARNING.

Turkey Will Invest 1,500,000 Marks in Large Cannon.

In spite of the protest of the Russian government which recently intimated to the porte that if any considerable part of the indemnity paid by Greece should be devoted to the extension of the Ottoman armament the Russian government would insist upon a payment of the arrears of the Russo-Turkish indemnity, long overdue. Turkey has placed with Herr Krupp, the great German gunmaker, an order for 150 large cannon at a total value of 1,500,000 marks.

MANUAL LABOR AND PROFESSIONS.

The tendency of young men in this country to embark in the learned professions without the proper mental equipment and with no special aptitude for anything except avoiding manual labor is constantly on the increase. It is greatly to be deplored, for to such failure is almost the inevitable result. That means ruined lives, or an existence so soured, disgruntled and embittered as to be without pleasure or profit to their possessors and a tax upon the community where their lines are cast. And yet these same men, whose lives are eminent failures, might have achieved splendid success in some walk in life suited to their tastes and talents. Indeed it requires but a superficial degree of observation to demonstrate the fact that there are in almost any community fourth rate lawyers who would have been excellent auctioneers, dentists who would have succeeded as plumbers, physicians who would have adorned a meat stall, and even ministers of the Gospel who could have produced a far better horseshoe than a sermon.

Had they entered a calling congenial alike to taste and talent they might have been an honor to themselves and a blessing to the community, for a man is always that irrespective of his occupation, whenever he is a master of it. But the trouble with these young men is that they do not understand the dignity of manual labor. They do not realize that honors and fortune may be more readily realized outside of the so-called learned professions than in them, and that it is just as honorable to swing a hammer or to hold a plow as it is to make a speech in court or amputate a limb. Let them understand that it is not so much what a man does for a livelihood as it is how well he does it, and that manual labor is as honorable as any other, and then will the diploma factories cease to pour out on a long suffering world their annual horde of incapables only to be wrecked upon the shores of their own limitations. — Philadelphia Times.

KEEP STEP! • DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD." •

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free

The SIXTH MISSING WORD CONTEST

The Atlanta Constitution Offers

One Tenth Of the Subscriptions

Received from those entering the Contest to name properly the missing word in the following sentence:

"Once given the passion for _____, that one of the precious metals will be most in demand which is cheapest." ∴ ∴ ∴

And, in Addition

TO THE 10 PER CENT, WE WILL GIVE

$100 Cash Extra

For the first Six Correct Guesses, as follows: $50 for the First Correct Guess and $10 Each for the Next Five, in their order, provided the same are received in our office on or before December 1st.

THE PERIOD COVERED

By This Contest shows about 16,000 expirations for The Weekly Constitution, and, of course, we want them all to renew and to enter the Contest.

THIS MEANS $1,600

For the Missing Word Fund, and every additional subscriber entering the contest will swell the amount the more.

This period also compares with our First Missing Word Contest last year, in which Mr. M. L. Brittain secured the prize—$1,033.50. As that was our First Contest, there were more than 5,000 subscribers received during the time, who did not enter for prize. It will not be so this time, for the plan is widely advertised and we have paid out within the past twelve months NEARLY $5,000 CASH upon the Five Missing Word Contests. The series has been of extraordinary interest, and the idea seems to grow in the public's favor.

The book containing the sentence is a standard publication and has been sealed up and placed with Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of The Constitution, who will hold it safely until January 1, 1898.

The sentence speaks for itself and submits a very plain proposition for you to solve.

The Contest Began November 1, 1897.
The Contest Ends January 1, 1898.

This contest lasts two months and the amount to be divided will probably be in the neighborhood of $2,000. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

The Greatest of All American Weekly Newspapers for One Year.

Keep That in View and Send Your Guess With Your Dollar for a Year's Subscription

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the two months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of contest:

WE PROPOSE TO PUT 10 PER CENT of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the fund.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent; there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

THE CONTEST BEGAN NOV. 1ST—We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses and on December 1st we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during December we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

THE CONTEST CLOSES JAN. 1ST—At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for January 1st is "....."

The above is the plan of The Constitution Contest, which all subscribers to that paper and ours, subscribing under the clubbing offer announced elsewhere, may enter. Address orders to

THE MONTEVALLO NEWS,
Montevallo, Ala.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.
Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.
OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD.
Montevallo, Alabama.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, '97. NO 50.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

W. H. Battle, of near Six Mile, was in town on business Monday.

Marion Wooten, of Dogwood, will leave for Lott, Texas, in a few days.

Misses Judie and Jessie Walker, from the Elliottsville neighborhood, were in the city Tuesday.

Mr E D Reynolds and wife, and Mr. S. J. Morgan, of Blocton, spent last Sunday in Montevallo.

Miss Sue Shuford, the pretty, dark eyed sister of Mrs. Best, has been visiting here for the past few days.

D. H. Gentry, of Chilton, was bitten in the back of the left hand last week by a hog. His hand is nearly well now.

Dr. Harrison of Dogwood is confined to his bed with an attack of pneumonia, which it is hoped may not prove serious.

Messrs. R. J. and C. W. Rotenberry, of Six Mile, were in the city on business Tuesday. R. J. bears his years gracefully.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Knight, of Tomax, Chilton County, were in town yesterday with two of their sons and their handsome daughter.

Mrs. John M. Fancher and Miss Sallie Dean will leave for Troop, Texas, one day next week. Mr Fancher will be a grass bachelor for one month.

Mr. H. A. Hodge, of Anniston, who has since last June worked with his teams on the Mobile and Ohio extension near Blocton, passed through Montevallo Saturday on his way home.

Mr. W. S. Killough, who went to work as a brakeman on the Southern about a month ago, has returned to town to nurse a crushed hand injured in the discharge of his duty at Birmingham junction.

Mr. J. W. Scott, section foreman of the Southern railway at Aldrich, was so unfortunate last Monday, while pulling a spike, as to crush the tip of the forefinger of his right hand. Some days must elapse before he will be able to resume his duties.

There was a happy wedding at Dogwood last Sunday. Miss Minnie Wooten became Mrs. James Butler, of Pelham. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother. The newly-wedded couple will reside at Pelham, and the News wishes them Godspeed.

All visiting town should see F. F. Crowe & Co,'s stock of Xmas presents, fireworks, dolls and other toys, candies and fruits, before making purchases.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Latham & Co. will sell you a suit of clothes anywhere from $3 to $9.

Call for Window Glass at H. C. & W. B. Reynolds. A large supply at reasonable prices.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Miss Allie Hughes, [illegible]olk, Va., was frightfully burned on the [illegible]nd neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE.

The above is the title of the nautical and temperance drama in three acts which will be played by a strong amateur company, under the management of Prof W C Carpenter, at the Masonic Hall, Aldrich, on Friday evening, December 10th. The drama will be well worth seeing, and all of Montevallo should go, as the proceeds will be devoted to the benefit of Aldrich academy. Miss Lee will act as pianist, so good music is assured. Admission 25 cents, children 15 cents. Doors open at 7.30

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

BRYAN'S LATEST.

Hon. W. J. Bryan tells the following good story:

A political speaker said from the stump that he could tell a man's politics from his looks. He pointed out a man in the crowd and said, "You are a republican." That man said, "Yes, how could you tell?" "From your looks," said the speaker. To a third man he said, "You are a populist." The man acknowledged the fact and wanted to know how he could tell. The speaker said as before, "From your looks." "And that man down further is a gold standard democrat." "No, I'm not," promptly responded the fellow, "I've been sick. That's what makes me look this way."

Latham & Co. have purchased a large quantity of clothing for men, youths and boys, which they are selling below cost.

HE IS STILL FIGURING.

A farmer near town last week bought a steer, butchered it, cut it up and peddled the meat in Montevallo. He sold round steak for 4 cts a pound and thought he was becoming rich. On his return home with a lot of stripped bones, he found that he had less money than he paid for the live steer, and now spends his time scratching his head and wondering what became of his expected profits.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

There Are Others,

BUT

WE

LEAD

IN

Toys

Fireworks

Fancy Candies

HATS,

SHOES,

MEN'S CLOTHING,

CAPES,

CLOAKS,

DRY GOODS,

Groceries and Everything!

Just Received--California Canned Goods, Finest Ever Brought to the Market--Prices to Suit the Times!

Our Prices Are the Lowest in Town.

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

ARRIVAL OF MISS GIBSON.

Born, on Monday, December 6th, to Mr and Mrs S B Gibson, a daughter.

The above notice calls for congratulations from the News, the more so that the happy father assures us that both mother and child are doing well. We hope soon to see Mrs and Miss Gibson in Montevallo, but fear the latter will have a hard time dodging the 338 amateur nurses at the Institute who will want to make a doll of her.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Prosperity comes quickest to the man whose liver is in good condition. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

A NEW ROAD.

Chas W Cary, of the Montevallo Lump Coal Mining Company, says that a railroad a mile and a half long will soon be built to connect the Southern railroad with the mines at Dogwood. The State Geologist has reported in writing that the company is operating on the north outcrop of the Montevallo coal basin, and selling the same coal as the Montevallo Coal and Transportation Company of Aldrich.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa., says. "My child is worth millions to me: yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twenty-five cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. M B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

EVERYBODY COME!

A horse swapping convention and turkey shoot will be held in Montevallo on Saturday, December 18th. Come along, bring your wives and families to buy Christmas goods, also a dollar with which to subscribe to the Montevallo News.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want something pretty, and something that will keep you warm, get one of those Clay Worsted Suits from Latham & Co.

Young ladies: if you do not go home Christmas, send mother and father a nice X'mas present. I keep them. J. W. Martin.

The School's Eventful Day.

Gov. Johnston and Other Distinguished Visitors Commend Capt. Reynolds' Work.

Judge Banks Lectures Ably.

Oysters and Ice Cream—Speeches and Singing—Examination and Satisfaction Mark the Trustees' Visit.

Friday, Dec 3rd, was an eventful day at the Girls' Industrial school, for it was visited by Gov. Johnston, Judge J. J. Banks, State Superintendent John O. Turner, and the following trustees: Rev. George B. Eager, Judge H. Austill, Judge A. H. Alston, Hon. W. W. Wadsworth, Hon. F. S. Moody, Col. W R. Dorsch, Hon. Virgil Boulden and Hon. John McQueen.

There being so much routine business to dispatch, they had only sufficient time to make a cursory inspection of the buildings and classes, but saw enough to elicit from them expressions highly eulogistic of the great work so far accomplished by Capt. H. C. Reynolds and his corps of able assistants. Nearly all their time was consumed in the office of President Reynolds, where they passed on accounts and formulated plans for the future.

All morning the young ladies of the cooking class had busied themselves in the preparation of a choice collation for their visitors, which was served at 1 p. m. in the dining hall of the dormitory building. Two tables, covered with snowy linen and tastefully laid, were in readiness when the governor, Judge J. J. Banks, the trustees, President Reynolds and the writer took their seats. Judge Banks had an hour before declared that the sight of the girls bearing covered dishes from the cooking class to the dining room had given him a wonderful appetite.

A blessing was asked by Rev. George B. Eager, of Montgomery, after which the deft handed, sweet-faced waitresses served raw oysters, fried oysters that were delicious, mashed potatoes, custard, ice cream, cake and coffee. All enjoyed the repast, but Gov. Johnston most of all, for he flavored his dinner by kissing every young lady to whom he was introduced, which made the mouths of the others water and engendered in them an ambition for the gubernatorial office.

The trustees passed the afternoon in executive session, and it was not until 3:30 p. m. that they found time to address the pupils, who were gathered in expectant readiness in the chapel.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John O. Turner, by reason of a sore throat, made but a short speech, but it was to the point. After highly praising the work of President Reynolds, he commented upon the beautiful and intelligent countenances of the pupils, and assured them that his heart was in the work of educating the girls of Alabama. "Out of 600,000 children of school age in the State of Alabama, 240,000 can neither read nor write," he said, and added that it was his life-work to endeavor to secure educational advantages for all, and he

(Continued on Page 4.)

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

FURANCE EMPLOYEES' WAGES ARE ADVANCED

The Germans Dispatch Artillerymen and Marines to China—A Family Poisoned by Drinking Milk—A Bank Closes. A Passenger Train Wrecked.

Ex-Senator Pat Walsh was elected mayor of Augusta, Ga., Thursday by a plurality of 824.

Dr. Thomas W. Edwards, the American who died in Paris, left a fortune of perhaps $8,000,000.

President Pierola, of Peru, vetoed the bill recently passed by congress legalizing non Catholic marriages.

The State Piedmont Bank, of Morgantown, N. C., has closed its doors owing to inability to make collections.

In a fire damp explosion at the Frankerholz coal mine near Hamburg, thirty men were killed and fifty injured.

The gold output of the Cripple Creek district in November was $1,580,600, the largest in the history of the camp.

The board of health of Atlanta has decided that everybody must be vaccinated who has not already submitted to the operation.

Seven hundred blast furnace employes at Sharon and Sharpsville, Pa., have received an advance in wages of 10 and 20 per cent.

Thursday's condition of the United States Treasury showed: Available cash balances, $220,210,130 ; gold reserve, $157,396,039.

A passenger train on the Chicago and Erie was wrecked near Lima, O. It is reported the engine blew up and killed three persons.

The German naval department has sent instructions to Kiel to dispatch 200 artillerymen with field guns and 1,000 marines to China.

Jesse Bagley, with his wife and two children, were poisoned by milk at their home, near Dover, Tenn., and none of them are expected to recover.

At Paris Sybil Sanderson, the American actress, was received into the Catholic church two days before she married Antonio Terry, an immensely rich Cuban.

Peru is the first of the South American countries to open negotiations with the United States for a reciprocity treaty under the provisions of the Dingley law.

Governor Bloxham, of Florida, has received letters from several governors of states saying they will attend the national fish congress at Tampa New Year's Day.

Fire destroyed the gin house on Major John M. Billups' plantation, near Columbus, Miss., and destroyed twenty-two bales of cotton and 4,000 bushels of cotton seed.

At Canton, O., Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley, mother of the President, was stricken with paralysis Thursday, and it is feared her death is only a question of a short time.

Cuban insurgents entered the town of Saco, near Baracoa, on the northeast coast of the province of Santiago de Cuba, plundered the stores and machetted about fifty persons.

It is reported that General Pando, who was placed in charge of the military operations in Cuba by General Blanco, has been killed in an engagement with the insurgents in Santa Clara province.

The British steamship Alberta sailed for Hull from Baltimore with 253,301 bushels of corn, the largest cargo of corn ever shipped from that port, and probably the largest ever shipped from the United States.

The president has appointed B. K. Bruce, of Mississippi, register of the treasury. Bruce represented Mississippi in the United States senate in reconstruction days. The position to which he is appointed is one he held some years ago.

The first snow of the season fell over Kansas Thursday night, extending over the entire State. The snow will generally benefit wheat. In Central Kansas wheat goes into the winter this season in better condition than in ten years.

In a street duel at Nashville, Ark., Thursday, Dr. Smith, a prominent physician, was killed, and J. J. Smith fatally wounded by W. W. Milwee. The tragedy was the result of a fued of long standing.

At Mouse Creek, Tenn., Frank Sherman was shot from ambush and fell dead on the spot. His son, who was with him, was seriously wounded. The murderers are thought to be relatives of the murdered man.

The Southern League of Baseball Clubs was organized in Atlanta Saturday afternoon with eight teams, as follows: Savannah, Charleston, Augusta, Columbus, Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile and New Orleans.

A charter has been granted to the Southern Sugar Refining Company at Richmond, Va. The maximum capital of the company is to be $1,000,000. The object of the company is to encourage the raising of sugar beets and to engage in the manufacture of beet sugar.

A special dispatch from Shanghai announces that the Emperor of China has declared that he would rather forfeit his crown than to agree to the conditions demanded by Germany as redress for the murder of two German missionaries, Nices and Hennelo, and the destruction of German mission property in the province of Shan Tun.

COL. CHIPLEY DEAD.

The Distinguished Floridian Passes Away at Washington.

Col. W. D. Chipley, of Florida, who has been ill at a hospital in Washington for some weeks, following an operation for carbuncle, died Wednesday morning. Colonel Chipley was a native of Alabama, and was about 60 years of age. He engaged in mercantile pursuits at Columbus, Ga., until late in the '70's, when he removed to Pensacola, Fla., where he has since resided. He became prominently identified with the building of railroads in Florida and at the time of his death was president of the Pensacola and Atlanta railroad. He represented his county in the state senate for several years, and was one of the most prominent men in the state. He was mentioned as the most probable nominee of the democrats for the governorship of the state, and in the contest for the United States senatorship a year ago was the leading candidate. Colonel Chipley was a man of wealth, and was noted for his philanthropy.

THE ARMOR PLATE BOARD

Makes a Report on Cost of a Plant, but Recommends No Action.

Th naval board, appointed by authority of congress to ascertain the cost of an armor plate plant, has made its report, through Commodore Howell, to Secretary Long. The report makes a voluminous document, treating every detail of the process of armor making essential to a correct apprehension of the cost of the plant and of the product. The cost of a plant suitable for the making of naval armor at the rate of about 6,000 tons per annum, which is fully equal to the capacity of both of the existing private plants, is set down as about three and three-quarter million dollars. No recommendation is made as to the location of the plant, but the board has accumulated much information as to the merits of various eligible locations, which may be had by congress if called for by it.

THE CRAZE FOR GOLD.

Rush to California and South Africa to be Eclipsed Next Year.

Consul Smith, at Victoria, B. C., in a report to the state department, discusses the subject of the Klondike fields. The advices received at Victoria indicate that the rush in 1849 to California, and later to South Africa, will be eclipsed by the gold seekers headed for the Yukon in the early months of 1898.

Agents from England have been at Victoria, making arrangements for 3,000 or 4,000 gold seekers. Merchants there have secured great supplies of outfit goods, and the transportation companies have made arrangements sufficient to make daily lines between that port and St. Michaels, Dyea, Skaguay and Fort Wrangle.

PLEASED WITH THE SOUTH.

Eastern Capitalists Investigating Its Resources for Cotton Manufacture.

The distinguished party of New York bankers, merchants and manufacturers who have been making a tour of the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, have returned home.

One of the party, S. M. Milliken, of New York, said, speaking of the result of their investigations: "We have found the south a very inviting field for investment in the matter of cotton affairs. You have the cotton at your very doors, and your labor is not so well employed as in the east. Besides this, your labor is the home article, and therefore more contented, more tractable, and we have found, too, that your labor is willing to work for reasonable pay."

Mr. Milliken thought the result of their visit would be more money expended in cotton mills in the states visited.

CUBANS TAKE GUISA VILLAGE.

Their Artillery Destroyed Several Block Houses.

The insurgent generals, Rabi and Salvador Rios, besieged the village of Guisa, about fifteen miles from Bayamo. Their artillery destroyed several block houses, killing the military commander and one lieutenant. The garrison, after having lost fifty soldiers killed and wounded, surrendered.

The insurgents plundered the stores, securing rich booty, two months' supplies, a good quantity of ammunition and two hundred rifles. The Spanish have sent re-enforments to retake the town.

TRADE IS MUCH STRONGER.

Exports of Corn and Wheat Almost at Record-Breaking Point.

WOOLEN INDUSTRY PUTS ITSELF FORWARD

Wages Have Been Advanced For Nearly Thirty Thousand Workers in Woolen and Iron--Failures Heavy For the Week Just Ended.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The monthly report of failures shows defaulted liabilities of $11,610,195 in November, against $12,700,856 last year. Because of three large failures for $3,250,000, not due to present conditions, the aggregate for November was only $1,100,000 less than last year and except for these would have been smaller than in August, September or October. The decrease in nearly all branches of business shows that payments have been remarkably good and defaults unusually small. Other evidences of the state of business are convincing except in speculative lines. Wages have been voluntarily advanced for nearly 30,000 workers in woolen and iron. Stocks also are stronger, having risen $1.87 for railways and $1.57 for trusts. The true value of the American railway stock is steadily rising with earnings which for November thus far are 20.9 per cent larger than last year and 3.7 per cent in the same weeks of 1892.

It is the season for waiting in most industries, but at least one other furnace has gone into blast and the lowest price of Bessemer at Pittsburg, after purchases of 30,000 tons, is $10.15 per ton, with $9.25 for Grey Forge.

The voluntary advance of 20 per cent in wages of worsted workers at Providence, restoring the rates of 1893, is evidence of the prosperity of that manufacture. After much hesitancy has been exhibited which may be justified, the woolen industry puts itself to the front, virtually declaring its ability to face any foreign competition. The purchases of Australian wool at Boston have again been large, 2,365,000 pounds out of 6,170,700 pounds of all-wool at the three chief markets, against 8,810,800 pounds for the same week last year. But other markets are extremely quiet, and Boston is doing the selling at prices not named.

The low price of cotton still hinders much activity in cotton goods. Still lower prices than ever have been known resulted in print cloths, and also in some grades of prints, and the market for cotton goods is markedly lower. The price of cotton is dropping in the face of an enormous foreign demand, just when an advance might be expected.

In the long run the outward flow of grain will affect prices, though the receipts show a much greater yield than had been expected. So the receipts of cotton from plantations exceed those from date of the great crop of 10,000,000 bales in 1894 tend to check speculation.

Failures for the week have been 356 for the United States, against 379 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 55 last year.

GOV. O'FERRALL ON LYNCHING.

He Suggests Remedies in His Message to the Virginia Assembly.

In his message to the general assembly which convened last week Governor O'Ferrall discusses the lynching question and proposes legislation to correct the evil. He urges that a heavy pecuniary penalty be imposed on each county and city in which a lynching occurs; that wherever the military may be called out to protect a prisoner in a county or city such county or city be charged with the expenses thereof and that officers who allow prisoners to be taken from their custody without first having exhausted all possible means to protect their prisoners, be summarily suspended until the question of their dismissal shall be determined by a jury.

How Atlanta Grows.

Permits have been granted in Atlanta this year for the investment of about $1,786,000 in buildings. The permits which will be issued this month will probably run the total up to about $1,800,000.

Twenty Congressional Contests.

The clerk of the house of representatives has received notices of twenty contests to be made in the next house. The report will be presented to the house on Monday next and affects Alabama as follows :

Second district—T. H. Clark, national democrat, versus J. S. Stallings, democrat.

Third district—G. L. Comer, national democrat, versus Henry D. Clayton, democrat.

Fourth district—W. F. Aldrich, populist, versus Thomas Plowman, democrat.

Fifth district—T. H. Goodwin, populist, versus William Brewer, democrat

INTERNAL REVENUE FIGURES.

Over Two Thousand Illicit Distilleries Destroyed During the Year.

In his annual report to the secretary of the treasury Mr. Forman, commissioner of internal revenue, estimates the receipts from all sources for the current fiscal year will aggregate at least $155,000,000, an increase over 1897 of about $8,300,000.

A comparative statement of the receipts during the last fiscal year is given in part as follows:

Spirits, $82,008,542; license over 1896, $1,338,472.

Tobacco, $30,710,297, decrease, $1,231.

Fermented liquors, $32,472,162; decrease, $1,312,072.

The cost of the collection of the revenue during the last fiscal year was $3,848,469.

During the year 2,241 illicit stills were destroyed and thirty-two were removed, 1,892 persons were arrested, one killed and three wounded. Of the stills seized and destroyed 228 were located in Alabama, 841 in Georgia, 463 in North Carolina, 149 in South Carolina and 182 in the Sixth Virginia district. During the last year ten officers were killed and sixteen wounded by moonshiners.

WOMEN GOING KLONDYKE.

Mrs. Hannis Gould, of Macon, Ga., Will Lead Females to the Gold Fields.

Mrs. Hannis S. Gould, a prominent Georgia woman, will undertake next spring to lead a colony of one hundred women in the Klondyke regions of Alaska.

It seems that Mrs. Gould has not determined, however, to take the women to the Klondyke with a view to making a fortune by digging gold. She has set out for the sole purpose of planting a woman colony there, and it is her plan to find employment for the women as cooks, seamstresses, trained nurses and housekeepers. Of course if any of them want to take up the pick and shovel and go to digging gold, it is not at all likely that Mrs. Gould will prevent them from this work.

DESTITUTION IN PINAR DEL RIO.

Thirty-four Thousand Concentradoes Now on the Charity of Spain.

Senor Canalejes, the special commissioner of the Spanish government, has returned to Havana from his visit to the province of Pinar del Rio. He says there are 34,000 "concentrado" peasants gathered in that country and in the neighborhood of towns for protection from insurgents or to prevent them from joining the enemy, and that they are all in want. Of this number 15,000 are orphans and the majority are children of tender years. The municipal authorities, the commissioner says, are without resources, and therefore unable to do anything to relieve the destitution.

Germany's Demands Upon Hayti.

The exact nature of Germany's demands on Hayti became known for the first time Thursday. The demands are as follows:

1. An indemnity of $20,000 (American) for Emil Lueders.

2. The promise that Mr. Lueders may return to Hayti, and there sojourn without danger of any kind.

3. A letter to my government in which you will express apology for the proceedings towards the German government in the whole transaction.

4. That the president of Hayti shall graciously receive the German charge d'ffaires at Port au Prince.

It was also announced that if indemnity was not given a warship would be sent or diplomatic relations be broken.

Medical College Burned.

Friday the Tennessee Medical college, located near Knoxville, was discovered on fire, and on account of poor protection it burned slowly to the ground. The college was one of the best institutions in the South and was well attended. The building cost $25,000, and was comparatively new. The owners, who are physicians, claim that the contents were worth $125,000. The insurance carried was only $10,000.

Justice Field is Out.

Justice Field's retirement from the supreme court, of which he gave official notice to the president last April, took place Thursday. If Justice Field had continued in office until next Tuesday he would have seen forty-four years of continuous service.

Atlanta's New Paper.

An application has been filed in Atlanta for the incorporation of the Phoenix Publishing Company. Among the incorporators are G. S. Appleton, of the Appleton Publishing Company, of New York, and D. R. Morgan, a son of J. Pierpont Morgan, of the same city. The capital stock is placed at $200,000, with the privilege of increasing it to $1,000,000. They ask the privilege of publishing an afternoon, Sunday morning and weekly newspaper in Atlanta. They ask the right, if deemed advisable, to publish a daily morning paper, and to establish agencies and branches in other places in Georgia and in other States.

THE SOUTH'S PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South for the Week Just Ended.

Among the most important new industries for the week ending December 4, The Tradesman reports the following: The Southern Bridge & Construction Co., capital, $25,000, Houston, Tex.; electric light plants at Thomaston, Ga., Donaldsonville, La., and Marion, Va.; large flouring mills at Sweet Home, N. C., Clover, S. C., and Lebanon and Rogana, Tenn.; the Carolina Ice Co., capital, $10,000, Wilmington, N. C., and the Dallas Ice Factory, Light & Power Co., capital, $199,000, at Dallas, Texas. The Chattanooga Roofing & Paving Co., will erect a $12,000 plant at Atlanta, Ga.; the Switzer Co., capital, $15,000, will build an oil mill at Columbia, S. C., and W. F. Thompson another at Devine, Texas. The Southern Sugar Refining Co., capital, $1,000,000, has been chartered at Richmond, Va., and the Southeastern Extension Cotton Mill Co., capital, $10,000, at Portsmouth, Va. Two extensive cotton mill plants will be put in near Thomaston, Ga., and a $10,000 tobacco manufacturing company has been organized at Lynchburg, Va. A $20,000 box and package factory will be built at Memphis, Tenn., a $5,000 furniture factory at Winston-Salem, N. C., and other woodworking plants will be established at Hartselle and Woodstock. Ala., Liberty, Ky., Dillton, Tenn., Corsicana, Tex., and Big Stone Gap, Va.

CONTINUALLY "ON TAP."

Central America to the Front With Another Revolution.

The latest mail from Guatemala conveys the information that President Barrios is threatened with another uprising. Advices have been received at the capital of the Central American Republic to the effect that conspirators are at work in the northern part of the country, close to the Mexican border, and are being aided by political enemies of Barrios in the eastern departments of the government. Behind the movement is said to be Gen. Castillo, who participated in the recent uprising.

Novel and Fearful.

Miss Bertie Wilson, of South Manchester, Ky., 16 years of age, met with a novel and fearful accident the past week. She was sitting in front of a coal stove, making a drawing, her head bent low, when, quick as a lightning flash, her celluloid comb caught fire. The blaze at once enveloped her head. She ran screaming into the dining room. Her father happened to be in and, keeping his presence of mind, seized a bucket of water and poured it over the girl's head. The flames were stopped, but not before all her hair was burned off and a large section of the scalp injured. Her clothing also ignited and her arms, back and shouldsrs were badly burned.

Awful Conditions in Cuba.

A consular officer in Cuba writes the state department, that no less than 150,000 of the peasantry of the interior, who were concentrated in the coast towns, have died of hunger and exposure, mostly old men, women and children. He says the remnant left alive, are helpless and hopeless. Their homes were long ago reduced to heaps of cinders and ashes. Their fields are wastes. If they are returned to whence they were driven by Weyler, they must starve, for they have neither seed, nor animals, nor strength of their own, with which to begin anew.

Corner in Wheat.

It has been reported at the chamber of commerce at Minneapolis, Minn., that the Peavey Elevator Companies have made a combine with the Pillsbury Companies, and secured control of not only the wheat in Minneapolis but all the wheat stored in the elevators throughout the Northwest.

Pillsbury recently predicted that wheat would go to $1.50, and this is consistent with the rumor of the corner.

Three Points Settled.

The Georgia legislature has practically settled three of the most important phases of the convict problem. They are: The State shall lease out all able-bodied convicts. It shall have supervision over all misdemeanor convicts, and shall establish a farm for all women, juvenile and infirm convicts.

Germany's Threats.

The semi-official Post says: "Should Hayti refuse the German demands for an indemnity on account of the alleged illegal arrest and imprisonment of Herr Lueders, a German subject, sharp measures will follow. We shall first bombard the coast forts, and if they are persistent we shall bombard Port au Prince and the government buildings."

Endorsed the Chicago Platform.

The North Carolina Democratic State committee, which held a session at Raleigh the past week, reaffirmed the the Chicago and State platforms of last year.

BILL ARP'S WEEKLY LETTER.

PRESENCE OF BURGLARS IN TOWN DISTRESS THE PHILOSOPHER.

TRAMPS ARE ADEPTS AT THIEVING.

The Discussion of Co-Education Elicits Some Very Timely and Well-Intended Remarks.

"Hark, hark, the dogs do bark;
The burglars have come to town."

For 15 years this has been an orderly, peaceable and honest town. Ever since the saloons were abolished there has been no disturbance of the public tranquility. During all that time our doors have not been locked at night nor has our chicken roost been robbed by the fowl invader. The presence of our faithful dog may have been our protection, for there have been some few chickens stolen in these parts. Our neighbor, Charley Patterson, suffered some in that way until he bought the old gallows on which a man was hung a few years ago and built a chicken house of the timber. Since then he can hardly get a darky to put chickens in it by day, much less to take them out by night. But our negroes in and around Cartersville are a clever, industrious people and as honest as mankind are generally. The domestic servants will take some liberties with little things that they think we won't miss, but they have many good traits that are a set-off, and so we compromise on general principles.

But now the burglars have come to town and alarmed the whole community. I believe they come from up north where every bad thing comes from, even to bad weather. The other day a tramp came to our house and asked for something to eat. He was fairly good looking and well dressed. My wife got him a lunch and asked him where his home was, and where he was going. He smiled and said he had no home and was raised in an orphan asylum up north and was going to Atlanta in search of work.

"How do you travel," said she, "if you have no money?"

"Well, I ride on the freights until they put me off," he said, "and then I wait for another one and ride some I am just taking a little trip now more to see the country."

There were two of these fellows in town and they took the rounds asking for something to eat and always got it. My opinion is that they are professional thieves and their purpose in calling at so many houses is to prospect the premises. The night after they were at our house burglars entered four houses and stole money. They took $90 from under a sleeping man's pillow and smaller sums from the pockets of other men. A few nights after they entered three houses and took a fine gold watch from under a banker's pillow and the next night a watch and some money at another place. They take no clothing nor anything to eat. They are white folks, I tell you, and are experts in their business.

Well, of course, the whole community is aroused and especially the women. My wife is not a timid woman. She is more afraid of snakes than of men, but she, too, got alarmed and made me get the hammer and the screwdriver and some bolts and nails and fix up every door and window. She held the lamp and watched me all round from room to room, and I mashed a great blood blister on my finger and it hurts yet. When all was done to her satisfaction and we got ready to retire, she suddenly told me not to lock the back hall door, for Uncle Sam had to come in there in the morning to make a fire. Considerate woman! She knew that I didn't like to get up out of a warm bed to unlock the door. Reckon she thinks the burglars wouldn't be so impolite as to come in at the back door. Bet they don't get any watch from under my pillow, for I haven't got any. Forty years ago they got mine just that way in old Dr. Thompson's hotel in Atlanta, and I have never carried one since. They got my pocketbook, too, and a little money and some valuable papers. They were from up north and were very clever men, considering, for in about a week they sent me all my papers back through the mail and the letter was postmarked Philadelphia. They will give a man back everything they can't use. Bill Fort told me that they were a kind-hearted set of thieves and he had known them to lean over and kiss a sleeping man after they had robbed him.

No, it is white folks who are stealing these valuable things. Negroes haven't got above chickens and turkeys yet. I heard the other day of an old darky who prayed every night during Christmas for the Lord to send a turkey to him, but the turkey didn't come, and so he changed his prayer and asked the Lord to send him to a turkey and his prayer was answered that very night. A negro don't hanker after gold watches. He wants something to eat.

But now I want to know what is all this racket about that they call co-education. I thought it was just another fad and would soon pass away, but it seems to get bigger and bigger the more they talk about it. One would think there were no female colleges in the land and that the boys were getting all the education when the truth is there are more educational facilities for girls in this state than for boys. I don't know what it all means. Do the girls want to mix with the boys and improve them and be inspired by them? Then why should not the boys claim a similar privilege and go to the female colleges and to the girls' industrial school at Milledgeville? If we are going to bunch, let us bunch the whole concern and include the agricultural attachments and let the girls do some plowing if they want to. But I reckon its just the new woman who is contending for the abstract right to go to the university. Of course they won't go, for their fathers won't let them as long as the female colleges are open at Macon and Athens and LaGrange and Decatur and Rome and other places. There is plenty of education for them there without the co-. The best mothers, I know, never got higher than a high school and the best co-education is for the girls to get married young and go to raising children and chickens. If they do that diligently, they will learn enough in a lifetime and be as happy as their college-bred daughters. I've never been entirely satisfied that such obstruse sciences as chemistry, astronomy, ricgonometry, fluxions, calculus, Greek, rhetoric and logic were of any use to the average boy, much less to the girls. I went to college and my wife didn't, and I have to take a back seat now sometimes. I married her when she was only sixteen. but if she had spent four years in college she would have been so smart she wouldn't have had me, and I reckon I wouldn't have had her, for no prudent young man will marry a girl who is smarter than he is—it is dangerous. Pick out your girl and take her young and co-educate her yourself.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

Cuban Presid nt and Cabinet Elected.

Consul-General Lee has informed the state department that the insurgents in Cuba elected and installed, at Yaza, Porto Principe, on October 20, the following officers: President, Bartolo Masso; Vice-President, Domingo Meudez Capote; Secretary of War, Jose B. Aleman; Secretary of the Treasury, Earnisto Font Sterling; Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Andres Moreno de la Torre; Secretary of Interior, Manuel R. Silva; General in Chief, Maximo Gomez; Lieutenant General, Calixto Garcia.

Debarred From the Mails.

The postoffice department is taking a firm stand against the so-called "missing letter" and "missing word" contests which are being inducted by a number of publishers to increase the subscriptions of their papers. All newspapers and periodicals containing advertisements of this character are forbidden transmission in the mails. This law, it is now announced at the postoffice department, will be applied to all schemes which are violations of the law, or in which advertisements of them are published.

Fire Adds to Distress.

News has been received of a terrible fire which occurred at Jaruco, a town of about 10,000 inhabitants, in Havana province. About 110 houses were destroyed, with nearly all their contents. No accurate estimate of the amount of damage can be made. Hundreds of families have been rendered homeless and the situation at Jaruco is very distressing. The fire originated in an accident.

Dauntless Lands a Big Cargo.

The filibustering steamer Dauntless arrived in port at Jacksonville, Fla., Friday, after having successfully landed another expedition in Cuba. The Dauntless is reported to have landed a large cargo, in which was a twelve-pound Hotchkiss gun. A large quantity of quinine was also landed for the insurgents.

Government Will Make a Bid.

The government has fully decided to qualify as a bidder at the sale of the Kansas Pacific railroad on December 16th next, in case of the failure of the reorganization committee to guarantee the government what is regarded as a fair and just figure for its interests. Whether the president and the attorney general, however, will exact the full amount of the government's claim of approximately $13,000,000 is not known. It is learned that some days ago the reorganization committee submitted a proposition which was positively declined.

Governor Griggs to be Attorney General.

It is stated that the position of attorney general, to succeed Mr. McKenna, who will be nominated to the supreme bench to succeed Justice Field, has been offered to Governor Griggs, of New Jersey, and that he has consented to accept.

Daniel Will Succeed Himself.

The Virginia democratic legislative caucus nominated Hon. John W. Daniel to succeed himself in the United States senate.

A WEEK'S NEWS IN ALABAMA

Commissioner Culver Calls on the Farmers to Organize.

ENTIRE FAMILY MURDERED IN HALE COUNTY

Successful Still Raids in Cleburne—The Coal Output for the Year—Federal Grand Jury Makes a Sensational Charge—Other News Notes.

Commissioner of Agriculture Culver has issued a letter to the farmers and land of Alabama calling upon them to meet with him to organize an agricultural society for the purpose of advancing the agricultural interests of the State.

He calls attention to the low price of cotton, which has existed several years, and says at the present rate the farmers will soon be in bankruptcy. He recommends planting a diversity of crops and reducing the acreage of cotton. An agricultural society, composed of practical farmers, could be of great advantage to the farming industry, as each member's experience would be helpful to the others.

Mr. Culver requests that five or six representative men from each county meet him at the State capitol Wednesday, January 12, for the purpose of organizing the society and perfecting plans for the organization of counties and precincts. The probate judges will be asked to assist in the selection of these delegates. He asks that all citizens, whether farmers or not, assist in the proposed plan.

ENTIRE FAMILY MURDERED.

Details of a Foul Crime Committed Near Greensboro.

John Singly, his wife and their 12-year-old son were murdered Wednesday night eight miles north of Greensboro hy a negro named Bill Scott.

After the deed Scott entered their home, and breaking open a drawer, secured $700 in money and made his escape.

Mrs. Singly and her son died instantly, but Mr. Singly lived until 2 p. m. Thursday and told the story of the crime and the name of the negro who committed the deed.

Scott induced Singly, upon some pretense, to go a short distance up the road with him, and then knocked Singly down with a stick and cut his throat. He then went to the house, brained the mother and son, cut their throats, procured $700 from a drawer and made his escape.

Citizens have offered a reward of $500 for Scott's capture, and the governor will be asked to offer a like amount.

STILLS RAIDED IN CLEBURNE.

Three Stills Destroyed, But the Operators Escaped Officers.

Internal Revenue Collector J. F. Creen has just finished a tour of Cleburne county and succeeded in destroying three flourishing illicit stills. They were situated as follows:

Five miles southeast of Jenkins: One forty-gallon still, copper worm, flake stands and 400 gallons of beer were destroyed.

Three miles southeast of Grantly: One forty-gallon wood still, four fermenters, 500 gallons of beer and a lot of tools were destroyed.

Three miles northeast of Grantley: One forty-five gallon copper still, wood cap, flake stand, eight fermenters and 700 gallops of beer were destroyed.

The combined capacity of the three plants was about forty gallons of whisky per day. No arrests were made. The operators apparently got wind of the fact that the officers were in the vicinity and kept out of sight.

A abama Coal Output.

The output of coal in Alabama during the year 1897 will exceed that of 1896 by a couple of hundred thousand tons. This is the surmise of State Mine Inspector James D. Hillhouse.

Speaking of the report, Mr. Hillhouse stated: "I believe the output this year will reach the 6,000,000 tons mark. It will exceed last year's output by at least 200,000 tons. The output last year was something over 5,700 000. The six million mark would have been increased by several hundred thousand tons if the lay-off on the part of the miners during the summer had not occurred. Since that time the output at the various mines in the state has been enormous. The first part of the year shows a large output also."

Official Scandal Refuted by the Court.

In the United States court at Birmingham Thursday nine cases against W. H. Hunter, three cases against Sandy White, six cases against C. C. Reid and one case against W. C. Reid for presenting false claims to the government were nol prossed and dismissed from the docket. These cases grew out of an investigation instituted some years ago resulting from a report of a United States grand jury.

KEEN TO KEEP HIS OFFICE.

The Postmaster at Mobile Refuses to Turn Office Over to His Successor.

The newly appointed postmaster, P. D. Barker, republican, has in vain endeavored to obtain possession of the postoffice at Mobile from Postmaster Rapier, democrat. The latter's attorneys have raised an entirely new point of law, which Inspector Tate says has never been raised in his experience. Postmaster Rapier's commission expires in December, 1898. Mr. Barker was appointed by President McKinley in October last.

Mr. Rapier has had no notice of his removal, although Inspector Tate served upon him telegraphic instructions from Postmaster General Gary saying Rapier should acknowledge Barker's commission as notice of removal, no other notice being customary with the department.

Mr. Rapier's attorneys hold that the language of the statute relating to postmasters of the first class is special; that it provides that the president shall appoint and may remove such officers by and with the advice of the senate. Consequently, as Mr. Rapier's commission had not expired, and Mr. Barker's appointment has not been confirmed by the senate, nor Mr. Rapier's removal confirmed by the same body, Rapier is still postmaster.

AS A COTTON MARKET

Birmingham Will Have a Place Among the Great Centers.

Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, has written the Commercial club of Birmingham that if statistics on cotton receipts are regularly furnished him that Birmingham will be listed on the exchange among the interior towns. These statistics will be furnished by the local cotton buyers, who have also been in correspondence with Secretary Hester, and henceforth Birmingham will be known as a great cotton market, as well as the leading iron, coal and industrial market of the south. The cotton receipts this year will probably reach 150,000 bales, which will give Birmingham about fifth place among the interior towns of the south. If the increase continues at the same ratio, in the next few years as it has in the past. Birmingham will rank even higher.

Announced His Candidacy.

Hon. L. W. Hunter, of Lowndes county, late receiver of public moneys under the Cleveland administration, has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for state commissioner of agriculture.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

An ice plant is being erected at Daphne.

A foundry and machine shop will be erected at LaFayette.

The Florence Buggy Company has asked for a receiver.

Lauderdale's cotton crop this year will exceed that of list by 25 per cent.

A branch station of the United States weather bureau has been located in Ashville, and they get daily reports on the weather.

An issue of $10,000 for 6 per cent twenty-year city of Huntsville bonds has been sold to Rudolph Kley, Bolt & Co., of Cincinnati, for $10,926. The city will devote this sum to street improvements.

The Bell Telephone Company has had estimates made on a line from Anniston to Birmingham and will go to work at once to make this extension of its line. It will also extend its line from Anniston to Atlanta.

The gin of James Wilder, of Blue Pond, was totally destroyed by fire, together with four bales of seed cotton, three bales already ginned, and 2,600 bushels of cotton seed. It is supposed to have been the work of incendiaries.

The result of the late election in the Second regiment, Alabama National Guard, has at last been announced. Adjutant-General Ligon issued an order announcing the unanimous election of Tom O. Smith, of Birmingham, as major of the regiment.

The state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which was postponed on account of the epidemic, has served notice that the meeting will be held at New Decatur in the latter part of this month. The session will last one week.

Refugee and Military Camp Suggested.

Governor Johnston has made a suggestion which will likely be received in the State with a good deal of favor. It is briefly this: That the State establish, at some central point, a permanent combination State encampment ground and refugee camp. It is estimated that this can be easily done at a cost of $10,000.

The governor has not defined in his own mind all of the details of the scheme, but his idea appears to be to locate some entirely desirable place, build three commodious and permanent cooking houses, storage rooms, etc., and to provide and keep stored away on the premises tents sufficient to accommodate some 30,000 people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 12.

Lesson Text: "Paul's Last Words," II Tim. iv., 1-8, 16, 18—Golden Text: II Tim. vi., 7—Commentary on the Lesson by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

1. "I charge thee therefore God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead, and by His appearing and His kingdom." These are some of the last words of Paul by the Spirit to Timothy, his dearly beloved son in the faith (chapter i., 2), of whom he said that he had no man so dear unto him (Phil. ii., 20, margin). He had been urging him to be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus; to endure hardness as a good soldier and please Him who had chosen him; to study to show himself approved unto God.

2. "Preach the word. Be instant in season, out of season. Reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine." In chapter iii., 16, 17, he had said that all Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works, and now he extorts him to use that word faithfully, the word which he had known from childhood (iii., 15). Paul teaches to hold fast the faithful word (Titus i., 9); to hold forth the word of life (Phil. ii., 16), and to rightly divide the word of truth (II Tim. ii., 15).

3. "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears." How long we have already been in those times I cannot say, but that we are in them no one can question. Lovers of self, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof (chapter iii., 1-4), are things too plainly seen. Some men who have the rule in church affairs do not hesitate to ask for pastors who will give them the thought of the age rather than the word of God, and there are pastors who are more ready to please the people than to preach the preaching which God bids them. False prophets as in the olden time.

4. "And they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables." Then because they receive not the love of the truth that they might be saved, God shall send them strong delusion that they should believe a lie that they all might be judged who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness (II Thess. ii., 10-12). It is surely a woeful sight to see large congregations gather to listen to those who discard portions of the word of God and call other portions myths.

5. "But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry." There is no pattern for a minister or evangelist but the Lord Jesus Himself. He was filled with the Spirit, led by the Spirit, spoke the words which the Father told Him and did always those things which pleased the Father (John xii., 49; viii., 29). When He suffered, He said, "Even so, Father," and He finished the work which the Father gave Him to do (Math. xi., 26; John xvii., 4).

6. "For I am now ready to be offered and the time of my departure is at hand." Long before this He had said, "I am ready—not to be bound only, but also to die for the name of the Lord Jesus" (Acts xxi., 13). It was His constant desire that Christ should be magnified in His body whether by life or death (Phil. i., 20). He knew that to die would be gain and to be with Christ would be very far better (Phil. i., 21, 23). But now He seemed sure that He was soon going home. He speaks of it as His departure. The body would die, the tabernacle be taken down, but he, Paul, the person in the body, would depart to be with Christ, and would be absent from the body and present with the Lord.

7. "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith." It is the fight of faith, and the life of faith, and the walk of faith (I Tim. vi., 12; Gal. ii., 20; Col. ii., 6). It is believing God all the way through and all that He has said. As Paul put it elsewhere, "Believing all things that are written in the law and in the prophets" (Acts xxiv., 14). It is not a faith that can ever be made to suit the times. As Dr. Weston says, "If Christ taught as many teach He would never have been crucified for it." We must earnestly contend for the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints, and remember that Paul said, "If any one, even an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel, let him be accursed" (Jude iii.; Gal. i., 8, 9).

8. "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day, and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing." Crowns, as I understand it, are rewards for service to be given to those who earn them, that they may have somewhat to cast at His feet in that day (Rev. iv., 10). They are not given to us when we die, but only at the appearing of our Lord at the resurrection of the just (Luke xiv., 14; I Pet. v., 4; Rev. xxii., 12). I have often referred to the other four to be given to the faithful for four distinct kinds of service, but this one is for those who in all their service carry with them a certain attitude of soul—viz, loving His appearing. When He comes to the air for His people, I firmly believe that every saint will meet Him, but many may be ashamed and many receive no crowns (I John ii., 28; I Cor. iii., 14, 15).

16. "At my first answer no man stood with me, but all forsook me." To stand alone for the right is intimate fellowship with our Lord, who said to the eleven, "Ye shall be scattered and shall leave Me alone, and yet I am not alone, for the Father is with Me" (John xvi., 32). David was awfully alone when his faithful 600 turned against him and talked of stoning him, he being at the time in like painful circumstances with themselves, but it is written that David encouraged himself in the Lord his God (I Sam. xxx., 6).

17. "Nothwithstanding the Lord stood with Me and strengthened me, that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the gentiles might hear, and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion." He hath said I will never leave thee nor forsake thee, so that we may boldly say the Lord is my helper (Heb. xiii., 5, 6). Happy are those who can say from the heart, "Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid, for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song." (Isa. xii., 2).

18. "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work and will preserve me unto His heavenly kingdom, to whom, be glory for ever and ever. Amen." Yet in the face of this and Phil. i., 6, and II Tim. i., 12, and similar strong assurances, there are those who insist that Paul feared lest after all he might be lost. Perish the thought that any true child of God can ever perish!—Lesson Helper.

A Sheriff Resigns.

George F. Hart, sheriff of Covington county, has sent his resignation to the governor. It is understood that Hart surrendered the place because he could not give satisfaction.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

NEWTON & CARRUTHERS, Proprietors.
A. S. CARRUTHERS, Editor.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday. Dec. 9, 1897.

SALUTATORY.

It is customary for the new occupant of an editorial chair, the chair in this case being an empty dry-goods box, to take the public into his confidence as to his views and purposes; so I conform to custom.

I have been in the past, am now and always shall be an ardent bimetallist. I believe that instead of retiring the $356,000,000. of greenbacks now in circulation, more should be issued as the population and volume of trade increase. I believe in a tariff on the necessaries of the people sufficiently high to maintain the wages of the American workingmen who manufacture them, but no more; while on the foreign made luxuries of the idle rich a prohibitory tariff should be levied. On minor questions, as they may arise, I shall express my honest opinion.

My immediate and chief purpose is the upbuilding of the town of Montevallo and the Girls' Polytechnic Institute, which adorns it. Governor Johnston said to me the other day that within five years from now that school would accommodate and have one thousand pupils. In that event, Montevallo will have a population of five thousand at the expiration of five years.

I wish every one resident in the country tributary to Montevallo to know that his visits and his news will always be alike welcome at this office.

I desire no subscription from anyone who "simply subscribes to keep up the paper," nor any advertisement from anyone who does not believe his expenditure will bring him adequate returns.

I ask appreciation of all in this paper that is worthy, and outspoken condemnation of whatever may be unworthy.

A. S. CARRUTHERS.

If you cannot speak well of another, say nothing evil.

Petty jealousies are out of place in a community striving to grow.

General Miles asks for more soldiers. He had better acquire some horse sense first.

Whiskey is not needed in Montevallo. The fresh mountain air is sufficiently stimulating.

The public did not name Cleveland's son correctly, but they know what to call his father.

Why not complete the incorporation of Montevallo? Incorporation is invariably a sign of progress.

The gold "Democrats" are wailing because the silver Democrats will not let the financial question sleep. No wonder!

Tennyson's dream of a female educational paradise will be realized when 1,000 fair maidens answer the call of the college bell.

Those who are selling their cotton for 5 cents take some comfort in the thought that every cotton producing State voted for Bryan and 10 cent cotton.

In several places in this issue, periods usurp the place of commas. The paper is short on commas, but long on periods. Next week they will be at a parity.

If some men spent as much time attending to their own affairs as they devote to those of others, they would find that their increased business would permit them no time for gossiping.

It is gratifying to know that farmers in the Birmingham district realize that better prices are paid in Montevallo than in the Magic City for cotton, and are marketing their product here.

The Montgomery Advertiser has gone into ecstacies over what it styles "The vindication of Grover Cleveland's wisdom."

Pray when did Grover Cleveland acquire any wisdom?

Well, it is time for the howling law and order people of the North to come down and attend to the negroes. Three of them lynched one of their own race the other day.—Columbiana Chronicle.

Mr. J. L. Peters is the candidate of Shelby's democracy for circuit judge, and they want him to win and will exert themselves to the accomplishment of so desirable a result.—Shelby Sentinel.

A young lady found a purse in church and notified the pastor that she had it, so if anyone reported the loss it could be returned. The next Sunday the clergyman made the following announcement from the pulpit: "Someone lost a purse last Sunday evening, and if the owner wants his property he can go to Helen Hunt for it."—Greensboro Watchman.

If the arrogant gold-bugs persist in their plan to place a life-size golden statute of Mark Hanna's puppet, McKinley, in the American court at the Paris exposition, the advocates of silver should raise a popular subscription and place beside it a silver statute of W. J. Bryan. The latter would have less intrinsic value, but would be the more handsome of the two.

President McKinley's message to Congress is just what might have been expected from a man who was elected to office by a combination of trusts and monopolies, and over whose head hangs like the sword of Damocles an uncancelled debt of $118,000. He evades the Cuban question, hedges on civil service reform, advises retirement of the greenbacks, praises the late useless monetary commission and only shows any American spirit in his recommenation that Hawaii be annexed. McKinley was an honest man, although mistaken on the tariff question, before his financial necessities made him the debtor and puppet of the soulless Mark Hanna. He must be tolerated until March, 1901, but is more to be pitied than execrated.

SEVEN POINTERS.

Rogan's for toys,
Rogan's for dolls,
Rogan's for fruits,
Rogan's for fireworks,
Rogan's for X'mas presents,
Rogan's for holiday goods,
Rogan's for china and glass ware.

New Orleans new crop molasses just received. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds.

The long looked for bill of the Christmas presents at Crowe and Co.'s store has arrived, so the girls can secure the articles they selected.

GIRLS' POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE.

(Concluded from Page 1.)

The School's Eventful Day.

would go before the next legislature and ask an appropriation of $50,000 for the Girls' Industrial school

"Every night when I kneel to my Creator, I pray for the girls of the Industrial school," he concluded, and the girls clapped until their little hands must have been sore.

Gov. Johnston followed with a happy speech. He said that the school was his pet, and wished the people of Alabama to make it their pet and foster it.

Among other things he said, "I thought at dinner that all the pretty girls had been picked out to wait on the tables, but as I look into your faces I realize that there are no ugly girls here. Many of you are daughters of my personal friends, but now I regard each and every one of you as my friend. It is a pleasure for me to be here, and I hope and know that the institution will grow until it is indeed 'The Pride of Alabama.'

"The education of Alabama's girls is even more important to the State of Alabama than that of her boys, for men are like jay-birds—here today and gone to morrow, but women are here to stay and mould the minds of the next generation. Those here should not have as their sole purpose the obtaining of an education, but should leave the institution upon graduation with the idea of a great mission in life.

"Your president, Mr. Reynolds, has unselfishly and devotedly done a great and noble work with the limited means placed at his command, but more buildings and a gymnasium (applause) are needed, and if it lies in my power they shall be built.

"Be as active in your bodies as in your minds, and as lovely in your minds as in your bodies."

He concluded by saying with a humorous twinkle of his eye, "Some of the young ladies have testified their affection for me, and if the whole 338 wish to give me a similar token of affection, I am prepared to receive it."

His conclusion was greeted with much laughter and applause. after which the pupils marched out to the strains of music.

In conversation with the writer, Gov. Johnston afterwards stated that he was pleasingly surprised at the work accomplished by President Reynolds. He left shortly afterwards for Birmingham.

THE EVENING'S AMUSEMENT.

The school chapel was filled at 7.30 p. m. by an expectant throng. After all had joined in singing the national anthem, Miss Carrie Lum, who has a clear and sympathetic voice, sang "Snowflakes" very sweetly.

President Reynolds introduced Judge J. J. Banks as the lecturer of the evening, and stated that to the recently organized Nautilus club was due all credit for Judge Banks' visit.

Judge Banks lectured on Mexico, describing a trip which he had taken into that republic in 1895. His language was chaste and beautiful, verging upon poetry in some of his descriptions of scenery, and his account of a bull fight was so vivid that his auditors listened with bated breath. His semi-humorous, yet truthful story of a Mexican courtship witnessed by him was most interesting to the young ladies, and when he stated that the Mexican lover was not permitted a private interview with his inamorata until after marriage, some of the girls cried, "Oh, oh!" As a master of oratory Judge Banks proved himself the peer of any man in Alabama, and the long continued clapping with which his fair audience rewarded him must have pleased him exceedingly.

Miss Mamie Brown, who is one of the loveliest of Montevallo's lovely girls, looked in her pure white dress like a pearl as she sweetly sang, "Whisper and I shall hear."

The day of excitement and pleasure was concluded by a short speech from President Reynolds, in which he expressed his gratification at the enconiums bestowed upon the school by the trustees, and felicitated the pupils upon their excellent showing.

The young ladies, after shaking the hand of Judge Banks until he must have imagined himself Bryan, went to their several boarding-houses to enjoy pleasant dreams, leaving President Reynolds a proud and happy man.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Kate Campbell leads all the other ladies of Montevallo in the Age-Herald's voting contest.

The young ladies desiring heavier soles on their foot gear in this cold weather should call on Pynor, the shoemaker, Montevallo News building.

A card bearing the admonitory legend, "I am late," stood on the pulpit of Methodist church last Sunday. Misses Kate Campbell and Wilma Saunders appreciated its significance.

Misses Bernice and Annie Dickson returned on Dec. 4th to their home in Montgomery. Their departure is much regretted by the many friends which they made while here, especially by their associates in the Polytechnic club.

The pupils in the dressmaking department earned and collected for work done in the month of November the sum of $130.65, more than all paid for tuition in that department. The amounts received by the several girls ranged from 50 cents to $20. Considerable work is now being received from various parts of the State, including wedding dresses and other outfits.

The young ladies of the Girls' Polytechnic Institute are invited to subscribe for a copy of the Montevallo News, either for themselves or their friends at home. Subscriptions will be received by H. C. & W B. Reynolds, F. F. Crowe & Co., or at the Montevallo News office.

The girls have a new ditty which they sing at 5 p. m. The refrain is something like this:

"Are you coming home to eat?
Are you coming home to eat?
Are you coming home to supper,
There are biscuits, hash and meat;
Are you coming home to eat?
Are you coming home to eat?
To your ever welcome supper,
Are you coming home to eat?"

One would think that the postoffice had already been removed to the store of F. F. Crowe & Co., judging from the swarms of girls who visit it every evening. However, the sweet creatures are only attracted by the dainty Christmas presents which he exhibits, and which comprise the finest assortment of glassware, china ware and other nick-nacks ever brought to Montevallo. The girls may club together and buy one for the editor, if they please.

Girls, when you want to catch a train at Calera, go to Kroell's livery stable for a conveyance. Office at store. Special rates to school girls.

J. A. F. Pynor, shoemaker, who left Montevallo about six weeks since, has returned to his former love and has located in the same building as the Montevallo News, where he is in readiness to make and repair boots and shoes for every one who likes good foot gear.

Tennessee home made pork sausage always on hand. H. C. and W. B Reynolds.

A millinery department will soon be added to the curriculum of the school. This is a good move.

THEY ARE COMING!

As fast as trains can bring them from far-distant New York City, there are speeding to our store the choicest assortment of

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS!

EVER SEEN IN MONTEVALLO.

PLUSH GOODS OF EVERY KIND.

Toilet Sets, Handkerchief and Glove Boxes!

ALBUMS, ETC., ETC.

Do not be in a hurry to buy your Christmas gifts and then regret your haste. Our's will surpass all others.

WAIT AND SEE THEM.

OUR SPECIAL LINES:

FOR MEN.

Special for Christmas trade:

ALL WOOL SUIT..... $3.00

OVERCOATS. { A nice line especially cheap.

HATS, all makes, cheap.

SHOES, large variety, cheap.

FOR LADIES.

A new and special line of the latest style fur-trimmed and braided CAPES and CLOAKS will be here in a few days We will sell them cheap for the holiday trade.

DAINTY SHOES for pretty girls adorn our shelves, and would adorn young ladies' feet.

OUR REGULAR LINES:

We carry full lines of

GROCERIES, GLASS, CHINA AND TINWARE,

Cutlery, Fruits, Fancy Candies and Cigars!

Of the best quality and at the lowest prices.

Morgan Bros.,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

Local.

Read Morgan Bros.' new advertisement on page 5.

Extra low price on 3 lb. cans of tomatoes at Reynolds' store.

Captain H. C. Reynolds left for Washington, D. C., yesterday morning.

Kim, Burnett, the 'possum hunter, was buying X'mas presents last Tuesday.

For an ideal X'mas gift for your best friend, go to J. W. Martin, the jeweler.

Will Harrison says that "she" said last Sunday that he is a hot muck-a-dy-muck.

Harry Reynolds is suffering from a cold, but will be able to eat a whole turkey, at X'mas.

Mr. Fred Grove has a tale to tell about a cat, a tumble, three chairs and his wife. Ask him about it.

For choice Christmas presents, firewerks, dolls and other toys, candies and fruits, go to F. F. Crowe & Co.

A new livery stable will be started on January 1st by Messrs. L. N Bowdon and W. P. McConaughy, who are now purchasing horses, rigs, etc.

Big lot of after dinner coffee spoons—cheap. at J. W. Martin's.

The trustees complimented all employed at the school upon their work, but especially Mrs. Babb, Secretary Gibson, Prof. Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Farrington.

Just received—California canned goods. Finest ever brought to this market. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds.

Geo. Lawrence is confined to his bed with a bad cold, verging upon pneumonia. His brother, W. B Lawrence, of the Southern Railway. is here in attendance upon him.

Tennessee sugar cured hams, 9½ cents. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds.

The beautiful new residences of Messrs. H. C. Fancher and S. H. McCauley, now being erected in South Montevallo, are rapidly nearing completion.

F. F. Crowe & Co. have the largest and best assortment of fireworks, dolls and other toys, candies and fruit in Montevallo.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy has been returned to the Methodist church here by the District conference, This is a piece of news which will gladden the heart of every member of his congregation.

For the next two weeks we will sell choice of prints at 4½ cents per yard, number of yards limited to the customer. H. C. and W. B. Reynolds.

Fresh Jersey butter on hand at all times. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds.

PERSONALS.

Sallie:—Jim, here is 20 cents, bring me five spools of Coats' thread You will have to go to the Racket store, as they do not sell it that way any where else.

Mr and Mrs W B Reynolds left yesterday for Faunsdale to attend the wedding of Miss Minnie Walker, the lovely sister of Mrs Reynolds, to Mr George H McKee

ST. GEORGE HOTEL ARRIVALS

F. S. Rice, Birmingham.
E. B. Nelson, Columbiana.
W. E. North, Cincinnati.
A Goldman, New Orleans.
C. W. Hooper, Jr., Birmingham.
Simon Ashley, St. Louis.
S. B. Norton, St Louis.
A. A. Shulhafer, Atlanta.
J. Sistaunk, Jr., Atlanta.
Thos. Soby, Columbus. Ga.
T. A. Turner, Anniston
Henry Meyer, Selma, Ala.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

LANIER
BROOM
MFG. CO.
Blocton, Ala.
—Manufacturers of all kinds of—
BROOMS
—AND—
BRUSHES.
Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.
Write for Prices.
Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,
P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.
Will be in Montevallo Monday, Dec. 13, 1897, for several days, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. All work guaranteed. Teeth extracted without pain.

WANTED AGENTS.
"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War," just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen agents who are at work are making from $100 to $200 per month. Veterans, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, and others interested are requested to send for a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

W. L. PRATT,
Attorney at Law
BLOCTON, - - - Alabama.

CARY & LOVING,
Attorneys at Law,
Centreville and Montevallo. Will practice in all the courts of the state.

E. S LYMAN,
Attorney at Law,
MONTEVALLO, - - Alabama.

J. M. REYNOLDS,
Attorney at Law,
MONTEVALLO, - - Alabama.

LOGAN & GLOVER,
Attorneys at Law,
W. H. Logan, Blocton, Ala., Cato D. Glover, Centreville, Ala.

T. S. DARK,
Lawyer.
Collections made, remittances prompt. Reference. Blocton Savings' Bank.

Notice to the Public.
I PAY
The Highest Market Price
For——
Hides, Beeswax, Tallow and Furs of all description, all kinds of Country Produce
Bring your produce to me.
I also carry a nice line of
FAMILY GROCERIES
W. L. AMBROSE,
East Blocton

M. SHANNON,
—AGENT FOR THE—
American Tailors,
OF CHICAGO.
Suits Made to Order
Prices Low. Fits Guaranteed
Suits from $6 to $10
All Wool.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

B. W. WRENN, JR.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
COMMERCIAL LAW A SPECIALTY. ATLANTA, GEORGIA

GRAND Horse-Swapping Convention!
AND TURKEY -:- SHOOT!
AT
MONTEVALLO, -:- ALA.,
Saturday, December 18th, 1897.
Bring Your Plugs and Turkeys.
EVERYBODY INVITED.
Subscribe for Montevallo News. $1 a Year.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College
AND
COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!
Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.
It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.
It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.
It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:
HEALTHY LOCATION.
SPLENDID BUILDING.
GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.
FIVE INSTRUCTORS.
VERY REASONABLE TERMS.
For further information, address
J. M. COLLIER, President,
or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

ALWAYS -:- LEADING!
C. L. Meroney & Co.
Are the First in Public Improvements.
First in Lowering Prices to meet the Poor Man's Dollar!
And the last to raise prices on an advancing market.
We sell everything you want with but one motto:
Full Value for Every Cent You Spend With Us.
WE WANT YOUR TRADE.
Remember We Are in Our Handsome New Brick Store.
Yours to Please,
C. L. Meroney and Co.

Don't Eat Biscuits When You Can Get Good Bread.
BEST'S BAKERY
BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.
BEST
Bakes the BEST Bread!
ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.
Will Bake Anything to Order!
Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!
Don't Forget Best's Bakery!
Patronize Home Industry.

BOYS What sort of a start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.
YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places berging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. We prepare our students to fill the most responsible positions in counting-rooms and offices in from one-half to two-thirds the time required elsewhere. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE or the NEW YORK BUSINESS INSTITUTE, 81 E. 125th Street, New York, N. Y.
Don't throw away time and money by going to temporary schools when it will cost you less to attend the BEST. We always have a number of students in attendance who have left inferior teachers in disgust. Such people often tell us that six months here is equal to a year in any other school. Besides such schools rarely or never obtain positions for their graduates. We offer
$5 REWARD for first information of a vacancy for a Bookkeeper, Stenographer, Clerk or Telegraph Operator, which we successfully fill, and secure situations promptly for all graduates of Business and Shorthand courses. Refer to Bankers, Merchants and prominent patrons in almost every county in the United States. Thousands of testimonials on request. Students enter any time. No vacations. Expenses moderate. If you are seeking employment and willing to study send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. Address as above (mention this paper).
CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE and NEW YORK.

EMINENT PULPIT DIVINES.

Dr. Lewis, of Meriden, Conn., Discourses on "Burden Bearing."

A LESSON ON ORNITHOLOGY OF THE BIBLE

Drawn by Dr. Talmage—His Sermon an Extract from Christ's Sermon on the Mount—God Among the Fowls of the Air.

TEXT: "Bear ye one another's burdens."—Gal. vi., 2.

Every one is a burden bearer, having his load of want, suffering and responsibility.

Some appear so fortunate that we doubt whether they share in the sorrows of mankind. They have wealth, friends, health, wisdom and virtue. What can their burden be? They have at least a responsibility commensurate with their blessings; and, perhaps, if we knew more of their lives, seemingly so blessed, we would find that they also have a burden, all the heavier because borne in secret.

Men often think that if they could change their circumstances, even slightly, they would escape trouble, but this is an illusion. The sick recover health, the poor become rich, the lowly gain the coveted positions of honor, and their common testimony is that having gained these advantages their burdens are no less heavier. In fact, the normal condition of man is that of a burden bearer. We "are born into trouble as the sparks fly upward."

How can this fact of burden bearing be reconciled with our belief in a heavenly Father? Some contend that all suffering is due to sin; that if man had not sinned he would have had no burden. Jesus, however, repudiates this thought. For when the Jews asked Him: Who did sin, this man or his parents, that he was born blind? He answered, Neither. Much suffering comes indeed as the punishment of sin, but some suffering has its source in the exercise of our holiest affections, as that of a mother bearing the burden of an unfortunate or wayward child.

In seeking further for a solution to this problem we find that the really great men of the world bear its heaviest burdens, so that, it is said, "a man's greatness may be measured by his sufferings." Burden bearing enables a man to do two things—to test his strength and by using to increase it. And what splendid characters have thus been developed! Widows in poverty giving their all! Martyrs of the sick room showing marvelous patience! Heroes of the faith made such by their struggles with unbelief! Did not God intend such results? Then that is the reason why He sometimes lays on men such heavy burdens.

This leads up to the explanation of burden bearing suggested in the text—"Bear ye one another's burdens." The picture of the world's sorrow is very dark, but it has in it a bit of blue sky, through which faith looks up and beholds the eternal goodness.

Burdens are put upon men that they may help one another bear them. Without suffering how could we realize our dependence upon God or feel the need of human sympathy and love? No opportunity would be given to help a fellow man in trouble or to sigh in pity over misery beyond our relief.

Grant, then, that the chief reason why men have burdens is that they may help one another, how great is the duty laid upon us. In the fulfilment of that duty two ways are suggested. Those that are able may take the burden from weaker shoulders and bear it themselves. St. Paul says, "We that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak." Or strength may be given to those upon whom the burden is laid to bear it themselves. The latter is the more effective aid. A word of instruction, an act of kindness or an expression of sympathy is sometimes all that is needed.

A teacher once refused to take the advice of the committee and expel a bad boy from school. The boy, knowing of his teacher's confidence, began to do better, and continued with such perseverance that he afterward became eminent. He was thrice elected Governor of New York and once to the United States Senate. He was also under one President Secretary of War and under another Secretary of State. A word of encouragement proved to be the turning point in the life of William L. Marcy. How many may have failed because of the lack of such a word?

There is an Eastern legend that runs thus: In a forest near a great city a golden ball was let down out of heaven every day at noontime, and whoever should touch this ball, it was said, would acquire certain wonderful virtues. So many tried to reach it. But it was always lifted just above them. One day there was in the crowd waiting for the descent of the ball an old man and a little boy. And the old man said to the others: "If to-day none of us can reach the ball, let us lift up this child so that he may touch it and receive the blessing." Acting on this counsel, when the tallest of them could not reach the ball, they stood together and lifted up the boy till, with his tiny hand, he touched the golden ball and, lo! not the boy only, but every person forming the living pyramid felt the thrill and received the magic gift.

So it is, my friends, in life. When men stand together, shoulder to shoulder, bearing one another's burdens, then God bestows upon them His best blessings.

W. S. PERKINS.

Pastor St. Paul's Church, Universalist, Meriden, Conn.

GOD AMONG THE BIRDS.

Rev. Dr. Talmage on Ornithology of the Bible.

TEXT: "Behold the fowls of the air."—Matthew vi., 26.

My text is an extract from the Sermon on the Mount, and perhaps it was at a moment when a flock of birds flew past that Christ waved His hand toward them and said: "Behold the fowls of the air." That is, study their habits. Examine their colors. Notice their speed. See the hand of God in their construction. They are almost human, for they have their loves and hates, affinities and antipathies, understand joy and grief, have conjugal and maternal instincts, wage wars, and entertain jealousies, have a language of their own and powers of association.

Thank God for birds, and skies full of them. It is useless to expect to understand the Bible unless we study natural history. They were at the creation placed all around on the rocks and in the trees and on the ground to serenade Adam's arrival. They took their places on Friday, as the first man was made on Saturday. Whatever else he had or did not have, he should have music. The first sound that struck the human ear was a bird's voice.

As a bird first heralded the human race into the world, now a bird will help the human race back to the world that had shipped a sea that had overwhelmed everything. Noah stands on Sunday morning at the window of the ark, in his hand a cooing dove, so gentle, so innocent, so affectionate, and he said: "Now, my little dove, fly away over these waters, explore, and come back and tell us whether it is safe to land. It was a bird that told them when to take possession of the resuscitated planet. So the human race were saved by a bird's wing; for, attempting to land too soon, they would have perished.

Isaiah compares the desolations of banished Israel to an owl and bittern and cormorant among a city's ruins. Would the prophet illustrate the fate of fraud, he points to a failure at incubation, and says: "As the partridge sitteth on eggs and hatcheth them not, so he that getteth riches and not by right shall leave them in the midst of his days and at his end shall be a fool."

The quickest way to amass a fortune is by iniquity, but the trouble is about keeping it. Every hour of every day some such partridge is driven off the nest. Panics are only a flutter of partridges. It is too tedious work to become rich in the old-fashioned way, and if a man can by the falsehood make as much as by ten years of hard labor, why not tell it, and if one counterfeit check will bring the dollars as easily as a genuine issue, why not make it?

But yonder in this Bible sky flies a bird that is speckled. The prophet describing the church, cries out: "Mine heritage is unto me as a speckled bird, the birds round about are against her." So it was then; so it is now. Holiness picked at. Consecration picked at. Benevolence picked at. Usefulness picked at. A speckled bird is a peculiar bird, and that arouses the antipathy of all the beaks of the forest. The church of God is a peculiar institution, and that is enough to evoke attack of the world, for it is a speckled bird to be picked at. The inconsistencies of Christians are a banquet on which multitudes get fat. They ascribe everything you do to wrong motives. Put a dollar in the poor box, and they will say that he dropped it there only that he might hear it ring. Invite them to Christ, and they will call you a fanatic. Let there be contention among Christians, and they will say: "Hurrah! the church is in decadence." Christ intended that His church should always remain a speckled bird.

Disaster, failure in business, disappointment, bereavement, is God's way of shaking us out of our comfortable nest in order that we may learn to fly. You who are complaining that you have no faith or courage or Christian zeal have had it too easy. You never will learn to fly in that comfortable nest. Like an eagle, Christ has carried us on His back. At times we have been shaken off, and when we were about to fall He came under us again and brought us out of the gloomy valley to the sunny mountain. Never an eagle brooded with such love and care over her young as God's wings have been over us.

Across what oceans of trouble we have gone in safety upon the Almighty wings. From what mountains of sin we have been carried and at times have been borne up far above the gunshot of the world and the arrow of the devil. When our time on earth is closed, on these great wings of God we shall speed with infinite quickness from earth's mountains to heaven's hills, and as from the eagle's circuit under the sun, men on the ground seem small and insignificant as lizards on a rock, so all earthly things shall dwindle into a speck and the raging seas of death so far beneath will seem smooth and glassy as a Swiss lake. Oh, the goodness of God in showing the birds how to build their nest! What carpenters, what masons, what weavers, what spinners the birds are! Out of what small resources they make what an exquisite home, curved, pillared, wreathed. Out of mosses, out of sticks, out of lichens, out of horse hair, out of spiders' web, out of threads swept from the door by the housewife, out of the wool of the sheep in the pasture field. Upholstered by leaves actually sewed together by its own sharp bill. Cushioned with feathers from its own breast. Mortared together with the gum of trees and the saliva of its own tiny bill. Such symmetry, such geometry of structure.

Surely these nests were built by some plan. They did not just happen so. Who draughted the plan for the bird's nest? God. And do you not think that if He plans such a house for a chaffinch, for an oriole, for a bobolink, for a sparrow, He will see to it that you always have a home? "Ye are of more value than many sparrows." Whatever else surrounds you, you can have what the Bible calls "the feathers of the Almighty." Just think of a nest like that, the warmth of it, the softness of it, the safety of it—"the feathers of the Almighty." No flamingo outflashing the tropical sunset ever had such brilliancy of pinion; no robin redbreast ever had plumage dashed with such crimson and purple and orange and gold—"the feathers of the Almighty." Do you not feel the touch of them now on forehead and cheek and spirit, and was there ever such tenderness of brooding—"the feathers of the Almighty."

So also in this ornithology of the Bible God keeps impressing us with the anatomy of a bird's wing. Over fifty times does the old Book allude to the wing—"wings of a dove," "wings of the morning," "wings of the wind," "sun of righteousness, with healing in his wings," "wings of the Almighty," "all fowl of every wing." What does it all mean? It suggests uplifting. It tells you of flight upward. It means to remind you that you, yourself, have wings. David cried out, "Oh, that I had wings like a dove that I might fly away and be at rest." Thank God that you have better wings than any dove of longest and swiftest flight. Caged now in bars of flesh are those wings, but the day comes when they will be liberated. Get ready for ascension. Take the words of that old hymn, and to the tune unto which that hymn is carried sing:

Rise my soul and stretch thy wing,
Thy better portion trace.

Up out of these lowlands into the heavens of higher experience and wider prospect. But how shall we rise? Only as God's Holy Spirit gives us strength. But that is coming now. Not as a condor from a Chimborazo peak, swooping upon the affrighted valley, but as a dove like that which put its soft brown wings over the wet locks of Christ at the baptism in the Jordan. Dove of gentleness! Dove of peace!

Come, Holy Spirit, heavenly dove,
With all thy quickening powers,
Come shed abroad a Saviour's love
And that shall kindle ours.

Cremation.

Among the ancient Greeks both cremation of the dead and burial in the earth were practiced, though it is uncertain which was the more common. The ashes of the dead were sacredly preserved in urns. Among the Jews burial prevailed, as it has since among Christian nations.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

FINGERS START TO SCHOOL.

Here, little finger, you start this rhyme,
And don't be so poky and slow;
You, gold finger, begin on time,
And don't let one lesson go;
You middle finger, be good and kind,
Tho' you are so stout and tall;
You, forefinger, your teacher mind,
And don't think of playing ball;
You, little thumb, don't bob about,
But listen and be still;
And you, little hand, whate'er you do,
Do it with a will.

—Woman's Home Companion.

BATHING AN ELEPHANT.

F. Fitz Roy Dixon tells of "A Baby Elephant" that was captured by friends of his in Ceylon, in an article that he contributes to St. Nicholas. Mr. Dixon says:

Her daily bath afforded her great enjoyment. A broad, shallow stream, with a sandy bottom, flowed through the estate, and in a large pool Rengan used to scrub her down every day. Of course he went into the water also, and she would lie down and roll, sometimes with all four legs in the air, but always keeping the tip of her trunk out of the water so that she might have air to breathe. When she had done enough of this sort of nonsense, according to Rengan's idea, he used to make her come out and lie down on a sand-bar, and then he would scrub her down—a process of which she seemed highly to approve—after which she would be once more washed down, and then she would trot off beside her keeper, both clean and glistening, and remain a short while in her stable, whilst he went off for his dinner. He used to bring her back a handful of boiled rice, usually rolled up in a banana leaf, which she received with great satisfaction.

ISLAND THAT IS A BIG MAGNET.

One of the most dangerous places in all the seas is near the coast of Denmark, where there is a little island that goes by the name Bornholm. The seas do not run unusually high about it, nor are currents strong, but when the mariner approaches it the needle of his compass begins to act in the strangest and most unaccountable manner. Instead of pointing north, it switches around and points to Bornholm, so that if it happens to be dark and stormy the pilot may guide his ship straight on the rocks, thinking that he is making due north. This strange condition exists for the reason that Bornholm consists almost entirely of magnetite or magnetic iron, and it draws the compass needle like a powerful horseshoe magnet.

This influence is felt even at a distance of miles, and on the island being sighted by mariners on the Baltic sea they at once discontinue steering their course by the needle, and turn, instead, to the well-known lighthouses to direct their craft. Between Bornholm and the main land there is also a bank of rock under water which is very dangerous to navigation, and because of its being constantly submerged vessels have been frequently wrecked at that point. The peculiar fact in this case is that the magnetic influence of this ore bank is so powerful that a magnetic needle suspended freely in a boat over the bank will point down, and, if not disturbed, will remain in a perfectly perpendicular line.

HOW A BAD ELEPHANT IS WHIPPED.

Did you ever see an elephant whipped? I don't suppose you would ever forget it if you did. They frequently do it in India, because elephants are very obstreperous at times.

Recently an elephant, Abdul, was convicted by court-martial for killing his keeper, and sentenced to fifty lashes and two years' imprisonment.

Two elephants led Abdul to an open space, and in the presence of the whole battery the punishment began. The culprit trumpeted in fear, and made an unearthly noise.

There were fourteen elephants on one side, and the officers and men of the battery on the other three. In the centre of this hollow square stood Lalla (No. 1), the flogger, and the prisoner. The latter was chained by the four legs to as many heavy iron pegs, and could not move.

Fastened to Lalla's trunk was an immense cable chain. When all was ready the major gave the word, and down came the chain with a resounding whack. Abdul roared for all he was worth. Fifty times was the operation repeated, and then Abdul was taken to a compound, where he was to remain a prisoner for two years.

HOW THE SIX WENT HAYING.

Papa and mamma had gone to Florida, and that is how the six happened to be at grandpa's. There were Amy and Hugh; then came Paul and Polly, the twins: next sweet little Daisy, the darling of grandma's heart; and last, but by no means the least, Baby Joe, who was five, and greatly objected to being called baby.

Baby Joe had a round, freckled face, fiery red hair, and the faculty of always being in mischief when he wasn't eating. He hadn't been on the farm a day before he had fallen into the pig-pen, cut his fingers on a scythe, narrowly escaped being run over by the milk-wagon, tumbled off the haymow, and performed various other remarkable and dangerous exploits which filled grandma's gentle soul with horror.

"Good morning!" said grandpa, one bright day in November, as the six came down to breakfast, with Baby Joe bringing up the rear. "I wonder if I could find any children who would like to go haying with me to-day? Do you think you could find me some, Daisy?"

"Why, grandpa," said the little maid, wonderingly, "do people go haying in November?"

"Yes, indeed," replied grandpa, with a twinkle in his eye. "But what I want to know is, can I find any children to go?"

"Oh, we'll go!" cried five of the children, Baby Joe being too deeply engaged in his buckwheat-cakes and syrup to know what the conversation was about.

At last they were ready, warmly dressed by careful grandma, for there was quite a sharp wind blowing. They hurried outdoors, and there stood grandpa by the big hayrick, with Kerry and Kate, the fat, gray horses, harnessed to it. "Jump in!" he cried; and in they scrambled, laughing and shouting, and tumbling over each other in their eagerness. Just then grandma came out with a huge basket, which they stowed away in one corner, under a big fur robe, away from Baby Joe's prying eyes.

"Aren't you going to take the mowing machine?" said Hugh. "You can't cut hay without it, can you?"

"Oh, yes!" laughed grandpa. "We're going to rake hay to-day." As he said this he stowed four large rakes away in the hayrick, and left Hugh pondering over the mystery.

What a merry ride that was! To be sure, they had a few mishaps, for Baby Joe fell out of the team, and his loss was not discovered until a few moments afterward, when Amy, his especial guardian, missed him. They drove back a little way, and there lay Joe in the middle of the road, kicking and screaming lustily, but quite unhurt. He was picked up, and soon forgot his troubles in eating a large red apple which grandpa produced from his pocket.

Once when they were all standing up in the cart, it gave a sudden lurch, and they all fell in a heap; and poor Daisy bumped her head so hard that she was sure it must have cracked, but each one of the children assured her that it was just as good as ever, and she was comforted with another apple, which Joe insisted was the twin brother of his.

"Here we are!" shouted grandpa, as they entered the oak woods. "Jump out, all of you, and go to work raking hay. We can't have any idle children here."

They climbed out, and looked eagerly around.

"We don't see any hay," said Hugh. "There is nothing here but oak leaves."

Grandpa laughed heartily, and said, "These oak leaves are the hay I mean, children. I cover up my banks of celery with them to keep it from freezing, and after keeping them all winter, they will make an excellent fertilizer. So fall to work, and we'll see how soon that hayrick will be full."

The six did fall to work, and they worked with a will. They raked the leaves into piles; then the little ones put them into big baskets, which grandpa emptied into the hayrick. Baby Joe worked as hard as anybody, filling up his fat little arms with leaves, and stuffing them into the baskets.

After they had worked what seemed to them a very short time, grandpa called, "No more room, little haymakers! Look at the hayrick!" And sure enough, it was heaped high with red-brown leaves. The big fur robe was spread over the load, and the children were lifted up, one by one, and had great fun stamping and pressing down the leaves.

Then off they started, and the big basket was produced, and found to be full of apples and doughnuts. They munched merrily all the way home, and when they jumped down at the farmhouse gate, grandma came out to meet them, and said, laughing, "Well, children, was the haying party a success?"

And they cried, "O grandma, we never had half so much fun getting in real hay!"

A California Mine.

In a single mine in California, only a month ago, the owners took $40,000 in one day out of a pocket which they had discovered. It is not impossible that the total output of this mine in twelve months will exceed $1,000,000. A few months ago the property was unknown to the general public. In another county of California a mill run of only seventy tons of ore gave a yield of more than $10,000. In Mexico rich strikes are still being made. A company working near the City of Mexico is taking out $100,000 a month. Another mine in the same State is taking out $35,000 a month. The State of Sonora alone yielded more than $3,000,000 in gold last year. These mining districts may be reached by a journey of a week or two, and the chances for success to experienced men are as good as they are in the Klondike to-day.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

While excavating for a pond on the farm of L. V. Harkness, near Dixiana, Ky., recently, workmen discovered the bones of a mastodon.

Rarefied air has been found by Herr Levinstein to produce strong fatty degeneration of heart, liver and muscle with death through deficiency of oxygen.

It is proposed to erect a tablet in honor of Professor Giuseppi Sanarelli, the discoverer of the microbe of yellow fever, at the University of Sienna, which he is an alumnus.

It has been ascertained that the pith of the sunflower is the lightest solid known, its specific gravity being 0.02, while that of elder pith—hitherto regarded as the lightest substance, is 0.09. Cork is 0.24.

That certain beetles are by no means frightened by lead foil has long been recognized, but it is rather discouraging to add one more to the number of these culprits. Ed. Stich of Nauheim reports that a box somewhat worn eaten was lined with lead. After awhile holes one-eighth of an inch in diameter, and distinctly spiral, were noticed, and traced to the beetle Tetropium luridum, Linn., which was not yet on the list of lead eaters, but rather lead destroyers. A cousin of this insect has been known to be destructive to lead chambers. There are, unfortunately, many insects and animals devoid of that sense for the sacred rights of property which we expect of everybody but ourselves.

The most important feature of the present Anglo-Egyptian expedition against the Mahdi is the successful sinking of wells in the desert between Wady-Halfa and Abu-Hamed. The presence of water at such a distance from the Nile has never been suspected either by Europeans or natives, and bids fair to revolutionize not only the desert tribes, but the entire condition of desert life. Indeed, the problem of converting the great African deserts into fertile territory seems to be at length in a fair way toward solution not by means of letting in the sea, as proposed by Count de Lesseps, but by the sinking of wells. Water is evidently to be found everywhere in the African deserts, provided one digs deep enough.

Saw His Heart Beat.

Last November, James Hall, a young man at Shelbyville, Ind., while hunting, accidentally discharged his shotgun while the barrels were resting in an oblique position across the left breast. The result of the accident was that the flesh and the ribs covering the chest cavity were torn away, exposing to full view the pericardium, revealing the motion of the heart. The physicans who were first called said Hall would die in a few hours. Another physician from this city was called and saved his life. To cover the hole where the ribs and flesh were shot away a silver plate was fastened to the ends of the exposed ribs. Skin-grafting did the rest. Hall at that time was sixteen years old and possessed of a wonderful physique. His case is the second one on record where a man saw his own heart beat and lived to tell the story. The leading medical publications of this country and Europe secured detailed accounts of the case and the treatment.

Hall had always been a pretty good kind of a boy, but there were better ones. He faced death with courage. During his long sickness his disposition seemed to undergo a change, and now he has signified his intention of becoming a minister. His parents are poor, but they have managed to secure some money, and he is now ready to start to college.—Indianapolis News.

The Ink Bacillus.

An interesting discovery was recently made at Leipzig, namely, the ink bacillus, as it has been named. It has often happened that dangerous blood poisoning has been caused by wounding one's self with an inky steel pen. In Professor Marpman's bacteriological institute they have succeeded in finding the micro-organism in ink which excites the blood. It has been ascertained that many inks, particularly school inks, contain bacteria. Out of fifty-seven different kinds—most of them made with gall—the majority contained bacteria. School inks colored with an aniline dye, even though the bottle had only just been opened, contained the micro-organisms already mentioned, and the number of bacilli was the greater the longer the ink had been exposed to the air. From such an aniline ink, which had been in an open inkstand for three months, a specific bacillus was isolated and mice were inoculated with it. After four days they died of blood poisoning. The fact that gall-apple inks get covered with mold is a very old fact indeed—now the ink bacillus is known.

Getting His Account Straight.

Bob Borrower—According to my memorandum book I owe ten dollars.

Lon Lenditt (nervously)—No, Bob—it is only five.

Bob Borrower—The deuce, you say. Then just let me have another V to straighten out my book, will you?—Puck.

A complete electric plowing plant has been installed on a French estate.

Mammoth Gun Casting.

The largest gun casting ever made in this country was cast at the ordnance department of the Bethlehem Iron Company Thursday morning. The casting is for the tube of a sixteen-inch gun for the United States Government. It is nineteen feet six inches long, octagonal in shape and seventy-four inches in diameter.

More than 100 gross tons of metal were used in its manufacture. Three furnaces, two of forty tons' capacity each and one of twenty tons, were used to prepare the metal in. The casting, which is the first and largest of its kind ever made, was a success in every way. The jackets for the big gun will be cast later.—Washington Star.

Russia's New Purchase.

Russia has bought the Sebastopol ship-building yard for 1,900,000 rubles

If It Only Helped a Little.

It would be worth 50 cents. One hour's freedom from the terrible irritating itch of tetter is worth more than a whole box of Tetterine costs. It will cure—sure and it's the only thing that will cure. 50 cents at drug stores, or by mail from J.T.Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

I have found Piso's Cure for Consumption an unfailing medicine.—F. R. LOTZ, 1305 Scott St., Covington, Ky., October 1, 1894.

If some men could only remember the answers to half the questions they ask they would have a good education.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.
Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

If riches do not bring happiness they have at least one advantage over poverty—they don't prevent it.

The fortune hunter prefers a handsome fig ure rather than a pretty face.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c

A chromo is sometimes known by the tea that is given away with it.

If one's faults showed on the surface most people would look as if they had the measles.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

Some crooks are fly, but there are no feathers on the jailbird.

Rheumatism

Caused Great Suffering—A Well Man Since Taking Hood's.

"I was afflicted with rheumatism and have been a great sufferer with this disease and also with stomach and heart troubles, but thanks to Hood's Sarsaparilla I am now a well man. My wife has been cured of kidney disease by Hood's Sarsaparilla." AUG. SCHREINER, 347 West 59th Street, New York, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Vegetables

can be raised at a profit, and the yield enlarged, if properly fertilized. Most fertilizers do do not contain enough

Potash.

Vegetables need plenty of potash — at least 10% — besides the phosphoric acid and nitrogen.

Write for our books which tell all about fertilizers. They are free.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

PATENTS are Property. Represent Wealth. Can be Sold. Are Assignable. INVENT improvements in tools, implements, household articles, etc. Write F. S. APPLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, Warder Bldg., Washington, D. C. Free circular and advice. Low fees.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 347, Southington, Conn

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

According to the latest German colonial budget, every dollar's worth of colonial trade costs Germany 75 cents, and every colonial settler costs the empire $1,000 a year. At that rate a great colonial empire will be a costly thing.

Germany and Spain are now connected by a submarine cable 1,250 miles long, the ends of which are at Emden and Vigo. It is the first link in a series of lines to be extended to Brazil and to the United States by way of the Azores.

A learned scientist says that the whole human body is full of microbes, and that a person is healthy as long as his microbes are in good condition. The question now is, What can a fellow take that will always be good for his microbes?

A county fair in Maine was slimly attended for the reason that it didn't advertise. The results would have been different if the management had used a column in each county paper for the three weeks preceding the fair to herald its attractions.

Picture dealers say there has been in recent years an increased demand for pictures of a patriotic character. There was, for example, an increased demand for pictures of Washington. The revival of patriotic feeling thus indicated he attributed largely to the growth and influence of patriotic societies.

An English paper tells of a clergyman who had two curates, with the older of whom he was at swords' points. On being appointed to another living, he decided to take with him the younger curate, whom he liked, and when he came to preach his farewell sermon he chose as his text, "Abide ye here with the ass, and I and the lad will go yonder and worship."

Newspapers may soon be used in the Kansas City public schools as text-books. At the regular meeting of the local school board, J. M. Greenwood, superintendent of schools, instructed the principals to keep up an interest in current events and to encourage the reading of good newspapers. "I will introduce a system whereby newspapers will be used as text-books a little later," said Mr. Greenwood to a reporter. "I am getting the teachers prepared for it now."

The National Congress of German Journalists and Writers has just met in convention at Leipsic, and has formulated a protest against the methods of punishing editors which existing statutes prescribe. They are put on a par with thieves and murderers, and kept in chains in dungeons, and are fed on the same food as common criminals. It is no wonder that they petition the Reichstag to abate the rigor of these ordinances, though what will come of their petition remains to be seen.

In order that wide-spread measures may be taken to prevent the recurrence of the terrible disaster at the charity bazaar in Paris, it is proposed to hold an international congress of experts in that city, together with an exhibition of fire-extinguishing apparatus, etc., the scientific discussions being accompanied by practical illustrations. Makers of fire-engines are invited to send exhibits, and architects, engineers, inventors and others are asked to forward plans or designs for safeguarding theatres, concert-rooms and other buildings.

Has it ever occurred to you, inquires The Pathfinder, to what a large extent the various members of the human body have suggested the nomenclature of the mechanical arts? A bicycle alone has a neck, head, backbone, etc. Other machines of various kinds have arms, legs, fingers, hands, wrists, elbows, eyes, ears, noses, cheeks, mouths, teeth, tongues, lips, ribs, eyes, feet, etc. There is nothing more natural or logical than to apply the name of a familiar feature of the human body to a mechanical part closely simulating it in form or function.

A French sculptor, Pietre Roche, has invented an ingenious way of producing snow statues that will not melt. He noticed that in ice-making machines the pipes containing the liquified gases were covered with snow, and applied the same principles to copper statues made hollow and filled with freezing fluid. The moisture from the atmosphere forms on the metal in a few moments as a coating of snow, and is prevented from thawing by the freezing mixture. Many exquisite effects can be obtained in this way, and for the decoration of ball-rooms on a midsummer night the snow statuary must be ideal.

A sensation has been created by the discovery that both the Austrian and Italian governments are busy day and night constructing the most costly and elaborate fortifications at the points where the empire and the kingdom meet in the Southern Tyrol and in the neighborhood of Pontebba. This, it would appear, means that neither at Vienna nor at Rome is there much confidence on the part of the authorities in the extension of the existing Triple Alliance, since allies do not, as a rule, consider it necessary to adopt such means of defending their dominions against one another. There are no fortifications of any kind along the frontier of Germany and Austria. Why should there be any on the Austro-Italian boundary line?

It is quite astonishing how many games were originally invented and are to-day practised by people we are accustomed to think of as savages. The Canadian game of lacrosse originated among the North American Indians. Wallace tells us how in Borneo one wet day he thought to amuse his Dyak boys by showing them cat's cradle, but he found that they not only knew it, but knew more intricate figures than he. The Maoris of New Zealand actually have a sort of pictorial history in cat's cradle figures of twisted fiber. The Sandwich Islanders play a kind of draughts. The South Sea peoples nearly all are adepts at kite flying. Polo comes from Persia and is played magnificently by wild hill tribes from northern India.

In his recent address before the English church congress the Archbishop of Canterbury gave some advice to workingmen, speaking of himself as a workingman. He had been left fatherless, he said, at the age of thirteen, and had been urged to earn his own living since he was seventeen. He had known what it was to do without a fire because he could not afford one, and to wear patched clothes and boots. He learned to plough as straight a furrow as any man in the parish, and he could thrash as well as any man. If, he added, the workingman would practice self-restraint, would never waste his wages in drink, but find happiness in the love of home and family, he would feel little of the burdens of life or of the inequality, which was inevitable.

A German statistician has recently compiled figures as to the total number of newspapers printed during a year, which he estimates at 12,000,000,000 copies. To gather an adequate idea of this enormous quantity, it might be stated that all these papers spread out would more than cover all the continents and islands of the earth. The weight of the paper would amount to 781,240 tons. If this entire edition were to be printed by one single press, the largest and most rapid one now in use, the total edition would take 333 years to print. Stacked up vertically, this quantity would form a column 260,000 feet in height. Suppose that every reader devotes but five minutes per day to the reading of his newspaper, the time used by the total population of the earth would amount to 100,000 years.

The tiny but venerable and free republic of San Marino, in northern Italy, has come out of a diplomatic contest with big Italy victoriously. The question related to a new treaty in which Italy badly wanted to insert clauses providing for the extradition of socialists, anarchists and others, whose crimes, for want of a better name, may be classed as political. The presidents and senators strongly objected, on the ground that for something like 900 years San Marino had been free to all well-behaved comers. The Italian government pointed out that, as San Marino was only twenty-four square miles large, and surrounded by Italian territory, it might and almost certainly would, become an asylum for all kinds of desperadoes, who would abuse the republic's hospitality by plotting against the neighboring friendly state. The presidents and senators replied that San Marino would know how to deal with such ingrates.

British Empire, Asiatic.

A fact which we perhaps too often forget, remarks the London Graphic, is that numerically the British Empire is an Asiatic Empire. Of the 380,000,000 people in the whole empire India contributes 290,000,000. Nor does the Anglo-Saxon race or any white race figure as largely as we are apt to fancy in our colonial population. Canada and Australia are, indeed, white man's lands, but in South Africa the white man is in a distinct minority, while in West Africa and East Africa there are teeming poulations of blacks whose numbers can only be roughly guessed in millions. If these be deducted, it will be found that outside the United Kingdom there are only some 10,000,000 persons of European race in the British Empire, so that, putting the United Kingdom at 40,000,000 persons, we have altogether in the empire a population of 50,000,000 white and some 330,000,000 Asiatics and Africans.

Anecdote of Dana.

Once, when the late Editor Dana was on a visit to Atlanta he made the rounds of the "Constitution" office. In one of the editorial rooms he had to wade through a sea of discarded exchanges. Some apology was made for the littered condition of the room.

"I like to see it," he said, looking down on the scattered exchanges, "for it looks like business, and it means that work has been done. Keep it up, boys, keep it up!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Maine man bought a new, latest improved magazine rifle and went out hunting. He encountered seven wild cats, emptied the magazine at them without effect, and threw the gun away and dispersed the felines with rocks.

Georgia Poetry.

A Georgia farmer has a son who writes verse, but is too modest to submit it for publication. One day, when the farmer was going to town, he took a bundle of poems along with him and handed them to an editor.

"They're pretty fair," said the editor. "His rhyme is all right, but there's something wrong with his feet."

"Well," said the farmer, "I won't deny it; he has got corns."

Washington Post: When a bank is wrecked hundreds of innocent persons are affected, many of them ruined. Suicides often follow, the savings of years are lost, the inheritance of widows and children is dissipated and the villain who is responsible for these disasters gets a few years in the penitentiary and is then pardoned and put into position to prey on the public again. The pleadings of influential citizens, or of a loving and persistent wife or daughter, will effect a pardon and the criminal walks the streets a free man. Such men are far more dangerous to a community than a known robber, and deserves less consideration.

Omaha Bee: The price of live stock has advanced ¾ of a cent a pound within the last few months. The retail price of beef has been raised from 2 to 6 cents a pound. If anybody can explain why this discrepancy in price exists the people of Omaha would like to hear from him.

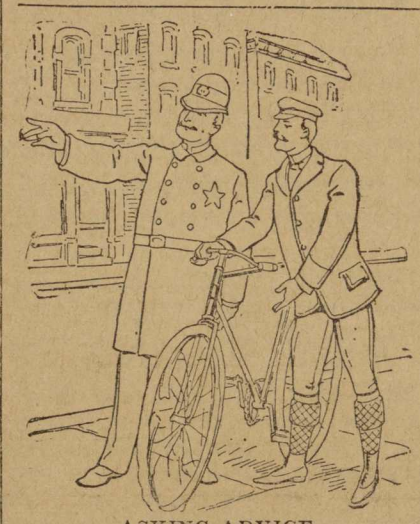
WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct



ASKING ADVICE.

When you need advice tell your troubles to a policeman. When your wheel is broken tell your wheel troubles to The Loosley Cycle Co. Then you will have the difficulty overcome, the break repaired, your wheel restored to usefulness and the cost will be light. Also manufacturers of

THE "BIRMINGHAM."

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

THE LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

A miniature "Chainless Safety" free for a stamp.

It's Getting Cold!

You had better get one of our

Thick Overcoats

. . . and keep warm at a . . .

Thin Price.

All Mail Orders With Cash Promptly Attended to.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers.

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

CONSUMPTION AND CATARRH
Are result of Contracted Nostrils. Drugs Cannot Cure. Send 50c. for NASAL INSPIRATOR or 5 cts. for pamphletto G. B. FARMER, Perth, Ont., Canada.

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER

Cleanses the scalp and puts new life into the hair. It restores the lost color to gray hair. It means youth and beauty.

ALABAMA'S BRAVE WOMEN.

S. J. Leslie

Jenifer, Ala., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 20 years, and know it will cure Liver Disease, Nervousness, Bowel and Stomach Troubles. I like it better than "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's" medicine.

Parenthood.

Children bind husband and wife more closely than the wedding ceremony itself. One-half of married misery is due to the growing physical weakness of women, which makes child-bearing a dreaded burden and prevents those close relations between husband and wife, without which happiness cannot exist. How important then is it that the woman be brought to as perfect a condition of health, of which she is capable, so that she can give to her offspring out of her abundance of life and spirits. Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine will do this; it will purify her blood, tone up her nervous system and give her courage and assurance of safety to go through the ordeal of childbirth.

W. A. Collier

Ashland, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years for Colds, Diarrhœa, Summer Complaint with children. It gives better satisfaction than "Thedford's Black Draught," or "St. Joseph's Regulator," or anything we can get.

Dimness of Vision.

In cases of weak and imperfect vision, the causes of disease should, if possible, be correctly ascertained, so that they may be as far as possible obviated and guarded against. Where the trouble is functional and arises from some constitutional derangement or debility, such as torpid liver or inactive kidneys, producing a morbid condition in the organism, constitutional treatment with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine will produce the happiest results. When caused by prolonged nursing, excessive sexual indulgences, abuse of stimulants, the excessive use of the eyes on too bright or too minute objects, too much sleep or other circumstances which produce determination of blood to the head, Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine quickly cures.

DR. O. T. DOZIER

(The Renowned Southern Specialist.)
Birmingham, Ala.

Successfully treats by mail, at office OR AT YOUR OWN HOME, all forms of Chronic, Nervous, Blood, Skin and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

CURES . . . GUARANTEED.

All Chronic Diseases of Lungs, Liver, Heart, Kidneys, Bladder, and all diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs are in my line of practice. Diseases peculiar to women, and all venereal diseases of either sex, positively cured by mild and safe remedies. Impediments to marriage, as Stricture, Varicocele, Impotency, Emissions and all evil results of self-abuse or excessive indulgence, quickly and permanently cured. I guarantee satisfaction in every case I treat. My valuable "Book for Men Only," and Symptom Blank for men or women will be sent free in plain, sealed envelope to all who apply. Consultation free, whether in person or by letter.

A FEW EXTRACTS FROM PRESS ENDORSEMENTS.

(Masonic Guide.)
Dr. Dozier can be relied upon to treat diseases in the most successful manner.

(People's Weekly Tribune.)
As a specialist Dr. Dozier is unexcelled by any living physician. * * He is a high-toned, cultured, Christian gentleman, strictly honest in all his dealings and financially responsible for all his contracts.

(Sumter Sun.)
Dr. Dozier is the leading specialist in Alabama, and is thoroughly reliable.

(Alabama Christian Advocate.)
His (Dr. Dozier's) professional standing is unimpeachable and his character as a gentleman and citizen is above reproach.

Address
DR. O. T. DOZIER,
Lock Box 113, Birmingham, Ala.

Sterling Silver Filagree Pin.
The newest and most beautiful Scarf Pin on the market today. To introduce our latest Holiday Catalogue we will send the Pin on receipt of EIGHT CENTS -- CATALOGUE FREE.
D. M. WATKINS & CO., M'f'g Jewelers
59 Page St., Providence, R. I.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

Am. N. U. No. 49. 1897.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND
ABSOLUTELY PURE

10c 25c 50c

Cascarets

REGULATE THE LIVER

CANDY CATHARTIC

CURE CONSTIPATION

ALL DRUGGISTS

KEEP STEP! DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK!

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free.

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - - Ala

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

The

SIXTH MISSING WORD CONTEST

The Atlanta Constitution Offers

One Tenth Of the Subscriptions

Received from those entering the Contest to name properly the missing word in the following sentence:

"Once given the passion for _____, that one of the precious metals will be most in demand which is cheapest." ∴ ∴ ∴

And, in Addition

TO THE 10 PER CENT, WE WILL GIVE

$100 Cash Extra

For the first Six Correct Guesses, as follows: $50 for the First Correct Guess and $10 Each for the Next Five, in their order, provided the same are received in our office on or before December 1st.

THE PERIOD COVERED

By This Contest shows about 16,000 expirations for The Weekly Constitution, and, of course, we want them all to renew and to enter the Contest.

THIS MEANS $1,600

For the Missing Word Fund, and every additional subscriber entering the contest will swell the amount the more.

This period also compares with our First Missing Word Contest last year, in which Mr. M. L. Brittain secured the prize—$1,033.50. As that was our First Contest, there were more than 5,000 subscribers received during the time, who did not enter for prize. It will not be so this time, for the plan is widely advertised and we have paid out within the past twelve months NEARLY $5,000 CASH upon the Five Missing Word Contests. The series has been of extraordinary interest, and the idea seems to grow in the public's favor.

The book containing the sentence is a standard publication and has been sealed up and placed with Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of The Constitution, who will hold it safely until January 1, 1898.

The sentence speaks for itself and submits a very plain proposition for you to solve.

The Contest Began November 1, 1897.
The Contest Ends January 1, 1898.

This contest lasts two months and the amount to be divided will probably be in the neighborhood of $2,000. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

The Greatest of All American Weekly Newspapers for One Year.

Keep That in View and Send Your Guess With Your Dollar for a Year's Subscription

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the two months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of contest:

WE PROPOSE TO PUT 10 PER CENT of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the fund.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent; there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

THE CONTEST BEGAN NOV. 1ST—We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses and on December 1st we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during December we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

THE CONTEST CLOSES JAN. 1ST—At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for January 1st is "....."

The above is the plan of The Constitution Contest, which all subscribers to that paper and ours, subscribing under the clubbing offer announced elsewhere, may enter. Address orders to

THE MONTEVALLO NEWS,
Montevallo, Ala.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.
Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,
Montevallo, Alabama.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed..

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine...

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business.

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL II MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 23, '97. NO 52.

WORDS OF PRAISE

SPOKEN OF THE NEW NEWS BY PROMINENT PEOPLE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, D. C., Dec. 15, 1897.

Messrs. Newton & Carruthers, Montevallo, Ala.

Dear Sirs: I have read with much pleasure your issue of the News containing account of the meeting of School Trustees. I realize fully the value of the press in shaping public opinion and know you will be of great value to the school. Please find check for $1.00 enclosed.

Very truly yours,
T. S. PLOWMAN.

The Montevallo News plant has been purchased by Messrs. Newton & Caruthers, the latter being editor. His salutatory evinces ability and fearlessness.—County Press, Centreville, Ala.

"The News is now, in my opinion, the best county paper in Alabama."
W. B. REYNOLDS.

"If you can keep the paper up to the standard of last week's issue, you will have great success."
F. F. CROWE.

"I appreciate the News so much that I am paying for copies to be sent to my friends."
BURGESS LITTLE.

"I am an old newspaper man, and consider the News an excellent paper."
ALEX. A. WALL.

"The News is a paper which repays perusal."
MRS. MARY C. BABB.

"The News is two years ahead of the town, and will help to build up Montevallo."
GEO. KROELL.

Subscribe for the News.

BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING.

Since October the merchants of Montevallo have had to pay freight rates greatly in excess of those paid by Birmingham merchants. Means can be adopted which will put an end to this discrimination. To discuss this and other matters of vital importance to the business men of Montevallo, a meeting of all such is called for Monday, Dec. 27th, 1897, at 2 p. m., in the office of Mr. James M. Reynolds.

BY ORDER.

MAPLESVILLE.

James DuBose, who for the past four months has been attending lectures on dentistry at Atlanta, has returned home to spend the holidays with his parents and friends.

T. U. Crumpton gave a capital dinner to the M. & O. R. R. officials and clerks Sunday evening at two o'clock. Civil engineers and many others of the construction corps from all parts of the new road partook of Mr. Crumpton's hospitality. All enjoyed themselves immensely.

Miss Annie Jones has returned home from a visit to Birmingham Junction, much to the delight of her many friends.

The many friends of D. C. Savage and family sympathize with them in their bereavement in the loss of their son, Homer.

Ensley Cooper conducted prayer-meeting Sunday night.

D. C. Savage, of Montevallo, was in town Monday.

Burglars entered the residence of T. U. Crumpton Saturday night about 12.30 o'clock. They went through safes, cupboards, etc., and tried to open Mr. Crumpton's door, but found it secured on the inside. They then essayed to enter another room, but were frightened away by screams from one of the inmates of the house. The only thing they took was a large piece of cake. The burglars were evidently Republicans, because they did not take the silverware which was on the table. Probably they were Prohibitionists, for they did not take any wine, although there were several kinds of fine wines easy of access. It is thought that they were professionals and only wanted money. One carried a dark lantern.

One of our boys was sadly disappointed Sunday because by the late arrival of the Selma train he missed seeing his "girl".

J. Waller Graham spent a pleasant Sunday eveninig with Miss "Abney," his best girl.

John Foshee and his lovely bride arrived Friday evening from Montevallo. Mrs. Foshee was well known here as Miss Bessie Savage, and she is welcomed back to Maplesville.

Her friends are sorry to hear that Miss Lily Savage is on the sick list. They sincerely hope for her recovery.

Wishing all the readers of the Montevallo News a merry Christmas and happy New Year,

UNCLE TIGE.

CALERA.

An election was held here last Monday on the question of license or no license. The vote in favor of saloons was three times that of the anti saloon men.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Sam Large, of Calera, is here on a visit to his mother.

Frank Cunningham, of Dogwood, visited his Montevallo friends on Monday.

John Hunter, Maylene's arbiter of fashion, graced Montevallo with his presence last Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Hargrove, of Maylene, made Montevallo their Christmas shopping point last Friday.

Miss Ada Mulkey, one of Brierfield's belles, did her Christmas shopping in Montevallo last Friday.

Dr. R. C. Jones, Dogwood's coming medicus, bought his Christmas gifts in Montevallo last Monday.

The wife and mother of Henry Splawn spent Monday and considerable money in town buying goods for the holidays.

Dr. G. W. Shackelford, dentist, will visit Montevallo Monday, December 27th, to remain only three days. All who need dental work can find him at the St. George hotel. Dr. Shackelford's work speaks for itself, and to the people of Montevallo he needs no introduction.

Prof. J. F. Thomas spent a few hours in Montevallo on Monday. His attempt to establish a school at Bethlehem has failed because of want of children in some families and apathy on the part of the parents of others. He is open to teach school anywhere and should receive offers, as he is known as an educated, energetic pedagogue. His address is Jemison, Ala.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

That is what all are now wishing for others, and for that reason are trying to increase their happiness by giving them tokens of affection and esteem.

USEFUL PRESENTS BEST

There is no disguising the fact that times are hard. Five cent cotton gives little, if any, profit to the people. Useful necessaries will be more appreciated as presents than useless nicknacks.

A hat, a coat or a suit of clothes,
Are always welcome, as every one knows,
Some piece of furniture, table or chair,
Would please your wife or daughter fair.
We have hundreds of things for which people sigh
In vain, for want of the money to buy.
Our low prices bring competitors to their knees,
We ask you to call. Yours, ready to please,

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.

DOGWOOD.

Frank Cunningham goes out West to see the girls now.

Pat Harrison went up to Ganadarque Sunday to see the girls.

Messrs. W. D. and John Lacey, of Maylene, were in town last week.

His many friends are glad to learn that Dr. H. W. Harrison is convalescing.

Dr. R. C. Jones, who is attending the medical college at Bessemer, has come down home to spend the holidays.

The Montevallo Lump Coal and Mining Co. are shipping a large quantity of fine coal from their mine at this place.

Messrs. Henry and Will Harrison contemplate going up to Highland and Birmingham to spend a few days during the holidays.

Dr. R. C. Jones and Frank Cunningham went down to Montevallo Monday to buy goods, and judging from the bundles they had, they bought a lot of them.

X. Y. Z.

Subscribe for the News.

BISMARCK.

A dance will be given at Joe Thompson's house on Christmas Eve. The boys are eating sparingly so that they may be able to do justice to Mr. Thompson's celebrated supper.

A party of our young men and ladies intend taking in the debate, entertainment and oyster supper at the Brierfield Normal school next Wednesday night.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Subscribe for the News.

ALABAMA SCHOOLS

DEFICIENT IN NUMBER AND QUALITY AS COMPARED WITH THOSE OF OTHER STATES.

Today in Alabama there exists a state of affairs educational that should warn every citizen that there must be a change. When we boast of our greatness in the commercial world, then turn to the educational and see where we stand, it seems to belie our former statement.

Think of it, only three states exceed us in illiteracy. To advertise the fact that Alabama is an everlasting hill of wealth is no telling inducement to capitalists and immigrants when we can say so little of our educational facilities. It is a strange thing that our business men should, with all their shrewdness, neglect this vital issue.

Alabama may point with pride to her almost fabulous resources, yet unless we do something to improve our common school facilities it will not avail us much. What man, what people desire to locate in a state where the facilities for educating their children are poor, though business be good. It is one of the first questions asked, "Have you good schools?"

People of Alabama, of every avocation of life, think of this question and let every one do his or her part to remedy it. The total limit of taxation by our constitution is $1.25 per hundred dollars. This is county and state. It may be said that we have high taxation. We have the lowest tax rate of any state in the union.

Philadelphia paid last year $64.09 per capita pupil; Alabama $1 28 per capita pupil. Philadelphia alone expending $3,500,000 or over five times the amount of our entire state. Does this look like a high rate? Comparisons are invidious. The average amount raised per tax payer for Alabama is $2.14. New York city alone exceeds that $2.54. Mississippi, strictly an agricultural state, built a school house for nearly every day of the year, in 1896, Alabama, none.

Alabama gives her pupils the least average number of school days of any state, save one. She gives the lowest amount per pupil, $1.28, save South Carolina, $1.19. Alabama has the lowest per cent. of enrollment of any state except Louisiana. Alabama's per cent. of pupils enrolled, 55.83. Louisiana shows an increase from 1889-90 to 1893 94, while Alabama shows a decrease.

Thus it is in everything concerning our common schools. There is only one item in which Alabama stands any comparison with our more progressive states. It is in normal schools. Alabama certainly needs better educational facilities. The greatest need is more revenue. But with a better system of supervision than our laws at present give us a great improvement could be made. To make any radical changes in our public school system will require a new constitution, but much improvement can be made with more systematic supervision than we now have. There is no definite policy mapped out between state superintendent and county superintendent.

While most of our towns and cities have good schools many of the smaller towns are needing them. The country districts frequently have too many schools to the detriment of good schools.

Incompetent teachers are employed in many cases because of cheapness. The school term is too short in many districts. One thing sure and certain above all else—our people need to become interested in having these reforms brought about. To this task every person who feels an interest in the future welfare of our state must give his or her support. To this task there is one great factor which can render invaluable service to the cause of education, to our state, and to our future citizenship. It is the press of Alabama. EDWARD L. PATTON.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

The city of Berlin has closed its annual accounts with a surplus of over $2,000,000. This money has been saved by the different departments, most of which spent far less than had been granted to them.

At the last meeting of the Orientalist Congress in Paris, Rhys Davis opposed the notion that the pessimism of the Hindus was a result of their depressing climate. He found, on the contrary, that the climate was conducive to vigorous mental efforts.

E. S. White, of Bernidji, a pioneer trapper and hunter of Minnesota, stakes his reputation on the prediction of a cold winter. He says the wild animals, deer particularly, have especially thick coats, and that the muskrats are building their nests high and with thick walls—signs which, he say, have never failed within his experience.

What nonsense to talk of a collision between Spain and the United States, observes the New York Sun. It could not come to a shot. The infatuated Spanish people might be willing to fight; that is easy to believe of a population utterly ignorant and inspired by insular traditions. But Spain's creditors are not ignorant, and Spain is a notoriously insolvent debtor. In the face of a visible rupture with the United States her bank doors could not keep open six hours. The thing called Spain is a house of cards; only the touch of a finger is needed to bring it down in collapse. One thing that does challenge our admiration is the way her politicians are playing their "busted flush."

The special committee sent to Germany by the corporation of Manchester, in order to discover the cause of England's industrial decadence, found extraordinary development of technical education abroad. Alderman Crossfield, a member of the Committee, said: "The English workers are half savages, when compared with the intelligent artisans of Germany." Councilor Pythian, a member of the British Amalgamated Society of Engineers, remarked: "The engines and dynamos made in Germany put to shame most of the work in the English shops." These are but types of the impressions coloring the whole report of the Manchester Committee, the tenor of which is amply confirmed by the multiplying signs of the illusory character of the British pretensions to industrial supremacy.

Americanism can be carried too far, and almost everybody will admit, opines the New York Times, that Mr. J. B. Ford, the Cincinnati man now under arrest in London, showed exaggerated patriotism when he said that he preferred to be hanged in the United States rather than to live any longer in England. Really, it's not so bad as that, and anyway Mr. Ford will not be hanged when he gets here, for he has done nothing worse than rob a coffin company. That is a serious, almost a grave, crime, but it is not a capital offense. If it were, perhaps he would be tempted to resist extradition. An American prison may be more enjoyable than a London lodging house, but it is mere prejudice that asserts the superiority of our gallows to even the most stuffy of British hall bedrooms. It is always best to be just and to speak within bounds.

Ex-President Cleveland's definition of a self-made man differs from the ordinary acceptation of that term, but it is one, thinks the Boston Herald, that "will stand the test of intelligent scrutiny. The self-made man, as defined by the ex-President, is he who has made the most of himself, not necessarily by his own unaided efforts, but with whatever assistance he could secure. Whether this definition is strictly correct or not, it is an interesting one, and it rather adds to than detracts from the merit that attaches to self-help."

Selma has received 66,000 bales of cotton. The 100,000 mark will be

ANNIE AND WILLIE'S PRAYER.

'Twas the eve before Christmas; "Good-night" had been said,
And Annie and Willie had crept into bed;
There were tears on their pillows and tears in their eyes,
And each little bosom was heavy with sighs,
For to-night their stern father's command had been given
That they must retire precisely at seven
Instead of eight; for they troubled him more
With questions unheard of than ever before.
He told them he thought this delusion a sin,
No such a thing as "Santa Claus" ever had been,
And he hoped, after this, he should never more hear
How he scrambled down chimneys with presents each year.
And this is the reason why two little heads
So restlessly tossed on their soft, downy beds.

Eight, nine, and the clock on the steeple tolled ten—
Not a word had been spoken by either till then;
When Willie's sad face from the blanket did peep,
And whispered, "Dear Annie, is you fast asleep?"
"Why, no; brother Willie," a sweet voice replies.
"I've tried in vain, but I can't shut my eyes;
For somehow it makes me so sorry because
Dear papa had said there is no Santa Claus;
Now we know there is, and it can't be denied,
For he came every year before mamma died;
But then I've been thinking that she used to pray,
And God would hear everything mamma would say,
And perhaps she asked him to send Santa Claus here
With the sacks full of presents he brought every year."
"Well, why tan't we p'ay dest as mamma did then,
And asked Him to send him with presents aden?"
"I've been thinking so, too," and without a word more
Four bare little feet bounded out on the floor,
And four little knees the soft carpet pressed,
And two tiny hands were clasped close to each breast.

"Now, Willie, you know we must firmly believe
That the presents we ask for we're sure to receive.
You must wait just as still till I say amen,
And by that you will know that your turn has come then—
Dear Jesus, look down on my brother and me,
And grant us the favor we're asking of Thee:
I want a nice book full of pictures, a ring,
A writing desk, too, that shuts with a spring.
Bless papa, dear Jesus, and cause him to see
That Santa Claus loves us as much even as he;
Don't let him get fretful and angry again
At dear brother Willie and Annie, amen!"
"Please, Desus, 'et Santa Taus tome down to-night,
And bring us some presents before it is 'ight.
I want he should dive me a bright little box,
Full of ac'obats, some other nice blocks,
And a bag full of tandy, a book and a toy
Amen, and then, Desus, I'll be a dood boy."
Their prayers being ended, they raised up their heads,
And with hearts light and cheerful again sought their beds;
They were soon lost in slumber—both peaceful and deep,
And with fairies in dreamland were roaming in sleep.

Eight, nine and the little French clock had struck ten
Ere the father had thought of his children again;
He seems now to hear Annie's half-smothered sighs,
And to see the big tears standing in Willie's blue eyes.
"I was harsh with my darlings," he mentally said,
"And should not have sent them so early to bed;
But when I was troubled—my feelings found vent,
For bank stock to-day has gone down ten per cent.
But of course they'd forgot their troubles ere this,
But then I denied them the thrice asked for kiss;
But just to make sure I'll steal up to the door,
For I never spoke harsh to my darlings before."

So saying he softly ascended the stairs,
And arriving at their door heard both of their prayers.
His Annie's "bless papa" draws forth the big tears
And Willie's grave promise falls sweet on his ears.
"Strange, strange, I've forgotten," said he with a sigh,
"How I longed when a child to have Christmas draw nigh.
I'll atone for my harshness," he inwardly said,
"By answering their prayer, ere I sleep in my bed."

Then he turned to the stairs and softly went down,
Threw off velvet slippers and silk dressing gown,
Donned hat, coat and boots, and was out in the street—
A millionaire facing the cold winter sleet;
He first went to a wonderful "Santa Claus" store
(He knew it for he'd passed it the day he

And there he found crowds on the same errand as he,
Making purchase of presents, with glad heart and free,
Nor stopped he until he had bought everything
From a box full of candy to a tiny gold ring.
Indeed, he kept adding so much to his store
That the various presents outnumbered a score!
Then homeward he turned with his holiday load,
And with Aunt Mary's aid in the nursery 'twas stowed.
Miss Dolly was seated beneath a pine tree,
By the side of a table spread out for a tea;
A writing desk then in the centre was laid,
And on it a ring for which Annie had prayed;
Four acrobats painted in yellow and red
Stood with a block house on a beautiful sled;
There were balls, dogs and horses, books pleasing to see
And birds of all colors were perched in the tree;
While Santa Claus, laughing, stood up in the top,
As if getting ready for more presents to drop;
And as the fond father the picture surveyed
He thought for his trouble he had amply been paid;
And he said to himself as he brushed off a tear,
"I'm happier to-night than I have been for a year,
I've enjoyed more true pleasure than ever before.
What care I if bank stock falls ten per cent. more?
Hereafter I'll make it a rule, I believe,
To have Santa Claus visit us each Christmas Eve."

So thinking he gently extinguished the light,
And tripped downstairs to retire for the night.
As soon as the beams of the bright morning sun
Put the darkness to flight and the stars one by one,
Four little blue eyes out of sleep opened wide,
And at the same moment the presents espied.
Then out of their beds they sprang with a bound,
The very gifts prayed for were all of them found;
They laughed and they cried in their innocent glee,
And shouted for papa to come quick and see
What presents old Santa Claus had brought in the night
(Just the things they had wanted) and left before light.

"And now," said Annie, in a voice soft and low,
"You'll believe there's a Santa Claus, papa, I know;"
While dear little Willie climbed up on his knee,
Determined no secret between them should be;
And told, in soft whispers, how Annie had said,
That their dear, blessed mamma, so long ago dead,
Used to kneel down and pray by the side of her chair,
And that God, up in heaven, had answered her prayer!
"Then we dot up and prayed dust as well as we tould,
And Dod answered our prayers; now wasn't He dood?"
"I should say that He was if He sent you all these,
And knew just what presents my children would please (Well, well, let him think so, the dear little elf,
'Twould be cruel to tell him I did it myself.")

Blind father! who caused your stern heart to relent?
And the hasty word spoken so soon to repent?
'Twas the Being who bade you steal softly up stairs,
And made you His agent to answer their prayers.

—Sophia P. Snow.

LEGEND OF THE MISTLETOE.

BY FLAVEL SCOTT MINES.

RIGHT merrily blazed the yule log in the square open fire place, and the dark oak panels of the little room caught and threw back again in softer color the red light of the flames. The room was filled with the rosy glow, and black shadows danced in time to the flickering firelight on the floor and walls. At times the fierce wind outside blew down the chimney a shower of snow which fell with a sizzle upon the crackling log, but the flames only burned the brighter as though determined to outdo the Christmas storm, and the noise of the gale was lost in the merry splutter and crack of the fire.

Before the log sat a youth and maiden, and for a little time they sat in silence reading their future in the red coals; and though neither told the other of their dream each felt that their futures were the same. Suddenly the young man turned toward the girl. "I bought a bit of mistletoe today," he said; "do you know the origin of its use? Shall I tell you the story?"

She looked at him dreamily. "Yes," she answered, her lips scarcely moving.

"And will you promise not to interrupt?"

"Y-es," was the low reply.

He laid the green spray with its crimson berries upon her brown curls, and bending near her began:

"Baldur, the son of Odin, the old Norse god, was called the Good because of his kind and loving nature, and wherever he went among the gods or men he was received with the kiss of moment, then he caught sight of the green spray that crowned the fair face of the girl and he was emboldened. "Like this," he whispered. He waited a moment and then seeing the brown eyes turned inquiringly toward him he continued, "But Baldur in his dreams was warned that his life was in peril, so he called the gods together and giving them the kiss of peace—the gods were numbered by the score," he explained, "and you promised not to interrupt. He told them of his fears and they resolved to do all in their power to prevent the calamity. Frigga, the wife of Odin, made all things on earth swear not to injure him, but she overlooked the mistletoe, which she thought too puny. She did not know its power as I do. All right, I'll continue. After this Baldur used to supply all the fun for the gods, who would throw all sorts of things at him and improve their aim because they knew he could not be harmed. And Baldur used to return a kiss for each blow, and if he got hit six times he would give six—like this. But Loki, that unpleasant fellow whom no one used to ever kiss, (like this) learned that the mistletoe had taken no oath, so he got a little spray and sharpened it and then went to watch the fun. There was an old blind god called Hodur who couldn't hit Baldur because he couldn't see him, and Loki went up to him and whispered, 'Don't you want to hit Baldur and get a kiss?' (like this) and Hodur said 'Yep.' So Liki gave him the mistletoe and guided his throw and Baldur was pierced through and he fell dead and he couldn't kiss anybody any more, (like this) and everybody was stricken with sorrow. So after trying to get back his life they gave up the job and laid him on his ship, placed a spray of mistletoe over his head and all the Valkyrs, a lot of pretty girls who used to be messenger boys for the gods, came and kissed him, (like this—and this) and that is why on Christmas eve anybody can kiss anybody else (like this) if they only have a spray of mistletoe over their head."

SANTA CLAUS' MOST ENTHUSIASTIC ADMIRER.

"What has Christmas Eve got to do with it?" asked the maiden, reaching for the spray in her hair. As she said it she started. "Oh, Tom!" she cried, "these berries are red! How could you make such a mistake? All your time wasted and——"

The young man looked perplexed. How had he failed, he wondered? The results of mistletoe could not have been different. He was about to ask when the girl started to her feet and like a frightened spirit passed through the portieres. Was she displeased, and was this his dismissal? As he pondered thus a hand thrust aside the curtains and a face that was rosy as the glowing coals looked shyly through.

"Tom," she faltered, "you know that holly didn't count—holly never does. It wasn't fair, so——so——I've got a piece of real mistletoe. Now tell me all about Baldur."—Munsey.

The Yule Log.

When the yule log burns upon the hearth,
With carol, chime and Christmas cheer,
A fire should kindle in each soul
To gladden all the coming year;
A flame to brighten hearth and home,
And shine as well for other eyes,
Fed by good deeds which still glow on
When dim and cold the yule log lies.

No life so poor but it may know
A spark of this divinest fire.
No life so beautiful and rich
But still, flame-like, it may aspire.
Then kindle yule logs far and wide
To burn on every happy hearth,
Fit symbols of the faith and love

Growth of American Christmas Customs.

America has welcomed and adopted the Christmas tree with cordial affection and treated it as if it were a product of her own inventive brain. Transplanted to the United States by the early Dutch settlers of New York and by the Germans who established themselves in Pennsylvania, it grew and flourished as it did in its native soil. Its advance was slow, but in 1830 the Christmas tree had become a fixed factor in the holiday celebrations, not only in families of direct German descent, but among that composite population called American. Small cedar trees were first used, and were called "Christmas bushes." They were decorated with rosy apples, paper flowers, a few small candles, gilded nuts and "Christmas cakes." This last confection seems to be entirely out of date. It took the form of small horses, dogs, cows, hearts and diamonds, and was a combination of flour and water paste and white and colored sugar frosting. Even by those who recall the Christmas cake with fondest recollection it is admitted to have been rather a delight to the eye than a joy to the palate or the digestion.

As years went on, and the young nation grew older and richer and the life of the people more luxurious and complex, the "Christmas bushes," with their paper flowers, and "Christmas cakes," developed into a tree, which is often an elaborate and expensive affair.

But it is not in civilized or Christian lands alone that this wonderful Christmas tree grows. Missionaries have planted it in China, in Japan, in India, Africa, in the islands of the sea, so that yellow, brown and black faces, as well as white, gaze up at it with delight.—New York Mail and Express.

Torturing the Tortoise.

The beautiful tortoise shell, from which combs and hatpins are made, is not, as is generally supposed, the shell proper from the turtle, but the scales which form its covering. The turtle whose shell is valued in commerce is the small variety known as the hawksbill, which is found on the coral islands of the Southern seas. During the night the turtles leave the water to deposit their eggs in the sand, and it is then that they are captured by the watchful turtle hunters. They are turned on their backs and left in this helpless condition until morning, when the work of loosening the scales begins. This is the repulsive part of the business. The turtles are not killed, as this would soon lead to their extermination.

They are fastened by pegs to the ground in their natural position and a fire of dry leaves lit upon their backs. The heat is not great enough to injure the shell, but merely to cause it to separate at the joints. A large blade, very similar to a chemist's spatula, is then inserted horizontally between the laminæ, which are gently pried from the back. Great care must be taken not to injure the shell by too much heat, and yet it is not forced off until it is fully prepared for separation by a sufficient amount of warmth.

The operation is the extreme of cruelty, and many turtles do not survive it.

A Misunderstanding.

"I notice Jenks doesn't speak to you. What's the matter?"

"I can't help it. I started to talk to him about Christmas decorations the other day, and he thought I referred to the black eyes he got in a

ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

CELEBRATES HIS 107TH BIRTHDAY.

Syndicate Forming to Buy Mexican Gold Fields—A Former Canadian Premier Dead—Accidentally Shot Himself. Virginia Wants Foot Ball.

Alphonse Daudet, the novelist, died in Paris the past week.

President Frazer, of the State Industrial school at Columbus, Miss., has resigned.

The Park High school buiding at LaGrange, Ga., was destroyed by fire Friday night.

President Diaz, of Mexico, accorded William J. Bryan an audience during the past week.

The anti-football bill was defeated in the state senate of Virginia Friday by a vote of 21 to 12.

Headed by Mrs. Hannah S. Gould, a party of fifty women left New York last week to invade the Klondike.

Congressman McMillin will make the United States senatorial race in Tennessee if the governor calls an extra session.

At Ottawa, Ont., the residence of Patrick Leahy was burned, and Leahy and five of his children, the eldest but 9 years of age, perished.

A wreck on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad occurred near Clinton, Ind., Thursday, killing three employees and injuring several others.

Allen North, of Hardin county, Tenn., was instantly killed while out hunting. He did not know his gun was loaded and blew into the muzzle.

As a result of a boiler explosion at the mill of Stobaugh & Jennings at Choctaw, Ark., Thomas Treadaway and Joshua Huggins were instantly killed.

The famous Parisian model, Lucie Hagerland, has had her beauty destroyed by vitriol thrown at her by another model named Juiduicelli in a fit of jealousy.

Lewis George Clarke, the original George Harris, of Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" died at Lexington, Ky., Thursday, aged 68.

Judge F. B. Bonifay, of Florida, has been appointed general land commissioner of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, to succeed Hon. W. D. Chipley, deceased.

On the Monon railroad near LaFayette, Ind., eighteen freight cars plunged through a bridge, carrying the bridge with them. A brakeman was seriously crippled in jumping.

Another negro was lynched at Bankston Ferry, in Simpson county, Miss., on Wednesday, as an accomplice of Charlie Lewis, for the murder of the wife and four children of Brown Smith on Wednesday of last week.

Bud Brooks and Grady Reynolds were hanged last week at Jefferson, Ga. The crime for which Reynolds and Brooks were hanged was the murder of M. C. Hunt, a prominent merchant of Belton, Ga.

Twenty-five engineers and conductors of the Louisville and Nashville railroad have organized the Bessie Cox Gold and Prospecting Company at Birmingham, with a capital of $2,500, for the purpose of prospecting in the Klondike.

H. W. Reed, ex-president of the National Bank of Brunswick, Ga., and ex-chairman of the populist national finance committee, and William B. Gunby are forming a company to purchase a tract of land in Mexico upon which there are forty gold mines.

Hon. James Mitchell, solicitor-general in the New Brunswick cabinet and formerly premier of the province, died Friday. He resigned his premiership last summer owing to ill health, but retained his place in the cabinet. He was born in 1836.

Benjamin F. Allen, who resides near Grafton, W. Va., celebrated his 107th birthday last week. He is an Englishman and fought for Great Britain in the wars against Napoleon. Only recently he walked a distance of thirty miles. He is quite active and youthful-looking.

The Arapiles battalion, it was announced officially Friday, had surprised the insurgent forces under Napoles, in the province of Santa Clara. The insurgents, it is said, left twenty-five men killed on the field.

Minneapolis, Minn., was visited by a destructive fire last week. The Hotel Dakota, where nearly a thousand guests were housed, was completely destroyed. The fire department rescued a large number, and but for their assistance hundreds of persons would have been burned. The loss will aggregate $450,000 on stocks, furniture, etc., and $300,000 on buildings, totally destroyed, while other losses will probably reach $100,000 more.

SPANIARDS ANGRY.

Generals Engeneering a Protest Against the President's Message.

A special from Biarree, France, says: Mail advices received from Madrid (telegrams and telephone messages on this subject being forbidden) say the Spanish military journals, especially the most important, the Correspondencia Militaire, declare that twenty generals have come to an agreement to engineer a protest against President McKinley's message to congress, which is considered insulting to the Spanish army. It is added that a certain marshal was asked to co-operate, but merely replied that he would consider the matter. General Weyler answered a similar request, saying he desired in the first place to learn the opinion of certain personages, the law not allowing military men to send a collective petition to the minister for war.

Political circles are much excited at rumors of a manifesto to the country, which is said to be in course of preparation.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Resume of Work Done by That Body During the Past Session.

The state legislature expired by limitation at midnight Thursday. The principal business during the session was to provide a new penal system to take the place of the old lease system.

While convicts will still be hired out under the new system, it looks ultimately to the entire breaking up of hiring convicts to civilians and to their employment by the state.

The passage of a resolution calling upon senators and congressmen to support an amendment making United States senators elective by the people at large was the principal expression in national issues.

The legislature also declared in favor of a national quarantine.

The anti-football bill was passed by the legislature, but fell through under gubernatorial veto.

Very little active legislation reached a final passage.

JAPAN'S HAWAIIAN POLICY.

No Objection to Annexation, But Will Protect Japanese Interests.

The steamer Doric, which arrived at San Francisco from Japan Friday morning, brought the following news:

It is reported that as the cabinet found that the absolute protest against Hawaiian annexation was of no avail, it concluded that it would be advisable to yield a point, and, while not objecting to annexation itself, to make an effort to insure the protection of Japanese interests. The United States government will be asked to guarantee that the annexation of Hawaii shall not interfere with the advantage hitherto possessed by Japan in the islands. This will constitute the scope of Japan's policy, even should congress approve of annexation.

FOUR MURDERED IN ARKANSAS.

An Aged Farmer, His Wife and Two Sons Killed by Robbers.

A special from Russellville, Ark., gives details of a terrible murder near Clinton, in Van Buren county. An aged farmer named Patterson lived on Culpepper mountain. With him lived his wife and six sons, one of whom was married and had a small family. While the entire household was seated at the supper table two white men, wearing masks and heavily armed, suddenly sprang into the dining room and leveling their weapons at the heads of the assembled family commanded them to remain quiet and commenced shooting, when a general fight ensued. When the desperate battle ended, it was found that the old farmer, his wife and two of the sons had been killed. Robbery was the intent of the murderers.

Big Gain in Exports and Imports.

The exports of domestic merchandise during November last amounted to $114,608,301, a gain of nearly $7,000,000, as compared with November, 1896.

The imports of merchandise were $52,352,331, of which over 50 per cent. was free of duty. The gain for the month in the imports of dutiable merchandise was over $5,300,000.

The exports of silver during November amounted to $4,979,277, and the imports $1,544,305. For the nine months the exports of silver amounted to $52,551,963 and the imports $11,017,012.

SPANISH REVOLUTION.

Menacing Attitude of the Populace Indicates Trouble Ahead for the Dons.

According to the St. James Gazette private letters received from Madrid say that General Weyler's reception there was most significant, and that the government is so alarmed by the menacing attitude of the populace that artillery has been stationed at concealed points commanding the main thoroughfares. The gunners, however, can be relied upon.

The wildest rumors are current, says the letter in question, with reports that preparations are making for the flight of the royal family to France at the first sign of a revolution.

TAKE NO AGGRESSIVE ACTION

House Will Not Carry Out Declaration in Regard to Cuba.

CAUCUS TO SHOW THE POLICY OF MINORITY

New Ministers and Consuls—Men Who Will Represent Uncle Sam in the Courts Abroad—Treasury Statement—Other Capitol Notes.

Leading democratic members of the house of representatives say no aggressive action is anticipated to carry out the declarations of the recent democratic house caucus on Cuba, finance and bankruptcy. The caucus will be allowed to stand as showing the policy of the minority. It is said, however, that it would be useless to force the Cuban question before the house, as the rules would not permit the minority to bring the question to a vote. The senate Cuban resolution, which was indorsed by the caucus, reposes in the committee on foreign affairs and there is no power under the rules to get it from that committee.

Representative Livingston, of Georgia, has suggested that a resolution be presented directing the foreign committee to report the Cuban resolution at once. But this procedure would be ineffective, as the resolution directing an immediate report would be referred to the committee on rules. It is not doubted that this body, representing the majority, would act favorably on a motion of this character. All parliamentarians on the democratic side concede that it will be impossible for the minority to force an issue on Cuba. They are more hopeful of giving expression to the caucus action on finance. The majority will doubtless bring forward financial measures on the lines suggested by the president and Secretary Gage, and the democratic caucus policy will be given effect by the casting of the solid democratic vote, numbering 125, against the measure.

On the bankruptcy question, it is expected, that the minority will frame a bankruptcy bill calculated to meet the caucus declaration for a "wise and just" measure of this character. The bill when framed will be offered as a substitute to the one to be urged by the committee on judiciary after the holidays.

NEW MINISTERS AND CONSULS.

Names of Men Who Will Serve Their Country Abroad.

The president has sent the following nominations to the senate:

State—Wm. W. Thomas, Jr., of Maine, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Sweden and Norway; Hamilton King, of Michigan, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Siam; James C. McNally, of Pennsylvania, to be secretary of legation and consul general of the United States at Bogota, Colombia; Edgar O. Achorn, of Massachusetts, to be secretary of the legation of the United States at St. Petersburg, Russia.

To be consuls of the United States—Geo. M. Moulton, of Colorado, at Demerara, British Guiana; Robert P. Dooley, of New York, at St. Helena; Louis H. Ayme, of Illinois, at Gaudaloupe, West Indies; W. Stanley Hollis, of Massachusetts, at Loureco Marquez, Africa; Levi S. Wilcox, of Illinois, at Hankow, China; Chester Donaldson, of New York, at Mauagua, Nicaragua; Robert P. Skinner, of Ohio, at Marseilles, France; Frank W. Mahin, of Iowa, at Reichenberg, Bohemia; Marshal Halstead, of New York, at Birmingham, England; Harlan W. Brush, of New York, at Clifton, Ont.; Charles W. Merriman, of Wisconsin, at Brockville, Ont.; Daniel E. Ginley, of Wisconsin, at Athens, Greece; Lemuel W. Livingston, of Florida, at Cape Haytien, Hayti; John C. Billheimer, of Indiana, at Zanzibar, Zanzibar; John K. Pollard, of Ohio, to be consul general of the United States at Monterey, Mexico; Lewis Dexter, of Rhode Island, to be consul of the United States at Leeds, England.

Treasury Statement.

Thursday's stafement of the condition of the treasury: Available cash balances, $228,181,551; gold reserve, $159,367,692.

Carolina Convict Problem.

While the legislatures of several of the Southern states have been wrestling with the convict question, the South Carolina board of directors of the penitentiary has just ordered the sale of 1,100 bales of cotton on hand. The expectation is that the penitentiary will have 2,500 bales to offer before the season closes. All of this cotton was made on the several state farms with convict labor. The farms will this year turn in at least $10,000 to the state treasury.

Treaty Ratified.

The sultan has ratified the treaty of peace between Turkey and Greeee.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

The Senate—Wednesday.

Proceedings of the senate were enlivened today by an interesting debate upon the bill presented by the foreign relations committee providing for the prohibition of pelagic sealing by Americans. Mr. Davis, of the foreign affairs committee, called up the bill prohibiting fur sealing in the waters of the North Pacific and presented letters from Secretaries Sherman, of the state department, and Gage, of the treasury department on the subject, advocating the passage of the proposed measure. Mr. Davis said the bill was in the aid of furthering diplomatic negotiations and pointed out that there was now no law prohibiting pelagic sealing. Mr. Pettigrew entered a sharp protest to the passage of the bill because it deprives Americans of privileges extended to people of other countries, and offered an amendment to the effect that if Great Britain by the first of June next did not agree to a suspension of pelagic sealing this country would kill all seals, male and female, and thus settle the question once for all. Mr. Pettigrew then offered an amendment to the bill in line with his remarks, but it was defeated. The bill was then passed by a vote of 37 to 14.... By agreement the bill providing for the twelth census was taken up, but went over until after the holiday recess.... Mr. McBride, of Oregon, endeavored to secure the adoption of his resolution directing the secretary of war to supply relief to the suffering miners in the Klondike region and appropriating $250,000 for that purpose. The resolution was amended so that supplies might be transported by means of reindeer. Mr. McBride consented finally that the resolution should be recommitted to the military affairs committee with the understanding that it would be promptly reported.

The House.

The House spent the day in the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Eighty-nine of the 112 pages of the bill were covered and only one amendment of importance was adopted. It reduced the clerical force at the pension office ninety-five, involving a reduction in salaries of $115,000.

The civil service question, as on yesterday, was the chief topic of discussion today. At the opening this morning a resolution for the holiday recess from Saturday, December 18, to January 5, offered by Mr. Dingley, from the committee on ways and means, was adopted. Mr. Livingston submitted some general remarks in opposition to the civil service law, which he denounced as a humbug and a fraud. He was followed by Messrs. Dearmond, Bingham and Wheeler, and at 5:05 the House adjourned.

The Senate—Thursday.

Mr. Allen's resolution calling on the president for information about the instructions given to the international monetary commission and the report made to him by the commission came up, to which Mr. Wolcott, chairman of the commission, replied that he would soon make a detailed statement of the commission. The resolution went over until January 15.... Mr. Pritchard, chairman of the committee on civil service, delivered a speech concerning the general features of the law.... Mr. Frye, of the commerce committee, favorably reported and the senate passed a bill directing the secretary of the treasury to purchase or construct a suitable vessel for revenue cutter service on the Yukon river, Alaska, to cost not to exceed $40,000.... Mr. Allison reported favorably the house joint resolution providing for a recess of congress from December 18, 1897, to January 5, 1898. The resolution was adopted.... Mr. Hawley reported the resolution of Mr. McBride, for the relief of American miners and other sufferers in the Yukon valley, Alaska. The committee structk out all but the enacting clause and amended the resolution by appropriating $250,000, which is to be used by the secretary of war for the purchase of subsistence and supplies, and for their transportation and distribution. The resolution was adopted.... A resolution was passed directing the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate the names of the revenue cutters employed on the coast of Florida to prevent filibustering; how many such expeditions were thwarted; what vessels were captured; what armed expeditions were taken, and by what authority of law the secretary of the treasury acted in the matter. The bill went over to a future date. Adjourned.

The House.

The house today passed a bill appropriating $175,000 for the relief of the people of the Yukon river country, and also the bill passed by the senate yesterday to prohibit pelagic sealing by American citizens. In the course of the debate over the latter bill there was some exceedingly caustic criticisms of the course of our Behring sea negotiations, past and present. After further debate, the bill was passed, yeas 148, nays 78. At 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate—Friday.

A spirited debate was precipitated in the senate today by the submission by Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, of the report of the special joint committee of the senate and house of representatives, appointed to investigate the use of alcohol in the arts. It developed that a wide divergence of opinion exists among senators as to the practicability from the point of view of government revenue of reducing the present tax upon alcohol used in the arts. Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, who favors such a reduction, expressed the opinion that if congress would lay aside political considerations and deal with the liquor question courageously and honestly by the imposition of an additional tax of a dollar a barrel on liquor and beer the government revenue would take care of itself. Mr. Vest, of Missouri, strenuously opposed any additional tax on beer.... Under a special order eighteen private pension bills were passed.... At the suggestion of Mr. Hawley, chairman of the military affairs committee, the bill passed by the house for the relief of the miners in the Klondike was taken up at once. The senate bill was substituted for that of the house and a conference ordered, with Senators Hawley, Carter and Cockrell as conferees.... After the debate on alcohol used in the arts had run some time, Mr. Allison deprecated any attempt to raise the question at present.... At 4:25 p. m. the senate adjourned until tomorrow.

The House.

The house today completed the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, excepting the paragraph relating the civil service. By agreement, the debate on this latter paragraph will go over until after the holidays. The bill as reported abolishes the assay office at New Orleans. The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial bill. On Mr. Cannon's motion, the senate amendment to the bill for the relief of the miners on the Upper Yukon was disagreed to and its committees agreed to a conference. Messrs. Cannon, of Illinois; Northway, of Ohio, and Sayers, of Texas, were appointed conferees.... The debate drifted into a financial discussion. Mr. Cox, of Tennessee, submitted that Secretary Gage's testimony, given before the house banking committee, was a frank statement of the position of the government. He had voted his adherence to the gold standard as against bimetallism, and his whole bill was designed to uphold and perpetuate that standard. Adjourned.

The Senate—Saturday.

Today's open session of the senate was brief, the time being consumed in the introduction of bills and resolutions, several of the latter calling for information from various departments being passed.... A joint resolution was passed providing for the expenditure of $10,000 more than originally intended upon the government building at the Trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha, Neb.; that $2,500 be appropriated for a building at the exposition for a display of the life-saving service and that the cost of the government display be reduced from $150,000 to $137,500, the entire cost of the government buildings at the exposition to $62,500.... Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, secured the adoption of a resolution, calling upon the secretary of the interior to report to the senate the present status in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations in the Indian Territory.... The senate, at 12:40 p. m., went into executive session. After the executive session the conference report upon the bill providing relief for the Klondike miners was received and adopted. The bill appropriates $100,000 to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war to relieve the suffering people in the Yukon valley and gold-bearing regions of Alaska, providing the consent of the Canadian government can be obtained to the transportation of such supplies through Canadian terr' tory. At 2 p. m. the senate adjourned until Wednesday, January 5, 1898.

The House.

The conference report to the emergency relief measure for the Klondike country was presented and agreed to. It compromises the amount of the relief fund at $200,000; provides securing the consent of Canada to extending the relief to the Canadian side, and authorizes the use of the army to carry out the relief measures. It also provides that the supplies must be purchased instead of being donated.... A house bill was passed confirming certain cash entries of public lands.... At 12:30 Mr. Boutelle, of Illnois, offered resolutions of profound regret on the death of Mr. Cooke, of Illinois, and eulogies were begun. Those who paid tribute to the deceased member were Messrs. Boutelle, Foss, Henderson, Belknap, Boyce, Mann, Hopkins, Dinsmore, Graff, Moody, Prince and Peters.

At 2:10 the house adjourned to January 5.

To Please His Second Wife.

William Carr, the child murderer, was hanged at the Clay county court house at Liberty, Mo., Friday. Carr was an ignorant backwoodsman who sought to please his second wife by drowning his 3-year-old daughter by his first wife.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

NEWTON & CARRUTHERS, Proprietors.
A. S. CARRUTHERS, Editor.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Dec. 23, 1897

Everyone should favor incorporation.

People with evil minds imagine that all others are as bad as they are.

It is almost certain that Montevallo will have water works in the near future.

Montevallo excels Birmingham in every particular as a site for a cotton factory.

The citizens of Montevallo should hold a meeting and take steps to incorporate the town.

Every minister of the gospel in Alabama should raise his voice against the cowardly practice of carrying firearms.

The News wishes all, rich and poor, white and black, a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

If the young men would spend their money for good newspapers and books instead of revolvers and whiskey they would become more civilized.

Why will farmers waste their hard-earned money on artificial fertilizers when they can make their own out of cotton seed (composted) and manure?

Greedy Cleveland is still using government steam launches for his fishing and whisky-swilling trips. The obese accident must imagine that he owns the United States.

When a live newspaper essays to expose a wrong, it wins in 99 cases out of 100, as the Age-Herald has done in its fight against the extortions of the Birmingham Gas company.

Surely the Kentucky belle who last year sent a bottle of 40-year-old rye whiskey to be used in christening the battleship "Kentucky" is not surprised at the news that Grover Cleveland drank it up.

Montevallo will have a bath-house about the first of January. Cleanliness is next to godliness and no man in need of a bath can keep in a truly christian frame of mind, so all should be thankful for the new bath house and make frequent use of it.

When Secretary of the Treasury Gage was explaining his financial bill last week to the house committee on banking and currency, the democratic members must have said: "It is the face of Lyman J. Gage, but the voice of Rothschild."

It is hard to understand why farmers so generally neglect to take out a fire insurance policy. Any merchant who neglected to do so would soon have to go out of business, because wholesale houses would not credit him. A farmer's house, barn, implements and live stock are his stock in rade, and he should insure them.

Subscribe for the News.

The Dr. Whitsitt controversy which is disturbing the Baptist churches of Alabama is another one of the unfortunate church wrangles about the difference between tweedledum and tweedledee which furnish amusement to the ungodly and pain genuine Christians.

Incorporation and persistent advertising to the world of Montevallo's advantages will make this a city of five thousand people in five years. The owners of real estate will be benefitted, the merchants will have increased trade, every professional man, mechanic and laborer will experience prosperity, and the farmers will have a home market. Every man must put his shoulder to the wheel, however. First, incorporation; second, organization; third, hustling and advertising; fourth, population and prosperity.

Some individual in this town, who is either a congenital idiot or a miserable whelp, put in circulation on Sunday a lying rumor that the editor of this paper was intoxicated on either Friday or Saturday night last week. Messrs. C. L. Meroney, F. F. Crowe, S. B. Gibson and Clifton Newton can answer for Friday night; S. B. Gibson, Will Nolen and Clifton Newton for Saturday night. The statement of the sneaking rascal was a deliberate lie, as the above named gentlemen can prove. We believe him to be one of the Peeping Toms scarified in last week's issue, which explains the animus of the falsehood.

The various murders perpetrated of late, which are to be ascribed solely to the barbarous habit of carrying lethal weapons such as knives and revolvers, must surely arouse men to a sense of the idiocy of that practice.

If men must quarrel and fight, surely they can do so without slashing and shooting one another like cowardly Dagoes. Most of those who "pack guns" do so from habit, but if they will reflect that the habit is a virtual confession that they lack the courage to rely upon their own strength to repel assaults, they will abandon it as cowardly, swap their revolvers for hoes and make some money by truck farming instead of making widows of the women whom they meet every Sunday in church.

Five cent cotton is with us to stay until a reform president fills the position now occupied by Mark Hanna's puppet; in fact, the policy of the present maladministration, as enunciated in McKinley's message to congress, will almost certainly reduce the price of cotton still further.

Confronted with this condition, the farmers in this section of the country must find some crop besides cotton to tide them over the coming years of goldbug hard times. Those in the Gulf counties of Texas, in southern Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida annually reap handsome sums by supplying the northern markets with early vegetables. There is no reason why the people of Shelby, Bibb and Chilton counties should not do likewise. One man near Amite City, La., last year netted $4,000 from his crop of early strawberries. Until they can raise their own vegetables, the people of the north have every year from January to April to buy Irish potatoes, cabbages, carrots, tomatoes, onions and scores of other vegetables grown in the south.

Farmers should stop talking about the war and quarrelling with as good reformers as themselves because they do not wear the same tag, and should get down to good, careful truck farming. It will pay them better and make them independent and happy.

IN BOHEMIA.

BY JOHN BOYLE O'RILEY.

I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land;
For only there are the values true,
And the laurels gathered in all men's view.
The prizes of traffic and state are won
By shrewdness of force or by deeds undone;
But fame is sweeter without the feud,
And the wise of Bohemia are never shrewd.
Here pilgrims stream with a faith sublime
From every class and clime and time,
Aspiring only to be enrolled
With the names that are writ in the book of gold;
And each one bears in mind or hand
A palm of the dear Bohemian land.
The scholar first, with his book—a youth
Aflame with the glory of harvested truth;
A girl with a picture, a man with a play,
A boy with a wolf he has modeled in clay;
A smith with a marvelous hilt and sword,
A player, a king, a plowman, a lord—
And the player is king when the door is past,
The plowman is crowned and the lord is last!

I'd rather fail in Bohemia than win in another land;
There are no titles inherited there,
No hoard or hope for the brainless heir;
No gilded dullard, native born,
To stare at his fellow with leaden scorn:
Bohemia has none but adopted sons;
Its limits where Fancy's bright stream runs;
Its honors, not garnered for thrift or trade,
But for beauty and truth men's souls have made.
To the empty heart in a jeweled breast
There is value, maybe, in a purchased crest;
But the thirsty of soul soon learn to know
The moistureless froth of the social show;
The vulgar sham of the pompous feast
Where the heaviest purse is the highest priest;
The organized charity, scrimped and iced,
In the name of a cautious, statistical Christ;
The smile restrained, the respectable cant,
When a friend in need is a friend in want;
Where the only aim is to keep afloat,
And a brother may drown with a cry in his throat,
Oh, I long for the glow of a kindly heart and the grasp of a friendly hand,
And I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land.

A GIFT DECLINED.

Wuz thinkin' o' something to give her
Looked over the store—every shelf,
But nuthin' seemed right in the day or the night,
So I says: "I'll jest give her myself!"

So I bought me a pen for to write,
An' I offered myself in a letter;
But her answer wuz this (twuzn't sealed with a kiss!)
"Dear John, can't you find nothin' better?"

—Frank L. Stanton.

HORSE-SWAPPING DAY.

Last Saturday thousands of people resident within a radius of twenty miles from Montevallo tumbled out of bed at daybreak with the intention to attend the advertised horse swapping? convention and turkey shoot, but nine out of ten crawled back when they saw the weeping clouds overhead.

About four hundred came despite the steady, incessant drizzle. Some brought good horses and mules, some such things as this.

They did not enjoy the day, it was too wet. Some tried to counteract the rain by wetting their interiors with whiskey, but none became drunk. But few swaps were made. Next time the promoters will have to order a different brand of weather.

TOPSY TALKS.

Hello! I'm Topsy; not "Topsy-Turvey"—just Topsy. Dropped in other day on fast freight. Didn't drop off either—guess I fell off with the brakeman's assistance. Haven't been able to catch on since—trains run too fast: you know how fast these Three B trains run through here anyway. It's 'cause Lee's agent—try to keep up with him.

Guess I don't want to go anyhow. Too many pretty girls. Always did like pretty girls. Don't do a fellow like me much good though here. Capn's eyes too good, and Mrs. Babb—goodness me! That woman can see a hole in a doughnut a hundred yards off.

***

Girls won't flirt. May be too good. 'Spect, though, it's 'cause they're afraid of that little secretary—he might see them. Say! Tell me the girls are afraid of him as a mouse. Don't blame 'em. A yellow fever microbe would get out of the road if it saw those glasses coming. Says he can tell what a girl's doing a mile off. Reckon he's just making a telephone of his hat, though.

***

Capn's been up to Washington City. Must had a nice time. Looks like it. Got a new pair of shoes up there. Wouldn't 'sprise me if the Government don't give him 25,000 acres of public land. Senator Morgan he wanted to give him all the land in the state, but Cap'n—you know how modest he is—said 25,000 acres would do. Reckon Capn's going to put all the girls to chopping cotton next year.

***

Stopped in to see George Kroell the other day. He's a good fellow. Loves to hunt, but his feet are so big he don't like to carry them around. Too much exertion. He's got money to burn, but he don't burn much—it makes him sea-sick to smell the smoke.

***

Will Reynolds is a nice fellow. Don't talk much—thinks a whole heap though. He's rich! Got money to throw at the birds—knows which bird to throw it at, though. Got one trained—always brings it back to him. He's tall—most as tall as the new editor.

***

Little, he's cashier down at the bank—not a faro bank, but a sure 'nuff bank. Burgess'd like for Cap'n to stay away all the time. He gets to cash the checks for the girls then. Don't charge the girls any exchange, and wants to pay them interest on their money if it only stays in a week. He's a warm 'un, he is; going to Blocton Christmas.

***

My! Isn't that new editor a picture? Tell me they used to call him Bill Nye No. 2, in Washington. Never knew him in Washington, but then we didn't move in the same circle of society. I had a job with the city and flew so high that they had to put a ball and chain on me to keep me within bounds. But Nye's all right. He'll come in handy when the town gets electric lights. Won't have to spike the poles for anyone to climb—he can just reach up and fit the carbons in just as easy. The girls won't get a chance to put that ruffle on his coat—he's bought him a new one. Says he paid for it (?).

***

Gemima! don't the new postoffice loom up. Doc, he's a hustler anyway. He's got up-to-date ideas. Wish there were others. Major's going to run it for Frank, until he gets to be Mayor. Major's a good title, but there's more money in Mayor if it does have the same number of letters. Going to rent a box if I can borrow fifty cents from Fred Rogan. Don't get any mail, but got a good imagination and like to look at the key.

***

George Morgan's a handsome fellow. Always happy, and looks like an Astorbilt. Wouldn't do for a hired mourner at a Moorish funeral. All the pretty girls trade at his store. I don't blame 'em.

***

Charley Meroney's another one of those sky scrapers. Ought to wear a coon-skin cap. It's pretty chilly in the clouds these days. He's going to be rich some day. Don't like to play skip penny with his money. Might sprain his wrist,

***

Haven't had a bath since I've been in Montevallo, excepting a spit bath. Don't like spit baths this time of the year; weather too cold. Wonder why somebody don't build water works, anyway. They'd make a Klondyke stroke of it if they did.

***

Sorry this town's not incorporated. If it was I'd get a nice free lodging without having to crawl up in Will Lyman's hay loft every night. No, guess I'm glad it isn't. I don't like to work much.

***

Didn't go to church Sunday. Like to hear Abernathy preach, but I felt too sinful. Went down to the creek and got up under the bridge out of the rain. Tried to smoke that cheroot Latham gave me. Reckon Latham thought he'd be a public benefactor and get me out of the way. Most succeeded. Would have drowned myself, but was afraid I might get wet and catch my death of cold.

***

The girls are going to celebrate Christmas. They are buying lots of powder and are going to bang their hair; that is, all who don't Klondyke it.

***

Say! I'm tired. You ought to be. See you later. I'm going down to the spring and drink. "TOPSY."

TOPSY'S PURLOININGS.

A woman is sometimes pressed for time, but usually for some other reason.

A girl appreciates the sympathy that makes a man feel for her in the dark.

No woman can lace herself as tight as a man can drink himself.

Church fairs, amateur theatricals, and home talent concerts are called entertainments, but goodness knows why.

It is hoping against hope when a woman pulls down a folding bed and then looks under it for the proverbial man.

Never hit a man when he's down. It's safer to throw rocks at him when he's up a tree.

The Bible tells us that after God created man he rested: but since creating woman neither God nor man has been able to rest.

Some women swear like men, while others are so pious they won't even darn socks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

This school has enrolled 212 scholars, 15 teachers and 3 officers. The attendance averages 150. It is seldom that more than one teacher or officer is absent. Collections average $2.00 each Sunday. The school has just received 100 word editions of the Young People's Hymnal and 20 note editions. The school is growing rapidly and is destined to become one of the best in Alabama.

Sunday, December 19th, there were present 111 scholars, 14 teachers and 3 officers. The collection amounted to $2.08.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J. H. McMath, secretary.

Enrolled scholars 171, teachers 16, officers 3.

Sunday, December 19th: Scholars 79, teachers 10, officers 3.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

The Sunday school pupils of the Methodist church will be entertained in that sacred edifice on Thursday evening as a Christmas treat. A subscription has been raised and all the pupils will be regaled with fruits and candies. Songs and recitations and a talk by Rev. P. L. Abernathy will entertain and instruct those present. Everyone, irrespective of denomination, is invited.

GIRLS' POYTECHNIC INSTITUTE.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

GIVES A GREAT ENTERTAINMENT. MISS JULIA GREY THE STAR OF THE EVENING.

Last Friday night the Dramatic club had its innings at the Dormitory, and rendered a program which would have pleased the most critical metropolitan audience.

Many girls from the boarding houses attended, also Mrs. Babb and Messrs. W. B. Reynolds and C. L. Meroney. Miss Nellie Parker visited her cousin, Miss Edna Nelson.

The set program was as follows:

1. Piano Solo—
   Miss Mary Jane Vassar
2. Piano and Violin—
   Misses Robinson and Crum
3. Dance—
   Miss Maude Rosser
4. Recitation—
   Bonnie Stapleton
5. Piano and Violin—
   Misses Robinson and Crum
6. Song and Dance—
   Miss Julia Grey
7. Piano and Violin—
   Misses Robinson and Crum
8. Song and Dance, "Down on the Ohio,"—Misses Julia Grey and Jeanette Roebuck
9. Duet—
   The Misses Vassar
10. Recitation—
    Miss Julia Grey

The Misses Vassar play the piano well, as does Miss Robinson, while Miss Maggie Crum is a mistress of the violin. One could listen to her playing Mexican music all night and not note the passage of the hours.

Miss Bonnie Stapleton recites with genuine dramatic force, and will become a superior elocutionist.

Miss Maud Rosser is an extremely agile, graceful dancer, who can pironette in a manner which would make the antiquated corvphees of the companies sent to the Southern theatres by the Theatre Trust turn green with envy if they could but see her.

The star of the evening, however, was Miss Julia Grey, who is positively a genius, doubly endowed with poetry in her feet and music in her throat. She sang one song in soubrette style better than most of that sisterhood could have done it. She and Miss Jeanette Roebuck sang "Down on the Ohio" and danced so well that they were encored again and again. In her closing recitations she proved herself a natural actress. She has a great future.

The whole entertainment was most enjoyable, and reflected great credit upon the Dramatic club.

Toys, fruits and candies cheap at F. F. Crowe & Co's.

Tasteful X'mas presents cheap at F. F. Crowe & Co's.

Several new faces will be seen at the school after the holidays and over 350 will then answer at roll call.

Miss Fannie G. Stringer, of Salem, Ala., visited her niece, Miss Leo Sanders, the assistant teacher of dressmaking, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some of the girls in the dressmaking class have made themselves evening waists to be worn during the holidays, which are most artistic creations.

Miss Rosa May Burnett will spend the holiday season with her parents at Uniontown, and on her return will be accompanied by a new pupil, Miss Pearl Brown.

Each young lady in the school will receive a copy of this issue, and the editor requests each to take it home, show it to her relatives and ask them to subscribe.

Mrs. J. D. Smith, of Siddonsville, visited her daughter, Alta Smith, Tuesday and Wednesday, and on her return will take Miss Virginia Prowell with her as far as Dayton.

Misses Lucile Wilkinson, Etta Davis and Birdie Burns will spend their holidays in Prattville with their parents. They will bring Miss Pleasye Northington, a new pupil, with them on their return.

Mrs. Babb, Misses Fox, Stallworth and Cothran and Prof. Simmons will remain in Montevallo during the holidays. Other teachers will scatter as follows: Miss Evans and Mrs. Hudson, Columbiana; Miss Bush, Macon, Miss.; Miss Alston, Clayton; Miss Kennedy, Centreville; Mrs. Nelson and Miss Crumpton, Montgomery; Miss Lee, Furman and Birmingham, and Miss Dale, Camden.

Tuesday evening President Reynolds returned from Washington. He is hopeful of the passage of his bill granting 25,000 acres of public lands to the schools. He conversed with leading men on the subject and interested them. While away he visited the public schools of the District of Columbia, and the Georgia Normal and Industrial School at Milledgeville, Ga. He found it far inferior to this school in its location. Want of space precludes publication of his observations, but they will appear in the next issue of the News. He looks well and is full of energy. After the holidays he will return to Washington to push the passage of his bill.

All toilet articles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Latham & Co. will sell you a suit of clothes anywhere from $3 to $9.

Local.

O. W. Puls is figuring on some big contracts.

Go to F. F. Crowe & Co's. for X'mas presents.

Kroell has it.

H. H. Splawn and Ad. Cruse, of Centreville, were in town Tuesday buying goods.

Kroell can supply anything.

Ernest West says there is a girl at Sessions' Chapel whom he will marry if her father doesn't kick too high.

Nat Nabors, of Morgan's store, is the shortest clerk in town, but his list of sales is as long as the longest.

Montevallo's sweetest widow has received the material for a new silk dress. Can it be that—? Time will tell.

The editor wishes all the girls a merry X'mas and hopes they will all return to spend a happy New Year in Montevallo.

Go to Kroell's for it.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

Rev. Jas. F. Smith, of Talladega, preached last Sunday morning at the Episcopal church, and conducted a prayer service in the evening.

J. S. Prentice, Aldrich's colored store-keeper, knows a good thing when he sees it, for he paid a silver dollar for the News on Tuesday.

W. L. Pratt, erstwhile postmaster at Blocton and now a legal luminary of that town, spent Monday and Tuesday in Montevallo on a visit to his sister, Mrs. F. F. Crowe, and while here assisted in the installation of the new postoffice.

X'mas toys at F F.Cr& Co's.

F. F. Crowe is now postmaster of Montevallo. His commission arrived last Friday and Monday he removed the postoffice with all its effects, including Major Strong, to his store. His new office front is very handsome, made in the latest improved style and equipped with lock boxes. If he has the power to do so, Mr. Crowe will place a drop letter box at the west end of Main street for the convenience of those in that section of town.

FOR SALE.—No. 2 Remington typewriter, in good order, cheap. Apply at NEWS office, Montevallo.

President Reynolds is highly elated over the offer received by one of the most proficient girls in the dressmaking class, who will graduate in that art at the end of the term, of the management of a dressmaking establishment in Kentucky with a salary of $40 a month.

If you want anything, Kroell has it.

Christmas Presents at Kroell's.

They Have Come

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL, CHOICE AND ELEGANT

Christmas Presents ever seen in Montevallo

FANCY PLUSH AND CELLULOID GOODS

in bewildering variety. TOILET SETS, ALBUMS, SHAVING SETS, HANDKERCHIEF and GLOVE BOXES, BOXES OF PERFUMERY, ETC.

☞COME AND SEE THEM.

OUR SPECIAL LINES:

FOR MEN.

Special for Christmas trade:

ALL WOOL SUIT..... $3.00

OVERCOATS. { A nice line especially cheap.

HATS, all makes, cheap.

SHOES, large variety, cheap.

FOR LADIES.

Our new and special line of the latest style fur-trimmed and braided CAPES and CLOAKS arrived last week. They sold like hot cakes. More will be here in a few days.

DAINTY SHOES for pretty girls adorn our shelves, and would adorn young ladies' feet.

OUR REGULAR LINES:

We carry full lines of

GROCERIES, GLASS, CHINA AND TINWARE,

Cutlery, Fruits, Fancy Candies and Cigars!

Of the best quality and at the lowest prices.

Morgan Bros.

MONTEVALLO, : : : : ALA.

Every Kind of Candies,

Fruits, Dolls,

AND OTHER

Christmas Goods

We are too busy to quote prices,

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

These popular young ladies will spend their holidays at the places indicated; Wilma Saunders, Birmingham; Katie Campbell, Carrie Lum, Carolyn Sadler, Em Randolph, Minnie Bunkley and Emma Herbert, Montgomery; Sallie Fuller, Clanton; Nettie Ellis, Blocton; Estelle McCreary and Mary Burnett, Evergreen; Anna Milner, Nell Parker and Edna Nelson, Columbiana; Edith Lathrop, Riverside; Dora Foude, Mobile; Jeffie Belle, Harpersville; Niel Chandler, Vincent; and Hattie Armentrout, Oxford.

Latham & Co. have purchased a large quantity of clothing for men, youths and boys, which they are selling below cost.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

If you want something pretty, and something that will keep you warm, get one of those Clay Worsted Suits from Latham & Co.

Everything at Kroell's.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Best Toys at Kroell's.

ALDRICH.

W. T. Goodson bought a large bill of goods here on Tuesday for his store at Randolph.

J. S. Prentice visited Montevallo on Tuesday to order some job printing at the Montevallo News office.

The mines are closed this week, but will re-open after the holidays.

The amateur actors and actresses of Aldrich intend playing "The Turn of the Tide" at Blocton in the near future.

It can be had at Kroell's.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O, was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says, "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure "It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

MOTHERS and FATHERS,

SISTERS, BROTHERS, COUSINS, UNCLES, AUNTS,

Of the 338 sweet girls whose doings are weekly recorded in these columns, and whose pictures we intend to commence publishing after the holidays,

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE

To read this paper every week? It will be like a weekly letter from your loved one in Montevallo. If so, send your subscription to

The Montevallo News,

MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

$1.00 per year; six months, 50 cents.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued).

There was a window in the side wall of the interior room which Paxton examined, discovering that it was not secured, although it was provided with interior fastenings of an approved kind. He pushed up the sash and found that the heavy outside shutters with which it was guarded were not fastened—that the hooks had been broken. He saw, moreover, that the window opened upon a narrow passage between that and the next building

The police sergeant kept close to the detective as though he feared he would make some discovery which might escape his own unguided observation, and he noted all Paxton saw.

It was Mr. Paxton's method never to ask any questions until he had thoroughly examined the scene of a crime, and thus in the first instance his mind was unbiased by what might be told him.

Now having concluded his investigation for the present, he addressed several questions to Marion and Judith Kredge.

"Miss Oakburn, did you hear the report of a pistol or any unusual sound before you discovered your father?" he asked.

"No, sir, I heard nothing, although I have not slept to night," answered Marion.

"And did you hear nothing?" continued Paxton, turning to Judith Kredge.

"Nothing, s.r," she replied.

"When you came to the office, I think you told the policeman that you found the door unlocked?" Paxton went on, now addressing Marion.

"Yes, sir, it was unlocked."

"And the street door?"

Marion turned to Judith.

"That was also unlocked and unbolted, as I found when I went to open it," the woman said.

"Was there any one besides you and this woman in your apartments to-night, Miss Oakburn?"

Marion hesitated for a moment, and then she said:

"Mr. Stuart Harland, a clerk employed by Mr. Garrison, occupied our front room directly over the office."

"But he is not there now, sir. I ran up to his room as soon as we discovered that Mr. Oakburn was murdered. I am sure I don't know what can have become of him, for he went to his room as usual quite late, and as I sleep in a room adjoining his I heard him moving about a few moments before Miss Marion rapped at my door and asked me to go down and look for her father. I noticed when I looked into his room that his traveling-bag was gone," said Judith Kredge.

Marion's face assumed an expression of absolute agony, and she gave Judith Kredge a glance full of aversion and fear.

Mr. Paxton and the police sergeant exchanged significant glances.

"Excuse me a moment," said the detective, and he slipped out of the office. He returned very quickly, for he had only run up to Stuart Harland's apartment and hastily searched it. He discovered nothing except that the bed had not been opened that night.

A short consultation between the detective and the police sergeant ensued, and the latter said:

"You are right, sir; Mr. Garrison should be sent for at once."

Acting upon this decision, he dispatched one of his men to the broker's residence with a hastily written note containing information of the tragedy which had been enacted at his office.

Marion, seemingly exhausted by grief and excitement, had seated herself beside her dead father, and with her face buried in her hands she remained silent and motionless, while Judith Kredge stood by a window and listened eagerly to a conversation which was carried on in low tones between the police sergeant and one of his men.

Judith Kredge did not possess a good face; rather it was one to awaken distrust in the mind of the observer. She had a low, retreating forehead, large coarse features, thin bloodless lips, and small yellow eyes set close together under beetling brows. Her age was about fifty. Her life had not been cast in pleasant places, and she had grown to hate those who were happy because she was not so. She was envious of all persons who were in the possession of the advantages of life of which fate had deprived her. In disposition she was vindictive and cruel. She was cunning, unscrupulous and daring to a certain degree, and avarice dominated every other passion in her heart.

Just at this moment there were strange thoughts in Judith Kredge's mind. She was plotting seemingly to turn certain secrets of this dreadful night of murder to her own profit.

Mr. Jason Garrison, the broker, arrived in less than thirty minutes, and he was pale and agitated.

Suspense and anxiety were written upon his features as he burst into the office, and as though oblivious to the presence of anyone rushed to John Oakburn's desk and began to examiue a file of cheques which he took from a drawer. His hands trembled the while so that he could scarcely hold the papers, and he experienced the keen agony of a gamester to whom the turning of a card or the calling out of a number is almost a matter of life or death, as he ran over the file of cheques.

"He is searching for something of vital importance to his interest," said Paxton, sotto voce.

"Not here! There is one chance left!" exclaimed Jason Garrison, totally unconscious that he spoke, and turning to a small memorandum book he hurriedly looked over its pages.

The next moment the book fell from his nerveless grasp, and he sank forward as though prostrated by a nervous shock.

"I am a ruined man!" he exclaimed.

Paxton quickly sprang to his side.

"You have sustained a serious loss by this robbery, sir?" he asked.

Jason Garrison raised his pale, haggard face, and, bringing his clenched fist down upon the desk with force, cried, fiercely:

"I tell you, man, I am ruined. Hopelessly ruined!"

"Then there was a large sum of money in the safe?" asked Paxton.

"Yes, sir."

"I am a detective, and I am sure, my dear sir, that it will be to your interest to conceal nothing from me."

"I have nothing to conceal!" cried Garrison, in a way that in the detective's judgment belied his words. "I will explain, sir," he continued. "Yesterday afternoon I gave my unfortunate cashier, John Oakburn, a cheque for $78,000, and instructed him to cash it at the bank, and keep the money over night here in our safes, as we were to have an urgent demand for it early in the morning. The sergeant's note informed me that there was no money in the safe, and I find the cheque missing from the file of small cheques where I saw John Oakburn place it. More, in this book I found my cashier's memorandum, which dashed to the ground my one hope that the money was not lost."

Mr. Garrison picked up the book which he had dropped on the floor, and turning the leaves he read the following in John Oakburn's handwriting:

"Dec. 23, cashed cheque for $78,000 to-day."

"Seventy-eight thousand dollars. A large cheque. But here in the great money center of the country among you brokers, I suppose the amount is not surprising. However, it has been stolen by John Oakburn's murderer. Seventy-eight thousand dollars is quite a haul for a thief, but let us hope that we will recover the stolen money," said Paxton.

"We already have a clew to the assassin," the police sergeant said.

"Whom do you suspect?" asked the broker.

"Let me give you a synopsis of the case and you can draw your own deductions. The office door was found unlocked. Nothing to be noted in that, since it was probably so left by the cashier when he entered. The street door was also unlocked, and the bolts, which were on the inside, were drawn. The safe was opened by means of John Oakburn's key. A window in the rear office is unfastened. Now, it is clear to my mind that the assassin was an inmate of this house—one who knew the combination of the safe and that there was money in it. He surprised John Oakburn, shot him, took the key from his pocket, opened the safe, secured the money and then unbarred the street door and fled. But our assassin and robber was cunning. He thought he would leave a loophole of doubt in the theory which would be formed of the crime, and so he opened the window in the rear office, pried off the fastening of the shutters, and left them so as to give the impression that the assassin might have broken into the office by that route. Now, sir, who among your clerks knew the combination of your safe lock? Who among them knew that $78,000 was to be left in the safe over night?"

Thus spoke the police sergeant.

He had taken a position in the center of the room, and spoke and gesticulated in a pompous manner, like some political stump orator. It was clearly evident that he fancied he had the entire case under his thumb.

"Only one person except John Oakburn knew the combination of the safe and that the stolen money was to be kept in it over night, and that person is above suspicion, sir," answered Mr. Garrison.

"His name, if you please?"

"Stuart Harland," answered the broker, and then as the name passed his lips he started, for he suddenly remembered that the young clerk occupied an apartment in the building, so he quickly added: "But Mr. Harland rooms here and he should have been called."

"He was called, sir, but he failed to respond, because he had fled, and I may as well tell you plainly, sir, though I would spare your feelings, that I entertain a grave suspicion which I am sure is shared by Mr. Paxton."

"What do you mean?" demanded the broker.

"That circumstances seem to indicate that Stuart Harland is John Oakburn's murderer!" replied the police sergeant.

CHAPTER III.

At last the direct accusation which Marion Oakburn dreaded, and to prevent which she had besought Judith Kredge to preserve silence regarding the unexplained departure of Stuart Harland, was made.

The police sergeant was responsible for formulating the dreadful arraignment into words, but in the minds of the others present it could scarcely be doubted that the same suspicion had found a lodgment.

It is an age of distrust No man's past is regarded as a bond for his future. Men whose reputations were spotless yesterday are buried in the mire to-day. The temptation of gold outweighs the honor and honesty of men who until the denouement comes are regarded as above suspicion.

But Jason Garrison would have staked his life upon the innocence and honor of the man to whom he meant to intrust the future happiness of his only child.

As the police sergeant pronounced the name of Stuart Harland the broker leaped to his feet.

"Never, sir! Never! Do not dare to couple Stuart Harland's name with a crime in my presence," he cried.

"Stuart Harland is as innocent as I am. I know it, I feel it. He is not capable of a dishonorable deed," said Marion, earnestly seeking to exculpate the suspected one.

"You see, sir, even the daughter of the victim of this tragedy is assured of the innocence of the man you accuse," said Garrison.

"And permit me to say that you are entirely wrong in thinking that I share your suspicion of Stuart Harland," said Paxton, the detective, smiling blandly.

"Indeed, under the circumstances, I am convinced of his innocence," he added.

The police sergeant seemed amazed.

"The circumstances are all against him; it cannot be any one else," he said, defiantly.

"Good, keep on thinking so and work on that line. The way will be clear to enable me to secure the real assassin," said Paxton pleasantly.

"We shall see. I have placed a shrewd man on Harland's track and he will be arrested before morning."

"I wish you joy of your capture, I am sure," retorted Paxton.

Jason Garrison turned his back upon the detective and the police sergeant with an expressive gesture, and strode to the side of the dead man.

Long and earnestly he gazed upon the face of the dead, and the man of the world was deeply moved as he thought that this poor man, who had served him with surprising fidelity for long years, had perhaps met his fate in defense of his property.

"Poor John, poor John!" he said. "He was one of the few men who are honest from principle alone. He was honored by all, and he leaves behind him a reputation of which any man might well be proud."

Then, turning to Marion, he added:

"Miss Oakburn, the memory of your father will be respected by all who knew him. He died as he had lived—faithful to his duty and an honest man."

The dead cashier's daughter was strangely agitated, but her face became transformed with a look of heroic resolve as she said:

"My father so lived that when he was dead men might speak of him as you have done. His soul would have revolted at any other destiny. His memory shall be revered."

There was something fierce and startling in the intensity of the girl's voice, and her manner was that of one in a strangely excited mental state.

But her hearers, with perhaps one exception, noted her excitement and her [illegible] manner to emotions occasioned [illegible] the discovery of her father's murder alone.

Paxton was the only one present not of this opinion, and he covertly watched the cashier's daughter with a sudden augmentation of interest. The detective possessed many serviceable qualifications for the vocation he had adopted, not the least valuable of which was the faculty of discerning the cause of human emotions, and he felt that Marion Oakburn was now actuated by some powerful feeling which the others did not suspect.

But even his acumen could not determine what the secret feeling was.

"If I am any judge of character, this young woman possesses rare strength of will and tenacity of purpose. When she declared that her father's memory should be revered she spoke as though there was a danger that it might be reviled — as though she felt called upon to protect his memory from odium. Ah, if you hold a secret, Marion Oakburn, you will know how to preserve it inviolate," reflected Paxton.

There was nothing more to be done now, and the police sergeant stated that his men would guard the office until morning, and that nothing should be disturbed until the inquest, which would be held the following day.

Mr. Garrison assured Marion of his friendship and that she might rely on him for any needed assistance.

At such a time as this, of sorrow and affliction, the most kind and sympathetic words seem hollow and meaningless, and Marion was in such a state of doubt and trouble that she scarcely heard the broker's kindly remarks.

The office was left in charge of two police officers, who were to watch beside the dead until the dawn, and Marion crept, cold and shivering, to her room, while Judith Kredge sought her own apartment.

But there was no sleep for the cashier's daughter that night. She sank wearily upon her couch, and there remained thinking a thousand troubled thoughts, experiencing a thousand doubts and the torture of one great dread.

Day was at hand, and the light of the lamp was turning pale, while the morning mists began to disappear, and the sunlight fell upon the window panes, when at last Marion started up.

She knelt as if in prayer, and while her back was turned to the door, it opened noiselessly and the evil face of Judith Kredge peered in upon her for a moment.

When Marion arose she said in self-communion:

"I will not turn back now; I do not wish to do so. Cheerfully will I make any sacrifice that may be demanded, and I am sustained by the thought that in all I have done, I have been actuated by a noble purpose.

"But circumstances have arisen of which I had no thought. Oh, what adverse fate directed Stuart Harland to leave the house this night of all others, in the way that he has done? I can only hope that he will explain his conduct so as to exonerate himself from all suspicion. But what if circumstantial evidence should prove powerful enough to endanger his life——"

Under traversed her frame from head to foot.

"I trust—I pray it may not come to such a crisis as that," she added, presently.

At that moment Marion heard a faint sound outside her chamber door, and, suspecting that some one was listening there, she glided to the door and suddenly threw it open.

She came face to face with Judith Kredge, who was crouching at the keyhole.

Marion's face flushed, and her dark eyes flashed, as she cried imperatively:

"So you are eavesdropping. What do you mean by such conduct? Begone, instantly! I shall not retain you in my service after the present week."

For a moment Judith Kredge shrank away with a guilty look on her repulsive features, but suddenly she turned upon Marion fiercely and clutched her arm.

"Look at me, girl!" she hissed. "Oh, yes, they killed your father. I know the truth. You are in my power; in my power, my proud beauty! Ha! Ha! Now discharge me if you dare!"

Judith Kredge flung Marion from her, and crossing the hall entered her own room.

Marion reeled back with a frightful expression on her face, and she muttered:

"What shall I do, what shall I do! This is worse than all the rest."

Meanwhile, when Jason Garrison left his office in company with the police sergeant and Detective Paxton at the conclusion of the investigation, at the scene of the crime, he repaired at once to his own home, where his daughter Edna, who had been informed of the murder when her father left the house, anxiously awaited his return.

Jason Garrison was a widower, and all his affection centered on his only child—his daughter Edna, who returned his love with a wealth of filial devotion.

The broker admitted himself to his residence by means of a latch-key, but in the hall he staggered like a drunken man as the thought came back to his mind with renewed force that he was ruined—that even his home, which sheltered his beloved child, he could not call his own.

Crushed and broken, he groped his way to the library, but Edna, listening at her door, heard his familiar steps and came down to meet him.

The eyes of love are prematurely sharp, and Edna saw at a glance that some great misfortune had befallen her father. He sank into a chair and Edna knelt beside him and sought to induce him to tell her all.

Reluctantly then he told the story of the murder and the robbery, but he did not mention the terrible suspecion which had fallen upon Stuart Harland, for he wished to spare his daughter the cruel intelligence as long as possible.

"And so I am ruined," said the broker bitterly in conclusion.

"Surely it is not so serious as that. Your creditors will grant you time?" Edna asked.

"No, no. You do not know them. My pressing creditors are Pratt and Weeks. They will be merciless. I had hoped the sale of my Colorado property would enable me to realize more than sufficient to tide over this financial crisis, for as I have told you gold has been discovered in many parts of Gilpin County, where my land is situated. I had counted on receiving the money for the property, eighty thousand dollars—the price almost agreed upon with a Denver firm—this very week. In a letter which came to hand on Thursday last, my agent informed me that he expected to close the sale and remit me a draft by the twenty-third, that is to-day. But this evening I received another communication from my agent stating that the proposed sale could not be consummated, for prospectors, who had secretly explored my claim, reported that there was no trace of gold on it. This disappointment means more than you can dream. I am in a situation of peril which I dare not confess, even to you, my child," said the broker.

Vainly Edna tried to induce her father to confide in her. He would say no more.

"I remember how that man Pratt looked at me with his bold, impudent eyes, when I looked at him. His glance made me shiver," she said.

"Coward that I was. He demanded an introduction, and while I knew he was not fit to make your acquaintance, fear made me weak enough to present him to you," answered the broker.

"And I am in this villain's power. Pratt and Weeks have deceived me; set traps for me and involved me in speculations which were swindles concocted with the cunning of arch-fiends to evade all legal consequences. These men find their victims among the oldest operators on the street, and my experience did not save me," he added.

"But the stolen money may be recovered. You have not told me. Does not suspicion rest on anybody?" asked Edna.

Her father hesitated.

"Speak, father. Why do you seem so agitated?" she said.

"I would spare you pain and anxiety. The worst for you, my child, is yet to come."

"I do not comprehend; what do you mean?"

In a few words he told of the suspicion which the police sergeant had declared against Stuart Harland.

Edna was justly indignant and she treated the accusation with scorn.

"Stuart will explain the cause of his midnight departure. When he is heard, a shadow of suspicion will not remain upon him," she said, with a loving woman's sublime faith.

"I should tell you also that Paxton, the detective, did not agree with the police sergeant. In the face of all the circumstances which caused the sergeant to suspect Stuart, he declared his belief in the young man's innocence. Paxton is a wonderful man, and I am sure he has formed some theory which he believes will overthrow the hypothesis of the police sergeant. In that thought I find a hope for Stuart's salvation, even though circumstances should further combine to tighten the coil of suspicion about him," the broker said.

Father and daughter were parted for the night, but like Marion Oakburn, Jason Garrison was sleepless. He paced his room until dawn and once he muttered:

"I have taken an awful risk and yet profited nothing. I was mad. The risk of discovery remains suspended over my head like a sword hung by a thread."

He struck his breast and paused abruptly in his rapid walk as he said, "Can Stuart have suspected me?"

At that moment the young man of whom he spoke was in the custody of detectives who had arrested him on a railway train.

Circumstances were combining and developments were transpiring which were destined to make the secret of John Oakburn's murder one of the most remarkable, mysterious, and interesting of modern detective cases.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

The Lake George Flats.

When a vessel sinks in the channel through Lake George Flats, near Sault Ste. Marie, there is plenty of trouble. The value of the vessels delayed by a wreck there recently is estimated at $14,000,000, and that of their cargoes $4,000,000. At one time seventy lake steam vessels were anchored on the east side of the blockade and sixty on the west side, and a new channel had to be cut through the flats to allow them to continue their way. Four dredges worked day and night to make a channel 700 feet in length, 60 feet in width, and 20 feet in depth. It is said that the only way to prevent accidents like that which caused the wreck is to limit the speed of vessels in the channel. There was the same trouble in the St. Clair Flats until men were stationed at the ends of the channel to time the vessels.—New York [illegible]

Same Thing.

When the late King Charles of Wurtemburg was yet crown prince and he was ordered to become engaged to the Russian Grand Duchess Olga he was shown a portrait of her. After regarding it intently, he exclaimed: "How daringly they have flattered her! The hair is too abundant, the eyes are too brilliant, and the complexion too dainty." The courtiers asked, in astonishment: "But does your royal highness know the grand duchess?" "I do not know her," was the reply, "but I know the court painters."

For sleeplessness, a Chicago physician recommends a light meal of plain food just before retiring.

C. B. Collins, ex-state treasurer of Florida, was acquitted of the embezzlement of $52,000. The defendant did not deny that he was short that sum but declared that there was no intent to defraud. Banks in which he had deposited state funds failed.

LETTERS MADE PUBLIC

Concerning the Seal Question Between the United States and Canada.

The correspondence which has passed between Sir Wilfred Laurier, the Canadian premier, and General Foster, the American negotiator, since the Washington conference, last month, has been made public. It consists of letters. In the first dated Ottawa, November 24, Sir Wilfred says he is willing to enter at once upon a review of the whole seal question, but declines, however, to suspend sealing meantime on the ground that the fleet would be dissipated entirely.

The other letter is addressed to Sir Wilfred, and dated Washington, December, 4. General Foster says Sir Wilfred's letter is a declination of his proposition and a renewal of the Canadian proposition at the conference and the president declines to revise his decision on that point.

Dollar and a Half Wheat.

At Chicago, Geo. B. French, the recognized agent of the Leiter interest in wheat, says in regard to the wheat situation: "I will say that I think that speculators are watching the local conditions and entirely ignoring the legitimate position. As soon as the deficiency of supplies and the urgency of the demand becomes more apparent, I will not be a bit surprised to see May wheat at $1.50."

More Wages Reduced.

The directors of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company, of Manchester, N. H., at a meeting held at the Boston office of the company Friday, voted to reduce the wages of its employes about 10 per cent on January 1. The Amoskeag plant is one of the largest engaged in the manufacture of cotton in the country, and employs between 8,000 and 9,000 people.

Signals Failed, Death Results.

A collision occurred on the Greenwood branch of the Missouri Pacific, ten miles from Fort Smith, Ark., in which Mrs. E. A. Hollenback, of Jenny Lind, was instantly killed, and four passengers injured. A coal train was following the passenger, and the latter was stopped to cool off a hot box. The torpedo signals failed to do their work, and the engine of the coal train telescoped the rear coach of the passenger.

John Morgan was hanged Thursday at Ripley, W. Va.

Some thoughtful soul-proposes to bring the Chicago cable lines to terms by showering pennies upon the conductors until they cry for quarter—or quarters. We feel sure that Mr. Yerkes will watch this attempt to overwhelm his railway with money with great interest. If the present cars prove inadequate to haul the coppers away probably additional cars will be put on.

Three of the most valuable products of the mine have been found in Alaska—gold, petroleum and coal. All of these minerals are found there in abundance. The purchase of Alaska was regarded somewhat as acquiring "a pig in a poke" at a pretty stiff price, but the pig is turning out to be a very promising shoat.

What is Tetterine?

It is a fragrant, unctuous ointment of great cooling and healing power. It is good for Tetter, Ringworm, Eczema and all roughness of the skin. It stops itching at once and if persistently used will positively cure even the worst of chronic cases. 50 cents at a drug store or by mail from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

A lost opportunity seldom finds its way back.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

I believe Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my boy's life last summer.—Mrs. ALLIE DOUGLASS, Le Roy, Mich., Oct. 20, 1894.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

The Sandwich Islanders believe that the souls of their deceased monarchs reside in the ravens, and they entreat Europeans not to molest them.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.

Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

Deacon Jonathan Hayes, who wound the first wire rake ever made, lives in Middleton Springs, Vt., at the age of 90, and is in perfect health, and can read without glasses.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c

---

Chinese brides of high station frequently do not see their husbands until the red veils are lifted at the marriage ceremony.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.

Smoke Seldge Cigarettes.

A greater number of men than women become stout late in life. No satisfactory explanation is offered of this fact.

Weak Stomach

Indigestion Causes Spasms—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

"I have always been troubled with a weak stomach and had spasms caused by indigestion. I have taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have not been bothered with spasms, and I advise anyone troubled with dyspepsia to take Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. HORTON, Prattsburg, New York. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure indigestion, biliousness.

A Merry Christmas

To All!

From the People's Money-Savers

...THE PLACE FOR...

PRACTICAL XMAS GIFTS.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

---

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Conference in Session.

The South Alabama Conference is now in session at Union Springs, Bishop Galloway presiding. There is a full attendance of ministers.

Assessment Rejected.

At a special term of the commissioners' court of Coosa county, the assessments of Tax Commissioner Walden against the ginners of the county on the toll cotton received was rejected.

School Census Settled.

The school census for Lowndes county, about which there has been so much comment as to the enormous figures as compared with former years, has been retaken, and found to be 13,736, instead of 20,654, as was sent in by the county superintendent of education of that county.

An Electric Light Plant.

At a meeting of the city council of Birmingham a resolution was adopted creating a special committee, composed of one aldermen from each ward, with the mayor as ex-officio chairman, to examine into the cost of an electric light plant, with a view to the city erecting one and operating it on its own account.

Murdered for His Money.

Gilmore Edwards, lamplighter in the Louisville & Nashville yards at Boyles, four miles north of Birmingham, was murdered and robbed by an unknown person. Edwards was making a tour through the yards when he was shot from the darkness. The robber failed to get $41 which Edwards had sewed up in his watch pocket.

A Good Showing.

John Case, the new tax collector of Mobile county, paid into the state treasury $20,000 collections since December 1, state taxes, which, added to former remittances of this year's collections, makes the sum of $32,000. Mr. E. B. Lott, his predecessor, paid into the treasury for the same period last year $8,497, a difference in favor of Case of $23,503.

Decree of Foreclosure.

In the United States court at Birmingham, Judge Boarman rendered a decree of foreclosure and sale in the case of the Central Trust company, of New York, vs. the United States Car company. The court appointed J. A. W. Smith special master, who is ordered to advertise the sale, if the amount of the indebtedness, $2,019,552.48, is not paid in ten days.

Found Beside Railroad Track.

Late Friday night C. R. Hicks, a railroad man, was found bruised and unconscious beside the railroad tracks, near Montgomery. When he had been resuscitated he related that he had endeavored to catch an outgoing south bound freight on the Louisville and Nashville railroad with $395 in cash in his pockets. His money was gone and he could not account for its loss or his injury.

Another Candidate.

Prof. Edward L. Patton has announced as a candidate for state superintendent of education from Elmore county, subject to the action of the democratic party. Professor Patton has for two years identified himself as specially interested in reforming our school system. He was among the first to call for a constitutional convention for the purpose of bettering the public school system. For two years his articles on educational topics have appeared in many of the state papers.

Former Sheriff Short in Account.

Examiner of Public Accounts Purifoy Thursday filed his report with the governor on his investigation of the sheriff's office of Lee county under the administration of W. B. Gibson, late sheriff of that county, which shows a shortage of almost $2,000, summed up as follows: Fees for removing prisoners, collected from defendants on conviction, $85.99. For solicitors' fees unaccounted for, $53. For feeding prisoners in jail, and to which he was not legally entitled $1,642. Total, $1,790.99.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Furloughs for the Holidays—December 23 to January 2.

On requests from parents or guardians, students will receive leaves of absence from Thursday afternoon, December 23, through January 2 following. This will enable all who so desire to spend both Christmas and New Year a their homes.

January 3 will be a good time for new students to enter, as in many departments new subjects begin on that day. Such will receive a cordial welcome to the University.

For announcement with further particulars apply to

JAMES K. POWERS,
President University Alabama.

Thieves Secured $900.

One of the boldest and most sensational robberies that every occurred in that section took place eight miles below Abbeville Thursday night. At about 1 o'clock a man called at the house of Westley Bodiford and claimed that his mule had run away and severely injured his companion, and asked for some one to assist him. Oscar Etheridge, a young man living with Mr. Bodiford, responded to the call and followed the man. When abont three hundred yards below the house the first one dropped behind and another man sprang out of the bushes and told him to hold Etheridge up. One placed a pistol in Etheridge's face and the other tied his hands. They then led him back to the house, and, waking old man Bodiford, told him that they wanted the money in his safe. The safe was opened and the men secured $900.

Cotton Growers' Convention.

The governor has appointed the following named gentlemen delegates to the Southern Cotton Growers' Convention at Memphis next week:

Messrs. W. H. Lawson, M. C. Scott, Joel Barnett, Jess Adams, Montgomery; Major Thomas W. Oliver, Mitylene; T. P. Hudmon, Opelika; Colonel N. N. Clements, Tuskaloosa; J, R. McLendon, Naftel; J. C. Killebrew, Newton; C. A. B. Edwards, Crittenden Mills; John Minge, Faunsdale; W. P. Campbell, Florence; Isaac O. Mason, Columbiana; William M. Hammond, Gadsden; Captain C. C. Swope, Courtland; M. B. Hampton, Leighton; W. R. Prior, Quid Nunc; Dr. Henry McDonald, General Samuel H. Moore, Huntsville; Henry Warton, Athens; J. C. Hanes, Sheffield.

DR. CURRY'S REPORT.

Recognizes the Ability of One of Alabama's Educational Lights.

In his annual report to the trustees of the Peabody educational fund, Dr. J. L. M. Curry, the general agent, wrote under date of October 1, 1897, in part, as follows:

"The Florence Normal College has lost its vigorous and able president, James K. Powers, LL. D., who has been transferred to the State University. Under his administration the college has had a remarkable growth, and now numbers 310 pupils. In a letter to the governor, Dr. Mayo says:

"'I can honestly say that, in all my experience in the south, I have seen no state normal which seems to me to have more completely grasped the true idea of that style of school, or more completely carried it out, than the one at Florence. I have never seen in any state as much good work done for so small a sum of money as I see here at the state normal.'"

The Florence Times, speaking of Dr. Powers, says: In his success at Florence there is promise, very great promise, of success at the University under Dr. J. K. Powers. The Normal College succeeded by doing what it was intended to do. It did not attempt to turn out Bachelors or Masters or Doctors. It trained teachers. To that end all of its energies and resources were devoted. Its teachers were selected with special reference to the work they were to do. They were specialists. Again, none of the funds were wasted. Every dollar was made to bring the best possible return, either in outfit or service. To do all this required great industry and patient attention to detail.

It is confidently expected that the same qualities will command like success at the University. It may require time, it will, to accomplish all that is desired. And when the ideals of the present are accomplished facts, there will doubtless be others in advance to aim for. This is the condition of all development. Just as a Normal was developed here to meet the conditions in Alabama, an University may be expected to adapt itself to meet the conditions incident to its environment.

ALABAMA'S PRIDE.

The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo Doing a Great Work.

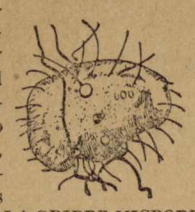
The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, under the guidance of Capt. H. C. Reynolds, is doing the greatest work of any school in the South. Pupils in the dress-making department are actually making money, besides carrying on their studies. Over 325 pupils are enrolled and there is still room for a few more. We learn fifty-eight dollars pays all expenses from the 1st of January. This is one of the few state institutions where the people get the direct benefit from appropriations. The rich, the poor, the high and the low, all patronize it and are satisfied. Captain Reynolds has just returned from Washington, where he has been for some time working in the interest of a land appropriation for the school.

China Gives Way to Germany.

A special dispatch from Shanghai asserts that China will acquiesce in Germany's retention of Kiao-Chou. Russia and France are irritated at Germany's precipitancy in thus prematurely disclosing her plans to England and Japan in a manner likely, says the dispatch, to defeat the objects in view.

Cause of Much Misery.

Of all microbes the animalcule of la grippe is the ugliest to look upon. Magnified to the size of the picture here shown, this microbe has the appearance of a new kind of bug—all legs and body. Suffering mortals who have been sneezing, sniffling and mopping watery eyes will be interested to see the cause of their trouble. This microbe is industrious, if not pretty, and he will continue to be much in evidence unless all present indications fail.



LA GRIPPE MICROBE.

A New Jersey paper prints a picture of a young woman who was bitten nearly to death by mosquitoes. We cannot escape the impression that these mosquitoes sometimes display very poor taste.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

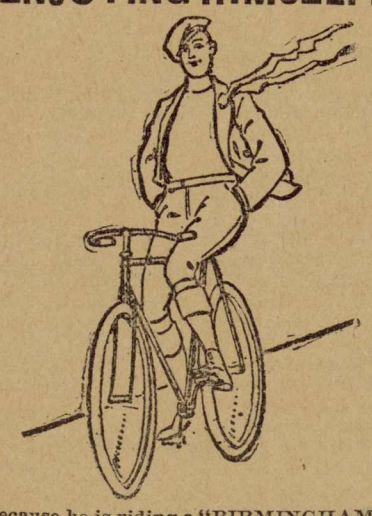
Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

ENJOYING HIMSELF.



Because he is riding a "BIRMINGHAM."

They all do who ride the best bicycle in the market for the price, $40.00.

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

THE LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

A miniature "Chainless Safety" free for a stamp.

"Rust,"

the dread of the cotton grower, can be prevented. Trials at Experiment Stations and the experience of leading growers prove positively that is the only remedy.

Kainit

We will be glad to send, free of charge, interesting and useful pamphlets which treat of the matter in detail.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

OUR GENERAL CATALOGUE AND BUYERS' GUIDE

FALL AND WINTER 1897-'98

is ready for distribution. It has over 800 pages, 14,000 Illustrations, and more than 40,000 descriptions with prices. In ordering from us you have a Million Dollar Stock of Goods to select from.

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED
If Goods are not as Represented.

Send Fifteen Cents to partly pay postage or expressage, and we will send you a copy of our General Catalogue and Buyers' Guide.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
The Great Mail Order House
111 to 120 Michigan Avenue, CHICAGO

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

Gives new life and vigor to the roots of the hair. It's like water to a drooping plant. No gray hair. No baldness.

ALABAMA'S BEAUTY TALKS SENSE.

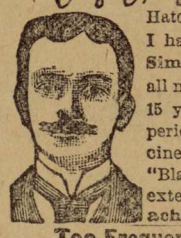
Miss Alice Raletan

Jenifer, Ala., says: I have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 15 years, and know it cures Sick Headache and Constipated Bowels. I think it has more strength and action than either "Black Draught" or "Zeilin's Regulator."

Parturition.

Childbirth, when natural, should be easy, and it is always easy when the right preparations are made. Nature never intended that woman should be tortured when doing the one thing that makes her wholly womanly. To fear or shrink from childbirth is a crime—not by the laws of society, but by the laws of hereditary—for the mother's condition reacts upon her offspring. Every child has an inalienable right to be born on purpose, and the right to be the product of the best manhood and best womanhood of its parents and the consummation of their life's joys. To secure this condition, the best tonic that can be used is Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine; it is perfectly safe and harmless to use at all times and under all circumstances in the doses prescribed. It assists nature in softening, relaxing and expanding the muscles and ligaments involved, thereby decreasing labor pains and shortens labor. Rapid, safe and comparatively painless delivery follow its continuous use.

J. G. Ingram



Hatchett Creek, Ala., writes: I have known Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine all my life, and have used it 15 years. Think it far Superior to "Zeilin's" medicine, and that it excels "Black Draught" to a large extent. It cures Sick Headache and Wind Colic.

Too Frequent Menstruation.

When the monthly flow occurs at the proper period and is otherwise strictly natural, the patient suffers little or no pain, but if it occur too often, continue too long or be too profuse, it induces a feeble pulse, cold extremities, weak respiration and general debility. In treating this disease, moderate exercise and fresh air are most essential; the digestive organs should be regulated with Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, and the happiest results will follow the use of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine in strengthening the system so that too frequent menstruation resulting from debility will be corrected.

DR. O. T. DOZIER

(The Renowned Southern Specialist.)

Birmingham, Ala.

Successfully treats, at office or BY MAIL AT YOUR OWN HOME, all forms of Chronic, Nervous, Blood, Skin and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

CURES . . .

GUARANTEED.

All Chronic Diseases of Lungs, Liver, Heart, Kidneys, Bladder, and all diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs are in my line of practice. Diseases peculiar to women, and all venereal diseases of either sex, positively cured by mild and safe remedies. Impediments to marriage, as Stricture, Varicocele, Impotency, Emissions and all evil results of self-abuse or excessive indulgence, quickly and permanently cured. I guarantee satisfaction in every case I treat. My valuable "Book for Men Only," and Symptom Blank for men or women will be sent free in plain, sealed envelope to all who apply. Consultation free, whether in person or by letter.

A FEW EXTRACTS FROM PRESS ENDORSEMENTS.

(Masonic Guide.)

Dr. Dozier can be relied upon to treat diseases in the most successful manner.

(People's Weekly Tribune.)

As a specialist Dr. Dozier is unexcelled by any living physician. * * He is a high-toned, cultured, Christian gentleman, strictly honest in all his dealings and financially responsible for all his contracts.

(Sumter Sun,)

Dr Dozier is the leading specialist in Alabama, and is thoroughly reliable.

(Alabama Christian Advocate.)

His (Dr. Dozier's) professional standing is unimpeachable and his character as a gentleman and citizen is above reproach.

Address

DR. O. T. DOZIER,
Lock Box 112, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFF, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

PATENTS are Property. Represent Wealth. Can be Sold. Are Assignable. INVENT improvements in tools, implements, household articles, etc. Write F. S. APPLEMAN, Patent Lawyer, Warder Bldg., Washington, D. C. Free circular and advice. Low fees.

CONSUMPTION AND CATARRH Are result of Contracted Nostrils. Drugs Cannot Cure. Send 50c. for NASAL INSPIRATOR or 5 cts. for pamphletto G. B. FARMER, Perth, Ont., Canada.

Am. N. U. No. 51. 1897.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast COCOA

Trade-Mark.

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,

(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College

AND

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.

SPLENDID BUILDING.

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.

FIVE INSTRUCTORS.

VERY REASONABLE TERMS.

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

J. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

WANTED ACENTS.

"The Confederate Soldier in the Civil War,"

just published, contains 500 pages 12x16 inches, and over 1,100 large Battle Scenes, Portraits, Maps, etc. The greatest and largest War Book ever published, and the only one that does justice to the Confederate soldier and the cause he fought for. Complete in one volume. Agents wanted everywhere to sell this book on our new and easy plan. Many of the lady and gentlemen [illegible] are at work are making [illegible] $200 per month. Veterans and Daughters of Veterans, [illegible] interested are requested to [illegible] a beautiful illustrated descriptive circular (free) and terms to agents. Address, COURIER-JOURNAL JOB PRINTING CO., Louisville, Ky.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,

DENTIST,

BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - Ala.

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

LANIER

BROOM

MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices,

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Marke

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant

Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabar

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

ALL THE Montevallo News IN THE Montevallo News.

One Dollar

PER YEAR.

ALL KINDS OF Job Work

DONE

CHEAPLY

AND

With

Dispatch.

Patronize

Your Home -:- Paper.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, '97. NO. 1.

A HOLIDAY TRIP.

Through Rain and Sleet, With Freezing Feet, Longing in Vain for a Coal Fire's Heat,

A MULE AND A FOOL

And a Man From School, Pursue Their Way One Dismal Day From Montevallo to Blocton,

The holidays are over. I do not know how other people enjoyed theirs, but I had a pretty fair time until Tuesday morning, December 28th, when I yielded to the voice of the tempter in the guise of my partner and agreed to drive to Brierfield on business.

It was one of those "melancholy days, the saddest of the year," when the skies weep, the average female has the megrims and the average man takes several drinks or wishes he were not a total abstainer. A cold, dank mist hid the landscape and through it percolated a nasty, provoking mixture of rain and sleet. Nevertheless I yielded to the entreaties of my evil genius and consented to martyrise myself upon the altar of business duty.

"Where is your rig?" I inquired, after a reluctant and grumbling assent to his proposition.

"At Birmingham Junction," he replied, his red face gleaming with pleasure at his success; "it's only a little walk, and the rig costs nothing."

With that we started. The little walk lengthened into a little over a mile and a half's tramp along the railroad track. Having reached the junction, it transpired that the "rig" was located half a mile further on. At that I balked and entered a demurrer. My partner overruled the demurrer with the statement that it would be mean to "go back on him." I wished to go back on the track, but kept on. Usually my partner is gloomy in his views and mien, but that day he was positively gleeful, impishly so.

We located the "rig." It consisted of a narrow-seated cart, with one broken shaft, also an evil-eyed mule in a loose box. My partner secured a bridle, opened the door of the stable, gave the mule a tentative look and ejaculated "So o-h." The mule (it was a jenny, which made things worse) pricked up her ears and showed her disdain for my partner by turning her back upon him. He retreated and in a feebler voice repeated, "So o oh."

Not relishing a prolonged stay in the mire and rain, I walked past my partner into the stable with a foolish intent to make that jenny turn round. She did. She turned her business end toward me very promptly, and I instinctively climbed into the feed box. Then the fun commenced. The mule must have mistaken me for Cross, the blacksmith, judging from the manner in which she threw up her hind feet for my inspection. My partner murmured "So-o-oh" and then laughed so long and heartily that I thought he had found a mirror and caught a glimpse of his own sweet countenance. Vandermeer Bros., Montevallo's new photographers, would have a little fortune if they had taken a picture of that scene.

For about a minute I surveyed that mule's hinder extremities at various elevations from my coign of vantage, until my partner recovered from his fit of cacchination sufficiently to realize that the mule was giving me her undivided attention and to throw the check rein over her head. While he adjusted the bridle, she made a parting attempt to kick me, but I laughed at her abortive effort with the confidence born of safety, just as an elected and seated president laughs at the kicking of a disappointed office seeker.

He led her out with many a "So o oh", I followed, and then came another circus. It took ten minutes, my partner, myself and a cross-eyed negro to secure that mule in the shafts of the cart, and withal we started with one trace unfastened, which proves the truth of the adage that "too many cooks spoil the broth." That arranged, the mule deliberately ran into a fence. Backed out of that, she tried to return to her stable, but with many "So o ohs" was coaxed into a sullen walk in the direction of Brierfield. My partner drove, I grumbled, and the mule flopped her ears like cabbage leaves on a windy day. Neither of us dared to clamber out of the cart to cut a switch, for fear that the sweet creature might run away and leave him standing with his feet in the mud and the remainder of him in the rain.

At length the mule was so kind as to land us in Brierfield, after shying seventy times seven times. Brierfield has seen better days, like all metropolitan boarding house keepers. It grieves over a defunct iron plant and rejoices in a live normal college. There are so many vacant houses in Brierfield that one can live there rent free. Besides these it has two good stores and a homely postoffice with a pretty postmistress. I had two pleasant experiences in Brierfield: an introduction to Dr. Whitfield and dinner with Mrs. Smith. My partner discovered that it was necessary for us to go to Blocton. He was right, but I had had enough mule for one day. I reminded him that I had an engagement for a reception that evening, that I had a costume ready and ought to go. He looked gloomy and repeated the aphorism that "business comes before pleasure." It is astonishing how such old saws govern men's actions. I fell back upon the inclement weather. He sulkily argued that I could stand it if he could. It unfortunately chanced that just then the sun shone out, so I yielded and went. The mule recommenced her capers as we zigzagged along a very muddy road, and in desperation I got a stout switch. She seemed painfully surprised at its first application and tried to repeat her stable antics, but could not. "Swish" again and off she went, her ears laid back like those of a jack rabbit. She was conquered. With the subjugation of the mule ended the most interesting part of the trip. Through weary wastes of what should be highly cultivated land, over vile roads, up steep ascents and down steeper descents, we made our way to the Cahaba river. There is Pratt's ferry, but my partner averred that the river was low enough to ford. He had crossed it before, so I trusted myself to him and Providence and resignedly watched the mule reluctantly enter the swift stream. It reached to the seat of the cart. Our lower extremities were wetted considerably. Fortunately we managed to reach the opposite bank. There we were hospitably entertained by Mr. Pratt until Wednesday morning, when we completed our journey to Blocton. I had had enough. My partner drove that mule and cart home after we had transacted our business. I preferred to chance a railroad wreck, so came home by train.

BRABSTER WEST.

Those who have expressed a wish to read "Grover Cleveland on a Tramp," the humorous book written by the editor of the Montevallo News and used as a Bryan campaign book in 1896, can obtain copies at our store. Price 25 cents.

F. F. CROWE & Co.

HE IS DESPERATE.

FOR WANT OF TRADE,

BUT WE ARE NOT, FOR Everyone Knows

THAT WE KEEP

The Best of Everything

—AT—

Lower Prices Than all Others

—(o)—

ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING,

FROM A PIN TO A

Threshing Machine,

FROM A COLLAR TO

A WEDDING SUIT,

From a Spool of Thread to a Silk Dress.

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS,

Montevallo, Ala.

NEW ENGLAND RATTLED

THE YANKEE GOLDBUGS REALISE THAT THE SOUTH IS TO MONOPOLISE COTTON MANUFACTURE.

Washington Correspondence.

The New England contingent in congress here is considerably worried at the prospect of Southern cotton mills driving those in New England out of business. A Boston paper, at the request of several New England congressmen, has sent a correspondent, a man thoroughly familiar with the business, through the South to report. He has just returned, and his report is anything but rosy for the outlook in the North. "I find," said this gentleman, "that conditions in the South are simply ideal for the successful manufacture of cotton. Previous to my visit I was somewhat skeptical. That has all changed now. It is only a question of time, and not a very long time at that, when the mills up in my country will be forced out of business by the South. The climate down there, in the first place, is so mild that a workingman can live for less than he can in the North. He needs less heavy clothes, none, or very little coal, and rents and food are cheaper. Then again, the immense amount saved over the Northern mills who have to pay for the transportation of the raw material to the mills. This is also saved in the South.

"I have told all this to the people, and further that they may as well realize that New England as a cotton manufacturing section has seen its best days. The industry in that section has been on the wane for some years, and the climax is not far off. They cannot possibly compete with the South, and they may as well face these conditions now as later. The reductions in wages which have been, and are continually being made are only a forerunner of what is to come. The next few years will, in my opinion, see the breaking up of this one time important industry in New England, and its transfer to the Southern States.

The New England people are very dejected over this state of affairs, but are slowly commencing to see that it had to come. The advantages of the South were for a long time kept in the background on account of the results of the war, but it was always only a question of time as to when the great upheaval was to come.

H E. C.

AN ABLE ESSAY.

Miss Linda de Yampert's Ideas of Lady-like Deportment.

Resolved: That it is ladylike and shows good breeding to be orderly in the house of God, at your boarding houses, on the street, at the depot, and on the train.

Upon each individual there rests a moral obligation, relative to the manner in which she conducts herself in the house of God. We are made in the likeness of our Creator. Should not this fact stimulate his creatures to respect his house, and so conduct ourselves when assembled there, as to at least reflect credit upon our parents. A wonderful influence is exerted by those who attend the Lord's sanctuary, either for good or evil.

We should remember the church is the temple of the true and living God; it is his abode. While there we are thrown intimately into his solemn, silent presence; then it behooves us to enter his presence with thanksgiving and praise, and never with mirth and a spirit of levity.

As a rule, well-reared people are easily distinguished from those of less fortunate training, and they never so far forget themselves as to behave unbecomingly, especially in a house that has been dedicated to God. The rule holds good as regards our conduct upon the streets, at the depot, on the train and in our respective boarding houses.

Exerting an influence as we do, either for good or bad, a great responsibility is ours. This responsibility should be keenly felt and stimulate all to earnest action.

In many respects I am my brother's keeper, and no doubt in a great degree responsible for his acts, by the influence I exert over him.

There is a silent influence which every true lady exerts, which is more noticeable than outward demonstration.

A girl's conduct in many instances is an unjust reflection upon her home training, for many sweet-spirited, refined, lady-like mothers have their daughters behave so rudely as to tinge the loving mother's face with blushes of mortification.

We are responsible for the influence we exert; then how carefully we should live and deport ourselves, especially in all public places specified in the subject of my paper.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Pat Harrison went up to Maylene, Sunday.

Walter Harrison visited Hargrove last week.

The girls say that Pink Davidson is the "proper chawed rosin."

Frank McBride says he is still in the ring when it comes to horse-swapping.

Quite a crowd attended the sociable at the residence of James Lucas last Friday night.

Mrs. James Lucas and Miss Leila Stripling went to Montevallo, Monday, on a shopping trip.

Osce Burke, of Gonodarque, spent the holidays in and around town with relatives and friends.

Miss Kate Allen, of Highland, is visiting relatives and friends near this place, much to the delight of all the boys.

W. L. Clarke, of Blocton, contemplates moving his family to this place, where he is engaged in opening a coal mine.

EMINENT DIVINES' SERMONS

DR. TALMAGE DISCOURSES ON COMMON SENSE IN RELIGION.

"Look at the Good Side of Life"—Sixth Sermon in the New York Herald's Competitive Series, Written by Rev. John D. Long, of Babylon, Long Island.

TEXT: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."—Philippians, iv., 8.

In other words, keep your eye open to the good that is in the world and, as far as possible, close it to the evil.

David said in his haste, "All men are liars," but he acknowledged that it was a hasty conclusion, and so, presumably, not strictly correct. You, in a similar spirit of impatience, may sometimes be tempted to voice the same opinion. But don't. For, in spite of lies, white and black, polite lies, business lies and malicious lies—lies that seem to worm themselves into every circumstance of life—the world in general hates the lie and loves the truth. This is why you cannot insult a man more deeply than to give him the lie. The insult is due to the fact that public opinion demands the truth. Look, then, on this side of life, instead of allowing your mind to dwell on what is false.

No doubt there is much dishonesty in the world—dishonesty from the milkman who waters his milk to the railroad magnate who waters his stock. Your calico won't wash, your sugar contains glucose and your pepper sawdust. But never mind, after all people in general are honest and at heart believe that "honesty is the best policy." In the main they must act upon that belief, otherwise the wheels of business would stop to-morrow. Think, then, on this better aspect of human life.

Some say that things are very unfair in this world—that, for example, the man who steals a loaf of bread goes to jail while the man who steals a million of money at worst goes to Congress. There is doubtless some truth in this view. And yet there is a just God, and though sometimes He may seem a little slow, His grist is, on the whole, a pretty good article of justice. Remember always that in the long run, anyway, even in this world, right makes might. Think on this, and don't let the fact that many conditions seem uneven and unfair sour your spirit.

Again, there are those who look for dirt and find plenty of it. Human life is by no means immaculate, it is true, but none the less the world is full of the purity of innocent childhood, glorious womanhood and noble manhood. Look upon this side of life—the side that lies out in the sunlight of God's approval. The pessimist thinks that everything is imperfect. He examines the blade of grass and finds it faulty. It is sure to be split or crushed or stunted or otherwise malformed. He always discovers the worm in the heart of the rose or the thorn on the stem. Don't go in his company. See, rather, the loveliness scattered over the world with such a lavish hand. Why, as someone has shown us, even the wayside mud puddle, if viewed at the proper angle, is a thing of beauty, and mirrors the sky and reflects in its bosom the clouds of heaven.

Then why give heed to ill report, either? Forget the bad that you hear of your fellows and remember the good. There is great need of this advice. We are all a little too fond of evil reports. The daily papers, which really only print what the public demands, show this. What is the menu of our breakfast paper? In large measure a plate of violence and robbery, a dish of filth and a bowl of blood. "Give a dog a bad name and that's the end of him." Just so. Well, refuse to think on ill report and you will not repeat it. If you wish to help God and goodness think and speak things of good report

Yes, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things, and you will be better and happier. Life is very much as you view it. As the proverb goes, "The jaundiced see all things yellow." The gamin says, "Oh, it's all in your eye." And so it is. Look on the right side of life and not on the wrong side. Life, no doubt, has a seamy side, but be charitable. Don't think on this side. A painting has a face and a back. All the pictures in your parlor, I venture to say, are hung with the face out. Hang your pictures so in the parlor of your mind. Look for what is good in the lives of your fellow men and you will be happy. No doubt this is a world of sin and misery, and the background of human life is full of shadows. But look at the brightness and seek for the beauty and goodness in God's world. Jesus Christ was able to see something worth loving in the publican and the harlot. Emulate His example and you will find the same result.

Then there is another side to this subject. If you try to see only the good side of life you will help to make the world as you see it. Mark and mention the good in your fellow man and he will seek to rise to the full measure of your esteem. He will be stimulated to deserve your good opinion. Have faith in a man and you will help to make him faithful.

When a man does a good deed—say a kind act—notice it, speak of it, and he will do it again.

By following the advice given in the text you will promote your own happiness and, what is equally important, you will do something toward making the world better.

JOHN DIETRICH LONG,
Pastor Presbyterian Church, Babylon, L. I.

COMMON SENSE IN RELIGION.

Dr. Talmage Advocates Reform in Management of Spiritual Affairs.

TEXT: "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."—Luke xvi., 8.

That is another way of saying that Christians are not so skillful in the manipulation of spiritual affairs as worldlings are skillful in the management of temporalities. I see all around me people who are alert, earnest, concentrated and skillful in monetary matters, who in the affairs of the soul are laggards, inane, inert. The great want of the world is more common sense in matters of religion. If one half of the skill and forcefulness employed in financial affairs was employed in disseminating the truths of Christ and trying to make the world better, within ten years the last Juggernaut would fall, the last throne of oppression upset, the last iniquity tumble and the anthem that was chanted over Bethlehem on Christmas night would be echoed and re-echoed from all Nations and kindred and people: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good-will to men."

In the first place, my friends, we want more common sense in the building and conduct of churches. The idea of adaptiveness is always paramount in any other kind of structure. If bankers meet together, and they resolve upon putting up a bank, the bank is especially adapted to banking purposes; if a manufacturing company puts up a building, it is to be adapted in a monetary institution, then go off for five years, make no inquiry in regard to the investment, then come back, step up to the cashier of the institution and say: "Have you kept those $10,000 safely that I lodged with you?" but asking no question about interest or dividend? Why, you say, "That is not common sense." Neither is it, but that is the way we act in matters of the soul. We make a far more important investment than $10,000. We invest our soul. It is accumulative? Are we growing in grace? Are we getting better? Are we getting worse? God declares many dividends, but we do not collect them; we do not want them. Oh, that in this matter of accumulation we were as wise in the matters of the soul as we are in the matters of the world!

How little common sense in the reading of the Scriptures! We get any other book, to manufacturing purposes; but adaptiveness is not always the question in the rearing of churches. In many of our churches we want more light, more room, more ventilation, more comfort. Vast sums of money are expended on ecclesiastical structures, and men sit down in them, and you ask a man how he likes the church; he says, "I like it very well, but I can't hear."

Again I remark: We want more common sense in the obtaining of religious hope. All men understand that in order to succeed in worldly directions they must concentrate. They think on that one object, on that one subject, until their mind takes fire with the velocity of their own thoughts. All their acumen, all their strategy, all their wisdom, all their common sense they put in that one direction, and they succeed. But how seldom it is true in the matter of seeking after God! While no man expects to accomplish anything for this world without concentration and enthusiasm, how many are there expecting after a while to get into the kingdom of God without the use of any such means.

Again, I remark: We want more common sense in the building up and enlarging of our Christian character. There are men who have for forty years been running the Christian race, and they haven't run a quarter of a mile! No business man would be willing to have his investments unaccumulative. If you invest a dollar you expect that dollar to come home bringing another dollar on its back. What would you think of a man who should invest $10,000 and we open it, and we say, "Now what does this book mean to teach me? It is a book on astronomy; it will teach me astronomy. It is a book on political economy; it will teach me political economy. Taking up this Bible, do we ask ourselves what it means to teach? It means to do just one thing, get the world converted and get us all to heaven. That is what it proposes to do. But instead of that we go into the Bible as botanists to pick flowers, or we go as pugilists to get something to fight other Christians with, or we go as logicians trying to sharpen our mental faculties for a better argument, and we do not like this about the Bible and we do not like that, and we do not like the other thing.

How little we use common sense in prayer! We say, "Oh, Lord, give me this," and "Oh, Lord, give me that," and "Oh, Lord, give me something else," and we do not expect to get it, or getting it, we do not know we have it. We have no anxiety about it. We do not watch and wait for its coming. As a merchant, you telegraph or you write to some other city for a bill of goods. You say, "Send me by such express, or by such a steamer, or by such a rail-train." The day arrives. You send your wagon to the depot or to the wharf. The goods do not come. You immediately telegraph, "What is the matter with those goods? We haven't received them. Send them right away. We want them now, or we don't want them at all." And you keep writing, and you keep telegraphing, and keep sending your wagon to the depot, or to the express office, or to the wharf, until you get the goods. In matters of religion we are not so wise as that. We ask certain things to be sent from heaven. We do not know whether they come or not. We have not any special anxiety as to whether they come or not. We may get them and we may not get them. Instead of at 7 o'clock in the morning saying, "Have I got that blessing?" at 12 o'clock, noonday, asking, "Have I got that blessing?" at 7 o'clock in the evening saying, "Have I received that blessing?" and not getting it, pleading, pleading—begging, begging—asking, asking until you get it. Now, my brethren, is not that common sense? If we ask a thing from God, who has sworn by His eternal throne that He will do that which we ask, is it not common sense that we should watch and wait until we get it?

But I remark again: We want more common sense in doing good. Oh, how many people there are who want to do good, and they are dead failures! Why is it? They do not exercise the same tact, the same ingenuity, the same stratagem, the same common sense in the work of Christ that they do in worldly things. Otherwise they would succeed in this direction as well as they succeed in the other. There are many men who have an arrogant way with them, although they may not feel arrogant in their soul. Or they have a patronizing way. They talk to a man of the world in a manner which seems to say: "Don't you wish you were as good as I am? Why, I have to look clear down before I can see you, you are so far beneath me." That manner always disgusts, always drives men from the kingdom of Jesus Christ, instead of bringing them in.

Suppose some business man in whose skill you had perfect confidence should tell you that to-morrow, Monday morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock, you could by a certain financial transaction make $5000, but that on Tuesday perhaps you might make it, but there would not be any positiveness about it, and on Wednesday there would not be so much, and Thursday less, Friday less, and so on less and less—when would you attend to the matter? Why, your common sense would dictate, "Immediately, I will attend to that matter, between 11 and 12 o'clock to-morrow, Monday morning, for then I can surely accomplish it, but on Tuesday I may not, and on Wednesday there is less prospect and less and less, and I will attend to it to-morrow. Now, let us bring our common sense in this matter of religion. Here are the hopes of the Gospel. We may get them now. To-morrow we may get them. Next day we may and we may not. The prospect less and less and less and less. The only sure time now—now. I would not talk to you in this way if I did not know that Christ was able to save all the people. I would not go into a hospital and tear off the bandages from the wounds if I had no balm to apply. I would not have the face to tell a man he is a sinner unless I had at the same time the authority for saying he may be saved.

"Mamma," said a little child to her mother, when she was being put to bed at night, "mamma, what makes your hand so scarred and twisted and unlike other people's hands?" "Well," said the mother, "my child, when you were younger than you are now, years ago, one night after I had put you to bed I heard a cry, a shriek, upstairs. I came up and found the bed was on fire, and you were on fire, and I took hold of you and tore off the burning garments, and while I was tearing them off and trying to get you away I burned my hand, and it has been scarred and twisted ever since, and hardly looks any more like a hand; but I got that, my child, in trying to save you."

O man! O woman! I wish to-day I could show you the burned hand of Christ—burned in plucking you out of the fire, burned in snatching you away from the flame. Ay, also the burned foot and the burned brow and the burned heart—burned for you. "By His stripes ye are healed."

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

Maine has more deer than sheep.

England buys Australian oranges.

Minnesota sends potatoes to Maine.

The Denver (Col.) cigarette license is $1000.

Army officers will command the Government's relief expedition to the Klondike.

Secretary Gage's new estimate calls for $32,000,000 more than this year's expenses.

The resources of seventeen commercial banks of San Francisco are given as $73,401,306.

The San Francisco Grand Jury recommends the suppression of nickel-in-the-slot machines.

Toronto (Canada) retailers want a graduated business tax. This is aimed at the department stores.

A postal note system similar to that of the United States will go into operation in Canada July 1, 1898.

The margin within the debt limit of Greater New York, according to Edward M. Shepard, is $48,000,000.

It was reported in Washington that the President will have removed from the classified service certain bonded officials.

Secretary Gage reported to the Senate, in response to a resolution, that there were no supernumerary employes in his department.

Pneumatic tubes for the mail service of Chicago will be in operation between the depots, sub-stations and the general office soon.

The Slavs are taking kindly to a Socialistic propaganda in Austria, which may tend to further complicate matters in that country.

The Count and Countess Castellane have bought an Italian palace at Verona, from which eleven ceilings painted by Tiepolo will be removed to Paris.

The report of the New Jersey State Board of Assessors shows that the taxes assessed this year against railroads and other corporations amounted to $2,180,549.37.

The American Sugar Growers' Society has prepared a petition to Congress against Hawaiian annexation on the ground that it would injure the sugar beet industry.

The Rev. Mr. Rappaport, forty-two years old, Rabbi of the B'nai Scholom Synagogue, in New Haven, Conn., died a few days ago of blood poisoning caused by a cut on the middle finger of his right hand, with a knife used in slaughtering cattle.

The Louisville (Ky.) Presbytery found the Rev. Dr. M. H. Houston guilty of heresy, because of his views on sanctification. He was admonished to lay these aside and conform to the views and practices of the church, on penalty of suspension from the church.

One of the finest mineral springs in the world has been discovered in the heart of Chattanooga, Tenn. A local manufactory bored a well 150 feet deep to obtain a supply of water and found the water to be similar to that of the famous springs of France and Germany.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

The late Charles A. Dana held $70,000 of life insurance.

Prince Bismarck is reported to be rapidly failing, both mentally and physically.

Former President Cleveland has joined the University Cottage Club at Princeton.

Speaker Reed will make an address at the semi-centennial celebration of Girard College in Philadelphia.

Marcus Daly, worth $30,000,000, was born in Jersey City, N. J., in a wagon, and worked for $2 a week when a boy. He struck pay dirt in copper, silver and gold, and believes in luck.

Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, lives three miles from the Capitol in Washington, but walks the distance every fine morning. Speaker Reed, who lives a mile and a half away, also walks to the National legislative halls.

H. S. Townsend, who fought in the Black Hawk War when he was eighteen years old, and was a lifelong and intimate friend of Lincoln and Grant, is living at Maryville, Mo., hale and hearty, at the age of eighty-three years.

A. C. Harmsworth, who equipped the Jackson-Harmsworth Arctic expedition in 1894, has presented his ship, the Windward, to Lieutenant R. E. Peary, who will have it overhauled and sent to this country, for use in his coming expedition.

L. A. Lamotte, the noted abolitionist, who died in Baltimore the other day, was the father of Eugene Aurelius Ralph Lamotte, the famous "Drummer Boy of Shiloh," whose name has been sung in prose and poetry all over the civilized world.

Two of the oldest men in the House of Representatives at Washington are Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, who is mentioned as a probable Republican candidate for Governor, and John Baker, of Illinois, who represents William R. Morrison's old district. Mr. Baker was born in 1822, and is a year older than Mr. Grow.

D. O. Mills has one of the large fortunes in America. He is a 'Forty-niner, and, like Huntington, made his fortune in trade, not with a pick and shovel. He sold picks and shovels to the miners, guns and ammunition to the desperadoes, and rubber boots to the engineers. He started a bank, and afterward went into railroad construction, making millions. When a boy he peddled household goods in New York.

RICH YIELD OF SALMON EGGS.

Previous Records Beaten—Millions For Eastern and Western Waters.

The work of collecting salmon eggs at the California Fish Commission hatchery on the Sacramento River at Anderson has been concluded for the season.

The results of the season's operations are the most remarkable on record. Forty-eight and a half million eggs were collected, exceeding the previous records made at this station by twenty-two millions, and twenty-eight millions more than were collected at all the other hatcheries on the Coast in 1897.

The eggs are to be hatched and the fry planted in the waters of the State, with the exception of three million that are to be sent to Oregon and six million that go to the New England States' station on the United States Commissioner's car.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 9.

Lesson Text: "Jesus Tempted," Matthew ix., 1-11—Golden Text: Hebrews ii., 18—Commentary on the Lesson For the Day Written by Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

1. "Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil." From the beginning to the end He was under the guidance and control of the Holy Spirit most fully. The Father having testified to the fact that He was His beloved, well pleasing Son, the Spirit now leads Him into this great conflict with the devil, at the very beginning of His public work, that He may meet the adversary face to face and overcome him. And now, in that He Himself hath suffered, being tempted, He is able to succor them that are tempted (Heb. ii., 18). He had been subject for thirty years to all the temptations of an ordinary human life, but this is something special, and, as Dr. Weston says, has to do with Him as Son of "Man," Son of God and the Messiah.

2. "And when He had fasted forty days and forty nights, He was afterward an hungered." Luke iv., 2, says, "In those days He did eat nothing." This was not a new thing on the earth, for Moses passed through it twice and Elijah once (Deut. ix., 9, 18; I Kings xix., 8). On the Mount of Transfiguration we find the three who fasted forty days. There must be some wondrous significance connected with it which we have not yet had revealed to us. In Mark xi., 12, we read of another occasion on which He was hungry, and one of His last utterances on the cross was, "I thirst" (John xix., 28), but what an awful thirst that must have been!

3. "And when the tempter came to Him he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread." God had testified, "This is My Beloved Son," but the devil questions it to His face, with this "if." As in the garden of Eden he questions the word of God with his "Yea, hath God said" (Gen. iii., 1), and has ever since been doing the same thing, so he does not hesitate to face the Son of God Himself with his devilish doubts. Think it not strange, then, if he oft approaches you in this way, but receive not his doubts; it is better not to listen to him.

4. "But He answered and said, It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Not the gratification of our desires, but the will of God, is the great thing. Just as in our words we show our loved ones our hearts, so God in His word has given us His heart for us, and God is love. Shall we be satisfied with His heart and His way and thus live on His word, or shall we insist on having all things minister to our comfort at all costs?

5. "Then the devil taketh Him up into the Holy City and setteth Him on a pinnacle of the temple." Up to Jerusalem, the city of the great king (chapter v., 35). Do not stop to ask how, but simply believe and consider the temptation and the victory and ask the Spirit to apply it to your own soul. The wilderness and the hunger, and the stones suggest the hard and lonely and commonplace things in daily life, but the Holy City, the temple and a pinnacle thereof suggest holy things and the heights thereof not so common, but far more dangerous ground because more holy.

6. "And saith unto Him, if Thou be the Son of God, cast Thyself down, for it is written, He shall give His angels charge concerning Thee and in their hands they shall bear Thee up, lest at any time Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." The devil can quote Scripture, and sometimes quite freely and at great length, but never to glorify God nor to help a soul to know Him. He always perverts it with the purpose of working ruin. The man who thinks that because he is a child of God and controlled by the Spirit therefore he cannot sin, nor even make a mistake, is on a pinnacle of the temple listening to the devil. He would do well to consider these words, "If a man think himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself." If any man think that he knoweth anything, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know" (Gal. vi., 3; I Cor. viii., 2).

7. "Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." Scripture never contradicts Scripture, but explains it and instructs us how to avert its abuse. Jesus quoted it from the heart to the glory of God, believing every word, but the devil uses it only wickedly. We may be said to tempt God when we make a self-willed demand for His help, or in any way claim his promises for selfish ends. Our Lord lived that the Father might be glorified, and taught us that when we are willing to live thus we can ask what we will and receive it.

8. "Again the devil taketh Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them." The first temptation was to satisfy His physical need, to satisfy Himself, on the ground that He was entitled to it; the second was to show Himself and what a great one He was; the third was to accept the world without the way of the cross. The prince of this world offers it simply on condition that it be accepted as from him and that he be thanked for it.

9. "And saith unto Him, All these things will I give Thee if Thou wilt fall down and worshid me." The time will come when the antichrist, the man of sin, the beast of Rev. xiii., will accept this offer of satan and for a brief period will do wondrously, but, oh, how brief his dominion, how fearful his fall and how awful his eternal doom, the lake of fire and brimstone forever! (Rev. xix., 20).

10. "Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." True worshipers worship the father in spirit and in truth, for the Father seeketh such to worship Him. God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth" (John iv., 23, 24). The word of God is the only guide, the Holy Spirit the only teacher, the Lord Jesus the only way to God the Father; so to worship in spirit and in truth means that in all things Jesus is acknowledged as Lord to the glory of God the Father, and that all is done in accordance with the word and in the power of the Spirit.

11. "Then the devil leaveth Him, and behold angels came and ministered unto Him." Luke iv., 13, says that the devil departed from Him for a season. How thankful we should be that our Lord did not conquer satan in what we might call a miraculous way, but in such a way as He will through us conquer him also. He has left us His sword, the Word of God, and we are told in Eph. vi., 16, 17, that these, the shield of faith and the sword of the Spirit, will surely overcome the adversary. —Lesson Helper.

Damage Done by Monkeys.

Great damage has been done lately in the Ibaraki district of Japan by monkeys. In some cases the animals, infuriated by hunger, even attacked human beings.

MONETARY COMMISSION'S REPORT.

Made by Authority of the Indianapolis Business Men's Convention.

The report of the Monetary Commission appointed under authority of the convention of business men, held in Indianapolis last January, has just been made public. The existing gold standard on which business has been done since 1879 is maintained on the ground the industrial interests demand certainty as to what the standard shall be. To this end it is urged that the United States should remove all uncertainty as to the meaning of "coin" in its obligations, thereby saving the taxpayer by the ability to borrow at a lower rate of interest. No attempt is made to remove the existing silver dollars, nor to change their legal tender quality; on the contrary, a place is provided for them in the circulation by forbidding the issue of any paper money other than silver certificates in denominations below $10.

It is regarded by the Commission as dangerous to maintain the present practice of using Government demand obligations as money.

The Commission, therefore, strongly urge the Government to withdraw its demand obligations now used as money, decline to provide gold for exporters and put the burden and expense of maintaining a redeemable paper circulation upon the banks. In order to meet the demand obligations, the present reserves of gold in the Treasury furnish a sufficient sum to be set aside in a Division of Issue and Redemption; and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to sell bonds whenever the reserves need replenishment. In this way, or from surplus revenue, the demand obligations (that is, United States notes and Treasury notes of 1890,) can be removed in such a way that the cost to the country can be reduced, with the result of simplifying our currency, and adding to confidence in the certainty of our standard. By the plan of the Commission the withdrawal of Government paper is so arranged that contraction cannot possibly take place; if United States notes are cancelled their place will be taken by the gold paid out for them, or by the expansion of bank notes.

The demand obligations of the United States were not a money based on property; they were only a debt. On the other hand, a bank note is never issued (fraud, of course, excluded) except for a consideration in negotiable property of equal or greater value. The bank note comes forth as the sequel of a business transaction, and is based on the active property of the country which is passing between producers and consumers. This property is always negotiable and always equal to the duty of meeting the note liability. Bank notes are as sound as the business transactions of the country. The currency of the country, moreover, should increase as the transactions of the country increase; hence the rigid unchanging issues of the Government make them an inelastic part of the circulation, while by the very process of their issue bank notes alone can be automatically adjusted to the changing transactions of the business community.

In amending the present national banking system, the Commission were actuated by a desire to secure absolute safety to the note holder; to make the notes uniform and of equal currency in all parts of the country to create an elastic system, which, while expanding in response to increasing transactions, should healthily contract when transactions diminish, and which would help in a better distribution of banking facilities throughout the Western and Southern States.

While providing for the partial use of bonds for securing notes (twenty-five per cent. of the capital) the Commission propose that notes beyond this should be issued on all, instead of a part of the resources of a bank; and within a few years that no special bond security should be required. Banks may issue notes up to sixty per cent. of their capital without restraint; for issue beyond sixty per cent. and up to eighty per cent. they pay a tax of two per cent.; for those beyond eighty per cent. and up to 100 per cent. they pay a tax of six per cent. These notes would be a prior lien upon all the resources of the bank, and, in addition, upon the stockholders' liability. Moreover, all banks issuing notes contribute five per cent. of their circulation as a permanent guaranty fund. For daily redemptions, banks are required to keep a five per cent. redemption fund in the hands of the Comptroller of the Currency. Banks of $25,000 capital may be established in places of 4000 inhabitants, and branch banks are also permitted.

Forced to Kill Him.

At noon Friday George Bush and Enoch Tyler, two employes of the Hamburger mills at Columbus, Ga., met in front of the mills and grappled each other. During the struggle Bush fired two shots into the body of Tyler, killing him almost instantly. One ball entered the breast and the other the shoulder. Both parties were mere boys, each being only 17 years old.

Captain-General Blanco has signed an edict permitting the exportation of tobacco from Cuba.

"A shoemaker makes a good shoe because he makes nothing else," says Emerson, and the idea may be taken up with advantage in almost any line of business. A merchant tailor in a town of 60,000 population made some cassocks for a few local priests. Now he is advertising himself in the Catholic papers and by circulars to the clergy of that church as a "cassock-maker," and sends hundreds of these garments all over the United States, and is kept busy the year round. At home he is simply a merchant tailor, doing a good business, while his out-of-town customers know him only as a man whose particular business is making cassocks, and who, making a specialty of this feature, is enabled to supply a better cassock and at a lower price than they can get elsewhere.—Printers' Ink.

A Beautiful Skin

is one of the chief requisites of an attractive appearance. Rough, dry, scaly patches, little blotchy eruptions, red and unsightly ringworms—these would spoil the beauty of a veritable Venus. They are completely and quickly cured by Tetterine. 50 cents a box at drug stores or postpaid by J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Piso's Cure is a wonderful Cough medicine. —Mrs. W. PICKERT, Van Siclen and Blake Aves., Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 23, 1894.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

Mrs. Hetty Green is willing that her daughter should marry a poor man if he is honest and good. Here's a chance at $30,000,000 that doesn't often come to a poor but honest man.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.

Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

Mrs. Dice, of Kingston, Mo., according to the Kansas City Journal, was divorced the other day and remarried shortly afterward. That's what comes from a woman's shaking Dice.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c

Notwithstanding the closest espionage the diamond mining companies of South Africa lose, it is said, £2,000,000 a year by theft.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

All the men engaged in asphalting a Glasgow street are Americans.

On an average man's physical strength begins to decay at the age of 35.

Rheumatism
Is permanently cured
By Hood's Sarsaparilla
Which neutralizes the
Lactic acid in the blood.

Thousands who were Sufferers write that they
Have felt no symptoms
Of Rheumatism since Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . .
. . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

Vegetables

can be raised at a profit, and the yield enlarged, if properly fertilized. Most fertilizers do do not contain enough

Potash.

Vegetables need plenty of potash—at least 10%—besides the phosphoric acid and nitrogen.

Write for our books which tell all about fertilizers. They are free.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

Am. N. U. No. 1. 1898

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

A GENTLEMAN.

I knew him for a gentleman
By signs that never fail;
His coat was rough and rather worn,
His cheeks were thin and pale—
A lad who had his way to make,
With little time for play;
I knew him for a gentleman
By certain signs to-day.

He met his mother on the street;
Off came his little cap.
My door was shut; he waited there
Until I heard his rap.
He took the bundle from my hand,
And when I dropped my pen,
He sprang to pick it up for me—
This gentleman of ten.

He does not push and crowd along;
His voice is gently pitched;
He does not fling his books about
As if he were bewitched.
He stands aside to let you pass;
He always shuts the door;
He runs on errands willingly
To forge and mill and store.

He thinks of you before himself
He serves you if he can;
For, in whatever company,
The manners make the man.
At ten or forty, 'tis the same;
The manner tells the tale,
And I discern the gentleman
By signs that never fail.

—Margaret E. Sangster.

TOMMY'S DISCOVERY.

Since Christmas was only a little over a week distant it was no wonder that Tommy was very much interested in everything pertaining thereto. Christmases did not seem anywhere near so close together to Tommy as they did to Tommy's papa. In fact, they appeared to be dreadfully far apart, and, think as hard as he might, Tommy could not recollect more than four of them in his whole life, though Tommy's mamma said that he had seen three more.

As Tommy lay in bed thinking the matter over he thought those three Christmases could not have amounted to much, since they had not impressed themselves upon his memory, and particularly as he had only a very plain rubber ring and a tin rattle to show for them. The last few Christmases he had received splendid presents—tops, toy guns and gaudily painted tin soldiers. Tommy began wishing very hard that he might go and see Santa Claus and the place where all those wonderful presents came from.

"It must be a perfectly marvelous place," thought Tommy, "and I'd like to really, truly see Santa Claus—believe I'd rather be him than President Cleveland." For Tommy's papa and mamma had both said that he might some time be President of the United States, but had never suggested that there was the slightest probability of his ever becoming Santa Claus.

The more Tommy thought of the matter the more he wished that he could visit the home of Santa Claus. He wished and he wished and he wished—and then! Tommy had read of a little boy by the name of Johnny Sizzletop, who, by holding the wishing stone of the Great and Most Supreme Rabbida, that had been given him by an old fairy woman, and wishing very hard, had become a fairy king. Yet he had never dreamed that if he only wished hard enough he might have his wish gratified, even though he did not have such a stone in his hand, But now he looked about him and saw that he certainly had experienced that great good fortune. He was standing by the open door of a funny little log house that he did not need to have anybody tell him was Santa Claus' home. It had a conical, square little chimney, and its roof and the ground all about it was covered with snow that was made out of powdered isinglass, like the snow on Christmas cards. Besides, there was a little rubber dog sitting in the doorway that Tommy knew would squeak if he were squeezed properly, and a little tin rooster standing on the fence, while a tin soldier in a most gaudy paint uniform was walking up and down in the little back yard, literally as stiff and straight as a gun barrel.

"But where can Santa Claus be?" thought Tommy disappointedly, peering into the empty front room of the little house.

"Anything I can do for you, sir?"

Tommy looked around at the sound of the strange voice and found the tin soldier standing by his side, the young man's fingers touching his cap in polite salute. Tommy was somewhat startled for a moment, but he very quickly regained his wonted composure and said as respectfully as he knew how:—

"If you please, I came here to see Mr. Santa Claus. Will you kindly inform me whether he is at home?"

Regret shone visibly upon the features of the tin soldier.

"I am very sorry," he said, kindly. "Indeed, I am greatly pained, but Mr. Santa Claus is out. However, you may step in, and perhaps Mrs. Santa Claus may have time to say 'How do you do?' to you, though she is the busiest woman that ever lived. I declare, it is wonderful the work Mrs. Santa Claus does."

"Why," exclaimed Tommy, "I didn't know there ever was such a lady!"

"Of course there is a Mrs. Santa Claus! I am surprised at your ignorance," remarked the tin soldier, as he led the way into Santa Claus' house.

Away in the back of the house they came upon Mrs. Santa Claus. And busy!—Tommy felt that he, too, had never seen anybody quite so busy, unless it were his own mamma just before Christmas. Her fingers just flew as she worked on a doll's bonnet, and Tommy could smell some candy that she had cooking in the next room, that he saw was her kitchen.

Yet, with all that work to see to, she was an awfully jolly, roly poly little woman, with the merriest little spectacled eyes and the funniest little cap imaginable.

"Why are you looking at me so wonderingly, little man?" she asked, stroking the large felt pet cat that sat by her side, and looking at Tommy pleasantly over the top of her spectacles.

The felt cat purred and also looked inquiringly at Tommy.

"Because I never saw you before," answered Tommy, truthfully, "and because I never heard of you, though I have heard of your husband often. He brings me presents."

"Can I do anything for you?" she asked, kindly. "I am very busy—almost too busy to say 'How do you do' to little men, although I am very fond of them, and of little women, too."

A bright idea occurred to Tommy. He had been wishing for a long time that Santa Claus would bring him a bicycle this Christmas. Now would be a good time to speak of it, Tommy thought, and he acted upon the inspiration.

"A bicycle," repeated Mrs. Santa Claus, "you would like Santa Claus to bring you a bicycle? Well," she added, thoughtfully, "I'll have to tell him about that. You see, I attend to the Christmas candy, and the dolls and their clothes, and Mr. Claus attends to the bicycles and guns and boys' toys," she continued, holding the doll's cap off for inspection. "If he had the making of the little girls' dolls I am sure there never would be any; and, as for their clothes, they never would be in fashion. I am sure he would let the candy burn while he was whittling out jumping jacks."

"I've often wondered how he could do it all," respectfully remarked Tommy.

Then he scratched the felt cat under its chin, and it purred delightedly.

"Please tell him rubber tires," said Tommy.

"I suppose half the folks don't know there's any Mrs. Santa Claus," mused the little woman when she again took her rocking chair, "because I'm so busy [illegible] I can't make any calls from one [illegible]stmas to another. And then I [illegible] go out with Mr. Claus," she [illegible]ed, "because I am afraid I [illegible] get wedged in some chimney. [illegible]'t think steam heaters will make [illegible]y easier, either."

"I should think it would make it harder," said Tommy.

"Besides, I have to cook Santa's Christmas turkey."

"He must be very hungry after he's been all around," said Tommy. "I am when I've been sliding down hill all the afternoon."

"Now, you have seen there is a Mrs. Santa Claus, and I'll tell Mr. Santa Claus about the bicycle with rubber tires," continued the little woman, and——"

But Tommy did not seem to catch the rest of what she was saying. Perhaps it was "Good night," or "Good-by." At any rate, Mrs. Santa Claus, the tin soldier and the felt cat, with the little room faded slowly away; and when Tommy opened his eyes the next morning he was lying in his own little bed, just as though he had never left it.

Nevertheless, Tommy told his papa, his mamma, his big brother and little sister all about his visit, at the breakfast table. His big brother laughed at him, and said that he had only been dreaming, and that there was no Santa Claus or Mrs. Santa Claus. But it is well known that there are wiser persons than seventeen-year-old brothers.

Tommy's papa and mamma did not laugh at him—at least not at the table—and, Tommy felt that they ought to know more about it than Frank. Then, when Christmas came at last there was the bicycle with rubber tires that Tommy wanted, standing under the Christmas tree. There was a beautiful doll, too, for Tommy's little sister, all dressed in what Tommy was sure was the latest style in clothes and hats—all of which proved quite conclusively to Tommy's mind that there was a Mrs. Santa Claus, who worked quite as hard to make children happy as did Mr. Santa Claus, but somehow or other did not get the credit for it; but this poor little lady, who has been neglected so long, has now a stanch defender in Tommy, who has almost persuaded his big brother that there is a Santa Claus as well as a Mrs. Santa Claus, who, according to Tommy's account, is the nicer of the two.

Jute Looks Like Wool.

The difficulty in dyeing into jute so as to make it resemble wool has been overcome by a Scotch inventor, and considerable quantities of jute thus prepared are being made up with wool in various goods of great beauty and usefulness. It is manufactured in such a way that the face of the article is of wool, while the warp is of the best jute.

Quecrest Town in England.

The most curious town in England is Northwich. There is not a straight street, nor, in fact, a straight house, in the place; every part of it has the appearance of having recently suffered from the visitation of an earthquake.

Northwich, as every one knows, is the center of the salt industry. On nearly all sides of the town are big salt works, with their engines pumping hundreds of thousands of gallons of brine every week.

At a depth of some two hundred or three hundred feet are immense subterranean lakes of brine, and as the contents of these are pumped and pumped away, the upper crust of earth is correspondingly weakened, and the result is an occasional subsidence.

Those subsidences have a "pulling" effect on the nearest buildings, which are drawn all ways, giving the town an upside-down appearance.

Right in His Line.

"How long," inquired the Eastern potentate, "has the young man been in the treadmill?"

"Two weeks, O conquering king. And he told me yesterday that he was having a fine time, although the scenery was getting monotonous."

"Two weeks? Great Allah! Who is he, anyway?"

"He claims he is an American bicycle scorcher; but what that might be I know not."—Puck.

It keeps some men so busy telling what they are going to do to-morrow that they haven't time to do anything to-day.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Taking Stock

Lookout for our

INVENTORY SALE.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

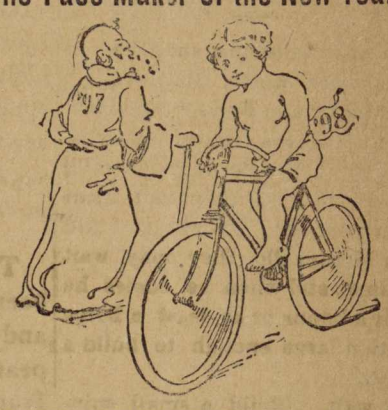
1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER

It has made miles and miles of hair grow on millions and millions of heads. Not a single gray hair. No dandruff.

The Pace Maker of the New Year



THERE IS MORE MERIT in the wheels of '98 than in any wheel made. You can get real worth from it because there is intrinsic worth in it. We give you wheels that please at prices that please.

"Birmingham," $40.

(Mail Orders Promptly Attended to.)

Parts or repairs from out of town returned on first train.

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

THE LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

SOUTH CAROLINA HEARD FROM.

Mrs Julia Johnson

Goeth, S. C., writes: For several years I had suffered much from Cold Feet, Sick Headache, Sleepless Nights, and found no relief until I commenced taking that greatest of all medicines, Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. It is better than the others.

Enlargement of the Womb.

This may be caused by congestion, inflammation or tumors. The symptoms are a dull pain in the lower part of the abdomen, sometimes depressing or sinking down of the womb, and some uneasiness in emptying the bladder and bowels. Costiveness should be avoided by using Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine in small doses, and our Mexican Female Remedy used as an injection, and the persistent use of Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine, will bring about a cure.

Julian R. Harrison

Hattieville, S. C., says: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine six years in my family. My Wife thinks there is nothing like it for Constipated Bowels and Biliousness. It cured me of Palpitation of Heart. Have used "Zeilin's Regulator," and think Dr. M. A. S. L. M. the best, and use no other.

Irregular Appetite.

This condition is a symptom of some constitutional derangement of the system, especially of indigestion.

A sufferer from dyspepsia generally has "the blues." He is as miserable in mind as in body. His appetite is more capricious than the whims of a spoiled child; at times there is a craving for food, at others a loathing of even the very thought of eating. This condition renders life miserable and should be corrected by the use of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

Knocked Out. Zeilin's big fraud has just been knocked out by the Supreme Court. The unfortunate merchants who were induced to buy the stuff find themselves with goods that cannot be sold, as the Supreme Court enjoined it. The United States Court knocked out the old proprietors of the article now called "Black Draught" as perpetrators of fraud.

Moral: Don't "tamper" with frauds!

CLEARING LAND WITH A CLIMAX GRUB AND STUMP PULLER

C. D. EDWARDS,
Send for Catalog. Albert Lea, Minn.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

CONSUMPTION AND CATARRH
Are result of Contracted Nostrils. Drugs Cannot Cure. Send 50c. for NASAL INSPIRATOR or stamp for pamphletto G. B. FARMER, Perth, Ont., Canada.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE!

Walter Baker & Co.'s
Breakfast COCOA

Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

Costs Less than ONE CENT a cup.

Be sure that the package bears our Trade-Mark.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
(Established 1780.) Dorchester, Mass.

Trade-Mark.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

NEWTON & CARRUTHERS, Proprietors.
A. S. CARRUTHERS, Editor.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Jan. 6, 1898.

SMALL COTTON MILLS.

"With inexhaustible supplies of coal and pure water, Montevallo," says the Montevallo News, "is an ideal location for a cotton factory." So it is, and the good people of Montevallo should build one. If they wait until a Northern operator is ready to build a mill in Montevallo, they may wait a long time; and when he comes he will want a bonus or at least a home subscription large enough to build a small mill.

Don't wait. Build a small spinning mill. Twenty-five thousand dollars will do at the start. Gather it in by installments. If a man says he can pay in the course of twenty months five hundred dollars, accept his subscription; wait until the money is in hand, and then begin the building of the factory. One-story factories are preferred now-a-days. Make your plans with an eye to extensions as the years roll by.

In just this way North Carolina has become a great cotton manufacturing state. A good share of her 200 mills were built from home subscription, and in many instances the snbscription were paid in installments. This state needs at least one hundred small mills. A trip to almost any small North Carolina town will make plain the methods. Plans and all needful help can be there procured. There is nothing of an experimental nature involved. All points have been settled. The climate, the labor question, the market for yarns—all have been tested on Southern soil and all are well understood. Go to North Carolina for all practical experience that may be wanting..

Let Montevallo get together and build the first of the one hundred small factories that Alabama needs, and therefore must have. The town is, as the News says, an ideal location for such a factory. Fuel would be in that town a small item of expense, and its pure water gives assurance of health and energy alike to operatives and the management.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Age-Herald, in the foregoing comments upon the article in the News, anticipated what the News intended to say in this issue upon the subject. Montevallo has all the resources necessary for successful cotton manufacturing, not only pure water and inexhaustible supplies of coal, but also water power. There flows through Montevallo a stream called Shoal Creek which, properly utilised, would furnish sufficient water power to run three cotton factories and an electric light plant.

The editor of the News knows that what the Age-Herald says about the cotton mills of North Carolina is correct. It is also true of those in South Carolina. They have been mainly built by home capital. There is nothing in the way of Montevallo's needed cotton mill but the apathy of many of her people.

The editor of this paper, in common with all the people of Montevallo, regrets to hear that Mr. S. B. Gibson, the efficient secretary of the Girls' Polytechnic Institute, will shortly leave here for Birmingham. Mr. Gibson's sterling qualities and devotion to his work insure his success wherever he may go or whatever he may engage in.

A movement is on foot to have the telegraph office located up town, with D. W. Shivers in charge. The News endorses the project and hopes it may meet with success.

Some of the Alabamians who went to Texas last year have returned, impressed with the fact that a hustler has better chances of success in Alabama than anywhere else.

Col. R. B. Kyle, of Gadsden, spent the Christmas season at Columbus, Ga, and on his return stated that while there he had seen a Poland China hog weighing 1,525 pounds. Columbus must have a powerful brand of whiskey.

The legislature of Ohio having been organised by the Democrats and Bushnell republicans, it appears almost certain that Mark Hanna's bestial face and abhorrent personality will soon cease to disgrace the Senate chamder.

A just providence has retired Grover Cleveland to the obscurity from which he should never have emerged, and every decent, patriotic man in the United States hopes and prays that Mark Hanna may be similarly dealt with.

The Washington correspondence anent the New England cotton manufactures which appears on the front page of this issue of the News will be pleasing reading to all the poeple in this district. Now that it is evident that the cotton manufacturing industry will inevitably be transferred to the south, it becomes the paramount duty of the citizens of Montevallo to organise a Commercial Club and take the necessary steps to have one or more cotton factories located at this, the most advantageously situated cotton manufacturing point in Alabama.

WORDS OF PRAISE.

SPOKEN OF THE NEW NEWS BY PAPERS AND PEOPLE.

A. S. Carruthers, formerly a reporter on the Birmingham Age-Herald, has bought an interest in the Montevallo News and will in the future give the people of that thriving city a paper in every way worthy of their support. As a humorous writer Mr. Carruthers has few equals in Alabama and we feel certain that his articles will be highly appreciated by his readers. The CLIPPER wishes the News unbounded success under its new management.—Collinsville Clipper.

Montevallo claims to have received 4,000 bales of cotton this season. We are not surprised. Live merchants make a live town. The advertising columns of the NEWS show that the Montevallo merchants appreciate the value of printer's ink in drawing trade to their town.—People's Advocate.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

BIBB COUNTY FARMERS.

The residents of precinct No. 9, Bibb county, met on December 28th to consider the question whether or not the use of fertilizers is advisable when the price of cotton is so low. There was great divergence of opinion about the matter, but all—irrespective of political affiliation—voted for a resolution that all candidates for the legislature should be required to pledge themselves to vote for a measure reducing the salaries of all State officials 50 per cent. It was also the sense of the meeting that the justices of the peace in each precinct should have the authority now vested in the county judge, which office should be abolished.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go

To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

ONE WEEK'S SALE.

—(o)—

THE HOLIDAY RUSH has depleted our stock of goods, but we have lots on the way from New York. Meanwhile we will sell all goods, and we carry all lines, at reduced prices until January 15, 1898. This especially applies to Men's Clothing, Dress G[illegible] and Farming Implements.

M[illegible]N BROS.,
[illegible]allo, Ala.

A. M. CROSS

—HAS—

REMOVED

—TO—

JOHN INGRAM'S OLD SHOP,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.
WHERE HE IS PREPARED TO DO

HORSE SHOEING

AND ALL KINDS OF

BLACKSMITHING

AND REPAIR WORK ON

Wagons, Buggies, Etc., Etc.

CHARGES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

SCHOOL NOTES.

President Reynolds Complimented.

Many of the returning young ladies brought with them letters from their parents to President Reynolds, highly eulogistic of the work accomplished at the Institute. The following extract is a fair sample of many:

TALLADEGA, January 1, 1898.
President H. C. Reynolds, Montevallo, Ala.

Dear Sir: It should be the pride and glory of your life that you are so honorably connected with the grandest Female Institute of our State. Its past is brief but brilliant, and gives promise of a most glorious future.

JNO. W. BISHOP,
Probate Judge.

***

Miss B. M. Haley of Jasper, Ala., brought back her sister Francilla.

***

Mrs. Dyer, of Stanton, brought her two sisters to the Institute last Monday.

***

Dr. Morton, of Vernon, spent last Monday at the Institute with his daughter Claudia.

***

The grounds in front of the Institute will be plowed and sown in crimson clover.

***

The well at the rear of the dormitory building is supplying an ample sufficiency of water.

***

The sun shines on Montevallo once more, for the sunshiny girls have all returned.

***

President Reynolds has received a large number of applications for admission to the school.

***

President Reynolds has been obliged to order more desks to accommodate the new pupils.

***

J. C. Reece, of Tallapoosa, last Monday visited Montevallo and entered his daughter, Miss Nattie, as a pupil at the Institute.

***

Miss May Swain, one of last years pupils, was married last week. She is the 14th of the 150 to get married already. This is a good showing.

***

A school of Elocution has been commenced, with Miss Centerfit, of Montgomery, as professor. Many girls have enrolled themselves as her pupils.

***

Miss Exie Hames, the lovely daughter of Judge Hames, of Jacksonville, Calhoun county, is one of the latest additions to the pretty girls of the Institute.

***

This term the Institute will award diplomas in each separate school, in order to develop in each girl ambition to succeed in the branch for which her talents most fit her.

***

President Reynolds and Mrs. Babb are highly gratified at the vim with which the girls have recommenced their studies, and say that in interest and assiduity they are continually improving.

***

Since the holidays the mode of night study has been changed. Under the new system the girls in the dormitory and each boarding house gather in the room and there, under the supervision of a teacher or monitor, prepare their lessons for the morrow.

***

The baby daughter of Will Evans the colored janitor, died on New Year's day, and was interred on Sunday. Many of the teachers and pupils sent flowers to place on the little coffin. Mrs. Babb, with her usual kindness, has materially aided the janitor in meeting the expenses attendant upon the sickness and funeral of the child.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton's market, Montevallo, Ala.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

Everyone is invited to call at the Shelby County Bank for an artistic calender.

J. B. McKibbon returned last Sunday from a ten days visit with his relatiyes at Oxford.

Montevallo has the making of a great city. It only needs some hustling to make it so.

J. C. Dill, of Fenton, Miss., spent his holidays in Montevallo, and subscribed for the NEWS.

A cotton factory will be able to supply electric light cheaply for street and house lighting.

Philip Noble, of Romulus, Tuscaloosa county, is again in Montevallo on business, but will return home next week.

Charles Acker, who is attending the medical college at Birmingham, spent the holidays in Montevallo with his father, Dr. Acker.

J. F. Robertson, of Charleston, S. C., one of the stockholders in the old Harrison Coal and Mining Co., spent last Monday in Montevallo.

M. C. Banks returned Monday from Cleveland, Tenn., where he had spent a week with his parents. He reports having had a good time.

G. D. Mitchell, formerly one of the NEWS printers, has returned to his wife in Blocton, where he has accepted a position as associate editor of the News-Herald.

Rev. John B. Simpson, Presiding Elder of the Tuscaloosa district, will preach next Sunday night at the Methodist church. On Monday at 10 A. M. the quarterly conference will be held.

Michael Wolowitz, the polite and esteemed young merchant who has for the past three months conducted the store opposite Vandegrift's, left Monday for Birmingham to attend business college.

The cold snap caused cut fingers as well as red noses. Last Saturday Prof. Carpenter of Aldrich sliced off the end of his thumb while whittling shavings, and next day Geo. Kroell, while similarly engaged, narrowly escaped amputating one of his fingers.

A. M. Cross, the well-known blacksmith of Montevallo, has removed from the old West shop to the old John Ingram shop, where he is able and ready to do all kinds of black smithing, horseshoeing, woodwork and repair work on wagons, buggies, etc., cheaper and better than any man in Alabama. See his ad elsewhere.

Dr. H. W. Harrison was in Montevallo last Monday on business. He states that in all probability the old Harrison Coal and Mining Co. will recommence operations in the near future.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Ernest West returned Sunday from a week's visit with his relatives in Columbiana. He says there were more "plain and aggravated drunks" in the county seat during Christmastide than he ever saw before.

It was indeed a handsome New Year's gift which one hundred of Montevallo's citizens received from Frank J. Kroell, manager of Kroell's livery, feed and sale stable, for—although but a card—it entitled each of its recipients to free 'bus transportation to and from the depot during 1898.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

The regular monthly meeting of the Shelby County Medical Society was held at Columbiana on Monday, January 3. Nearly every member was present. A uniform scale of fees for medical services was fixed, also the manner of their collection regulated and it was decided that blacklists of delinquent debtors should be compiled. The society agreed that an extra charge of fifty cents should be made hereafter for night visits The following officers were elected for 1898. President, Dr. E. C. Givhan, of Montevallo; Vice-President, Dr. H I. Williams of Columbiana; Secretary, Dr. J. R. Morgan, of Shelby Springs.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

Postmaster F. F. Crowe has built a new chimney at the rear of his store and will in a few days put in a heater to accommodate those who go to him for mail, the best candies, toilet articles and perfumes, good cigars and stationary, also to have prescriptions carefully filled at reasonable prices.

DEATHS

Mary Claudia Bryan, aged 19, daughter of Mr. J. G. and Mrs. Sarah Florence Bryan, died January 7th, 1898.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

The school started the new year (January 2nd) with 75 scholars present, 173 absent. This small attendance was due to the absence of many A. P. I. students who were at home for the holidays.

Baptist Sunday School. Will Lyman, superintendent; J H. McMath, secretary.

Sunday, January 2, 1898. Officers and teachers present 15, officers and teachers absent 14. Scholars present 52, absent 119. Collection, 65 cents.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F. F. Crowe & Co.

NEW ARRIVALS

The following named new pupils have entered the Institute since the holidays:

Francilla Haley, Jasper.
Nettie Reese, Tuscaloosa.
Pleasye Northington, Prattville.
Pattie Kennard, Livingston.
Nora Mitchell, Birmingham.
Wilna Carlton, Blocton.
Virgie Alston, Attalla.
Minnie C. Boswell, Postoak.
Lulan Meroney, Lewisburg.
Ella Roberts, Citronville.
Minnie Burke, Burke's Mill.
Sallie Milner, Elyton.
Pearl Brown, Uniontown.
Fenie Battle, Livingston.
Minnie Smith, Prattville.
Ethel Bartlet, Barfield.

About twenty-five more will probably arrive in the next two weeks.

MONTEVALLO SOCIETY.

Social circles in Montevallo were comparatively quiet during the holiday season. Nearly all entertained or visited friends; Prof. Simmons gave a delicious 'possum dinner.

The event of the week, however, was the colonial reception given by Mrs. Jas. Lacey McConaughy, on the evening of Tuesday, December 28. at her beautiful residence on Main street.

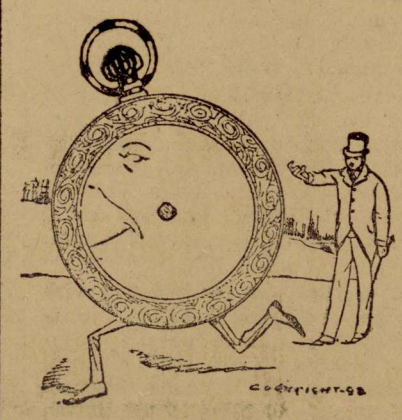
All the guests were attired in colonial costumes, some exceedingly rich and quaint. The men especially were handsomely garbed. Nearly every young lady represented some historic colonial characteramong them Miss Bertie Allen as Priscilla. Dancing, fortune-telling and various games made the evening seem all too short. One novel feature was the distribution of a number of cards, each bearing the name of a popular song, which the recipient had to illustrate. All were ludicrous, but Mr. Nat Nabors carried off the honor.

A recherche supper was served at 11 p. m. in the spacious dining room, and at midnight the charmed guests bade adieu to their charming hostess and stepped back into the prosaic end of the nineteenth century.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

"MY WATCHES RUN."



Fine WATCHES

Carefully
Repaired
and Adjusted.
All
Work
Guaranteed
First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly
attended to.

J. W. MARTIN,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM. - - - ALA.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.
To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Do
You Know

RAMON'S
LIVER PILLS
and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by a Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses
The Tonic Pellet Invigorates

The little "Doctor's Book" tells all about it and a week's Treatment free proves every word true. Complete Treatment 25 cents. Brown Mfg. Co., N. Y. & Greeneville, Tenn.

FARMERS Are always Welcome

AND CAN BUY

Everything from us Cheaper than Elsewhere.

WE HAVE THE BIGGEST LINE OF

Hardware BETWEEN BIRMINGHAM AND MONTGOMERY.

DISSTON HAND AND CROSS-CUT SAWS, Etc.

GEO. KROELL,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

Last Week

IN MONTEVALLO.

—(o)—

Closing Out

SALE.

EVERYTHING At Your OWN PRICE.

Seize the Opportunity.

The New

Jew Store,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

HIGHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.

CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
These prices in force until January 15th.

SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.

VANDEMEER BROS.

TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.

MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

Now that so many brewers have been elevated the House of Lords, English wits are beginning to term that august body the "Beerage."

Bohemian "sportsmen" during the year 1895 shot and killed fifty men, women and children, and wounded 2104 persons, chiefly gamekeepers.

Recent attempts to introduce professional foot ball into Mexico have ended in failure. These unsophisticated foreigners will have nothing less refined than a bull fight.

One of the dry goods stores in Boston has substituted the cry "teller" for "cash," to the great delight of the local purists who seem to think it a choicer word for use in a cultured city.

A codfish four feet long has been caught on the New England coast. This does not, however, settle the mooted question whether codfish salt the ocean or the ocean salts the codfish.

More than 40,000 of the soldiers whom Spain has sent to Cuba are now in the hospital, and of the 192,000 sent to the island during Weyler's leadership only 89,000 are fit for duty. These are mere fragments from the history of the gloomiest military tragedy of the century.

A novel mountain railway has been built in Germany, the track of which consists of a single T-shaped rail, on which a car runs which is drawn up the incline by a captive balloon. The tests of this railway on a small scale have been successful, and now a larger railroad is being built to run up the Hochstauffen, near Bad Reichenhall, Bavaria.

Mayor Jones, of Toledo, Ohio, who was elected to office last spring by the people instead of the politicians, believes that all contract work in municipalities should be abolished, states the New York Independent, In one of the sessions of the recent Battle Creek Civic-Philanthropic Conference he brought out this point very clearly. For, said he, contractors' pay must come either out of the inferior work or out of inferior wages; and money thus spent on contracts or contractors goes not to the people but from the people. This is true, and its general acceptance will hasten the time when the city shall be in truth a "model employer."

Greater New York has a population almost as great as that of the whole United States at the time George Washington was first elected President. It has a population equal to that of the combined population of the following twelve States: California, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, with the District of Columbia thrown in. Its population is nearly as great as that of swarming Holland, one-third greater than that of all Norway, twice as great as that of Cuba, equal to that of Chile, and greater than that of Switzerland, Greece, Denmark or Venezuela. It equals the combined population of half a dozen of the minor countries of Central and South America.

Among the strange contributions made by modern Syria to ecclesiastical peace in other lands the following deserves mention, thinks the Independent: In a certain church in Scotland the controversy over the use of fermented or unfermented wine at the communion service, reached a point where it was necessary to provide two tables and two sets of elements in order that the church might partake at the same time. The sight and practice was a grief to all, and a scandal to people outside. A committee was appointed to solve the difficult problem. Some one suggested that the church send to Syria and procure "the common wine of the country." This met with unanimous approval. And now for several years the undivided church celebrates each communion season, using a wine made about three miles away from Zahleh, in Mt. Lebanon.

GREAT SUFFERING IN CUBA.

A Conspiracy Against the Spanish Unearthed in Panar Del Rio.

CHEERING FOR THE UNITED STATES.

A Letter From an Insurgent Chief Says 150,000 Insurgents and Reconcentrados Have Died in Western Cuba and Santa Clara Provinces.

Havana, via Key West.—Details have been received from Spanish sources of a conspiracy against Spanish rule, said to have been discovered in the province of Pinar Del Rio. It is now stated that 1,500 men employed in the fields of Clay, Brock & Co., tobacco growers, and who had been disarmed, conspired to join the insurgents. Their leaders were imprisoned in Moro Castle.

Christmas night there were riots similar to those which occurred at Havana, Matanzas and other towns. The demonstrations were intended as a protest against autonomy.

At Matanzas the crowds cheered for the United States, President McKinley and annexation.

The majority of conservative mayors have been removed from the towns in the interior. They represent 75 per cent of the taxpayers.

A letter from an important insurgent chief says about 150,000 insurgents and reconcentrados have died in Western Cuba up to Santa Clara. He also expresses regret at the suffering endured by the insurgents in the field.

Dr. Delfin calls attention, in Dietro de la Marina, to the necessity of sending about fifty physicians into the interior of the island, provided with medicine chests and vaccine. This step, he says, is to save from death innumerable human beings who are dying of hunger and neglect.

Dr. Delfin adds that over 500,000 persons, mostly women and children, have died of famine in the fields. The reconcentrados are suffering from dysentery, smallpox, cholera, etc., which threaten extermination. Therefore, Dr. Delfin says, it is necessary to send medicines with food and physicians.

It is reported that an important engagement occurred last Monday in the Mulata mountains, province of Pinar del Rio, and that large numbers were killed on both sides. One prominent insurgent was captured and brought to Havana, where he was imprisoned in the communicado.

LOWERING THE WAGE SCHEDULE.

The Reduction Will Be General Throughout the East.

The action of the cotton manufacturers in New Bedford and Rhode Island in deciding to join the movement to lower the wage schedule in January, which was inaugurated by the big corporations of Fall River, makes the reduction practically a general one throughout the New England states. Cotton mills in Fall River, Lowell, Manchester, Salem, Suncock, N. H., and a number of smaller places have already posted notices of a reduction amounting to from 9 to 11 1-9 per cent. In New Bedford it is understood the cut down applies to the cloth mills only. As far as known the reduction in all the mill centers applies to treasurers, superintendents, overseers and clerks, as well as to the spinners and other operatives.

WILL LOOK AT THE CANAL.

Prominent Contractors on Their Way to Nicaragua.

Fourteen of the most prominent contractors in the United Siates will go to Nicaragua to inspect the survey of the proposed canal. If the work is deemed practical, these men will form a company and bid for the job. The party is under the direction of E. L. Cooley, chief engineer of the Chicago drainage canal. Most of the contractors were associated with Mr. Cooley in that immense undertaking. From the meager information in their possession Engineer Cooley estimates the maximum cost of the Nicaragua canal at $25,000,000. The army engineers say this is ridiculously small and predict an excess of $80,000,000. Others have variously estimated the cost of the project from $60,000,000 to $150,000,000.

REVOLUTION IN SALVADOR.

Gunboat Marietta Will Be Sent There as Soon as Possible.

Salvador is threatened with another revolution. To protect American interests the navy department, upon the request of the state department, has telepraphed orders to the gunboat Marietta, which is at Mare Island, directing her to proceed as soon as possible to La Libertad and remain until further orders. The Marietta is being fitted for service in Chinese waters.

The information upon which the state department acts comes from Consul Jenkins at San Salvador, who cabled: "The condition of affairs in Salvador is alarming; send warship."

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK

Carefully Collated in Brief and Pointed Paragraphs.

The Comptroller of the Currency has authorized the Corn Exchange National Bank of Chicago, Ill., capital $1,000,000, to begin business.

Unknown persons dynamited the court house of Wilkes county, N. C., damaging the foundation and superstructure and wrecking every window.

Governor Charles A. Culberson, of Texas, has announced himself a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Roger Q. Mills, whose term will expire in 1899.

The American consul at Barcelona, Spain, is unable to keep the stars and stripes flying from Uncle Sam's vessels, owing to the bitter feeling of the Spaniards against the United States.

Pedro Escureo, who was minister of justice during the empire of Maximilian, and who was the author of the civil code and one of the most eminent of Mexico's jurists, died Friday at the age of 80.

Southern Express Agent P. H. Mabry, at Brunswick, Ga., has absconded with $14,000 of the company's funds, which a few days before had been shipped by Savannah bankers to Brunswick.

The action of the operatives conference committee of the Fall River, Mass., cotton mill employees indicates that no strike will be declared, a poll of the members showing 12 to 6 against it.

Jim Redd and Alex Johnson, the condemned murderers of W. F. Skipper, did not hang at Monticello, Ark., Friday as scheduled. The supreme court has issued a stay of execution pending an appeal.

Twelve business houses were destroyed by fire at Lebanon, Tenn., the past week. All the contents of the buildings, which were retail stores, were totally destroyed. The loss so far is estimated at $60,000.

Thomas B. Gresham, formerly of Macon, Ga., now of Baltimore, offers to donate $10,000 to build an annex to the Macon city hospital as a memorial to his father, the late Judge John G. Gresham, of Macon, who was one of Georgia's wealthiest and best known men.

The secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the president, has issued regulations under the act of congress, prohibiting the taking of seal skins by American citizens except on the Pribyloff islands and prohibiting the importation into this country of pelagic sealskins.

It is officially announced at Calcutta, India, that the recent famine cost the treasury 800,000 pounds, while loans to agriculturists and suspensions of taxes, mainly repayable, absorbed another 4,000,000 pounds, irrespective of charitable contributions, approaching 1,750,000 pounds.

One of the largest ore deals ever consummated in this or any other country has just been closed by James W. Miller, of Pittsburg, Pa., at London, England, with the Cardiff Iron Founders Company, limited. It is an order for 4,000,000 tons of 64 per cent Mesaba iron ore, representing more than $20,000,000.

CABINET NAMED BY BLANCO

Under the Regime of Autonomy for the Cubans.

It is asserted that the following have been accepted by Governor-General Blanco as members of the first Cuban colonial cabinet under the regime of autonomy:

President of the cabinet—Senor Jose Maria Galvez.

Minister of finance—Senor Rafael Montero, marquis of Montero.

Minister of the interior—Senor Antonio Govin.

Minister of education—Senor Francisco Zayas.

Minister of commerce—Senor Artuzo Amblard.

Minister of post and telegraphs—Senor Laurenno Rodriguez.

It is understood they will take the oath at the palace on Saturday next after attending the celebration of mass.

The under secretaries will then be nominated, together with the chief subordinates of the permanent staff.

General Fitzhugh Lee has asked the authorities at Washington for medicines, clothing and other assistance for the reconcentrados on the conditions agreed upon between Madrid and Washington.

Increase in Receipts.

The forthcoming weekly statement of the government receipts and expenditures will show a material increase in the receipts from both customs and internal revenues. The income from customs this month will probably exceed November by $3,000,000. The returns from internal revenue sources will probably reach an excess of $1,000,000 over November.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

At Selma the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association elected T. S. McGill, of Louisville, Ky., general secretary. He is now assistant secretary of the Louisville association.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Pertinent Paragraphs of the Late News of the State.

Squire Joel Hardee, of Monroe county, fell dead at the dinner table.

Suicide at Greensboro.

David J. Castleman, one of the oldest residents of Greensboro, committed suicide Thursday night by shooting himself through the heart.

Burned to Death.

Mrs. Lizzie Wilson, an aged woman of Eufaula, was so seriously burned as to cause her death. Her clothing caught from an open fire.

Killed Himself Accidentally.

William Cade, a resident of Paducah, Ky., was found dead near the house of his son in Wilcox county. A gunshot wound was the cause of his death, supposed to have been accidental.

Crushed Between Cars.

While Car Inspector Henry Smith was working between two cars on the Southern railway, at Selma, one of the drawbars was broken, the switch engine backed on him, crushing him between the two cars. It is thought he is fatally injured.

Assignment at Montgomery.

The doors of the Builders' and Painters' Supply company, of Montgomery, one of the largest dealers in its line of goods in the state, were closed Monday. The liabilities and assets are not yet known.

Wants Its Capital Stock Reduced.

A petition has been filed in the probate court signed by sixty-five stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock of the South Anniston Land company, asking that the capital stock of the company be reduced from $1,000,000 to $75,000.

Repentance and Death.

A special from Guntersville says John L. Lovelace, a well known farmer, went to his home near Union Grove, after having been on a spree during the Christmas holidays, and, in a fit of repentance, seized a Colt's derringer and blew out his brains.

Big Day for the State Treasury.

The last day of the year was a big day in the state treasurer's office, there being certified into the treasury $113,000. Of this Judge Jones, as attorney of the Louisville & Nashville, paid to the credit of the counties through which the road runs $42,000.

Setting a Business-Like Example.

The farmers of Madison county are beginning to set a business-like example before the other counties of the state. Instead of running their large farms at a loss, as many have done, they are beginning to cut them up into forty, eighty and 100 acre tracts and to sell them to the thrifty farmers from the Northwest, who are settling in that part of the state.

Charter for New Railroad.

The Southern Railway company has filed an application for a charter at Jasper, Marion county, Tenn., asking to be allowed to extend its line through that county. This means that the Southern will build a direct line from Stevenson into Chattanooga, a distance of about sixty miles. Owing to the mountainous country the work will be quite expensive. The new road will pass through four different counties, which now have little or no railroad facilities.

To Change Alabama School Laws.

The committee on educational status of the State Educational association met in Birmingham and drafted a plan to secure needed changes in the state's laws, whereby the public school system can be improved and school funds be increased. It was decided that the committee draft an entirely new school law, and, after submission for approval and amendment to the next annual meeting of the association, present same to the next legislature for adoption.

Populist Convention Called.

The executive committee of the people's party met in Birmingham the past week and issued an address to the voters of Alabama, in which the keynote is, no compromise with the democrats, state or national.

The address charges the democrats with playing traitor to every pledge, and knifes Governor Johnston for his crusade against the dishonest county officers. It says that the democrats are untrue to the Chicago platform, the free silver plank of which was a snare to delude the people. It says that the democratic administration of the state has been untrue to the people in almost every particular, and with the ring of the old-time populist calls on all lovers of honest elections and honest administrations to come to the support of the people's party.

The populist convention will be held on the first Wednesday in May, 1898, and while it has not been definitely decided, Birmingham will likely be the place.

Disastrous Fire at Hayneville.

Hayneville was visited by one of the most disastrous fires in its history Thursday morning at 1 o'clock. It originated in the warehouse of W. T. Brightman & Co., and with a northeast wind the flames spread rapidly. The next building that caught was a livery stable of J. E. Miller. Fifteen horses and mules were burned. Efforts were made to save them without success. Next was the livery business of B. F McWhorter, who saved his vehicles and horses. The general mercantile establishments of Dr. W. P. Russell and Pritchett & Rudolph were also consumed, as well as the stock of D. Goldstein, who occupied a storehouse of Dr. W. P. Russell.

The loss is as follows: W. T. Brightman & Co., $200; J. E. Miller, $500; B. F. McWhorter, $200; W. P. Russell, $5,200; Pritchett & Rudolph, $1,700; J. C. Light, $300; Pritchett & Merriwether, $3,000; Joe Lloyd, $300. The insurance will cover about one-sixth of the loss. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

AN EXCELLENT RECORD.

Notes From Montevallo's and Alabama's Famous School for Girls.

About twenty-five new pupils have engaged scholarships in the Girl's Industrial school for entrance after the holidays. This will make the enrollment between 360 and 400. Over 300 of these are boarding pupils and come from various portions of the state.

About 250 pupils in the school spent the holidays at their homes and are now coming back, many of whom bring new girls with them.

Out of the class of last session who graduated in the school of typewriting and stenography, seven out of nine have nice paying positions.

Quite a number of Mrs. Hudson's pupils in telegraphy can receive and send messages nicely. This is the only school in the state connected with the outside world by telegraph. The day before the school closed for the holidays over forty messages were handled through the college office.

Miss Mamie Guy, one of the most proficient pupils in the school of dressmaking, has an offer from a house in Kentucky to take charge of their dressmaking department as soon as she obtains her diploma in this line.

The pupils in the dressmaking department made $130 clear in November and nearly a hundred dollars in December. This money goes direct to the pupils earning it. This is all done in connection with their other studies and does not in any way conflict with them.

One girl who graduated in typewriting and stenography last year now has a position that enables her to keep her younger sister in the school this year.

BREVITIES.

A cotton seed oil mill is to be built early in the spring at Lafayette.

The Reid Hardware Company of Montgomery has made an assignment.

A steamer line between Mobile and Portersville will be inaugurated soon.

The North Alabamian will be resuscitated at Tuscumbia by W. S. Keller, son of the late editor and publisher, Capt. A. H. Keller.

Farmer Seals, a conductor on the Selma division of the Southern railroad, had his arm cut off while coupling cars at York. He was dragged about twenty-five yards under the car.

F. F. Conway, editor of the Bridgeport News, received as a Christmas present an appointment as assistant doorkeeper of the house of representatives at Washington at a salary of $1,000 per year.

Friday morning Collector James Bingham announced the following appointments: James F. Files, of Townley, Walker county, storekeeper and gauger. John B. Hammond, of Attalla, Etowah county, Deputy Collector for the Montgomery District.

During the past few days revenue officers have made several big raids upon illicit distilleries. The biggest raid was reported from Round Mountain island, Limestone county, where an 80-gallon still and a quantity of material was destroyed on an island in the creek.

S. P. Locke, a prominent Memphis business man, lost his life near Jasper in a mysterious way. He secured a berth in a sleeper at Memphis and asked to be awakened at Jasper, and when the latter place was reached he was not on the train. Subsequently his remains were found on a trestle.

W. B. Witherspoon, editor of the Piedmont Inquirer and Alabama Cumberland Presbyterian, has perfected all his plans to move to Anniston, and will probably move by the 1st of January. Mr. Witherspoon will move the Alabama Cumberland Presbyterian there and will also issue a weekly to be known as the Anniston Inquirer. The Piedmont Inquirer will continue to be published at Piedmont.

CHAPTER IV.

Gerald Paxton, the detective, was a young and ambitious man. He had entered upon the profession in which we find him engaged several years previous to the occurrence of "the crime of a broker's office," as the murder of John Oakburn was designated, and he had labored with enthusiasm and met with several successes which had attracted attention to himself to such an extent that he was regarded as a rising man. But as yet he had not attained the eminence which his ambitien craved.

Paxton was ever on the alert to take advantage of circumstances, and when he left the broker's office after the investigation he believed that he had at last found a case that might open a great future for himself and enable him to win celebrity and eminence. He comprehended that in the case of John Oakburn's murder all the elements of supreme interest were united—magnitude of crime, mystery, uncertainty of issue, and difficulty of solution. In short, that it was just such a case as he longed to undertake, and he was filled with enthusiasm which aroused all his energies, and made him feel the keenest anxiety and hope.

He smiled as he thought how simple the police sergeant regarded the whole affair, and how readily he had jumped to a solution of the whole matter.

"Circumstances may still further implicate Stuart Harland, but I have embarked in the case with the assumption of his innocence, which I shall undertake to establish in the face of all the circumstantial evidence that may be brought against him, and I shall succeed," muttered Paxton, in a tone of conviction.

His faith was firm, his determination indomitable, and the possibility of failure he was never inclined to admit.

He had not concluded his investigation, although it was his policy to conceal this fact from the police sergeant.

After walking a block or so in company with the officer of the police and his companions, Paxton turned down a side street, made a detour, and, doubling on his own tracks, he returned to the broker's office.

Stealthily, as though he wished to conceal his presence from the two officers who were on guard in the office, Paxton entered the passage between the office and the adjoining building and proceeded to critically inspect the ground under the window in the rear compartment of the office.

The night was doubly dark in the narrow passage where the shadows are dense and black, and the detective was obliged to produce his pocket lantern, which was of the bull's-eye type, in order to inspect the ground in a satisfactory manner.

The result was a discovery.

The imprints of a man's feet were discovered in the ground beneath the window, where the earth was soft and yielding owing to a thaw.

The impressions were quite distinct, and the print of a double row of nails, which must have studded the sole of the boots or shoes which had made the tracks were quite clearly defined. Paxton also detected certain marks or abrasions of the paint on the side of the building under the window, which had undoubtedly been made by some one who had climbed up to it.

He caught the window-sill, and with a firm grasp drew himself up to the window, which he examined, making the further discovery that there were certain marks under the edge of the shutters.

"I was not in error. This window was opened from the outside and not from the inside, as our worthy police sergeant so positively affirmed. I see plainly where an iron bar was forced under the shutter to pry off the fastening. Yes, the assassin entered from the outside through the window," said Paxton to himself, in a satisfied tone.

He let himself down from the window again and having once more carefully inspected the track under it he procured a piece of board which chanced to be at hand, and covered them so as to preserve them from obliteration.

He understood the value of such mute evidences as these, and he never neglected any precaution which might eventuate to his advantage.

With the certitude of the truth of a positive theory which he had formed for a basis, he proceeded to erect a superstructure intended to sustain his hypothesis and convince others of its truth.

Revolving in his mind various conjectures and possibilities suggested by his discoveries, Paxton repaired to his own apartments.

Before retiring, however, he made from memory a very exact diagram of the premises where the murder had been committed.

If Stuart Harland was to be placed in peril of his life by reason of John Oakburn's murder, he had in Gerald Paxton a defender whose services would prove invaluable—one who feared not to enter the lists against any opponent.

The following morning the crime was made known to the public through the newspapers and there was much excitement on Wall street and throughout the city. The street in the immediate neighborhood of the broker's office was thronged with an eager and excited multitude, and morbid curiosity, to view the remains of the victim of the tragedy impelled many to seek an entrance. But the policemen on guard permitted no one to enter.

At nine o'clock a. m. the coroner, his clerk, a number of police officers, including the sergeant who had accused Stuart Harland, and Paxton, the detective, arrived, and entered the office.

Mr. Garrison and his clerks presented themselves soon after, and they were admitted, as were also a number of gentlemen from the assemblage without who were selected by the coroner to serve as a jury.

The usual preliminaries being concluded, and the jury duly sworn, the inquest proceeded as is usual in such cases.

The surgeon made a thorough examination of the wound which had occasioned John Oakburn's death, and extracted the bullet, which was found to be a large lead ball of a peculiar, conical shape, entirely unlike bullets intended for ordinary pistols.

The fatal missile was transferred from hand to hand and viewed with interest by all.

Paxton, the detective, particularly examined it minutely, and, after he had whispered to the coroner for a moment, he was permitted to retain possession of the singular, death-dealing ball. He carefully deposited it in his pocketbook, as though he regarded its preservation as a matter of the utmost importance.

"There is no possibility of suicide in this case, I presume," said the coroner, addressing the surgeon.

"No, sir. Suicide may be positively excluded. The position of the fatal wound, the direction taken by the bullet, and the nature of the indentations at the margin of the orifice where the ball entered, all serve to prove that the shot was not fired by the dead man himself. The wound clearly shows to a practiced observer that the bullet came from a distance of probably in the neighborhood of twenty feet," answered the surgeon.

Paxton paced the distance from the body of the murdered man, which lay where it had fallen, to the door leading to the hall.

"It is eighteen feet from the door to the body," said the detective.

"Indeed! Judging, then, from the position of the body and the relative location of the wound, I should say that he was shot by some one who stood at the door and who discharged his weapon while his victim's back was turned. The shot entered at the base of the skull," answered the surgeon.

"The impossibility of suicide may be regarded as positively established," he added.

The police sergeant was now sworn, and he related what discoveries had resulted from the investigation which he had made the preceding night, in company with Paxton.

He did not fail to dwell upon the circumstance of Stuart Harland's disappearance from the house, a few moments before the discovery of the crime, according to the statement of Judith Kredge.

To hear him one would have supposed that he had taken the lead in the investigation of the preceding night, and that he deserved all the credit for the discoveries then made; Paxton said nothing, however, but a sarcastic smile played upon his lips as he listened.

Mr. Garrison was next sworn, and he testified that John Oakburn was an exceedingly eccentric man, excessively frugal and economical. That he supposed in the course of the years he had been in his service, the old cashier must have accumulated a modest competency, though he was never known to speculate, and that Oakburn was always extremely reticent regarding his personal affairs.

The broker further stated that the aged cashier had a hobby for collecting ancient coins and weapons, which he kept in his little safe. Also that the deceased was a precise and a very methodical man in all he did, that he kept his correspondence and papers carefully filed away in his safe with his collection of ancient coins and weapons.

When Mr. Garrison's testimony was concluded the coroner summoned Marion Oakburn and Judith Kredge, and the two women entered the office a few moments subsequently.

Marion's face was lividly pale, and there was an expression of mental suffering and anxiety upon her features.

The coroner addressed the cashier's daughter, stating that he deemed it necessary to examine her father's private safe and Marion assented, saying in conclusion:

"I think you will find my father's safe-key on his person."

The pockets of the victim of the mysterious tragedy were accordingly searched, and the key, of which he was in quest, was found by the coroner, who forthwith opened John Oakburn's safe.

All present inspected the contents of the dead man's private "strong-box" with considerable curiosity.

It contained a large, and no doubt valuable, collection of ancient coins of all nations, arranged in admirable order and numbered and labeled with an exactitude which told of the owner's precise and methodical ways. There was also in the safe a collection of small weapons. There were pistols, poniards, stilettos, yataghans, Maylay creeses, and the like. Besides all this, y compartment contained the private papers of the deceased, letters, papers of business, bills receipted and other documents.

There was no money in the safe.

The coroner examined the papers and then submitted them to Marion, who also looked them over carefully.

Among all the documents no certificate of stocks, no deposit receipts, or anything whatever to indicate or prove that John Oakburn possessed any money or property was discovered.

Paxton was on the alert and nothing escaped him.

He made a mental memorandum of the contents of the murdered man's safe, and, when Marion had concluded the examination of the letters and papers it contained, he came to her side and said in a low tone:

"I am very much interested in this case, Miss Oakburn, and I mean to sustain my opinion that Stuart Harland is innocent, which you heard me assert last night. I know you share my opinion, and if you will permit me to look over these papers and letters you will perhaps enable me to make some advantageous discovery."

"You are at liberty to examine my father's papers, though I do not think you will find any clew to the assassin here. But I trust you may prove Mr. Harland's innocence, of which there can be no doubt," replied Marion, and she surrendered the letters and papers from the safe to the detective.

The documents were spread out upon a desk in the rear office and the coroner was examining one of Mr. Garrison's clerks in the outer office to which Marion, who seemed deeply interested in all the proceedings, now repaired, thus leaving Paxton alone.

He subjected the murdered man's papers to a most critical inspection. Letter after letter was examined with interest, and in an old file of correspondence the detective found one particular letter which seemed to fasten his attention, for he read it over twice very carefully.

Then, casting a glance at the door leading to the outer office to assure himself that he was not observed, he slipped this particular letter into his pocket.

"The end entirely justifies the means in this case; I desire to retain this letter, and yet I do not wish to call any one's attention to it as yet," he thought.

After he had examined every letter and paper he replaced them all in the safe, and then turned his attention to the collections of weapons for a moment. He discovered nothing further of interest, and so he entered the outer office.

Meanwhile Mr. Garrison's clerks confirmed the evidence by the broker, and Judith Kredge was examined. Her evidence differed not materially from the statement she had made the preceding night. Marion also related how she had discovered her father.

The detective heard Mr. Garrison whisper to Marion after she had given her evidence.

The broker said:

"Are you informed regarding your father's financial affairs? Do you know where the money he must have saved is deposited or how it is invested?"

"No, sir; my father seldom spoke of the matter. I supposed, though, that he had accumulated a modest fortune, for he used to say that he soon meant to retire from business and purchase a beautiful country residence where he could raise his own fruit and flowers. He was very fond of floriculture and horticulture. From remarks he let fall at different times, I was sure that all his fortune was locked up in his little safe," the cashier's daughter answered.

"This is strange. There is no money in the safe, and yet it has not been opened, I am sure your father had saved a large sum of money, as I have said. He was eccentric in other matters, may he not have been so in this? I think it possible he may have secreted his money in some strange place, his sudden demise preventing his revealing the secret," said Garrison.

"It may be so, sir, but if my father's money is never found I shall not want, for I recently received a legacy of three thousand dollars from a distant relative, and then, too, should it become necessary, I am willing to work for an honest livelihood."

"Bravely spoken, you are a noble girl," said Garrison warmly.

Just then Levi Kredge, the office janitor and the brother of Judith, entered the office.

He was an undersized, thick-set man and one leg was shorter than the other, which deformity caused him to walk with a limp. His features resembled his sister's. He had the same beetling brows and small yellow eyes. If anything, his face was even less attractive than his sister's. Levi Kredge was forty years of age and his character was almost the prototype of his sister, but he was yet more cunning than Judith, and he had a cringing, servile air which was all assumed. He could fawn and smile upon a person while at the same time it was in his heart to strangle him. In short, he was one of those treacherous scoundrels who are most dangerous because they are seldom suspected until it is too late. He had been in Mr. Garrison's service for a year, and he had come provided with most excellent recommendations from Messrs. Pratt & Weeks, his last employers, whose character was not at that time known to the broker.

Kredge, as far as Mr. Garrison knew, had always discharged his duty with fidelity, and he had never had occasion to take him to task on that score.

When the janitor entered, Mr. Garrison said:

"This man is employed as a janitor of this building. I notified him to be present although he probably knows nothing of this sad affair; however, I thought it might be well to question him."

The coroner directed that Kredge should be sworn, and after the oath was administered he questioned him, but nothing was elicited of any interest.

While Levi Kredge was being questioned the president of the bank at which the unfortunate cashier had received the money for the cheque of $78,000 entered the office, accompanied by a tall, handsome old gentleman with perfectly statuesque features, magnificent dark eyes, white hair and a beautiful flowing beard like driven snow.

The old gentleman was dressed with simple elegance, indicative of good taste and breeding, but a diamond of almost priceless value sparkled in his black neck-scarf, and he carried a heavy headed cane.

The stately old gentleman was an entire stranger to every one present, and, although he entered at the same time as the bank president, it was clear that they were not acquainted.

The banker addressed a few words to the coroner, and then the two retired to the interior office and closed the door, but a moment subsequently the latter reappeared and invited Paxton and the police sergeant to join him.

The detective and the officer of police entered the rear office, and when the door had been carefully closed behind them the coroner said:

"I desire that you should hear a surprising statement which Mr. Southwell has to make, but which would lose its value if it should be made public."

Paxton felt that some important disclosure relating to the crime was coming.

CHAPTER V.

"In order that you may understand how it came about that certain precautions were taken at our bank which may now prove of service to you, gentlemen, in the task of detecting the murderer of John Oakburn, and in recovering the stolen money, I must make a brief explanation," began the banker.

"The fact is," he continued, "we have had occasion to doubt the honesty of one of our employes—our cashier, in fact—and, night before last, I secretly marked all the money which I anticipated he could possibly have occasion to pay out yesterday. I marked one package of one hundred thousand dollars in notes of a large denomination with a minute letter v traced in red ink in the upper left-hand corner of the back of each note. The balance of the money was marked in a different way, which it is not necessary to explain. I chanced to be present in the bank when John Oakburn presented the check for seventy-eight thousand dollars and I saw our cashier pay it from the package of money marked with the letter v in red

He threw the balance remaining after he cashed the check into a compartment of the money drawer where I found it after business hours. Just twenty-two thousand dollars of the marked money remained, so I knew that the money paid to John Oakburn was all marked, as I have said, and that no one else received any of the notes thus marked."

"This is most fortunate," said the police sergeant as the banker concluded.

"The most lucky of coincidences. We are much obliged to your cashier for being the indirect cause of this clue," Paxton remarked.

Meanwhile when Paxton and the police sergeant were called into the interior compartment of the office by the coroner the handsome old gentleman whose appearance we have noted had quite by accident gained a position close to the door between the two apartments.

Without any intention of becoming an eavesdropper he overheard enough of the bank president's remarks to comprehend the truth, and at the same moment he saw Levi Kredge close beside him, and the expression on the janitor's face told him the fellow had also overheard the bank president.

The magnificent eyes of the handsome old gentleman were fixed upon the face of Levi Kredge for an instant in a searching glance, but the fellow was not aware of the scrutiny to which he was subjected.

A look of recognition appeared upon the old gentleman's face and his eyes flashed ominously as though the sight of the janitor awakened angry thoughts in his mind, and he moved toward the outer door while Levi Kredge was yet intently listening and did not observe his movement.

When presently the banker and the others came out of the rear office the stately old gentleman was gone.

During the interview between the gentlemen in the interior office the jurors and the others present had been conversing among themselves, and no one except the aged stranger and Levi Kredge heard aught of what had passed between them there.

When the strange old gentleman first entered the office Marion Oakburn seemed attracted irresistibly by his face, and she gazed at him like one fascinated, until he withdrew. Beyond one swift, passing glance as he came in, the aged stranger had not seemed to notice her.

A few moments after the departure of the magnificent old man, Levi Kredge also left the broker's office, and if anyone had followed him they would have seen him make his way swiftly to the private entrance of the office of Messrs. Pratt and Weeks, and enter unceremoniously, as though perfectly certain of his reception.

Before Paxton and the Coroner came out of the office in which they had heard the banker's statement, the detective took the latter aside and asked him to grant him the opportunity to give his version of the investigation which he had conducted the preceding night.

Immediately upon his return to the main office the Coroner called Paxton as the next witness.

The detective's statement, until he came to speak of the discovery of the broken fastenings on the window shutters, did not differ in substance from the testimony given by the police sergeant.

Thereafter, however, he continued:

"But, gentlemen, the fastenings of the window blinds were not broken from the inside. On the contrary they were forced by means of an iron bar inserted under the shutters from without and on the ground beneath the window are the tracks of the assassin. There are also marks on the side of the building which were made by his shoes when he clambered into the office through the rear window. It seems clear, therefore, that the assassin and thief could not have been a resident of this house, and I also assume that he had no positive knowledge of the money in the safe. I have made a careful study of this case and I have arrived at the following conclusion: When the assassin entered the office, John Oakburn was not in it. He came soon after. The assassin was in the outer office and he concealed himself beside the desk near the door. Oakburn did not discover the intruder, and opened the safe to assure himself that the large sum of money which he had placed there was secure. The assassin saw the money. The sight determined him. He meant to leap upon the old man then, but before he did so the latter locked the safe and turned away. At that moment, while his back was turned, the assassin leveled his pistol at the old man's head and discharged the fatal shot. But no one heard the report of a pistol. I explain that point by assuming that the weapon used was an air pistol, which is discharged without a detonation. After Oakburn fell the assassin secured the safe key, committed the robbery, and then let himself out through the street door. He selected that route for his departure because he knew there was less danger in it than by going through the window. He reasoned that even if he was seen leaving the house boldly, by the front entrance, he would not be questioned, while, on the other hand, if he chanced to be discovered getting out of the window he was lost.

"I am satisfied that it is erroneous to suspect Stuart Harland, and I regard the fact of his departure on the night of the crime rather as evidence in his favor than otherwise.

"Suppose any person of ordinary intelligence planned and executed the crime, he certainly would have comprehended that flight would be tantamount to a confession of guilt, and he would not for a moment think of taking such a suicidal course. On the contrary, his natural proceeding would have been to conceal the stolen money, and, putting a bold face on the matter, remain here as an innocent man.

"Who the assassin is, it is true, I cannot yet determine, but I shall solve the mystery, and sooner or later place my hand upon the right man."

Paxton had arisen, and as he spoke his intense, resonant voice, clear and penetrating, thrilled his hearers, and turned the jurors' opinion to a certain extent in Stuart Harland's favor.

If the verdict of the coroner's jury had been rendered then, it would have been that John Oakburn came to his death at the hands of some person or persons unknown.

But it was decreed that the inquest should not terminate then.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Many Gypsies Yet.

The majority of the Scottish gypsies have spread over a vast tract of country. Here they have gradually become lost to view as a distinctive race. In Europe, they are found in the greatest number to-day in Hungary and Wallachia, where there are 500,000.

High Handed Proceedings.

The steamer Albion arrived at San Diego, Cal., from a cruise down the coast and her passengers tell of a rather high handed proceeding at Clipperton island on the part of the Mexican gunboat El Democrata, being no less than the hauling down of the stars and stripes by an armed force sent for that purpose, and in spite of the protests of the men there employed and the raising of the Mexican flag.

Not Too Old For Romance.

A special from Versailles, Ky., says: The most romantic wedding in Versailles' history was solemnized Fridry, when J. B. Haggin, the New York multi-millionaire and turfman, led to the altar Miss Pearl Voorhis, of this city, niece of his former wife. Mr. Haggin is a white bearded veteran of 74, while his bride is only 28.

Governor Taylor, of Tennessee, issued a call Thursday for the assembling of the legislature in extra session January 17.

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS.

The Government Will Advertise for About 12,000,000,000.

The postoffice department has prepared advertisements which will soon be issued inviting proposals for furnishing adhesive postage stamps for the government for the four years beginning July 1 next. The issues advertised for include the ordinary stamps, news and periodical stamps, postage due stamps and those for special delivery. The number required per year approximate 3,000,000,000.

Island Seized by the French.

The admiral of the French fleet in Chinese waters has located the French flag on Hai Nan island. The Chinese offered no opposition. Hai Nan island is off the coast south of China and separates the Gulf of Tonquin from the China sea. It has an estimated area of 12,000 square miles and a population of a million Chinese, exclusive of the wild tribes in the interior.

It is stated that the Marquis of Hertford will succeed the Earl of Aberdeen as governor-general of Canada.

At Port au Prince, Hayti, Thursday night, a fire which assumed considerable proportions on account of lack of water to supply the pumps, broke out and destroyed 800 houses, including a number of warehouses, a hotel, the Church of St. Joseph and its parsonage. About 3,000 people were rendered homeless.

The Merchants' and Traders' bank of Brunswick, Ga., has failed. A majority of the stockholders are solvent and the depositors will be paid off in full if the court expenses do not consume all the cash realized.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant

Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

J. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College AND COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.

SPLENDID BUILDING.

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.

FIVE INSTRUCTORS.

VERY REASONABLE TERMS.

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE FOR.....

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION — THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS,

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original series.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

in these missing word contests. It sets aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received from subscribers guessing at the missing word, and this fund is given to the successful guesser or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed with absolute fairness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has MORE THAN 150,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent from all guessers' subscriptions for this distribution fund shows that the amount to be divided at each interval is large enough to be worth striving for. It is not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but the plan is open and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post Office Department as a meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken is deposited in a safety vault, under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a competent committee, which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,000; and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess, and even though not successful, the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE, SEVEN-COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America; its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.

AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.

ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.

ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENT, Its Woman's Department and Its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize—everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,

Montevallo, Alabama.

LANIER BROOM MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices.

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Kroell can supply anything.

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - Ala.

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

It can be had at Kroell's.

Mrs. Stark, Pleasant Ridge, O., says, "After two doctors gave up my boy to die, I saved him from croup by using One Minute Cough Cure." It is the quickest and most certain remedy for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Go to Kroell's for it

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Shelby County.

Probate Court, Regular Term, December 13th, 1897.

Estate of Sarah E. Wells, deceased.

The estate of said deceased having this day been declared insolvent by said Court, it is ordered that the 17th day of January, 1898, be appointed a day for H. R. Wells, administrator of said estate, to appear and make settlement of his accounts, preparatory to turning over the property of said decedent, which now remains unadministered, to whomsoever shall succeed to the further administration thereof; at which time all persons in interest can appear and contest the correctness of said accounts and the allowance thereof, if they think proper.

D. R. MCMILLAN,
Judge of Probate.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell s, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O, was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

If you want anything, Kroell has it.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, '98. NO. 2

A SAD BEREAVEMENT.

SUDDEN DEATH OF LOVELY AND ACCOMPLISHED MISS MARY CLAUDIA BRYAN.

On Friday, January 7th, the Angel of Death passed through the home of J. G. Bryan and left desolate and grief-stricken hearts to mourn his visit, for with him had flown the spirit of Mr. Bryan's lovely and accomplished daughter, Mary Claudia.

The deceased lady was born in Butler county, Ala., on June 25th, 1878, and was educated at Loachapoka and Birmingham. In her childhood she evinced great musical talent, which her parents fostered until she became an exceptionally skilful performer on the piano, violin and guitar. List Spring she taught music at Corona and joined her parents at Montevallo last Summer.

Shortly before Christmas she became ill with intermittent fever, but was convalescent when she suddenly expired from heart failure.

She was a devout christian, having been a member of the Christian church since her thirteenth year.

Beautiful in face and form, she was still more lovely in soul, and of her it can truly be said that she was an angel upon earth. She was to have been married this Spring, but God deemed it better to take her to join the virgin throng who sing before his throne.

The funeral took place last Saturday morning from the late home of the deceased. The handsome casket, upon which lay florale tributes from friends, was borne in a hearse to the Methodist church, where the burial services were held. Revs. P. L. Abernathy and M. P Reynolds paid touching tributes to the dead. Mrs. Cothran, Misses Mag Thomas and Carrie Lum and Mr. C. W. Cary sang hymns of consolation accompanied on the organ by Mrs. C. W Cary.

The remains were followed by many friends to the old Montevallo cemetery, where they were interred. Messrs. C. W. Cary, A. S. Carruthers, Thos. Sessions, Edgar Allen, R. F. Fleming and Louis Bowden acted as pall-bearers.

A Card of Thanks.

To the people of Montevallo who, in our hour of dire affliction and sore bereavement, evinced such rare and spontaneous sympathy we tender our heartfelt thanks.

JAS. G. BRYAN.
Mrs. SARAH F. BRYAN.

A NEW RAILROAD

FROM GADSDEN TO GURNEE, VIA MONTEVALLO, WILL BE BUILT.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will shortly commence work on the extension of the mineral railroad now connecting Gadsden with Calera. The road will be extended to Gurnee and it is the intent of the railroad company to run it through Dogwood (the Montevallo Lump Coal Mines), Montevallo, Aldrich, and thence by the Sulphur Spring route near the McCloskey place to Gurnee.

The road will develop from eight to ten miles of the finest hard coal land in the United States, which is the principal motive actuating the L. & N. R. R., for that great railroad system has not a pound of hard grate coal accessible to its lines except in one part of Kentucky.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

Congratulating H. C. Reynolds.

The following letter speaks volumes in itself;

NEW YORK, January 4, 1898.

Mr. H. C. Reynolds, Montevallo Normal School, Montevallo, Ala.

Dear Sir.—I have been informed of the wonderful progress made by you in the organization of your industrial school for young ladies in the State of Alabama.

Since I left the Southern Railway I have often thought of you and wondered what progress you were making. The reports which I have received within the last few days show me that you have met with unprecedented success, and I congratulate you and your friends on the wonderful work which you are doing.

I have especial pride and pleasure in feeling that the Southern Railway Company gave you its moral and cordial support at the critical time when you began your great undertaking, and it is my sincere wish that you will have the continued support of the railroad and the public, and later, of Congress.

With best wishes for this New Year, and with a further expression of sincere sympathy with you in your work, I remain,

Yours very truly,
W. H. BALDWIN, JR.,
President Long Island R. R. Co.

ALDRICH.

Will Wells, aged 18, and Joe Boline, aged 19, two weeks since started out to see the world and carve their names on the dome of the temple of Fame. They had a little money to buy crackers and cheese, and a revolver to kil Indians. Last Wednesday they returned in side-door sleepers, very hungry and extremely disenchanted. Hereafter they will make their mark in the coal mine.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

ALABAMA COTTON MILLS.

The editor of the Eufaula Times is, if not a bloated bondholder, a stockholder at least in the Eufaula cotton mills, and he casually mentions the payment of another 4 per cent. dividend by these mills. It came to him in the shape of a fluttering piece of paper, to use his own words, in which the officers of the mills beg a certain bank to pay to the aforesaid editor a certain sum of money, being dividend No. 17. There is no mention of a depression in the cotton trade, of cuts in the wages of operatives, or of a gloomy outlook generally speaking.

The dividend really means that the mills have been in operation seventeen half years, and only once in that time have they failed to divide each six months a dividend of 4 per cent. among the stockholders. At the one exceptionable time there was a dividend of 3 per cent. In eight years and a half the mills have returned to the stockholders 67 per cent., besides accumulating a very comfortable sum for renewals or extensions.

"Eufaula's industries," says the Times, "pay, and Eufaula people are hopeful and bright." It believes that a year of great promise is before the State, and it slyly says in conclusion that a few dividends now and then greatly promote the good feeling now prevailing.—Age Herald.

Four Mile.

A teacher's institute will be held at Four Mile on February 11th and 12th. A splendid program has been prepared, and all interested in education are invited to attend.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

A Runaway Match.

Last Sunday, where the Elyton and Ashby roads meet, the lives of Osceola Burke and Miss Raleigh Nabors met and merged into one Burke, who is an industrious, useful citizen, had long been engaged to Miss Nabors, but her parents did not wish her to marry and threw obstacles in the way of the lovers.

"Love laughs at locksmiths" and obdurate parents. The fair lady let her sweetheart know last week that on Sunday she would be at the the house of friends. Saturday he procured a marriage license, and asked Squire Jas Ozley to meet him at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning at the forks of the Elyton and Ashby roads.

Bright and early Sunday morning the squire was at the place appointed, but it was 10:30 a. m. when the lovers arrived. In a few moments they were united and left for Saginaw, Ala., where the groom is employed.

The News wishes them a long, happy and useful life.

Fair as a poet's dream, beautiful as the girls of Montevallo, and gorgeous as a dying sunset are the myriad hued ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

Men Boarders Preferred.

Choice apartments, with good board, at reasonable prices at the elegant home of Mrs. C. C. Vandegrift. Gentlemen boarders preferred.

Some men are mean enough to allow a newspaper to advertise their town and yet refuse to advertise their goods in its columns because they hope that the advertisements of their competitors will attract into town customers whom they may be able to induce into their stores by sidewalk solicitation.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

MAPLEVILLE.

The M & O. railroad is progressing finely. About three miles of track have been laid and three hundred cars of steel have been unloaded.

Crumpton Graham has returned from the Black Belt and Tuscaloosa, ostensibly from a business trip in the interest of McKabe and Steen, but some report that there was more on that popular young gentleman's mind than business.

Charlie Massey has been visiting Mapleville quite often since a certain young lady's return home.

Miss Annie Woodruff, one of Gadsden's most charming daughters, has for the past few days been visiting her cousins, the Misses Abney.

Messrs. Bagley & Graham spent Sunday evening with the Misses Abney.

Ensley Cooper is in society again. Ensley is very popular with the girls. He is also very regularly at prayer meeting.

Reuben Bearden has accepted a position with W. D. Lawrence.

Waller is doing his best to bring about a wedding in town.

UNCLE TIGE.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F F. Crowe & Co.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Rev. J D Martin delivered quite an able and influential sermon at the Baptist church Saturday, and another good one Sunday.

Quarterly meeting was held at the M. E. church Tuesday and Wednesday. Large attendance both days.

Miss Mattie Allen, who is one of Highland's most charming and accomplished young ladies, is visiting relatives and friends in and around town.

Miss Leila Farrington, of Brierfield, is visiting relatives and friends near this place.

Pat Harrison goes up the road toward Maylene, but we can't learn where he goes.

It's no fake that the Dogwood girls are having an exquisite time riding around with a Minor minister.

All are cordially invited to attend a sociable at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Lucas, Thursday night.

If you want a good location for a dairy call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

Subscribers to the NEWS can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the NEWS.

Miss Maggie Alford, one of the sweetest and prettiest pupils at the Institute, was last week called to her home at Dothan, Ala., because of sickness in her family. While here she made many devoted school friends, who hope that she may soon be able to return.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

"Just think, we've got 98 more school days," remarked one Institute pupil to another after Sunday-school last Sunday.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Is the inevitable fate of all competitors who endeavor to sell goods as cheaply as we do.

Has perched and will perch upon our banners in every contest for low prices because we buy for cash, in car lots, have three stores and can consequently sell ALL KINDS OF MERCHANDISE cheaper than all others.

Everything needed by man, woman, school girl or child

IN THE HOME, ON THE FARM, OR ELSEWHERE

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS,
Montevallo, Ala.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

General Yamaji, who has just died in Japan, was known as "the one-eyed demon." He was a type of the old Oriental warrior, fierce, cruel, vengeful, fearless, and only happy in battle. He did not hold an independent command in the late war, having been attached to the army of Field Marshal Count Oyama, but he had charge of the assaulting columns at Port Arthur, where he added to his old reputation for courage. General Yamaji was a hater of foreign innovations and was in the most intense degree a reactionist. Few like him are left in Japan.

A unique utilization of railway car vibrations is reported from a packing house centre in Kansas. The roadbed of the local trolley line is not of the best, and it occurred to a milkman who had been pretty well banged about by the lively oscillation of the car on which he was riding that there was enough power going to waste to work a set of capacious churns. He tried the experiment and found that it worked to a charm. Now the owners of cows in the vicinity of packing houses in the city set their churns on the front end of a car. One round trip is almost more than enough to do the work, and the motorman takes buttermilk in payment for the mechanical agitation imparted to the cream. This is probably the first time that the motions of railway cars have been turned to any useful purpose. Their ill effects are well known to physicians. A serious case of paralysis of the lower limbs was recently developed in a brakeman as the result of the constant jolting and the incessant swaying and jarring motion of the cars on which his duties lay. He had to go to a hospital, where he remained for some months. Finally his physician resorted to electricity in sundry forms —from a battery and induction coil and an electrostatic machine. The electrical massage toned up the limbs and proved an actual specific for the ailment produced by the mechanical vibrations on the train, and the man has gone back to work.

The Chicago Tribune calls attention to the fact that "one of the noteworthy conditions affecting industrial enterprises in the States of Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio is the alarming decrease in the supply of natural gas in those States. For several years past the greater part of the natural gas used in this country has come from the States above named, and at one time the supply was thought to be inexhaustible. The error of this supposition, however, may be clearly shown by comparing the total output of natural gas to these States for the past year with the total output for preceding years. In 1896 the value of all the natural gas produced in Pennsylvania aggregated only $5,528,610 against the enormous valuation of $19,282,375 put upon the product of 1888. Ohio has never been such a prolific generator of natural gas as Pennsylvania, but the figures for the Buckeye State show a corresponding diminution. In 1889 Ohio produced $5,215,669 worth of natural gas, whereas at the present time her total output is valued at only $1,172,400. Of the States producing natural gas Indiana is the youngest. Only a few years have elapsed since the resources of the State in this direction were first discovered, but the total valuation of Indiana's yearly supply of natural gas has gradually diminished from $5,718,000 in 1893 to only $5,043,635 in 1896. As the Indiana gas fields are much younger than those of Pennsylvania and Ohio, it is likely that they will continue to yield a liberal supply of gas for some time to come. Of course it is difficult to judge of what is underneath the earth's crust, but, from superficial indications, the natural gas industry in the United States is doomed to ultimate extinction. This is furthermore shown by the figures for the entire country. In 1888 the value of all the natural gas in the United States aggregated $22,620,875, whereas in 1896 it aggregated only $13,002,512. Evidently, from these figures, the natural gas industry in the United States will soon be relegated to the past, unless other sources of supply are discovered."

A CRISIS IS APPROACHING.

Strong Probability That Spain May Seek Uncle Sam's Aid

TO BRING ABOUT A REIGN OF PEACE IN CUBA

The Madrid Government is Considering a Formal Offer of the United States to Stop the Revolution in the Unhappy Queen of the Antilles.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from Washington says:

Spain is considering a formal request to the United States to use its good offices to stop the fighting in Cuba.

Intimations have been received at the state department that the Sagasta government had become convinced that the only way to save Cuba was to accept the often-proffered good offices of the United States. Canovas repeatedly replied to President Cleveland declining these good offices, and Sagasta did the same last November. Now the prime minister has become completely disheartened over the evident failure of autonomy.

All efforts of Spain to bribe the subordinates of Gomez to surrender on the basis of home rule has proven futile. Blanco has completely failed in his efforts to open up communication with the insurgents, and Pando has likewise been defeated in the field. Spain now feels that the only thing left is to accept the good offices of Uncle Sam, in spite of the humiliation involved. They hesitate only because they feel that a public announcement of this fact would result in a revolution in Spain.

Secret negotiations with the state department now are actually in progress. The Spanish government has lost the confidence of the loyalists in Cuba, and it recognizes the fact that the island itself is lost entirely unless this country will, at this late day, negotiate with the insurgents for some basis of peace. The Spanish purpose that the United States should propose to the insurgents an actual armistice pending negotiations for peace on the basis of American guarantees of the integrity of home rule, or even of independence on a money consideration.

While no such formal proposition has been made by Minister DeLome, the state department has been given to understand that only the fear of revolution in Spain stands in the way now of accepting the friendly offices of the United States, which have been rejected so often.

ABSOLUTE FREEDOM.

"The Cuban People Will Admit of No Other Solution," Says Gomez.

The New York Herald Thursday prints the following letter from General Maximo Gomez, Commander-in-Chief of the Cuban army, dated:

"In the Field, Dec. 26. 1897

"You ask me for my opinion regarding what effect the autonomous regime about to be implanted by Spain in Cuba might have toward the pacification of the island? The Cubans in arms do not propose to give up, and shall never yield, in their struggle with the metropolis until they have established their absolute independence.

"No matter what number of liberties are granted to Cuba by the Spanish government, even in case Spain should reserve for herself no other right than to keep the Spanish flag over Cuba as a symbol of nominal sovereignty, she will not succeed in ending the war.

"The Cuban people will admit of no other solution of the present conflict than whereby Cuba shall be recognized as a member of the sisterhood of free nations."

Work on the Appropriation Bill.

Representative Boutelle, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, has begun work on the naval appropriation bill. The important questions of new ships and armor plate will not be considered for some time, the purpose being to settle first all the regular items for carrying on the naval establishment and then take up the more serious questions.

WILL DETERMINE SEX.

Remarkable Discovery Claimed to Have Been Made.

According to the Vienna correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle, Dr. Schenck, professor at the University of Vienna and president of the Embryological institute, claims that after twenty years of experiments he has discovered the secret of exercising an influence over animals and men so as to fix the sex of their offsprings.

Dr. Schenck declines to reveal it until he has placed his discovery before the Academy of Science, but he says the influence depends upon the nature of the food consumed by the female.

TERSELY TOLD TELEGRAMS.

Mrs. Adeline Fassett, an artist of national prominence, dropped dead at Washington.

Dr. R. L. Dabney died at Austin, Tex. He was assistant secretary of agriculture under Mr. Cleveland.

William T. Buckley, a prominent New York business man, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

An eclipse of the moon will take place January 27, beginning about dark and lasting about one hour and thirty-six minutes.

Charles Page Bryan will be made minister to Turkey in place of Dr. James B. Angell, of Michigan, who will be sent to China.

The hearing of the Alabama contested election case of Crowe vs. Underwood, committee No. 1, has been postponed from Jan. 7 to Jan 14.

It is reported in London that negotiations for a Chinese loan of £16,000,000, guaranteed by the British government, are practically concluded.

The steamer Vigilancia, which arrived Thursday from Havana, brought 1,800 bags, 594,000 pounds, of sugar, the first shipment from Cuba in many months.

A terrible explosion occurred on the Cincinnati Southern road Wednesday, causing the death of Thomas Lennehan, engineer, and Fireman Denham.

At Tracy City, Tenn., John Hall, a special deputy in the internal revenue service, was attacked by E. D. Swan, who cut him so severely that death soon resulted.

The news from the sick room of Hon. Ben Butterworth, who was reported to be dying at Thomasville, Ga., is decidedly more hopeful, and it is now believed he will recover.

About 1,100 postoffices throughout the country were assigned to the money order class on January 3. This makes approximately 25,000 postoffices at which money orders may now be obtained or cashed.

Representatives of a Canadian and American company, who visited Labrador for the purpose of erecting sawmills, report that that country contains deposits of gold of great richness, and is destined to become a great mining country.

Ignatius Donnelly, the "Sage of Nininger," is to be married in about six weeks to Miss Marian Hansen, the pretty stenographer in the office of Mr. Donnelly's newspaper. The great populist leader and Baconian is now 66 years old. His prospective bride is only 20.

It is believed the long distance telephone record was broken Thursday at Gallatin, Tenn., when John H. Cross, representative of the Bell Company, talked with the operator at Norfolk, Va. The circuit used passed through Nashville, Evansville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond to Norfolk, making fully 1,500 miles.

Lone Star State's Progress.

Texas made great progress during the year just ended. It is estimated the state gained 150,000 in population. The state is now well covered with farms and ranches, there being little good land left not under fence. The products of fields, ranches, factories and mines during 1897 foot up $300,000,000. The greatest advance has been in agriculture and cattle. Railroad and factory building has been slow—less, if anything, than usual. The oil production around Corsicana proves that the state will soon be reckoned as equalling some of the middle states.

Teller Wants Silver.

Senator Teller, has introduced a concurrent resolution declaring the bonds of the United States to be payable in silver dollars and asserting that "to restore their coinage such silver coins as a legal tender in payment of said bonds, principal and interest, is not in violation of the public faith nor in derogation of the rights of the public creditor."

Exterminated His Family.

At Greenville, Tenn., Capt. A. W. Carter, while temporarily insane, brained his wife with an axe and then with the same weapon inflicted wounds upon his daughter which caused her death. After committing this deed, Captain Carter, with a pistol, shot himself. It is stated that his mind became unbalanced about three years ago, caused by the death of a daughter.

Deadlock in Maryland.

A split in the ranks of the republican members of the Maryland house of delegates, which developed at a caucus, caused a deadlock, and the house was compelled to adjourn for the day without having organized. There seems to be no immediate prospect of a settlement of the difficulty.

Combination of Tobacco Growers.

At Tampa, Fla., the larger producers of cigar leaf tobacco in South Florida are about to combine and attempt to secure a better market for their product. The suggested method of obtaining relief is to make up the product in cigars in sufficient quantities to thoroughly test the country.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Appropriations for the Civil Service Commission Taken Up.

The House—Wednesday.

There was a very large attendance in the hall of representatives when the house reconvened to-day after the holiday recess. The galleries were crowded. Without any preliminary business, the house went into committee of the whole to resume consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. All the features of the bill had been disposed of except the appropriation for the civil service commission, upon which, by previous arrangement, there was to be an indefinite general debate.... It was proposed that Mr. Moody, republican, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Dockery, democrat, of Missouri, control the time for and against. In the debate that followed Dockery, Pearson and Landis attacked the service, while Mr. Greene, populist, closed debate with speech in favor of reform. At 4:55 p. m., the house adjourned.

The Senate.

There was only a small attendance in the senate to-day. Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, spoke on the immigration bill and declared in favor of consular inspection of immigrants. Mr. Carter called up the bill to provide for the taking of the next census, and argued against making the appointments through the civil service commission .... A letter from Secretary Sherman on the civil service question was read, and Mr. Cockrell said it was a most remarkable document, being a request upon congress for legislative action, which was in the power of his chief by executive order. Mr. Sherman recommends the exemption of the heads of bureau and the chief clerk of the state department from the operation of the law.... Mr. Teller, of Colorado, spoke at some length in support of the idea that the census bureau should not be a partisan bureau, and that its employes should, therefore, be placed in the classified service.... A lively civil service debate was precipitated just at the close of the session, in which Messrs. Carter, Cockerell, Allison, Cullom, Allen and Jones, of Arkansas, took part.... At 1 p. m. the senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

The House—Thursday.

The house today promptly resumed the debate on the civil service question, and Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, took the floor with an elaborate speech in opposition to the law. In opening, Mr. Grosvenor disclaimed any leadership of the anti-civil service reform and civil service reform forces, and any purpose to speak for any officer of the government—executive, legislative or judicial. He then proceeded to pay his respects to the National Civil Service Reform League, and to Carl Schurz, its president. His excoriation of the latter was the most scathing that has been heard on the floor of the house in months. He denounced unsparingly those who sought to read out of the republican party those who believed in the repeal of the civil service law. He argued that the people were overwhelmingly opposed to the law. Mr. Johnson (republican), of Indiana, one of the ardent defenders of the law, followed Mr. Grosvenor with an extended argument in support of the merit question. The entire day was taken up in the civil service debate. At 4:50 p. m. the house adjourned.

The Senate.

In the senate today Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, called up and the senate passed the bill providing for the holding of a congress of the representatives of different Indian tribes of the United States at Omaha in 1898, and appropriating $45,000 therefor. Some minor amendments to the bill were made.... A bill appropriating $175,000 for a public building at Fergus Falls, Minn., was passed.... The bill to protect the name and insignia of the Red Cross was passed. Mr. Gray, of Delaware, explained that Miss Clara Barton several years ago asked that the insignia of the Red Cross society be protected from those who would use it for commercial or perhaps fraudulent purposes. Under treaty entered into by a majority of the civilized nations of the world the sign of the Red Cross is known as an insignia of hospital corps or charitable organizations. Other nations had protected the insignia of the society, and the United States ought also to protect it.... After a brief executive session, during which some consuls were confirmed, the senate adjourned at 2 o'clock until tomorrow.

The House—Friday.

Before the debate on the civil service question was resumed in the house today, an ineffectual attempt was made to agree upon a time for the termination of the debate. Mr. Gillette, republican of Massachusetts, then took the floor in support of the law. Mr. Faris, republican of Indiana, followed Mr. Gillette and spoke against the civil service law. Mr. Cummings, democrat of New York, made a vigorous speech in favor of wiping out the civil service system, which he declared was doomed. He made a speech in defense of Tammany Hall and warmly defended it against its accusers. He maintained that the arguments of Mr. Grosvenor and Mr. Landis against the law were both in reality strong arraignments of the spoils system. Mr. Burton, of Ohio, followed in defense of the merit system. He inveighed against the insolence of office seeker and argued that this was not a government for the reward of party workers. Mr. Kerr, republican of Ohio, favored the modification of the law. At the close of his speech the house adjourned.

The Senate.

At the opening of the senate today the reply of the attorney general to the senate resolution calling upon members of the cabinet what, if any, changes should be made in the administration of the civil service laws, was read. The attorney general recommended that attorneys employed by the department of justice and deputy United States marshals ought to be excepted from the operation of the law.... Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, offered a resolution declaring that the United States should independently and without delay begin and continue the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; that such coinage should be supplemented by a safe and sound national paper money to be issued by the government without intervention of banks, the notes to be full legal tender and to be issued in an amount sufficient to meet the business demands of the country. Mr. Allen spoke briefly in favor of the adoption of the propositions set forth in his resolutions. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Teller arose. He said that he did not often give heed to publications concerning himself or the convictions of those who believed as he believed upon the financial or other questions, but he felt that a statement recently published was a gratuitous insult to those who believed upon the financial question as he believed. In brief, it charged that the recent reports to the effect that the secretary of the treasury had tendered his resignation were the result of a conspiracy to create trouble between the president and his secretary of treasury, and perhaps to disrupt the cabinet. Mr. Teller resented the charge with great emphasis. He also took occasion during the course of his remarks to denounce the republican party because it is the party of the gold standard, and that he hoped to see it go down in defeat in 1900.... Mr. Butler, of North Carolina, presented a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution, providing for the election of federal judiciary by the people. The resolution went to the table to permit Mr. Butler to make a speech on it.... The senate then went into executive session, and at 3:15 adjourned until Monday.

The House—Saturday.

The civil service debate was continued in the house today until 2 o'clock. Mr. Corliss, republican, of Maine, was the first speaker, who favored a radical modification of the law. He was followed by Messrs. Hepburn, of Iowa, and Clark, of New Hampshire, who also attacked the service. The remainder of the session, under a special order, was devoted to eulogizing the memory of the late Representative Wright, of Massachusetts. Saturday, January 15, was set aside for paying tribute to the late Representative Milliken, of Maine.

There was no session of the senate today.

Mysterious Crime at Memphis.

A tragedy occurred in the outskirts of Memphis, Tenn., Friday afternoon in which Dr. Shep A. Rogers, professor of anatomy at the Memphis Medical college, ex-president of the board of health, and one of the most prominent physicians of the city, was shot by Mrs. Mary Sandbrink, a widow, and lies in a dying condition at St. Joseph's hospital. After shooting Dr. Rogers the woman turned the revolver to her breast and sent a bullet through her heart. The cause of the tragedy is veiled in deep mystery.

South's Gold Production.

The product of the gold mines of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama is assayed in Charlotte, N. C. The Charlotte assay office reports the production of gold this year at $247,237. The silver bullion assayed amounted to only $1,349.

Took Chloroform.

I. A. Campbell, a prominent and wealthy republican politician, committed suicide at Van Buren Ark., by taking chloroform. Alcoholism is given as the cause.

Gen. Booth Coming.

Six thousand peasons, most of them members of the Salvation Army, assembled in London in a demonstration of farewell to General William Booth, who is about to sail for the United States to assist in organizing great additions to the army.

Return of the Plague.

At Bombay, India, the plague returns for the past forty-eight hours record 142 new cases and 105 deaths. There is a general exodus of the population and a suspension of business is threatened.

Sin may be ugly but it understands the art of beauty culture.

HAPPENINGS IN ALABAMA.

The Week's News Gathered and Told in a Brief Way.

ALABAMA AT FLORIDA FISHERY CONGRESS.

The End af a Noted Will Case—Courtland a "Dry" Town—Many Negroes Duped by "African Charley"—Interest in the Good Roads Convention.

Alabama at the Fishery Congress.

It is the wish of Gov. Bloxham, of Florida, that as many of the citizens of Alabama as possibly can, will attend the National Fishery Congress to assemble at Tampa, Fla., on the 19th day of January, 1898. The array of learned and gifted men who will participate in the deliberations of this important industrial congress are seldom assembled in any state or country. It is hoped that the citizens of the southern states will appreciate the aims and objects of this congress and will avail themselves of the educational features which it will promulgate, and point to sources for the enrichment and happiness of the people.

Prominent men, delegated from distant California, Oregon, New England, the western states and foreign countries, will attend this congress.

It is earnestly desired that Alabama send exhibits of marine products to place in the exposition building, which will be a feature of this congress.

Will Contest Ended.

The will of Captain Duncan Dew of Eutaw, who died last October leaving an estate worth a quarter of a million dollars, has been admitted to probate, a compromise having been reached between Joe J. Dew, second cousin of the deceased and sole legatee, and fourteen first cousins in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Mississippi and Texas, contestants.

By the terms of the compromise the contestants get $90,000 in cash, the three Alabama contestants receiving $8,000 each and the remainder to be divided between the other eleven, while valuable farm lands in Bibb, Wilcox, Tuskaloosa, Blount and Greene counties, Alabama, lots in Birmingham and five farms in Texas go to Joe Dew.

The contestants charged forgery of the dead man's name to the will, and the trial was about to begin when the compromise was effected.

Negroes Swindled.

The negroes in and around Ramsey, Sumter county, have been buncoed out of about $800 by one of their race who operated an African colonization sell. The perpetrator of the swindle has successfully worked other part of the state. He is an ordinary, medium-sized negro, known as "African Charley." His scheme was to collect $2 from each negro who wanted to go to Africa. For that sum "African Charley" would promise his dupe free transportation to the dark continent and land and a home on his arrival. About 400 negroes were swindled. All of the negroes were told to meet at Gainesville on January 1 where boats would carry them to Mobile and thence to Africa. "African Charley" has disappeared and no boats have been reported at Gainesville for the emigrants.

Courtland a "Dry" Town.

The saloons of Courtland, numbering three, have been closed since the beginning of the new year, and from every indication it seems that it will be a dry town. The ladies recently took the matter in hand and are determined that no whisky shall be sold there. It has been learned that it is impossible for the saloonists to secure signatures of a sufficient number of the freeholders to obtain a license, the majority of them having signed the petition for the ladies against the sale of liquor.

Interest in the Good Roads' Convention.

Much interest is being manifested throughout the southern states in the Good Roads Convention to be held in Anniston in February. Nearly every line of railway in Alabama has signified its willingness to give free transportation to delegates to the convention, and it promises to be one of the largest attended and most enthusiastic meetings ever held in that city or state.

Impeding Navigation.

The United States government has caused the indictment of a number of saw mill owners above Mobile for impeding navigation in the Alabama river with their logs and rafts. It is charged that navigation on the river has been rendered absolutely dangerous of late by the careless rafting of timbers, and District Attorney Wickersham says that he intends to prosecute the cases with vigor.

Will Pay the Teachers.

The public school teachers of the state will be paid for the quarter ending January 1 before the end of next week. The money is already in the treasury. Governor Johnston and Treasurer Ellis have pushed tax collectors into remitting their collections about a month earlier than for some years past.

Birmingham's Finances.

The following is the annual report of the city treasurer of Birmingham: Receipts, $244,331.12; disbursements, $247,380.75; balance from 1896, $33,331.61; appropriated for bond interest, $18,910; available cash on hand, $11,371.97.

To Cultivate Castor Beans.

A gentleman from Missouri has leased for a term of years 1,000 acres of land in Montgomery county and will experiment in the raising of castor beans. He proposes to sell his product in St. Louis.

A Minister Dead.

Rev. Mr. Kersh, a Methodist minister at Greensboro, died at the Normal College at Livingston Saturday.

Attempted Postoffice Robbery.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the safe in the Scottsboro postoffice the past week.

Damage Suits Filed.

At Birmingham Wednesday afternoon five suits, growing out of the Belle Ellen mine fire of September 15, last, were filed against the Bessemer Land and Improvement company for $15,000 each, making an aggregate of $75,000.

The Bank at Selma.

A new banking house, backed by local capitalists, has been opened at Selma. There is talk of organizing another national bank in the same city.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

The city council of Florence has decided to build a city jail.

The president has appointed Chas. C. Crowe postmaster Marion.

Capt. J. L. Hinson, an old and influential citizen of Mt. Willing, died last week.

R. D. Hill, one of the most prominent citizens of Bibb county, died at Centreville last week.

Miss Dora, the daughter of William Strain, living near Columbiana, committed suicide, taking for that purpose "Rough on Rats."

It is stated on good authority that the Louisville & Nashville railroad will construct a branch line from Sheffield to Leighton, a distance of ten miles.

A deal is on for the reorganization of the Florence Wagon company, which went into the hands of a receiver several years ago. It is the purpose to put the plant in operation again.

At the meeting of the directors of the Cherry Cotton Mills at Florence, it was decided to introduce at once improved modern machinery amounting to $15,000. The directors also declared a dividend of 3 per cent quarterly.

The jury in the case of George Pritchard, the negro who murdered the negro editor and school teacher, Patterson, in the Columbus street Baptist church at Montgomery last July, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree and assessed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Efforts to Unite the Forces.

An assembly of eighteen representatives of Methodist Episcopal churches of the United States is in session at Foundry Methodist Episcopal church, Washington, for the purpose of effecting a union of the forces between the two branches of the church. This assembly consists of three bishops, three ministers and three laymen from each branch of the church.

Vicksburg Park.

The military committee of the house returned to Washington from their recent trip to Vicksburg battlefield, and are favorably impressed with the value of this locality for a national military park, and have practically agreed that a favorable report will be made on the bill to this end.

Rumor Given Little Credence.

A special from Havana says: It has been rumored that Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, United States consul-general, will accompany Captain-General Blanco when the latter takes the field. It is further reported that Senor Estrada Palma, the delegate to the United States of the Cuban insurgents, will arrive here shortly and accompany the captain-general and General Lee to the field, and that a conference with Gen. Maximo Gomez will follow. The reports have caused a sensation in this city.

Texas Asked to Help Cuba.

Governor Culberson has received a telegram from New York from the central Cuban relief committee, appointed by President McKinley, asking for immediate assistance in the way of clothing, money, food, etc. In compliance with the request he promptly issued an appeal to the people of Texas, asking them to give the assistance asked for.

Samuel T. Blyer, representing a Chicago company, is in Atlanta making arrangements for building a $100,000 plant for manufacturing smoke-consuming furnaces.

EMINENT DIVINES' SERMONS

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS IS THE JSUBECT OF DR. TALMAGE.

The Sixth of the New York Herald's Competition Sermons is on "The Power of Gentleness"—Rev. Dr. Talmage Discourses on Christ as a Village Lad.

TEXT: "Thy gentleness hath made me great."—Psalms, xviii., 35.

There is little in the popular idea of gentleness to make it desirable for God or man. We think of it as lacking in vigor and a long way removed from greatness. So suggestive is it of weakness and softness that we want very little to do with it.

Our ideas of gentleness need rectifying. We speak often of a gentle horse. What do we mean by it? That horse is gentle that is nervy and full of mettle, able to pass anything on the road, and yet so easily subdued that the voice of a little child would bring him to a standstill at once. That man is gentle who has the strength of a Hercules and the tenderness of a woman. Gentleness is power withholding itself and spending itself in goodness.

A good illustration of gentleness was that on a Spanish battle field. A gallant French soldier's sword was uplifted to strike his foe to the earth, but he saw as the sword was about to descend that his antagonist had but one farm. Instantly he stayed his sword, brought it to a salute and rode on.

Gentleness in a woman is love's mighty magnet, and will attract its own from the ends of the earth. A woman without it is a monstrosity, a warrior with it is greater far than he who shows his power by burning villages, destroying crops, executing prisoners. The great general at Appomattox, considering the interests of the men in gray, treating them as his countrymen, silencing the salute already under way to celebrate victory lest they should be further humiliated, and sending the defeated ones home well fed and equipped for labor on the farms, declaring himself a gentle man as well as a great soldier, and did more in that hour to make his country great than other great men have done in a lifetime. Grant could have crushed the South in that hour; instead, he caressed it as a mother her weak and wayward child, and melted it to tears.

We speak often of the power of God, but it is the gentleness of God that works the greatest wonders. It is this that makes men great. See the gentleness of God at the beginning. It is not the strong arm, but the tender heart, that concerns itself with fallen man. It is not a king's voice that we hear in Eden, but a father's. Pathetic cry that, "Adam, Adam, where art thou?" When God came down in human flesh to save a lost world He came in the same spirit. A still and quiet night it was when the Saviour was born. The stars looked down peacefully upon the shepherds as they watched their sheep. The world was wrapt in slumber. It was into this stillness and quiet that God's angels came and God's glory shone around. Gentle words those were the angel spoke—"Be not afraid." So sweet and gentle was the music of the angelic host that no one save the shepherds heard it.

The spirit of the Gospel is the same. It is summed up in the words: "A bruised reed will He not break; the smoking flax He will not quench." It is by gentleness that God seeks to win the world to righteousness and truth. "The Lord God is a sun." Sooner or later cold and icy hearts must give way before Him. We need more gentleness before the earth can become like heaven—gentleness on the part of parents. You can shout at your children and bring them into trembling submission; you can thrash them into obedience; you can starve them into submission. The strong can bring the weak to terms for a while by any of the methods. But if you want to show your child the sweet reasonableness of your position and to make him docile, obedient, trustful, sit down and talk gently with him and seek to make his heart your own.

We need more gentleness on the part of children—gentleness of speech, gentleness of manner. Children need to learn early how mean a thing it is to tyrannize over any one weaker than themselves. There is no one for whom a healthy boy has more contempt as he grows older than for a bully.

We need more gentleness on the part of teachers. It is by appealing to the best in a boy that the best is developed. Humiliate a boy, degrade him, ridicule him and you have not subdued him. Beam upon him gently and lovingly, apart and alone, and he will be your friend forever.

We need more gentleness on the part of preachers. "The servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle toward all men." The Great Preacher was so gentle that Simon the Pharisee asked him to dine with him; the poor harlot lingered near His feet caressingly; Zaccheus and Matthew, the publicans, became His loyal disciples, and even a thief, in the agony of crucifixion, cried, "Lord, remember me." The world needs nothing more than it needs gentleness and love. Human hearts are hungry for the music of gentle voices and the touch of tenderness. Why should we not all try to show that we are the sons and daughters of the gentle God?

Rough, rude boys have been made great for time and eternity by the sweetness and gentleness of mothers and sisters. Dull, wilful, petulent scholars have been made thoughtful and earnest by the tender patient love of self-denying teachers. Souls small, mean, selfish, sinful, have been made great by the gentle, faithful labors of those not willing that any should perish.

The night of life is coming on apace. It will be sweet to have the gates swing inward at our approach to the city eternal, and to be welcomed by some watching for our home coming, and to hear from joyful lips such words as these: "Thy gentleness hath made me great."

RICHARD G. WOODBRIDGE,
Pastor Central Congregational Church, Middleboro, Mass.

CHRIST AS A VILLAGE LAD.

Dr. Talmage Discourses on the Boyhood of Jesus.

TEXT: "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom, and the face of God was upon Him."—Luke xi., 40.

Concerning what bounded the boyhood of Christ, the preacher said, we have whole libraries of books and whole galleries of canvas and sculpture, but pen and pencil and chisel have, with few exceptions, passed by Christ, the village lad. "Yet, by three conjointed evidences," he said, "I think we can come to as accurate an idea of what Christ was as a boy as of what Christ was as a man.

"First, we have the Bible account of His boyhood. Then we have the prolonged account of what Christ was at thirty years of age. We have besides an uninspired book that was for the first three or four centuries after Christ's appearance received by many as inspired, and which gives a prolonged account of Christ's boyhood.

"The so-called apocryphal Gospel, in which the boyhood of Christ is dwelt upon, I do not believe to be divinely inspired, and touching the fringe of Christ's coat? Is that more wonderful than the manhood miracles by which Christ reanimated the dead again and again without going where they were or even seeing them?

"From the naturalness, the simplicity, the freshness of His parables and similes and metaphors in manhood discourse I know that He had been a boy of the fields and had bathed in the streams and heard the nightingale's call, and broken through the flowery hedge and looked out of the embrasures of the fortress, and drank from the wells and chased the butterflies."

Dr. Talmage referred to Christ in the mechanic's shop, having been taught the carpenter's trade by His father, Joseph. "His hammer pounding, His saw vacillating, His axe descending and the perspiration from His work standing on His brow."

yet it may present facts worthy of consideration. Because it represents the boy Christ as performing miracles, some have overthrown that whole apocryphal book. But what right have you to say that Christ did not perform miracles at ten years of age, as well as at thirty? He was in boyhood as certainly as divine as in manhood. Then while a lad He must have had the power to work miracles, whether He did or not work them. When, having reached manhood, Christ turned water into wine, that was said to be the beginning of miracles. But that may mean that it was the beginning of that series of manhood miracles.

"In a word, I think that the New Testament is only a small transcript of what Jesus said and did. So we are at liberty to believe or reject those parts of the apocryphal Gospel which say that when the boy Christ with His mother passed a band of thieves, He told His mother that two of them, Dumachus and Titus by name, would be the two thieves who afterward would expire on crosses besides Him. Was that more wonderful than some of Christ's manhood prophecies? Or the inspired story that the boy Christ made a fountain spring from the roots of a sycamore tree so that His mother washed His coat in the stream—was that more unbelievable than the manhood miracle that changed common water into a marriage beverage? Or the uninspired story that two sick children were recovered by bathing in the water where Christ had washed. Was that more wonderful than the manhood miracle by which the woman, twelve years a complete invalid, should have been made?

Then said the preacher: "I show you a more marvelous scene—Christ, the smooth-browed lad, among the long-bearded, white-haired, high-foreheaded ecclesiastics of the Temple."

Following other events recorded in the apocrypha, the preacher asked if they were more wonderful than events recorded in the New Testament.

"If Christ were divine was He not able at ten or twelve years to describe the human system as well as though He had been fifty years standing at an operating table or in a dissecting room? In other words, while I do not believe that any part of the so-called apocryphal New Testament is inspired, I believe much of it is true, just as I believe a thousand books, none of which is divinely inspired."

"A child twelve years old, surrounded by septuagenarians, He asking His own questions and answering theirs. Let me introduce you to some of these ecclesiastics. This is the great Rabbin Simeon! This is the venerable Hillel! This is the famous Shammai! These are the sons of the distinguished Betirah. The first time in all their lives these religionists have found their match, and more than their match. Though so young, He knew all about that Temple under whose roof they held that most wonderful discussion of all history. He knew the meaning of every altar, of every sacrifice, of every golden candlestick, of every embroidered curtain, of every crumb of shrew bread, of every drop of oil in that sacred epifice. He knew all about God. He knew all about man. He knew all about heaven, for He came from it. He knew all about this world, for He made it. He knew all worlds, for they were only the sparkling morning dewdrops on the lawn in front of His heavenly palace.

"Put these seven Bible words in a wreath of emphasis: 'Both hearing them and asking them questions.' I am not so much interested in the questions they asked Him as in the questions He asked them. He asked the question not to get information from the doctors, for He knew it already, but to humble them by showing them the height and depth and length and breadth of their own ignorance. The radiant boy with any one of a hundred questions about theology, about philosophy, about astronomy, about time, about eternity, may have balked them, disconcerted them. Behold the boy Christ asking questions, and listen when your child asks questions. He has the right to ask them. The more he asks, the better. Alas for the stupidity of the child without inquisitiveness! It is Christ-like to ask questions. Answer them if you can. Do not say: 'I can't be bothered now.' It is your place to be bothered with questions. If you are not able to answer, surrender and confess your incapacity, as I have no doubt did Rabbis Simeon, and Hillel, and Shammai, and the sons of Betirah when that splendid boy, sitting or standing there, with a garment reaching from neek to ankle, and girdled at the waist, put them to their very wits' end. It is no disgrace to say 'I don't know.' The only being in the universe who never needs to say 'I don't know' is the Lord Almighty.

"But while I see the old theologians standing around the boy Christ, I am impressed as never before with the fact that what theology most wants is more of childish simplicity. Why should you and I perplex ourselves about the decrees of God? Mind your own business and God will take care of His. In the conduct of the universe I think He will somehow manage to get along without us. If you want to love and serve God, and be good and useful and get to heaven, I warrant that nothing which occurred eight hundred quintillion of years ago will hinder you a minute. It is not the decrees of God that do us any harm; it is our own decrees of sin and folly.

"You need not go any further back in history than about one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four years. Something occurred on that day under an eclipsed sun that sets us all forever free, if with our whole heart and life we accept the tremendous proffer. Do not let the Presbyterian Church, or the Methodist Church, or the Lutheran Church, or the Baptist Church, or any of the other evangelical churches spend any time in trying to fix up old creeds, all of them imperfect, as everything man does is imperfect. Our own denomination made itself absurd by trying to revise its creed made hundreds of years ago. You might as well try to revise your grandmother's love letters. I move a new creed for all the evangelical churches of Christendom, only three articles in the creed, and no need of any more.

"If I had all the consecrated people of all denominations of the earth on one great plain, and I had voice loud enough to put it to a vote, that creed of three articles would be adopted with a unanimous vote. This is the creed I propose for all Christendom:

"Article first—'God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.'

"Article second—'This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners, even the chief.'

"Article third—'Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive blessings and riches and honor and glory and power, world without end.'

"But you go to tinkering up your old creeds, and patching and splicing and interlining and annexing and subtracting and adding and explaining, and you will lose time and make yourself a target for earth and hell to shoot at. Let us have creeds not fashioned out of human ingenuities, but out of scriptural phraseology, and all the guns of bombardment blazing from all the port holes of infidelity and perdition will not in a thousand years knock off the church of God a splinter as big as a cambric needle. What is most needed now is that we gather all our theologies around the boy in the temple, the elaborations around the simplicities, and the profundities around the clarities, the octogenarian of scholastic research around the unwrinkled cheek of twelve-year juvenescence. 'Except you become as a little child you can in no wise enter the kingdom;' and except you become as a little child you cannot understand the Christian religion. The best thing that Rabbis Simeon and Hillel and Shammai and the sons of Betirah ever did was, in the temple, to bend over the lad who, first made ruddy of cheek by the breath of the Judean hills, and on his way to the mechanic's shop, where he was soon to be the support of his bereaved mother, stopped long enough to grapple with the venerable dialecticians of the Orient, 'both hearing them and asking them questions.' Some, referring to Christ, have exclaimed: Ecce deus! Behold the God. Others have exclaimed: Ecce Homo, Behold the man. But to-day, in conclusion of my subject, I cry: Ecce adolescence! Behold the boy."

Must Look Beyond the World.

A picture which has no sky in it is without the highest beauty. "It is the horizon that gives dignity to the foreground." A life without sky in it is most unworthy and incomplete. A man who sees only bonds and stocks and deeds, bales of goods and blocks of houses, stores and factories and machinery and chimney tops, with no gleams, above and beyond all these, of stars and blue skies and a Heavenly Father's face, is not living as an immortal being should live. There is no sky in his vision of life. This world is very beautiful in its place, and God means us to enjoy it and do faithful, earnest, and beautiful work in it; but it is only one little part of our Father's house. When in our thinking, planning and doing we do not look beyond this world, we are not living worthily. When we lose the sky out of our life-vision the glory fades from it. The only secret of spiritual safety and good in prosperous times is in keeping the eye fixed on heaven.—J. R. Miller, D. D., in "Every Day of Life."

Psalms of Gratitude.

A psalm which cultivates the spirit of gratitude is a psalm which we ought often to read. If we were more grateful both our joy and our strength would be increased. Gratitude is born in hearts which take the time to count up past mercies. If we cannot sing about them, we can at least think about them. Thinking about them is a means of grace. Meditating on God's dealings with us begets in us a spirit of humility. It leads us to magnify the pronoun "Thou," and cultivates a feeling of dependence and trustfulness which is a fountain of joy and strength.... Not only happy but strong is the man who, in the midst of prosperity, can look Godward and say, "Thou hast girded me."—C. F. Jefferson.

SHOULD TAKE HIGH RANK.

The University of Alabama as a Health Resort.

The members of the Alabama Corps of Cadets had their Christmas dinner on Thursday, before being furloughed for the holidays. They made away with 1,200 fresh oysters, fifteen large turkeys, and apples and oranges by the bushel.

The Mess Hall fare must be plentiful and wholesome, as the cadets seem to thrive on it. At the beginning of the session they were weighed by the director of the gymnasium. They were weighed again on the same scales, in the same costume during the last week. Five had neither gained nor lost in flesh. Nine had lost in the aggregate thirty-three pounds. The others had gained from one to twenty pounds. The average net gain for the corps was five and seven-tenths pounds per man. This is at the rate of twenty or twenty-five pounds per annum.

We understand moreover that there has not been a serious case of sickness since the session opened. Not a student has been sent to the hospital. From these facts it would seem that as a health resort the University should take high rank. But the best part of the terms work may be done in the several departments. It cannot be expressed by figures.—Tuscaloosa Times.

Hit, but Not Killed by a Cannon Ball.

A unique distinction belongs to Sir Robert Rawlinson, K. C. B.—that of being the only soldier who has been knocked out of the saddle by a cannon ball without being killed. The identical forty-two-pound shot is preserved by Lady Rawlinson as an interesting relic. At the Crimea Sir Robert was riding with a group of artillery officers, when he announced his intention of turning back. At this moment a shot from the Russian lines came whizzing along in front of him, cutting the reins and pommel of the saddle, and wedging a steel purse with terrific force against the rider's hip-bone.

Hale on Boston's Streets.

Edward Everett Hale said in a lecture on the old streets of Boston the other day; "An old Bostonian regards the straight, checker-board streets of other cities with a contempt which is not to be described, while the people of other cities claim that Boston was laid out by cows."

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

NEWTON & CARRUTHERS, Proprietors.
A. S. CARRUTHERS, Editor.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Jan. 13, '98.

The NEWS office has been removed to the Lyman brick building, where all are welcome at all hours.

The frozen people of the North should come to Montevallo, where butterflies are now winging their way about town.

Read the article on page 1 headed "Alabama Cotton Mills," and then try to help the NEWS to establish a cotton factory in Montevallo.

That Montevallo is the centre of trade is shown by the numerous people who come long distances to market their products and buy their supplies here.

It becomes every day more apparent that a great necessity exists for a telegraph office up-town. The present office is half-a-mile from the business centre. If the Western Union does not move its office to a central point, the Postal Telegraph Co. should be invited to run a line into Montevallo.

That the mineral railroad from Gadsden to Calera, a feeder of the L. & N. R. R., will be extended to Gurnee by way of Montevallo, is good news. Montevallo is one of the oldest towns in Alabama and if her natural resources are properly advertised and developed she will be the leading city of Alabama.

Since the Atlanta Constitution lost Ed. Barrett, it does not seem to know the difference between the radiating spokes of the Washington wheel and the streets in the northern part of that city which the parvenues wish dignified with the names of dead statesmen. The Atlanta Constitution should let its editor smell Frank L. Stanton's breath, and so gain a little of the divine afflatus, or engage a good Washington correspondent.

Why not hold the next free silver convention in Mexico? There would be fitness in the arrangement.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Speaking of the eternal fitness of things, how would it do to hold the next gold convention in the back yard of the Bank of England?—Russell Register.

We didn't know the Bank of England had a back yard. Must inquire about it.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The Bank of England has an enclosed back yard, but police guard it and would hardly allow a lot of goldbugs to enter unless they had better credentials than their mammon-marked faces. The Montgomery Advertiser should know more about the institution which takes a great part in what the Advertiser considers the laudable work of filching hundreds of millions from the American people and giving about one per cent of the loot to goldbug organs for trying to cover up the fraud.

If you want a good location for a poultry call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he has one of the best places in the country for it.

DIVERSIFICATION OF CROPS.

The Galveston News recently offered several handsome money prizes for the best articles enumerating what the tillers of the soil can plant and cultivate to the best advantage, and how the produce can be realized upon. A special committee has charge of the articles and will make the awards. In the meanwhile the News is printing many of them. Some of them are very lengthy, but Mr. A. K. Bradley, of Tioga, Tex, puts a deal of advice in a few words.

The basis, he says, of successful farming is live stock and poultry. Live stock should be of some standard breed, suitable to the surroundings, should be well fed, any surplus in them being always ready for the best market. While corn and wheat are great staples, there is the sweet potato, an absolutely certain crop. The possibilities of the sweet potato are immense. They can be on the farmer's table nine months in the year, and can be a part ration for his stock for a like length of time.

The farm should be fenced all around, and divided into fields. All fences should be hog-tight. Hogs and pigs should follow all crops, except cotton; nothing is then wasted. Sweet potatoes, cow peas, peanuts, sorghum and rye make the finest and cheapest pork. Never keep a hog or pig in a pen, it does not pay. A good garden is absolutely neces sary, so also is a good orchard.

Mr. Bradly goes on to say that the greatest cause of loss to the farmer is the annual, sometimes semi-annual crazes he is subject to. If cotton be low, he goes in for corn and hogs. If cotton go up, he unanimously decides there is more money in cotton than anything else, and the whole face of his state is covered with cotton next season. This is done over and over again.

Barring a few sentences that are amplifications of ideas, this is Mr. Bradly's advice to the farmers of Texas. It is good for the farmers of Texas—it is good for the farmers of Alabama.—Age-Herald.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton'smarket, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

NO, INDEED.

Say not, the struggle nought availeth.
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not, nor faileth,
And as things have been they remain.

If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in yon smoke concealed,
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers,
And, but for you, possess the field.

For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.

And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light;
In front, the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
But westward look, the land is bright.

Those who have expressed a wish to read "Grover Cleveland on a Tramp," the humorous book written by the editor of the Montevallo News and used as a Bryan campaign book in 1896, can obtain copies at our store. Price 25 cents.

F. F. CROWE & Co.

IF YOU ARE NOT

A SUBSCRIBER

SEND IN YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS, ALONG WITH THE DOLLAR, AND

THE NEWS

WILL BE SENT YOU EVERY WEEK FOR

ONE YEAR.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go

☞To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

RIBBONS.

Just Received--

Th LARGEST and LOVELIEST line of MOIRE and SATIN RIBBONS ever seen in Montevallo. All shades. All numbers. ☞Especially beautiful Sash Ribbons.

MORGAN BROS.,
Montevallo, Ala.

SHOES.

The Sweetest, Loveliest, Daintiest —LINE OF—
Adjuncts to Pretty Feet

EVER SEEN IN MONTEVALLO, WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED.☜

A. M. CROSS
—HAS—REMOVED
—TO—
JOHN INGRAM'S OLD SHOP,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.
WHERE HE IS PREPARED TO DO
HORSE SHOEING
AND ALL KINDS OF BLACKSMITHING
AND REPAIR WORK ON
Wagons, Buggies, Etc., Etc.
CHARGES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

HIGHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.
CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
☞These prices in force until January 15th.☜

SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.
VANDEMEER BROS.
☞TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.
MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

WE OR OUR DEALERS can sell you machines cheaper than you can get elsewhere. The NEW HOME is our best, but we make cheaper kinds, such as the CLIMAX, IDEAL and other High Arm Full Nickel Plated Sewing Machines for $15.00 and up. Call on our agent or write us. We want your trade, and if prices, terms and square dealing will win, we will have it. We challenge the world to produce a BETTER $50.00 Sewing Machine for $50.00, or a better $20. Sewing Machine for $20.00 than you can buy from us, or our Agents.

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO.
ORANGE, MASS. BOSTON, MASS. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. CHICAGO, ILL. ST. LOUIS, MO. DALLAS, TEXAS. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. ATLANTA, GA.
FOR SALE BY

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.

THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.

In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skillful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.

RIPANS TABULES

A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.

Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chem[illegible] Company, and patients are invited to write f[illegible]ecial instructions in peculiar cases. Their lett[illegible] will receive such attention as they require, f[illegible] charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the ho[illegible] and when you travel take some with you. The[illegible] are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.

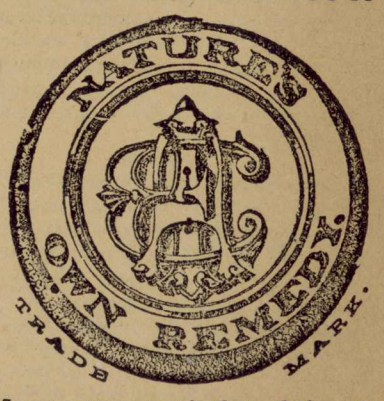
Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH



Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine, now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.

For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.

Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be [illegible] gists.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.

J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.

C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.

GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

Pretty Miss Sue Shubert, of Oxford, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Best.

H. C. & W. B. Reynolds have had gravel crossings laid to their store to accommodate their customers.

Dr. Wilkinson is having a fine stable built on his lot next to the Methodist church.

Everything that anyone needs, from a pin to an elephant, can be had at the store of R. C. Parker, Brierfield, Ala.

Tom Reynolds and Henry Woolley are such champion eaters that they are charged extra prices at Newton's restaurant.

Wm. Booth and wife, who live on the other side of Boothtown, twelve miles from Montevallo, come to Montevallo to do their trading.

H. C. Cider and B. Fulton came all the way from Six Mile last Monday to trade in Montevallo, and spent over $50 with Morgan Bros.

Kirk Sessions will soon start up his saw mill three miles southeast of Montevallo and says he will get married if business is good.

C. F. Graves has been confined to his home with a threatened attack of pneumonia, but is on the streets swapping yarns as usual.

Col. J. P. West, one of Shelby county's oldest citizens, and Dr. J. H. Gunn, both of Calera, were in Montevallo Tuesday "taking in the town," to use their own expression.

Jack Hays, a Southern railroad machinist, and his brother, Sam Hays, came up from Birmingham last Sunday to visit their bereaved friends, J. G. Bryan and family.

Dr. E. A. Wilson, Birmingham's most skillful dentist, will come to Montevallo on January 17th and remain several days. All needing dental work should call and see him.

Rev. J. E. Wilson, of Jonesboro, T. W. Smith, of Prattville, W. B. Mc Clung, of Lexington, Miss., and Mrs. Lillian Grace Pratt, of Aldrich, were visitors to Montevallo this week.

The NEWS moved to more comfortable quarters last week and the editors, printers and devil had a parrot and monkey time of it. As a result the paper falls short of local matter.

The minstrel show last night was witnessed by a large number of town folks, and was well entertained. Tonight (Friday) they give another performance, with change of program. Adults 15 cents, children 10.

Miss A. E. Kennedy, teacher of history and English, has received Halsey's historical chart, and her pupils find it a great aid in their studies.

The quarterly conference of the Methodist church of Montevallo district was held last Monday, Rev. J. D. Simpson, of Tuscaloosa, presiding. The financial condition of the church is good and the membership is steadily increasing.

W. M. Summers, of San Marcus, Texas, a member of the United States Fish Commission, and Mrs. W. Kneesmith, wife of the member of the Alabama legislature of that name, are visiting their sister, Mrs. A. Wall, at the St. George Hotel.

Frank Emory, an F. F. V. who has has spent his life in railroad contracting, has very sensibly realized the possibilities of this section of the country and has bought Shep Allen's place three miles northeast of Montevallo. He looks like a hustler and will have success.

B. F. Crabb, of Dadeville, Ala., has rented the store of C. C. Vandegrift for a period of two years, commencing March 10th. He will conduct a general merchandise and millinery business. The people of Montevallo will gladly welcome Mr. Crabb, for he has the reputation of being a hustler.

A. M. Cross, the well-known blacksmith of Montevallo, has removed from the old West shop to the old John Ingram shop, where he is able and ready to do all kinds of blacksmithing, horseshoeing, woodwork and repair work on wagons, buggies, etc., cheaper and better than any man in Alabama. See his ad elsewhere.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J H. McMath, secretary.

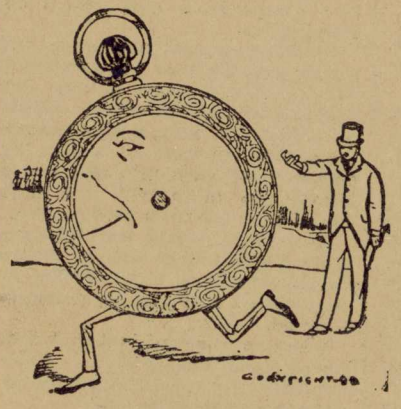
Sunday, January 9, 1898. Officers and teachers present 14, absent 4. Scholars present, 123; absent, 60. Visitors, 2. Collection, 98c. Rev. M. P. Reynolds announced that the names of all teachers and scholars who attended twelve times during the present quarter will be published as a Roll of Honor in the Montevallo News of March 31, 1898.

BRIERFIELD.

W. W. McCollum will hereafter represent the NEWS at Brierfield.

Everything that anyone needs, from a pin to an elephant, can be had at the store of R. C. Parker, Brierfield, Ala.

"MY WATCHES RUN."



Fine WATCHES

Carefully
Repaired
and Adjusted.
All
Work
Guaranteed
First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly
attended to.

J. W. MARTIN,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.

FARMERS Are always Welcome

AND CAN BUY

Everything from us Cheaper than Elsewhere.

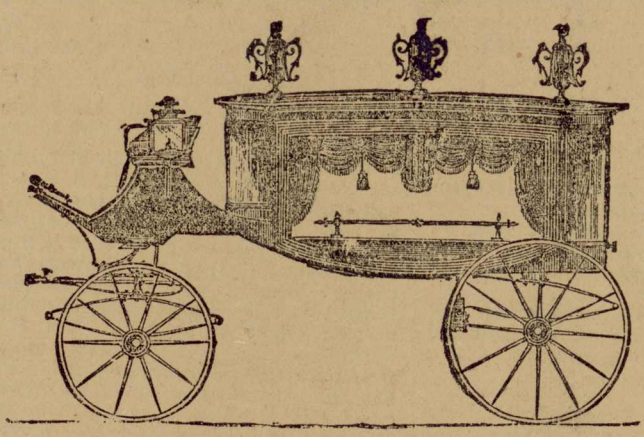
WE HAVE THE BIGGEST LINE OF

Hardware BETWEEN BIRMINGHAM AND MONTGOMERY

DISSTON HAND AND CROSS-CUT SAWS, Etc.

GEO. KROELL,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.



I. P. HAX,

The People's Undertaker.

COFFINS AND CASKETS, all styles, FROM $5 UP.

ALDRICH, ALA.

EVERYTHING, FROM A PIN

——TO AN——

Elephant

——AT——

R. C. Parker's

BRIERFIELD, : : ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

DUKE CIGARETTES

MADE FROM High Grade Tobacco
AND
ABSOLUTELY PURE

SAW MILLS, GRIST MILLS,
HOISTING MACHINERY, &C.,
AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY,
WOODEN SPLIT PULLEYS, & STEAM ENGINES ALL SIZES;
DAVIDSON STEAM PUMPS,
ATHINS SAWS, SAW TOOLS,
VISES, WRENCHES, TONGS,
INJECTORS, AND JET PUMPS,
NAGLE ENGINES & BOILERS,

MACHINERY
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES,
ALL SIZES OF SHAFTING,
COTTON GINS & PRESSES,
HANCOCK INSPIRATORS, OIL,
IRON WORKING TOOLS, ETC.,
NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY,
EACH ARTICLE IS WARRANTED!
REMEMBER SHAW & DAVIN.
OUR TRADE IS SOLICITED.

SHAW & DAVIN, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

JOB PRINTING.

LETTER HEADS,
NOTE HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,

Done in first-class style on short notice, at the

NEWS : OFFICE.

WANTED:—A lady in each town to take orders for something new that every lady wants; we pay $2.50 for first 5 hours' work; sample and instructions. MRS. HARRY FARD, Lock Box 699, Birmingham.

KEEP STEP!

DON'T LAG!

If you are lagging behind with the stragglers, step to the front and

"BEHOLD THE LILIES OF THE FIELD."

If you are interested in botany, but if you are interested in the news of the day, behold The

Semi-Weekly Advertiser.

The best and newsiest twice-a-week newspaper published in the South.

EIGHT PAGES

TWICE A WEEK

Contains reading for the politician, the farmer and the family. Special attention paid to the household and farming departments.

PRICE

$1.00 A YEAR, 104 ISSUES.

Address

The Advertiser Co.

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

A telegraph messenger entered as Paxton became seated, and placed a dispatch in the hands of the police sergeant.

Marion's face told that she feared the telegram contained some intelligence inimical to the interests of the young man of whose innocence she was positive.

Mr. Garrison shook the detective's hand warmly when he had taken his seat, and said:

"I thank you, sir, for what you have said in behalf of my young friend."

Meanwhile the police sergeant read his dispatch, and turning to the coroner he said in exultant tones:

"The dispatch, which has, by the way, been unaccountably delayed, informs me that Stuart Harland has been arrested. He should have been returned to the city by this time. He was captured on alighting from a railway train by officers to whom I caused a telegram to be sent."

"This is bad news. Since Mr. Harland was arrested on a railway train he must have been leaving the city. That circumstance may be made to tell against him. You are his friend, Mr. Garrison, and at the first opportunity you should warn him to make a complete explanation of his conduct," whispered the detective.

"I shall do so," the broker replied, but he secretly thought:

"And yet if the motive for his secret night journey was what I suspect it to be, I dare not ask Stuart to tell the truth. Weak, miserable, guilty man that I am, I find myself in a situation of the most trying character, and a denouement I dread may come at any moment."

Marion Oakburn touched the detective's arm, and he turned toward her as she whispered:

"Do you think Mr. Harland can be imprisoned on the strength of the evidence which has thus far been elicited?"

"The jury can hardly find against him yet, I think, but much will depend upon Mr. Harland himself. His explanation will govern the coroner's jury. However, he cannot be compelled to answer any question which may implicate himself," replied Paxton.

A moment subsequently there was a stir at the door.

A thrill of excitement and expectancy ran through the throng, and Marion Oakburn started to her feet, involuntarily.

Mr. Paxton and the broker also arose, as Stuart Harland was marched into the room between two officers.

The suspected man glanced about him fearlessly, and seeing Mr. Garrison and Marion, he bowed and smiled, and he also affably greeted his fellow clerks who were present.

Addressing the coroner, he said, calmly:

"I am informed that I am arrested on suspicion of having murdered my old friend, John Oakburn. Will you please inform me why I am accused of so heinous a crime?"

It was evident to all that Stuart Harland was in a state of intense mental excitement, and that he only restrained his indignation by a determined effort of will power.

"I regret to say, Mr. Harland, that the fact of your midnight departure coupled with certain curcumstances, such as your knowledge that there was a large sum of money in the safe and the like, has made it necessary that you should explain your conduct," answered the coroner impressively.

A moment of profound silence ensued while the people assembled in the broker's office awaited, consumed with curiosity and suspense, for all were most deeply interested to know what explanation or defense of his conduct the accused would offer.

Stuart Harland's eyes sought the face of Jason Garrison, and as the broker met his covert glance he trembled violently, and thought:

"I am not mistaken. He has discovered the truth. He knows what I have done."

From the banker Stuart glanced at Marion Oakburn.

Ever since the moment when the officers who had accomplished his arrest informed him, as they had done that John Oakburn had been murdered, Stuart Harland had been unable to rid his mind of the haunting memory of Marion Oakburn's face as he saw it when, livid with terror, she stealthily glided out of the office as he was leaving the house, ann now when he looked at her, Mariod trembled as with a chill of terror, and she would not meet his glance.

A fearful thought flashed through Stuart's mind, but he put it away from him as too terrible for serious consideration.

At this time, however, he was convinced in his mind that some dark and inscrutable mystery surrounded the secret of John Oakburn's murder, and he could not disabuse himself of the impression that Marion Oakburn was in some inexplicable way connected with it.

Stuart Harland was one of those noble spirits who ought to have lived in the days of chivalry and knight errantry. He had resolved not to make an explanation of his midnight departure, because to do so would be to betray the secret of another, which he had accidentally gained a knowledge of. He never thought of resorting to falsehood to exonerate himself.

He was not without a fear lest the course he had resolved upon would alienate the sympathies of his friends, but he felt in honor bound to adhere to it.

Paxton was somewhat of a physiognomist in his way, and he fixed his eyes on Stuart Harland's face and sought to read his character.

The detective's scrutiny was so intense that Harland felt his glance and finally looked at him. Then the former dropped his eyes, but he was favorably impressed and he mentally reflected:

"He has an honest face, and if I am not in error he is a man who would make almost any sacrifice for honor and friendship."

Meanwhile when Judith Kredge saw Stuart Harland a prisoner in the power of the officers of the law, her venemous eyes flashed with malicious triumph.

It was clearly apparent that she secretly hated the young man.

"You will take the oath and then we will listen to any statement you desire to make," said the coroner as Stuart did not reply to his last remark.

The young man was duly sworn and then the inquest proceeded and new and startling developments ensued.

CHAPTER VI.

"My explanation is most simple. I can only say that important business called me away suddenly, and I did not see fit to publish the fact of my intended departure. As for my having any connection with this crime, those who know me will not for a moment entertain such a thought. For the assurance of strangers, I might further protest my innocence, but it is unnecessary to do so. It is no secret that a firm friendship existed between myself and John Oakburn,' said Stuart Harland, at last.

His frank and fearless manner troubled the police sergeant who had caused his arrest, and he hitched about in his chair nervously, while he tried to devise some trap which might lead Harland to criminate himself.

He thought of the old "confrontation ruse," as the detectives term it, and suddenly arising he said to Stuart:

"Look here, sir!"

The young man promptly stepped to the side of the police sergeant, who then turned to the body of the murdered man and suddenly uncovered his face.

If the police sergeant anticipated that Stuart would recoil and manifest all the terror of guilt at the sight of the dead face of John Oakburn, he was greatly disappointed.

Such was not the result.

Stuart gazed sadly upon the ghastly features of the old cashier, and not the faintest evidence, such as the police sergeant hoped to elicit, was discernible in his manner.

"This is a foul crime. The murderer must be discovered. Poor John Oakburn must be avenged!" said Stuart, earnestly.

His voice and manner were so naturally sincere that those who heard him were impressed.

Even the Coroner's voice sounded more kindly as he proceeded to question Stuart, when it was quite evident to all that the police sergeant's ancient test had utterly failed.

"At what time did you leave the house last night, Mr. Harland?" was the first question propounded by the Coroner.

"It was not quite one o'clock. I had set my alarm-clock to ring at one precisely, and without removing my clothing, I fell asleep. I was awakened by some loud noise, though what it was I cannot tell. Springing up, I glanced at the clock, and I saw it was exactly twenty minutes of one o'clock. I left the house in a few minutes."

"Ah! he confesses he was in the house at the time of the murder. He does not know about the clock that was overturned here, and that the time of the assassination has been positively determined," whispered the police sergeant, turning to Paxton.

"Wait until the examination is concluded—restrain your exultation until then," retorted the detective.

"Why did you leave suddenly last night, as you did?" the Coroner then asked.

"I have told you that I was called away by important business; I was on my way to see a friend of mine."

"But you have not told us what the nature of your business was."

"It was a strictly private matter. It had no reference to this unfortunate affair."

"Perhaps so. But you can at least tell us your friend's name?"

Stuart hesitated for a moment, and then he said:

"His name is James Sanborn."

At the mention of that name, Mr. Garrison gave a violent start and he thought:

"There is no longer a shadow of a doubt. Stuart knows all, but he means to shield me. It is because I am Edna's father. For my daughter's sake, he will imperil himself rather than reveal the truth. He is a noble fellow. How unworthy I am of such friendship as his!"

"Then you decline to give us a plain, straightforward explanation of your conduct. I warn you, Mr. Harland, that your own interest demands that you should conceal nothing," said the Coroner.

"I can say no more; another than myself is concerned," replied Stuart.

"Very well, sir; Mr. Sanborn, the gentleman with whom you say you had business, shall be questioned."

Stuart bit his lips. Mr. Garrison turned white as death, and the Coroner smiled at his victim's discomfiture as he said blandly:

"You had not thought of that, I see."

Stuart's eyes blazed with wide-spread ught, but he restrained the angry retort hat arose to his lips and remained silent.

The Coroner questioned Stuart further, but nothing worthy of note was elicited.

Stuart adhered determinedly to the policy which he had adopted, and he could not be induced to reveal what the motive of the midnight journey was.

Paxton regarded the course of the suspected man as absolutely suicidal.

"He is endangering his life," he said to Mr. Garrison.

The broker groaned.

He knew now that if he advised Stuart Harland to tell the whole truth, he would advise his own exposure. He could not make that sacrifice, for his was not the noble, heroic character which the Creator had given Stuart Harland.

The agitation and excitement of the broker had awakened a vague suspicion in the mind of the dectective that perhaps the former knew more than he would have dared to confess about the business which had called Stuart Harland away on the night of the murder.

Paxton's mind was filled with surmises and conjectures, but the wildest of them all fell far short of the startling truth which future developments were destined to reveal.

Jason Garrison knew that his daughter's life was bound up with that of the man who was imperiling himself for his sake, and as he reflected that if Stuart was sacrificed Edna would not survive the blow, his torture was inexpressible.

Marion Oakburn had listened to Stuart Harland's examination with the deepest interest, and as she comprehended that the suspicion against him seemed destined to bring him into deadly peril, although they had heretofore been but passing acquaintances, she felt that the strands of their lives which led into the unexplored future had been woven together by a mystic fatality without the knowledge of either.

The cashier's daughter was not a fatalist; but she could not think that the singular combination of events which had recently transpired had come about by mere chance.

"In view of all the circumstances of this case, I order that Stuart Harland be searched.

"Officer Smith, you will attend to this matter," said the coroner, addressing the police sergeant.

A hot flush mantled Stuart Harland's face.

"What! Am I to be subjected to this indignity, as though I were a common thief!" he exclaimed.

"Justice is no respecter of persons. In quest of truth, she seeks for information everywhere. If need be, she enters the sacred precincts of the cloister. No man is exempt from her search," answered the coroner, impressively.

"So be it then. Let this farce continue to the end," and he bowed his head.

The officer named came forward and proceeded to search him.

He first examined Stuart's overcoat pockets, and Stuart assisted him, saying confidently:

"You will find nothing to reward you."

"We shall see," answered Police Sergeant Smith, gruffly.

Presently, the officer thrust his hand into the inside pocket of the young man's overcoat and drew out a number of wax impressions of locks and skeleton keys.

He held them up to the sight of all, exclaiming:

"I thought so. Here is the proof we were in search of!"

Stuart Harland staggered like one suddenly seized with an overwhelming vertigo.

"This is fate! I had forgotten about the cast; I am lost!" he exclaimed, scarcely knowing what he said.

This last startling discovery produced a profound sensation and the greatest excitement.

Mr. Garrison was like one stunned by a heavy blow.

Marion Oakburn, with her hands clasped upon her heart, and an agonized look in her eyes, cowered in her chair.

Paxon was absolutely amazed.

Had a thunderbolt descended at his feet the detective could not have been more disconcerted.

Here it seemed was the positive evidence of the guilt of the man for whose innocence he had vouched in the strongest terms.

The detective's prophesied opinion seemed to be proven worthless before all the assemblage, and he felt abashed, humiliated and defeated.

The police sergeant was exultant.

"Who was right, friend Paxton?" he said jeeringly. "What has become of all your fine theory of this man's innocence? I grant you it was stupid for him to run away as he did after committing the crime, but his conduct was not without precedent. The great Vidocq used to explain the stupidity of certain crimes committed by men of superior intelligence, by saying that they act under the influence of a kind of vertigo. That they become dazed after the crimes."

"Quite true, I recollect the theory, but mark my words your suspicion is all wrong despite its apparent confirmation. The mystery of John Oakburn's fate is still as far from being solved as ever," said Paxton in reply, but he could not avoid betraying some of the discomfiture which the last denouement had occasioned him.

Stuart Harland regained his composure to some extent in a moment or so, and he muttered:

"This is destiny. The immutable law of bad luck is not to be abrogated. It follows me throughout this entire unfortunate affair."

Aloud he said:

"I believe that I can convince you that I was entirely ignorant that the articles just discovered were in my possession."

"One moment, sir, and we will hear you," answered the coroner, and taking the skeleton keys from the police sergeant he tried one of them in the safe. The key entered the lock, but it would not move the bolt. The other keys were made for the door locks, and turning to the office door he tried one of them, finding that it fitted the lock perfectly. He tried the other key in the lock of the street door and found that it also was a perfect fit. That the door could be locked and unlocked by means of it with ease.

The coroner then examined the wax impressions and found that they had been taken from the locks of the street door, the office door and the safe.

"Ah," said the coroner, reflectively, 'the intricate mechanism of the safe lock resisted the skeleton key, and so it was necessary that the robber should have the key John Oakburn carried."

"But what need had Stuart Harland of a skeleton key to the front door?" ventured Paxton, suggestively.

The coroner shook his head doubtfully, and turning to Stuart again he noted that there was a marked decadence in his manner from the confident air he had worn when he entered the office.

"You may proceed with your statement now," the official said.

"Thank you, sir, I will tell you how it is that those criminating keys and the impressions of the locks must have come into my possession without my knowledge," said Stuart. He paused for an instant as though to collect his thoughts.

At last the young man fully comprehended the terrible nature of the accusation which had been brought against him and realized the deadly peril of his situation.

He began to speak again, when suddenly there was another commotion at the door and a loud voice was heard to call out:

"Here is new evidence to throw light on the mystery of the murder!"

A hope arose in Stuart's heart that something had been discovered to prove his innocence. At the same time there was in his mind a dread lest some new circumstance was to be brought against him.

There was a moment of suspense.

CHAPTER VII.

A man pushed his way into the office and every eye was fixed upon this last arrival.

Previous to placing before the reader the evidence which this personage gave, or recording Stuart Harland's explanation as to how the skeleton keys and wax impressions came in his possession, we will relate certain adventures which befell Harland after he left his room on the night of the murder.

Stuart reached the depot and boarded the train which he desired to catch just as it was moving out of the station.

He saw several persons on the platform whom he knew, and he exchanged greetings with them.

In the coach which he entered he recognized no familiar face, but the train had not gone far when he had struck up acquaintance, as people sometimes will on a railway train, though inclined to be exclusive elsewhere.

A young gentleman who seemed inclined to make himself agreeable found an opportunity to open a conversation with Stuart, and the two young men were eventually favorably impressed.

They were soon chatting familiarly.

Finally, at the request of the stranger, Stuart accompanied him to the smoking-car, where, as it chanced as the coach was overheated, they both removed their overcoats.

Excellent cigars were produced by Stuart's new acquaintance, who, by the way, represented himself to be a Bostonian and a scion of a wealthy family whose name was familiar to commercial men.

For some time the new acquaintances smoked and chatted pleasantly, but as the night drew on their conversation gradually flagged, and both seemed inclined to nap.

It was not long before silence fell between them, and soon Stuart's heavy, regular breathing assured his companion that he was sleeping soundly.

The young man did not awake until the loud voice of the brakeman smote upon his ears as he shouted:

"Albany!"

This was Harlan's destination, and he sprang to his feet just as the train began to move.

As he hurried on his overcoat he glanced about for his recent companion, but he was gone, and then Stuart discovered that it was not his own but his late companion's coat which he was donning.

But his own coat was gone, and surmising that his new acquaintance must have taken it through a very ordinary mistake, which there was no opportunity to rectify just now, Stuart buttoned up the coat which was left to him by this exchange of garments, and concerning himself no more with the matter he leaped from the train just in time.

Meanwhile, Stuart Harland's recently made acquaintance had not slept at all, though for a time, until he was sure of the former's somnolency, he had feigned to do so.

When he was confident that the oblivion of sleep held Stuart's senses enthralled the young stranger coolly arose and appropriated his coat.

There were but few other persons in the coach, and they were all sound asleep.

Deliberately the young man who had secured it donned Stuart's overcoat, and then removing his hat he threw it out of the wineow. From his pocket he produced a skull-cap, which he drew down over his eyes, and he turned the collar of Stuart's overcoat up about his ears.

The garment was a long ulster, such as was then the prevailing style, and it reached to the stranger's heels, completely concealing his under suit.

The moment the train slowed up at Albany, the stranger leaped upon the platform, and turned to hurry away.

Two police officers were standing on the watch at the depot landing, and they advanced toward the young man as he alighted from the train.

One of the officers flashed the light of his lantern in the face of Stuart Harland's late companion, and as the young man saw the uniform of the policeman, which the light disclosed, he trembled as with a fearful chill, and turned pale, as though with fright.

"He ain't our man, Tom," said one policeman, as he scanned the young stranger's face by the light of his lantern.

"No, he don't tally with the descrip.," assented the other police officer.

The stranger seemed about to sink upon the platform as the police officer seized him, but now, as the two minions of the law turned away, he recovered himself, and strode rapidly from the depot.

The moment he was out of the policemen's sight he broke into a run.

"I thought I was lost. I could have sworn they meant to arrest me," he muttered.

"Well, I have secured a partial disguise, at all events, and if the human wolves I fear mean to play a double game and betray me I yet have a chance to baffle them," he added.

On through the streets of Albany he fled, choosing thoroughfares that were imperfectly illuminated, until he paused at a street corner where the tents of Judah are pitched.

Producing a card on which certain directions were written, he consulted it by the light of a street lamp and muttered:

"This is the street, and yonder is the number. We shall see what our worthy son of Abraham will do for us."

With this monologue he turned down a side street where old clothes merchants and pawnbrokers abounded, where "Isaacs," and "Levis," and "Solomons," and "Goldsmiths," and "Jacobs," and "Rosenthals," and other historic names ornamented the signs.

It was here that during business hours barter and trade were carried on very much as in the marts of ancient Jerusalem, by sharp-eyed men whom nature had gifted with the genius of trade.

Late as was the hour, and although all the stores were closed, the man we are following gained admission to a certain shop where the familiar sign of the pawnbroker, the three balls, hung before the door as a warning to the wayfarer who ventured that way in quest of some good Samaritan to heal his financial wounds, that the chances were as two to one if he entered therein he would come forth shorn.

But the stranger accomplished the purpose for which he had visited the establishment, for in half an hour he emerged from it clad in a manner which created a complete metamorphosis in his appearance.

He had procured an artistically fitting wig and beard, and it was evident that he relied implicitly on the impenetrability of his disguise, for he no longer slunk along the gloomy, retired streets, but walked boldly where the light was brilliant.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

THIS Judge Botkin of Kansas seems to be a picturesque and interesting person, but fate has been unkind to him. He ought to be in Congress.

SWEEPING CHANGES

Made by the Republicans' Bill to Reform the Civil Service Law.

The bill for the reform of the civil service law, which has been drafted by a special committee of republican members of the house of representatives opposed to the system in its present form, makes sweeping changes in the present system, the most important of which is the establishment of a five years' tenure of office for those government employes who are brought within the terms of the bill. The measure limits the application of the civil service system to the departments in Washington and to such other localities where the total number of employes exceed twenty-five. All appointees are commissioned for five years, with the power of removal clearly regulated and vested in the appointing power. It is provided, however, that no removal shall be made for political or religious causes aud in case of removal the causes shall be specified and the papers made a record of the office. All persons now in the public service are to terminate their service five years from the time that the act takes effect.

The measure recognizes the general eligibility of those persons for re-appointment. It includes in the civil service postal clerks and letter carriers in office having over ten employes, exclusive of subordinates. It limits the civil service regulations to clerks whose compensation is from $900 to $1,800 per annum and includes clerks, copyists, computers, and counters.

It is pointed out that the essential idea of the foregoing bill is to take out of the civil service all responsible and important offices, limiting it only to clerks in Washington and certain large cities and in these cases fixing a tenure of office of five years.

Theodore Durrant Hanged.

At San Quentin, Cal., Friday Theodore Durrant was executed in the state penitentiary. He ascended the scaffold calmly, following Father Lagan, who administered to his spiritual wants, he having been baptized into the Catholic faith earlier in the day. He made a brief speech in quiet tones, asserting his innocence and forgiving those who had persecuted him, mentioning especially the press of San Francisco. His last words were: "I am innocent." His death appeared painless. After the drop Durrant did not struggle. In fifteen minutes he was cut down, his neck being broken by the fall.

Well Behaved Norwegians.

The Norwegians of all classes are the best-behaved people in Europe. It is often argued that an aristocracy is necessary to give by example a high tone to society; but Norway is almost the only country in Europe without an aristocracy, or any pretensions to one.

Purely a Local Disease.

Eczema is a local disease and needs local treatment. The irritated, diseased skin must be soothed and smoothed and healed. No use to dose yourself and ruin your stomach just because of an itching eruption. Tetterine is the only simple, safe and certain cure for Tetter, Eczema, Ringworm and other skin troubles. At druggists or by mail for 50 cents in stamps. J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY. }

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. SEAL

A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Oh, What Splendid Coffee.

Mr. Goodman, Williams Co., Ill., writes: "From one package Salzer's German Coffee Berry costing 15c I grew 300 lbs. of better coffee than I can buy in stores at 30 cents a lb." A. C. 9

A package of this coffee and big seed and plant catalogue is sent you by John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., upon receipt of 15 cents stamps and this notice.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

I cannot speak too highly of Piso's Cure for Consumption.—MRS. FRANK MOBBS, 215 W. 22d St., New York, Oct. 29, 1895.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

By the death of Hyman Z. Salomon the other day at Denver, Col., that city lost one of its first settlers. The deceased built the first block of brick business premises in the city.

England is suffering from an epidemic of measles.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.
Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

Ex-President Cleveland and Lyman W. Gage, secretary of the treasury, will make addresses at the opening of the Winona Presbyterian assembly at Warsaw, Ind., next June.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c

Web to the length of two and one-half miles has been drawn from the body of a single spider.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

George Ford, of Louisville, Ky., 77 years old, has been married seven times, and the age of his latest bride is 17 years.

Look out for colds
At this season. Keep
Your blood pure and Rich and your system
Toned up by taking
Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then
You will be able to Resist exposure to which
A debilitated system
Would quickly yield.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

FOR SALE.
160 JACKS AND JENNETS.
Best in Kentucky. Prices to Suit Times.

Been breeding sixteen years, and are in the business to stay. Boy from the best herd in America, at lowest prices.

JOHNSON & BASS,
Russellville, Ky.

We want a hustling agent in every county to sell our latest improved Plows. All kinds direct from the factory to the farmer. Work right around your home. BABY CULTIVATOR COMPANY, Birmingham, Ala.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

School Roof Playgrounds.

Land is so valuable in New York that space cannot be afforded for school yards, and it is proposed to have playgrounds on the roofs, which will be enclosed by a high railing.

Appearance Was Deceptive.

He was a sanctimonious-looking man, clad in a severely cut suit of somber black. He even called for black coffee when he quietly took his seat at the counter in the light lunch cafe near Tenth and Chestnut streets, on Saturday night.

It seemed strange to the other customers of the place that so religious a man as he appeared to be should be drinking black coffee at midnight, says the Philadelphia Record. Black coffee is calculated to keep a man awake all night. Perhaps, thought the others, he has a long sermon to prepare for delivery in the morning. There was another surprise for the patrons of the place when the sober individual placed a cigar box on the counter beside him.

They wouldn't have been surprised if it had been a prayer book or a Bible, but a box of cigars seemed much too worldly. However, the best of Christians smoke sometimes. This Christian quietly drank his cup of black coffee, and after paying for it picked up his cigar box and started for the door. Unfortunately, however, he carried the box with the bottom uppermost, and the next instant an astounding thing happened.

The lid of the box swung open, and about a half-peck of red, white, and blue chips, together with several bunches of aces, kings, queens, ten-spots and the like were distributed all over the floor. The clerical-looking gentleman ejaculated "blankety blank blank" several times while he gathered up his poker outfit. Then he drifted out into the night.

Ran Away Backward.

A singular accident occurred in the Frisco yards, near Joplin, Mo., recently. Engine No. 126, running extra, left town upon the Girard pasenger train's time. The trains met on a curve on the edge of town. Both engineers applied the air brakes and reversed their engines, also giving a full head of steam to mitigate the collision. The engineer, fireman and trainmen of the extra engine jumped for their lives. The engines collided, but with only enough force to crush the cow-catchers. Having a full head of steam and being reversed, the extra engine, with no one aboard, rebounded, and at a terrific speed began backing out of town. It passed through East Joplin going at a rate estimated at a mile a minute. The dispatcher was promptly notified, and all trains in its direction were held to prevent another collision. Searchers found the engine two miles from town on a hill, with the steam and water exhausted, but with no apparent damage from its wild run.

City Cousins and Summer Boarders.

In a sketch on "Peaceful Valley," picturing life in an ideal rural community, Mrs. Lyman Abbott, in the Ladies' Home Journal, presents this realistic picture: " * * * Let us spend a winter in Peaceful Valley as an experiment. The summer visitors will have gone. The 'city cousins,' who find it very convenient to spend a few economical weeks with Cousin John on grandfather's old farm, to ride about in his plain, springless wagon, to enjoy the cream and fresh butter, and Cousin Jane's 'home cooking,' with the great advantage of having saved a good many dollars to be put into added luxury and festivities in town, will have departed. Gone, too, will be the 'city boarders,' who can find more fault in an hour than any other class of people, and who show great powers of endurance by staying on in places and returning to them year after year, where, according to their unvarying testimony, 'the food is poor and the beds are hard, where there is no meat worth eating, where the insects and flying things are pestering, where it is too hot or too cold,' and where, generally, so far as the landlady ever hears, things are about as uncomfortable as they can possibly be."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 16.

Lesson Text: "Beginning of the Ministry of Jesus," Matthew iv., 17-25—Golden Text: Matt. iv., 16—Lesson Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

17. "From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." The expression "from that time" is said to be found in this gospel only here and in chapter xvi., 21, this beginning the section about His nature and person, and that about His work and ours as His followers. The herald being imprisoned (verse 12) Jesus Himself begins to show Himself, and first as a light in Galilee to fulfill the words of Isaiah in chapter ix., 1, 2, and as surely as those were literally fulfilled so shall the words of verse 7 of the same chapter be, and the kingdom that was at hand in the days of John and Jesus, but now postponed because of the rejection of the King, shall yet be established upon the throne of David in the person of Jesus Christ the Son of David, and of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end. The zeal of the Lord of Hosts will perform it. "Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment. And the work of righteousness shall be peace, and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever."

18. "And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, called Peter, and Andrew, his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishers." In John i., 35-42, we read of the first meeting of Jesus with these two, how that one day when John the Baptist cried, "Behold, the Lamb of God!" two of John's disciples followed Jesus and being invited by Him abode with Him that day. One of the two was Andrew (the other probably John, who wrote the gospel), who found his brother Simon and brought him to Jesus, and Jesus called him Cephas, or Peter. It was the day after that on which Jesus found Philip and Philip found Nathanael, who said to Christ, "Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel," and to him Jesus spake of the wondrous significance of Jacob's ladder.

19. "And he saith unto them, Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men." It would seem that after the events just referred to as recorded by John, Andrew and Simon, although having evidently received Christ as the Messiah, returned to their occupation as fishermen. This was in accordance with what Paul afterward taught, "Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called" (I Cor. vii., 20). Our Lord glorified the Father first as a carpenter in Nazareth. When we receive Christ, we must first glorify Him at home and in our ordinary occupation.

20. "And they straightway left their nets and followed Him." The time may come when, if He sees us faithful at home in ordinary things, He may call us out to follow Him more fully. The whole Christian life should be a steadily increasing "following Him," as He more and more fully reveals Himself unto us. We are saved when we receive Him (John i., 12), for salvation is not giving up this or that, but wholly a receiving. We repent, or turn round, forsake idols and welcome Him and have eternal life as a gift (Rom. vi., 23). Then day by day He more and more takes the place of even lawful things, and they lose their hold upon us until Christ is all.

21. "And going on from thence, He saw other two brethren, James, the son of Zebedee, and John, his brother, in a ship with Zebedee, their father, mending their nets, and He called them." As we have said, John was no doubt the other disciple of the Baptist, who followed the Lamb of God that day with Andrew, and as Andrew found his own brother and brought him to Jesus, it is more than probable that John found his own brother and brought him to Jesus. Perhaps the words "He first findeth his own brother" (John i., 41) may indicate that Andrew was just a little ahead of John in this brother finding business. If the so called brotherhood of Philip and Andrew confine themselves to winning souls, they will be blessed of God, but when they step aside to the social and entertainment business they are no longer in the service of God. He came to save.

22. "And they immediately left the ship and their father and followed Him." The following Him of these four at this time was soon followed by even a more whole hearted following as recorded in Luke v., 11, when they forsook all, ships, net, fish and everything and followed Him. This also after the resurrection was made to mean even more to Peter, when he was told to follow Jesus, regardless of even what John might do (John xxi., 22). Thus the life becomes an ever increasing separation from the nearest and dearest unto Him alone, and we sing with a meaning perhaps undreamed of before I'll go with Him, with Him, all the way.

23. "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people." When the kingdom shall have fully come and God shall dwell with men on earth, there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain (Rev. xxi., 4). The inhabitant shall not say, I am sick; the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away (Isa. xxxiii., 24; xxxv., 10). As Jesus preached the kingdom He also manifested something of the nature of it as it had been described in the writings of their prophets.

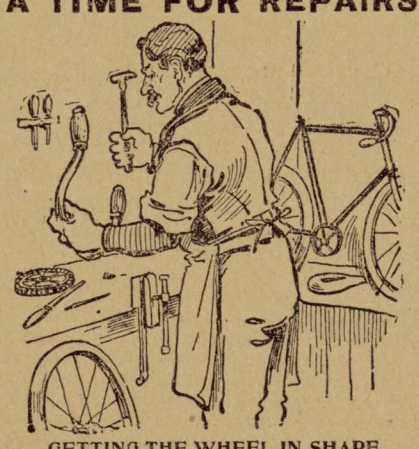
24. "And His fame went throughout all Syria, and they brought unto Him all sick people, * * * and He healed them." So we read in chapter xii., 15, "Great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them all." The manner of the disease mattered not, for He had all power. It had been written by the prophet, "The eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped, then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing" (Isa. xxxv., 5, 6). It had also been written of the Messiah that He should do these things, bind up the brokenhearted, proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to the bound (Isa. lxi., 1).

25. "And there followed Him great multitudes of people from Galilee and Decapolis and Jerusalem and Judæa and beyond Jordan." Many followed Him because He healed them, many more because He fed them. When He said things they did not like, many forsook Him (John vi., 26, 66), and after He had gone back to the Father the number of the disciples assembled in Jerusalem was only about 120 (Acts i., 15). Yet the redeemed who shall share His glory when He shall reign over the saved nations of the earth shall be a multitude that no man can number of all nations and kindreds and the people and tongues (Rev. v., 9; vii., 9, 15; xxi., 24).—Lesson Helper.

Some people save all their sympathy until a man is dead; they they make his grave sloppy with their tears.

While the autumn drought was not attended with such disastrous forest fires as many that have devastated portions of the pine lands of the Northwest in years past, the fires were dangerous enough to call public attention to the growing need of stronger federal measures for the preservation of these forests The resolutions adopted by the national irrigation congress at Lincoln, Neb., indorsed the policy of forest reservation as indicated in the orders of President Harrison and President Cleveland, may be taken as a very reliable reflection of public opinion on this question. It is true that no edict of the government could stay the devouring element that lays waste such large areas of our pine lands during the dry spells every fall, but it is conceded that these fires might be prevented by an extensive system of forest police or wardens, similar to that employed in many countries. The fires could also be checked by fixing very severe penalties for the punishment of those who are guilty of criminal carelessness and recklessness in attempting to clear lands in this manner, thereby endangering millions of dollars' worth of property. No punishment could be too severe for men who will deliberately place in jeopardy hundreds of lives and vast areas of valuable pine timber. The rapid disappearance of American forests is a matter of serious concern. The corporate and individual timber thieves, together with those who wantonly and recklessly abuse the cutting permits granted by the government, are making heavy inroads upon our forest wealth. With this class of offenders the government can and should deal vigorously. The government should not only take measures for the prompt punishment of those who waste the timber and abuse the permits to cut from the public domain, but should devise a system of patrol that will prevent the destruction of our forests by conflagration.

A TIME FOR REPAIRS



GETTING THE WHEEL IN SHAPE.

An ordinary workman might make the repairs on an ordinary wheel, but if you want your splendid mount repaired and adjusted for the best service for the coming season, it must be done by a high grade workman. The best bicycles in the market for the price.

"Birmingham." $40.

(Mail Orders Promptly Attended to.)

Parts or repairs from out of town returned on first train.

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

THE LOOSLEY CYCLE CO.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corn

responds readily to proper fertilization.

Larger crops, fuller ears and larger grain are sure to result from a liberal use of fertilizers containing at least 7% actual

Potash

Our books are free to farmers.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

A Sweep 'em Out Sale

Inaugurated to close all surplus stocks, by the people's money-savers,

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave.
Birmingham, Ala.

Bad Digestion, Bad Heart.

Poor digestion often causes irregularity of the heart's action. This irregularity may be mistaken for real, organic heart disease. The symptoms are much the same. There is, however, a vast difference between the two; organic heart disease is often incurable; apparent heart disease is curable if good digestion be restored.

A case in point is quoted from the New Era, of Greensburg, Ind. Mrs. Ellen Colsom, Newpoint, Ind., a woman forty-three years old, had suffered for four years with distressing stomach trouble. The gases generated by the indigestion pressed on the heart and caused an irregularity of its action. She had much pain in her stomach and heart, and was subject to frequent and severe choking spells, which were most severe at night. Doctors were tried in vain; the patient became worse, despondent, and feared impending death.

A CASE OF HEART FAILURE.

She was much frightened, but noticed that in intervals in which her stomach did not annoy her, her heart's action became normal. Reasoning correctly that her digestion was alone at fault, she procured the proper medicine to treat that trouble, and with immediate good results. Her appetite came back, the choking spells became less frequent and finally ceased. Her weight, which had been greatly reduced, was restored, and she now weighs more than for years. Her blood soon became pure and her cheeks rosy.

The case is of general interest because the disease is a very common one. That others may know the means of cure we give the name of the medicine used—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves.

ALABAMA SPEAKS OUT.

Mrs. J. M. Livingston

Kyleton, Ala., writes; For Palpitation of Heart and Sick Headache Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is worth its weight in gold. The imitations are not so good.

Wifehood.

It is of vital importance to every woman who contemplates wifehood that her mental state and physical condition should be at their best, since the desire and happiness of mankind are consummated in marriage and procreation. If she is feeble, it is impossible that her children should be strong. Every woman should know that female weakness can be cured; that Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine will prove most beneficial during wifehood; that it will impart physical, mental and local strength, nourish the nerves, blood, brain, and vitalize the feminine organism and insures a safe and comparatively painless delivery.

J. T. McCarley

Oak Lane, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 12 years. It cured a case of Sick Headache of 30 years standing. "Black Draught" is sometimes imposed on people as a Substitute when they cannot get the genuine Dr. M. A. S. L. M. which I think is far Superior.

Puffiness and Dark Rings Under Eyes.

The symptoms of liver disease may differ according to the circumstances, temperament, age, or constitutional weakness of the individual. Not unfrequently the complexion becomes pale and sallow and there is a puffiness and dark rings under the eyes. The functional powers of the stomach are impaired and there is loss or irregularity of appetite. These and all other disorders of the liver may be cured by that old reliable remedy, Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. The fact that imitators undertake to sail under our colors and sell on the million dollar reputation of our Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is a compliment to our goods, but an acknowledgment of the inability of their article to stand on its own merits, and shows an attempt to unfairly appropriate the business of another, which is unworthy of gentlemen, and the public should look out for the imitations and refuse to have anything to do with them.

FOR 14 CENTS

We wish to gain 150,000 new customers, and hence offer

1 Pkg.	13 Day Radish,	10c
1 Pkg.	Early Spring Turnip,	10c
1 "	Earliest Red Beet,	10c
1 "	Bismarck Cucumber,	10c
1 "	Queen Victoria Lettuce,	15c
1 "	Klondyke Melon.	15c
1 "	Jumbo Giant Onion,	15c
8 "	Brilliant Flower Seeds,	15c

Worth $1.00, for 14 cents.

Above 10 pkgs. worth $1.00, we will mail you free, together with our great Plant and Seed Catalogue upon receipt of this notice and 14c. postage. We invite your trade and know when you once try Salzer's seeds you will never get along without them. Potatoes at $1.50 a Bbl. Catalog alone 5c. No. AC 9

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

CLEARING LAND WITH A CLIMAX GRUB AND STUMP PULLER

C. D. EDWARDS,
Send for Catalog. Albert Lea, Minn.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, CO-caine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

SEEDS Garden & Flower with a world-wide reputation. Catalog free to all.
JAMES J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

Ayer's

Is your hair dry, harsh, and brittle? Is it fading or turning gray? Is it falling out? Does dandruff trouble you? For any or all of these conditions there is an infallible remedy in Ayer's

Hair Vigor.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant

Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

P. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College

AND

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.

SPLENDID BUILDING.

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.

FIVE INSTRUCTORS.

VERY REASONABLE TERMS.

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE FOR.....

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS,

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original series.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

in these missing word contests. It sets aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received from subscribers guessing at the missing word, and this fund is given to the successful guesser or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed with absolute fairness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has MORE THAN 150,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent from all guessers' subscriptions for this distribution fund shows that the amount to be divided at each interval is large enough to be worth striving for. It is not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but the plan is open and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post Office Department as a meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken is deposited in a safety vault, under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a competent committee, which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,000; and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess, and even though not successful, the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE, SEVEN-COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America; its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.

AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.

ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.

ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENT, Its Woman's Department and Its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize—everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,

Montevallo, Alabama.

LANIER BROOM MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices,

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Kroell can supply anything.

E. S. LYMAN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,

The First-Class Barber,

Montevallo, - - Ala.

Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

Go to Kroell's for it

THE BRICK HOTEL,

ST GEORGE,

ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,

Montevallo, - - - Ala.

New and Centrally Located.

☞ Special attention given the commercial man.

Rates $2 00 per day.

Large sample room free

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

STATE OF ALABAMA, Shelby County.

Probate Court, Regular Term, December 13th, 1897.

Estate of Sarah E. Wells, deceased.

The estate of said deceased having this day been declared insolvent by said Court, it is ordered that the 17th day of January, 1898, be appointed a day for H. R. Wells, administrator of said estate, to appear and make settlement of his accounts, preparatory to turning over the property of said decedent, which now remains unadministered, to whomsoever shall succeed to the further administration thereof; at which time all persons in interest can appear and contest the correctness of said accounts and the allowance thereof, if they think proper.

D. R. McMILLAN,
Judge of Probate.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twenty-five cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

If you want anything, Kroell has it.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,

DENTIST,

BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

To Cure Constipation Forever.

Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, '97. NO. 3

A TERRIBLE CHARGE.

"Prisoner at the bar, have you anything to say why sentence of death shall not be passed upon you?"

A solemn hush fell over the crowded court-room, and every person waited in almost breathless expectation for an answer to the judge's question.

The judge still waited in dignified silence.

Not a whisper was heard anywhere, and the situation had become painfully oppressive, when the prisoner was seen to move; his head was raised, his hands were clinched and the blood had rushed into his pale, care-worn face. His teeth were firmly set and into his eyes came a flash of light.

Suddenly he rose to his feet, and in a low, firm voice said:

"I have. Your honor, you have asked me a question, and I now ask it as the last favor on earth that you will not interrupt my answer until I am through.

"I stand here before this bar, convicted of the willful murder of my wife. Truthful witnesses have testified to the fact that I was a loafer, a drunkard and a wretch; that I returned from one of my prolonged debauches and fired the fatal shot that killed the wife I had sworn to love, cherish and protect. While I have no remembrance of committing the fearful, cowardly, inhuman deed, I have no right to complain of or condemn the verdict of the twelve good men who have acted as a jury in this case, for their verdict is in accordance with the evidence.

"But, may it please the court, I wish to show that I am not alone responsible for the murder of my wife."

This startling statement created a tremendous sensation. The judge leaned over the desk. The lawyers wheeled around and faced the prisoner, the jurors looked at each other in amazement, while the spectators could hardly suppress their intense excitement. The prisoner paused a few seconds and then continued in the same firm, distinct voice:

"I repeat, your honor, that I am not the only one guilty of the murder of my wife. The judge on this bench, the jury in the box, the lawyers in this bar, and most of the witnesses are also guilty before Almighty God, and will have to appear before His throne, where we shall all be righteously judged.

"If twenty men conspire together for the murder of one person, the law power of this land will arrest the twenty, and each will be tried, convicted and executed for a whole murder and not for one-twentieth of the crime.

"I have been made a drunkard by law. If it had not been for legalized saloons in my town I would never have become a drunkard; I would not be here now ready to be hurled into eternity. Had it not been for the human traps set out with the consent of the government I would have been a sober man, an industrious workman, a tender father, and a loving husband. But today my home is destroyed, my wife murdered, my little children—God bless them—cast out upon the mercy of the cold world, while I am to be murdered by the strong arm of the State in which I live.

"God knows I tried to reform, but as long as the open saloon was in my open pathway, my weak, diseased will power was no match against the fearful consuming, agonizing appetite for liquor. At last I saught the protection, care and sympathy of the church of Jesus Christ.

"For one year our town was without a saloon. For one year I was a sober man. For one year my wife and children were supremely happy and our home a perfect paradise.

"I was one of those who signed remonstrances against re-opening the saloons in our town. The names of half this jury can be found today on that petition certifying to the good moral character of these rum-sellers and falsely saying that the sale of liquor was necessary in our town. The prosecuting attorney in this case is the one who so eloquently pleaded with the court for the license, and the judge who sits on this bench, and who asks me if I have anything to say before the sentence of death is passed upon me, granted the license."

The impassioned words of the prisoner fell like coals of fire upon the hearts of those present, and many of the spectators and some lawyers were moved to tears.

The judge made a motion as if to stop any further speech on the part of the prisoner, when the speaker said:

"No, no! Your honor, do not close my lips. They are the last words I shall utter on earth.

"I began my downward career at a saloon bar—legalized and protected by the commonwealth, which has received annually a part of the blood money from the poor, deluded victims. After the State had made me a drunkard and a murderer, I am taken before another bar—the bar of justice—by the same power of law that legalized the first bar, and now the law power will conduct me to the place of execution and hasten my soul into eternity. I shall appear before another bar—the judgment bar of God—and there you, who have legalized the traffic, will have to appear with me. Think you that the Great Judge will hold me—the poor, weak victim of your traffic—alone responsible for the murder of my wife? Nay, I, in my drunken, frenzied, irresponsible condition have murdered one, but you have willfully and deliberately murdered your thousands, and the murder mills are to-day in operation with your consent.

"All of you know in your hearts that these words of mine are not the ravings of an unsound mind, but God Almighty's truth. The liquor of this nation is responsible for nearly all the bloodshed, murders, riots, poverty, misery, wretchedness and woe. It breaks up thousands of happy homes every year, sends the husbands and fathers to the prison and the gallows, and drives countless mothers and children out in the world to suffer and die. It furnishes nearly all of the criminal business of this and every other court and blasts every community it touches.

"This infernal traffic is legalized and protected by parties, which you sustain by your ballots. And yet some of you have the audacity to say that you are in favor of prohibiting the traffic, while your votes go in the ballot box with those of the rumsellers and worst elements of the land in favor of continuing the business! Every year you are given the opportunity of voting against this soul and body destroying business, and wash your hands of all responsibility for the fearful results of the liquor traffic; but instead, you inform the government by your votes that you are perfectly satisfied with the present condition of things, and that they shall continue.

"You legalize the saloon that made me a drunkard and a murderer, and you are guilty with me before God and man for the murder of my wife.

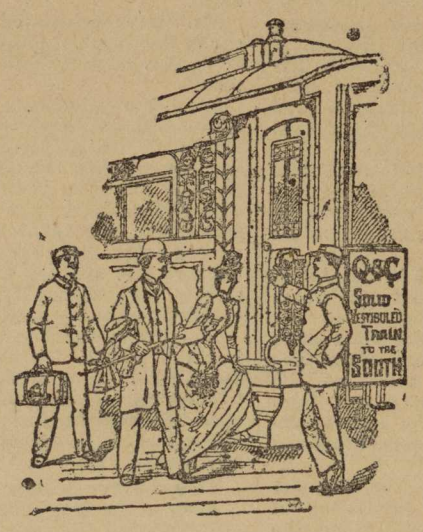
"Your honor, I am done. I am now ready to receive my sentence and be lead forth to the place of execution and executed according to the laws of this State. You will close by asking the Lord to have mercy on my soul. I will close by solemnly asking God to open your blind eyes to the truth, to your own individual responsibility, so that you will cease to give your support to this hell-born traffic."

—Beebe Times

What is the Use

GOING TO

Selma or Birmingham



TO BUY GOODS WHEN YOU CAN GET EXACTLY THE SAME GOODS AT THE SAME OR LESS COST AT

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS.

Montevallo, - - Ala.

¡¡¡¡¡¡¡ With fast-falling tears the News to-day announces the contemplated departure of "Uncle" John Pynor, the champion shoemaker of forty continents, who has so successfully repaired the footwear and emptied the pocket-books of multitudes. He will leave for home Saturday, taking a vacation of two or three days, or longer if necessary to go broke.

COMPLIMENTARY, INDEED.

BRIERFIELD, Ala., Jan. 18, '97.

Editor Montevallo News.

Dear Sir:—I seize the earliest opportunity to acknowledge the reception of a copy of the Montevallo News. We humble citizens of Brierfield are exceedingly gratified to know that we have such a neat, live and newsy weekly journal published so near our doors, and we certainly congratulate our neighbor town Montevallo in being blessed with such an enterprising and progressive newspaper as I find the Montevallo News to be. There is no institution that is more conducive to the development, prosperity and general welfare of a young city than a bold, fearless and independent newspaper. A live press is always a power in any land.

We also avail ourselves of this opportunity to congratulate our neighbor Montevallo in her rapid development, in her many new enterprises, such as banks, saw-mills, brickyards, bakeries, cotton ginneries, and shops in general. We are also delighted to learn of many improvements in the way of new buildings, completed and contemplated erection at an early day in Montevallo. Those completed are ornaments to the city and an honor to her citizens, and from present indications Montevallo bids fair to become the most attractive city of Central Alabama. The people of Brierfield and vicinity rejoice in her coming prosperity.

Brierfield is at present resting under a cloud. Adversity is now frowning on her; but we are not without hope and indulge in the prospect of a brighter day. We already have what we believe to be a permanent institution, a fine male and female school of about one hundred students. It is under the management of a most learned and skillful teacher, Prof. Collier, assisted by his most accomplished wife and also Prof. Gibbons. The faculty is giving the utmost satisfaction to pupils and patrons and the school is flourishing, We believe we can boast of as fine a school as any little village in the State.

Our depot, express and telegraph offices are presided over by Mr. Yearwood, a very skillful and accomodating railroad official. Our postoffice is presided over by Miss Adelaide Mahan, one of the most popular and efficient postoffice officials Brierfield ever had.

Peace and quietude prevails in and around our town, except a little stir occasioned during the past week by theives raiding chicken houses and cattle pens. So far they have escaped arrest.

The citizens of Brierfield feel very much complimented by the visit paid us last week by Rev. L. P. Abernathy. We are always glad to see our friends.

I will now give you a rest and take one myself. If this humble scribble don't find its way to the waste basket and gets a place in your columns I will come to see you again in next issue.

With a warm wish for the success of the News, I remain most respectfully,

Yours truly,
W. W. MCCOLLUM.

What Was It?

About 11 o'clock Saturday night a light as large as a fashionable lady's hat was noticed moving southward at the rate of sixty miles an hour. At first it appeared to be about one mile from the earth and was traveling directly against the wind, vering from right to left, upward or downward, controled seemingly by some human agency. A number of men were watching it and a heated discussion arose as to whether it was a balloon or an airship, resulting in victory for the latter theory, and resolutions were passed declaring it a real full-grown airship. One of the party declared he could detect the form of a man in the ship, another said he could trace a complete outline of the most wonderful piece of mechanism, and another vowed there was a "woman in it." Being the last day of the week and the hour when spooks are supposed to walk, doubtless there are many who will be skeptical enough to pronounce the whole thing a "delusion and a snare," and with all such the NEWS reporter in a large measure agree, save perhaps that the light which created such an excitement was a toy balloon sent up by some experienced hand, the success of which far exceeded his most sanguine expectation.

For the past week visitors to the Bachelors' Home have had the satisfaction of witnessing something unusal and which has caused a great deal of comment of a complimentary nature. Miss Imogene Vandegrift had contracted to paint the fence that encloses her parents' beautiful home, and the skillful manner in which it was done is calculated to make a professional brush manipulator look to his laurels with fear and trembling. But a little while, some one has predicted, and the young men will have to wrestle with the broom and cook pots while the young ladies are looking after their interests in other and more lucrative business such as are now engaged in by men only.

The NEWS has recently turned out some very neat job work for the business houses of Montevallo and elsewhere. We do not blow much about our work but let the work blow for itself.

CHAPTER VII—(Continued.)

He returned to the depot whence he had come, and the very next train carried him back to New York city.

He thought of the exchange of overcoats which he had made with his traveling acquaintance, and muttered:

"By Jupiter! I left the keys and the wax impressions in my coat pocket. I hope they will not be the means of getting the young fellow with whom I exchanged coats into trouble."

When Stuart Harland alighted from the railway train the officers who were on the watch when the stranger whom we have followed, leaped upon the platform, were still at their post.

Harland had not taken five steps, when a heavy hand fell upon his shoulder, and as the light of the policeman's lantern was reflected full in his face, the officer said, in a stern voice, as he grasped the young man's arm:

"You are my prisoner! I arrest you on the charge of being a fugitive from justice!"

These two police officers were watching for Stuart Harland, for to them Police Sergeant Smith had wired the young man's description, and when they stopped the man who had taken Harland's overcoat, they were on the alert for the latter.

Sutart Harland's surprise was unbounded, and he was indignant, as well.

"What is the meaning of this outrage? there is certainly some mistake!" he exclaimed.

In a few words the police officers acquainted him with the fact of John Oakburn's murder, of which Sergeant Smith's dispatch had informed them.

One of the officers added:

"My instructions are simply to arrest you and return you to New York City at once."

"I suppose I must submit, but if you will only permit me to visit the house of a friend for a few moments, I shall be under obligations to you," said Stuart.

"Impossible; the return train will leave in ten minutes," replied the officer.

Stuart groaned.

"I have had my journey for naught," he muttered.

Then he thought of Marion Oakburn and the singular circumstance that she was in the broker's office at midnight. He recalled her frightened manner, and his mind was troubled.

The reflection as to how the public might construe his sudden night departure made him nervous and apprehensive.

He was not skilled in the art of hiding his emotions, and they betrayed what was passing in his mind.

The officers who accompanied him watched him closely, and they said between themselves:

"This business troubles him. He looks as though he were guilty."

Stuart never thought of examining the stranger's overcoat, which had came into his possession as we have seen.

His surprise and consternation were, therefore, quite genuine when the skeleton keys and wax impressions were taken from his pocket when he was brought before the coroner.

In a few words after this discovery, while the Coroner motioned to the man who had last entered the broker's office to be silent, Stuart explained how the exchange of overcoats came about, as we have related it.

But Stewart's story was greeted with a murmur of incredulity, and it was clear that it was not generally credited.

Harland observed this, and he turned to the young clerk who had been one of his co-laborers in the broker's office, and said:

"I am sure no one of you would wish to impugn my veracity, and I ask you to say if you recognize this coat as mine. If you do not see that it was never made for me—that it is at least three sizes too large."

The broker's clerks replied affirmatively, and expressed their conviction that Stuart's word was not to be doubted. This was certainly a confirmation of Harland's statement.

The Coroner now addressed the man who had last entered.

That individual was Mr. Pratt, of the firm of Pratt & Weeks, who had ruined Jason Garrison.

Pratt was a portly, gross-looking man, with a black goatee, which owed its color to dye, as did also his scanty hair. He was bald, but this evidence of age was partially concealed by a skillful arrangement of the remnants of his colored locks. His features were heavy and sensual, but he had a smooth, insinuating manner, and always dressed in the height of fashion. But he wore too much jewelry, and his garments were inclined to be loud.

"You wish to offer some evidence, sir?" said the coroner.

"Yes, sir; as I informed the officer at the door, who thereupon immediately proclaimed the fact, much to my surprise."

Pratt was sworn and he said:

"Having received the information at my office that young Harland was under arrest, charged with the murder of John Oakburn, I deemed it my duty to appear here to give certain testimony, which it seems to me will establish the fact, that he was actuated by a powerful motive when he committed the crime. The murder, no doubt, was but an unforeseen incident of the robbery of the safe."

He paused, and at this juncture the stately old gentleman who had left the office after hearing the banker's communication about the marked money, re-entered, but he was unobserved, for Pratt was now the central figure of the assemblage.

"The fact is, gentlemen, Stuart Harland has been indulging in speculations far beyond his means, and, as he deceived us regarding his financial status, he has become our debtor to the sum of ten thousand dollars. We were led to suppose he could control that amount of the fortune which it is nuderstood he will inherit. We hold Mr. Harland's note for the amount of his indebtedness, which is now several days overdue. Here is the note, sir," continued Pratt, as he placed the paper in the coroner's hands.

"The day preceding the murder, that is, the day before yesterday, we sent him a note, informing him that unless he settled with us, we would apply to his wealthy aunt, whose heir he is said to be. He replied that if we did so he was ruined; that his aunt was particularly opposed to stock speculating, and that she had often warned him against it, saying that her money should never be risked in that way. In fact, Harland stated that he feared his aunt would disinherit him if she found him out.

"It was my wish to give the young man time, for I pitied him, but my partner is a hard man and he was inexorable. Mr. Harland had mortally offended him in some way, and he vowed he would have his money or he would make the exposure Harland dreaded.

"Harland declared that he had no way to pay the money, but he obtained my partner's promise not to move in the matter until to-day. Now, it seems to me almost certain that his motive for the murder and the robbery was to obtain the money to pay us, and thus save himself from the loss of his aunt's fortune, which might have resulted from an exposure."

Thus Pratt concluded.

Harland had listened in silence, but his eyes flashed, and his rage was betrayed in his face.

"You are a liar and a scoundrel, Dan Pratt!" he exclaimed. "You are conspiring to ruin me. You hold my note for a thousand dollars. If it purports to be for more, it has been tampered with. Moreover, the note I can meet to that amount, as I have the money on deposit in bank and meant to send you a cheque to-day."

"Poor young man. He is plunging into the depths of falsehood and deception," said Pratt, in a mournful tone.

"We have found out his motive. The case is clear now," muttered the police sergeant.

CHAPTER VIII.

The faces of the audience, who had listened to Pratt's evidence, betrayed the impression he had made.

Stuart was regarded in such a manner that he was sure Pratt was believed by the majority.

True, none of the stolen money had been found in Stuart Harland's possession, but this could not be regarded as an evidence of his innocence, since he had ample time to secrete the proceeds of the robbery.

Thus reflected the jurors.

There was little further evidence to hear, and presently the Coroner submitted the matter to the jury, who thereupon rendered a verdict without leaving their seats, that "John Oakburn came to his death at the hands of some person, whose positive identity was unknown, but that the evidence was such as to fasten a strong suspicion upon Stuart Harland."

Thereupon, the Coroner directed that Stuart be held a prisoner to await further developments.

Stuart retained his composure admirably, as he listened to the verdict of the coroner's jury, and heard the order which condemned him to detention in prison.

The officers were about to conduct the unfortunate young man from the office, when Jason Garrison came forward and grasped his hand in a warm greeting.

"You will tell Edna that I am falsely accused," said Stuart.

"Yes, yes. She will never doubt you," answered the broker.

Harland was moving to the door, between the two officers, when Marion Oakburn gained his side, and said to him in a tone of the most positive conviction:

"Take with you the assurance that you will be saved."

Stuart was conducted to Ludlow street jail forthwith, and his mind was in a condition of doubt and trouble most harassing. So many circumstances of a surprising nature had crowded themselves into his life within the last few hours, that he was dazed and confused.

In the midst of the confusion in his mind, he saw constantly, however, like a portrait which had been stamped indelibly upon the camera of memory, the horror-stricken face of Marion Oakburn as he had seen her when she left the office in which her father had been murdered. Her face haunted him like a ghost that would not be laid, and as he reflected he thought:

"When she came out of the office her father must have been dead. Before I saw her steal out of that apartment the murder had been done.

"Where was she when the awful crime was consummated?"

There was a horrible doubt in Stuart Harland's mind then.

"But, no, no; such a thing is so entirely inconsistent with Marion's character that the monstrous thought that she may be implicated in the murder of her own father cannot find a lodgment in my mind. And yet what was she doing in the office at that hour, and why was she in such a state of terror when she left it?"

These unanswerable questions naturally suggested themselves to Stuart's mind.

Then he recollected how he had been awakened by the loud noise, which he could not account for, and he thought now that it must have been the detonation of the pistol shot that had killed John Oakburn that he had heard.

He did not know that Paxton advanced the theory that the assassin's weapon was an air-pistol. But he had caught enough of the police sergeant's mutterings to learn that the time of the murder had been fixed at twenty minutes of one, and so he knew that John Oakburn must have been dead when Marion left the office.

Despite all his suspicions and conjectures, Harland had not mentioned the incident of his having seen Marion leaving the office, for he had always entertained the most exalted opinions of her character, and he had reasoned:

"There is mystery inexplicable in Marion Oakburn's conduct, but I cannot believe her guilty. There is some explanation which will yet be made that will clear up all this dark affair, and I shall not regret my silence."

The ignoble thought that he might direct suspicion from himself by revealing his knowledge of Marion's secret visit to the office never entered his mind.

"Who can be the guilty one?" Stuart asked himself, and although there was no clue to guide his suspicions, by some mental process which he could scarcely have explained himself, his thoughts reverted to Levi Kredge, the janitor.

Perhaps the vague suspicions of this man, which entered his mind unbidden, were prompted by an opinion which he had recently formed that Levi Kredge was a spy and a sneak.

Stuart had twice caught the fellow with his ear at the key-hole of Jason Garrison's private office when confidential transactions were taking place there.

The second time Stuart's anger gained the ascendency, and he kicked Kredge out of the office.

The young man had not forgotten that Kredge had flashed upon him a look of ferocious hate as he slunk away without resenting the assault.

The fellow had not uttered a word, but Stuart had read murder in the fierce burning light of his eyes, and from that moment he knew that the seemingly inoffensive and servile cripple was a dangerous man.

The thought now occurred to Stuart that it might have been the fellow's purpose in listening at key-holes and in spying about the office to obtain knowledge which would enable him to commit a robbery when there was money in the safe.

So deeply impressed did Stuart become with the idea that Kredge was concerned in the murder that he determined to mention the matter to Mr. Garrison, to whom he had never mentioned Kredge's eavesdropping, simply because he despised anything like tale-bearing.

As for himself, Stuart was sustained by the consciousness of innocence.

Meanwhile, when Daniel Pratt was making his statement before the coroner's jury, the elegant old gentleman who had entered the office just behind him seemed strangely excited. His hands were clinched, his lips compressed themselves into a rigid line, and his beautiful, luminous dark eyes blazed with a dangerous light.

Despite this evidence of his more than passing interest in the proceedings before the coroner's jury, he was, as we have stated, an entire stranger to all present.

Did he hold some secret knowledge of the actors in this life-drama which caused his emotion?

When he hastily left the office after he overheard the banker inform the coroner regarding the mark on the money which had been stolen from Jason Garrison's safe, he hurried directly to the office of Messrs. Pratt and Weeks.

The office of this firm of brokers was arranged something after the manner of a bank, and at the moment when the stately old gentleman entered it Mr. Weeks, Pratt's partner, was behind the screen-mounted counter engaged in counting a package of money.

Producing a one-hundred-dollar note from his pocketbook, the old gentleman whom we have followed strode forward, and presenting the note at a little wicket in the screen, he asked:

"Will you please accommodate me with change?"

"In one moment, sir," replied Weeks, and he continued counting the money, while the old gentleman remained standing beside the open-work screen.

From this position he obtained an excellent view of the money with which Weeks was engaged, and he made a discovery.

He plainly saw that each note in the package of money which Weeks was counting was marked distinctly with a "V" in the upper left-hand corner of the back of the same.

It seems that the stranger must have acted upon previously acquired knowledge when he hurried straight to the office of Pratt & Weeks, the moment he acquired the knowledge that the stolen money was all privately marked.

"It is the money John Oakburn's murderer stole from Jason Garrison's safe," said the aged stranger mentally, and he thought:

"Now, if he only gives me the marked money in change, I shall have the evidence that the stolen money has found its way into the possession of these vultures. Are these birds of prey the assassin's accomplices?"

In a moment or so Weeks had counted the marked money, and then he picked up the one hundred dollar note which the stranger had placed upon the counter.

"How will you have it?" he asked.

"In two fifties, please," replied the other, who had seen notes of that denomination in the package of marked money.

The stranger repressed the excitement he felt at this moment of suspense, as Weeks turned to the package of marked money. That he meant to give him two notes from that package in exchange for the one hundred dollar note was plain, for he began to run over the notes in search of the denominations required.

In a moment he found them.

With the two marked fifty dollar notes in his hand, he was coming to the wicket to hand them to the stranger, when the door of the private department of the office, which was behind the counter, was dashed open and Pratt rushed in.

Springing to his partner's side, he seized his arm, and hissed in a whisper some communication which he did not hear.

Weeks uttered an oath and dropped the two marked fifty dollar notes back among the balance of the marked money. Then he unlocked the money drawer, and, taking out two other unmarked notes, he spitefully threw them at the aged stranger.

The latter secured them and turned to the door.

Glancing back over his shoulder, he saw Pratt and Weeks hastily gathering up the marked money.

"Pratt was just in time to foil my plan to obtain some of the marked money. They know the secret now. That scoundrel Kredge must have brought them the information," muttered the stranger.

There was a telegraphic "stock indicator" near the door, and the aged gentleman paused to consult the "tape."

He read "C. A. 400; 225 s, 60."

"Ah! Four hundred shares of the Chicago and Alton Railroad stock at two hundred and twenty-five dollars to be delivered at the seller's option, at any time within sixty days," muttered the old gentleman; and the readiness with which he translated the legend on the "indicator take" told that he was no novice in the stock market.

Leaving the establishment of Messrs. Pratt & Weeks, he returned to the office, where the inquest was still in progress.

As he passed along the side of the building occupied by the firm of Pratt & Weeks he saw Levi Kredge emerge from the private entrance to the office.

He therefore possessed the positive certitude that the janitor had brought the scheming brokers the news that the stolen money was marked.

"This affair is growing more and more mysterious. Kredge must have known that the stolen money was in the possession of Pratt and Weeks. He is their spy, that is clear," he thought.

When he arrived at Garrison's office, again, he did not immediately enter the building, and while he stood before it, he saw Pratt approach and gain entrance to the office. He then entered himself, as stated.

At the conclusion of the inquest, the mysterious old gentleman, who was secretly interesting himself in the case of John Oakburn's murder, walked to Broadway and took the omnibus to the Astor House, for at this date Jacob Astor had not made his successful innovation, and there were no horse cars on the great business thoroughfare of the great city.

Some weeks previous to the occurrence of the incidents thus far recorded, the old gentleman had arrived at the hotel, and registered the name, "Richard Stanmore."

Mr. Stanmore seemed to be a stranger in the city, but to have a great deal of business with Wall street business men.

Particularly intimate were his commercial relations with the firm of Messrs. Marks & Buck, accommodation loan brokers, who had established themselves on Wall street a year previous. Also with Judson, Kirk & Son, another Wall street firm largely interested in various mining and railway speculations.

There was another firm, not on Wall street, with whom Mr. Stanmore was evidently on the best of business terms.

The firm in question was that of Benjamin & Co., a Jewish money-lending house which negotiated large loans, and to them in secret many a Wall street operator had been glad to come for financial aid when the market took a long run "the wrong way."

Almost every evening a representative of each of the firms mentioned was closeted with Mr. Stanmore in his apartments in the hotel.

Surprising as it may seem, however, in view of the fact we have mentioned, Mr. Stanmore was entirely unknown personally on Wall street, and he never visited the offices of the business firms we have mentioned.

All of this smacked of mystery, and there was much more in the doings of Mr. Stanmore that seemed to be inexplicable.

Very much to Mr. Garrison's surprise, the day following the night of the murder and robbery drew to a close, and no one from Pratt & Weeks called upon him to demand the money he owed them.

In view of the fact that Mr. Pratt had insisted that the $78,000 must positively be paid that morning at an early hour, if the debtor wished to avoid unpleasant consequences, Mr. Garrison thought it was remarkable that he had not heard from him.

Pratt had hurried away from the broker's office without exchanging a word with Mr. Garrison.

Edna had been informed by her father of Stuart's imprisonment, and the devoted girl received the evil news bravely, for she was sustained by the belief that innocence would triumph.

Jason Garrison was in a state of intense nervous excitement and alarm. He shut himself up in his library, and at every unusual sound he started apprehensively, as though he was in momentary expectation of the occurrence of some terrible calamity.

At nightfall, as he was looking over the evening paper, he suddenly leaped to his feet, and exclaimed, excitedly:

"Can this be true! Can this be true!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

THE mayor of Boston has advised the council to enact an ordinance forfeiting the license of any theater which permits lottery advertisements to appear upon its program. The next step should be to expel from the council any alderman who buys a lottery ticket.

TERSELY TOLD TELEG...

Fire destroyed $65,000 property at Wharton, Tex.

The inauguration of Governor Sh... of Iowa, took place last Thursday.

The deaths from the plague at Bombay, India, during the past week numbered 450.

A new hand cancellation stamp will soon be introduced by the postoffice department.

Judge William D. Hardin, a prominent Georgian living at Savannah, died the past week.

In Mexico City four Americans have been arrested, being suspected of complicity in robberies of great magnitude.

N. L. Marmon, a prominent attorney of Memphis, Tenn., and a former resident of Oxford, Miss., was found dead in his bed last week.

China asserts that Port Arthur was ceded to Russia because there were war clouds and all the Powers seemed anxious for parts of China.

At Huntsville, Tenn., Friday morning Henry Bunn and W. D. Russell were caught in a fall of slate at the Almy Point mines. Bunn was killed outright and Russell, it is thought, will die.

At Lewiston, Me., 500 weavers of the Androscoggin mills unanimously voted to strike on Monday, January 17, the date on which the reduction takes place.

William Tyler, cousin of President John Tyler, died at Jonesboro, Tenn., aged eighty-five. He lived in a house occupied by General John Sevier in the early days of Tennessee.

Senora Ponce de Roque, wife of the insurgent Compte de Roque, arrived on the steamer Seneca at New York Thursday. Mrs. De Roque, who is a strikingly beautiful woman, was exiled from Cuba by order of General Blanco.

At Cartersville, Ga., Hampton Miller, aged 21, while loading a large log on a carriage at his father's saw mill, lost his footing and fell over on a saw and was sawed nearly in two. He is not expected to live.

At Frankfort, Ky., Representative Saunders, democrat, of Union county, introduced a resolution in the Kentucky house of representatives questioning the democracy of United States Senator Lindsay and asking him to resign.

Will Smith, son of W. M. Smith, a well-known farmer of Chickamauga, Tenn., while hunting, fired both barrels of his gun, which had been overcharged. The recoil struck him in the stomach, from the effects of which he died shortly after.

An unknown man threw himself, or accidentally fell, from a parapet of the bridge over Harlem river, New York, a distance of 147 feet into the river below, and will live. The distance is twelve feet more than that traveled by the Brooklyn bridge jumpers.

What was claimed to be the biggest hog in the world died at Columbus, Ga. It was the property of Frank Williams, of Phenix City, and weighed over a thousand pounds. The animal was over four feet high, was seven feet and nine inches in girth, and was about ten feet long.

Two More Victims.

Two names were added Friday to the death list of victims of Tuesday night's tornado at Fort Smith, Ark. They were Ann Savage and H. C. Hunter. This makes the total number of dead forty-five. It is believed that at least two more bodies are under the ruins of the Burgess hotel. The cook and a man named Ennis are missing. Of the wounded, three are expected to die, and it is now certain that the death list will exceed fifty.

"Editor" Blanco Issues a Decree.

Captain-General Blanco has issued a decree prohibiting the publication in the daily newspapers of cable dispatches without previous censorship, and without twelve hours notice of their receipt. In addition, the postoffice at Havana will detain national and foreign newspapers not having been previously censored. Violators of the law are warned that they are under military jurisdiction.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Alabama & Atlanta Air Line near Selma, and by the first of March there will be no less than 2,000 hands employed on this line.

Increase in Naval Enlistment.

Secretary Long sent a recommendation to the house committee on naval affairs Thursday for an increase in the forces of enlisted men in the naval force by 1,000 men, and asking for an increase of the apprentices in the navy by 700.

Eighty Lives Lost.

Latest advices from the Orient state that the Japanese transport steamer Nara, of 2,510 tons, bound to the Peccaderes, was wrecked December 24 and about eighty lives lost.

Suffering loses all its charms for a woman if she has to do it in silence.

It's Plausible.

Jay—I wonder why Cupid is always represented as a baby?

Jack—Probably he catches cold and meets with an early death, owing to an insufficient amount of wearing apparel.

Guarded His Grave.

The relatives of Joseph Sullivan, who died in Oakland, Cal., recently and was 7 feet 8 inches in height, have put a guard over his grave, fearing that a showman will steal his body.

No Use to Cry.

No use to fret and worry and itch and scratch. That won't cure you. Tetterine will. Any sort of skin disease, Tetter, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ringworm or mere abrasion of the skin. At drug stores, or by mail for 50c. in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

$1.00 for 14 Cents!

Salzer's seeds never fail. They sprout, grow and produce every time. We wish to get 200,000 new customers this year, hence this trial offer of

1 pkg. Earliest Red Beet.....10c
1 pkg. Early Spring Turnip.....10c
1 pkg. 13-Day Radish.....10c
1 pkg. Bismarck Cucumber.....15c
1 pkg. Queen Victoria Lettuce.....15c
1 pkg. Klondyke Melon.....15c
1 pkg. Jumbo Onion.....10c
8 pkgs. brilliant flower seeds.....15c

Now, JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, Wis., will mail you free all of above 10 splendid novelties and their great plant and seed catalogue, upon receipt of this notice and 14 cents postage. A. C. 9

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

For Whooping Cough, Piso's Cure is a successful remedy.—M. P. DIETER, 67 Throop Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 14, 1894.

Grand opera has been given in Paris for the past five years at an average annual loss of $180,000.

A Cherokee Indian, now in Washington, is named Simon Walkingstick.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.

Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

A tilemaker named Guillout, his wife and four children have committed suicide by the use of charcoal fumes at Choisy-le-Roy, France. Poverty was the cause of their self-destruction.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c

The emperor of China, who was carefully educated by an American missionary, can speak and read the English language fluently.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

Some surprise is occasioned by the fact that the sword bayonets of British troops in Ireland are being sharpened as fast as possible.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Absolutely cures scrofula,
Salt rheum,
Dyspepsia, rheumatism,
Catarrh and all diseases
Originating in or promoted
By impure blood. It is
The great nerve tonic,
Stomach regulator and Strength builder.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . .
. . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

"Rust,"

the dread of the cotton grower, can be prevented. Trials at Experiment Stations and the experience of leading growers prove positively that is the only remedy.

Kainit

We will be glad to send, free of charge, interesting and useful pamphlets which treat of the matter in detail.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 23.

Lesson Text: "The Beatitudes," Matt. v., 1-12—Golden Text: Matt. v., 14—Commentary on the Lesson of the Day by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

1. "And seeing the multitudes He went up into a mountain and when He was set His disciples came unto Him." It would be most instructive to gather together all the mountain scenes and incidents of Scripture and contrast them with those of the plains. In connection with this lesson one might glance forward to the mountain scenes in the life of Christ, the mount of prayer, the mount of transfiguration, the mount of ascention.

2. "And He opened His mouth and taught them, saying." It seems to me very plain that He taught His disciples these things and that this is a sermon for those who have received Him and are willing to be His disciples. All who truly receive Him are saved, but to be a disciple one must be willing to be given up wholly to Him, to be taught by Him, and to be an apostle one must be willing to go anywhere for Him. There are few among the saved who by word and deed proclaim Jesus Lord to the glory of God the Father (Phil. ii., 11). Do you?

3. "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." In Jas. ii., 5, we read of the poor of this world rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom. In Zeph. iii., 12, we read of an afflicted and poor people who trust in the Lord. But it is not their poverty, but their faith, that unites them to Christ. Our Lord speaks of the poor and contrite spirit that trembles at His Word; the broken and contrite heart that is acceptable to Him (Isa. lvii., 15; lxvi., 2; Ps. li., 17).

4. "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." If we consider the kingdom and the glory of the King, yet to be manifested, and then see Him as the Teacher sitting here in humiliation uttering these words, we shall be greatly helped in our meditation thereon. Of all the sorrowful people that ever lived on earth He was pre-eminently the man of sorrows and acquainted with grief (Isa. liii., 3), and yet He is the Father of mercies and God of all comfort (II Cor. i., 3), who comforts us even here, that we may comfort others while we wait for the fullness of comfort at His coming (I Thess. iv., 18).

5. "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." His glory shall be the fullness of the whole earth, all the kingdoms of the world shall be His and ours with Him (Isa. vi., 3, margin; Rev. xi., 15; John xvii., 22; Rom. viii., 17, 18). None on earth, not even Moses, meekest of men of his time (Num. xii., 3), was ever as meek as Him, who said I am meek and lowly in heart. Since the earth is ours we can afford to let others have it just now if necessary and be miscalled and misunderstood for so doing.

6. "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." We must still keep before us the kingdom when the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord and the King who is righteousness itself, the Lord our righteousness, the righteous Lord, who loveth righteousness (Jer. xxiii., 6; Ps. xi., 7). Of course there is in each case a present application while waiting for the kingdom, and every disciple may daily be filled with the Spirit (Eph. v., 18).

7. "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." Part of His name is the Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious (Ex. xxxiv., 6). He delights to exercise mercy or loving kindness (Jer. ix., 23, 24), and the earth shall yet be filled with it, but now He longs to find those who will be the bearers of it to others. Whenever anyone is willing to show mercy to others, they shall obtain freely an abundance of it to pass on. It is a great mistake to desire anything just for one's own use. Our Lord never lived unto Himself, but having all things in Him, if we are willing to be channels of blessing to others He will see that the channel is filled.

8. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." He alone was truly pure in heart, and He was God. When we see Him, we see God. Some day we shall see Him and be like Him, even as to our bodies (I John iii., 2; Phil. iii., 21). Now we are to behold Him in the glass of His word (II Cor. iii., 18), and in proportion as we do we shall be changed into His image, so that others seeing Him in us shall want to know Him.

9. "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God. As God is the God of Peace and the Lord Jesus the Prince of Peace, we are acting very much like children of God when we carry peace everywhere. When the kingdom comes there will be peace on earth, war no more. As those to whom the kingdom belongs we are to carry samples of it in our daily life—love, joy, peace for all. We are children of God by faith in Christ Jesus (Gal. iii., 26), and there is no other way to become a child of God. But being such we are to manifest it and yield so fully to God that He may do all He desires to through us to carry peace through Christ to all people.

10. "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." The world will not tolerate this kind of life any more than it tolerated John the Baptist or the Lord Jesus. In the eyes of the world, even the religious world, this life of the kingdom with its lowliness, sorrow for sin, meekness, righteousness, mercy, purity and peace, is simply ridiculous, fanatical, not fit for the times; may do well enough for old people and little children, but men and women who are men and women indeed (in their own estimation) will not put up with it, or even suffer it to be taught if they can help it.

11. "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake." In other words, if, for Christ's sake, you are lied about (see margin), misrepresented, slandered, falsely accused, things said about you without a particle of foundation, you are a blessed person, for you are thus privileged to have intimate and wondrous fellowship with your Lord.

12. "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven, for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." Fellowship with the prophets and with Christ and with God Himself—do we in any sense appreciate it or are we inclined to murmur at these things when they come to us and say, "How unjust, how unreasonable, how strange! We will not stand it!" and thus by the lack of meekness and patience miss His present approval and also the reward which He would gladly give us in that day if we would only put up with things for His sake? See the special reward for enduring in Jas. i., 12; Rev. ii., 10, and trust Him for grace to accept anything for His sake if only He can be glorified.—Lesson Helper.

LIEN ON FALSE TEETH.

A Dentist Thinks His Work as Good as That of a Carpenter.

"Say," he said, as he broke ruthlessly into a lawyer's office, "I've got a job for you."

"That's what I'm here for," said the lawyer. "State your case and I'll make a fee pretty quick."

"Well, it's this way," said the dentist, for that's what he was, "I made a set of false teeth for a scalawag a few weeks ago, and made 'em on the installment plan. The feller paid me a dollar down, and he was to pay me a dollar a week for ten weeks, and I was to have a lien on the teeth until they were paid for. Now he's quit paying and won't let me have the molars. Says they hurt his jaw, but I take notice they never affected his cheek very much."

"Did you give him a bill for 'em?"

"No. Never gave him anything but the teeth."

"Have no agreement in writing for a chattel mortgage specifying the kind of plates, and the gums, and the number of teeth?"

"No. I tell you I didn't have anything, and I ain't got anything yet. What I want to know is, haven't I got a mechanic's lien on them teeth? Didn't I work on 'em, and isn't my work as good as a carpenter's or a bricklayer's?"

"Well, I hardly think a mechanic's lien covers your case. I don't think you can get them back."

"What would they do to me if I held him up and took 'em out of his mouth and went off with 'em?"

"Maybe they could hold you for petit larceny. If you can catch him in his room asleep, and attach them by getting out a writ, maybe you can get him to come to taw, but that would cost you more than the teeth are worth. I guess you're in for it this time."

"Well, I won't get in that kind of a hole again, I'll bet you. I'll go to some of these fellers running for the Legislature, and I'll make them promise to pass a law giving us dentists a lien on the teeth we make, good till they're paid for."

"That's right; that's a good idea. Two dollars, please. Call again."

Worked Both Ways.

Author—This is an unappreciative world. Why, if I had written what Faddest has written I wouldn't be famous.

Critic—That may be true, and if Faddest had written the stuff you write he wouldn't be famous, either.

A Jockey's Epitaph.

Graven upon the tombstone of a jockey who has just been buried in a New Zealand cemetery are the simple words, "He has passed the post."

Gained Forty-Eight Pounds.

"I had a strong appetite for liquor, which was the beginning of the breaking down of my health. I was also a slave to tea and coffee drinking. I took the gold cure, but it did not help me."

This is a portion of an interview clipped from the Daily Herald, of Clinton, Iowa. It might well be taken for the subject of a temperance lecture, but that is not our object in publishing it. It is to show how a system, run down by drink and disease, may be restored. We cannot do better than quote further from the same:

I RETIRED TO CITY LIFE.

"For years I was unable to do my work. I could not sleep nights or rest days on account of continuous pains in my stomach and back. I was unable to digest my food. Headaches and painful urination were frequent, and my heart's action became increased. I left my farm and retired to city life, for I was a confirmed invalid, and the doctors said I would never be well again.

"Soon after I happened to use four boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and since then I have been free from all pain, headache and dyspepsia. I eat heartily and have no appetite for strong drink or tea or coffee, and feel twenty years younger.

"My weight has increased 48 pounds. I cannot say too much for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and claim that they have cured me.

"JOHN B. COOK."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this sixteenth day of February, 1897.

A. P. BARKER, Notary Public.

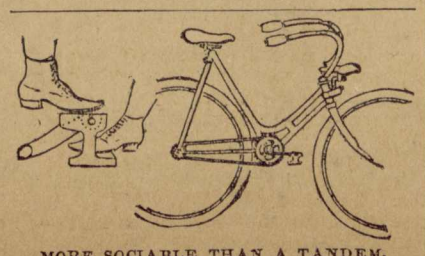
To people run down in health, from whatever cause—drink or disease—the above interview will be of interest. The truth of it is undoubted, as the statement is sworn to, and we reproduce the oath here. For any further facts concerning this medicine write to Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The name and address of the subject of above interview is John B. Cook, of 208 South 5th Street, Lyon, Iowa.

Riders Face Each Other.

A patent has been taken out for a wheel built like a single one, but with a seat in front of the handle-bars. The front rider faces the occupant of the regular seat and works the same pedals as the rear rider. The pedals have two foot rests, one above the other.



MORE SOCIABLE THAN A TANDEM.

A Progressive Woman.

Walker—I'm very much afraid my wife is going to have brain trouble.

Ryder—What makes you think so?

Walker—Last Sunday when she returned from church she repeated the text, and never said a word about what the other women had on.

Music is rather more difficult to transmit than articulate speech, so that the recent experiments of transmitting music 860 miles is unique. This was between San Diego and San Francisco, the San Diego State Guard Band playing to a San Francisco audience. It is stated that the transmission was remarkably fine, the music being very plainly heard at the end of the line.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

SWEEPING

All surplus stocks clean and clear with our . . .

"Sweep 'em Out Sale."

Send your mail orders with cash. Seasonable, reasonable goods.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

Gantt's Patent Cotton Planters and Guano Distributers. It's economy to use them. Every farmer can afford to have one or more. Send for sample and prices. J. T. GANTT, Macon, Ga.

Best On Earth

"Birmingham," $40.

Best bicycle in the market for the price.

Mail orders promptly attended to.

Parts or repairs out of town returned on first train.

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

The Loosley Cycle Company,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Write Quick FOR FREE SCHOLARSHIP.

ACTUAL BUSINESS TAUGHT

Railroad Fare Paid. POSITIONS GUARANTEED. Open all year to Both Sexes.

Georgia-Alabama Business College,
MACON, GEORGIA.

In Conecticut the other day a thief asked for an acquittal on the groun that he was temporarily insane whe he committed the crime. The judg sent him to the penitentiary for thre years advised him to employ the tim in thinking up a better excuse.

The fact that a Brooklyn judg granted five divorces in thirty minut is being extensively commented on b the Eastern press. It is remarkabl only because it took place in the Eas A Western judge cannot understan how a man with conscientious idea would fool away so much time.

BISHOPS DON'T LIE.

A Legacy from Two Bishops.

Two of the brightest lights the Southern Methodist Church has ever had were the late Bishops Doggett and Kavanaugh, who, before they went to their reward, left Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine a legacy which has not only been of value to us, but has proven a boon to suffering humanity.

Below we give their own words in which they made the bequest:

From Bishop Doggett:

RICHMOND, VA., July 23rd, 1890.

"Your Liver Medicine has been of great service to myself and family. We find no substitute for it. The parcel which you generously sent us a few years' ago is nearly exhausted We can't do without it. I wish you to send us another supply. IT IS INVALUABLE." Very respectfully,

D. S. DOGGETT.

From Bishop Kavanaugh:

The following is from Rev. Bishop H. H. Kavanaugh, D. D. to Dr. M. A. Simmons, March, 1881: "I confess that I have been reluctant to figure in advertisements in regard to medicines, but feel myself so much a debtor to your "VEGETABLE LIVER-MEDICINE," that I feel it a sense of gratitude on my own part, and justice to the public requires that I should waive this objection, and allow you to publish whatever I may have written in regard to the character and value of your medicines. May many a sufferer be as much benefited by them as I have been." H. H. KAVANAUGH.

Presbyterians Believe In It.

Rev. Dr. Crisman cured of Dyspepsia and Rheumatism.

Edgefield Cumberland Presbyterian Church, E. B. Crisman, D.D., Pastor, Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 14, 1889.

I am still using Simmons Liver Medicine. It is invaluable to me. I began its use eight years ago and it cured me of both dyspepsia and rheumatism and keeps me in perfect health. I prefer to order it from you direct for I know then that I get the genuine and get it fresh. I am to start on the 22d inst. to a meeting of the Synod of Tennessee at Cleveland. If I can serve you in any way on the trip I will be glad to do so. Respectfully,

E. B. CRISMAN.

An Eminent Baptist Has Spoken.

Rev. J. R. Graves, editor and proprietor of "The Baptist," Memphis, Tenn., says: "To M. A. Simmons, M. D., Iuka, Miss.: I received a package of your Liver Medicine and have used half of it. It works like a charm. I want no better Liver Regulator and certainly no more of Zeilin's mixture.

J. R. GRAVES, Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 17, 1876."

Catholics Endorse It.

St. John's Hospital, Cor. 23d and Morgan Sts., St. Louis, Mo.

Respected Sirs—"We have found your Liver Medicine very beneficial as an Aperient and Liver Regulator. It does all that it is recommended to do." Respectfully, SISTERS OF MERCY.

On the trial of our case against Zeilin & Co. their counsel said: "When Simmons' ancestors were cracking hickory nuts with their teeth in the forests of Germany, Zeilin's ancestors were Princes in the House of Israel." While we make no claim to Jewish origin, much less to being "Princes in the House of Israel," we prefer an ancestry of honest Americans to the highest seat in the synagogue of unrighteous Jews.

Beware of any article called "Simmons Liver Medicine" which has on it the name of "J. H. Zeilin & Co.," or "A. W. Simmons' & Co.," or "T. F. Cheek & Co;" and especially beware of any article represented as "the same," or "just as good" as the original Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

Be sure you get the original which has the name, picture and autograph of Dr. M. A. Simmons on the wrapper, countersigned by C. F. Simmons Medicine Co., St. Louis.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DOCTOR,

By J. Hamilton Ayers, A. M., M.D.

This is a most Valuable Book for the Household, teaching as it does the easily-distinguished Symptoms of different Diseases, the Causes and Means of Preventing such Diseases, and the Simplest Remedies which will alleviate or cure.

598 Pages, Profusely Illustrated.

The Book is written in plain every-day English, and is free from the technical terms which render most Doctor Books so valueless to the generality of readers. This Book is intended to be of Service in the Family, and is so worded as to be readily understood by all

ONLY 60 cts. POSTPAID.

Postage Stamps Taken.

Not only does this Book contain so much information Relative to Disease, but very properly gives a Complete Analysis of everything pertaining to Courtship, Marriage and the Production and Rearing of Healthy Families, together with Valuable Recipes and Prescriptions, Explanations of Botanical Practice, Correct use of Ordinary Herbs, &c

COMPLETE INDEX.

BOOK PUB. HOUSE, 434 Leonard St., N. Y. City

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS

FARM SEEDS

Salzer's Seeds are Warranted to Produce.

E. Walter, LeRaysville, Pa., astonished the world by growing 250 bushels Salzer's corn; J. Breider, Mishicott, Wis., 173 bush. barley, and P. Sinnot, Randalia, Iowa, by growing 196 bush. Salzer's oats per acre. If you doubt, write them. We wish to gain 150,000 new customers, hence will send on trial

10 DOLLARS WORTH FOR 10c.

11 pkgs of rare farm seeds, Hog Pea, Sand Vetch, '40c. Wheat,' Sheep Rape, Jerusalem Corn, etc., including our mammoth Seed Catalogue, telling all about the $400 gold prizes for best name for our new marvelous corn and oats, "Prodigies," also sample of same, all mailed you upon receipt of but 10c. postage, positively worth $10, to get a start. 100,000 bbls. Seed Potatoes at $1.50 a bbl. 35 pkgs. earliest vegetable seeds, $1.00.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LACROSSE WIS.

Please send this adv. along. Catalog alone, 5c. No. AC9

We want a hustling agent in every county to sell our latest improved Plows. All kinds direct from the factory to the farmer. Work right around your home. BABY CULTIVATOR COMPANY, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

SEEDS Garden & Flower with a world-wide reputation. Catalog free to all.

JAMES J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

BIBLE PICTURE OF CONSUMPTIVES

Read Ezekiel 37:1-14 cured by breath. No drugs. Send 50 cents for NASAL INSPIRATOR, or stamp for pamphlet to G. B. FARMER, Perth, Ont., Canada.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn.

THE WEEKLY NEWS.

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

NEWTON & CARRUTHERS, Proprietors.
A. S. CARRUTHERS, Editor.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Jan. 20, '98.

To the Pnblic.

A. S. Carruthers, formerly editor of the NEWS, has resigned. Hereafter I will have entire controle of editorial and business departments. I will collect all monies and pay all bills. Give us your continued support and we will keep up a live paper.

Respectfully,
CLIFTON NEWTON.

Encouraging reports come from Capt. Reynolds with reference to the land bill.

Indications are favorable to Congressman Plowman holding his seat in the house.

Congressman Plowman is making a fight against Bingham, McKinley's appointee to the postmastership of Talladega.

Hanna was chosen senator from Ohio after a heated contest. It will be a happy day when his ilk are laid in the shade for good. The whole proceeding smacks of corruption and shame.

How soon the crisis in Cuba will terminate no one knows, but that a crisis is pending no one questions. In the name of common humanity free the plucky little island from the despotic rule of brutal Spain.

Speaker Reed is being denounced as a traitor, coward and tool by the Republican members of the house for his position on the Cuban question. The friends of recognition on both sides are pushing the matter, and it looks like a fusion between Republican and Democratic friends of this measure.

DR. J. L. M. CURRY.

Montevallo was honored by a visit from Dr. Curry, of Washington, D. C., on Tuesday. He came to see the workings of the Industrial school. Though only a short notice of his intended visit was given, a committee of citizens met him at the train and showed him through all the class rooms of the college.

Dr. Curry is wonderfully fitted for his work as agent of the Peabody fund. A man of extended education, large experience and much travel, he is prepared to enter into any and all phases of school life. His great heart and ready sympathy makes him a welcome visitor to the home or class room.

In the afternoon the large chapel was filled to overflowing to hear this gifted and honored son of Alabama speak. On the platform were many of our citizens. After the large audience had sang "America," Rev. P. L. Abernathy introduced the speaker.

For more than an hour words of eloquence and wisdom fell from the doctor's lips. His great audience sat in silence and drank in every word. Time after time he was greeted by rounds of applause. He payed a beautiful tribute to woman and showed how education, becoming a part of the individual, was ever lifting her higher and higher. By it we are able to think God's thoughts. It heals the trammels of our little life and permits us to see God in every phase of nature and walk with Him amid his visible expression, in nature and in science.

The speaker's heart shone forth in all he said and proved with all his greatness that he was a gentletleman simple, true and loveable.

Montevallo will long remember the day that brought this great man with his words of cheer and encouragement. Every girl will look out upon her life as containing greater powers and nobler possibilities.

He was profuse in his expression of surprise and gratification at the marvelous growth of the school. He declared it the most important and promising work ever undertaken by the State. I am proud, he said, of all Alabama has ever done for the education of her sons. I am proud of her University. I am proud of her school at Auburn, and all her normal schools, but I doff my hat to her girls' school at Montevallo, the most important enterprise on any line she has ever undertaken. His words of approval of its management and the success it had attained under the presidency of Capt. Reynolds were strong.

SCHOOL NOTES.

There are now about 360 girls in attendance at the Institute.

***

Miss Marie Pearce, of Oxford, was called home this morning by the illness of her brother.

***

Miss Mamie Bell Fleming of Montgomery has been called home by illness in her family.

***

Miss Gussie and Lena Gardner arrived this morning from Birmingham to enter the college.

***

Miss Sallie Fuller of Birmingham, Ala., much to the segret of her many friends went home Tuesday. It is hoped that she will soon return.

***

The popularity of the Girls' Industrial School is evidenced by the great number of visitors, many of whom come from distant portions of the State just to see the school.

DOGWOOD ITEMS.

Thomas Harrison visited Maylene Sunday.

Robert Harkins and James Harrison, of Gurnee, were in town Monday.

Here is our secret: Claude Lucas, the ladies man, goes down to Randolph to see the girls.

Robert Cunningham has purchased a lady's watch. It's a beauty. Wonder if Robert will wear it.

Mrs. Isaac Powell recently purchased an organ for herself that cost one hundred and seventy-five cool dollars.

Miss Mattie Allen, who has been visiting relatives and friends near this place, has returned home, much to the regret of her friends here.

W. L. Clark, who is operating the Harrison coal mine, says he is having good success and will in the near future commence shipping some fine coal.

How about the Louisville & Nashville extending their mineral road from Calera to Gurnee via Montevallo, Aldrich and Dogwood? Every body around is eager for such a move.

T. A. T. E.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

R. B. EVANS,
Proprietor of the only first class
COLORED
BARBER SHOP
IN THE CITY.
☞ Shop east end of town.
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go

☞ To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO

Turkey Tracks

☞ Are numerous in the bottoms but are seldom found in the uplands. MORGAN BROS. have sold enough SHOES in the past few weeks to cover up every turkey track in the State, with a few coon tracks thrown in for the trouble.

WAGON TRACKS.

☞ These are also numerous. Follow any of them and you will haul up at MORGAN BROS., who sell anything that can be used by men, women or children. New goods and low prices, with genial, clever and courteous clerks to deal with.

A. M. CROSS
—HAS—REMOVED
—TO—
JOHN INGRAM'S OLD SHOP,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.
WHERE HE IS PREPARED TO DO
HORSE SHOEING
AND ALL KINDS OF BLACKSMITHING
AND REPAIR WORK ON
Wagons, Buggies, Etc., Etc.
CHARGES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

HIGHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.
CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
☞ These prices in force until January 15th. ☜
SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.
VANDEMEER BROS.
☞ TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.
MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

WE OR OUR DEALERS can sell you machines cheaper than you can get elsewhere. The NEW HOME is our best, but we make cheaper kinds, such as the CLIMAX, IDEAL and other High Arm Full Nickel Plated Sewing Machines for $15.00 and up. Call on our agent or write us. We want your trade, and if prices, terms and square dealing will win, we will have it. We challenge the world to produce a BETTER $50.00 Sewing Machine for $50.00, or a better $20. Sewing Machine for $20.00 than you can buy from us, or our Agents.

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO.
ORANGE, MASS. BOSTON, MASS. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
CHICAGO, ILL. ST. LOUIS, MO. DALLAS, TEXAS.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. ATLANTA, GA.
FOR SALE BY

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.

THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.

In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skilful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.

RIPANS TABULES

A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.

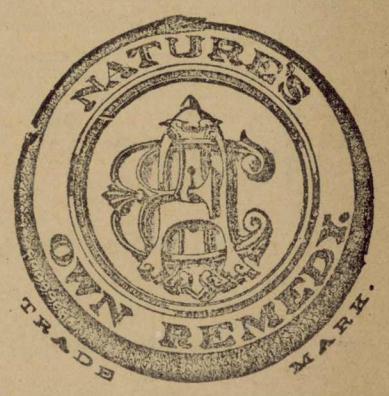
Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chemical Company, and patients are invited to write for special instructions in peculiar cases. Their letters will receive such attention as they require, free of charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the house and when you travel take some with you. They are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.

Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH



Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.

For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.

Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be had of your druggist.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.

J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.

C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.

GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....	$1.00
Six months, cash in advance	.50
Three months, cash in advance..	.25

LOCAL.

Sheriff Vest was in town Tuesday.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

Rev. J. F. Smith, of Talladega, was in town Monday and honored the NEWS with a call.

Rumor says there will be a large hotel built on the lot where Regan's store now stands.

The Lanier broom factory will be one of Montevallo's industries in the near future.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

H. C. & W. B. Reynolds have let the contract for a fine store to be built on the McCauley lot.

Cattle buyers have about cleaned the country of scrub cattle. Now let the farmers improve their stock.

Wheeler Carleton of Birmingham has bought the Carleton house and intends putting up a photograph gallery.

Tuesday was a gala day in Montevallo. Dr. Curry's speech will long be remembered by all who heard him.

How the fair hands of the school girls rang with applause when Dr. Curry suggested to Mrs. Babb to give them a holiday.

Mr. McKibbon will start a wagon factory in Montevallo next week. D. J. Moreland, the popular woodsmith, will be in charge.

Some slick-fingered, contemptible quarter section of humanity relieved the editor of his raincoat during his absence last Friday. We circulate now in dry weather only.

Dr. E. A. Wilson, the well-known dentist, of Birmingham, arrived in Montevallo Tuesday; and will remain here till Saturday. Parties wishing work in his line should call early.

S. B. Gibson made a hurry trip to Birmingham, recently. His wife and daughter returned with him and they are now house-keeping. It is thus we grow. We like the comers and goers, but the comers and stayers we like even more.

Read the article on first page under the caption "A Terrible Charge." If you find anything in it that creates a desire to laugh till your sides split there is something wrong with you and a doctor should be consulted at once.

In Columbiana the citizens have to lug their groceries home. So says the Chronicle. It is different in Montevallo. Our merchants deliver all groceries when requested to. They are up-to-date, in fact a little ahead of the times.

Married, near Brierfield, January 19th, R. J. Underwood and Miss L. A. Fancher. According to report the individual troubles of the contracting parties were rolled together in one heap at 15 minutes after 3 o'clock p. m. May they be more successful than scores of others who have tried this co-operative scheme.

James Thrash and John Campbell, of Sawyers Cove, brought four bales of cotton to Montevallo last Monday. Twenty-five miles over rough roads is a trip to be well considered before taken, but a market like Montevallo will draw heavier loads from even a greater distance and over any kind of road.

People will talk, and if they can't say anything bad about a town they will say something good. Montevallo is getting her share of attention and talk now. Within the past week a number of parties have visited the city with the view of locating and engaging in business. All say they were induced to visit Montevallo by good reports obtained through reliable sources, men familiar with the city's facilities and future prospects.

Abraham and Jacob, the Vandemeer Bros., photographers, are neck deep in photographs this week, the result of their two weeks' work making negatives. For the past two days and nights they have been engaged in developing. Among the immense collection we notice a whole heap of familiar faces, some as fair and sweet as sugar-bespattered snow and others as black and repulsive as a thunder-cloud in August. Good subjects, we notice, gets the best picture, that is the perfect figure and pretty face wins the race.

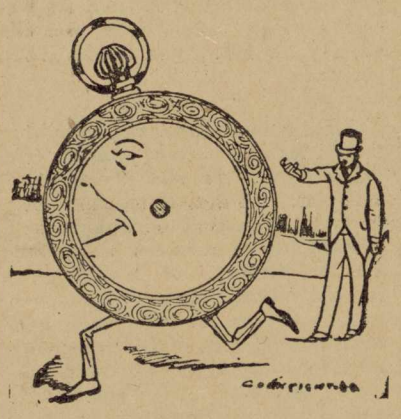
If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Men Boarders Preferred.

Choice apartments, with good board, at reasonable prices at the elegant home of Mrs. C. C. Vandegrift. Gentlemen boarders preferred.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

"MY WATCHES RUN."



Fine WATCHES

Carefully
Repaired
and Adjusted.
All
Work
Guaranteed
First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly
attended to.

J. W. MARTIN,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

January 16: Officers and teachers present 15, scholars 118, collection $1.40.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J. H. McMath, secretary.

Jauuary 16: Officers and teachers present 15t absent 5; scholars present 92, absent 90; visitors 2; collection 87 cents.

Disagreeable weather detained many who otherwise would gladly have participated in these precious services.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Fair as a poet's dream, beautiful as the girls of Montevallo, and gorgeous as a dying sunset are the myriad-hued ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton's market, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Subscribers to the NEWS can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the NEWS.

For Sale, Very Cheap.

I will sell, at a very low price, a two-horse wagon, in good fix; just overhauled and repaired.

J. D. MORELAND.

DR. G. W. SHACKELFORD,
DENTIST,
ATLANTA, - - - GA.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

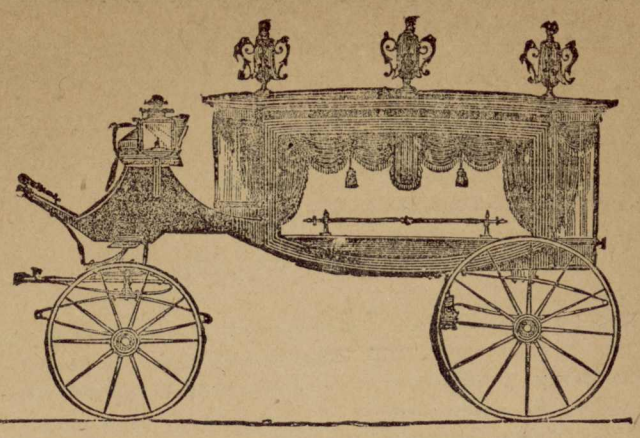
FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free.

JOB PRINTING.

LETTER-HEADS,
NOTE-HEADS,
BILL-HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,
Done in first-class style on short notice, at the
NEWS : OFFICE.

☐It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.



T. D. HIX,
The People's Undertaker.
COFFINS AND CASKETS, all styles, FROM $5 UP.
ALDRICH, ALA.

EVERYTHING, FROM A PIN

——TO AN——

Elephant

——AT——

R. C. Parker's

BRIERFIELD, : : ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabar

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

IF YOU ARE NOT A SUBSCRIBER
SEND IN YOUR
NAME AND
ADDRESS,
ALONG WITH THE DOLLAR,
AND
THE NEWS
WILL BE SENT
YOU EVERY WEEK FOR ONE YEAR,

Kroell can supply anything.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

The ingenuity that has been exhibited of late years in the discovery and application of explosives for mining purposes has really been remarkable, and not less so has been the growth of the trade in explosives during the period of twenty years since the English act of 1875 came into operation, says the Trade Journals Review. Not only has the number of factories more than doubled, but the number of persons employed in them is now over 10,000, which shows an increase of nearly 3000 even during the last ten years.

Professor Bryce declares that the one conspicuous failure of American institutions is the government of our great cities, which every intelligent man knows to be true. The state limits the liberties of its cities. It does not dare to trust them with full autonomy. We have for years relied upon the country vote to hold the cities in check, but the time is soon coming when the cities will take matters into their own hands. If the rate of growth from 1880 to 1890 continues, in 1920 the cities of the United States will contain 10,000,000 more than one-half of the population. The city will then control state and nation.

The plague continues to spread in India, in spite of all sanitary efforts for its extirpation. Its progress is slow in comparison with most epidemics, but it is the hardest of them all to uproot entirely. It is several years since the present malady started on its course from China, and the history of previous visitations justifies the conjecture that it may have a long road to travel. Russia's plague of 1878 hovered about the countries of Western Asia for a decade before it advanced northward. In 1867 it appeared at Bagdad; in 1870-'71 Kurdistan was invaded; and in 1873 Bagdad suffered anew. In 1877 it appeared at Recht, an important city of Northern Persia, near the port of Enseli, from whence it was carried northward in Caspian ships and planted in the populous but malarious and unwholesome deltas of the Volga. Russia did not get rid of it for a number of years, and stray cases of it appeared in other European countries, to which it has been a periodical visitor since their history began. It may come again, but it is not now armed with its old terrors.

Disgraceful scenes have been witnessed more than once in American legislative chambers, recalls the New York Times. Our statesmen have occasionally resorted to the argument of fists vigorously swung, and in just a few instances the course of debate has been interrupted by the violent insertion into it of knives and revolvers. These lamentable facts are not to be denied, but the humiliation they have caused in sensitive minds is much mitigated by the thought that never, even amid the agonies of "reconstruction," did the most uncouth of our lawmakers display for more than a few minutes the reckless blackguardism by which for weeks past the members of the Austrian Reichsrath have shaken the foundations of the empire and classed themselves with savages. Democracy has its scandals, but monarchical institutions, apparently, do not develop in all who live under them unvarying reliance on courteous and legal methods as the only alternatives to out-and-out rebellion. However, we should remember that the government of the United States is an ancient one, compared with those of Austro-Hungary, Germany, Spain, Italy, France, and most of the minor Continental nations. In due time, no doubt, the residents of Europe will attain to our present high average of self-control. It would not be fair to expect as much from people to whom constitutional rule is still only an experiment as from those whose ancestors have been free for many a generation, and who have learned from long experience when to fight and when to make parliamentary motions.

All over the country landowners and others are suing paper, woodpulp and saw mills for dumping refuse and waste into streams and ruining them. Most of the suits are successful.

CITY SWEPT BY A TORNADO.

Fort Smith, Ark., the Scene of Death and Desolation.

FORTY-THREE LIVES KNOWN TO BE LOST,

And Upwards of One Hundred Injured. The Property Loss Will Reach More Than a Million Dollars—Damage in Crawford County.

Forty-three human lives and upwards of $1,000,000 worth of property were destroyed by a terrible tornado which burst upon Fort Smith, Ark., a few minutes past 11 o'clock Tuesday night. The storm struck near the national cemetery and tore its way through the entire city, leaving its path marked by death and desolation. Men, women and children, peacefully asleep in their homes, were, without a moment's warning, awakened to a horrible death in the fearful storm, while others momentarily more fortunate and who escaped the furies of the wind, met a far worse fate a few moments later in the flames which soon engulfed many of the wrecked buildings.

List of the Dead.

The list of the dead and wounded, so far as known, is as follows: Silas Mineer, a prominent young merchant. His residence was blown away and he was struck across the back with a heavy piece of falling timber. Harvey Rutledge, a negro; Mary Timmerman; two unknown young men from Burgess hotel; John Grisgold, a tailor; John Martin and J. J. Kiley, farmers from Madison county, here attending United States court; George Carter, foreman grand opera house; Mrs. Milt Burgess, proprietor of the Burgess hotel: two unknown men died at the hospital; J. M. Foutz, farmer; Joe Kyle, farmer; two Lefevere boys; Malt Knapton, Jr.; Mrs. Malt Knapton; Joe Ukase, negro; Ed Ferrell, butcher, and his two little children, Irene and Roy; Frank Richardson, restaurant keeper; John Adams, a carpenter; Mrs. Charles Mauver; —— Ritter, gardner; Mrs. Will Lawson; Louie Sengel; Miss Holden; John Badt, a farmer; Mrs. Maggie Shehan's infant; L. Woehle, butcher; James Smith, a clerk; Mrs. Jones; Mrs. Gray, son and wife; Atlas Jones; Frank Lefevere and Etta Knes.

The Injured.

The injured: Mrs. Braden, arm broken; D. L. Grimes, collar bone broken; —— Martin, chin fractured and side bruised; —— Hosea, jaw broken; William Lawson, back injured; Bell Martin, chest smashed; Tony Eberhardt, hips bruised; F. E. Hubbell, back hurt; R. H. Crenholder, back injuree; A. B. Stafford, back injured; —— Ashworth, chest chrushed; Dr. Gate, both arms broken; Mrs. Gate, badly mashed; Mrs. Gate's mother, seriously crushed; Minnie Burgess, spine injured; Mrs. E. Grell, injured about chest; Mrs. Hugh Rogers, badly bruised about body; Mr. and Mrs. Ritter, caught under falling walls; Mrs. F. H. Brown, body crushed; Mrs. Luther Hunley, chest crushed; —— Lane, hip dislocated; Ed Yaden, badly bruised; —— Woolsey, seriously hurt; R. L. Hirschberger, shoulder dislocated, injured about head; Miss Lily Stahl, seriously injured.

The scene following the first terrific crash of the storm was one of awful grandeur. Business blocks, handsome residences and humble cottages were razed to the ground and scattered in shapeless masses. Several of the wrecks caught fire and the inflammable timbers burned furiously.

The beautiful National cemetery is a wreck. The huge trees are uprooted, the lodge demolished and the wall torn down.

Fort Smith's $50,000 high school building, the finest of its kind in the south, was badly wrecked, but was one of the few buildings upon which there was any tornado insurance.

Through Crawford County.

The tornado that descended upon Fort Smith crossed the Arkansas river one mile south of Van Buren and cut a path of 200 yards through Crawford county, and dealt death and devastation to everything in its path.

Charles Wright was blown from his horse and fatally injured; Ed Blakemore was instantly killed by his house blowing down on him; the house of Mrs. Bush was demolished, and she was crushed into a shapeless mass of flesh and bone, and two of her children, aged 8 and 16, were fatally hurt. It is estimated that one hundred head of cattle and horses were in the path of the tornado and were killed, or injured so badly that they had to be killed.

Latest Estimates.

The latest of the death list shows a total of forty-three lives lost in the tornado which swept through Fort Smith Tuesday night. Not less than seventy others are injured, a large number of whom are seriously hurt and several are expected to die.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

The House—Monday.

The civil service debate was again resumed today. The opponents of the law had much the best of the debate as far as the numbers of those engaging in it were concerned. Nine of the eleven speakers were of the opposition. The friends of the law are very anxious to shut off further debate and in this will have the co-operation of the speaker and the rules committee. Mr. Moody, who has charge of the bill, gave notice that he would test the sense of the house tomorrow on a motion to close debate. The opposition immediately sent word to all in their ranks to be on hand, and they say they will have no difficulty in defeating the motion. The entire day was consumed by the debate, when at 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate.

A bill was reported favorably from the Indian committee prohibiting railroad companies from charging more than 3 cents a mile for passengers through the Indian territory.... A resolution looking to the filtration of water used in the city of Washington was referred to the District of Columbia committee.... At 12:30 p. m., the senate went into executive session to consider the Hawaiian annexation treaty. The treaty was not taken up immediately in the executive session, as a number of nominations were at first confirmed. Immediately after the treaty was called up Senator Pettigrew offered his motion for conducting the debate on it with open doors, which was antagonized by Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, and others. A majority of those favoring open doors are opposed to ratification, but not all of them are on that side of the main controversy. The senate decided not to debate the Hawaiian treaty in open session, and at 3:45 p. m. adjourned.

The House—Tuesday.

The civil service debate, which was inaugurated in the house a few weeks ago, ended to-day. It opened with a row, but ended very tamely. There was not even a vote on the appropriation in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill for the civil service commission. The republicans, who were seeking to modify or repeal the law, decided to let the debate come to a close to-day, but it required the casting vote of the speaker to accomplish this. There is conflicting statements as to the situation in which the future conduct of the war against the civil service law is left. All the republican opponents of the law agree that the fight is to be kept up. It is understood that an opportunity will be given in the future for the consideration of a bill to modify the law. The debate to-day was quite dull until the closing hour, when Mr. Simpson enlivened it with reference to the Ohio senatorial election. Mr. Bailey made a clear statement of the minority position, which indicates that the minority will vote to repeal, but not to modify the law. The principal speech of the day was made by Mr. Brosius, chairman of the civil aervice committee, who defended the law in a two hours' speech.

The Senate.

The senate today briefly discussed an adverse report by the pensions committee on a bill to pension General Meade's two daughters at $100 a month each, Chairman Gallinger saying the committee did not wish to enter on the pensioning of daughters of veterans. Senator Allen, of Nebraska, thought that General Meade's service justified such liberality. No action was taken and after Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, announced a speech on the money question for next Monday, Senator Fairbanks addressed the senate on immigration. After this speech the Hawaiian treaty was taken up in executive session.... Mr. Allen secured the adoption of a resolution calling upon the president for information in his possession relative to the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guinea, and to inform the senate whether the United States now has any clerks or other employes at work upon the Venezuelan boundary question and also what part of the $100,000 appropriated for the Venezuelan commission has been expended.... At 3:45 p. m. the senate adjourned.

The House—Wednesday.

The house today passed an urgent deficiency bill carrying $1,741,843. One of the items, authorizing a further expenditure of $520,000 for the soldiers' home at Danville, Ill., for which $150,000 was appropriated in the last sundry civil bill, was used by Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, as a basis for a bitter personal attack upon Chairman Cannon, whose home is at Danville. Mr. DeArmond moved to strike out the paragraph appropriating $100,000 for the construction of barracks at the soldiers' home established at Danville. He called attention to the fact that when the sundry civil bill passed at the last session carrying $150,000 for the establishment of the Danville home it was then stated that was all the money which would be asked for. Mr. DeArmond was exceedingly caustic in his criticism of Mr. Cannon, who, he said, after using his power on the appropriations committee to get that soldiers' home located at his home town, was trying to take a half million more out of the treasury. Mr. Cannon, in his reply, was as sarcastic as his adversary. Several members spoke briefly of the testimony, showing the necessity for a soldiers' home in the Mississippi valley, and the propriety of locating it at Danville. Mr. DeArmond's motion was then defeated without division. There was also a lively debate over the provisions in the bill requiring the owners of bullion hereafter to pay the cost of transporting bullion from assay offices to the mints. The house then adjourned.

The Senate.

Mr. Chandler, of the committee on naval affairs in the senate today, secured the passage of a resolution asking the secretary of the navy to furnish a list of the active officers of the navy in each corps, together with those who are at sea or on shore duty and on walking orders. At 12:25 p. m. the senate, on motion of Mr. Davis, went into executive session and Mr. Davis continued his speech on the Hawaiian question. Mr. Davis' speech today was devoted largely to a presentation of the strategic features of annexation. He displayed a chart showing the location of Hawaii relative to this country and to Asia. One of the points brought out with considerable elaboration was the probable effect on the Nicaragua canal, of the occupation of the islands by some foreign power. He illustrated by a reference to the map showing that Hawaii was in a straight line between the western terminus of the canal and Japan and China. The nation, he said, which controls Hawaii, will control that great gateway of commerce, and the guns planted upon Hawaii would be pointed directly at the mouth of the canal. Senator Allen, of Nebraska, followed in opposition to the treaty. He called attention to the distance of Hawaii from our own shores, referred to the necessity we would be under of defending the islands in case of war, and claimed that on this account it would be necessary for the United States to establish and maintain a separate fleet for their protection, as well as an army on the islands. The senate then adjourned.

The House—Thursday.

The house today entered upon the consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill. The bill carries $3,323,302, being $135,500 in excess of the amount for the current year. Mr. Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the agricultural committee, explained that the increases were due to the growing demand for inspections of meat and meat products for export.... Under the latitude allowed for debate, Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, submitted an extended argument in favor of the establishment of the postal savings bank system.... After some remarks by Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, in support of the appropriation in the bill for seed distribution and in eulogy of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, whom he described as a genuine hard-fisted farmer, Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, got the floor and submitted some sarcastic commen s on the report of the election of Senator Hanna, at Columbus yesterday. He read the telegram sent by Mr. Hanna to President McKinley: "God reigns and the republican party still lives," from which the basis of his remarks were taken.... An amendment was offered to strike out the appropriation for seed distribution, which was defeated by a vote of 119 to 115.... After a sharp debate an amendment appropriating $105,000 for the publication and distribution of 150,000 copies of the "horse book" was adopted, 115 to 103. The house then adjourned.

The Senate.

Among the measures reported to the senate today was the pension appropriation bill. It was placed on the calendar. At the conclusion of the morning business the immigration bill, the unfinished business, was taken up, and Mr. Caffery, of Louisiana, was recognized for a speech in opposition to the measure.... Eulogies in memory of Senator Harris, of Tennessee, which were to have been presented today were postponed.... The senate did not make great progress with the Hawaiian annexation treaty. Several speeches were delivered, but in every instance the speakers announced that today's remarks were merely preliminary to what they should say before the close of the senate. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, made the principal speech of the day.

Senator Cannon, of Utah, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the president is requested, if in his opinion it is not incompatible with the public interest, to transmit to the senate at his earliest convenience a statement showing what measures are in force by this government in the Island of Cuba and in waters contiguous thereto, to protect the lives and property of American citizens now living in Cuba."

At 4:50 the senate adjourned.

The House—Friday.

The house managers decided not to proceed with the consideration of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill today, but to give the day for the consideration of private bills. This was doubtless done to avert the possibility of precipitating a sensational Cuban debate during the consideration of the appropriation bill. When the house adjourned last night the amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill providing for the publication of another edition of "Horse Book" was pending. Today the friends of the amendment compromised with the appropriation committee by agreeing to a reduction of the number to be printed from 150,000 to 75,000. An amendment to the amendment was adopted and the bill was passed.... The resolution was adopted accepting the invitation of the government of Norway to participate in the international fisheries exposition at Bergen from May to September, 1898.... The senate bill to refer to the court of claims the claim of the corporation of the book agents of the Methodist church, south, was next taken up. Mr. Cooper, of Texas, in charge of the bill, moved as a substitute a bill appropriating $288,000 for the full settlement of this claim. The property of the corporation, which was located at Nashville, Tenn., was seized and held by the United States from 1862 to 1866, when it was turned over to the owners. After a lengthy discussion the bill went over until tomorrow and the house adjourned.

The Senate.

After the transaction of some routine business in the senate to-day Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, presented the following resolution, proposing an amendment to the constitution: "That the following article be proposed to the legislatures of the several states as an amendment to the constitution of the United States: The term of office of senators and members of the Fifty-sixth congress shall continue until the 30th day of April in the year 1899 at noon. The senators whose existing terms would otherwise expire on the 4th day of March in the year 1899, or thereafter, shall continue in office until noon of the 30th day of April, succeeding such expiration; and the 30th day of April, at noon, shall thereafter be substituted for the 4th of March as the commencement and termination of the official term of president, vice-president, senators and representatives in congress." The resolution was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.... Mr. Pettus, of Alabama, secured the passage of a bill to regulate the duties of the United States judges in the district courts in Alabama.... Almost the entire four hours of the executive session of the senate to-day was devoted to the indirect consideration of the nomination of Hon. Joseph McKenna, now attorney-general, to be associate justice of the supreme court. Upon agreement consideration was deferred until a week from to-day.... Consideration of the Hawaiian treaty was postponed until next Monday.

The House—Saturday.

The house devoted two hours to general debate on the army appropriation bill and the remainder of the day to eulogizing the life and public services of the late Representative Seth W. Milliken, of Maine, who served for fourteen years in the lower branch of congress.... On motion of Mr. Lanham, of Texas, a bill was passed authorizing the president to appoint an additional district judge for the northern district of Texas. It was evident that Judge Rector, now the judge of that district, was utterly incapacitated from performing the duties of his office.... The house then went into committee of the whole and took up the consideration of the army appropriation bill. The bill, Chairman Hull, of the military committee, explained, carried $23,185,990, which was $1,039,750 less than the estimates and $56,746 in excess of the law for the current year. The increase in the pay of the army was due to the fact that the army was nearer its maximum strength than heretofore. At 2 o'clock debate was suspended to give the members an opportunity to pay tribute to the memory of the late Representative Milliken, of Maine, and as a further mark of the respect, the house at 3:25 p. m. adjourned.

Race of Millions.

A railroad building race, involving the expenditure of $16,000,000, has been commenced by two wealthy corporations, each of which desires to own the first railroad into the Yukon country. Each road will be about 400 miles long, running from Pyramid, near the head of the Lynn canal, to points on the Lewis river, below Five Finger Rapids.

James B. Simpson, one of Alabama's brightest journalists and recording secretary to Governor Johnston, died at Montgomery the past week.

Was a Real Battle.

It is reported that an important engagement has taken place between the Spaniards and the insurgents under General Rabi in the direction of Manzanilla, in which the insurgents lost 300 men killed and the Spaniards 140 killed and wounded.

Ex-President Cleveland has made a second appeal to Governor Budd, of California, for clemency in the case of Walter D. Worden, convicted of murder in connection with the train wrecking in the great strike of 1894.

MANUFACTURING ACTIVITY

Is a Feature in Southern Iron, Sales Being Very Heavy.

GOOD EXPORT DEMAND FOR COTTON.

Prices Generally Remain Steady or Tend Upward—Mild Weather Checks Distribution of Winter Goods—Failures Slightly on the Decrease.

Bradstreet's weekly review of trade says: Distributive trade remains rather quiet, mild weather throughout the country tending to check distribution of winter goods. Prices generally remain steady or tend upward, except for some grades of iron and orders for spring trade where received are encouraging. Industrial activity is most manifest at the west, where the demand for iron is very large. A feature of the week was the placing of an order by one railway for 100,000 tons of steel rails, with smaller orders, aggregating in the neighborhood of 25,000,000 tons more. Pig iron production is now at an unprecedented rate, the furnace capacity being estimated at 1,000,000 tons a month. At the south manufacturing activity is a feature, sales of iron being very heavy. A good export demand for cotton and grain at steady prices is a feature. At the east a number of strikes against wage reductions are reported or expected in the cotton industry.

Some woolen mills, working on men's heavy wear goods are refusing orders, their capacity being fully booked. Anthracite coal production, it is hoped, in that trade, will be restricted sufficiently to allow of the advance of 20 to 40 cents per ton being maintained.

The recent falling off in wheat exports prove, as was indicated last week in Bradstreet's, to have been due to the usual holiday quieting, and not to any falling off of demand from abroad. The total exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from the United States and Canada this week amounted to 5,135,166 bushels, against 3,481,000 bushels last week and 3,948,000 bushels this week a year ago, 3,202,000 bushels in 1896 and 3,564,000 bushels in 1895.

Corn exports for the week show a gain of 1,000,000 bushels, amounting to 4,514,000 bushels against 3,255,000 bushels last week and 3,336,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1896.

As was expected, weekly failures are slightly smaller in number, amounting to 323 this week, against 333 last week, 479 in this week of 1897, 412 in 1896, 358 in 1895 and 386 in 1894.

STRIKE ENDORSED.

Decided to Stay Out Until All Demands Are Granted.

At New Bedford, Mass., Adelphi rink was crowded Friday to its utmost capacity, fully 2,000 men and women attending the mass meeting of the union and non-union weaver of the city.

The action of the union in voting to strike was indorsed by a hearty aye, and it was voted to stay out until the abuses claimed by the weavers are corrected.

The weavers demand, first, a restoration of wages; second, the abolition of the finding system; third, the adoption of a uniform price list in all the mills of the city.

It was the sentiment of all that the weavers would no go to work Monday if the notices were taken down. The union and non-union card and picker room operatives had a mass meeting also and unanimously decided to resist the cut.

HOW TO MAKE THE FARMS PAY.

A Georgia Farmer Shows That Diversified Crops is the Panacea.

R. W. Hale, a Pike county, Georgia, farmer, has realized the value of diversified crops on a farm by his experience during the year just closed. He made forty-six bales of cotton and sold it for less than it cost to produce it. On the other hand Mr. Hale has a young orchard of forty-six acres of fruit trees. Only ten acres were old enough to bear any fruit last season, but nevertheless fruit men paid him $1,000 cash to let them ship what they wanted to from the orchard. When they got through a distiller gave Mr. Hale two barrels of brandy for what was left. After this, the hogs had a feast on the balance.

WARSHIPS MOVING SOUTHWARD

Said to Have No Reference to the Present Cuban Troubles.

The North Atlantic squadron which has been gathered at Hampton Roads, sailed Southward Saturday. Lest there should be any misunderstanding of the purpose of the cruise, which has already been described, the order under which the vessels will proceed have been made public and taken in connection with the department's orders to Admiral Sicard, the navy department says, show the squadron movements have no reference to Cuba. The squadron is supposed to be destined eventually to participate in drills in the Key West drill waters.

RIOTING IN HAVANA.

Army Officers Make an Attack on Newspapers.

A special from Havana says: At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning about 100 army officers, incensed by the violent attacks made by some of the local papers on the general-in-chief and the principal officers of the Spanish army in Cuba, went to the printing offices of the daily journals, La Discuscion and El Reconcentrado, and began smashing the windows and destroying the printing outfits, as well as cuffing the employes. A mob of thousands followed, shouting "Long live Spain," "Long live the army," "Long live the volunteers." The appearance at the office of La Discuscion of General Garriche, acting military commander at Havana, and General Solano, chief of staff, prevented more serious outrages. The officers then proceeded to the office of El Diario de la Marina, the mob meanwhile shouting "Death to El Concentrado" and "Death to La Discuscion." But on the appearance of General Parrado the people scattered.

At 11:30 large crowds of citizens appeared opposite the office of El Diario de la Marina and began smashing the doors and shouting "Long live Spain," "Long live the army," "Long live the volunteers."

The gendarmerie dispersed the rioters. Order was finally established. Central Park has been transformed into a military camp. There has been great excitement among the authorities, who have taken all necessary precautions to maintain order. The troops have been ordered into barracks. The police are guarding the printing offices.

At 8:30 in the evening groups of civilians formed again in the plaza de Armasy in front of the palace, shouting, "Long live Spain," "Long live the king," "Long live Weyler," and "Down with autonomy."

Warships in Readiness.

The battleships Maine and Marblehead, at Key West, have received orders to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to Cuba at an instant's warning. The orders came by telegraph. In compliance with these orders, the commanders of the battleships have made all arrangements to get under way without delay. They have been placed in communication with General Lee, who will cable them whether or not it is necessary for them to go to Havana.

Consul Lee's Report.

United States Consul General Lee has reported to the state department from Havana under date of Wednesday the facts connected with the rioting there Tuesday. While the state department officials do not divulge the text of the dispatch, it is said that they corroborate the news that has been revealed on the subject. According to General Lee's report the disturbance has been quelled for the time being, but he was apprehensive of another outbreak at any moment.

Massacre Story False.

Indian Agent Wisdom, at Muskogee, I. T., has wired the state department concerning the reported massacre of white settlers by Indians, as follows: "The reports in the papers that the Seminoles are on the warpath are absolutely false. Clerk Wisdom has just returned from Wewoka, and states that all is quiet. There is no probable uprising of the Indians. Commissioner Fears is proceeding with the investigation of the two Indians."

Largest Cargo of Cotton Ever Shipped.

The British steamship Ranza was cleared Thursday from Savannah, Ga., for Bremen, with 18,200 bales of cotton, weighing 8,963,855 pounds, valued at $524,952. This is the largest cargo of cotton ever shipped from an Atlantic port, and is over 7,000 bales more than was ever shipped from this port on any vessel. The Ranza has an additional weight of 660 tons of coal and 400 tons of water ballast, and draws 21 feet 10 inches.

Bill to Increase the Navy.

Senator Morgan Thursday introduced a bill providing for the increase of the naval establishment by the construction of four coast defense monitors of the class of the Miantonomah, Amphitrite, Monadnock and Terror. The bill provides that the vessels shall be fitted with the pneumatic system, similar to that in use on the Terror, and $400,000 is appropriated to commence the construction of the vessels.

A New Party Born.

At the conference of populist leaders held at St. Louis a new political party was born. It was christened "The People's Party." The people's party proposes to go it alone. It has severed connection with the national populist committee, and made all arrangements for administering its own estate without the aid or advice of any outside party.

New Postmasters.

The following postmasters were appointed Thursday for Alabama: D. J. Bloodworth, Cowart, Henry county; Daniel W. Morton, Fayette, Fayette county.

FAVORS ITALIAN REPUBLIC.

Co-Existence of the Vatican and Monarchy Impossible

POPE'S ALLOCUTION FORMS THE BASIS

Of an Article Which Declares That There Can Be No Peace With a King—Decree Has Produced a Profound Sensation in All Circles.

The Rome correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle in a startling statement quotes largely from an article in Civilta Cattolica which he declares is directly inspired by the vatican and the pope advocating as the solution of the eternal question between the vatican and the quirinal the establishment of an Italian republic.

The article, which is based on the pope's Christmas allocution, declares that the thing which stands opposed to papal independence is not Italian unity but "the special and concrete form wherein that unity is at present maintained with results much more disastrous to the state than to the holy see."

It proceeds to assert that the co-existence of the vatican and the Italian monarchy is responsible, and that one or the other must go. It then suggests the constitutions of Switzerland and America as examples of "admirable and glorious constitutions, true unities of nation and state, though differing from that of Italy, which has produced nothing but weakness, misery and starvation."

The article concludes:

"Without the aid of foreign bayonets the true Italy will find for itself its own way and will rise again, let us hope, from the ignominy in which it now lies prostrate to true greatness."

The Daily Chronicle's correspondent asserts that that this is "an intentional revelation to the outer world of the policy actuating the inner mind of Cardinal Rampolla," the secretary of state. He adds:

"Probably there would be no truth in the supposition that either Cardinal Rampolla or the pope had any idea of even a temporary alliance with the republican party, but yet they believe that, while peace with the king is impossible, it might be possible with a republic. The reason for the appearance of this astounding pronouncement at the present moment is the belief that not only the ministry, but the dynasty itself is menaced more seriously than usual."

TO UNITE ALL FACTIONS.

Silver Leaders Will Endeavor to Work in Union for the Fight in '98.

As a result of conferences held in Washington in the last few days between the silver leaders of the various parties, it is understood that Chairman Jones, of the national democratic committee, Chairman Butler, of the populist national committee, and Chairman Towne, of the silver national republican committee, will issue a joint manifesto the early part of next week with a view to securing common action by the three organizations in the contest of 1898. The document is now in the course of preparation. It will appeal to all those interested in the cause of silver to work in union.

Wreck on the Mobile and Ohio.

Southbound freight train, No. 13, on the Mobile and Ohio, was wrecked about twenty-five miles north of Meridian Thursday night. As a result the negro fireman, Guy Claiborne, is dead, a white brakeman, Will Cunningham, is, it is thought, fatally wounded, and Engineer Charles Connell is badly hurt. The train crashed into an open switch and struck a train of cars on the side track.

Blanco Threatened.

Passengers who have arrived at Key West from Havana report that Captain-General Blanco has been threatened with an attack by a mob, and is mobilizing his loyal forces to be ready for any such demonstration. Most of the newspapers have been compelled to suspend publication, and those that are published are compelled to have their matter examined before using it.

Knoxville Elects a Republican Mayor.

Captain William Rule, a republican, has been elected mayor of Knoxville, Tenn. The republicans also elected the chairman of the board of public works, but lacked one of getting a majority of the board of aldermen. The democrats had two tickets in the field, which caused their defeat. The entire city government will change hands.

General Delgado Killed.

A dispatch received from Spanish sources in Pinar del Rio says that the insurgent brigadier, Gen. Parico Delgado, has been killed by his followers, and that his own staff, including Lopez Marin, has surrendered to the Spanish authorities.

ALABAMA NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Will Not Grant License.

The contest case over the application for license to sell liquor at Greenbrier in the southern portion of Limestone county has been decided by Judge Horton against the application for license.

A Novel Suit.

Ex-Convict H. C. Hervey has brougt suit against the Sloss Iron & Steel Company, at Birmingham for $1,000 damages, claiming as the basis of his suit that he was unlawfully forced to work on Sundays and holidays.

Alabama Postmasters.

The following postmasters were appointed for Alabama Friday: John C. Tompkins, Bellgreen, Franklin county; A. H. Black, Hope Hull, Montgomery county; Joseph Schronberg, Scott Station, Perry county: Alexander White, White Hall, Lowndes county.

Two Tramps Killed.

Fast freight train No. 21, northbound, on the Alabama Midland of the Plant system was derailed Friday at or near Snowdoun, ten miles south of Montgomery. Two white tramps, whose names are not known, were killed and fourteen cars badly torn up. There was a general shaking up, but no other serious damage was done.

Election at Fruithurst.

At the municipal election held at Fauithurst Mr. J. A. Westerlund, the founder of the Scandinavian colony was elected mayor. Mr. Westerlund is at the head of an extensive immigration agency, and in consequence it is considered that his election will result in material augmentation of Northern energy and capital to the already prosperous condition of Fruithurst.

Boy Accidentally Killed.

At Stanton, Chilton county, Claude Jeffcoat was accidentally shot and killed by his companion, Manly Weaver, while out hunting one day last week. They were going through a field when a covey of birds flew up. Young Weaver had the gun and as he started to shoot Claude Jeffcoat took hold of the gun with his left hand on the muzzle and saying, "it is my time to shoot," made an effort to take the gun, when the hammer fell, the charge of shot taking effect in Jeffcoat's side.

Another Fruit Colony.

A deal has been closed by which Alabama will secure another fruit colony. The persons behind the enterprise are Chicagoans with ample capital, and a determination to make a success of their undertaking. The syndicate has purchased 30,000 acres of fine land in Morgan county on the line of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and will cut it up into small farms, as has been done at Fruithurst and Thorsby. The new settlement or colony will be called Vinemount. A number of substantial Illinois families are already arranging to remove to the colony.

Talks of the Farmers' Convention.

Major Culver, commissioner of agriculture, ascribes the small attendance to the state farmers' convention at Montgomery to hard times very largely. He says he has hundreds of letters from persons in all parts of the state expressing their heartiest sympathy in the movement, in fact, declaring their enthusiastic interest in it, but saying that, not having got any money out of the sale of their 5-cent cotton, they could not afford to make the trip. Major Culver is confident the small beginning will eventually develop a great society which will accomplish an abundance of good for the state.

Improvement of the Tennessee.

In an interview with Col. Harvey Lewis, superintendent of the American Oak Extract Company of Decatur, in reference to the Tennessee river convention at Chattanooga last week, he said:

"In my opinion congress will allow the $2,000,000 for the improvement of the Tennessee. If this amount were spent on improving the river it would be navigable the year round, and would be worth more to Decatur than forty railroads. In order to put the river in a navigable condition the year round it will be necessary to put in a system of slack-water navigation. Nature has given us one of the most beautiful and useful rivers in the United States, and by the aid of man it can be made one of the greatest commercial rivers in the land."

A Novel Scheme.

Among the novel cotton schemes proposed to Hon. H. D. Lane, president of the American Cotton Growers' Protective association, within the past few days, is the following from a Louisiana planter:

"Plant enough land in cotton to grow one-half the number of bales grown last year and devote the difference in acreage to food and hay crops. Buy for future delivery one-half the number of bales grown last year and the profit on the future deal will make the half crop of spot cotton worth as much as was the large crop of last year."

The Situation Is Not So Bad.

The report of Major Rucker, who was sent to Dyea recently for the purpose of reconnoitering the ground preparatory to starting the government relief expedition and interviewing persons coming from Dawson on the need of relief, has been received at Seattle, Wash., and forwarded to Brigadier General Merriam at Vancouver barracks. While the exact tenor of the report is not known, it is stated that it discouraged any unnecessary expenditure of energy and money in carrying out the proposed expedition.

Mr. Lane thinks the scheme is a good one, and that it can be worked successfully under certain conditions.

Big Enterprise at Muscle Shoals.

One of the most important industrial movements ever inaugurated in Alabama culminated in the organization at Sheffield the past week of the Muscle Shoals Power Company, under a charter granted by the state. The object of the organization is to develop the great power at Muscle Shoals, ten miles above Sheffield. An immense electrical plant, costing half a million dollars, will be erected, and power, light and heat will be transmitted to the adjacent towns within a radius of seventy-five miles. Ample capital for carrying the work to a successful end has been guaranteed, and there is no doubt about the great enterprise going through. New York and Baltimore capitalists, after thoroughly investigating the matter, have pledged themselves to furnish the necessary funds. Within the next twelve months the Muscle Shoals Power Company will be able to furnish power for turning every wheel in every factory and shop in the Tennessee valley.

LARGE CATTLE TRADE.

Thousands of Head Shipped to the West for Fattening Purposes.

Three train loads of Alabama cattle left Birminghim last Friday over the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad for points in Indian Territory and Kansas. These will be the last shipments of live stock from this state to the western pastures for fattening purposes this season, as the cattle quarantine went into effect on the 15th inst.

The business of shipping Alabama cattle to the west has been a big one since November. It is estimated that between 40,000 and 50,000 head have left the state this winter. Alabama has been fairly drained of its young beef. The reason for this extraordinary shipment lies in the fact of the duty on Mexican and Central American cattle, which was fixed by the Dingley bill at $3 per head on the average. At this price the cattle feeders found it more profitable to buy at home than to bring cattle across the border. Alabama has received the benefit. The cattle have been gathered by brokers at central points, especially in such North Alabama cities and towns as Birmingham, Huntsville, Gadsden, Athens, Collinsville and the Decaturs, and shipped by the train load to Kansas, Missouri and Indian Territory to be fattened for slaughter by the big packing houses.

THE ALABAMA AND TOMBIGBEE.

Articles of Incorporation For the New Road Filed.

The organization of the Alabama and Tombigbee Railroad Company has been completed by the filing with the secretary of state of all the final papers and the issuing of the certificate of incorporation. This railroad is to extend from Lower Peachtree, in Wilcox county, to Coffeeville, in Clarke county, a distance of about forty miles. The incorporators and owners are the gentlemen who compose the Scotch Lumber Company at Fulton. This means a great deal for the development of that part of the State of Alabama. The capital stock is paid in full in cash. Much of the right of way is already secured, and a few miles of the road have been graded and track laid. It connects with the Mobile and Birmingham railroad at Fulton.

CONDENSED STATE ITEMS.

Birmingham's total cotton receipts up to January 13 have been 88,214 bales.

The house of Stephen Carter, a negro, near Greensboro, was destroyed by fire. Three small children perished in the flames.

Arguments in the Crowe-Underwood contested election case from the Ninth district was heard before election committee No. 1 Friday.

The machinery of the Alabama Kaolin company at Fort Payne is expected next week. The company will employ from 125 to 150 hands.

The saw mills of Baldwin county are unable to supply the demand for building material. Over 500 houses will be built in the county this winter.

Free Coinage Bill Introduced.

Representative Bland Thursday introduced a free coinage bill in the lower house of congress. It makes gold the standard and declares all rules discriminating against the legal tender of such coinage unlawful.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the

City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant
Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

P. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.
Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College

AND

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.
SPLENDID BUILDING.
GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.
FIVE INSTRUCTORS.
VERY REASONABLE TERMS.

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE FOR.....

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS,

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original series.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

in these missing word contests. It sets aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received from subscribers guessing at the missing word, and this fund is given to the successful guesser or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed with absolute fairness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has MORE THAN 150,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent from all guessers' subscriptions for this distribution fund shows that the amount to be divided at each interval is large enough to be worth striving for. It is not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but the plan is open and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post Office Department as a meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken is deposited in a safety vault, under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a competent committee, which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,000; and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess, and even though not successful, the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE, SEVEN-COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America; its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.
AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.
ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.
ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENT, Its Woman's Department and Its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize—everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,
Montevallo, Alabama.

LANIER BROOM MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices.

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Do You Know

RAMON'S LIVER PILLS

and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by a Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses
The Tonic Pellet Invigorates

The little "Doctor's Book" tells all about it and a week's Treatment free proves every word true. Complete Treatment 25 cents. Brown Mf'g. Co., N. Y. & Greeneville, Tenn.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

And other specialties for Gentlemen, Ladies, Boys and Misses are the Best in the World.

See descriptive advertisement which will appear in this paper.

Take no Substitute, but insist on having W. L. DOUGLAS' SHOES, with name and price stamped on bottom. Sold by

---

JONES

HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

This would be a comparatively happy world if everybody knew the virtues of SMITH'S BILE BEANS as a family medicine, and acted upon that knowledge. One half the misery of the world comes from ailments which arise from a bad stomach or a bad liver. Chiefest among these are dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache and Neuralgia.

BILE BEANS will cure all of these, besides all miasmatic diseases. Dose: One Bean

---

Many a person is starving with a full table before them. Appetite gone! Ambition gone! Life a burden!! What is the matter? The Liver has ceased to do its proper work. The life channels are clogged. Poisonous fluids are thrown back into the blood, which should be thrown out. SMITH'S BILE BEANS will surely stimulate the liver to do its work well, and headache, sallowness and bad breath will flee away. Price, 25 cents per bottle. All druggists.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.

Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

MONTEVALLO NEW

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 27, '97.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

They Are Mighty Good Things to Have,

And the O d-Fashioned Girl Had Them But Alas! for The Changes Time Has Wrought.

BY SAMUEL MINTURN PECK.

Accomplishments are very desirable possessions. Everybody should have at least one. How any human being can sit down contentedly and be an ordinary person is past my comprehension. But the number of talents hidden away in napkins is sad to think. When I see one of the napkin people, who go about sighing for accomplishments which they are too lazy to acquire, I feel like giving them a shake.

I once knew a man who had a most singular accomplishment. He could sit quite still without apparently moving a muscle, and wiggle his ears, first one ear, then the other, and then both together. When he wished to attract any ones attention, or give additional point to a jest, he found it much more original to wink his ear than his eye. If any one whistled a tune this man could keep perfect time to it with his ear. He couldn't turn a tune himself, yet he unquestionably had an ear for music. It was a beautiful sight to see him gracefully beating time with his ears to "White Wings" or "When the Robins Nest Again."

Some people may think this man's queer accomplishment a very silly one, and one, perhaps, to be ashamed of. But I do not think so It certainly gave great enjoyment to many people and shed much sunlight on the paths of his fellow beings. Besides he himself took sincere pleasure in exhibiting his singular gift.

He told me that he discovered accidentally, when a boy, that he could wiggle one of his ears, and finding himself thus endowed with an unusual talent he determined not to hide its light under a bushel, but to cultivate his rare endowment to its highest degree. His success I have narrated. He also informed me that he had found his accomplishment charmingly useful even in solitude. For instance, when a fly came buzzing around all that he had to do was to wiggle his ear and the astonished insect soon disappeared. In mosquito time his auricular accomplishment was invaluable.

Accomplishments are truly much to be desired: but much time and patience are necessary for their acquisition, and yet how many people after they have acquired them, suffer them to rust and disappear with disuse! This is quite sad to see. It is the fate of roses and dimples and shining tresses to fade before the scythe of Time. This is inevitable. But accomplishments can and should last a lifetime. I once knew a dear old lady who thought so. She lived in southwestern Alabama. She had been a beauty and a belle in her day and when I saw her at three score and ten she was quaintly charming still. She made one think of patches, puffs and powder and all the fashions and graces of a by gone day, when beauties danced the minuet and scented their bowers with potpourri.

The illusion was quite complete when she sat down at the piano, at three score and ten, mind you, and played "Speed and Plough" with wonderful brilliancy and a dozen variations. That was, indeed, something to have listened to.

Yet the loveliest time of all was when she cleared her little old throat and rendered the fashionable songs of sixty years ago. I remember one of them was called the "Camel Drivers Song" and had in it many bells and much tinkling. Another one began:

"What fairy like music steals o'er the sea."

Still another ran thus:

"I'd be a butterfly born in a bower,
Where roses and lilies and violets meet;
Roving forever from flower to flower
And kissing all buds that are pretty and sweet."

But the dear old lady did not confine her vocal songs entirely to the songs of Haynes Bayley and Tom Moore. Oh, no indeed! She sang modern ballads too. I shall never forget how she used to sing:

"We parted by the river side
And the moon looked down on you and me."

She had been three times married, and was a widow with great grand children when she sang the foregoing sentimental song. I used to wonder which one of her three dead spouses she was thinking of "by the river side." Perhaps it was none of the three, but some fourth hapless swain whose heart she had lacerated half a century ago.

This accomplished old lady was still alive when I heard last—still alive and a shining example to the belles of today; and if she is still living, I am sure she is still singing. If she keeps up her record she will die with a song upon her dear old lips, and perhaps it will be:

"What fairy like music steals o'er the sea!"

The value of an accomplishment is well exemplified in the case of Mrs. Alice Shaw of Detroit. This accomplished woman has forever destroyed the verity of the well known adage.

"Whistling girls and crowing hens,
Always come to some bad end."

Mrs Shaw discovered by accident that she had a turn for whistling. Being a woman of determination as well as originality, she resolved to cultivate her talent. She was more encouraged to do so by observing that the act of whistling gave a very pouting and pretty expession to her mouth. Women always think of such things.

At first, Mrs Shaw whistled only for her most intimate friends. By and by so skillful did she become in her dainty and novel art that she was invited everywhere and made to whistle for her supper at the houses of the leaders of society. It is well-known that society leaders are the greatest "dead beats" on the globe.

Becoming still more an adept in her tunefully sibilant roulades and arpeggios, Mrs. Shaw thought that she ought to receive something more than her supper, and being a woman of spirit she determined to have it. Shaking the unprofitable dust of Detroit from her wee and winsome feet, and bracing her courage to the puckering point she went to New York, whistled at concerts with a piano accompaniment, and took the town by storm. She soon had more engagements offered than she could possibly fill, even if she had had a dozen pairs of lips instead of one. After a time she sailed for London and repeated there her New York successes, was feted by all the nobility, and was requested by the prince of Wales, at an entertainment, to whistle the popular waltz, "My Queen," which she did with the most astonishiug variations.

Accomplishments are charming possessions, even when one does not exhibit them for pecuniary returns. I did not mention Mrs. Shaws career for the purpose of inciting all the married women to whistle, but only to show what may be done with an apparently trifling talent when cultivated with patience and determination.

Alas! I am afflicted with a suspicion that accomplishments are on the decline among the fair sex. I would that I could banish the distressing idea but I cannot. How many girls of my acquaintance can perform a piece of even moderate difficulty neatly on the piano? How many can sing even a simple ballad with taste and feeling? How many can speak or read the French or German language with any degree of ease? How many can sketch from nature? How many can write a bright and graceful letter?—Dear me! I am very sorry I put the last question. It recalls a pathetic orthographical error which came to my knowledge a few days ago. Dear reader, come mingle your tears with mine.

A charming society girl wrote a letter to a young man. In her letter she said that she would like to have his taste and advice in a certain matter in which she was much interested. She declared that she hesitated to ask such a favor of him, and would not have done so if she had not have known he we was such a "connersure" (connoisseur). Of course the young man complied. An enchantresss who wielded such a "spell" must be obeyed.

Yes, I very much fear that accomplishments are on the decline. Or if not, they have certainly changed their anatomical location in lovely woman. Doubtless that is a better way to express the mournful truth. The peerless oldfashioned girl was accomplished at all points. The new fashioned girl has become a specialist. She confines her accomplishments to her feet. For instance, instead of having French at the tip of her tongue, she prefers to have it in the heel of her dainty slipper; and in the place of reading German she dances it. But she is very charming in spite of her decadence—especially to gaze upon. Indeed, so lovely is she in this regard, that if she could only be "seen and not heard," as little children are sometimes told to be, she would be almost perfect. As she is—alas! one sighs over her neglected capabilities.

What is the Use

GOING TO

Selma or Birmingham

TO BUY GOODS WHEN YOU CAN GET EXACTLY THE SAME GOODS AT THE SAME OR LESS COST AT

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS.

Montevallo, - - Ala.

SI

The Dorm

Capt. Re
Washington

Miss Linda turned to her hon

***

Miss Nell Parker
for a few days on ac health.

***

The heavy wind a few da blew down one of the large tre the grove.

***

Some pretty dresses have been made in the Dressmaking department this month.

***

Mr. Gibson has borrowed the "News" phonograph—guess he wants it to sing the baby to sleep.

***

You just ought to hear some of Mrs. Hudson's girls telegraph—Kitty had better look to his laurels.

***

Miss Marie Pearce came back to school Monday from Oxford, where she went to see her brother who was ill.

***

The latest arrivals at the college are Miss Maxie Snow, of Oxford, and Miss Mary Jones and Miss Lena Young of Weavers.

***

Some of the girls have been weeping bitterly for the past week—that handsome editor who was lately with the News has gone.

***

Miss Fitts rejoices over the addition to her class room of an elegant new globe, and Miss Kennedy, a case of beautiful wall maps.

***

Many young ladies in the Typewriting department have become adepts in the art and can play any kind of a tune on a typewriter.

THE GARRETT CLATTER.

I dont hear the young folks patter
Like they used to long ago
Up the stairs to raise a clatter
Underneath the rafters low.
What's the reason things is stille,
Since the young folks went away
John an' Joe an' sweet Permiller?
Looks as if they'd gone to stay.

Wife, there hain't no sunshine gushin'
In the way it used to come;
'T only seems as if the pushin'
Shadders was a-comin' hum.
Sorter quietlike an' dreary,
Only us two here alone:
Jist the days seem draggin' weary
Like a long and dismal moan.

In the garrett things is quiet,
Mice and spiders has their way,
Where the youngsters used to riot
In their childish pranks an' play.
Sweet Permiller used to tag 'em,
Joe and John in corners dark,
An' the maiden used to fag 'em,
Tire 'em out an' raise a lark.

When the bumblebees was droonin'
An' the flowers was in bloom,
An' the lilac bush was groanin'
With the scent of its perfume,
Then the young folks used to patter
Up the stairs a long-ago—
Up the stairs to raise a clatter
Underneath the rafters low.

Seems to me I'm sometimes dreamin'
Of the things that used to be,
Till the old life comes a-streamin'
Back ag'in to you an' me.
Then I hear the young folks patter
Up the stairs they used to go,
There to raise a garrett clatter
Underneath the rafters low.

—Waverley Magazin

o News.

EEKLY.

ALABAMA.

the funniest nelik, Negus is descent in non and the s were queswould have you hinted
r somewhere
. There is, n France, the ow on their nd that most oah, and they man as their res acknowledged to than the labor of any

We are fortunate in of a class of skilled ho are endowed with suf-ns and alertness to quickly the most intricate machines.
common school system, which been maintained for 100 years, as laid the foundation of superior average intelligence, and our numerous excellent scientific schools and schools of technology have given great opportunity to boys of a practical and mechanical turn of mind.

Says the New York Times:—A contemporary states that it is safer to be a convicted murderer in the United States than an innocent man, and submits these data as proof: Not one convicted murderer in fifty is hanged or killed by electricity; of the men lynched a much larger proportion than 1 in 50 was innocent. We have no means at hand for verifying these figures, nor are we able to determine what proportion of the population are convicted murderers or what proportion are unjustly executed. The conclusion, merely from casual observation, seems plausible; the logic is sound. Still, if it be not too optimistic, we should like some more data to guide us."

After all, schools are the greatest civilizers, exclaims the New York Mail and Express. Secretary Bliss, of the Interior Department, reports 26,000 Indian children enrolled in the schools last year. Tribal relations are being broken up and Indian lands divided into severalty. The aborigine, however, has not yet been educated up to the point of holding on to the land, and as a consequence it soon passes into the hands of his white brothers, notwithstanding the paternal restrictions thrown round him by the government. The Indian has not yet learned the necessity of promptly meeting taxes, and owing to his failure to come to time with respect to this exaction, a considerable amount of his lands, in Minnesota, passed from him last year. Until our red brother learns that taxes are as certain as that other certain thing, death, he should have some special provision in law for his protection.

One of the really valuable products of the Government Printing Office at Washington is the annual report which George F. Kunz renders on the yield of precious stones in the United States, declares the New York Sun. Mr. Kunz's expert knowledge in this specialty has been for years at the service of the United States Geological Survey, and thus becomes part of official literature. The report for 1896, just published, contains a table of values as represented by the various gems discovered in the United States during the year. It is interesting to observe how the values are apportioned Here are a few items:

Turquoise	$40,000
Sapphire	10,000
Gold quartz	10,000
Tourmaline	3,000
Garnet	2,500
Ruby	1,000
Amethyst	500
Topaz	200
Opal	200
Emerald	None
Diamond	None

The list includes many precious minerals which would not strictly be classed as gems, and the total value assigned is a little under $100,000. The prominence of the turquoise in the American list is recent, the yield being large in Arizona and New Mexico.

A BRIEF RESUME OF STATE NEWS.

Big Trade in Coal With the Planters of Louisiana---President Culver Appoints His Committee for the Alabama State Agricultural Society---New Code for Alabama to Go Into Effect---Indian Head Cotton Mills Put in Operation---Desperate Attempt of a Burglar---A Wild Man.

AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE.

President Culver Has Made His Appointments.

The Alabama State Agricultural Society is perfecting itself, and will soon be a power in the state for the good of the farmers and land owners.

Commissioner of Agriculture Culver, as president of the agricultural society, has appointed the following executive committee:

First district—Hon. Mims Walker, of Marengo, and J. R. Cowan, of Clarke.

Second district—M. B. Houghton, of Montgomery, and John T. Dale, of Wilcox.

Third district—C. H. Franklin, of Bullock, and John B. Ward, of Henry.

Fourth district—John F. Burns, of Dallas, and J. M. Thornton, of Talladega.

Fifth district—J. H. Harris, of Chambers, and W. W. Walden, of Coosa.

Sixth district—C. P. Mills, of Sumter, and N. N. Clements, of Tuskaloosa.

Seventh district—J. J. Mitchell, of Lauderdale, and J. P. Hampton, of Madison.

Ninth district—Sam Will John, of Jefferson, and W. C. Tunstall, of Hale.

NEW CODE OF ALABAMA.

Gov. Jhonston Issues a Proclamation for It to Go Into Effect February 17.

Governor Johnston Friday issued a proclamation under the terms of which the new code of Alabama goes into effect on Feb. 17. The code is now being distributed to the judicial and other officers entitled to it.

The new code is believed to be an exceedingly satisfactory compilation of the laws of the state. It was prepared by former Attorney-General Wm. L. Martin, Judge A. D. Sayre and Hon. P. C. Massie, all of Montgomery. These gentlemen have spent a large part of the past two years in perfecting the compilation and arrangement of the laws and have given especial attention to the preparation of a satisfactory index, a feature in which the old code is sadly lacking.

The new volume is larger than the old by reason of the fact that the state has more laws than it had ten years ago.

Indian Cotton Mill in Operation.

The big Indian Head cotton mills at Cordova was put in operation Monday. In the amount of floor space these mills are larger than the Avondale mills at Birmingham, but the number of spindles is somewhat smaller, being 25,000. One thousand looms are in the mills. These mills will use 10,000 bales of cotton a year. The plant has been constructed by a number of Eastern capitalists and so assured are they of its success that they will soon begin work on another cotton mill equally as large as the one just completed. The principal product of the Indian Head mills will be heavy sheetings and almost the entire output will be shipped to China.

Good Roads Convention.

It is expected that there will be more than three hundred delegates in attendance at the good roads convention to be held in Annniston on February 16. Already a number of counties have appointed delegates. The anniversary carnival and trades' display, to be held on the same day, will be the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted in that city. Sixty business houses have consented to have floats in the parade.

New Police Commissioners.

Governor Johnston has appointed Ex-Mayor David J. Fox and Ex Alderman John M. McCartin, police commissioner of the city of Birmingham, who will fill the vacancies on the board caused by the expiration of the terms of Colonel A. H. Stevens and M. C. Reynolds, whose incumbency was at an end on December 31 1897.

Shot in the Back.

James Bald, a mine boss at Ishkooda, Jefferson county, was shot in the back Friday and is in a critical condition and may not live. The shooting was done by Frank Simmons, a 19-year-old white youth. What led up to the shooting is not known and there seems to be some mystery connected with the affair. It is stated that young Simmons walked into the mine office, where Mr. Bald was at work on a tally sheet. The two had some words, the substance of which is unknown, and Simmons drew a revolver and shot Bald in the back. As soon as the shot was fired Simmons fled, and has thus far succeeded in eluding capture.

GOLD BONDS ISSUED

By the Avondale Cotton Mills at Birmingham—Will Start in May.

The stockholdors of the Avondale Cotton Mills, Birmingham's new half million dollar enterprise, at a meeting held Friday afternoon, authorized the issuance of $100,000 6 per cent. five year gold bonds. The entire issue was at once taken by Major J. M. Lewis. The treasurer was also instructed to sell off $100,000 more if in stock, at not less than par and $10,000 if it was taken on the spot by one individual. The remainder will be disposed of in a very few days. When this is done $500,000 of stock and bonds will be outstanding. The affairs of the company, which is controlled by Birmingham and Eastern capitalists, were found to be in excellent shape. The mills, which will be among the largest in the South, are almost complete, and will begin operation May 1. Their output has already been sold for several months ahead.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

The boiler works at Sheffield are in active operation.

Morris Franklin, city sexton of Montgomery, died the past week.

Jefferson alias Jack Knight was hanged at Mobile Friday for the murder of Frank Dantzler.

Work is well advanced on the Mobile and Ohio bridge over the Alabama river at Montgomery.

Andrew Nixon, colored, while coupling cars at Montgomery, fell and was ground to death under the wheels.

The Central Alabama stock show, a Selma institution, has been wound up, and 37 per cent refunded to subscribers.

The date for the hearing of the contested election case of Goodwyn vs. Brewer, Fifth district, has been set for February 9.

James Bald, a clerk in the commissary at Smith's Mines, Jefferson county, was fatally shot by Charley Simmons last Friday.

L. J. Fuller has been convicted of the murder of Thomas Henry, at Fruithurst in 1895, and sentenced to thirty years in the penitentiary.

J. Sternfield, an attorney of prominence and ability, of Montgomery, has been appointed district attorney for the middle district of Alabama.

Anthony Stribbling, the engineer who was fatally hurt in a wreck on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroad last week, died from the effects of his injuries.

Desperate Attempt of a Burglar.

An attempted murder took place Saturday night at Stockton mines, near Coalburg. Two negroes broke into the house of Frank McNamara, a well known mine contractor, for the purpose of robbery. While they were in the midst of their search Mr. McNamara returned to the room and discovered them in the act. As he entered the door he was shot by one of the desperate characters with a 44-calibre pistol, the ball taking effect in the abdomen and inflicting a dangerous wound, which it is thought will prove fatal. The negroes secured $300 and immediately fled.

Failed to Appear.

Three cases against Oscar W. Cowan, at Birmingham, charging embezzlement and grand larceny, were set for trial, but the defendant failed to answer and a forfeiture was issued against his bondsmen. Cowan is under a $300 bond in each case.

Laying Off Vinemount Colony.

Engineer Rivers Carter is busy laying off the land for Vinemount colony near Cullman. The task will occupy about six months. A portion of the land is being divided into town lots, while much of it will be reserved for vineyards and fruit farms.

Plowman Loses His Seat.

Elections committee No. 3 met Friday and decided to report to the house a resolution seating Aldrich and unseating Plowman as the duly elected representative from the Fourth Alabama district. The vote in the committee was strictly a party one, the democrats voting to allow Plowman to retain his seat and the republicans in favor of the resolution seating Aldrich. The committee will make a report in about three weeks.

A New Health Resort.

Chicago capitalists have begun work on a big sanitarium at Pinnacle, Ala., on the top of Sand Mountain near Cullman.

BIG TRADE IN COAL

Is Being Worked Up by Alabama Operators With Louisiana Planters.

The shipment of Alabama coal down the Mississippi river for consumption on Louisiana plantations is about to begin again on a large scale. The first tow of the new year consisting of 6,000 tons will move southward from Greenville, Miss., the western terminus of the Southern railway, next week. The coal is from the Walker county mines and is now being loaded on the barges at Greenville. The Southern railway has recently completed splendid facilities for handling coal at Greenville and loading it on the barges, and it is expected that a large business will be done in the movement of the Alabama black diamond this winter. Heavy orders are coming in from the Louisiana sugar planters and towns along the river and the outlook is for a big trade. Pittsburg operators are also moving a large amount of coal down the Mississippi, but with the improved facilities at their command and lower freight rates which have been granted, the Alabama producers feel able to share very largely in the river trade. Alabama's river shipments this winter and spring will it is figured be about 150,000 tons.

Committee Meeting Changed.

Chairman Knox, of the state democratic executive committee has issued the following: "Inasmuch as a conflict in the date designated for the meeting of the state democratic executive committee, and as the date fixed for mardi gras at Mobile and Birmingham will prevent some members from being present, the time of the meeting of said committee is hereby changed from February 22, 1898, to February 15, 1898. Members of the committee will please take notice of this change."

Suicide at Steele.

James Hood, a young man of Steele, committed suicide Saturday morning by shooting himself through the heart in his room. He was in town early and in the best of spirits. On his way home he had some words with an Alabama Great Southern railroad section hand and knocked the negro down. He thought he had killed the negro and went directly home and shot himself through the heart.

Forbids Increase of Rates.

The state railroad commission of Alabama has issued an order forbidding the railroads to increase the local freight rates 4 per cent per 100 in less-than-carload-lots, as has been attempted by several lines recently. The rates on carloads and less than carloads in Alabama thus remain the same, which is a big victory for Alabama jobbing interests.

Mysterious Wild Man.

A mysterious wild man has caused a great deal of excitement among the residents of the northern part of Huntsville. The man is an old one, and generally goes about in his shirt sleeves. A party of young men were held up by the wild man and chased for some distance Thursday night. He carried a large pistol.

Two Cruisers for Mobile.

Representatives Taylor and Underwood called at the navy yard and requested that several war vessels be sent to Mobile next month to take part in the mardi gras festivities. Secretary Long has promised that two cruisers from the white squadron now in southern waters shall be ordered to Mobile.

TERSELY TOLD TELEGRAMS.

M. Ernest Bazin, the inventor of the roller steamer, died in Paris.

The Citizens bank of New Louisville, Ark., closed its doors Friday.

Hon. Allen D. Candler will be a candidate for governor of Georgia.

It is estimated that one case of smallpox at Elberton, Ga., cost the town $2,500.

Dr. William A. Love, one of the foremost Masons in the United States, and one of the oldest and best known physicians in the south, died at his residence in Atlanta last week, aged 74.

The Indian Head Cotton Mill company at Cordova, Ala., proposes to build 250 cottages. They are to be eight-room double cottages, and will be rented at 85 cents a room a month.

Senator Finck's bill to gerrymander the congressional districts of Ohio was introduced Friday before adjournment. The purpose of the bill is to legislate Congressman Grosvenor out of office and put a democrat in his place.

G. H. Smith, the Nominee.

G. H. Smith defeated W. P. Gladdis for the nomination of mayor of Wetumpka by nineteen votes.

Ninety-Nine-Year Sentence.

At Selma Jonas Bates has been convicted of the murder of H. C. Randall and sentenced to ninety-nine years in the penitentiary.

Rice Farming.

Over 2,500 bushels of upland rice was shipped in one day of last week from Daphne. It brought 90 cents a bushel. The farmers about Daphne will cultivate a larger acreage this season.

To Erect a Large Saw Mill.

Messrs. Hunnicut & Neil have leased a place at Centreville for the location of a saw mill, all the necessary arrangements having been made, and they propose to have a $30,000 plant erected and ready for business by the time the first schedule train on the Mobile & Ohio reaches that place.

Donations for State Normal Schools.

Superintendent of Education Turner says he has received up to date $2,336 of the Slater fund and $3,050 of the Peabody fund as donations to the state normal schools. These amounts are about half the respective sums annually appropriated to the schools of Alabama, and it is expected the remaining half will be sent in within a short time.

Debt Caused a Killing.

A personal altercation between D. P. Vickory, lawyer, and Dr. J. C. Taylor occurred at Haleyville Monday in which the former was shot and killed. Vickory was indebted to Taylor and Taylor attacked Vickory on last Saturday. Monday the latter came to town to seek revenge, and when they met a fight with pistols ensued, in which Vickory was shot and instantly killed.

Three Stills Raided.

Deputy Collector W. C. Hanlin has reported the raiding of the following stills during the past week: Three miles south of Edwardsville, one fifty-gallon copper still, five fermenters and one flake stand; four miles west of Oak Level, one fifty-gallon still, 1,000 gallons of beer, seven fermenters and one flake stand; four miles south of Oak Level, one fifty-gallon still.

Miss Martin Killed Near East Lake.

In a runaway on the highway four and a half miles above East Lake, Sunday evening Miss Melissa Martin was killed and Miss Hattie Chamblee painfully but not seriously injured. A horse attached to a carriage took fright from the carriage pressing on him as he was going down a hill and ran away. The two ladies leaped out, Miss Martin striking on her head, who received wounds from which she died a few minutes after.

TO DEVELOP COAL LANDS.

A Tract of 5,000 Acres Near Hanceville Will be Tapped by the L. & N.

Messrs. Robert Stevens and associates, of Birmingham, are going to make some extensive mine developments in Blount county.

It is stated that a corps of engineers left Birmingham this week for Hanceville, where it is said Stevens and associates contemplate opening up extensive mines. The new company, which is to be organized at once, will build a branch line of road from a point one mile south of Hanceville, on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, to a point twelve miles in a westerly direction. Here, it is said, the syndicate has bought or obtained options on four to five thousand acres of coal land. The seam is about four and a half feet thick, and the coal found is of the very best domestic kind. This property is to be extensively developed by the new company.

May Build a Steel Plant.

It has been reported that English capitalists has about decided to invest a million dollars in a steel plant in the Birmingham district. Definite arrangements have not completed, but it is learned that the English syndicate, who had an agent in this district part of last spring looking at the resources of Alabama, has been so well satisfied with the report made by this agent that it has practically determined to erect a mammoth steel plant. It is stated that the agent of the syndicate gave the district a most enthusiastic indorsement for such a project.

Improved Cotton Seed.

Commissioner of Agriculture Culver has received an immense quantity of the improved Truitt cotton seed from LaGrange, Ga., and within a few days will send two bushels to each probate judge in the state for distribution among the leading planters. The seed is a new variety to this section and possesses some good, productive qualities. It was also learned from the commissioner's office that the sale of fertilizer tags continues to decrease. This evidences a decrease in the cotton acreage for the year.

Judicious advertising pays.

CHAPTER IX.

Jason Garrison's intense excitement was occasioned by the perusal of a brief article in the evening paper, which announced that James Sanborn had died suddenly at his residence in Albany, at ten o'clock that very morning.

It was certainly something more than a mere coincidence, but James Sanborn was the man with whom Stuart Harland claimed to have had a business engagement on the night of the murder.

"I am saved! The death of James Sanborn renders the discovery I have dreaded scarcely probable. What a weight is lifted from my mind! Now, I will see Stuart, and we will come to an understanding," reflected the broker.

But it was too late to visit the prison that day, and so he was obliged to defer his call until morning.

At the earliest hour on the following morning at which he could gain an entrance to the prison the broker visited Stuart Harland.

The young man greeted his employer in a rather reserved manner, but he eagerly inquired as to how Edna had received the news of the misfortune which had so unexpectedly befallen him.

Garrison assured Harland of the faith and confidence of his betrothed, and then he said:

"I will not conceal from you, Stuart, that I understand why you persistently refused to explain the real motive of your midnight visit to Albany."

"I was aware that you could not be ignorant of the consideration by which I was actuated. I had determined to shield you from the deplorable consequences of an act of criminal folly. I cannot comprehend, however, how, if in the possession of your senses, you could have been guilty of such a deed. It seems to me that you must have known that, in the ordinary course of events, discovery was inevitable," replied Harland.

"I was driven to desperation. I was mad, if you will, and then, too, I counted upon redeeming the cheque, and squaring the matter by the payment of an extra thousand or so."

"So you relied upon making terms with James Sanborn. Where, may I ask, did you expect to procure the money?"

"You have heard me speak of my Colorado property? Very well; I have put it up for sale. My agent announced that I could rely on receiving the price for which he had agreed to sell it—$80,000 by the 23d instant."

"I begin to comprehend how you reasoned in the desperate extremity to which those scoundrels, Pratt and Weeks, had driven you, and yet I would never have deemed it possible that a business man like yourself would have resorted to such a desperate expedient as a forgery."

"Hush! Some one may hear us. I confess all, I forged James Sanborn's name to the cheque for $78,000," said Garrison, dropping his voice to a whisper.

"I knew that I had so perfectly imitated his signature that it would be impossible for any one except James Sanborn himself to detect it, and I think it probable he would not have suspected it had he seen the cheque, except for the fact that he would know he had not given paper for any such amount.

"I knew that Sanborn would not see the cheque until he called on his banker to balance his account when it would be returned to him. I was also aware that he seldom had his account balanced and his cheque turned in more than once a month. I believed I should have ample time to fix matters with him even if my remittance of the purchase money from the sale of the Colorado claim was delayed. Yesterday I received the news from my Western agent that the property in Colorado could not be disposed of now—that the proposed sale had fallen through."

"Then discovery is inevitable and you are lost. I am sufficiently well acquainted with James Sanborn's character to comprehend that he will exact restitution or place you in a criminal cell. When I visited Albany on the night of the murder I was on my way to see James Sanborn in your behalf. You know he is an old and devoted friend of our family. But let me explain how I discovered that the cheque for seventy-eight thousand was a forgery despite your conviction that it could not be detected. As you know I was James Sanborn's private secretary for a year, and consequently I am more familiar with his signature than any one I know of. I examined the forged cheque after John Oakburn received it from you, and my suspicion was aroused, but I was not sure, for as you have said the imitation of the signature was wonderfully perfect. But chance decided the doubt. Half an hour later I met John Sanborn in the street in company with a friend. We talked for a few moments and he mentioned that you had importuned him for a large loan, but he assured me that he had declined to advance you any money whatever. I was shocked and confused and the presence of Sanborn's friend prevented me from speaking then. I hastened back to our office determined to reveal my discovery to John Oakburn and prevent his presenting the forged check at the bank. But fate was against me. When I arrived at the office Oakburn was not there, and I was informed that he had gone to the bank. I started in pursuit of him but I did not overtake him as I hoped I should. On the contrary I met him returning with the money which he had received for the check. It would have been useless to tell Oakburn then, and so I held my peace. But I had resolved that Edna's father should not be disgraced, and I determined to see Sanborn and pledge my prospective fortune to pay the amount of the forged draft, and win his promise to keep the secret of your crime. I counted on Sanborn's friendship, and the fact that since he is a millionaire he could wait for his money without inconvenience. But I knew Sanborn was no longer in the city, for when I encountered him on the street he was on his way to the depot and he had said he should take the first train for home. The all important question then was, when would Sanborn see the forged check?

"It chanced that the cashier of the bank at which the cheque was cashed was an old friend of mine, and from him I succeeded in obtaining the information I desired while I concealed my purpose.

"To my consternation I learned that Mr. Sanborn had called at the bank that very day and left instruction to have his deposit book balanced and returned to him with cheques cashed to date by the first mail on the next morning. Then I knew that I must see Sanborn that very night. I determined to make the journey in secret so that no suspicion might be awakened in the mind of any one. By taking the 1:40 night train I knew that I could make the trip to Albany and return by ten next morning. As I was arrested the moment I left the train in Albany, I was unable to see Mr. Sanborn, and so all my efforts in your behalf have failed and I have placed myself in a false position which may prove most serious."

The young man thus concluded his explanation.

Then Garrison told him of James Sanborn's death.

"You are saved then after all, for no one can prove the cheque a forgery now. But I sincerely regret the death of my old friend. How uncertain human existence is," said Stuart.

"True; but Stuart, I cannot express my gratitude to you. I am a penitent man. The experience through which I have passed shall serve me as a lifelong lesson—one that will never be forgotten while I live," said Garrison.

"I will keep your secret inviolate, but the amount of the forged cheque shall some day be made good to James Sanborn's estate," said Stuart.

"It shall. If life is spared me, I will make restitution in full," answered Garrison, earnestly. "But you must hate and despise me," he added.

"No, that would be to do violence to our previous cordial relations. I pity you and regret this unfortunate affair. Money is but a mess of pottage weighed against honor. But I understand your temptation. You were seeking to protect your credit, which is all in all to a man of business."

Stuart understood Garrison's weak and cowardly nature, and he believed that he was sincere in all he said.

"Above all, I am thankful that Edna knows nothing of all this. Promise me, Stuart, she shall hear nothing from your lips in reference to the cheque," implored the broker.

"Your daughter would be the last one to whom I would think of revealing it," replied Stuart.

"I thank you again. But now let us consider your own situation. I shall send you a lawyer, and Paxton, the detive, who has affirmed his belief in your innocence from the very first, will call," said Garrison.

After that they conversed for some time.

Presently, when Garrison was about to leave the cell, he remarked: "Edna is very anxious to see you, and she would have insisted on accompanying me, had she known I was coming to call here. As I wished to see you alone, I did not inform her. However, you may expect her before the day is over."

That afternoon, Edna visited Stuart's cell, and, as may well be surmised, the meeting between the betrothed lovers was a most affectionate one.

But Edna could not understand why Stuart could so obstinately refuse to tell what was the motive of his midnight journey, when the explanation might have saved him, and there were certain circumstances of which others were ignorant that troubled her.

Stuart had promised to accompany her on an excursion by moonlight up the Hudson on the night of the murder, and they had planned to visit Stuart's aunt, who resided in Albany, and return on the following day.

Edna suspected a mystery, but she entertained not the slightest suspicion of the truth.

In common with most women who love sincerely, she was inclined to jealousy.

During the earnest conversation which ensued between the broker's daughter and her affianced, she approached the subject which troubled her.

"Surely you can trust me, Stuart, for you know I am devoted to you. Will you not tell me the truth? what was the cause of your midnight journey to Albany?"

Stuart was silent for a moment.

She noticed his hesitation, and the thoughts which were in her mind were clearly reflected on her beautiful, mobile features.

Stuart was quick to discern the shadow of doubt which had appeared upon the face of his betrothed, and he suspected its cause.

"I cannot tell you why I visited Albany. It is a secret of another," finally said.

The shadow on Edna's fair face deepened as she answered:

"I am disappointed. Even though you would not trust my dear father whom you know to be the soul of truth and honor, I believed you would confide in me."

"You do not doubt my innocence of the terrible crime?"

"Oh, no, no. It is not that. But your strange reticence troubles me."

"Ah," thought Stuart, with some bitterness, "the very act which I did to save her father, and the sacrifice for which I am paying the penalty now, has caused the woman I love to doubt me. But even had I not bound myself to keep the secret of her father's forgery, I could not blacken his reputation to his child, could not shatter her sublime faith in his truth and honor."

Edna departed still troubled by Stuart's refusal to tell her the secret of his midnight journey.

But while Harland was in prison, Marion Oakburn, the murdered cashier's daughter, was in doubt and trouble. She was working out the destiny which fate had ordained she should bring upon herself.

From the time when she had discovered Judith Kredge, the janitor's siste at her chamber door, Marion knew that she was in a position more cruelly trying than she believed could possibly have been the outgrowth of any series of episodes to which the fact of her father's murder and the attendant circumstances could have given birth.

Marion Oakburn feared Judith Kredge; there could be no doubting that.

But why did she experience this terror?

Only the guilty fear, it is said, and yet this noble girl was the last one at whom suspicion of wrong-doing of any kind would be directed, it seemed. But herein is the mystery, herein a complication so strange and inexplicable that we cannot fathom it, and which was destined long to perplex and puzzle Paxton, the detective, in the task of unraveling the mystery of John Oakburn's fate, which he had undertaken with all his heart.

On the evening following the murder Marion was closeted in her sleeping room. She had turned the key in the lock, and she believed the door was secured.

With trembling hands, she unlocked and opened a trunk, lifted out the tray, and removed the contents of the receptacle beneath it until the bottom of the trunk was reached, and a strange-looking pistol of large caliber which was concealed there was disclosed to her view.

Marion shuddered as her eyes rested upon the deadly weapon.

"I dread to touch it, and yet it must be gotten rid of," she muttered.

The next instant a startled cry escaped her lips as she felt a heavy hand on her shoulders, and through her mind darted the appalling thought:

"The secret is discovered! All is lost!"

CHAPTER X.

Marion Oakburn had not secured the door as she supposed she had done, and Judith Kredge, who seemed to have devoted herself to the task of spying upon the cashier's daughter, entered the room in a stealthy manner, and crept to Marion's side. She it was who placed her hand upon the shoulder of the girl as she stood gazing into the trunk where the strange-looking pistol lay.

Dropping the lid of the trunk with a crash, Marion wheeled about instantly as she felt the weight of Judith's hand.

"You here!" she cried excitedly, as she beheld the woman.

"Yes, and I saw the pistol at the bottom of that trunk."

"You saw it?"

"Yes, and it is not the first time. I saw you conceal it in your trunk on the night of your father's murder," answered Judith Kredge.

"Woman, what awful thought is in your mind?"

"You know well enough. You understood me when I told you you were in my power," replied the woman and then suddenly bending forward she hissed in Marion's ear:

"You killed your own father!"

This was Judith Kredge's terrible accusation.

Marion staggered to the couch with which the sleeping-room was provided and sank down upon it. But in a moment she started up again and confronted Judith Kredge with all the dignity of offended innocence.

"It is false! It is a lie; a base, a monstrous lie!" she cried.

Judith Kredge laughed mirthlessly.

"You see what evidence sent Stuart Harland to prison. How much stronger, how much more terrible is the evidence I can give against you," she said.

"Judith, you are doing me an awful wrong!"

"No, I saw you with my own eyes. I know you had just come from the office in which your father lay dead when you called at my room and pretended you were so much alarmed because your father had not come home."

"And you who know me can believe such an awful thing of me?"

"It matters not how well you may play your part, Miss Marion, I am not to be deceived. Girl, my evidence would hang you!"

Judith Kredge uttered the last words in a terrible voice.

"Do you mean to publicly accuse me?"

"That depends."

"Upon what? Speak plainly. Once and for all, you and I must clearly understand each other, Judith Kredge."

"If it was made worth my while I might keep your secret," answered Judith Kredge, and there was a cunning glance in her eyes.

"Ah, you mean that I must bribe you?"

"Put it that way if you like."

The two women gazed at each other in silence for a moment, and each was striving to read the other's most secret thought.

"Tell me your price," said Marion.

"You have three thousand dollars?"

"Yes, and that is all I have."

"Very well, then you can pay me no more. That amount will do," said Judith, with a malicious grin.

"And you would thus rob me—leave me penniless?"

"Yes, my fair lady. Ha, I want to see your pride have a fall. I'd like to see you feel what it is to want, as I have in my time. What are you? You are no better than I am. Work, work as I have done or—starve," hissed the vindictive creature in a harsh voice.

"You are an ungrateful wretch! A serpent to turn and sting the hand that has fed you. But you shall have your price. I'll not relinquish my purpose yet," Marion Oakburn answered resolutely.

Judith Kredge chuckled exultantly.

To herself she muttered half inaudibly:

"Three thousand dollars. Not a bad night's work. It was lucky that I happened to be awake and see her. She was honest when she said she only had three thousand dollars, which I knew to be the amount of a legacy she received. Now, who got the stolen money, I wonder. Ah, my dear brother Levi, you are keeping a secret from me, I think; we shall see whether you are more cunning than I am, or not."

One evening several days subsequently, after the remains of John Oakburn had been consigned to their last resting place and "the crime of the broker's office" had ceased to be the one exciting topic of conversation, Marion Oakburn received a call.

The visitor of the cashier's daughter was the old gentleman called Richard Stanmore.

The appearance of the aged stranger agitated Marion strangely, and she did not regain her composure until she had been in his presence for some moments.

In a few well-selected words Stanmore explained that he had taken a great interest in the mysterious murder of her father. He also asked a number of questions which Marion promptly answered.

Thus Stanmore obtained the information that Marion supposed her father to be worth a small fortune and that the money had been kept in his private safe which stood in the rear apartment of the broker's office, which it seemed the assassin had not opened.

This, we remember, was precisely the information she had given Jason Garrison.

Marion also in the course of the interview found occason to reiterate her conviction in terms most positive that Stuart Harland was entirely innocent of all knowledge of the terrible crime.

So very confident was she on this point that Stanmore thought:

"One would surmise that she has some proof of Harland's innocence which she does not care to reveal.

"Permit me to inquire, Miss Oakburn, if I can be of assistance to you in any way?" Stanmore asked, as the thought that she might be in need of financial help entered his mind.

"Thanks, I need no help at present, sir," answered Marion, and a flush of color stole into her pale cheeks.

"Pardon me. I was in former days your father's friend, and if at any time you should find yourself in need of a friend upon whose fidelity you could depend against all the world, call on Richard Stanmore," said the old gentleman, and he placed a card on which was written his address in Marion's hand.

Then bowing low, after the manner of the gallants of the olden time, he pressed the hand Marion had given him to his lips and took his departure.

Stanmore's features were unusually pale during the interview which had just ended, and a keen observer would have suspected he was fighting a battle with most powerful secret emotions which were struggling for the mastery.

Once out upon the street he reeled as though he was the victim of a sudden vertigo and muttered in a broken voice:

"Poor girl! Poor Marion! There is a mystery here that must be solved. Fates! How weak I am. The old spell came upon me. It was an ordeal, but it is past. How beautiful she is, but how troubled and haggard her lovely features are. Oh, Marion! Marion!"

When the cashier's daughter found herself alone after Stanmore's departure the agitation which she had repressed during the interview just concluded betrayed itself.

The excited girl trembled nervously.

"I feel that he is an honest man," she thought, "and I will trust him. Who can tell? The time may yet come when I shall be glad to remind him of the promise to befriend me in the hour of dire extremity."

Then she drew a locket from a chain about her neck, and, opening it, pressed to her lips a miniature which it contained.

"It was the glance of this strange gentleman's eye that unnerved me. I felt the same when I saw him in the office. His eyes are like those of poor Donald's. Yes, I feel that he is honorable and true," she said, and gazed lovingly upon the portrait in the locket.

Meanwhile, after leaving Marion, Richard Stanmore repaired to the office of Paxton, the detective.

At this hour the detective was seated at his office desk reading and pondering upon the contents of the letter which he had abstracted from the package of correspondence found in John Oakburn's safe.

The letter was rather a lengthy one, but one particular passage seemed to fasten Paxton's attention, and he read it carefully several times.

The passage which the detective was apparently endeavoring to impress upon his memory was as follows:

"The hour shall come, John Oakburn, when you will be sorry for the great wrong you have done me."

The letter was signed "Donald Wayburn."

Paxton had not been idle since the Coroner's inquest had ended. He had procured casts of the footprints which he had discovered under the rear window of Garrison's office, and he had instituted a diligent search for the stranger who had exchanged overcoats with Stuart Harland.

Despite all the efforts of the detective and his expert auxiliaries, the quest for the man who had in his pocket the skeleton keys and the wax impressions of the safe and do had thus far
Not one solitary
tity or whereab
personage was d
When Harland
ner that the st overcoats with ed to give an scription of th
Paxton had man in his that he sh
glance.
The dete
Harland tol naturally fo who carried
John Oakb rate of the c
Paxton h perfect clu
Stuart Harl
sassin.
"The tone
rather threa
read the pas
by "Donald produced.
"I must asc burn is, and h looked up. It was not the onl
Revenge may ha
The idea has occu
possibly turn out th is the name of the m skeleton keys. We the name the fellow g an alias which he had occasion."
Paxton did not know that the given name of a man who Marion Oakburn carried in her and whom we may suppose wa
dear to her.
There was more of mystery in the than Paxton yet suspected.
He had placed Donald Wayburn's letter carefully in a safe where he kept important documents, when there came a rap at the office door.

Paxton a moment later saw Richard Stanmore, who opened the door as he bade him enter.

Of course the old gentleman was an entire stranger to the detective, but he received him very politely and invited him to be seated.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

MAMMA—"My darling, don't you think you've eaten enough?" Maude—"Me don't know. Me ain't dot a very bad tummickache yet."—Harper's Bazar.

NEW SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES.

Enterprises Reported in the Southern States in a Week.

Among the most important new industries reported by The Chattanooga Tradesman for the week ending January 22d are the following: The Booker Brick Company, capital $10,000, Newport News, Va.; brick works at Natchez, Miss.; an electric light and power plant at Elkin, N. C.; a flouring mill at Welker, Tenn.; an ice factory at Marion, Va.; the Interstate Land and Improvement Company, capital $100,000, at Macon, Ga.; the Southern Co-Operative Foundry Company, capital $20,000, at Rome, Ga.; plow works at Louisville, Ky., to cost $50,000; a roller covering factory at Columbus, Ga.; and a 100-barrel oil refinery at Sour Lake, Tex.

The R. Martin Sugar Company, capital $50,000, has been chartered at St. Martinville, La., and a sugar refinery to cost $150,000 will be erected at Mansfield, La. The Sprager Tobacco Company, capital $90,000, has been incorporated at Mount Airy, N. C.; the L. E. Everitt Lumber Company, capital $100,000, at Washington, N. C., and the Booker-Poarch Company, capital $10,000, to manufacture sash, doors and blinds, at Newport News, Va.

Other woodworking plants will be established at Cookeville and Linden, Tenn.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Governor Griggs, of New Jersey, Nominated for Attorney-General.

The president has sent these nominations to the senate:

State—John W Griggs, of New Jersey, to be Attorney-general; Selah Morrill, of Massachusetts, to be consul at Jerusalem, Syria.

To be Collectors of Customs—C. Wesley Thomas, of Philadelphia; Domingo M. Pappy, at St. Augustine, Fla.

Interior—St. Clair A. Mulholland, pension agent at Philadelphia; Henry S. Chubb, receiver of public moneys at Gainesville, Fla.: Walter S. Robinson, register of the land office at Janesville, Fla.

Justice—John F. Horr, marshal of the United States for the southern district of Florida; John Eagan, attorney of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

Spain Will Negotiate.

Minister Woodford has cabled to the department of state that the government of Spain has consented to negotiate a commercial treaty with the United States on the basis of reciprocity, with schedules for Cuba and the Peninsula. The negotiations will be conducted in Washington at a time yet to be agreed upon.

A Tree Fell on Him.

J. W. Christian, a farmer living near Paint Rock, Tenn., was riding home when he was overtaken by a violent wind storm. A tree was blow down, striking him on the head, killing him instantly.

NEWS.

Proprietor

ontevallo

dvance

yance.

'98.

erly ed esigned.
ture con-
siness deect all mon-
is. Give us
pport and we e paper.
ectfully,
CLIFTON NEWTON.

ems that Mr. Aldritch is out to secure Mr. Plowman's seat in congress. A better day is coming soon when we can have justice in our national congress.

The Land bill, granting 25,000 acres of public lands in Alabama, passed the Senate Saturday. We confidently expect it to go through thd house within 60 days. Grand possibilities are enfolded in this bill Every man woman and child should hope for its success.

Today the Battle ship Maine is standing in the port of Havana. The eyes of the world is turned upon her Consul Gen. Lee is proving his royal fitness for such work as is now submitted to him. The Maine is under his orders and with the iron monster in charge we may expect safe and conservative action. It will only be a short time before war is declared or peace restored to Cuba. The United States has done well in takiug action now, and we can only hope for a fair and peaceful adjustment of things. Gen. Lee fears an outbreak at any moment, It will be slow coming when the grim throated cannon of a U. S. Man-o'-war is looking upon the city walls.

Montevallo may have another paper soon—tne NEWS has stood worse things than a new paper—we welcome the rumored paper and will promise her a lot of fun if nothing else.

Pres. H. C. Reynolds has returned from Washington, where he has been in interest of our school. We will soon know how he succeeded. Mr. Reynolds, as is known, never fails. Montevallo should be proud of him.

Several of our exchanges are advertising Jackson limbless cotton, their never was a greater fake advertised in an American paper, we would advise our farmers to give Jackson limbless cotton a wide berth.

If straws tell which way the wind blows, Montevallo will be on a boom this spring.

Columbiana don't want much but she has a corporate limit of two miles and a half each way from the court house, or over fifteen miles in circumference. We think it would be a good idea for her to incorporate the whole county.

A REPORTER FOR JUST SIX WEEKS.

Meat for a Smart Lawyer—Then an Exile From His Native Land.

"I was a newspaper man for six weeks," admitted the bronzed and bearded man, who had just returned from a twenty years' sojourn in Mexico to a Detroit Free Press reporter. "But for that brief experience as a reporter, I presume, I should have lived all this time in my native city. As it is I never mention its name and my own in the same connection. I was as ambitious a scribe as ever drew a notebook, and allowed myself only three years in which to own a metropolitan newspaper of my own.

"One day I was stopped on the street by a hatcet-faced young lawyer, who told me to meet him that evening and get the most sensational piece of news that had been sprung since the place was founded. I was there on the minnte, and he gave me elaborate details of how John Hagar Smith had gained legal title to land that was then in the business center of the city and worth at least $300,000,000. The title was still good, and Smith's heirs could recover every cent of its value.

"The story appeared the next morning with half a column of head lines, and shook the town. In the same issue my informant advertised for the heirs of John Hager Smith, referring them to my highly favored article. They flocked to him and his retainers made him rich in a incredibly brief time. Other papers denied, but my lawyer kept me going while he was raking down fat fees. Mr. Smith seemed to have more decendants than any other man of history except Adam.

'But older and more experienced newspaper men took hold of the matter, and the bubble burst. There never had been any such man as John Hager Smith, so that his army of professed heirs were all impostors. There wasn't a leaven of truth in the whole high-priced yarn. Tne lawyer skipped, but didn't have the grace to pay my way out of town, though he knew there were several hundred Smiths on my trail. I met him ten years later in Mexico, and they tell me that he has been a cripple ever since."—Newspaperdom.

MAPLESVILLE.

Miss Willie Glover, the lovely daughter of Mrs. M. E. Glover, was married Thursday morning to Mr. Matthews of Montgomery. Rev. J. D. Ruddick made the pair one.

The gin house belonging to W. D. Lawrence burned down Thursday night about ten o'clock. The loss was over six hundred dollars. No insurance.

Crumpton Graham has accepted a position with the Hanover Construction Co.

Operator Wykoop left Sunday for Jackson, Miss., where he will spend a few days with friends and relatives.

Ensley Cooper was quite sick last week.

Having sore eyes did not prevent Crump from going to see his girl Sunday evening.

Miss Allie Brand, one of Randolph's most charming young ladies, has been visiting Mrs. Glover this week much to tne delight of some of our boys.

Dr. A. S. Woolley's store was conducted last week by his charming daughter, Miss Gertrude.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

R. B. EVANS,
Proprietor of the only first class
COLORED
BARBER SHOP
IN THE CITY.
☞ Shop east end of town.
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go
☞ To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

Turkey Tracks

☞ Are numerous in the bottoms but are seldom found in the uplands. MORGAN BROS. have sold enough SHOES in the past few weeks to cover up every turkey track in the State, with a few coon tracks thrown in for the trouble.

WAGON TRACKS.

☞ These are also numerous. Follow any of them and you will haul up at MORGAN BROS., who sell anything that can be used by men, women or children. New goods and low prices, with genial, clever and courteous clerks to deal with.

A. M. CROSS
—HAS—REMOVED
—TO—
JOHN INGRAM'S OLD SHOP,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.
WHERE HE IS PREPARED TO DO
HORSE SHOEING
AND ALL KINDS OF BLACKSMITHING
AND REPAIR WORK ON
Wagons, Buggies, Etc., Etc.
CHARGES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

HICHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.
CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
☞ These prices in force until January 15th. ☜
SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.
VANDEMEER BROS.
☞ TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.
MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.
THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.
In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skillful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.
RIPANS TABULES
A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.
Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chem[illegible] Company, and patients are invited to write f[illegible] special instructions in peculiar cases. Their lett[illegible] will receive such attention as they require, f[illegible] of charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the ho[illegible] and when you travel take some with you. They are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.
Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

TO CONSUMERS - - - -
THE ARTESIAN EXPORT BEER
Manufactured by the Montgomery, Ala., Brewing Co., has no superior in the world, and this assertion is verified by all persons competent to judge who have tried it. If you have not tasted it GIVE IT A TRIAL, and you will THANK us for telling you about it. The marvellous purity and adaptability of the WATER used in its manufacture contribute to its superior FLAVOR and wholesomeness, which gained for it the GOLD MEDAL at PARIS and the HIGHEST AWARDS WHEREEVER ELSE EXHIBITED.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY
TRADE MARK.
Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine, now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.
For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.
Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be [illegible] gists.

DI...

CHU...

BAPTIST.—Rev. ... pastor; preaching ev... fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. ... p. m. Sunday school every Sun... at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

The Editor visited Columbiana Tuesday.

Editor Graham was in our city Saturday.

Mr. Kroell will build three brick stores this spring.

Mrs. J. L. McConnegby visited Birmingham this week.

Vandermeer Bros. will leave our city next week for Florida.

Mr. Walter Fowlkes, the only original, was in town this week.

Mr. Harry Reynolds returned home from Washington D C. Friday.

Cattle buyers are shipping large lots of cows etc., from this place to Kansas.

There will be services at the Methodist church every Sunday hereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reynolds returned from Birmingham Tuesday morning.

We understand that Mr. H. C. Fancher has rented his new house on south-side to Rev. Wood of Jemison.

A negro was killed in Gurnee Sunday. He was shot by a negro who had patronized Gur nee blind tigers too freely.

This section was visited by a severe wind and rain storm on Saturday last. There was no damage worth mentioning.

The News printer left Saturday without giving us any notice. On that account we will be a little late and short of news.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McConaughy went to Birmingham Monday night to see "Modjesta."

Mr. W. E. Yeatman of Calera has accepted a position with the News. Mr. Yeatman comes to us highly recommended.

There was quite a wind storm Saturday, the wind blew a mule and wagon about a hundred feet. the mules back was broken.

Mr. Frank Gist Editor of the Chronicle visited our sanctum Monday Frank is a hustler he may move to our city in the near future.

Dr. Bush a brother of Miss Bush at the Industrial, one of the music teachers, is in town. We are sorry to learn that Miss Bush is quite ill.

...eral nice resi... ...made and are to ... future. Mr. O. ... drawing up new ...

... is full of drummers this week. Montevallo is an important point for the travelling man. Our merchants do a large business, and buy lots of goods.

Mr. Shaw our former printer left Saturday for Michigan in search of a Ponce De Leon I hope of a whisky spring—which the Vandermeer Bros. say exists near Boy City, Michigan.

Our merchants continue busy. Trade is still good. we have a fine set of merchants, who draw trade from Centreville and other points, even as far away as within 10 miles of Birmingham.

Mr C. C. Vincent and Miss Sallie Weaver were married at Pilgrim's Rest church, Sunday afternoon Jan., 23rd. A large crowd was present. Rev. P. L. Abernathy spoke the words making the happy pair one.

RIBBONS.

Just Received--

Th LARGEST and LOVELIEST line of MOIRE and SATIN RIBBONS ever seen in Montevallo. All shades. All numbers. ☞ Especially beautiful Sash Ribbons.

MORGAN BROS., Montevallo, Ala.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

Men Boarders Preferred.

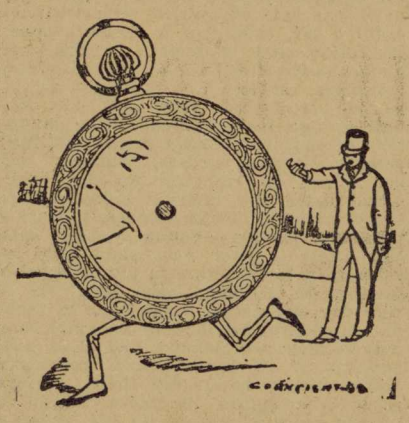
Choice apartments, with good board, at reasonable prices at the elegant home of Mrs. C. C. Vandegrift. Gentlemen boarders preferred.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

"MY WATCHES RUN."



Fine WATCHES

Carefully Repaired and Adjusted. All Work Guaranteed First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly attended to.

J. W. MARTIN, Montevallo, - - - Ala.

WANTED:—A lady in each town to take orders for something new that every lady wants; we pay $2.50 for first 5 hours' work; sample and instruction, 10 cents. MRS. HARRY FARD, Lock Box 696, Birmingham, Ala.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

January 23: Officers and teachers present 14, scholars 146, collection $2.08.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J H. McMath, secretary.

Jauuary 23: Officers and teachers present 17, absent 3; scholars present 132, absent 52; visitors collection $1.85 cents.

Disagreeable weather detained many who otherwise would gladly have participated in these precious services.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Fair as a poet's dream, beautiful as the girls of Montevallo, and gorgeous as a dying sunset are the myriad-hued ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton'smarket, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Subscribers to the NEWS can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the NEWS.

For Sale, Very Cheap.

I will sell, at a very low price, a two-horse wagon, in good fix; just overhauled and repaired.

J. D. MORELAND.

DR. G. W. SHACKELFORD,
DENTIST,
ATLANTA, - - - GA.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala.
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

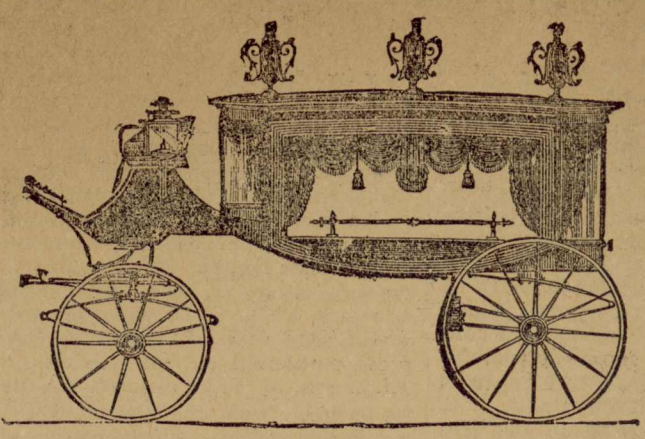
THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free

JOB PRINTING.

LETTER-HEADS,
NOTE-HEADS,
BILL-HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,
Done in first-class style on short notice, at the

NEWS : OFFICE.

☐It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.



L. D. HIX,

The People's Undertaker.

COFFINS AND CASKETS, all styles, FROM $5 UP.

ALDRICH, ALA.

EVERYTHING, FROM A PIN

——TO AN——

Elephant

——AT——

R. C. Parker's

BRIERFIELD, : : ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

IF YOU ARE NOT

A SUBSCRIBER

SEND IN YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS, ALONG WITH THE DOLLAR, AND

THE NEWS

WILL BE SENT YOU EVERY WEEK FOR

ONE YEAR,

Kroell can supply anything.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg. Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

The House—Friday.

The stormy scenes of the last few days in the house of representatives were followed by comparative quiet today.... At the opening of the session a bill was passed to grant the commissioners of Dale county, Alabama, the right to construct two bridges across the Choctawatchie river.... The Senate Nicaragua Canal Commission amendment was non-concurred in.... One of the senate amendment was concurred in with an amendment to appropriate $15,000 for the repair of national cemetery at Fort Smith, Ark. .... The main fight came on the senate amendment striking out the provision in the bill requiring depositors of bullion hereafter to pay the cost of transportation from the assay offices to the mint. It was agreed to without division in the committee of the whole .... Mr. Cannon said he would demand and aye and nay vote in the house. The vote in the committee was confirmed on a yea and nay vote in the house, 144 to 112. The bill was sent back to conference.... The house then went into committee of the whole, where the pending question was a point of order raised against the motion of Mr. Cooper, of Texas, to substitute for the senate bill to refer the claim of the Book Publishing Company of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to the court of claims, the house bill to adjust the whole claim by the payment of $288,000. There was considerable parliamentary sparring, and finally, at 4:45, the house adjourned without action on the bill.

The Senate.

The senate proceedings today were devoid of interest. The resolution of Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, calling upon the secretary of the interior for the papers in the case of the dismissal of Mrs. M. E. Roberts from the pension office, was laid before the senate. He spoke briefly upon the matter. The resolution was referred to the committee on civil service and retrenchment. .... Mr. Lodge moved that the senate go into executive session.... The senate devoted its principal attention to the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna to be a justice of the supreme court of the United States. When the doors were closed the Hawaiian treaty was laid aside in order to afford an opportunity to consider the McKenna and other nominations. An effort was made to secure the confirmation of the nomination of General Longstreet to be commissioner of railroads, but it went over until another day. The nomination of Attorney-General McKenna was then called up, and, after a three hours' speech by Mr. Allen, attacking confirmation, the vote was taken, which was overwhelmingly favorable to confirmation.

The House—Saturday.

In the house today some odds and ends of legislation were cleaned up by unanimous consent.... A resolution requesting the state department to transmit to the house all information in its possession relative to the military execution of Colonel Ruíz, a Spanish envoy to the insurgent camp of Auranguren was adopted.... A resolution calling on the state department for a draft of the Hawaiian annexation treaty and for information as to what constitutional authority the president had to contract for the payment of a Hawaiian debt of $4,000,000 out of the treasury, after discussion, was laid on the table by a vote of 124 to 110.... Mr. Alexander, of New York, secured the passage of a bill to suspend the federal laws against the sale of spirituous liquors to Indians so far as they relate to the Indians of New York state, and substitute therefor the laws of the state.... At this point, Mr. Bailey, of Texas, rose to a question of personal privilege in connection with his controversy with Speaker Reed at the close of the Cuban debate Wednesday and spoke briefly.... At 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate.

The resolution of Mr. Teller, of Colorado, providing that the bonds of the United States may be paid in silver dollars was then laid before the senate, and, in accordance with notice given yesterday Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, addressed the senate. He said that the disregard of the resolution which is already a law of the United States had brought many calamities upon the land, and that the results of such disregard had been disastrous and lamentable. He attributed the panic of 1893 directly to the disregard of the law.... Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, secured the passage of a bill to grant 25,000 acres of unoccupied lands of the United States in Alabama to that state for the use of the industrial school for girls of Alabama and of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute.... A bill was passed authorizing the Shreveport and Red River Valley Railroad company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Loggy bayou in Louisiana .... The senate, at 3.08 p. m., went into executive session, and at 5 p. m. adjourned.

The House—Monday.

In the house today Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, reported back the two resolutions calling on the secretary of the navy for information as to the suitability of sites for an armor plate factory in the south, with the recommendation that they lay on the table. The report called attention to the fact that invitations had been issued for sealed proposals for the land, buildings and machinery for a government armor plate factory, which would be opened January 29, 1898, and that the secretary, when these were opened, would send a special report to congress containing all information.... Mr. Curtis, of Iowa, claimed the day for business from the District of Columbia committee, which consumed two hours.... The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, and after completing seven pages the house adjourned.

The Senate.

At the opening of the senate today Mr. Walthall, of Mississippi, presented the credentials of H. D. Money to succeed the late Senator George and the oath of office was administered to Mr. Money.... Mr. Walthall presented a joint resolution adopted by the legislature of Mississippi urging the United States to intervene in the Cuban war. Referred to committee on foreign relations.... The Teller resolution was then laid before the senate. Mr. Turpin addressed the senate in support of the resolution.... Mr. Morgan rose under a question of personal privilege to reply to a published statement of Mr. Cleveland concerning Hawaiian annexation.. .The pension appropriation bill was called up and debated, but no action taken, and at 5 p. m. the senate adjourned.

The House—Tuesday.

In the house today a bill was passed granting American registration to the foreign built steamer Navajo. The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the Indian appropriation bill. Mr. Smith, of Arizona, made an attack on the present system of educating the Indian. He declared that the Carlisle and Hampton schools were a mistake; that an Indian could not be civilized by teaching him how to read and write and sing psalms. The Indian, he said, must receive an industrial education, but it must be given him in the vicinity of his home; not in the east. In this bill he said $2,500,000 was wasted. .... A political debate was precipitated over the existence of prosperity. Among those who spoke were Messrs. Terry of Arkansas, Sims of Tennessee, Underwood and Wheeler of Alabama, and others.... Without reaching a vote on any of the bills the house adjourned.

The Senate.

The senate, on motion of Mr. Hoar, went into executive session today as soon as it convened.... At 12:15 p. m. the doors were opened and the senate proceeded to general business. Mr. Quay secured the passage of a bill to indemnify the state of Pennsylvania for money expended in 1864 for militia called into service by the government. The amount involved is $46,000.... Mr. Quay also reported the army appropriation bill.... Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, offered an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill providing for an extension of the experiment of rural free delivery to every state and territory of the union, and to as many sections of those states and territories as possible.... Mr. Perkins called up the pension appropriation bill. The amendment proposed by Mr. Allen providing that the lowest pension paid by the government be $8 a month was ruled out of order and the bill was passed.... The Teller resolution was laid before the senate, over which a general debate arose. The remainder of the session was taken up in the discussion.

Balloting for a Senator.

The democratic legislative caucus of Tennessee held to select a candidate for the United States senate, met and began balloting. The first ballot resulted: McMillan, 37; Turley, 32, Taylor, 19. Fourteen ballots were taken, with practically the same result. There is a growing belief that a deadlock is imminent.

Miss Media McNeal, assistant superintendent of the Augusta, Ga., hospital committed suicide Friday by opium poisoning. She had previously been in the Emergency hospital, Washington, D. C. Despondency was the cause of the suicide.

Dr. Talmage Marries Again.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, the noted divine of Washington and Mrs. Elore McCutheon Collier, of Allegheny City, were married last week. The wedding, which came as a great surprise to the many friends of the couple, was, on account of a recent death in the family, an extremely quiet affair. This is Dr. Talmage's third wife.

Hon. T. H. Yarborough, the first probate judge of Geneva county, Alabama, and one of the oldest citizens, died at noon Thursday, aged 84.

EMINENT DIVINES' SERMONS

DISCOURSES BY TWO ABLE WORKERS IN GOD'S VINEYARD.

'The Law of Kindness" is the Title of the New York Herald's Tenth Competitive Sermon—Dr. Talmage Preaches a Sermon to the Feminine Toilers.

Proverbs xxxi., 26.

There are two superficial and somewhat prevalent notions of kindness which overlook the truth of a law of kindness and hinder the fulfilment of that law. The first is that kindness is a happy accident of temperament. When Charles Lamb died Henry Crabb Robinson went to visit Mary Lamb, and she said to him: "Now, I call this very kind of you, not good natured, but very, very kind." Her distinction is just. Kindness is more than constitutional good naturedness. It implies discipline and culture.

The second notion associates kindness with Christian etiquette and deportment, with something amiable and desirable, perhaps, but rather ornamental than essential. Consequently many religious and devout people are unkind in words and actions without any feeling of sinfulness on that account. Put away the notion of kindness which regards it as merely an external grace of character or a useful lubricant wherewith to reduce the frictions of social intercourse and conceive it as an essential element of all goodness, divine or human, and as comprehended under God's law of human life. Unkindness, like any other transgression of moral law, is wickedness. Nor is it enough to try and not be unkind, for unless one tries to be kind he not only fails of duty, but will be unable to guard himself from actual unkindness.

Kindness has its root in kinship. It implies relationship and affinity. Men are children of a common Father, and therefore brethren. Therein lies the significance of all that the Scriptures teach concerning the essential, exceeding and everlasting loving kindness of God. There is kinship between Him and men, created in His image. Therein is grounded our human kinship and the law of brotherly kindness for all men, than which no law of human life has higher authority or sacredder sanctions.

As no one can be as good as he should and may be, so no one can do good as he should and may without striving to fulfill this law of the cultivation and manifestation of kindness. There is nothing else so powerful for good unless it be love, and love as St. Paul says, is kind. It disarms prejudice and hatred, it converts distrust into confidence, it overcomes all manner of evil with good. It brings out as nothing else can the latent and potential good things in people. Men have come to recognize and act upon this principle in their treatment and training of animals. How much more effective will be the training of children and the treatment of all human beings which is based upon kindly sympathy! The safest assumption that can be made in all such matters is that kindness will meet all such response.

Kindness has insight and can detect signs of promise in the unpromising, while under its genial influences and delicate ministrations these signs become manifest and the things they promise begin to be fulfilled. What else gives so great encouragement to the many who are struggling with adversity or temptation, correcting and changing just those depressed feelings of loneliness and neglect wherein the power of evil finds its most favorable conditions? Wordsworth speaks of

That portion of a good man's life—
His little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love.

How suggestive that is of what is possible in this way of kindness, which works with magic power to transmute apparent trifles into priceless treasures—as St. Zita's cup of cold water given to a dusty and weary pilgrim proved to be, as he drank it, a cup of precious wine. Kind words often, as Dante says of Beatrice's words, "more smiled than spoken!" Kind actions, costing little, but bestowing much! How easily they might be multiplied to the immeasurable cheer and comfort and enrichment of life! They make the gloomy smile, the angry grow meek, the suffering to cease from groaning; they light up hope, sweeten bitter thoughts, console sorrow, strengthen the faint and turn from sin; and they reach and move those whom no other good influences affect and conquer such as have resisted all other powers of grace.

Bitter and all too frequent are our regrets and repentances, as we recall, perhaps too late for aught but regret and repentance, the unkind things said or done by us, or the kind things we might and should have said and done, but left unsaid and undone. In our cups of recollection overflowing with divine tender mercies and loving kindnesses there is no bitterer ingredient than this. But seldom, if ever, do we recall any error of ours on the part of kindness or find any occasion for regretting merciful allowances, favorable interpretations or whatever a spirit of kindness may have prompted. We have never stood by a coffin or a grave and repented of any utmost or even unrequited kindness shown to the person at rest there.

The Gospel of Christ is precious because it is a gospel of the "exceeding great kindness of God toward us" in Christ, and because it is all the while aiming to touch and waken the chords of human sympathy in our hearts; and, in bringing us under the law and into the spirit of brotherly kindness, to make us know and rejoice together in the loving kindness of our God. Of this gospel we can all be ministers, and the best and most useful portion of our lives will be our "little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love."

Oh, then, since the time is short, "Be swift to love, make haste to be kind!"

EDWIN BOND PARKER,
Pastor of the Second Church in Hartford, Conn.

LEARN PRACTICAL THINGS.

Dr. Talmage Preaches Directly For the Benefit of the Women.

TEXT: "Every wise woman buildeth her house."—Prov. xiv., 1.

Woman a mere adjunct to man, an appendix to the masculine volume, an appendage, a sort of afterthought, something thrown in to make things even—that is the heresy entertained and implied by some men. This is evident to them, because Adam was first created, and then Eve. They don't read the whole story, or they would find that the porpoise and the bear and the hawk were created before Adam, so that this argument, drawn from priority of creation, might prove that the sheep and the dog were greater than man. No. Woman was an independent creation, and was intended, if she choose, to live alone, to work alone, act alone, think alone, but never fight her battles alone. The Bible says it is not good for a woman to be alone; and the simple fact is that many women who are harnessed for life in the marriage relation would be a thousand-fold better off if they were alone.

A woman standing outside the marriage relation is seve... better off than ... Many an attracti... sense in other th... to reform him. Wh... when a dove, notici... rapacious and cruel, s... and said: "I have a n... I like peace, and was ... quiet of a dove-cot, and ... vulture to the same likin... him," so, one day, after t... clared he would give up his ... habits and cease longing for blo... and herd, at an altar of rock covered with moss and lichen, the twain were married, a bald-headed eagle officiating, the vulture saying: "With all my dominion of earth and sky, I thee endow, and promise to love and cherish till death do us part." But one day the dove in her fright saw the vulture busy at a carcass, and cried: 'Stop that! Did you not promise me that you would quit your carnivorous and filthy habits if I married you?" "Yes," said the vulture, "but if you don't like my way, you can leave," and with one angry stroke of the beak, and another fierce clutch, the vulture left the dove eyeless and wingless and lifeless.

Many a woman who has had the hand of a young inebriate offered, but declined it, or who was asked to chain her life to a man selfish, or of bad temper, and refused the shackles, will bless God throughout all eternity that she escaped that earthly pandemonium.

In addressing those women who have to battle alone, I congratulate you on your happy escape. Rejoice forever that you will not have to navigate the faults of the other sex, when you have faults enough of your own. Think of the bereavements you avoid, of the risks of unassimilated temper which you will not have to run, of the cares you will never have to carry, and of the opportunity of outside usefulness from which married life would have partially debarred you, and that you are free to go and come as one who has the responsibilities of a household can seldom be. God has not given you a hard lot, as compared with your sisters. When young women shall make up their minds at the start that masculine companionship is not a necessity in order to happiness, and that there is a strong probability that they will have to fight the battle of life alone, they will be getting the timber ready for their own fortune, and their saw and ax and plane sharpened for its construction, since "Every wise woman buildeth her house."

As no boy ought to be brought up without learning some business at which he could earn a livelihood, so no girl ought to be brought up without learning the science of self-support. The difficulty is that many a family goes sailing on the high tide of success, and the husband and father depends on his own health and acumen for the welfare of his household, but one day he gets his feet wet, and in three days pneumonia has closed his life, and the daughters are turned out on a cold world to earn bread, and there is nothing practical that they can do.

How is this evil to be cured? Start clear back in the homestead and teach your daughters that life is an earnest thing, and that there is a possibility, if not a strong probability, that they will have to fight the battle of life alone. Let every father and mother say to their daughters: "Now, what would you do for a livelihood if what I now own were swept away by financial disaster, or old age, or death should end my career?"

My advice to all girls and all unmarried women, whether in affluent homes or in homes where most stringent economies are grinding, is to learn to do some kind of work that the world must have while the world stands.

O, young women of America! as many of you will have to fight your own battles alone, do not wait until you meet with disaster and your father is dead, and all the resources of your family have been scattered; but now, while in a good house and environed by all prosperities, learn how to do some kind of work that the world must have as long as the world stands. Turn your attention from the embroidery of fine slippers, of which there is a surplus, and make a useful shoe. Expend the time in which you adorn a cigar case in learning how to make a good, honest loaf of bread. Turn your attention from the making of flimsy nothings to the manufacturing of important something.

"But," you ask, "what would my father and mother say if they saw I was doing such unfashionable work?" Throw the whole responsibility upon us, the pastors who are constantly hearing of young women in all these cities, who, unqualified by their previous luxurious surroundings for the awful struggle of life into which they have been suddenly hurled, seemed to have nothing left them but a choice between starvation and damnation. They go along the street at 7 o'clock in the wintry mornings, through the slush and storm to the place where they shall earn only half enough for subsistence, the daughters of once prosperous merchants, lawyers, clergymen, artists, bankers and capitalists, who brought up their children under the infernal delusion that it was not high tone for a woman to learn a profitable calling. Young woman! take this affair in your own hand, and let there be an insurrection in all prosperous families on the part of the daughters of this day, demanding knowledge in occupation and styles of business by which they may be their own defence and their own support if all fatherly and husbandly and brotherly hands fail them. I have seen two sad sights, the one a woman in all the glory of her young life, stricken by disease, and in a week lifeless in a home of which she had been the pride. As her hands were folded over the still heart and her eyes closed for the last slumber, and she was taken out amid the lamentations of kindred and friends, I thought that was a sadness immeasurable. But I have seen something compared with which that scene was bright and songful. It was a young woman who had been all her days amid wealthy surroundings, by the visit of death and bankruptcy to the household turned out on a cold world without one lesson about how to get food or shelter, and into the awful whirlpool of city life, where strong ships have gone down, and for twenty years not one word has been heard from her. Vessels went out on the Atlantic Ocean looking for a shipwrecked craft that was left alone and forsaken on the sea a few weeks before, with the idea of bringing it into port. But who shall ever bring into the harbor of peace and hope and heaven that lost womanly immortal, driven in what tempest, aflame in what conflagration, sinking into what abyss? O God, help! O Christ, rescue! My sisters, give not your time to learning fancy work which the world may dispense with in hard times, but connect your skill with the indispensables of life.

Let me say to all women who have already entered upon the battle of life that the time is coming when women shall not only get as much salary and wages as men get, but for certain styles of employment women will have higher salary and more wages, for the reason that for some styles of work they have more adaptation.

...HOOL.

...Y COMMENTS
...RY 30.

...y to Pray." Matt. vi., ... Text: Matt. vi., 6—Com... on the Day's Lesson Writ... by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

5. "And when thou prayest thou shalt not be as the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward." Dr. Weston says concerning this sermon that Christ here draws the picture of the person who is to be the result of His work, the ideal man whom the Saviour is to make actual by saving him from sin. The only and indispensable condition of admission to such a life is the consciousness of utter spiritual poverty, absolute destitution, a beggar with no power to alter his condition or make himself better. No man on earth, be he who or what he will, is excluded, and the character described in the beatitudes is within the reach of every man.

6. "But thou when thou prayest enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door pray to thy Father, which is in secret, and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly." All benevolence is not to be hidden, for when our good works glorify God we are to let our light so shine. No one is forbidden to pray in public, nor even to let it be known that we are fasting if God can be glorified thereby. What is forbidden is our own glory or advantage in anything. What is required is the glory of God in all things. See I Cor. x., 31; Pet. iv., 11; John xiv., 13, 14.

7. "But when ye pray use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do, for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking." There is nothing here forbidding us to repeat the same petitions in our prayers, but what is forbidden is vain repetition or thinking that there is benefit or merit in saying the same words over and over. True prayer is the utterance of heart desires for the glory of God in the name of Jesus Christ.

8. "Be not ye therefore like unto them, for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask Him." We are not forbidden to ask because our Father knows, but we are to ask as children who have confidence in a Father's love and wisdom. Children who tease and torment their parents do not credit either to themselves or to their parents; parents who permit it are not wise, and children who do it do not honor their parents. Confidence in God will meekly ask and be sure that if it is best it shall be given.

9. "After this manner therefore pray ye, Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name." I have met many who use no more this form of words and perhaps they do no sin by this omission; as for myself I never expect to pray better or with more understanding or more in accord with the will of God than when I use these very words. I would not rob Israel, nor put myself under any bondage, but if Israel has a good thing which, I, too, can enjoy, surely our Father would like me to enjoy it. How very near Jesus took Mary and us to His heart when He said, "Go to My brethren and say unto them, I ascend unto My Father, and your Father, and to My God and your God" (John xx., 17).

10. "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." When, after the thousand years, satan shall have been sent to the lake of fire, and all things shall have been subdued unto Christ, then He shall hand over the kingdom unto God the Father that God may be all in all (Rev. xx., 10; I Cor. xv., 28), and this prayer shall be answered.

11. "Give us this day our daily bread." Our Father knows our need in this matter and will not withhold any good, yet it is His pleasure that we ask Him for all that is included in this phrase "our daily bread," and inasmuch as we have already learned that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God (Chapter iv., 4), the phrase must include a great deal.

12. "And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." Forgiveness of sins in His name is what we are to preach everywhere (Luke xxiv., 47), and when we receive Him we are assured that our sins are forgiven for His name's sake and shall no more be remembered (I John ii., 12; Isa. xliii., 25), but while we are in these mortal bodies we shall need constant forgiveness; hence the comfort of the assurance that "if we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." It is the sense of the vast forgiveness which we enjoy from Him that enables us to be kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven us (Eph. iv., 32.

13. "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory forever. Amen." God never tempts any one to do wrong (Jas. i., 13), but He does try men for their present and eternal good, and for His great glory, and it is blessed to be tried and receive grace to endure (Jas. i., 12). He will never try us above what we are able (I Cor. x., 13). As to the evil one, He will deliver us from every evil and preserve us unto His heavenly kingdom (II Tim. iv., 18). The kingdom is His, the power is His, and the glory. Salvation and service from beginning to end are all His, and of Him, and it becomes us ever to say, "Thine O Lord, is the greatness and the power and the glory and the victory and the majesty, for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is Thine; Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and Thou art exalted as head above all."

14. "For if ye forgive men their trespasses your Heavenly Father will also forgive you." Fellowship with God depends upon our being one with Him in all things. We may walk with Him, and He will dwell in us and walk in us (II Cor. vi., 16), but we must be willing to humble ourselves and agree with Him in everything (Mic. vi., 8; margin; Amos iii., 3).

15. "But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses." When Peter asked how often he should forgive his brother and suggested seven times as a possible extreme, our Lord answered, "Until seventy times seven." He then told of one who was forgiven 10,000 talents, but would not forgive his fellow a hundred pence; hence he was severely punished. Our Lord added, "So likewise shall My Heavenly Father do also unto you if ye from your hearts forgive not everyone his brother their trespasses" (Math. xviii., 21-35). Again it is, as always, "Not I, but Christ." "Not I, but the grace of God." Nothing for self, not even anything in the way of justice as a primary thing, and never revenge, but always the glory of God that He may be magnified. —Lesson Helper.

All over the country landowners and others are suing paper, woodpulp and saw mills for dumping refuse and waste into streams and ruining them. Most of the suits are successful.

A crusty c… nois one day be… for three circuit-… dropped in simulta… The larder was low a… sisted of a single fowl… asked the first sky-pilot what p… the chicken he would have.

"A leg," said Number 1.

"Another leg, thank you," requested Number 2.

"And what will you have?" asked the farmer, turning to Number 3.

"I will also take a leg, if you please," replied the third.

With an ejaculation that shocked his reverend guests the farmer threw down his carving utensils and demanded to know what sort of a "crittur" they thought he was carving.

"This is a two-legged chicken," he shouted; "not a centipede."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Life Isn't Worth Living

to one who suffers the maddening agony of Eczema, Tetter and such irritating, itching skin diseases. Every roughness of the skin from a simple chap to Tetter and Ringworm even of long standing is completely, quickly and surely cured by Tetterine. Is comfort worth 50 cents to you? That's the price of Tetterine at drug stores, or by mail for price in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last fifteen years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Pres. McKinley Vs. Free Silver.

A battle of giants is going to take place this summer on 30,000 farms in America, not in talk or votes, but in yields. Salzer's new potato marvels are named as above, and he offers a price for the biggest potato yield, also $400 in gold for suitable name for his corn (17 inches long) and oat prodigies. Only seedsmen in America growing grasses, clovers and farm seeds and selling potatoes at $1.50 a barrel. The editor urges you to try Salzer's seeds, and to

SEND THIS NOTICE WITH 10 CTS. IN STAMPS to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., for 11 new farm seed samples, worth $10 00, to get a start, and their big catalogue. A. C 9

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

I use Piso's Cure for Consumption both in my family and practice.—Dr. G. W. PATTERSON, Inkster Mich., Nov. 5, 1894.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

Lieut. Winston Churchill, son of Lord and Lady Randolph Churchill, and grandson of the late Leonard Jerome, is now acting as war correspondent for the London Telegraph in India.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.

Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

"The wages of sin is death," remarked the observer of men and things. "In the case of a person who never sins, death is in the nature of the unearned increment, as it were.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

By the year 1900, Japan will have to pay $25,000,000 a year as interest on its national debt.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.

Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

The great astronomical clock of Strassburg is the most intricate piece of clockwork in the world.

FREE! Inventor's Patent Guide. Any Drug Store or O'Mara Co-op. Pat. Office, Wash., D. C.

In cold weather
We need heat.
The blood must be
Warm, rich and pure.
Hood's Sarsaparilla

Keeps the blood
In perfect order,
Sending it, in a
Nourishing stream,
To every organ.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

We want a hustling agent in every county to sell our latest improved Plows. All kinds direct from the factory to the farmer. Work right around your home. BABY CULTIVATOR COMPANY, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

CANNING MACHINERY, CANS, Cases, Labels and Solder. Receipts for canning gratis. A. K. ROBINS & CO., Baltimore, Md.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

…NTS.

…chamber of …anconia, the …trict of Ger… …rican hops are … German product …rket.

…he Indian famine the …ment has expended on its own account or as a disburser of loans and charitable contributions more than $10,000,000. What a vast difference in the amount of misery in India this sum must have made!

The London Globe says that a clever photographer has "doctored" a snapshot of an informal royal family group taken at Darmstadt, and produced a new and ostensibly official picture, representing the Kaiser and the Czar with their arms affectionately entwined. In Berlin they buy it by the gross; in St. Petersburg it has been forbidden by law. One capital's meat is another capital's poison.

Dr. Nansen appears to be booming the Arctic regions as a great health resort. According to his testimony, the atmosphere of the frozen zone is absolutely free from all disease germs, and no such things as bacilli or microbes can survive there. It will have to be allowed that this is a handsome recommendation, though, as a Boston contemporary points out, it is somewhat hampered by the danger of freezing to death.

"The Stanford (Ky.) Journal" says: "The unusual sight of a thirty-five-year-old man going to school can be seen any day at the public school here. It is 'Ed' Hubbard, who a year or so ago decided to make a preacher of himself, and, having no education, he is taking every opportunity to secure it. He is a good scholar, Professor Grubbs tells us, but it occasionally becomes necessary to 'keep him in to make him work a little harder. He plays with the boys at recess, and seems to relish football and other games as much as his playmates, the majority of whom are a score or more years younger."

The dream of the deviser of long felt wants in the bicycle business has at last been realized. It is by the successful completion of an automatic bicycle pump which will fill a bicycle tire to the required degree of hardness by the simple pulling of a lever after connecting the hose to the tire and dropping a penny in thte slot. The remarkable thing about this invention is, that the air is compressed into the tire by the action of the lever moved by the hand of the rider. The great power necessary to effect the result is secured by an arrangement of mechanical appliances entirely new to the construction of pumps. The pump is always ready to work and when placed in front of the road houses and inns along the boulevards and bicycle paths in the neighborhood of large cities, will save riders an immense amount of inconvenience and discomfort. It is expected also that the machine will be used universally for pumping carriage tires.

The London Globe says that a number of comments will appear in the skies during the year 1898. "The Pons Winnecke comet should open the list by appearing in April, after an absence of about five and one-half years. In May the celebrated Encke comet is due. This comet has a period of only three and one-fourth years, and its frequent appearance has been the means of astronomers discovering a great deal about comets and their wanderings through space. In June we should have two of these cosmical visitors—Swift's and Wolfe's comets—the former after an absence of six years and the latter a trifle longer. Temple's comet completes the visitors' list by arriving in September. These comets are all regular visitors, whose periods are so well known that their arrivals may be timed almost to the hour. Others, no doubt, will arrive, but they will doubtless be casuals, of whose antecedents nothing is known, and most of them such small fry as to catch the attention of only the most assiduous observers."

While the code duello, in its sanguinary character, is rapidly becoming obsolete in the United States, it appears to be still in high favor on the other side of the Atlantic. In Germany some 4,000 engagements are yearly fought on the field of honor with sanguinary results. Most of these engagements take place in the neighborhood of college towns. Within the space of twenty-four hours as many as twenty duels have occurred in the neighborhood of Jena. Next to Germany in allegiance to the code duello, comes France. There are some 1,200 duels fought annually in France, the participants being mainly officers in the French army. Italy comes next to France, with some 272 duels annually. During the past ten years Italy has furnished 2,759 duels. Austria, Russia, Spain and Great Britain rank next in the order named. In Great Britain the code has become almost as obsolete as in the United States. Most of the duels fought on the European continent are fought with the sword, though pistols and knives are used occasionally.

Some young men of Irving, a suburb of Chicago, have formed an anti-marriage association. The member who marries must pay $25 and give a banquet to the members. To visit a girl twice in a week costs $2, and $1 is assessed against those who take a girl home by the shortest route. The members of the association expect to enjoy many banquets in the near future.

The Stone Family Association has grown so rapidly in the last three years, according to the New York Tribune, that it promises to be stronger in numbers than any similar organization in the country. At ae recent meeting in Boston, lately discovered information as to the English birthplace and ancestry of Simon and Gregory Stone was presented, and William E. Stone, of Cambridge, Mass., was authorized to have it published for the benefit of the descendants. It seems that Simon Stone sailed from London for New England in the ship Increase, on April 15, 1635, and that Gregory Stone reached Cambridge soon afterward.

Inspector General Breckinridge believes there is great need in the army for a system of rewards for conduct, and has proposed to present good-conduct badges to deserving soldiers. Referring to the recommendations, which have been indorsed by General Miles and Secretary Alger, General Breckinridge says: "Some armies adopted a system of good-conduct pay and badges and have derived marked benefit therefrom; and its introduction into our army would prove equally beneficial. The total number of men in the army worthy of good-conduct badges last year was 4,614, and over 17,500 men were reported as not having been tried, and 20,580 had not been in confinement, or 79.4 and 92.9 per cent. respectively, of the total number of enlisted men reported present and absent. These figures bring the troublesome element within 20 per cent., and speak well for the army; and they are a fair indication of the behavior of our troops. It is safe to say that the adoption of good-conduct badges would improve the morals of our army, and supplement the much-valued medals of honor and certificates of merit, which are hardly within reach in the quiet time of peace."

A singularly interesting announcement is that Mr. Jackson, the intrepid and accomplished explorer of Franz Josef Land, means to make an attempt to reach the North Pole by way of Grinnell Land. He at first planned to go up the east coast of Greenland and strike poleward from the north of that island, but abandoned that route when he found that it was already pre-empted by Lieutenant Peary, who will reach it from the west coast of Greenland. He will, therefore, go up the west coast of Greenland, just as the American explorer will, but on reaching high latitude will turn to the west, instead of to the east. While Lieutenant Peary makes his dash toward the pole on or near the thirtieth meridian west from Greenwich, Mr. Jackson will make his probably somewhere between the seventieth and eightieth. In those high latitudes, however, they will not be far apart ,and every mile made toward the pole will bring them nearer to each other. It is an interesting feature of the case, too, that the American will travel by way of Sherard Osborn Fiord and Nares Land and other regions bearing the names of English adventurers, and the Englishman will proceed by way of Grinnell Land and Grant Land, and perhaps Cape Columbia.

Alive Without Her Stomach.

The astonishing discovery made by a foreign surgeou, who has found that a human being can live without a stomach, will be regarded with wonder by the men of science everywhere. The physician who accomplished the triumph removed a woman's stomach four months ago, but the woman is still alive, working and in good health. She eats and she gets the benefit of her food, which is digested, presumably, by the other organs in the intestinal tract. The operation may not be of immediate practical value. It seems to be doubtful whether it will ever be tried save in rare cases where the life of the patient is dependent upon relief from some sort of stomach trouble. The fact remains that the performance is of great importance as an indication that the digestive and assimilative power of the stomach has been overestimated and that much work of the kind is performed by intestinal organs which have been little regarded. Heretofore it has been taken for granted that the stomach was an indispensable part of the vital system; that without it no one could take food or assimilate it. The recent sensational operation has opened up a whole new sphere of physiological science by disclosing that it is actually possible to get along without the organ altogether. The discovery is another of the triumphs which the daring and skill of modern surgery have encompassed within a quarter of a century.

Strength of a Spider's Webb.

Size for size, a thread of spider's silk is decidedly tougher than one of steel. An ordinary thread will bear a weight of three grains. This is about fifty per cent. stronger than a steel thread of the same thickness.

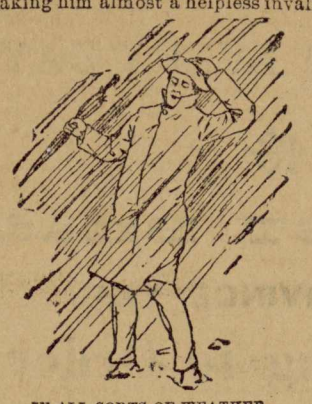
The earliest complete clock of which an accurate record exists was made in the thirteenth century by a Saracen mechanic.

Chronic Rheumatism.

From the Industrial News, Jackson, Mich.

The subject of this sketch is fifty-six years of age, and actively engaged in farming. When seventeen years old he hurt his shoulder and a few years after commenced to have rheumatic pains in it. On taking a slight cold or the least strain, sometimes without any apparent cause whatever, the trouble would start and he would suffer the most excruciating pains.

He suffered for over thirty years, and the last decade has suffered so much that he was unable to do any work. To this the frequent occurrences of dizzy spells were added, making him almost a helpless invalid.



IN ALL SORTS OF WEATHER.

He tried the best physicians but without being benefited and has used several specific rheumatic cures, but was not helped. About one year and six months ago he read in this paper of a case somewhat similar to his which was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and concluded to try this remedy.

After taking the first box he felt somewhat better, and after using three boxes, the pains entirely disappeared, the dizziness left him and he has now for over at year been entirely free from all his former trouble and enjoys better health than he has had since his boyhood.

He is loud in his praises of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and will gladly corroborate the above statements. His post-office address is Lorenzo Neeley, Horton, Jackson County, Michigan.

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained, in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. All druggists sell them.

THE . . .
"Sweep 'em Out Sale"

Continues to win trade. No wonder! with such reductions on high-class goods. . . . . .

Mail Orders With Cash Promptly Attended to.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn

Cotton,

like every other crop, needs nourishment.

A fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and not less than 3% of actual

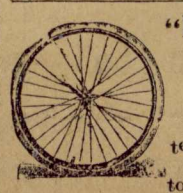
Potash,

will increase the crop and improve the land.

Our books tell all about the subject. They are free to any farmer.

GERMAN KALI WORKS, 93 Nassau St., New York.

Gantt's Patent Cotton Planters and Guano Distributers. It's economy to use them. Every farmer can afford to have one or more. Send for samples and prices. J. T. GANTT, Macon, Ga.



"Birmingham," $40.

Best bicycle in the market for the price.

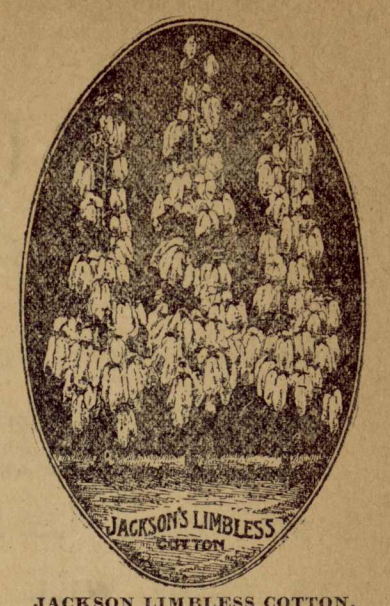
Mail orders promptly attended to.

Parts or repairs out of town returned on first train.

Most complete repair shop in the South. Catalogue for the asking.

The Loosley Cycle Company,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.



JACKSON LIMBLESS COTTON.

Committee Report of the Interstate Cotton Growers' Association on the Jackson African Limbless Cotton, That Met In Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 14, 1897.

We, the undersigned Committee, appointed by the Interstate Cotton Growers' Association, held in Atlanta, Ga., December 14th, 1897, to investigate and report on the Jackson Limbless Cotton, beg leave to submit the following report:

After a thorough and careful examination and investigation made of the cotton in the field, which we visited in person, and carefully looking into the matter, we unhesitatingly pronounce it the best variety of cotton ever grown in the South. From what the Committee learned from a conversation with Mr. Jackson, it seems that the cotton, with careful cultivation, will yield three bales per acre easily, and the evidence of such fact has presented itself to us after said investigation. The cotton itself is absolutely without limbs, the bolls maturing on little prongs two or three inches long, known as "fruit spur," with no other limbs; there being from two to five bolls on each spur. The stalks in the field, examined by us, are from four to ten feet tall, according to the fertility of the soil, as fruited from the ground up. We found on a great many stalks, bolls which contain five and six pods, which we consider very unusual, the size of the bolls being very fine average; the lint and staple being fine and silky, an average of one to one and a half inches. It is the opinion of your Committee that no cotton of this variety has ever been grown in the South before, and is of superior quality to anything we have ever seen grown. The land upon which the cotton examined was grown, is ordinary red gravelly upland, well manured. WM. P. CALHOUN, Chairman, Ga.

RICHARD CHEATHAM, Committee, Miss.

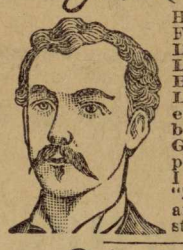
When your Committee visited the Jackson farm, the following gentlemen, members of the Atlanta Convention from the States designated under their names, accompanied your Committee, all being practical farmers, and endorse the above report, as evidenced by their signatures. M. T. LEACH, North Carolina.

JOHN E. BRADLEY, W. J. BRADLEY, S. C.

The seed from this wonderful cotton are put up 200 select seed to each package for $1.00; six packages $5.00; one pound $7.00. For sale by J. C. MAYFIELD, MANAGER, Atlanta, Ga.

HOT SHOT.

J. J. Edwards

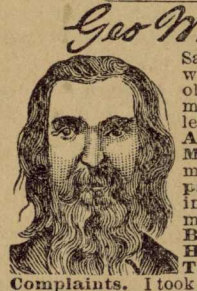


Hot Springs, Ark., writes: For 25 years have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine for Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Dyspepsia and General Debility. It is perfectly harmless, and I think far Superior to "Zeilin's Liver Medicine" and "Black Draught" in strength and action.

W. A. Yates

Williford, Ark., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 10 years in my family. It has cured cases of Enlargement of Liver and Spleen, Bilious Fever, and cured my Wife of Nervous Headache. I find it far Superior to "J. H. Zeilin's Liver Regulator," also far ahead of "Black Draught."

Geo. W. Moody



San Antonio, Tex., writes: I am 76 years old past, and feel that my days have been lengthened by Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine, which cured me of Chronic Constipation of long standing. Have used it in my family 30 years for Biliousness, Sick Headache, Kidney Troubles and Bowel Complaints. I took one dose of "Zeilin's Liver Regulator," and some of the Sticks in it lodged in my throat, causing me to vomit, and I took no more of it. I refer to any County Officer in Bandera County.

W. M. Simmons

Canton, Texas, writes: One Package Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cured me of Neuralgia and Palpitation of Heart. I tried Thedford's Black Draught, and it did no good.

FOR 14 CENTS

We wish to gain 150,000 new customers, and hence offer

1 Pkg.	13 Day Radish,	10c
1 Pkg.	Early Spring Turnip,	10c
1 "	Earliest Red Beet,	10c
1 "	Bismarck Cucumber,	10c
1 "	Queen Victoria Lettuce,	15c
1 "	Klondyke Melon,	15c
1 "	Jumbo Giant Onion,	15c
3 "	Brilliant Flower Seeds,	15c

Worth $1.00, for 14 cents.

Above 10 pkgs. worth $1.00, we will mail you free, together with our great Plant and Seed Catalogue upon receipt of this notice and 14c. postage. We invite your trade and know when you once try Salzer's seeds you will never get along without them. Potatoes at $1.50 a Bbl. Catalog alone 5c. No. AC 9

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

SEEDS Garden & Flower with a world-wide reputation. Catalog free to all.

JAMES J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

Am. N. U. No. 4 1898

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the

City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant
Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

P. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r, Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.
Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -

AND

COMMERCIAL INSTITU

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.
SPLENDID BUILDING.
GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.
FIVE INSTRUCTORS.
VERY REASONABLE TERMS.

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE FOR

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS,

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original series.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

in these missing word contests. It sets aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received from subscribers guessing at the missing word, and this fund is given to the successful guesser or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed with absolute fairness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has MORE THAN 150,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent from all guessers' subscriptions for this distribution fund shows that the amount to be divided at each interval is large enough to be worth striving for. It is not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but the plan is open and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post Office Department as a meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken is deposited in a safety vault, under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a competent committee, which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,000; and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess, and even though not successful, the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE, SEVEN-COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America; its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.
AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.
ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.
ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENT, Its Woman's Department and Its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize--everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,
Montevallo, Alabama.

...M
...FG. CO.

...locton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices.

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353. - BLOCTON, ALA.

Do You Know

RAMON'S LIVER PILLS

and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by a Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses
The Tonic Pellet Invigorates

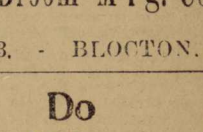
The little "Doctor's Book" tells all about it and a week's Treatment free proves every word true. Complete Treatment 25 cents. Brown Mf'g. Co., N. Y. & Greeneville, Tenn.

ROYAL

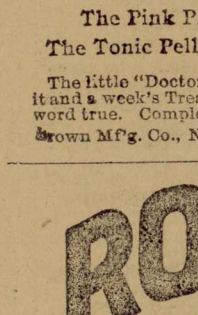


BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.



And other specialties for Gentlemen, Ladies, Boys and Misses are the Best in the World.

See descriptive advertisement which will appear in this paper.

Take no Substitute, but insist on having W. L. DOUGLAS' SHOES, with name and price stamped on bottom. Sold by

---

JONES

HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

This would be a comparatively happy world if everybody knew the virtues of SMITH'S BILE BEANS as a family medicine, and acted upon that knowledge. One half the misery of the world comes from ailments which arise from a bad stomach or a bad liver. Chiefest among these are dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache and Neuralgia.

BILE BEANS will cure all of these, besides all miasmatic diseases. Dose: One Bean.

Many a person is starving with a full table before them. Appetite gone! Ambition gone! Life a burden!! What is the matter? The Liver has ceased to do its proper work. The life channels are clogged. Poisonous fluids are thrown back into the blood, which should be thrown out. SMITH'S BILE BEANS will surely stimulate the liver to do its work well, and headache, sallowness and bad breath will flee away. Price, 25 cents per bottle. All druggists.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.

Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3, '97. NO. 5

THE GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL OF ALABAMA.

The Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo is a monument to the wisdom of the Legislature that created it and a pride to the succeeding Legislature which made appropriations to sustain it.

Having occasion to visit Montevallo on some Pythian work recently, in company with the Grand Chancellor and a number of visiting Knights, we made a careful inspection of this fast becoming celebrated school and its workings. The trustees have done what few schools have ever done—put a wide-awake, live, active business man at its head Capt. H. C. Reynolds up to a year and a half ago had been a successful merchant, he has accumulated a competency and raised a large family of children, with no end in view except to better his town and its inhabitants, he took an active interest in the location of this school at Montevallo. After it was located, factional quarrels on the board prevented its being put in operation for some time, until finally Capt. Reynolds, with his indomitable will-power and perseverance, succeeded in getting it started. Buildings being much in demand, and as funds were scarce, he went to Washington and while endeavoring to get an appropriation from Congress, succeeded in getting the officials of the Southern railway to give free transportation on all material used in the construction of the building. This donation amounted to over two thousand dollars. The trustees realizing the great interest he felt in the school, made the president. Succeeding events proved the wisdom of their choice. Thursday last, the 13th of January, as we stood on the rostrum of the spacious chapel, over 300 bright, well bred girls from all over the State, rose to bid us welcome.

Capt. Reynolds, we found, had the day before left for washington, where he is endeavoring to get Congress to donate public lands to the institution. In this he will succeed. He may not at this Congress, but mark our prediction, before he quits, this school will have the grants of lands asked for. This is Capt. Reynolds' record. He listens to no words of discouragement, always enthusiastic and knowing full well the justice of his requests, he will win.

A word about the splendid faculty, which the trustees seem to have been so happy in selecting.

In the study hall, or chapel, we found Mrs. Mary C. Babb, a woman of rare attainments and peculiarly fitted for her position; next to Capt. Reynolds she holds the most responsible position in the school. At the close of each half hour periods, the pupils file out to the different departments with mathematical precision. It seemed difficult to manage so large a school, until we saw the systemaitc and thorough manner in which it was conducted. Mrs. Babb, a profound Bible scholar, conducted a class in Bible history. Upon our inquiry as to what she did with denominational questions, she promptly replied, "we know no denominations in this school, and no denominational ideas or puestions are ever allowed. We have all classes here, and being a state institution all such questions are kept down." We visited each of the literary departments, and were impressed with the efficiency and thoroughness of the work. Briefly I might mention the heads of these departments: Prof. R. J. H. Simmons, mathematics; Miss Mary Stallworth, assistant mathematics; Miss Annie Kennedy, English and History; Miss Sophie Fitts, assistant; Miss B. M. Haley, pedagogy and Latin.

In the art department we found Miss Ella McCombs, who has a large class, and is doing fine work. Pupils were engaged in free hand drawing, water colors, oil painting, drawing and painting from nature and also china painting.

Living up to the spirit which created the school, we found the department of telegraphy so admirably suited for young women, presided over by the bright and attractive Mrs. Florence Hudson. We found her office connected with the outside world by telegraph, and then and there the party stopped and sent telegrams to our people at home, greeting them from the walls of this practical institution.

Passing on to the department which gives inssruction useful to woman we found Mrs. Gussie Nelson, so well known by the best dressed ladies of Montgomery—a queen of her profession. We learned of the fine influence she had w th all the pupils of the school. We saw there dresses of the finest material and make, just being boxed to go off by express to distant towns.

We saw there great interest and devotion to this work; girls were in this department who actually earned enough money to pay their way through the school.

The assistant in this department is Miss Leo Sanders, who last session graduated under Mrs. Nelson, and was elected on last commencement to her present position. Each girl is allowed two hours a day in this department, and more if her literary studies will permit it. About twenty-five machines are kept humming from morning to close of school. Many of the girls, I learn come back and work on Saturday. They make their own uniforms, thus saving an expense.

The typewriting department is admirably fitted up with machines of the latest and best make, and this is presided over by Miss Fannie Burke, an adept in this line. Owing to the great number of pupils, the stenographer and typewriting pupils have to be separated. Miss Susie Fox, of Wythville, Va., has charge of the class in stenography.

The department which fills a long felt want and interest to all the "men folks" is that of scientific cooking. This queen of all departments is graced by Miss Nellie Evans from Washington, D. C., who, like the institution, is intensely practical. She does not deal in theories and lectures, but in actual practice. "Sure enough" cooking is done and many a girl goes out from this class calculated to make a happy home. Broiled beef-steak, potato salad with French dressing was the bill of fare for the day. Over a hundred pupils compose her class, who come in sections of 15 or 20 at a time

The musical features of the school are unquestionably fine. The great number who take music makes it necessary to employ five teachers, and have on hand 27 pianos. The teachers in this branch are as follows: Miss Addie Lee, piano; Miss Sallie Crumpton, vocal; Miss Laura Dale, Guitar and piano; Miss Edna Bush, piano; Mrs. Sallie Cothren, vocal and instrumental.

This constitutes the faculty of this young but great school. We confess we were surprised and wonderfully pleased. We had but little idea that so much could be accomplished in such a short time. No State institution ever before made such strides and gave such direct benefit to its people. We were told that eighty eight ($88) covers cost of the entire session course. This embraces board, tuition, laundry, medical attention and use of all text books in the school. Every one would naturally ask the question, how can they do it so cheap? Well, we never inquired, but see it is done and done well. I saw bright, happy healthy girls as they changed from one department to another—from hard, head-splitting problems in trigonometry? I saw them go into a lesson of cooking, or in dress making, and cast all care to the winds. We saw many girls from around our home in Montgomery, and wished we had been born a girl and were a pupil in this happy school.

Alabama has a jewel at Montevallo of which she may well be proud. It makes our heart rejoice at its magnificent success and the grand work being accomplished.

Capt. Reynolds, to whom every one gives credit for so much of its success, is building for himself a monument that will be the pride and honor of his children and a blessing to the girls of Alabama.

We are grateful to Bro. C. L. Maroney, W. B. Reynolds and other members of J. W. Hardee Lodge No. 52 for courtesies extended, while on a tour of inspection through the Polytecnic Institute.

Editor Alabama Knight.

For The Man

WHO fails to save a Dollar.

YOU CAN SAVE SEVERAL

By doing your trading with

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS.

Montevallo, - - Ala.

Montevallo needs a number of novelty mills. They do not require at the outset a mint of money to establish them. They would render all kinds of hard woods valuable and give a more valuable market for them than as fuel. We would suggest to our citizens that they give special attention to this line of industry. A study of the novelty mills of Maine would be profitable and interesting. She has seventeen factories that make spools. They are made of white birch. There are mills in almost every town in Maine and they afford employment to many people.

One factory at South Parish, in Oxford county, Maine, employs two hundred hands.

IN MEMORIAM.

To the memory of Mary Claudia Bryan, who died at Montevallo, Ala., January 7th 1898 and whose nineteen years of uncomplaining and untireing love was a solace and comfort to her parents and family and whose pleasant disposition and lovable acts endeared her to friends and relatives. The following lines are lovingly dedicated:

We miss you little girl; how much we ne'er can tell,
The happy laugh on earth is stilled,
In Heaven, God wanted you with Him to dwell,
And we had to bow to what he willed.
He took you from us—we had no choice—
And silenced on earth, your sweet young voice,
That Heaven's choir might be filled.

We miss you little girl; our hearts with care are laden;
And the pain is so hard to bear,
But we think of you dear in that distant eden,
At the head of the Golden Stair.
But, we'll meet you again "Some sweet day,"
And see you, happy, bright and gay
With His chosen angels there'

We miss you little girl; the days are longer now
Than when you were with us, dear;
But God's will be done; and we humbly bow,
Knowing the meeting, though far, is near
For a life so pure is doubly blest;
The soul at peace in that land of rest,
For of death you had no fear.

We miss you little girl; there's a weary, aching pain
That life's joys can never cure;
But there's a happy thought; we'll meet again,
If earth's cares with patience we endure.
Pleading, we know you are at Jesus feet;
That in Heaven we'll once more meet
In loves eternity rest secure.

We miss you little girl, more and more each day,
Our hearts now are sad and prone;
But you have only gone before and led the way,
To joys, at last, we all may own;
But God knew best, His will is right,
And there shines now another light
Around the great white throne.

We miss you little girl; but there is joy above
In that home far beyond the sky.
And there, someday, where all is joy, peace and love,
We'll meet you again in the sweet bye and bye,
For we are coming, dear, to that city fair;
Your gentle hand shall lead us there
To that blissful home on high.

A Dear Friend.

California's Gold Output.

In connection with the recent observance of the semi-centennial anniversary of the discovery of gold on the Pacific coast it is interesting to note the magnitude of California's gold output during the past fifty years.

To begin with, the amount of gold dug from the mines during the first year succeeding the discovery aggregated only $245,301. But with a tremendrous bound the value of the output for the year following mounted up to $10,151,360. In 1850 the output aggregated $41,273,106; in 1851 $75,938,232, and in 1852, $81,294,700 Since 1852 there has been a gradual falling off in the annual output of the yellow metal. At the present time the amount of gold mined annually in California ranges in value from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000.

Since the first discovery of gold on the Pacific coast in 1848 it is estimated that California has produced not less than $1,300,398,779 worth of the yellow metal,

In view of what California owes to the discovery of gold, the people of that state have not been extravagant in holding such a brilliant festival as the one which has recently occurred in the Pacific slope.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

Stormy Weather the Past Week Checks the Movement of Merchandise.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN COTTON GOODS.

The Movement in Wheat and Corn Continues Enormous—Wool Is Strong. Print Cloths Higher—Falling Off in Failures.

Favorable conditions in the trade situation continue to far outweigh those of an opposite character. Stormy weather throughout a large section of the country this week has checked the movement of merchandise into consumption, but a perceptible increase in the demand for seasonable goods is reported already resulting. The last week of the month closes with increased activity in many lines, a number of price advances, heavily increased banking clearings, as compared with one year ago at nearly all cities, another considerable drop in the number of failures reported, large exports of cereals, particularly wheat, corn and flour, and perceptible confidence in nearly all branches of trade as regards the outlook for spring business. Another favorable feature of the week is the slight but distinct improvement in the cotton goods situation, in which speculative activity is awakening.

Print cloths are higher and from makes of gray and medium weight cottons are more firmly held.

Pig iron is reflecting the effect of the present unprecedented production, and a further weakening in prices is recorded at eastern points.

Boots and shoes hold the late advance and manufacturers of heavy weights will not take orders for fall delivery at present prices.

Wool is strong on large sales and firm prices abroad.

Collections are generally reported fair, those indicating backwardness coming most generally from the South.

Cereal exports are again heavy, total shipments of wheat, including flour, for the week amounting to 5,110,624 bushels against 3,926,000 bushels last week and 2,515,000 last year.

Corn, 4,962,000 bushels this week against 3,486,000 bushels last week and 3,011,000 bushels last year.

Business failures for the week are the smallest reported in the fourth week of January for the past five years, numbering only 288 against 309 last week, 326 last year, 393 in 1896, 312 in 1895 and 340 in 1894.

Of the failures reported, 251, or 87 per cent were of concerns having less than $20,000 capital. Canadian failures number 48 against 46 last week and 56 a year ago.

WATER IN PLACE OF WHISKY.

Miss Bradley Will Christen the Battleship Kentucky Next Month.

A special from Frankfort, Ky., says: "When next month the battleship Kentucky glides from the ways at Newport News her decks will not be bathed in champagne or good whisky. The fair sponsor, Miss Christine Bradley, will uncork a beautifully embellished vessel full of pure water.

"On the farm in LaRue county, where Abraham Lincoln was born, there is an unfailing spring of cold, crystal water where, in his boyhood, the great emancipator was wont to slake his thirst, using a gourd or oak leaf dipper.

"The idea is to have a committee formally visit the spring, fill a silver vessel with sparkling water and seal it with appropriate ceremonies. Then the vessel will be given to Miss Bradley, who will guard it as a sacred thing until the time for breaking the seal on board the Kentucky."

A Fabrication.

A special from Havana says: The Spanish account of the victory of General Castelanos and the capture of the headquarters of the rebel government in the town of Esperanza, has now proved to be a fabrication. There is no such town as Esperanza near Cubitas. The name of the town founded and occupied as the capital by the rebel government is Agramonte.

The Spanish troops were unable to get near this place, being repulsed in the mountains and forced to retire with heavy loss.

Spain Thoroughly Satisfied.

A semi-official note just issued at Madrid in relation to the visit of the United States battleship Maine to Cuba says:

"This necessitates Captain General Blanco sending a battleship, as well as the cruiser Vizcaya, to visit American ports. The visit will be made the occasion of festivities in honor of the Spanish sailors and the different naval commanders will exchange visits. The forthcoming festivities are regarded here as well as in Washington as a pacific demonstration calculated to be satisfactory to both countries."

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

French experiments have shown that an addition of arsenic to the molten metal increases the strength of steel.

A Leipzig firm is manufacturing wall hangings of aluminum which are fastened by nails of the same material to wooden boards or laths.

The operators at the Cross Mountrin coal mines, in the Jellicoe regions of Tennessee, are preparing to put in electrical apparatus for mining coal.

A sea otter of average size is about six feet long from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail. It is little like a land otter and more than twice as large. A whole skin is worth from $800 up.

Railroad cars of steel are supplanting the wood ones. They are more roomy, lighter and can be made longer. In strength they are far superior to the ordinary car and they are adapted particularly well for freight.

Science announces that the Austrian steamship Pola has gone to the Red sea for scientific explorations, and will this year cover the ground between Dschedda and Aden. Dr. Franz Steindachner, ichthyologist, has charge of the zoological work, and observations will also be made in physical oceanography.

Ernest Salzenberg, director of the city gas works in Crefeld, Germany, has invented an incandescent gas burner which produces a golden-yellow light, most soothing to the eye and extremely powerful. It is said that a single incandescent jet enables a person to read fine print at a distance of 100 to 150 feet from the light.

That birds build their nests by imitation has been called in question by A. G. Butler of London, who says that the reason why many of them at the beginning of the season trifle with building material for some time before they produce a satisfactory result is that they are unable at once exactly to remember what the character of the nest was in which they first saw the light of day.

How Old Is the Earth?

"In an address made at the annual meeting of the Victoria Institute, in London," says the Engineering and Mining Journal, "Lord Kelvin estimated the age of the earth, since it was sufficiently cooled to become the abode of plants and animals, to be about 20,000,000 years, within limits of error perhaps ranging between 15,000,000 and 30,000,000 years. This estimate, nearly agreeing with another by Clarence King from similar physical data, has generally been regarded by geologists, says Warren Upham, in the American Geologist for October, 1897, as too short for the process of sedimentation and erosion, and for the evolution of floras and faunas, of which the earth's strata bear record. More probably, as ratios and computations by Dana, Wolcott and other geologists somewhat harmoniously indicate, the duration of time since the beginning of life on the earth has been some three to five times longer than Kelvin's estimate, or from 60,000,000 to 100,000,000 years. The larger figures imply for the dawn of life, to the development of the Cambrian and Silurian faunas, probably 50,000,000 years; thence to the end of Palezoic time, perhaps 30,000,000 years; onward through Mesozoic time, about 15,000,000 years; and, through the Tertiary era, about 5,000,000. The comparatively very short Quarternary era, having, in its organic evolution, as shown by the marine mollusca, no higher ratio to Tertiary time than 1.50, may, therefore, have occupied only about 100,000 years."

Locks Are Smaller.

There is nothing which more illustrates the progress of science and invention than the decrease in size, weight and mechanism of locks and keys since these instruments were first put in use for the purpose of keeping out intrusive strangers. Years ago these mediums to secret chambers were made of wrought iron, and were of ponderous size and weight. The nineteenth century, however, has made wonderful improvements on these instruments. Nowadays a person may carry a dozen keys in his pocket with ease that will open stronger and more intricate locks than the grotesque specimens which prevailed in the days of our grandfathers. —Baltimore American.

Gold "Dust."

The gold that remains in the pan after the earth has been washed away is called "dust." Some of it is fine as the finest sand, some the size of a pin head and some as large as a pea or the end of your little finger, but it is all known as dust. Lumps the size of a hazelnut, a walnut, and larger, are called nuggets. You can buy as much of anything you want for an ounce of dust as you can for a $20 gold piece. All stores in mining districts are provided with gold scales, and the miner's gold is accepted as so much coin of the realm.—Denver Times.

Electrocutes Insects.

A Frenchman has invented an electric trap which will cause the instant death of any vermin and insects which come into contact with it.

The House—Thursday.

In the house today a bill was passed making Santa Fe, N. M., the permanent capital of the territory.... The Lewis resolution calling upon the president for the authority under the constitution under which he negotiated a treaty that will bind the treasury to pay $4,000,000 to Hawaiian bondholders was tabled by a vote of 143 to 101.... The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.... Mr. Hartman, silver republican from Montana, got the floor on a pro forma amendment, and made a fiery attack upon the republican party, relating to bimetallism.... Without further amendment the committee rose and the Indian bill was passed. The house then immediately went back into committee and took up the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The general debate drifted quickly into the question as to whether prosperity had come with the Dingley law.... At 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate.

After transacting some minor business the Teller resolution was laid before the senate, and after considerable discussion, it was agreed that the vote should be taken at 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the last four hours of debate to be under the fifteen minutes rule. After this agreement had been reached Mr. Daniel resumed his speech began last evening. He was followed by Messrs. Lodge and Lindsey, of Kentucky, the latter with a set speech in support of the pending resolution. At the conclusion of a speech by Mr. Cockrell the senate adjourned.

The House—Friday.

This was private bill day in the house under the rules, but Mr. Grout, of Vermont, in charge of the District of Columbia appropriation bill, attempted to supplant the regular order with the consideration of that bill. This immediately caused a renewal of the fight over the bill to pay the book publishing company of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, $288,000 for damages sustained by it during the war, which had already consumed the entire time of two private bill days. The friends of the latter measure, under the leadership of Mr. Cooper, of Texas, rallied in opposition to the motion and defeated it on a rising vote—72 to 129. The roll call developed such an overwhelming majority in favor of the bill (the vote being 75 to 168) that Mr. Dalzell offered to make terms with the friends of the bill for the relief of the Methodist Book Publishing company and it was finally arranged that after debate until 4 o'clock, a vote should be taken directly on the bill. At 4 o'clock the bill was favorably reported to the house and on the demand of Mr. Dalzell, the vote on its passage was taken by yeas and nays. The bill was passed, 188 to 67..... The house then took a recess until 8 o'clock. The night session was devoted to pension legislation. No disposition to contest developed and the entire calendar of twenty-nine bills was cleared before the hour of adjournment, 10:30, arrived.

The Senate.

In accordance with agreement the senate convened at 10 a. m. today. By unanimous consent the routine business was waived, and Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, opened the last day's discussion of the Teller resolution. The entire day was devoted to the discussion, during which time many amendments to modify the resolution were made and put to a vote, all of which went down under the formidable silver majority in the senate. When the final vote was taken the vice president announced that "the yeas are 47 and the nays 32, and the resolution is agreed to." The Teller resolution is a practical reaffirmation of that of Stanley Matthews in 1878, and is as follows: "That all the bonds of the United States issued, or authorized to be issued, under the said acts of congress hereinbefore recited, are payable, principle and interest, at the option of the government of the United States in silver dollars or the coin of the United States, containing 412½ grains each of standard silver; and that to restore to its coinage such silver coins as a legal tender in payment of said bonds, principle and interest, is not in violation of the public faith nor in derogation of the rights of the public creditor."

The vote in detail:

Yeas—Messrs. Allen, Bacon, Bate, Berry, Butler, Cannon, Carter, Chandler, Chilton, Clark, Clay, Cockrell, Daniel, Gray, Harris, Heitfeld, Jones (Ark.), Kenny, Kyle, Lindsay, McEnery, McLaurin, Mallory, Mantle, Martin, Mills, Mitchell, Money, Morgan, Murphy, Pasco, Pettigrew, Pettus, Pritchard, Rawlings, Roach, Shoup, Smith, Stewart, Teller, Tillman, Turpie, Turner, Vest, Warren, White and Wolcott—47.

Nays—Messrs. Aldrich, Allison, Baker, Burrows, Caffery, Cullom, Davis, Fairbanks, Foraker, Gallinger, Gear, Hale, Hanna, Hansbrough, Hawley, Hoar, Lodge, McBride, McMillan, Mason, Morrill, Nelson, Perkins, Platt (Conn.), Platt (N. Y.), Quay, Sewall, Thurston, Wellington, Wetmore and Wilson—32.

Turley with Deboe. Faulkner with Elkins, Gorman with Frye, Jones (Nev) with Proctor, Walthall with Spooner.

The first named would in each case have voted with the sustaining the resolution and against the resolution and for the amendments.

There was no demonstration on the announcement, and at 7 p. m., on motion of Mr. Allison, the senate adjourned until Monday.

The House—Saturday.

At the opening of the session of the house today a bill to permit the building of a dam across the Mississippi river at Coon Rapids, at the northern limits of the city of Minneapolis, was passed. Immediately afterward the clerk of the senate appeared and transmitted the Teller resolution, which passed the senate last night. The announcement was greeted by a terrific outburst of applause from the democratic side of the house. No motion was made at the time and the resolution remained on the table.... The fortification appropriation bill was reported, and then on motion of Mr. Grout the house went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The general debate was not confined to the general subjects dealt with by the bill. It covered a wide range. The Teller resolution, the Cuban question, Hawaiian annexation, the tariff and other political topics were discussed. After completing seventeen pages of the bill the house at 5 p. m. adjourned.

THEY ARE DETERMINED.

Although Feeling Privation Deeply the Strikers Will Keep Up the Fight.

All is quiet in the New England strike cities. Although the operators are beginning to feel privation sharply there seems to be no wavering in their determination to keep up the fight. At New Bedford a larger number applied for aid at the offices of the overseers of the poor than at any time since the strike began. There severe cold weather caused great suffering.

In view of various rumors about a compromise petition which was circulated at Biddeford, the strikers have again decided by a formal vote not to return to work except under the old schedule of wages.

How Aranguren Died.

The Herald's Havana correspondent gives these details of the killing of General Nestor Aranguren, the Cuban insurgent leader: Aranguren, with a small band, was surprised in a well concealed hut in Tapaste hills by Reina battalion under command of Colonel Benedicto. The insurgent general was seated at a table writing when the Spanish troops surrounded the house. At the first volley several of the rebel band fled, but Aranguren with four others was shot.

Five Months More.

General Arioas, at Havana, has said that Spain cannot carry on war in Cuba beyond July, and if by that time Cuba is not pacified Spain will be obliged to abandon it for lack of funds. He also expresses the belief that Senor Sagasta, the Premier, and the Minister of Colonies intend to abandon the island by July next.

Forty Below Zero.

Belated reports from remote places in northern New England show that the temperature was the lowest known in many years. In Lancaster, N. H., the mercury broke all records of the past twenty-five years. Forty below zero was reported from a number of places in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Lumberman Killed in Collision.

At Estell, Miss., an extra and a regular freight train on the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad collided. As a result Jack W. Aldrich, a lumberman, was killed and Fireman Williams was seriously injured.

Wants Uncle Sam's Aid.

It is stated on the most unquestionable authority that the king of Korea has asked the United States minister for protection against possible revolutions. Captain Wilder, of the cruiser Boston, refuses to land a naval force, through strongly urged to do so by the king.

The Whole Spanish Fleet.

It has been decided at Madrid that the whole Spanish fleet shall concentrate at Havana, though not immediately, unless circumstances demand.

To Form Cotton Trust.

Price, McCormick & Co., of New York, are trying to form a cotton trust. They want to halve the product and double the price. A number of Southern representatives have received letters from the biggest firm of cotton brokers asking them to become members of an advisory board for this purpose.

Philips & Dean, dealers in general merchandise at Charlton, near Eufaula, made an assignment Friday. Assets and liabilities could not be learned.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 6.

Lesson Text: "Our Father's Care," Matt. vi., 24-34—Lesson Text: I Peter, v., 7—Commentary on the Lesson Written by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

24. "No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." There are but two masters, Christ and satan, God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, who in Christ have manifested their love for us and seek our eternal welfare, with all we need here made sure to us, and the devil, who controls the world and the flesh and seeks our eternal ruin, giving us as a bait some of the pleasures of sin for a season. The child of the kingdom, having received the Lord Jesus Christ and being made in Him a child and heir of God, is expected, like Abraham, to be looking for the city, and, like Moses, to have respect unto the recompense of the reward and be laying up treasure in heaven and not on the earth, affection set on things above, not on things on the earth (Col. iii., 2), ever seeking to please Him who hath called us.

25. "Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat or what ye shall drink, nor yet for your body what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?" This wonderful "I say unto you" is the New Testament equivalent of "Thus saith the Lord" and should carry with it all weight, for there is in it all power. I think you will find it fourteen times in this sermon.

26. "Behold the fowls of the air, for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns, yet your Heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they? Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God?" (Luke xii., 6.) He who gave life will not withhold food for the life, and He who made the body will surely supply raiment to clothe it. Do people who worry about these things remember that they have a Father in heaven who spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all. Now shall He not with Him also freely give us all things? (Rom. viii., 32.)

27. "Which of you, by taking thought, can add one cubit unto his stature?" We can neither add one inch to our height nor a moment to our life but by the will of God. We are wholly dependent upon Him for everything, just as much as the birds and beasts and fishes, flowers and plants and trees. He is the God in whose hand our breath is, and whose are all our ways. He opens His hand and satisfies the desire of every living thing.

28. "And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin." They are simply planted, and being well rooted they grow. Thus if we will but abide in quietness, and, like the plants, trust the husbandman's care, He will see to it that our clothing shall do Him honor.

Just to let Thy Father do what He will,
Just to know that He is true and be still,
Just to follow hour by hour as He leadeth,
Just to draw the moment's power as it needeth.

29. "And yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these!" His glory was all put on, but the lily's glory is part of itself. Our Lord Himself is the true Lily of the valley. His glory was in Him and shone out through Him in all His words and deeds. We may put on that which to some may seem very beautiful, but the Lord looketh upon the heart, and the thread of this whole sermon is reality, the reality of the heart that is right with God.

30. "Wherefore if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" If He clothe the perishable flowers, how much more will He clothe man, whom He has redeemed by His precious blood! He has, by a sacrifice indescribably great, provided redemption clothing for every penitent sinner, just as when the Lord God made unto Adam and to his wife coats of skins and clothed them (Gen. iii., 21). How much more will He provide the temporary clothing needed by these bodies!

31. "Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat, or what shall we drink, or wherewithal shall we be clothed?" Worry not in your heart nor give utterance to your thoughts. Fret not is a command found three times in Ps. xxxvii., 1, 7, 8, alongside of "Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed." In Phil. iv., 6, it is, "Be careful (or anxious) for nothing." Dr. Weston says: "Anxiety for the things of this life is unnecessary and profitless. God knows, and God loves." He will provide, for His name is Jehovahjireh (Gen. xxii., 14, margin).

32. "(For after all these things do the gentiles seek), for your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things." Leave all worry and care to those who have no father in heaven, but trust thou in God. It would grieve us if our children seemed worried and anxious lest we might not feed and clothe them, and still more so if they should go to others for these things, for which they should look to us alone.

33. "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." If I understand this, it means that having become an heir of God through faith in Christ we are to make it our one great business to hasten His kingdom and the time when He shall reign in righteousness by letting Him use us as He may please for any manner of service in the matter of making Him known to all the world. When individual believers and churches and Sunday-schools live not for their own benefit, but to obey the great commission of Math. xxviii., 19, 20; Mark xvi., 15; Luke xxiv., 47, then we shall see His exceeding abundance of blessing in every necessary way.

Make thou His service thy delight.
He'll make thy wants His care.

34. "Take therefore no thought for the morrow, for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." The thoughts of last lesson on living by the day are appropriate here also. We are not to say to-morrow we will do thus and so, but if the Lord will we shall live and do this or that (Jas. iv., 13-15). Neither are we to borrow to-morrow's cares, but just to-day live unto Him "in quietness and in confidence" (Isa. xxx., 15), "Doing as occasion serve thre, for God is with thee" (I Sam. x., 7).

Strength for to-day is all we need, for there never shall be a to-morrow.
To-morrow shall prove but another to-day, with its measure of joy or sorrow.

—Lesson Helper.

Snow comes down in the winter and ice goes up in the summer.

"Coasting" on the Bible.

A friend of the Listener has seen a funny sight down in Maine. At a place there, which needn't be named, there lives a small boy named Jonathan Longfellow, who is a third or fourth cousin of the poet; and he is a great boy, too. One day this friend of the Listener was driving past Jonathan's house, and saw the boy engaged at a little distance in sliding downhill, on a slippery crust on something that was not a sled. What could it be? Evidently the scrutiny of the passerby was observed by the boy, for he stopped his coasting and called out amiably: "I'm sliding downhill on the Bible!" And it was the fact, too. He had got the smooth, leathef-bound family Bible, containing the generations of all the Longfellows, and was coasting on it with magnificent success.—Boston Transcript.

That Way All Around.

Jack—That Miss Beverly, to whom I bowed just now is a regular Klondike.

Tom—That so? Rich?

Jack—Yes; also cold and distant.

That Everlasting Irritating Itch.

That describes Tetter, Eczema and other skin diseases. 50 cents will cure them—stop the itch at once. 50 cents pays for a box of Tetterine at drug stores or postpaid for 50 cents in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Oh, What Splendid Coffee

Mr. Goodman, Williams Co., Ill., writes: "From one package Salzer's German Coffee Berry costing 15c I grew 300 lbs. of better coffee than I can buy in stores at 30 cents a lb." A. C. 9

A package of this coffee and big seed and plant catalogue is sent you by John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., upon receipt of 15 cents stamps and this notice.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

Piso's Cure cured me of a Throat and Lung trouble of three years' standing.—E. CADY, Huntington, Ind., Nov. 12, 1894.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

The greatest beer drinkers in the world are the Bavarians. The beer drunk in Bavaria annually is about fifty gallons per head of the population. The Belgians come next to the Bavarians.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.

Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

A Kansas City woman, arrested for swindling people as a fortune teller, confessed the swindle and offered as an excuse for her business that "few respectable women could earn an honest living unless they became swindlers."

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

The royal fiddler, the duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, is reported to have paid 35,000 francs for a Stradivarius violin.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

The crusade against the spitting nuisance has now been taken up by the health associations of Germany.

Sciatic Rheumatism

"I have been troubled with sciatic rheumatism and have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. I improved every day and now am as well as I ever was in my life. I feel five years younger than I did before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla." WM. O'BRIEN, 2515 4th Avenue, West Troy, New York.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

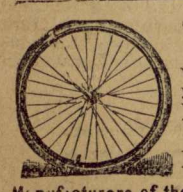
WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.



WHEELMEN,

While the weather is such you cannot ride, send your wheel to a bicycle repairer to be overhauled. State when you want it and it will be delivered to you on time.

Manufacturers of the . . .
"BIRMINGHAM"—$40.00.
Catalogue Free.

The Loosley Cycle Company,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
We keep a full line of Electrical Supplies.

FENCING For Poultry, half cost of Netting. Also farm, yard, cemetery fences. Freight paid. Catalogue free.
K. L. SHELLABERGER, 48 F. St., Atlanta, Ga.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

An Oddity in Method of Construction on the Island of Malta.

There are few places in the world where one may stand and count, within range of the naked eye, thirteen domes, among which is one of considerable dimensions; yet this can be done on the island of Malta. Standing on a hill above Sliema, a short distance from Valetta, thirteen domes are within sight, and that of Mosta is one of them, towering high up above its neighbors. Mosta is a squalid village, situated about four miles from the city of Valetta, but at one time it was a town of considerable importance.

In the early part of the present century the villagers and cure, finding the old church too small to accommodate the increasing population, determined to enlarge the church or build another. The village mason was consulted, and after several confabs over the matter, it was decided to build a new church altogether, and that it must be built on the site of the old one; and it was also decided that the old church should not be removed until the new one was ready to occupy. Here was a dilemma. The whole matter, however, was left in the hands of the priest and the mason. These two men set about the work, built the new church over the old one, and as soon as it was ready the old church was carted away so rapidly that not even a single Sunday service was omitted. The great dome was built without the aid of scaffolding within, yet it is one of the largest in the world and is considered among the finest. The mason who erected this structure applied many original and novel devices that are not permissible in general building practice, yet time has proved that his methods were in the main correct, for, so far as can be discovered, the church stands as solid to-day as when built, and the great dome that surmounts the edifice shows not the least sign of movement. Here is a list of the principal domes of the world and their dimensions, showing the importance of that of Mosta:

St. Peter's, Rome, is 333 feet in height, with an interior diameter of 137 feet.

The Pantheon, Rome is only 146 feet high, but it has a diameter of 142 feet inside.

St. Maria, Florence: Height, 275 feet; diameter, 137 feet.

St. Paul's, London: Height, 220 feet; diameter, 108 feet.

Santa Sophia, Constantinople, Height, 182 feet; diameter, 107 feet.

The dome of Mosta is 200 feet high and 124 feet in diameter, being ,6 feet larger than the great dome of St. Paul's.

One of the largest domes in India, the land of domes, is that of Gol Gomuz at Beejapore, which is 175 feet high and 124 feet in diameter, ranking like that of Mosta between St. Peter's and St. Paul's. The exterior height is 198 feet. This dome covers the tomb of Mohammed Shaw, the sixth king of the Moslem dynasty in Beejapore, who died in 1689, so that the building is nearly contemporary with St. Paul's. The name signifies the "Rose Dome." The Sultan is buried under it with the simple inscription, "Sultan Mohammed, a dweller in Paradise."

Internally the extreme plainness of the Mosta dome increases its appearance of size. It is perfectly smooth, and if the exterior was as simple the building would be much more agreeable. It is built of a beautiful yellow stone, but possesses no architectural merit other than what pertains to the dome, as the building itself is disfigured with a series of mongrel carvings and mouldings of a very debased kind. —Architecture and Building.

Saved by an Alligator.

William Simpson, who lives at Pine Castle, Fla., near Lake Marie, has a small boy named Rob, who tamed an alligator and loved him dearly as if he had been a goat. The 'gator was called Pete, and proudly sported a copper ring in his head, as a civilized 'gator who knows tricks should.

One day Pete disappeared, and he stayed away for three years. In the meantime Rob received many spanking because he was continually playing with alligators and getting all sorts of scratches and bites in consequence.

Now comes the queer part of the story, that recalls the interposition of fairy godmothers. Rob was making overtures to a big alligator one day, and the saurian came at him with his large, open countenance, and the little boy began to say his prayers.

Just in the nick of time another 'gator appeared, and the first 'gator had a fight on his hands. When the fight was over Rob discovered that his alligator ally was the long-lost Pete, grown, indeed, but still wearing his stamped copper ring.

This time Pete stayed, and people go for miles to see the youngster ride about on his back.—Chicago News.

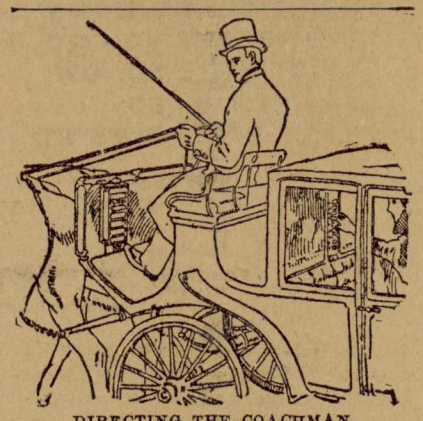
Significant Advertisement.

A notice displayed in a Brisbane shop window throws some light on the mixed character of the unemployed in Queensland. It runs thus: "Wanted, some men for a township, accustomed to horses, who are not afraid of hard work. Good wages. No doctors, journalists, clerks, sons of English noblemen, or larrikins need opply."—Westminster Gazette.

SIGNALS FOR COACHMAN.

How His Movements May Be Controlled by a Push Button Device.

The luxurious French, having tasted of the comfort and desirability of electric lamps in their railroad coaches and automobile carriages, have now adopted it for use on ordinary horse-drawn cabs. While the storage batteries necessary for this are quite an additional load for the cabs, yet anything to surpass one's neighbor is fashion's dictum the world over. Added to this innovation is a method of signaling the driver instead of having to twist one's neck into a most uncomfortable position to speak to cabby through the little trapdoor. The proposed Parisian improvement provides a small box in front of the driver, on which, by pressing various buttons inside the cab, the following words appear in a red light: "Left," "right," "walk," "faster," "stop," "turn," "home" and "slower."



DIRECTING THE COACHMAN.

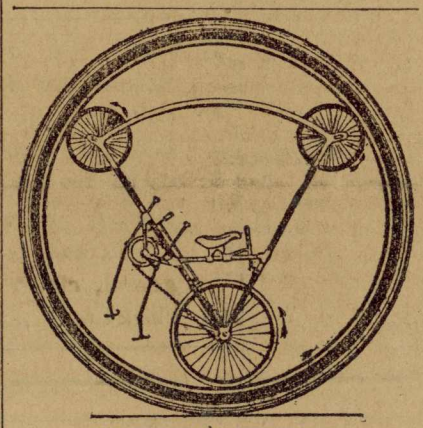
As the electric power is required for the lamps, this little signal box consumes but an inappreciable amount of current and is of the greatest assistance.

NEWEST UNICYCLE.

Boston Man Cleverly Treats This Fascinating Subject.

Just what value there is in a unicycle has never been successfully proven, yet inventors go on turning out new examples with striking regularity. Mr. Thos. Tolson, of Boston, is the creator of the latest example in unicycles, which has been described as follows:

Within the outer rim is arranged a triangular frame, with a guide wheel at each point, the lower one of the three wheels serving as a driving wheel in addition.



MR. TOLSON'S UNICYCLE.

Each crank of the driving sprocket has a double arm pivoted to its outer end. The downwardly extending arm has a stirrup to be operated by the foot, and the upwardly extending arm has a handle for hand service. The saddle is arranged to be moved back and forth on its carrying bar.

A Benefactress' Kind Act.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. John Tansey, of 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Michigan, is one of those women who always know just what to do in all trouble and sickness. One that is a mother to those in distress. To a reporter she said:

"I am the mother of ten children and have raised eight of them. Several years ago we had a serious time with my daughter, which began when she was about sixteen years old. She did not have any serious illness but seemed to gradually waste away. Having never had any consumption in our family, as we come of good old Irish and Scotch stock, we did not think it was that. Our doctor called the disease by an odd name, which, as I afterward learned, meant lack of blood.

"It is impossible to describe the feeling John and I had as we noticed our daughter slowly passing away from us. We finally found, however, a medicine that seemed to help her, and from the first we noticed a decided change for the better, and after three months' treatment her health was so greatly improved you would not have recognized her. She gained in flesh rapidly and soon was in perfect health. The medicine used was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I have always kept these pills in the house since and have recommended them to many people. I have told many mothers about them and they have effected some wonderful cures.

"Every mother in this land should keep these pills in the house, as they are good for many ailments, particularly those arising from impoverished or diseased blood, and weakened nerve force."

Most of the Time She Was Confined to Bed.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

IT WON'T LAST

Much longer, that is our

"Sweep 'em Out Sale,"

So hurry up your mail orders or come yourself to the Bargain Banquet.

MAIL ORDERS WITH CASH PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave. Birmingham, Ala.

311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

Vegetables

can be raised at a profit, and the yield enlarged, if properly fertilized. Most fertilizers do do not contain enough

Potash.

Vegetables need plenty of potash — at least 10% — besides the phosphoric acid and nitrogen.

Write for our books which tell all about fertilizers. They are free.

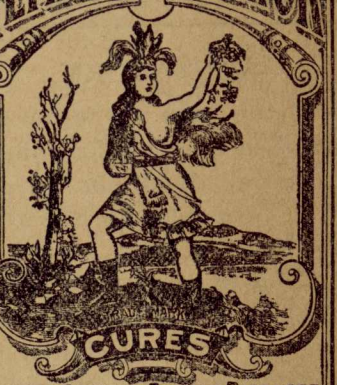
GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.

LADIES

HAVE YOU HEARD OF AND USED DR. SIMMONS SQUAW VINE WINE COMPOUND

IS NATURES EFFICIENT, HARMLESS, PALATABLE, VEGETABLE

FEMALE REGULATOR



CURES

ACUTE AND CHRONIC FEMALE DISEASES, CONVULSIONS, CRAMPS, HYSTERICS, INTERNAL PAINS, SPASMS, MENSTRUAL SUPPRESSIONS, EXAGGERATIONS, IRREGULARITIES AND OTHER DISTURBANCES CAUSED BY DISORDERS OF UTERO OVARIAN FUNCTIONS

PREPARED ONLY BY
C.F. SIMMONS MED. CO.
ST. LOUIS, MO., U.S.A.
PRICE—ONE DOLLAR

Gantt's Patent Cotton Planters and Guano Distributers. It's economy to use them. Every farmer can afford to have one or more. Send for samples and prices.
J. T. GANTT, Macon, Ga.

Best On Earth.

POTATOES $1.50 a Bbl.

Largest Seed POTATO growers in America. The "Rural New-Yorker" gives Salzer's Early Wisconsin a yield of 756 bushels per acre. Prices dirt cheap. Our great Seed Book, 11 Farm Seed Samples, worth $10 to get a start, for 10c. postage. JOH A. SALZER SEED CO., LaCrosse, Wis.

SEEDS Garden & Flower with a world-wide reputation. Catalog free to all.
JAMES J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

RHEUMATISM
CURED WITHOUT MEDICINE.
Best endorsed remedy on earth. Simple, effective, cheap. Send for particulars and proofs.
W. R. JOHNSTON & CO., Columbia Bldg., Louisville, Ky

We want a hustling agent in every county to sell our latest improved Plows. All kinds direct from the factory to the farmer. Work right around your home. BABY CULTIVATOR COMPANY, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

WORK FOR YOU
100 per cent. profit and a chance to win hundreds of dollars in Gold and a Fine Gold Watch. For particulars address, W. T. Cheatham, Jr., Henderson, N. C.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

To Women!

After you have tried Doctors and all other preparations, and they have failed to relieve you, then use

GERSTLE'S FEMALE PANACEA.

TRADE (G. F. P.) MARK.

IT WILL CURE YOU.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS IN MEDICINES.

L. GERSTLE & CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.
Sole Manufacturers and Proprietors.

Am. N. U. No. 5. 1898.

THE WEEKLY NEWS,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

MONTEVALLO PUBLISHING COMPANY,
PUBLISHERS.
BURGESS LITTLE. - EDITOR.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Feb. 3, '98.

SALUTATORY.

With this issue of the News, I have taken charge of its editorial department. It will be the purpose of this paper in the future, to put forth every effort toward the upbuilding of Montevallo and vicinity. It will be non partizan in every way. We will from time to time reveal the rare mineral resourses of our community, and always hold out open arms to those who will come to us with various enterprises. We will, in noway overlook the interest of the farmer and will make the paper as interesting to him as we possibly can. In taking charge of this paper, I want to say that all contracts and etc., must be made with me in person. Hoping that we will have the hearty co operation of all interested, I am

Most Respectfully,
BURGESS LITTLE.

Our town is expecting to have a broom factory in the near future.

A company of men, with a large capital, intend coming to this town in the near future with a long distance telephone. Our town will gladly welcome such an enterprise, but we want electric lights first.

In another year we expect to see the farmers of our neighborhood raising broom corn, which will sell at the highest market price at their doors. instead of embarking both soul and body in the five-cent king-cotton product. Such a movement would bring more prosperity than a dozen presidential elections.

We acknowledge the receipt of the first number of the Afro-American Eagle, an educational journal published by the colored people of Montevallo. Rev. T. S. Johnson is editor. We wish the Eagle much success. We are glad to see the colored people taking such an interest in the educational welfare of their own race.

OUR BROOM FACTORY.

Mr. W. D. Lanier, who has recently introduced into Bibb county the manufacture of brooms, is contemplating moving his entire plant to this place. Montevallo is peculiarly adapted to manufacturing enterprises, having, as it were, lying at her door the exhaustless Montevallo coal fields, and running through the centre of town is a beautiful stream, which affords unlimited water power. Adjacent to the city lies a field enclosing about 120 acres of the most fertile land, which, if planted in broom corn, would yield an income of $70 an acre.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Subscribe for the News.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Dr. Bush, of Stowe, Miss., a brother of Miss Edna Bush, was among our honored and most welcomed guests Saturday night.

***

Mr. Will Reynolds remarked to one of the girls that he deserved her sympathy for having assigned to him the arduous task of holding back a certain tree.

***

Some of our sentimentally inclined girls have, within the last few days, demonstrated quite an affinity for shrubbery.

***

On last Saturday evening, January 22d, the Atalantae Club had as its guests its sister clubs, the "Cosmos" and "Nautilus," but owing to the inclemency of the weather all of the members did not attend.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Pattie Barnett, after the reading of the following minutes: On Saturday evening January 8th, the Atalantae Club waived its social features and devoted itself to the election and installation of the following officers:
President, Miss Pattie Barnett.
Vice President, Miss Fannie Burke.
Secretary, Miss Alma Feagin.
Treasurer, Miss Anna Adams.
Scientist, Miss Lula Fowler.
Bookman, Miss Effie Garlington.
Reporter, Miss Willie Mae Crawford
Pianist, Miss Hettie Barnett.

The social part of the programme was then carried out.

Miss Lavinia Fuller, who came first, played "Recodolci," evincing superior musical skill.

Next was a vocal duet by Misses Pittman and Feagin. They sang the old, but ever new, "Alice, Where Art Thou?"

Miss Ree Ogletree recited the poem, "You Put No Flowers on My Father's Grave,', in a pathetic manner.

Miss Annie Mae Burton, appropriately called "The Nightingale of the School," sang delightfully "Asthore."

Misses Hettie Barnett and Nellie Meyer charmed their hearers by playing respectively on the piano and mandolin "In Old Madrid."

"Christmas in Camp," the next number, was recited by Miss Annastasia Pittman, who showed great elocutionary talent.

A trio, "Jessie of Argyle," was well rendered by Misses Barnett, Pittman and Burton.

Next was a piano solo by Miss Lula Fowler, which gave evidence of her rare ability as a musician.

Miss Julia Gray, our popular comic recitationist, rendered with her usual skill "How the Freckled-faced Girl Entertained the Missionary."

The society then adjourned, after which "Terpsichore" reigned supreme.

REPORTER.

***
***
***
***
***
***
***

What delinquent Subscribers see.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

R. B. EVANS,
Proprietor of the only first class
COLORED
BARBER SHOP
IN THE CITY.
Shop east end of town.
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go
To
Yours to please,
C. L. MERONEY & CO.

Turkey Tracks

Are numerous in the bottoms but are seldom found in the uplands. MORGAN BROS. have sold enough SHOES in the past few weeks to cover up every turkey track in the State, with a few coon tracks thrown in for the trouble.

WAGON TRACKS.

These are also numerous. Follow any of them and you will haul up at MORGAN BROS., who sell anything that can be used by men, women or children. New goods and low prices, with genial, clever and courteous clerks to deal with.

A. M. CROSS
—HAS—REMOVED
—TO—
JOHN INGRAM'S OLD SHOP,
MONTEVALLO, ALA.
WHERE HE IS PREPARED TO DO
HORSE SHOEING
AND ALL KINDS OF BLACKSMITHING
AND REPAIR WORK ON
Wagons, Buggies, Etc., Etc.
CHARGES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

HIGHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.
CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
These prices in force until January 15th.
SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.
VANDEMEER BROS.
TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.
MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.
THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.
In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skillful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.
RIPANS TABULES
A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.
Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chem[illegible] Company, and patients are invited to write [illegible] special instructions in peculiar cases. Their let[illegible] will receive such attention as they require, f[illegible] charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the ho[illegible] and when you travel take some with you. The[illegible] are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.
Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

TO CONSUMERS - - - -
THE ARTESIAN EXPORT BEER
Manufactured by the Montgomery, Ala., Brewing Co., has no superior in the world, and this assertion is verified by all persons competent to judge who have tried it. If you have not tasted it GIVE IT A TRIAL, and you will THANK us for telling you about it. The marvellous purity and adaptability of the WATER used in its manufacture contribute to its superior FLAVOR and wholesomeness, which gained for it the GOLD MEDAL at PARIS and the HIGHEST AWARDS WHEREEVER ELSE EXHIBITED.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY
TRADE MARK.
Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine, now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.
For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.
Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be [illegible] gists.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

Baptist.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

Methodist—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M. —Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. Crowe, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P. —Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. Monroe, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. Lyman, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

Buy your Valentines from Crowe.

Go to Dr. Crowe to get your valentines.

Mr Lewis Bowden spent Sunday with home folks in Calera.

Send your friends a Valentine. You can get them at Crowe's.

W. D. Lanier of Blocton was in town last Friday and Sunday.

The enrollment of the Girls Industrial school has reached 366

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reynolds of Blocton visited Montevallo last Sunday.

Dr. Wilkinson and wife, of Prattville, visited their son here this week.

Mr. Burgess Little, the banker, has let a contract for a stylish residence.

Miss Sallie Penny, of Piedmont came down Saturday to enter the Industrial at this place.

Dr. Bush and his mother from Macon, Miss, are visiting Miss Edna Bush, one of the teachers in the school.

A broom factory and steam laundry are being talked of here and strong probabilities of both being organized.

Miss Nellie Evans, teacher of scientific cooking, gave a delightful chafing dish party to a few friends Friday night.

Editor Hutchings of Rockford, was in our city this week. Mr. Hutchings is one of the oldest news paper men in the state.

Dr. E. A. Wilson of Birmingham will be in our city from the 9th to the 12th of this month prepared to do all kinds of dental work.

Mr. C. C. Vandergritt has sold his dairy place to Pleas Shaw of Aldrich. Mr. Vandergrift says his ad in the News did the work.

Milk for Sale.

Sweet milk, 10 cents per quart, butter milk, 10 cents per gallon, at Mrs. D. W. Shivers'.

Mrs. R. E. Neil, of Selma will give an elocutionary recital here one night next week. "Betsy Hamilton" is also billed for the near future.

The people of this vicinity will be glad to learn that Prof. Guckenberger and his wife, are expected to appear here soon in a musical recital.

Dr. D L Wilkinson has been appointed to represent Shelby County at the Convention of the State Medical Association at Birmingham in April.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a modern brick drug store on Main street. It will be managed by Mr. W. B. McLuny. of Mississippi.

Dr. F. F. Crowe has just received a large assortment of St. Valentine pictures. We expect the girls will recognize their sweetheart in the comic department.

The Western Union Telegraph Offiice will be moved up town in the near future. Mr. D W. Shivers will have charge and will locate it either at the bank or his residence

Capt. H. C Reynolds has returned from Washington, where he has been for several weeks lobbying for the passage of the land appropriation bill for the school here. He will return later on and has strong hopes the bill will become a law.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy is in correspondence with Rev. Dr. S. A. Steele. of Nashville, Tenn., trying to induce him to come here in the interest of Epworth League, and also deliver his excellent lecture on "Home Life in Dixie during the war."

A pleasant evening is in store for every one who attends the elocution and Delsarte recital, given under the direction of Mrs. R. E. L. Niel, a talented artist, in the chapel of the Girls' Industrial School on Friday evening, February 4th, at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents. Pupils 10 cts.

By far the most important steps ever taken for Montevallo is the movement to get the Louisville and Nashville railroad to extend its Mineral branch from Calera on to Montevallo and tap the Montevallo coal mines at Aldrich and the Montevallo Lump Coal Company's mines at Dogwood and on to the coal fields beyond. This extension has been talked of for some time but the matter is now taking definite form and bids are being made to induce the Louisville and Nashville to come in. This means much to Montevallo and the adjacent country and especially the two mines that it will tap.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

"MY WATCHES RUN."

Fine WATCHES

Carefully
Repaired
and Adjusted.
All
Work
Guaranteed
First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly
attended to.

J. W. MARTIN,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.

RIBBONS.

Just Received--

Th LARGEST and LOVELIEST line of MOIRE and SATIN RIBBONS ever seen in Montevallo. All shades. All numbers. ☞ Especially beautiful Sash Ribbons.

MORGAN BROS.,
Montevallo, Ala.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Fair as a poet's dream, beautiful as the girls of Montevallo, and gorgeous as a dying sunset are the myriad-hued ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton's market, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Subscribers to the News can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the News.

For Sale, Very Cheap.

I will sell, at a very low price, a two-horse wagon, in good fix; just overhauled and repaired.

J. D. MORELAND.

DR. G. W. SHACKELFORD,
DENTIST,
ATLANTA, - - - GA.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

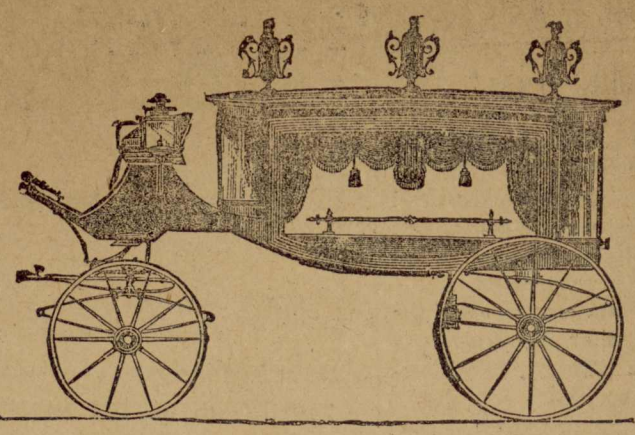
THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free.

JOB PRINTING.

LETTER-HEADS,
NOTE-HEADS,
BILL-HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,
Done in first-class style on short notice, at the

NEWS : OFFICE,

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.



The People's Undertaker.

COFFINS AND CASKETS, all styles, FROM $5 UP.

ALDRICH, ALA.

EVERYTHING, FROM A PIN

——TO AN——

Elephant

——AT——

R. C. Parker's

BRIERFIELD, : : ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,

Montevallo, Alabama

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.

Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .

Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.

D. J. MORELAND

Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .

He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

IF YOU ARE NOT A SUBSCRIBER
SEND IN YOUR
NAME AND
ADDRESS,
ALONG WITH THE DOLLAR,
AND
THE NEWS
WILL BE SENT
YOU EVERY WEEK FOR ONE YEAR,

Kroell can supply anything.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell s, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure." It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

In September twenty-five years had elapsed since Switzerland got its first railway—from Zurich to Berne.

The value of the churches and the land on which they are erected, in this country, up to July 1, 1897, is estimated at $680,000,000.

Previous to ten years ago titled men in England would not act as Mayors of towns, but at the recent elections over a dozen members of the nobility were elected, chief among whom is the Duke of Devonshire, who is Mayor of Eastbourne.

The London Chronicle questions the wisdom of erecting a statue of George Washington in London. D. C. Murray, the novelist, is proposing a National subscription to erect the statue and Messrs. Bayard and Hay have approved of the scheme. In discussing the matter the Chronicle says: "Like all near relatives, England and America quarrel now and then. Perhaps some day it might occur to a boisterous jingo to make the statue of the father of his people the subject of an unedifying demonstration."

A story is in circulation at the Court of the Hague concerning the young Queen of Holland which is destined to illustrate that she fully shares the pronounced aversion of her subjects for Germany, and prefers in every respect the French. It seems that on the last occasion when she met Emperor William she insisted on responding in French to the remarks which he addressed to her in German, and on his asking her why she did not speak German, she tartly replied that it was merely because she preferred French.

The cost of the last census as far as computed is stated at an aggregate of $11,553,462.50, that amount of money having been appropriated for expenses by Congress. It is pointed out by the Philadelphia Record that "this was at the rate of nineteen cents per capita for the whole population in 1890 of 62,622,250 persons. If the statistics obtained had been of reasonable accuracy, and if they could have been tabulated and given to the public in reasonable time, the expenditure would not have been deemed excessive. But doubt of the verity of the statistics and delay in the publication have gone far to bring the propriety of such large expenditure into question. Either inquiry should be less elaborate or more scientific."

While there is no doubt, states the New York Observer, that dissatisfaction with the pretensions of the emperor and with his methods of government is a potent cause of the prevalent discontent in Germany, the fact remains that the chief cause of unrest is economic rather than political. It is not so much the suppression of political liberty and the reactionary legislation which the Junker following of the emperor is trying to push through the Prussian Landtag and in turn through the Reichstag, that excites discontent, as it is the poverty of the people, the fact that there is not enough wealth to go round. The internal development of Germany and the expansion of German trade since the formation of the empire have been so great that it is difficult to realize that the empire rests upon an inadequate economic basis, and that the brave front which it shows serves to hide a poverty in some sections approaching that, though without the squalor, of the English industrial districts seventy years ago. But statistics taken from the tax returns of Prussia seem conclusive on this point, showing, for example, that although the limit of taxation is drawn at the low income of $225, but 8.46 per cent. of the population of the kingdom pay an income tax, leaving more than ninety-one per cent. who must make ends meet in some way on less than $225 per year. Only one person in every 550 of population has an income of $2400 a year, and only 37,000 of the 32,000,000 of Prussia possess wealth representing an income of $7500 a year.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS OF A GREAT STATE.

A REVIEW OF THE COTTON MILL INDUSTRY IN ALABAMA.

Bright Prospects for Railroad Building in Several Parts of the State—Election Committee Assail State Laws—Aldrich Declared the Representative from the Fourth—Big Coal Trade With Central America—Other Briefs.

SOUTHERN COTTON MILLS.

Some Interesting Figures Concerning the Building of Mills in Alabama.

The growth of the cotton mill industry in the south for 1897 was nothing short of phenomenal. In Alabama alone over $1,500,000 was expended on new cotton mills.

At Birmingham the Avondale cotton mills were erected, and will make print cloths. Capital stock, $600,000. It contains 35,000 spindles and 1,100 looms.

At Cordova—The Indian Head cotton mill will manufacture sheeting. Capital stock, $600,000; spindles, 25,000; looms, 800.

At Montgomery—The People's cotton factory, with a capital of $200,000. It contains 10,000 spindles.

At Oxford—The Blue Springs Cotton Manufacturing Company, to make yarns. Capital stock, $50,000; spindles, 5,000.

At Speigner's—The state prison mill, to manufacture sheeting. It contains 5,000 spindles.

At Anniston—The knitting mills of the Anniston Hosiery Company, to manufacture children's hosiery. Removed from Jacksonville, Ala.

At Huntsville—The Huntsville knitting mills; 16 knitting machines.

The following enlargements and improvements were made:

At Piedmont—The Coosa Manufacturing Company added 5,000 spindles.

At Tuskaloosa—The J. Snow Hardware Company added 80 looms.

A number of new mills and improvements are projected, and it is probable that those here given will be built this year:

A duplicate of the Indian Head cotton mill at Cordova.

At Greenville—The Wellchester cotton mill.

The Birmingham Cotton Manufacturing Company will double its plant.

The Selma Cotton Mill Company will double its present capacity of of 5,000 spindles.

At Thomasville—The Magnolia Manufacturing Company; capital stock, $150,000; 10,000 spindles.

At Decatur—Knitting mills; capital, $16,000.

The following new mills were erected in the south last year:

Alabama—Mills, 5; spindles, 80,000; looms, 2,292.

Florida—Mills, 1; spindles, 2,000; looms, ——.

Georgia—Mills, 7; spindles, 45,000; looms, 626.

Louisiana—Mills, 1; spindles, 1,500; looms, 10.

North Carolina—Mills, 9; spindles, 38,000; looms, 80.

South Carolina—Mills, 11; spindles, 95,000; looms, 2,472.

Tennessee—Mills, 3; spindles, ——; looms, 192.

Total mills, 37; total spindles, 256,780; total looms, 5,672.

ALABAMIANS

Who Are Officers on the Big Battleship Maine.

It may be of local interest that most of the officers on the battleship Maine, now in Havana harbor, are southern men. Two of them are from Louisiana—Wat T. Cluverius, appointed from the Second congressional district, 1891, and graduated third in his class in 1895; David F. Boyd, Jr., a native of Louisiana, but appointed from the Third Alabama district. Both of these are naval cadets. Two others are lieutenants, one of them being John Hood, of Florence, Ala., and I. J. Blandin, of South Alabama. Another Alabamian among the officers is Arthur Crenshaw, appointed to Annapolis from the Second district.

Good Roads for Morgan.

Morgan county has made a decided move in the direction of good roads by appropriating $15,000 to be expended each year upon the roads of the county, and the first work was done on them the past summer.

Industrial Activity in Franklin.

The Midland Ore Company, a corporation organized recently with large financial resources, has leased the property of the Hamilton Creek Ore Company, located at Hematite, Franklin county, and will soon be running and shipping ore at the rate of 400 to 800 tons per day. During the last year the latter company has expended over $1,000,000 building a washing machine, constructing railway tracks, etc., and in all its business transactions never had a law suit nor a strike, and doesn't owe a dollar. Fully 400 laborers will be employed. The ore will be consumed by the Sheffield furnaces.

ALABAMA GOLD.

Sixteen Mines Are in Operation, Employing Many Thousands.

There is extraordinary activity in the Alabama gold fields in Cleburne county. The mines are all working a good force of men, and the output is the greatest in their history. A large number of new faces were seen in the Arbacoochee and Fruithurst regions this week, prospectors from the east being most in evidence. Among recent transactions was the purchase of several mines by English prospectors. Sixteen mines are in active daily operation and fine quartz has been discovered at some of them. The Eudora mine has recently put in machinery and electric dynamos, and many others are preparing to do the same thing. Several thousand men are in the field and the force is increasing daily. The industry has developed slowly and gradually for three years, but now appears to be firmly and successfully established.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Huntsville now claims a population of 14,000.

Selma is shipping cotton direct to Japan. Twelve bands are put upon each bale.

The body of an unknown man was found in Limestone Creek in Limestone county.

The Dallas county court house is to have a new fire proof vault. The cost is to be $5,000.

St. Stephens is soon to be connected with the outer world by telephone line to Carson, on the Mobile and Birmingham railroad.

J. W. Ferguson, of Aurora, lost $1,350 in greenbacks from his pocket while driving from Aurora to Guntersville. The money has not yet been recovered.

Flomaton and vicinity is now undergoing a thorough system of disinfection at the hands of the United States Marine Hospital Service, in charge of Past Assistant Surgeon Oakley.

The body of J. Shelby McCown, formerly of Tullahoma, Tenn., was found in a creek near Belle Mina, Madison county, last week. It had probably been in the water for a month.

A. O. McCord, a prominent citizen of Guntersville, and agent for the Southern Express Company and N. C. & St. L. R. R., skipped from that place the past week with the proceeds of twenty bales of cotton.

M. & O. Extension Nearing Completion.

The building of the Montgomery extension of the Mobile & Ohio railroad is progressing very rapidly. Track is laid twenty-five miles east of Tuskaloosa, and will reach Centreville, or the Cahaba river, early next week. The bridge at Tuskaloosa is nearly complete. All the false work has been torn away, and about all that remains to be finished now is the painting. The depot buildings, shops, round houses, etc., are being rapidly completed, the brick walls of these buildings being now complete. Messrs. M. T. Lewman & Co., contractors for all the depot buildings on the line, are having all the buildings framed at this point, which means the expenditure of an immense amount at Tuskaloosa. One hundred and forty-nine buildings are to be erected.

Lively Traffic in Cattle.

A stock train was handled by the Louisville and Nashville railroad, starting from Calera, thirty miles below here, the past week. There were seventeen cars of stock in the train, twelve of which will come from Selma and the other five cars from Montgomery. The train, as far as local officials are aware, will be run to Louisville. The stock is but another lot of the number of shipments of cattle made out of this state in the past few months to the west.

Convention Delegates Appointed.

The governor has appointed the following delegates to the southern interstate quarantine convention: Hon. John B. Knox, of Anniston; Dr. H. A. Moody, of Mobile; Hon. H. A. Sharpe, of Birmingham; Mr. W. F. Vandiver, Montgomery; Capt. John M. Bridges, of Selma.

Pierced With a Rifle Ball.

Milton West, a prominent farmer of Mountainsboro, was out in the woods looking after some timber. Bill Massey, one of his neighbors, slipped up behind him and shot West through the head with a rifle. No cause for the deed can be learned.

ALDRICH IS GIVEN THE SEAT.

House Committee Severely Arraigns Alleged Alabama Frauds.

An unusually severe arraignment of alleged election frauds is made in the report filed by the house committee on elections No. 1, in the case of William F. Aldrich against Thomas S. Plowman, from the fourth district of Alabama.

Mr. Plowman is the sitting member, but the committee submits a recount of the vote giving Aldrich, republican and populist candidate, the seat.

The report says in part:

"We shall endeavor to demonstrate by what methods the will of the people was thwarted. In doing so, not all of the frauds perpetrated will be referred to; only salient features can be touched and representative instances cited.

"If the election laws of Alabama had been designed to encourage fraud and thwart the people's will, they could not have been in some respects more happily framed to meet that purpose."

After criticising the Alabama election as putting the honest vote at the mercy of dishonest markers, the report says:

"When it is known that the condition for such a state of facts exists, it is not strange that illiterate voters should remain away from the polls, in the hope that they would at least not furnish ammunition for their political opponents. But this made little difference to the democratic managers in Dallas county. They voted the illiterate colored men, present or absent. The machinery was simple and effective. Fortunately it has been discovered, and the details of its operations laid bare. Fraud is everywhere; not lurking or secret, but bold and insolent. It is chiefly of five kinds:

"1. Fraudulently padding the poll list with names of persons not registered; sometimes of fictitious persons and sometimes of persons who did not live in the precinct.

"2. By padding the poll list with names of persons on the registration list who did not vote.

"3. By imposing on illiterate voters.

"4. By the old-fashioned method of falsely recording voters.

"5. By refuisng to hold any election at all in certain strong republican precincts."

After going into much detail on alleged frauds, the committee says it has revised the vote on the most conservative lines, giving Aldrich a plurality of 542, whereas the election of Plowman was claimed by 2,967 plurality.

FORESTALLING BRITAIN.

Alabama Shipping Coal to Central American Ports.

Alabama's export coal trade is on a boom again. So heavy has the movement become that the Louisville and Nashville railroad has put on two extra freight trains to handle the business to gulf ports. The coal is being shipped to Mobile, Pensacola, Port Tampa and Brunswick, where it is loaded to Central American points. Belize, which has heretofore been supplied by the English, is now buying from Alabama, and there are prospects of building up a large coal trade in the Latin-American countries. The recent granting of a differential in all rail and water rates has served to boost export coal movements.

Will Shake Up the Boys.

It is understood that it is the intention of Governor Johnston to have a rigid inspection and examination of all the companies comprising the Alabama National Guard, and to see that the laws are faithfully executed. Companies that have negligently lost arms and accoutrements, that have failed to comply with the law in reference to drills, and have allowed their numbers to fall below the minimum will be disbanded. There are a number of applications for enlistment so that there will be no trouble to supply any needed vacancy.

Will Report Against Buckley.

A report came from Washington that Postmaster Buckley, of Montgomery, is going to be turned down. Buckley was nominated for the Montgomery office during the recess and has been dispensing the mail since then. His nomination is one of many pending before the senate committee on postoffices and its confirmation has been bitterly fought by some of his fellow republicans on charges involving irregularities of several kinds. His case, with others from Alabama, was referred to a sub-committee, that committee agreed to report it adversely.

TERSELY TOLD TELEGRAMS.

President Dole, of the Hawaiian republic, is now in Washington.

There are now 103 registered whisky distilleries at work in the Raleigh, N. C., district.

A heavy earthquake was felt at Helena, Ark., the past week. No serious damage was done.

Twelve distinct shocks from an earthquake were felt at Tehuantepec, Mexico, Friday morning.

Spain has decided to send the first-class cruiser, Infanta Maria Teresa, to America instead of the Vizcaya.

According to official reports at Bombay, India, there have been 643 deaths from the bubonic plague during the past week.

Trouble has broken out again between the blacks and whites of Lonoke county, Arkansas, and a race war is threatened.

Chicago parties will erect a school at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., for the education of the people of the mountain district.

United States officers will arrest many people charged with helping to burn the two Seminole Indians in Oklahoma territory.

It is announced in a special dispatch from Shanghai that four German sailors have been murdered by the Chinese. This will give Emperor William a chance to seize another Chinese port.

The bodies of Mrs. Jane Corbett and Stephen Bennett, snatched from the Eagleville, Tenn., cemetery, were recovered at Burlington, Vt., and brought back. One arrest was made, a Dr. Hiemack.

A can of kerosene oil exploded in the boiler house of the Beenville Cement company's mill at Rosendale, Pa., setting fire to the mill and storage house. Both were totally destroyed. Loss, $100,000; fully covered by insurance.

Herman Breetz and Henry Goettel were arrested in St. Augustine, Fla., suspected of train wrecking and attempting to rob the East Coast pay train, also of burning the San Marco hotel at St. Augustine some weeks ago.

At London a majority of the engineers have voted in favor of accepting the terms of the employers. The exact figures have not yet been divulged, but the proportion is said to be about 25,000 in favor of acceptance to 11,000 against it.

It is said that the United States minister to Hayti, Wm. F. Powell, has been recalled at the request of the German government on account of his connection with the Lueders incident, which resulted in Germany sending warships to Hayti to collect indemnity.

At St. Joseph, Mich., the steamer City of Duluth, which struck the bar outside the harbor piers, and went ashore during a gale, has broken in two in the center, and the wreck is pounding badly. The life-saving crew saved the crew, consisting of about twenty-five, and the few passengers aboard.

BIG COTTON MILL FOR GEORGIA.

A Northern Company Will Build a Large Mill in the South.

A decision has been reached by the New York Cotton Mills Company of Utica to practically move its colassal plants to Georgia. In Utica, N. Y., there are four large cotton mill companies, the Mohawk Valley, Utica Steam Cotton, the Capron and the New York mills. Together their series of mills are Utica's principal industry and more than 5,000 persons are employed there.

The New York Mills Company has decided to meet the southern competition by establishing an immense mill in Georgia. The company's plans have not been entirely made public, though an announcement to that effect has been given out, but the exact location is withheld. The capitalization will be $1,000,000.

Mysteriously Murdered.

William H. Mann, night clerk at the Arlington hotel in Pulaski, Tenn., and about 62 years of age, met his death in the passageway of the hotel Saturday morning under very mysterious circumstances. He was in the dining-room ten minutes before he was found lying on his face dead. From the nature of his wounds on the head there are strong suspicions that he was murdered. Mann formerly lived in Birmingham, Ala.

Receiver Asked For.

In the chancery court at Mobile Huniosco Austill filed a bill praying for a receiver for the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City railroad, alleging that the road is insolvent and not able to pay its debts. He claims that he is a stockholder to the amount of $12,000, and that the road is otherwise indebted to him for services rendered as president in the sum of $25,000.

Demands Weyler's Imprisonment.

The public prosecutor of Spain demands a sentence upon Lieutenant-General Weyler of two months' imprisonment.

CHAPTER X—(Continued.)

"Mr. Paxton, I presume," said Stanmore.

"Yes, sir, at your service," responded the detective."

"Then I have a note of introduction for you," said Stanmore, and he presented a letter, which Paxton read, after which he arose and shook hands with the old gentleman warmly.

Stanmore's introductory letter was written by the Chief of the New York City police, and it stated that the bearer, Richard Stanmore, Esq., was the writer's personal friend.

The letter concluded in these words:

"Any assistance you may render Mr. Stanmore, who will make his business known, will be duly appreciated by myself and well remembered by the gentleman in question, who is a man of vast wealth."

The letter was duly signed.

"Mr. Paxton," said Stanmore, "I have interested myself in the case of the murder of my old friend, John Oakburn, and I desire to especially engage you to solve the mystery of his fate."

"I am already working up the case on my own account."

"Very well, I will add an incentive which will perhaps not be ill-advised. Find the assassin of John Oakburn and secure his conviction and I pledge myself to pay you the sum of $25,000 cash, the day the work is done," said Stanmore.

"That is a small fortune; I am yours. I shall work for money as well as fame, now," said Paxton.

"Good, and now I wish to give you a few items of information," continued Stanmore, and he went on to tell Paxton of his discovery that the marked money was in the possession of Pratt and Weeks.

Previously to his appearance at Garrison's office, and before he knew that the money missing from the broker's safe was marked, Stanmore had chanced to be in Pratt & Weeks' office and he saw the latter counting a large sum of money and noted, without thinking of the significance of his discovery, that each note was marked with a small red "V," as the banker said the money paid John Oakburn was marked.

"We must get hold of the marked money; I'll take out a search warrant," said Paxton.

"No," said Stanmore, emphatically, "I object to that. I know the devilish cunning of those scoundrels. They would find a way to get the money beyond your reach the moment you presented yourself with your warrant of search—if, as I suspect is the case, they have not already cunningly secreted the money. No, no, Pratt & Weeks must not know that anyone possesses the knowledge that they have the stolen money. Eventually, however, I pledge you that they shall be made to pay out the stolen money under circumstances which will make any attempt at denial of their knowledge that it was stolen futile."

"Perhaps some stratagem may accomplish that. I fancy you have no love for Messrs. Pratt & Weeks," said Paxton regarding Stanmore curiously.

"I love justice. But listen; Levi Kredge, Mr. Garrison's janitor, is a man upon whom suspicion may rest," answered Stanmore, and he went on to tell how he had seen Kredge come out of the private entrance of Pratt & Weeks' office and the reasons he had for suspecting that he was a spy employed by Pratt and partner to watch Garrison.

Such suspicions Stanmore entertained from the moment when he knew that Kredge was listening at the door of the interior department of Garrison's office.

At this moment the conversation between Stanmore and Paxton was interrupted. A man whom the detective recognized as a night watchman employed on the block where Garrison's office was situated, entered.

CHAPTER XI.

The appearance of the watchman was a source of the greatest satisfaction to the detective. He had desired to question him, but had been unable to do so by reason of the man's absence. He had been called away from the city on the day preceding the night of the murder.

Paxton greeted the watchman familiarly, addressing him by the name of Kemp.

"I want to speak with you in private, Mr. Paxton," said the watchman.

"You can speak fearlessly before this gentleman," answered Paxton.

"All right, sir. I heard you were asking for me at my house, and though I just returned from the country, I hurried to call here. You know my beat is around the block in which Jason Garrison's office, where the murder was committed, is located."

"Yes, and I wish to ask if you had noted any suspicious circumstance which might be important for me to know. The man who supplied your place on the night of the murder had nothing to tell me."

"Well, I saw something. Last Monday night—two nights before the murder—I saw a man prowling about Mr. Garrison's office. He was at work at the street door when I discovered him. Thinking to arrest him, I tried to take him by surprise, but just as I was about to seize him, he discovered me. Then he was off like a shot. I pursued him, but he gave me the slip after all. I obtained a good look at his face though when he turned and saw me at the door."

"This is news, certainly," said Paxton, as the watchman paused.

"But I have not told you all," the latter added. "After I gave up the chase of the man I discovered at the door of Garrison's office, I returned there and made an examination. I found wax on the keyhole, and of course I knew at once the fellow had been taking a wax impression."

"Describe the man," said Paxton.

"He was a well-made young fellow, with light hair and mustache and blue eyes. There was a small scar across one of his eyebrows, I think. That's the best I can do for you in the way of a description; you know I only had a glance at him," replied the watchman.

"This account of the man seen at the office door accords with the description Stuart Harland gave of the man who took his overcoat," said the detective.

"I think I could recognize the fellow again if I were to see him," said the watchman.

Paxton asked several more questions and then the watchman took his departure. Stanmore, too, withdrew and the detective found himself alone.

The watchman's story had confirmed his theory that the man who had the skeleton keys and wax impressions was the assassin of John Oakburn or the confederate of the murderer.

But Paxton determined to place Levi Kredge under surveillance, for he entertained a suspicion of the janitor which had been materially strengthened by the information that Stanmore had given him.

That very day the detective placed one of his most reliable assistants on Kredge's track, and he also directed another co-laborer to shadow the brokers—Pratt & Weeks.

The quest for the man who had taken Stuart Harland's coat and whom the watchman had seen at the door of Garrison's office was continued, and Paxton began to think he had the game well in hand.

Little did he anticipate the startling and mysterious developments that were to follow, as he advanced in the campaign against the mysterious assassin.

When Stanmore found himself in the street at the conclusion of his interview with Paxton, he turned to a cab stand, and, entering one of those convenient vehicles, he directed the driver to proceed to the residence of Jason Garrison.

"Marks & Bock have informed me that Pratt & Weeks are the unfortunate broker's pressing creditors. The loss of the money which has found its way into the hands of those Wall street bandits may place Garrison at their mercy," said Stanmore, mentally.

While he was approaching Jason Garrison's home Daniel Pratt was leaving the broker's residence.

An hour previously, while Garrison was wondering why he had not yet heard from his importunate creditors, there came a loud ring at the doorbell, and a servant admitted Pratt.

Garrison received him in the library, and a stormy scene ensued. Recriminations were exchanged, and both men were enraged. Pratt persistently demanded his money, and controlling his passion said:

"On account of the loss which you have sustained by the robbery, we have delayed calling on you, but now we can wait no longer."

"You know I am unable to meet your demand. The theft of the money with which I had meant to pay you prevents my doing so. If you would grant me time?"

"Impossible; my partner will not consent."

"Can I make no terms with you?"

Pratt did not immediately answer, but he made the transit of the room several times, while he furtively glanced at Garrison.

Finally, as though he had arrived at a decision upon some point which he had been considering, he said in a low voice:

"Mr. Garrison, there is one way in which all this might be arranged without inconvenience to yourself——"

"How do you mean?" asked Garrison, eagerly.

"I admire your daughter!"

"Sir!" thundered the broker.

"Hear me; I am honorable in what I say. I would make your daughter Edna my wife."

"Never! Never!"

"But if you consent your debt will be canceled. I promise you that."

"Your proposition is an insult. I would choose rather to see my daughter in her grave. Go! Leave my house, you infernal scoundrel, for I shall do you an injury," cried Garrison.

White with rage Pratt hastened from the room, but at the door he paused and hurled back the threat:

"I'll turn you into the street; I'll beggar you unless you think better of this. You shall have one more chance. I'll call at 6 o'clock for your final answer."

The street door banged behind him a moment later.

Edna Garrison had heard all.

It chanced she was in an apartment adjoining the library, and the voices of the two men, raised in anger as they were, reached her distinctly.

Edna joined her father as soon as he was alone.

"You are my own dear, dear father. You spurned that villain as you should have done!" she cried, throwing her arms about his neck.

Jason Garrison caressed the golden head that nestled affectionately on his bosom, and he said:

"The future looks dark for us, my dear. My greatest hope now is that I may be able to negotiate a loan on my Colorado property. I did not dare to mortgage it before for fear of spoiling the sale, which I thought was sure to be made. Fortunately, Pratt & Weeks do not know that I own real estate in Colorado and they will not seize that."

"We will hope for the best, father," answered Edna, cheerfully.

A few moments subsequently, while father and daughter were still conversing, the bell rang again, and immediately the broker's servant presented Richard Stanmore's card.

"Stanmore," muttered Garrison, "I know no one of that name, but you may show the gentleman here."

Edna retired, and Stanmore entered the broker's office.

Stanmore introduced himself, and a short conversation ensued which we need not dwell upon.

Suffice it to say that when Richard Stanmore took his departure, as he presently did, Jason Garrison held his check for the sum of seventy-eight thousand dollars.

"You have saved me from ruin," said Garrison, whose gratitude was boundless, as they parted at the door.

"Do not mention it, sir. It affords me pleasure to think that I am foiling the plot of Pratt & Weeks to ruin you. Ours has been merely a business transaction. I have loaned you a sum of money; you have given me valuable Colorado property as security for the loan. You have nothing to thank me for. Rather should I be grateful to you for the opportunity to block one of those villainous games. I'll crush those vipers yet!" answered Stanmore.

His last words were uttered in a fierce voice, full of intensity, and Garrison felt that in him the Wall-street villains, Pratt & Weeks, had a dangerous foe.

Stanmore pressed Garrison's hand, and a moment later he had left the house into which he had brought hope and joy.

True to his promise, Pratt called at the Garrison residence promptly at six o'clock that evening, but, acting upon his master's instructions, the servant refused to admit him.

Pratt left the door fuming with rage and vowing vengeance.

What was his surprise, however, upon returning to his office to learn that during his absence Jason Garrison had called and settled his indebtedness in full.

"Where did he get the money?" demanded the irate schemer?

"Therein is the mystery," answered Weeks.

"My scheme has failed. With the father in my power and the lover in prison charged with murder, I meant to bring the girl to my terms," muttered Pratt, and after a moment's reflection he added:

"But the game may not be entirely lost yet. Edna Garrison may not be beyond my reach after all."

Pratt's motive for wishing to fasten the crime of John Oakburn's murder on Stuart Harland is clearly discernible now. The conspirator regarded the young man with all the hatred such a nature as his could feel for a successful rival. He had determined to wed Edna Garrison. Stuart was an obstacle in his way to be removed. But Pratt was one who was invariably governed by mercenary motives, and it was remarkable that ee should seek to wed the daughter of a ruined man.

Stuart Harland received a visit from Paxton the day following that which witnessed his interview with the broker and with his betrothed.

Harland, of course, preserved profound secrecy regarding the motive for his secret journey on the night of the murder, but he told Paxton of the suspicion regarding Levi Kredge which had occurred to him. He also related the incident of his having detected the janitor listening at the door of the private office.

Paxton gained no further information from Stuart, and he left the young man after assuring him that he could rely on him to make every possible effort to detect the cashier's assassin and thus prove his innocence.

That same day Paxton's auxiliary, who was shadowing Levi Kredge, reported that the fellow was constantly in secret communication with Pratt & Weeks, and further, that he had learned that the treacherous janitor had been playing the spy at Garrison's office for a long time.

"You have done well, Sayer. I am getting considerably interested in this Levi Kredge, and I'll relieve you from duty and take the place of his shadow for to-night. I'll take him when he leaves Garrison's office to-night," said Paxton to his agent.

The latter assented, glad of one night off duty.

The office of Jason Garrison had been reopened, as usual, on the day following the settlement of his indebtedness to Pratt & Weeks, and business was being transacted there as heretofore. Thanks to an advance of funds made by Stanmore, in addition to the cheque which liquidated Pratt & Weeks' claim, Garrison was enabled to go on with his business.

Levi Kredge still served as janitor.

Previous to John Oakburn's murder the janitor who swept the office after business hours had always turned the keys over to the old cashier when his work was done, but now since money was to be kept in the office over night, Kredge was allowed to retain the keys, that he might open the office in the morning and arrange it for the business of the day, before the arrival of the clerks.

That night after the clerk had left "Garrison's," Paxton, very cleverly disguised, sauntered by the building, and, seeing his agent on the watch near by, he signaled him to be off, for he had seen Kredge enter the office, and he meant to begin shadowing him when he came out.

Darkness had fallen when Kredge appeared on the street.

The janitor cast a swift glance up and down the street, but he did not observe Paxton, who stood in the dense black shadows of an arched door directly opposite.

As though assured that he was unobserved, Kredge darted into the passage where the detective had discovered the footprints in the soft earth under the rear window of the broker's office.

Paxton stole across the street to follow Kredge, and just at that moment Richard Stanmore turned an adjacent street corner and the two men came face to face.

The detective's disguise prevented his recognition by Stanmore, but Paxton made himself known with a word, and added, hurriedly:

"I am in pursuit of Kredge, and I cannot pause a moment. You can accompany me if you like. I need not warn you to observe silence and caution. Our man has entered the passage yonder."

"Lead on; I am a novice in this business, but you shall have no cause to complain of indiscretion on my part," answered Stanmore.

Paxton glided into the passage with the stealthy tread of a professioual trailer, and, equally silent in his movements, Stanmore followed at his heels.

The detective caught a glimpse of Kredge's vanishing form as the latter disappeared at the further end of the narrow way, and he gained the extremity of the passage and peered cautiously beyond it.

He saw Levi Kredge and his sister Judith standing in the dark shadows near the rear door of Oakburn's flat.

The secret meeting was, in itself, a suspicious circumstance, the detective thought.

Eagerly he listened to the conversation of Kredge and his sister.

Their voices distinctly reached his ears, and their words were plainly overheard.

"Well, did you get the money?" asked Levi.

"Yes; and I mean to keep it," answered his amiable sister.

"You won't share with your affectionate brother, eh?"

"No; this belongs to me."

"That's so. You are a shrewd one, Judith. But take care you don't overreach yourself. Marion Oakburn strikes me as being a deep one, too."

"Let me alone to look out for myself."

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and the murder of John Oakburn has turned out to be a windfall for us both."

"What have you gained? How has it profited you?"

Before Paxton heard Kredge's answer, for which he was listening with absorbing interest, he heard footsteps in the passage, and he knew that danger of discovery was imminent.

CHAPTER XII.

Above all things Paxton desired to prevent the betrayal of his presence to Levi Kredge and his sister, for he was well aware that the moment a suspected man knew that he was the object of surveillance the difficulty of watching him was increased tenfold. He did not wish the janitor to know that he was an object of suspicion.

"Remain where you are," the detective whispered to Stanmore, and thus speaking he silently glided back along the narrow passage to the street.

A few feet from the entrance to the passage he encountered a man who was traversing it. He had produced his pocket lantern, and its light revealed the face of Kemp, the night watchman.

"Hist!" uttered the detective, warningly, as the other was about to speak. "I am in pursuit of information. Leave the passage or you will spoil my plan."

The watchman comprehended the situation, and he instantly obeyed Paxton, gliding silently out to the street.

The detective crept back to Stanmore.

The latter whispered:

"In answer to his sister's question as to how the murder of John Oakburn profited him, I heard Kredge reply, 'I never tell tales out of school, my dear sister.'"

Again Paxton listened.

But now Levi Kredge dropped his voice to a whisper, as his sister did also, and they conversed for a few moments with great earnestness, though to his chagrin the detective was unable to hear a word.

But presently Levi elevated his voice somewhat.

Paxton caught his words as he said:

"Well, I must be off; give her the note."

"I will do so," answered Judith.

Paxton knew that Kredge would traverse the passage, and seizing his companion's arm he said:

"Quick! We must get to the street before we are discovered."

They swiftly and silently retraced their way through the passage and reached the arched door opposite where Paxton had stood when he sighted Kredge as he came out of the office.

The janitor soon came out upon the street and hurried away.

"I shall not follow him now; I've an idea we shall learn more by watching hereabouts. I noticed a light in the window at the rear of the house. Let us creep back and take an observation of Judith Kredge at home. I suspect Levi brought her a note for some one. I should like to be positive whether it was for Marion Oakburn, as I naturally suspect it must be," said Paxton.

They reached the rear of Garrison's office again in a few moments and crept to a window, through which the light streamed, and which was in an apartment belonging to Oakburn's suite of rooms, though it was on the ground floor.

Crouching beside the window the derective and his companion peered into the brilliantly lighted room beyond. A glance told them that the apartment served for a kitchen, and they saw Marion Oakburn and Judith Kredge.

The cashier's daughter stood in the center of the room, listening with a surprised and startled expression on her pale features to something Judith Kredge was telling her. But Paxton could not hear a word that was spoken in the apartment.

Presently Judith drew a letter from her pocket, and handed it to Marion.

The latter hastily read the missive.

Then she said something in an excited way and cast the letter into the kitchen fire where it was instantly consumed.

Drawing a photograph from her bosom Marion held it up for Judith to see, and Paxton and Stanmore both obtained an excellent view of the pictured face.

Stanmore staggered back from the window with an ejaculation of surprise which Paxton feared would betray their presence.

As for the detective he was never more surprised in all his life, but he betrayed little emotion, for he was used to surprise and inured to meeting with the unexpected.

There was the most excellent reason for astonishment, however, for the photograph which Marion Oakburn had produced was that of a young man with light hair and mustache who had a scar above one eyebrow.

Paxton and Stanmore believed they recognized the man who had exchanged overcoats with Stuart Harland, and whom they thought to be the assassin of Marion's father.

The picture corresponded perfectly with the description of the unknown given by both Stuart and the night watchman.

"What mystery is this? What remarkable complication of this strange crime have we stumbled upon now?" muttered Paxton, and a flood of suggestive thoughts permeated—filled his mind.

"The daughter of the murdered man has the picture of the assassin. What can it mean?" whispered Stanmore.

"It is a perplexing puzzle. But see, she replaces the photograph in her bosom. She seems to treasure the picture of the supposed assassin. Can it be that she knows of his connection with the murder of her father, and yet means to shield him, or is she ignorant of what we suspect?" said Paxton, as he saw Marion restore the picture to its hiding place. "Is it possible the man we suspect is secretly Marion Oakburn's lover?" he added, as the thought entered his mind.

There was a flash of rage in Stanmore's eyes as he heard him.

"No, a thousand times no! That girl is as pure as the driven snow and as innocent as one of the angels," he hissed.

He had clutched Paxton's arm with a vise-like grasp.

"You will excuse me mentioning it, but you are crushing my arm," said Paxton, quietly.

Stanmore released him, and the detective wonderingly observed that he was trembling from head to foot, as though shaken by some powerful emotion.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Chinese Currency.

In China slips of mulberry bark serve as money in the interior towns.

FOURTEEN BIDS ARE OPENED

For the Location of the Government Armor Plate Plant.

In accordance with advertisements issued by the navy department, proposals were opened by Secretary Long for the construction of a government armor plant, for the sale to the government of sites suitable for such a plant and for machinery and buildings necessary, if the government decides to make its own armor.

There were twenty-nine bids, and they covered every phase of the advertisement. Many of the proposals were merely offers to donate sites to the government, conditional upon the erection of the plant; a number of others were for the supply of machinery.

There were only two bids to furnish a complete plant, and only one of these named a figure. The two companies now engaged in the manufacture of armor for the navy did not submit proposals.

The Huntington, W. Va., chamber of commerce offered to follow every specification of the board and build a complete plant for $3,325,905, including site, buildings and plant.

Offers of sites for a plant gratis, or for a nominal sum of money, came from Muskegon, Mich.; Youngstown, O.; Escanaba, Mich.; Duluth, Minn.; Ensley, Ala.; Loraine, O.; Winthrop Harbor and Dock Company of Chicago; Sheffield. Tenn.; Waukegan, Ill.; Detriot, Mich.; Peoria, Ill.; Marquette, Mich., and Anniston, Ala.

It will take some time to schedule all these bids, but as soon as all those can be arranged they will be sent to congress by Secretary Long for the information of that body in case it desires to embark the government in the manufacture of armor.

SEACOAST DEFENSES.

A Bill Carrying $4,144,912 for This Purpose Referred to the House.

The fortifications appropriation bill providing for the extensive system of seacoast defenses now in the course of completion, was reported to the house Saturday. It carries $4,144,912 as against estimates made by the war department of $13,378,571. The principal amounts allowed by the bill for the main items are as follows:

Gun and mortar batteries $1,000,000; sites for fortifications $300,000; torpedoes for harbor defense $150,000; armament of fortifications, $2,033,778; field guns and other miscellaneous items $300,000 and ordnance and fortifications board $100,000.

Provision is made that the armament shall be of American make except when it is to the manifest interest of the government to purchase limited quantities abroad.

The wind has a great deal to do with making the weather—vane.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the

City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant
Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

P. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Marke

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College

AND

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.

SPLENDID BUILDING.

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.

FIVE INSTRUCTORS.

VERY REASONABLE TERMS

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE FOR

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original scheme.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

In these missing word contests [illegible] aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received [illegible] ing at the missing word, and this fund is given [illegible] er or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed [illegible] ness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has [illegible] 50,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent [illegible] scriptions for this distribution fund shows that the prize [illegible] divided at each interval is large enough to be worth while [illegible] not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but [illegible] and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post [illegible] meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken [illegible] safety vault under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a committee [illegible] which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,000 and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess and even though not successful the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE SEVEN COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America. Its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.

AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.

ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.

ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENT, its Woman's Department and its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize—everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,

Montevallo, Alabama.

LANIER BROOM MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices.

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353. - BLOCTON, ALA.

Do You Know

RAMON'S LIVER PILLS

and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by a Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses
The Tonic Pellet Invigorates

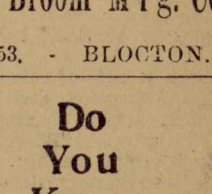
The little "Doctor's Book" tells all about it and a week's Treatment free proves every word true. Complete Treatment 25 cents.

Brown Mf'g. Co., N. Y. & Greeneville, Tenn.

ROYAL



BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

And other specialties for Gentlemen, Ladies, Boys and Misses are the Best in the World.

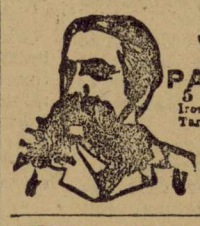
See descriptive advertisement which will appear in this paper.

Take no Substitute, but insist on having W. L. DOUGLAS' SHOES, with name and price stamped on bottom. Sold by

---



JONES

HE

PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every fine Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

This would be a comparatively happy world if everybody knew the virtues of SMITH'S BILE BEANS as a family medicine, and acted upon that knowledge. One half the misery of the world comes from ailments which arise from a bad stomach or a bad liver. Chiefest among these are dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache and Neuralgia.

BILE BEANS will cure all of these, besides all miasmatic diseases. Dose: One Bean.

Many a person is starving with a full table before them. Appetite gone! Ambition gone! Life a burden!! What is the matter? The Liver has ceased to do its proper work. The life channels are clogged. Poisonous fluids are thrown back into the blood, which should be thrown out. SMITH'S BILE BEANS will surely stimulate the liver to do its work well, and headache, sallowness and bad breath will flee away. Price, 25 cents per bottle. All druggists.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.

Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, '98. NO. 6

Public Lands for Common Schools.

Age-Herald,

There seems to be no reason why the public lands still remaining in Alabama should not be turned over to the state as trustee for the benefit of the common schools. The public domain in Alabama is rapidly diminishing, and at this time amounts to less than 600,000 acres. Alabama, with all of the states organized prior to 1848, received from the general government a grant of the sixteenth section, or 640 acres in each township, for the maintenance of the public schools of that township. The total acreage of this grant in Alabama, under the act of March 2, 1819, was 902,774. The act of 1848, from the hands of Senator Stephen A. Douglas, provided for an additional grant of the thirteenth section in each township, or 1,280 acres in every six miles square, for all states and territories that should be thereafter organized.

Two townships, or 46,080 acres in Alabama, were, by the act of 1819, granted for the maintenance of the state university. Later land grants were made for the benefit of the agricultural and mechanical college. Senator Pettus has recently introduced a bill in the senate providing for a grant of one township, or 23,040 acres, for the benefit of the Alabama Polytechnic School for Girls at Montevallo.

The policy of further diverting the public lands within the state for the purposes of special and higher education is one that may be seriously questioned. The states of the west have received for common schools two sections, or 1,280 acres in each township, while Alabama and other Southern States have received but one section in each township. Texas upon her admission to the union was permitted to retain all her public lands for school purposes, and in consequence has a magrificent permanent fund which will inure to the benefit of all her people through their common schools.

The public schools of Alabama are in sore need; the cause of special and higher education in the state has already been fostered and developed out of all proportion to that of the common schools, and reason and equity would dictate that the 600,000 acres remaining in Alabama should be given to all the people for the benefit of their schools. Even then the common schools of the state will have received less than one-half their quota of public lands, when compared with those of the states of the west. Any disposition of the public lands within Alabama that does not inure to the equal benefit of all the people, is inequitable.

LAND FOR A COLONY.

Twelve Thousand Acres Purchased by Gen. C. M Shelley and J. H. Mountain.

ANNISTON, ALA., Feb. 8.—Gen. C. M. Shelley and J. H. Mountain have closed a deal for 12,000 acres of land near Piedmont, in this couuty, and will colonize it with northern and western farmers.

Northern farmers who have located fn this section have invariably prospered, and they have also been beneficial to the section by introducing improved methods of farming and by their example encouraging the native farmers to be thrifty and up-to-date.

The Piedmont, Ala., furnace, which was started during a boom at that place some years ago and never finished, was sold yesterday in piece meal for $1,200.

MONTEVALLO SCHOOL.

The Alabama Girls' Polytechnic Institute at Montevallo a Success—A Fine Country.

The Southern Field.

One of the most successful educational institutions in the South, and one which is doing the best work, is the Girls' Industrial School of Alabama, a polytechnic institute at Montevallo, of which H. C. Reynolds is president. The school is only two years old, but has already a membership of nearly 360 pupils and a large corps of teachers. Its object is to give a good indnstrial education in connection with a good literary education, and thus fit its students for any walk in life. The success of the school shows that it not only has a good field, but is admirably accomplishing the work for which it was established. The students are given a thorough normal school education, together with a knowledge of kindergarten instruction and music, cooking, laundering, sewing, dressmaking, millinery, telegraphy, stenography, printing, photography, book keeping, indoor carpentry, clay modeling, electrical construction, drawing, painting, and in other things. The aim is to keep the cost down to the lowest figure, so as to make its usefulness extend as widely as possible.

Montevallo is in Shelby county, almost in the centre of the State, and in the fertile Coosa Valley. It is beautifully situated, and is one of the prettiest places in the South. It is on the Southern railway. The country round about produces the finest cotton, grains and all crops, nearly, and is a splendid fruit and stock countrv. There are good openings for many small farmers in the vicinity of the village. Truck and dairy farming, especially, can be made extremely profitable.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

SPARKS'

BIG

Railroad Shows

Will Exhibit at Montevallo

Saturday, February 12.

Sparks' shows exhibited here last year, and it is no stranger in our town. It is enlarged nearly its former size, and is pronounced by the press and public to be the best 25 cent show on earth. Mr. Sparks does not allow any gambling around his show. There are twenty-five performers—male and female—each one an artist in his or her line, five funny clowns, a whole troupe of performing horses, ponies, monkeys and dogs, and the finest performing baby elephant alive. A grand double balloon ascension and parachute jump daily, and a high tower dive from an 80 foot ladder into a net. All free, and takes place at 1 and 7 p. m. daily, on the ground.

A SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTION

Is the Industrial School for Girls at Montevallo Under Direction .of Captain H. C. Reynolds.

Selma Journal.

A Journal representative spent Friday in the town of Montevallo, where is located the Industrial School for Girls, a Polytechnic institute.

Montevallo is a beautiful little place and is enjoying prosperity to a marked degree, all attributal to the new lease on life given by the establishment of the State Industrial School there. A handsome two story modern brick hotel has been built and opened, and Mr. Wall, with his estimable wife, makes the "St. George" a charming home for the traveler. Several large mercantile stores are doing an immense business, and a flourishing bank exists.

A weekly newspaper, THE MONTEVALLO NEWS, after varied experiences and troubles, has at last struck solid ground, and has a bright future before it under Mr. Little's editorship and Mr. Newton's management.

The Journal man was taken over the Industrial School by Capt. Reynolds, and was surprised at the work being accomplished. 366 pupils are now on the rolls, and when it is remembered that this is only the school's second year, the success it has achieved is marvelous. To Capt. Reynolds' efforts and arduous labors this success is no doubt due. The work of the school is of such a nature as gives to the girls not only a classical, but a practical education. The dress-making department is particularly the pride of the school, and five handsome gowns had just been finished off Friday. About $600 will be realized this year by the pupils who are in the dress making classes. The proceeds go to the pupils themselves.

The Selma young ladies and Mrs. Sallie Cothran, the teacher of music, warmly greeted the Journal man, and seemed to be enjoying good health and contentment.

For The Man

WHO fails to save a Dollar.

YOU CAN SAVE SEVERAL

By doing your trading with

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS.

Montevallo, - - Ala.

COMING!

With a Full Line Of Ladies' Dress Goods and Fine Millinery.

Mr. B. F. Crabb, of Dadeville, Tallapoosa county, Ala., will remove to Montevallo on or about March 10 prox., and will open up in the store now occupied by C. C. Vandegrift an entirely new and beautiful line of ladies' dress goods, fancy notions, millinery, etc. Mr. Crabb will receive a warm welcome to our town, and we bespeak for him a liberal share of the public patronage.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Four more school months!

***

Some of the girls are great cooks.

***

The culinary department is on a boom.

***

"Betsy Hamilton" will be here soon.

***

The campus is being sown down in clover.

***

New girls are coming in nearly every day.

***

Mr. Farrington is fixing up the college grounds.

***

Mrs. Nelson may take her class to Montgomery soon.

***

The art department has received several new plaster paris models.

***

There will be some new telegraph operators after this session of school.

***

President Reynolds has returned to Washington in the interest of the land biil that is before Congress.

***

The dressmaking department has several orders for dresses from Selma, Montgomery and other places.

***

Some of the girls in the cooking department have an eye to business. They know a good cook will not be an old maid very long.

***

Miss Myra Gaskin, Capt. Reynolds' private secretary last year, was married last fall to Mr. J. Stanley Smith, and is now living at Minneapolis, Minn.

***

Mrs. R. E. L. Neil, of Selma, was greeted by a large audience at the Industrial School Chapel on Friday night last, and afforded an evening of much enjoyment with her elocution and Delsarte recital. The versatility of her powers was fully demonstrated in the rendering of "A Medley," calling for the transition from one extreme of expression to another in rapid succession. She was assisted by Misses Lee and Dale who rendered two magnificent instrumental duets, and Mrs. Cothran and Miss Crumpton with a vocal duet.

SIMPLE DUTY.

Old Wotsizname's a feller that we don't hear much about,
He never stands on barrel heads to storm around an' shout.
They say "he doesn't cut no ice," He won't go mixin' in
With things that don't concern his 'mejit fam'ly nor his kin.
So his neighbors in the village, they jes' leave him off the list
When anything's a-doin'. He stays home and isn't missed.
An' yet his house is recognized by all who come an' go,
He doesn't cut no ice, but then he shovels off his snow.

An' folks'll stop to view the work and wonder who it is,
An' say how fine 'twould be ef all the rest was done like his.
But they go ahead a-botherin' an' a-stirrin' up affairs
And oratin' about business, most of which it isn't theirs,
An' when they're goin' home agin, a-wadin' through the slush,
An' strike this patch o' neatness, there will come a solemn hush.
Then some one pays a compliment—the best I'd keer to know—
"He doesn't cut no ice, but then he shovels off his snow."

(—Washington Star.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

After concealing the photograph, the sight of which had made such a marked impression upon the detective and his companion, Marion and Judith Kredge left the kitchen, but in a few moments the watchers at the window heard footsteps within the house, and as they seemed to be approaching the rear door, they drew back into an angle of the building where the darkness was complete.

Marion and Judith Kredge came out through the rear door, gained an alley in the rear of the narrow yard at the back of the building, and thence walked to the next street, while Paxton and Stanmore closely followed them.

A suspicion he would scarcely have dared to formulate into words was gaining ground in the detective's mind as he shadowed the women.

They had not proceeded more than a couple of blocks when Paxton discovered that some one was stealthily dogging the footsteps of Stanmore and himself. If he was playing the shadow, he was in turn being shadowed.

Scarcely had the detective imparted his discovery to his companion, when the man whom he had detected following him, darted by, and himself and Stanmore both recognized Levi Kredge by his peculiar limp.

"Kredge!" exclaimed Paxton in a whisper. "He has discovered that we are following his sister and the cashier's daughter," he added in a tone of disappointment.

Paxton apprehended that it was Levi Kredge's purpose to warn Marion and his sister that they were followed.

Such proved to be the fact.

Overtaking Marion and Judith, Levi Kredge paused and spoke to them in a low tone for a moment, and then hurried on again.

The two women glanced backward, and then crossed the street, and making a detour they returned to the house whence they had come, without going anywhere in particular.

After Marion and her companion reentered the house, Paxton and Stanmore watched the building until the lights were all extinguished, and they were sure that the inmates had retired for the night.

After this they withdrew and Stanmore returned to his hotel, while Paxton, prompted by an impulse of the moment, lingered in the neighborhood.

Presently he saw a limping form appear from a side street, and, recognizing Levi Kredge, he followed until he saw him enter the office of Pratt & Weeks by the private way.

The janitor had given a peculiar rap and though it was now long after business hours and no light was to be seen in Pratt & Weeks' office, he had been promptly admitted.

"Ah! He was expected. The rascal is about to have a private interview with confederates, I suppose. I should like to be an unseen witness of this meeting. Let me see, when I was making the Blanchard investigation a year ago, I had occasion to make several calls on Messrs. Pratt & Weeks. Once or twice I was admitted by the private entrance. Now I recollect that the street door opens upon a narrow entry beyond which is the door of the brokers' private office. I'll take the risk."

Having thus communed with his own thoughts the detective crept to the door of the office by which Levi Kredge had just entered, and producing a pick-lock he deftly opened the door.

"Fortunately there was no bolt on the inside or I would have been baffled," he muttered.

Without making even the faintest sound which might have betrayed his presence, he gained the entry upon which the street door opened, closed the door behind him and crossed the narrow hall to the door of the private office beyond it.

There he listened and heard the voices of Pratt, Weeks and Levi Kredge.

The detective's nerves thrilled with expectation as he thought that now perhaps he was destined to make some important discovery.

He could distinctly hear all that was said by the men upon whom he was spying.

Pratt spoke first.

"Kredge, your warning about the marked money came just in time. If the money stolen from Garrison's safe had been traced to us we would have been ruined," he said.

"And our reputations forever lost," added Weeks.

The other laughed unpleasantly.

"That we have kept up. Nothing like a reputation. Our dupes have always borne the ignominy and blame, while we have reaped the harvest resulting from the success of our shrewd schemes. But you promised to report to-night as to whether your suspicion that you were being watched had been verified or otherwise," said Pratt, turning to Kredge.

"There is no longer a doubt; I am surely being watched by detectives, but I am rid of them for to-night," answered Kredge.

"Are we suspected, I wonder?" said Weeks.

"I can hardly think so, but if the secrets of the night of John Oakburn's murder are ever searched out, I tremble for the consequences. But tell us, Kredge, have you learned what has become of Garnar?" asked Pratt.

"I have learned nothing about his whereabouts. He has vanished. He it was who exchanged overcoats with Stuart Harland," answered Kredge.

"He wanted a disguise, poor devil. I infer he has left this part of the country, and we have nothing to hear from him," said Weeks.

"Now, about the division of the money. I have not received my share yet," Kredge remarked.

"You shall have it; but our mutual safety demands that we should keep it in trust for you. Don't forget, my man, that if any of that marked money was found in your possession you would be accused of John Oakburn's murder," said Pratt.

"That's so—the money will be safest with you," assented Kredge.

"Is not this crippled scoundrel himself the assassin?" reflected the detective.

"Before the night is over the marked money will all be hidden where no detective will ever find it. I only wish we had the one thousand of the marked money we gave Garnar back again. He may use some of it. The money may be traced to him, and to save himself there is no telling what he might do," continued Pratt.

"Well, open the safe and get the marked money out. Before hiding it we will test the preparation which I procured from an old German chemist today, as I promised I would. The compound is recommended to remove ink marks. If we can remove the marks on the money, all well and good," said Weeks, and he placed a large stone jar or bottle on the table.

Pratt went to a safe in the room, opened it and took out the money which had the banker's private mark on it.

Noiselessly Paxton opened the door at which he was listening a hair's breadth, and peered into the room. He saw the three men standing about a table upon which the package of marked money had been placed. Pratt and Kredge stood with their backs turned to the door, but Weeks faced it. He was intent on trying to remove the mark from one of the notes.

Paxton comprehended that he had a wonderful chance to secure the marked money if he dared take a terrible risk.

Like a shadow he glided into the room, intending to snatch the package of marked money and escape with it. He had almost reached the table when Pratt wheeled like a flash and saw him. The next instant he was struggling desperately with the three villains, whose evil faces were darkened by the shadow of deadly thoughts.

CHAPTER XIII.

Paxton fully realized that his situation was one of deadly peril.

"This man is a spy! He must not escape us!" cried Pratt, as his confederates hurled themselves upon the detective.

The latter exerted all his surprising strength in making a determined struggle to liberate himself from the clutches of his foes.

In the encounter the table was overturned, and the bottle which Weeks had said contained a compound for removing ink stains was dashed down upon the floor at the feet of the struggling men.

An explosion followed.

The great stone bottle burst into a thousand fragments, and a sheet of flame flashed upward into the faces of the combatants, who involuntarily leaped away in every direction.

Weeks learned afterwards that through a mistake on the part of an assistant of the old chemist of whom he had purchased the compound, he had been given an explosive mixture instead of the compound for removing ink marks.

Paxton was released by the frightened villains at the instant of the explosion, as they leaped away to escape the flying missile and the sheet of flame from the wreck of the bottle.

It was as though a supreme power had decreed that the detective should escape.

The table had fallen on the marked money, and to pause to attempt to secure it then would have been suicidal, as Paxton well knew, and with one bound he shot through the office door, gained the passage beyond and reached the street in safety.

Paxton did not remain in the neighborhood a moment.

Of course the men from whom he had escaped did not pursue him, for they more than suspected his true character.

The detective regretted the result of his venture, but he congratulated himself that his disguise had not been removed, and that consequently his identity was unknown to the brokers and Levi Kredge.

"As it has resulted, perhaps the better course would have been to have made no attempt to secure the marked money, for now Pratt & Weeks are doubly on their guard. But at all events my venture has not been without a valuable result. I have learned that the name of the supposed assassin—the man who carried the skeleton keys—is 'Garnar,'" reflected Paxton.

From the discoveries of the night he had formed certain theories, and he sought to account for various circumstances which required explanation.

"How comes it that the photograph of the suspected man is in the hands of Marion Oakburn, and why does she treasure it? I put the objection of my friend Stanmore aside, and I will suppose that the original of the photograph is secretly her lover. She is either ignorant that he is suspected of her father's murder or she believes he is innocent. So far, so good. Now for the meaning of the scene I witnessed between Marion Oakburn and Judith Kredge.

"Marion present, enter Judith Kredge. She tells Marion something, and the girl becomes excited. Therefore the news she hears startles her. Then she reads a note which she receives from Judith, and is still more surprised. After this the picture of the supposed assassin is produced, and Marion shows it to Judith. I infer, therefore, that the communication made by Judith related to the original of the photograph. Perhaps the note was from Garnar. Then Marion and Judith Kredge leave the house. This looks as though the communication Marion received called her to meet the writer. I follow the two women, am discovered by Levi Kredge, who warns them of the fact. They thereupon return to the house. From the last move it is clear that they wished to conceal where they were going, and they would not care to keep this movement a secret unless there was some powerful motive for doing so."

Thus Paxton reviewed the events of the evening and drew his deduction.

"Perhaps Mr. Stanmore would not advise it, but I shall look after Marion Oakburn and see what comes of it," he said, mentally.

He had repaired to his home immediately after his escape from the office of Pratt & Weeks.

Meanwhile, Stanmore, after parting from the detective, confessed to himself that he was deeply troubled by the developments of the night.

Gaining his own apartment at the hotel, he seated himself and remained buried in profound meditation for a long time, while the expression of his features revealed that his thoughts were far from pleasant.

Stanmore was aroused from the reverie into which he had fallen by a knock at the door, and he admitted Mr. Marks, of the firm of Marks & Bock, accommodation loan brokers, of whom mention has been made.

The two men exchanged cordial greetings, and became seated.

A confidential conversation relating to business subjects ensued, in the course of which Mr. Marks said:

"Yes, Pratt & Weeks have fallen upon evil times. Dupes have been wary. The pigeons flee at sight of the hawks, and luck in the stock market has taken a strong turn against the cunning swindlers. They have met with many losses and they now owe a considerable sum."

"Good! Excellent! We shall accomplish our purpose, Marks."

"It is but a question of time, sir," answered the other.

Mr. Marks remained with Stanmore but a short time, and he had scarcely departed when Mr. Judson, of the firm of Judson, Kirk & Co., brokers, called.

In the most friendly way Stanmore received the representative of this well-known Wall street firm, and after a few remarks he placed a slip of paper before Stanmore on which was written:

"Indebtedness of Pratt & Weeks to Judson, Kirk & Co., on account of transactions in railroad and mining stock to date, $43,000."

Stanmore read the memorandum with evident satisfaction.

"The end is surely coming. Retribution hovers over the heads of the scoundrels, and its shadow is growing darker day by day," he said.

"Yes, the tables are turning. A secret foe has foiled all their schemes of late. Assuredly the day of his triumph and the downfall of the swindlers cannot be far distant," answered Mr. Judson.

Some further remarks were exchanged, and, while Stanmore and his guest were still conversing, Mr. Benjaman, of the firm of Abraham Benjaman & Son, money lenders, entered.

The latter seemed to be well acquainted with Mr. Judson, and, judging from his manner, an old friend of Mr. Stanmore.

Abraham Benjaman was a type of the better class of Hebrew business men.

In his method of speech there was nothing like the dialect peculiar to the lower classes of his race. Mr. Benjaman was an American Hebrew, who had been educated in this country.

"Well, Stanmore, my boy," said the shrewd old fellow, as he shook hands, "I have come to make the report of the week. We have lent our friends, Pratt & Weeks, six thousand dollars at twenty-five per cent. for sixty days. That makes twenty thousand dollars they have had from us."

"Very good. They will be after more money before long, I think," said Stanmore. "If so, let them have it," he added.

The three gentlemen engaged in an animated discussion on business topics for some time, but just before Messrs. Judson and Benjaman withdrew, the conversation reverted to Pratt & Weeks.

While they drew their chairs close together, and their voices were lowered to a confidential tone, they talked earnestly for a few moments, and Stanmore said:

"You both know that the money stolen from the safe of Jason Garrison on the night of John Oakburn's murder was marked in a peculiar way."

"Yes, yes," assented both Mr. Judson and the other.

"Very well, I have reason to suppose that the stolen money is in the hands of Pratt & Weeks."

Stanmore's two friends evinced their surprise.

"Moreover," the former continued, "I believe these scoundrels will attempt to exchange the marked money for such bank notes or other legal tender as they can use without danger, when they are driven to desperate expedient to raise money."

"So Pratt & Weeks have the stolen money," said Benjaman, in a tone of surprise.

"It is a secret, but I have proved your devotion to my interest, and so I trust you fully," answered Stanmore.

"Bravo! We shall catch the weasels yet!" said the old Hebrew, rubbing his hands.

"Yes; you have managed so that I should not be in the least surprised if they attempted to exchange the marked money with you, Mr. Benjaman. If they should broach the subject communicate with me at once. Do not absolutely refuse to make the deal. Tell them you want to consider the matter," continued Stanmore.

"Once they give the marked money to me they are in our power," said Benjaman.

"Yes. The hour of justice will have come. But we are counting on an uncertainty," Stanmore answered.

"They will be driven to make use of the stolen money. Never fear, I have given them a false idea of my character for a purpose, and they will come to me thinking me as unscrupulous as themselves."

"We will hope so. The life of an innocent man may depend upon the confession to be wrung from them as to how they came by the marked money," said Stanmore, thinking of Stuart Harland.

Later, when Stanmore found himself alone, he said in self communion:

"Pratt & Weeks are walking into the pitfall I have dug for them. The weak, inexperienced young man whom they enticed to his ruin, and at whose impotent threat they sneered and laughed, when he discovered how he had been duped by their devilish duplicity and cunning, has been forgotten by those brigands of Wall street. But the hour is coming when the threats he uttered when they drove him into exile, a disgraced and ruined man, shall be made good."

Then Stanmore's thoughts reverted to the mystery of John Oakburn's murder.

"I cannot doubt that Marion Oakburn has some knowledge of the man whose photograph I saw in her possession. Can it be that those wretches, Pratt & Weeks, have thrown the toils about that innocent girl in such a way as to implicate her in the terrible crime?" he said.

But to return to Pratt & Weeks' office a moment subsequent to Paxton's escape.

The rascally brokers were enraged at the accident which had enabled the detective to make his escape.

They secured the doors, and after heaping maledictions upon the head of the detective, Pratt said:

"It seems that fortune is dead against us in every move of late. Every speculation falls, and we are becoming deeply involved in debt. We owe Marks & Bock, Judson, Kirk & Co., and Benjaman, the old Jew money lender."

"Yes," assented Weeks. "But if our investment in 'C. and N. W. railroad stock' turns out as we hope, we are saved."

"But if the market goes the wrong way, you know as well as I do we are ruined unless the marked money can be made to save us," answered Pratt.

"Perhaps we may arrange that. Old Benjaman is an unscrupulous fellow. I've sounded him. If the worst comes, we may be able to get him to take the marked money at a discount, and let us have the gold for it," suggested Weeks.

Little did they suspect the fact, but the conspirators seemed destined to play into Stanmore's hands.

CHAPTER XIV.

The plotters feared the consequences of the discovery made by the spy who had escaped them.

"I wonder how much of our conversation the fellow heard," said Weeks presently.

"Enough to condemn us, no doubt, if he could prove what he heard. Fortunately for us, he did not secure the money, which was undoubtedly his purpose. Now we will conceal it and defy him if he seeks to expose us. Our oaths would go as far as his in a court of law, if it should come to that," replied Pratt.

He was the leading spirit of the firm.

"That infernal money has done us no good yet, but on the other hand it has brought us trouble," said Weeks querulously.

Thus they continued to converse until Levi Kredge left them.

When he had gone they secreted the marked money and then took their departure from the office for the night.

The following day Paxton's agent, who had resumed his task of shadowing Levi Kredge, reported to his principal that the janitor had obtained leave for a day's absence and that he had purchased a ticket for Newburg, N. Y.

"He will leave by the first train in the morning," said the detective agent.

"And so will I," said Paxton. "I'll take the little trip with Levi. The journey may have no meaning for us, and yet it may, on the other hand, be of great importance."

In accordance with his determination, Paxton, well disguised as a foppish young man, and carrying a small traveling bag containing the material for another disguise, left the city on the same train with Levi Kredge.

When their destination was reached, Levi Kredge proceeded directly to the office of the real estate agent.

Paxton entered the same office a moment after Kredge.

While a clerk gave Paxton his attention the latter saw a gentleman whom he presumed to be the proprietor of the office usher Kredge into an interior and private compartment of the establishment.

The door was closed and in the presence of the clerk it was impossible to play the listener at it, but still Paxton meant to know what business Kredge had with the real estate agent.

He invented an excuse for his presence and retired.

There was a third-rate hotel opposite, to which Paxton crossed, and engaging a front room, from the window of which he could watch the broker's office, he hastily made a change in his disguise.

In a few minutes Paxton descended from his room as a feeble old man wearing an old-fashioned shawl and carrying a cane.

Paxton reached the hotel office as Kredge, whom he had seen crossing the street before he left his room, entered.

Kredge entered the restaurant attached to the hotel and ordered dinner.

Paxton was at the dining-room door, and, hearing Kredge give his order, he said to himself:

"He is safe for half an hour here," and crossing the street he made his way slowly up the stairs leading to the real estate office, which he entered wheezing and seemingly almost out of breath, as became the character he had assumed.

Glancing about the broker's office, Paxton said, in a cracked, old man's voice:

"I've missed him! He ain't here!"

"Who are you looking for?" asked the clerk.

"My son, Levi," answered Paxton.

At this, the gentleman whom the detective supposed to be the proprietor came out of an interior office.

"Then you are Mr. Kredge, I presume?" said he.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, your son left here but a moment ago."

"Did he fix the business up?"

"No. He did not positively agree to purchase the property. He offered ten thousand dollars cash, but our price is twelve. Your son will find the place a bargain at that figure, I assure you," said the agent.

"I don't know. It's a good deal of money—a good deal of money. Well, I must find Levi. Good-day, gentlemen. It's a good deal of money," said Paxton, in his quavering voice.

He was amazed, astonished. Here was a discovery that perplexed him.

It was clearly evident that Levi Kredge was in good faith contemplating making a purchase of ten thousand dollars' worth of real estate, and yet the man had not been worth a dollar in the world prior to the murder of John Oakburn.

But he had received none of the marked money—the proceeds of the robbery of Jason Garrison's safe.

The mystery was, whence came the money he had offered for the real estate?

Mentally, Paxton searched for an explanation of this affair.

He in review went over the circumstances of the case in debate.

Suddenly he thought of one point upon which he had not dwelt much. He remembered that the savings of a lifetime, which Marion Oakburn thought her father kept in his little private safe, had not been found.

In an instant Paxton formulated a theory which seemed like the truth, or which was at least an explanation as to how the treacherous rascal might have procured the $10,000 which he assumed to have.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

AT Ischia they disinterred an old woman, unharmed. "God bless you!" she cried, as they helped her out. "But for pity's sake," she added impetuously, "dig a little deeper and save my——" "What? Is there any one else alive here?" they inquired anxiously. "My hen!" continued the old dame.

Favorable Report for Buckley.

The senate committee on postoffice and post roads Thursday, by a unanimous vote, decided to report favorably the nomination of Buckley for postmaster at Montgomery, Ala. It is stated that the nomination will be rejected in the senate.

The Brooklyn Sails for West Indies.

The big armored cruiser, Brooklyn, left the navy yard about 8 o'clock Friday morning on her way to begin her cruise of the West Indies. She first goes to Newport News for a supply of coal.

Senator Walthall Very Ill.

Senator Walthall, of Mississippi, is seriously ill in Washington city. Last Thursday he was seized by a chill in the senate and was forced to leave the chamber. He has since been confined to his bed.

Progress of the A. & A. Air Line.

Contractor Carson, of the Atlanta & Alabama Air Line, has suspended a large part of his force awaiting the arrival of the iron for the first ten miles, which is now graded. The grading has now really reached thirteen miles from Selma, and it will not be long now before trains will be running on the road.

The Cuban relief committee gave out the information that Clara Barton will go at once to Cuba to minister to the starving and dying people.

Shaker Colony in Georgia.

Brobston & Fendig have formally delivered 10,000 acres of land on the Altamaha river in Georgia, to the Shaker community of Union Village, O. A Shaker colony will be established thereon.

Six Persons Killed at a Fire.

Six firemen, including a district chief, a captain and a lieutenant, were killed at a fire in Boston Saturday morning which burned out the interior of a five-story building on Merrimac street, occupied by G. W. Bent & Co.

To Run McMillin for Governor.

West Tennessee politicians returning from Nashville bring with them a slate they think will heal all wounds caused by McMillin's defeat. They propose to run McMillin for governor, with Taylor in sight for the senatorship, in the spring.

Contracts were let Thursday to Johnson Brothers & Faut, of St. Elmo, Ill., to build 110 miles of railroad between Sapulpa and Oklahoma City.

Swearing Won't Help It.

Swearing may make a fire burn or it may make a deck hand hustle, but it won't help Tetter or Ringworm. If you use Tetterine it will make you comfortable and save swear words. 50 cents at drug stores, or by mail for 50 cents in stamps from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

SEAL

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

No Klondike for Me!

Thus says E. Walters, Le Raysville, Pa., who grew (sworn to) 252 bushels Salzer's corn per acre. That means 25,200 bushels on 100 acres at 30c a bushel equals $7,560 That is better than a prospective gold mine. Salzer pays $400 in gold for best name for his 17 inch corn and oats prodigy. You can win Seed potatoes $1.50 a Bbl.

SEND THIS NOTICE AND 10 CTS. IN STAMPS to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., and get free their seed catalogue, and 11 farm seed samples, including above corn and oats, surely worth $10, to get a start.

A. C. 9

A wealthy merchant of Mexico says that the linen industry of that country now surpasses that of Ireland in its palmiest days.

Use "C C C" Certain Chill Cure.
Best in the world. CERTAIN CURE CO., Evansville, Ind.

The presbytery in Philadelphia received $6,000 from John H. Converse, of that city, for use in city missions.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Dining cars have not yet appeared in Russia. Express trains stop about once in three hours to let passengers refresh themselves, the stations being built about seventy-five miles apart.

Chew Star Tobacco—The Best.
Smoke Sledge Cigarettes.

The Rev. A. A. Green, a London rabbi, says that Dickens wrote to his father that he deeply regretted his characterization of Fagin.

Fits permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free DR. R.H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa

---

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething, softens the gums, reducing inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bottle.

After physicians had given me up, I was saved by Piso's Cure.—RALPH ERIEG, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 22, 1893.

Weak Stomach

Indigestion Causes Spasms—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

"I have always been troubled with a weak stomach and had spasms caused by indigestion. I have taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have not been bothered with spasms, and I advise anyone troubled with dyspepsia to take Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. HORTON, Prattsburg, New York. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier

Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion. 25c.

NOTICE.

We want a hustling agent in every county to sell our latest improved Plows. All kinds direct from the factory to the farmer. Work right around your home. BABY CULTIVATOR COMPANY, Birmingham, Ala.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

WESTERN RABBIT COURSING.

HOW MR. JACK LEADS A MERRY SPURT ACROSS THE PRAIRIE.

The Exhilaration of Hunting With Dogs and Horses in a Plain Comparison of Speed ---Women Take Part in the Chase.

It is early morning. The air, light and cool, blows from the east. The prairie is starred with flowers. Far in the distance rises a lonely butte, blue and ominous like a cloud. A line of trees stands almost upon the horizon's edge, showing that their roots are washed by a shallow stream that becomes a deadly torrent in the rain-time. The yellow-breasted field lark carols keenly from the grass. The sparrow hawk cuts the air with zigzag wing. Seven are in the party—five men and two women. They are well mounted. The horses are the small, nervous, closely built product of the prairie. They do not stride as far as the big horse of the cities, but they pick it up faster—with marvellous swiftness, in fact. They are hardy, too. They shall carry you at top speed until they drop and be nothing the worse for it in a day or two. They get little corn, which is heating, but all they can eat of the most nutritious grasses in the world.

The dogs are coupled—sleek, graceful, beautiful creatures—and their owner holds them by a stout cord which passes around his wrist. Their slender limbs are quivering and their eyes blaze with excitement. The greyhound is probably the least intelligent of our canine friends, but he knows when he is wanted for the chase. It is his chief dissipation. A hundred and fifty yards ahead and slightly to the right a jack-rabbit springs from a clump of weeds. As he bounds away in long, slow leaps at half speed, he looks not unlike a fawn. His tremendous ears point straight upward. He is traveling upon three feet, holding the other clear of the ground. The dogs are unleashed and are off like a bolt from a crossbow. Simultaneously the rabbit lengthens his stride and begins to get down to business. With a backward glance of his prominent dark eye he has seen them and knows that the race of his life is on. The pursuers are fifty yards away and going like the wind when the word is given and the reins are loosed.

The turf is springy and level as a floor. The rushing air sings in the ear. One feels the quick leaps of the horse, but the eyes are fastened upon the chase. It is all in plain view. It could be seen two miles away. The dogs do not give tongue. They run wholly by sight. Their chase is as silent as the grave and as relentless as death. They have put a half a mile behind them and are warmed to their work. The quarry leads them by seventy-five yards. They can hear the roll of the twenty-eight hoofs behind. Wild halloos come to them, varied by the shrill call of a woman. These girls of the West are sitting well back, with the knee firmly crooked and the hands low. One of them has lost her hat and her tawny hair streams behind her like a flag.

Another quarter mile and the jack begins to feel that the game is worth his undivided attention. His ears come straight back upon his long brown body and he puts down the other leg. He is going now for all that there is in him, and there is a great deal. He lengthens the gap by five yards and the chase steadies itself. At this rate he is just holding the dogs. The light weight on the gray has gripped him hard, because he is ten yards behind the dogs and wants to move up and do some trampling.

Four hundred yards in twenty seconds and the pace is telling upon the doomed one. His white belly is closer to the ground and he is desperately striving, but he makes less speed. The hounds are gaining fast. They are within ten yards of him—five—three. Suddenly he whirls at right angles. One of his foemen overruns, but the other, an older dog, whirls with him and is hot after him. Ten more spasmodic leaps, each shorter than the last, an accurate bound by the dog, a pitiful squeak and all is over. Well done, Maida! The other dog comes up feeling ashamed and wants to take it out of the corpse. The girl who has lost her hat drops the reins to twist up her tawny hair. The other, with flushed face, is laughing wildly at a very small joke. Killed in a mile and a quarter. The girths are loosened and the men light cigarettes. Everybody talks dog and talks at once. A half dozen chases make the morning's sport, but there is an appetite for luncheon in one such ride as that.—Chicago Times-Herald.

No Children in the White House.

There are no children in the White House now. It is the first administration since that of Buchanan where there have not been children in the President's family. Lincoln had three boys when he came to the White House, and the Christmas festival was celebrated in the good old-fashioned way, with a Santa Claus. Grant had his three boys and the pretty Nellie to make merry at Christmas time. Hayes had a complete domestic household, with romping boys and a winsome little girl, who has grown to womanhood and has recently been spending her honeymoon at the White House, where she was a child.

celebrate Christmas, and Cleveland in the last year of his first administration had a baby girl to make Christmas for. Harrison's children were grown to manhood and womanhood, but he had his grandchildren with him in the White House, and Baby McKee became a more celebrated character in the child history of the White House than any since Tad Lincoln. In Cleveland's second administration there were two little girls to welcome Santa Claus. But there are no children in the White House now. There are pictures of two beautiful babies in Mrs. McKinley's room and many fond remembrances of them, but they sleep in the old graveyard at Canton, where they were buried many years ago.

USES FOR TOADS AND BATS.

Great Insect Killers and Capable of Being Made Into Household Pets.

Dr. Clifton F. Hodge, assistant professor of physiology and neurology at Clark University in Worcester, Mass., has been devoting a good deal of time of late to the introduction of nature study in the public schools, and in preparing the subjects to be placed before the children for investigation he has learned some interesting facts. He has found that the common brown bat can be domesticated; that the garden toad, with proper encouragement, will keep a house free of flies; and that, if the waters of a district are kept well stocked with fish and tadpoles, the mosquito pest can be reduced to reasonable limits.

Before setting the children at work Dr. Hodge made personal observations of the toad in captivity. He constructed a small pen in his garden, and in it, in a pan of water, installed a male and a female toad. To attract food for them he placed within the inclosure bits of meat and bone. The results were as satisfactory as they were unexpected. The toads spent most of their time setting within reaching distance of the bait, and killing the flies attracted by it. The female laid her eggs in the water of the pan and in due time the little black tadpoles made their appearance. There was really no need of the imprisoning walls of wire netting; the prisoners could not have been hired to escape. The neighbors were receiving a marked benefit by the experiment. They had never had so few flies to annoy them. Then Dr. Hodge established another and larger colony. Here three or four toads were to be seen squatting about a single bone, each snapping up every fly that came near. The fact seemed to be established that if toads were encouraged to frequent the gardens there would be very much less annoyance from flies during the dog days.

Another of Dr. Hodge's experiments was with bats. His attention was turned to them through the codlin moth, the insect to blame for most worm eaten apples. In an orchard near his home, Dr. Hodge found nine of the grubs of this insect in a minute. Chancing to go into another orchard, hardly a mile from the first, he found only four of the grubs in an hour's search. There is an old barn near by in which live a colony of between 75 and 100 bats. The owner of the farm informed the doctor that his apples were always free from worms. The naturalist caught a bat and offered to it some of the grubs, which were greedily accepted. The codlin moth flies only at night; the same is true of the bat. Putting the facts together, Dr. Hodge thought there was a strong case of circumstantial evidence that the bat was a very useful friend of the apple grower.

Dr. Hodge took half a dozen of the bats home with him and installed them in his parlor. At first they greeted any friendly advances with chattering anger. After a while they became quite tame, and whenever their jailer entered the room they would fly to him for food. They never reached the point of allowing themselves to be handled, but they were friendly. Their home was in the folds of the top of the window draperies, and when night came, and sometimes in the daytime, they would spend their time flying about the room, regardless of the presence of members of the family. Dr. Hodge would occasionally feed them with insects in the evening, releasing net full after net full of the night flying varieties, and never a bug remained in the morning. They took everything, from a spider to a polyphemus moth. One morning the doctor counted while one bat devoured sixty-eight house flies. He believes that the bat would be almost as susceptible to taming as the monkey.

Observation of fish in his aquariums has shown Dr. Hodge that they are the natural enemies of the mosquito. They are very fond of the larvae of the stinging pest. He saw one sunfish no larger than a silver dollar swallow between sixty-five and seventy wrigglers in a single hour. And it was also demonstrated to him that tadpoles, both of frogs and toads, are inveterate enemies of the embryo mosquito.

Lord Mansfield has been a member of the London Carlton Club continuously since 1832. Gladstone joined the club in 1833, but left in 1859 for political reasons.

The German Reichstag is said to be the cheapest of all the parliaments of Europe. Its total expenses for the [illegible] have been only $170,000.

An Afflicted Mother.

From the Times, Paw Paw, Ill.

A resident of this town who has lost two children during the past six years, by violent deaths has been utterly prostrated by the shock, and seriously sick as a result of it. One child (aged 9) was killed by a cyclone in '90 while at school; another, three years later was run over by a Burlington R. R. train. That griefs and misfortunes may so prey on the mind as to lead to serious physical disorders has been well demonstrated in this case. As a result of them, her health was shattered and she has been a constant sufferer since 1890. Her principal trouble has been neuralgia of the stomach which was very painful, and exhibited all the symptoms of ordinary neuralgia, nervousness and indigestion. Physicians did her no good whatever. She was discouraged and abandoned all hope of getting well. Finally, however, a certain well known pill was recommended (Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People).

She supplied herself with a quantity of them and had not taken them two weeks when she noticed a marked improvement in her condition. She continued taking the pills until seven or eight boxes had been consumed and she considered herself entirely cured. She can now eat all kinds of food, which is something she has not been able to do for years. She is not troubled in the least with nervousness as she was during the time of her stomach troubles.

A Constant Sufferer.

She is now well and all because of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People a complete cure has been made.

If any one would like to hear more of the details of her suffering and relief gained by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People they may be obtained probably, by writing the lady direct. She is one of our well known residents, Mrs. Ellen A. Oderkirk, Paw Paw, Ill.

WHAT "BOB TAYLOR," . . . . . GOV. OF TENN., SAYS:

Marble City Drug Mfg. Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of recent date, will say that you are correctly informed; I did receive great benefits from "Dr. Frank's Cough Cure." It stopped the most severe cough I have had for years, and cured my cold. I consider it the best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used.

Yours truly, ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., or sent direct.

Corn

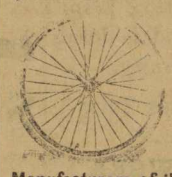
responds readily to proper fertilization

Larger crops, fuller ears and larger grain are sure to result from a liberal use of fertilizers containing at least 7% actual

Potash

Our books are free to farmers.

GERMAN KALI WORKS,
93 Nassau St., New York.



WHEELMEN,

While the weather is such you cannot ride, send your wheel to a bicycle repairer to be overhauled. State when you want it and it will be delivered to you on time.

Manufacturers of the . . .
"BIRMINGHAM"—$40.00.
Catalogue Free.

The Loosley Cycle Company,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
We keep a full line of Electrical Supplies.

FENCING For Poultry, half cost of Netting. Also farm, yard, cemetery fences. Freight paid. Catalogue free.
K. L. SHELLABERGER, 48 F. St., Atlanta, Ga.

RODS for tracing or locating Gold or Silver Ore, lost or buried treasures. M. D. Fowler, Box 337, Southington, Conn

---

Am. N. U. No. 6. 1898.

AN

Odd-and-End Sale of

Odds and Ends

—at—

Odds'-and-Ends' Prices.

MAIL ORDERS WITH CASH PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

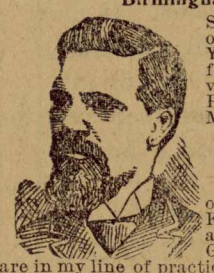
J. BLACH & SONS,

One Price Cash Clothiers,

1912-1914 First Ave.
Birmingham, Ala.
311 N. College St., Nashville, Tenn.

DR. O. T. DOZIER.

(The Renowned Southern Specialist.)
Birmingham, Ala.



Successfully treats, at office or BY MAIL AT YOUR OWN HOME, all forms of Chronic, Nervous, Blood, Skin and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

CURES . . .
GUARANTEED.

All Chronic Diseases of Lungs, Liver, Heart, Kidneys, Bladder, and all diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs are in my line of practice. Diseases peculiar to women, and all venereal diseases of either sex, positively cured by mild and safe remedies. Impediments to marriage, as Stricture, Varicocele, Impotency, Emissions and all evil results of self-abuse or excessive indulgence, quickly and permanently cured. I guarantee satisfaction in every case I treat. My valuable "Book for Men Only," and Symptom Blank for men or women will be sent free in plain, sealed envelope to all who apply. Consultation free, whether in person or by letter.

A FEW EXTRACTS FROM PRESS ENDORSEMENTS.

(Masonic Guide.)
Dr. Dozier can be relied upon to treat diseases in the most successful manner.

(People's Weekly Tribune.)
As a specialist Dr. Dozier is unexcelled by any living physician. * * He is a high-toned, cultured, Christian gentleman, strictly honest in all his dealings and financially responsible for all his contracts.

(Sumter Sun,)
Dr Dozier is the leading specialist in Alabama, and is thoroughly reliable.

(Alabama Christian Advocate.)
His (Dr. Dozier's) professional standing is unimpeachable and his character as a gentleman and citizen is above reproach.

Address
DR. O. T. DOZIER,
Lock Box 112, Birmingham. Ala.

FOR 14 CENTS

We wish to gain 150,000 new customers, and hence offer

1 Pkg.	15 Day Radish,	10c
1 Pkg.	Early Spring Turnip,	10c
1 "	Earliest Red Beet,	10c
1 "	Bismarck Cucumber,	10c
1 "	Queen Victoria Lettuce,	15c
1 "	Klondyke Melon.	15c
1 "	Jumbo Giant Onion,	15c
3 "	Brilliant Flower Seeds,	15c

Worth $1.00, for 14 cents.

Above 10 pkgs. worth $1.00, we will mail you free, together with our great Plant and Seed Catalogue upon receipt of this notice and 14c. postage. We invite your trade and know when you once try Salzer's seeds you will never get along without them. Potatoes at $1.50 a Bbl. Catalog alone 5c. No. AC 9

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

RHEUMATISM

CURED WITHOUT MEDICINE.

Best endorsed remedy on earth. Simple, effective, cheap. Send for particulars and proofs.
W. R. JOHNSTON & CO., Columbia Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

OPIUM, MORPHINE, WHISKEY, COcaine, Tobacco and Snuff-Dipping Habits permanently cured by HARMLESS HOME TREATMENT. My book, containing full information, mailed free. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Room 4 Isabella Building, Chicago, Ill.

Ladies Wanted.

TO TRAVEL for old established house. Permanent position. $40 per month and all expenses P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 288 Locust St., Philadelphia.

POTATOES $1.50 a Bbl.

Largest Seed POTATO growers in America. The "Rural New-Yorker" gives Salzer's Early Wisconsin a yield of 726 bushels per acre. Prices dirt cheap. Our great Seed Book, 11 Farm Seed Samples, worth $10 to get a start, for 10c. postage. JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LaCrosse, Wis.

GERSTLE'S Female Panacea

Cures All Diseases of Women.

MANY women are under the impression that the diseases peculiar to their sex are natural and incurable because so many suffer constantly from them. This is a mistake. Few women are so badly diseased that they cannot be cured. It is true, that had they taken a remedy that was efficient when the first symptoms of disease appeared, a more rapid cure would have been the result. No woman should neglect herself. When the monthly period becomes too frequent, painful, profuse, obstructed, or irregular in any way, or if she suffers from falling of the womb, whites, or any other female trouble, she should at once resort to the use of

Gerstle's Female Panacea

TRADE (G. F. P.) MARK.

Which is absolutely the best female remedy ever offered her. Even if she has been negligent and allowed disease to fasten itself upon her she should not despair of being cured. This medicine is a purely vegetable tonic, containing those ingredients intended by nature as a remedy for suffering women. It matters not if other remedies have been tried and proven failures—Gerstle's Female Panacea will not fail. If there is any tendency to costiveness, indigestion or biliousness, move the bowels gently with a few mild doses of St. Joseph's Liver Regulator. If your druggist does not keep these medicines write us and we will send them to you, all charges paid, upon receipt of price. Panacea, $1.00 per Bottle. Liver Regulator, 25c per Package.

L. GERSTLE & CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THE WEEKLY NEWS,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

MONTEVALLO PUBLISHING COMPANY,

PUBLISHERS.

BURGESS LITTLE, - EDITOR.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Feb. 10, '98.

John Gafford, the murderer of Francis Bartow Lloyd, near Greenville, Ala., last August, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree and will suffer the death penalty.

REAL ESTATE.

It is the belief of several of our citizens that good building lots will soon be in demand. If our land holders will only encourage good people to locate here by giving them inducements in prices, our town will take on a healthy growth and hold it.

BROOM FACTORY COMING.

Our merchants are a live and wide awake class of men, and if need be they will subscribe some stock toward inducing our broom factory to materialize. Watch this part of our paper next week, and see if we don't give it out as a certainty that the enterprise is coming.

WHY SHOULD WE ADVERTISE?

It is a prevalent idea among our business men that they do not need to advertise, but we hope to impress upon them in the near future that it is as indispensable as any expense connected with a good live business. We do not insist upon it, but for your own good advertise.

ALDRICH GOT PLOWMAN'S SEAT.

By a vote of 143 to 112 the house of representatives on Wednesday seated W. F. Aldrich, and the 4th Alabama district will now be represented, or perhaps misrepresented is the word, by this combination of republicans and populists. The vote was strictly a party one. All the republicans voted for Aldrich and all the democrats and populists, except one, voted for Plowman.

Mr. Plowman says he will be a candidate for re-election, and will win by a big majority.

The young men of Moutevallo feel very much gratified over Capt. Reynolds' little talk last Friday evening. He said that he had found the young men of this immediate vicinity to be trustworthy, and was glad to say that he deemed it not unsafe to allow them to attend the exercises at the chapel. We would be very glad if the young men of neighboring towns would so conduct themselves that their visits would be welcomed instead of being repulsed, as their conduct has never been commendable while here.

Dr. E. N. Lyde, a former citizen of our town, but now one of Birmingham's leading dentists, is in town aud will remain for some time. Dr. Lyde has quite a reputation for bridge work, and parties needing his services will save money by calling on him. He can be found at Drs. Givhan & Wilkinson's office. Dr. Lyde has a daughter in our school.

On Friday evening of last week a large audience greeted Mrs. R. E. L. Neil in her charming elocution and Delsarte recital in the college chapel. She is a graceful, talented little woman, and her work was good. Her voice is sweet and has much soul power. Her fort is in comic work. Every one of the selections in her speeial line took well, except, perhaps "tit for tat." The second number, a "Medley," was very fine, and deserves a more extended notice than we can give it here. The third number, "A Spanish Mother," was not very well done. "Absolution," the seventh number, is worthy of special comment, as is "Wild Zingerella," the twelfth number. Both of these fine selections were full of artistic effort and strength. It is very rare that an elocutionist can catch and hold an entire audience, but this is what Mrs. Neil did for almost the entire evening.

MAPLESVILLE.

Maplesville is very quiet, as usual.

Wheeler Foshee is at home on a visit. His many friends are glad to see him.

The farmers of this section have begun tc plow, and it looks like they mean business.

There will be preachiug at the M. E. Church next Suuday evening at 3 o'clock by Bro. Williams. Everybody come out and hear him.

Crump is no longer a railroad man, but strictly a ladys' man. Don't know what the girls will do, as they all want him. Guess he will have to be a Mormon.

The M. & O. R. R. is being pushed right along. The track is almost laid between here and Tuscaloosa. Will commence laying track towards Montgomery about the last of the week.

R. A. Bearden went to Clanton Saturday on a pleasure trip to see frfends and his best girl also, but we are sorry to say that he has been quite sick since he returned. Guess he ate too many oysters.

W. D. Lawrence is going to build a new store house, dwelling and gin house in town. We are glad to see our town beginning to 5uilb up. Several applications have been made for houses, but there is not a vacant one in town.

It was announced last Sunday night that Bro. Shep Bearden would conduct prayermeeting next Sunday night It is to be hoped he will have a large audience. The prayermeeting is improving to some extent, and is doing a lot of good in our community.

UNCLE TIGE.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

February 6: Officers and teachers present 16; scholars 154; on roll 210; collection $2.43.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J H. McMath, secretary.

February 6: Scholars present, 129; scholars absent, 59; officers and teachers present, 16; officers and teachers absent, 4; visitors, 1; total, 146. Collection, $1.22.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

R. B. EVANS,
Proprietor of the only first class
COLORED
BARBER SHOP
IN THE CITY.
☞ Shop east end of town.
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go
☞ To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

Turkey Tracks

☞ Are numerous in the bottoms but are seldom found in the uplands. MORGAN BROS. have sold enough SHOES in the past few weeks to cover up every turkey track in the State, with a few coon tracks thrown in for the trouble.

WAGON TRACKS.

☞ These are also numerous. Follow any of them and you will haul up at MORGAN BROS., who sell anything that can be used by men, women or children. New goods and low prices, with genial, clever and courteous clerks to deal with.

HIGHEST QUALITY Photographs. LOWEST PRICES.
CABINETS, $1 A DOZEN.
VIEWS, 10x12, 50c. Each.
☞ These prices in force until Febuary 15th. ☜
SATISFACTION OR NO PAY.
VANDEMEER BROS.
☞ TENT OPPOSITE REYNOLDS' STORE.
MONTEVALLO, - - - - - - ALA.

JOB PRINTING.
LETTER-HEADS,
NOTE-HEADS,
BILL-HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,
Done in first-class style on short notice, at the
NEWS : OFFICE.

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c. 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.
THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.
In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skillful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.
RIPANS TABULES
A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.
Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chemical Company, and patients are invited to write for special instructions in peculiar cases. Their letters will receive such attention as they require, free of charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the house, and when you travel take some with you. They are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.
Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

TO CONSUMERS - - - -
THE ARTESIAN EXPORT BEER
Manufactured by the Montgomery, Ala., Brewing Co., has no superior in the world, and this assertion is verified by all persons competent to judge who have tried it. If you have not tasted it GIVE IT A TRIAL, and you will THANK us for telling you about it. The marvellous purity and adaptability of the WATER used in its manufacture contribute to its superior FLAVOR and wholesomeness, which gained for it the GOLD MEDAL at PARIS and the HIGHEST AWARDS WHEREEVER ELSE EXHIBITED.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY.
TRADE MARK.
Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine, now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.
For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.
Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be had of druggists.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

Baptist.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

Methodist—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M.
F. F. Crowe, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. Monroe, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. Lyman, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

Buy your Valentines from Crowe.

Go to Dr. Crowe to get your valentines.

P. P. Pritchett, of Blocton, was in town Monday.

The editor spent last Sunday with his parents at Blocton.

George Monroe, of Aldrich, was in town on Saturday last.

Miss Welch, of Calera, was in the city for a few days last week.

The circus will be here Saturday, and the small boy will be happy.

W. D. Lanier, of Blocton, was in Montevallo Saturday on business.

A big lot of fresh garden seed just received. F. F. Crowe.

Mrs. D. B. McMath visited friends and relatives at Columbiana Monday.

Attorney E. S. Lyman visited Columbiana Monday on legal business.

Messrs. Clifton Newton and Jake Vandemeer made a business trip to Brierfield to-day.

Do not overlook St. Valentine's day. Go to Crowe's and Rogan's to be reminded of it.

"Major" Strong, our ex-postmaster, is making his debut in the carpenter's profession.

H. C. & W. B. Reynolds will soon have their handsome new brick store in course of erection.

Messrs. McKibbon and Moreland will soon begin to manufacture "Montevallo wagons."

You can get more fresh garden seed for less money at F. F. Crowe's than any where else in town.

Miss Ethel McMath will soon be a star in the musical world. She aspires to master the mandolin.

The many friends of Miss Daisy Canterberry will be glad to learn that she has entered the Industrial school again.

Miss Sadie Lenoir, of Selma, daughter of the popular drummer, Chas. Lenoir, visited Mrs. E. S. Lyman last week.

The Southern Railway Company will beautify their station grounds here by laying off and planting a flower garden.

Judge J. M. Reynolds is having his fence repaired, which will add greatly to the appearance of his already beautiful lot.

Subscribe for the News.

Rev. F. M. Wood, of Jemison, was in town Monday, enroute from Blocton, where he is pastor of the First Baptist church.

It is rumored that Misses Margaret McArdle and Bertie Allen will receive special diplomas in the Normal course this session.

F. W. Rogan has a whistling peanut roaster. Stop and hear it, and you will at once have a desire to invest a nickle for a trial order.

Miss Sophia Fitts, assistant to Miss Kennedy, of the Industrial school, will soon have a large standard dictionary added to her teaching equipments.

J. E. Berkstressen, the popular agent of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co., is in the city cooperating with the resident agent, Burgess Little.

Vandemeer Bros., photographers, are turning out some fine pictures. This is their last week here, so if you want a good picture of yourself or family, come at once.

C. C. Vandegrift is doing some repairing around his old store, making it look new, for the arrival of Mr. Crabb, of Dadeville, who will soon open a nice line of ladies' dress goods.

E. N. Lyde, D. D. S., of Birmingham, will be in Montevallo for some time. Parties wishing dental work will find him at the office of Drs. Givhan & Wilkinson. All work at the lowest prices.

Messrs. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds have completed an excavation for a new brick block, using the earth to build up the two streets intersecting there. The prospect is that a great deal of building will be done here this spring.

FOR SALE CHEAP.

The Montevallo grist-mill and wool-carder; in connection about 5 acres of land and two small dwellings; large water power. Right in town. Apply to P. O. Box 16, Montevallo, Ala.

AN ACT OF HEROISM.

On last Friday evening, just before the entertainment at the chapel began, one of the large lamps was in the act of exploding. Mr. Sam Farrington, who was door keeper, ascended a step ladder and seized the burning lamp and hurled it out of a window, to a safe distance from the chapel, thereby preventing what might have resulted in a fearful panic, and, probably, the loss of, or great damage to, the school building. This heroic act of Mr. Farrington's was the topic for Saturday's conversation.

Walter Sparks, a mining engineer for the T. C., I. & R. R. Co. at Blocton, is minus a horse and buggy, and was in Montevallo Monday looking for John Reindel, to whom he hired the rig. Mr. Sparks told a News man Monday that Reindel hired the horse and buggy the first of last week to go to Tuscaloosa, promising to return in three days, but up to Monday had failed to do so. Reindel is a white barber, and formerly lived in Birmingham. It is said he was seen at Gurnee with the turnout several days ago, and that he was in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Sparks went up to Birmingham Monday evening on the Southern.

Milk for Sale.

Sweet milk, 10 cents per quart, butter milk, 10 cents per gallon, at Mrs. D. W. Shivers'.

Dr. F. F. Crowe has just received a large assortment of St. Valentine pictures. We expect the girls will recognize their sweetheart in the comic department.

Send your friends a Valentine. You can get them at Crowe's.

RIBBONS.

Just Received--

Th LARGEST and LOVELIEST line of MOIRE and SATIN RIBBONS ever seen in Montevallo. All shades. All numbers. ☞ Especially beautiful Sash Ribbons.

MORGAN BROS.,
Montevallo, Ala.

All toilet articles and choicest perfumery, F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want cheap building lots call on C. C. Vandegrift.

Fine chinaware left from X'mas stock at reduced prices. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Fair as a poet's dream, beautiful as the girls of Montevallo, and gorgeous as a dying sunset are the myriad-hued ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

C. C. Vandegrift keeps Imogene coal on hand and can deliver it on short notice.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton'smarket, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

Subscribers to the News can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the News.

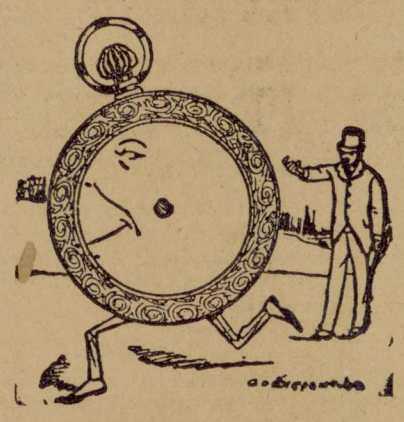
For Sale, Very Cheap.

I will sell, at a very low price, a two-horse wagon, in good fix; just overhauled and repaired.

J. D. MORELAND.

DR. G. W. SHACKELFORD,
DENTIST,
ATLANTA, - - - GA.

"MY WATCHES RUN."



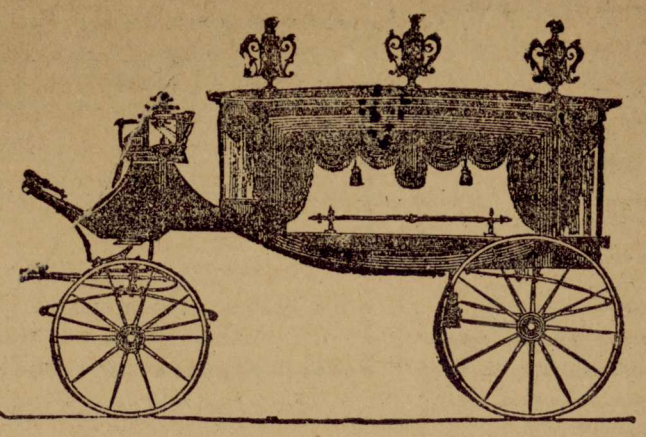
Fine WATCHES

Carefully Repaired and Adjusted. All Work Guaranteed First-class.

WORK SENT BY MAIL

Promptly attended to.

J. W. MARTIN,
Montevallo. - - - Ala.



I. D. HIX,
The People's Undertaker.

COFFINS AND CASKETS, all styles, FROM $5 UP.
ALDRICH, ALA.

EVERYTHING, FROM A PIN
——TO AN—— Elephant
——AT——
R. C. Parker's
BRIERFIELD, : : ALA.

SHELBY COUNTY BANK,
Montevallo, Alabama.

Transacts a General Banking and Exchange Business

Collections Promptly Made and Remitted.
Make Your Notes Payable at this Bank.

Get Fixed and Stay Fixed . .
Have a Practical Workman Do Your Work.
D. J. MORELAND
Can Repair Anything from a Bicycle to a Steam Engine. . .
He Does all Kinds of Wood Work.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Don't forget that D. J. Moreland is the man. His shop is back of the bank. Try him. Low prices, good work.

IF YOU ARE NOT A SUBSCRIBER
SEND IN YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS, ALONG WITH THE DOLLAR, AND
THE NEWS
WILL BE SENT YOU EVERY WEEK FOR
ONE YEAR,
Kroell can supply anything.

Mrs. M. B. Ford, Ruddell's, Ill., suffered for eight years from dyspepsia and chronic constipation and was finally cured by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for all stomach and liver troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

J. A. Perkins, of Antiquity, O., was for thirty years needlessly tortured by physicians for the cure of eczema. He was quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the famous healing salve for piles and skin diseases. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Mrs. Mary Bird, Harrisburg, Pa. says. "My child is worth millions to me yet I would have lost her by croup had I not invested twentyfive cents in a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure. "It cures coughs, and all throat and lung troubles. F. F. Crowe & Co.

If you want to buy cheap goods, call on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

New York claims to be growing healthier. The death rate has decreased six and a half per cent. since 1891.

A Kansas City woman who speaks feelingly on the subject says that the heaviest work any woman ever undertook was light housekeeping.

There appears to the New York Commercial Advertiser "to be no reason for the assertion that the Cuban insurgents have violated the rules of war in the reported execution of Colonel Ruiz. That officer of the enemy was given every opportunity to avoid a fate upon which he rushed with blind foolhardiness. His correspondence with his Cuban friend, Colonel Aranguren, whose reported execution is now denied, carried to him exact knowledge of the general order condemning to death all emissaries bearing the proposal to accept autonomy. When Ruiz persisted, his friend sent back to him the order of General Rodriguez, 'If he offers autonomy, do your duty,' accompanied by the warning that if the proposed interview was confined to a friendly chat, or to the independence of Cuba, all would be well; but 'if not, for God's sake do not come.' Still Ruiz persisted, and when he met his friend and pronounced the fatal word 'autonomy,' he condemned himself to death. There was no way to evade his execution, else the discipline of the entire Cuban army would have been destroyed."

However Mr. John Fox, Jr., may seem to maintain that Kentucky—barring some counties in the mountains—is very much like other civilized districts, with differences in favor of Kentucky, things do happen down there that surprise persons who are not centaurs or lineal descendants of Daniel Boone, writes E. S. Martin, in Harper's Weekly. The ardor with which eminent Kentuckians enter into disputes is always somewhat astonishing to effete Americans in other States. Where else could have developed such a difference as lately obtained as to which of two Kentucky ladies should christen the battleship Kentucky? It was settled finally, but not until the din of it had penetrated the extreme confines of the Union. How painful it all was; Miss Richardson claiming, under a patent from Secretary Herbert; that gentleman's embarrassed disclaimer; and Major Baruk Thomas's lamentation over the loss of a quart of Dan Swiggert 1855 whisky, consecrated by him to patriotic uses, and believed to have been absorbed by the Cleveland administration! Eheu! Alas! Why has Kentucky no Hans Breitmann to put its epics into verse?

Within the last few years the putting up of canned goods has become one of the most important industries of the United States. Scattered throughout this country at the present time there are not less than 2000 canneries, representing the enormous capital of $75,000,000. The industry is divided into four main branches. First comes the canning of food preparations, such as meats, cereals, soups and the like, in which branch some 5000 persons are employed and capital amounting to $7,000,000 is represented. Next comes the canning of fruits and vegetables. In this important branch of the industry not less than 60,000 persons are employed, while the capital represented amounts to $30,000,000. This branch of the industry is carried on mainly in Maryland and New York. Still another branch is concerned with the canning of preserves and pickles. In this branch of the industry several thousand persons are employed. As to the capital represented, it closely approximates $25,000,000. Last comes the canning of oysters, salmon and other kinds of fish, which employs some 15,000 persons, and represents a capital of $13,000,000. The hardships occasioned by the late war between the States greatly stimulated the canning industry in this country, but without the least interruption since that time the industry has steadily grown into its present extraordinary proportions.

CURRENT EVENTS IN OUR OWN STATE.

ANNUAL SUMMARY FOR 1897 OF THE CLIMATIC AND CROP SERVICE OF THE WEATHER BUREAU.

Deplorable Accident in Which a Teacher Accidentally Kills a Pupil—Alabama's Coal Output for the Year 1897—Shipments of Cattle from the State Has Been Very Heavy—An Ex-Tax Collector Short in His Accounts.

STATE'S CLIMATIC CONDITIONS

During the Year 1897 as Compiled by the United States Weather Bureau.

The United States department of agriculture has just issued an annual summary for 1897 for the Alabama section of the climatic and crop service of the weather bureau.

The publicatien is authorized by the secretary of agriculture under the direction of Willis L. Moore, chief of weather bureau, and is compiled by Frank P. Chaffee, section director, stationed at Montgomery.

The following general climatic summary for the year 1897 for the state of Alabama will prove of interest to every class of citizens, who are subject to climatic influences :

The climatic condition in Alabama during the year 1897 were marked by a wet and backward spring and unseasonably cool and wet spell during the greater part of August and a generally dry and late fall. The late spring was detrimental to cotton, which also received a decided set back by the deficiency in warmth and excess of moisture at its most critical stage in August, but the late fall matured a large portion of the crop, which in the middle of October was not at all promising. The monthly rainfall for March was heavier in many portions of the state than for any March of which the weather bureau has a record, causing almost floods in the larger rivers and submerging lowlands, while during the fall months the deficiency in moisture caused such low rivers that navigation was suspended in the Alabama rivers for several weeks and many small streams and wells were dry. The rainfall for the year was partial to the northwestern and southwestern counties and was least in central portions of the state.

There was but one real severe freeze during the year, which occurred during the last few days of January, and it was not so severe as to seriously damage fruit trees. The month of June was marked by a number of destructive wind storms, which, while causing considerable damage to crops and property in a number of places, were mostly of a local nature, and fortunately caused no loss of life.

Temperature—Average for northern section, 62.4; for southern, 66.1; for state, 64.2, which is 1.2 degrees more than the yearly normal, but 1.4 degrees less than the average for 1896; highest, 105, at Hamilton, June 27th, Pine Apple, June 29th, Scottsboro, July 2d and Decatur, July 3d; lowest, 7 below zero at Valley Head on January 28th; annual range for entire state, 112 degrees; the greatest yearly average was 68.3 at Citronelle and the least 60.4, at Madison.

Precipitation (in inches and hundredths)—Average for northern section, 47.74; for southern, 47.92; for state, 47.83, which is 1.80 less than the yearly normal, but 3.58 more than the average for 1896; greatest yearly, 63.18 at Mobile; least, 26.93 at Clanton; greatest monthly, 20.83 at Newburg in March; least, none at a number of stations in September and at a few in October.

Weather—Average number of rainy days, 89; clear, 171, indicating more than the average amount of sunshine; partly cloudy, 76; cloudy, 118.

Wind—Prevailing direction, north; highest hourly velocity, 54 miles from northwest at Montgomery, June 19th; total yearly movement, Montgomery, 57.207 miles; Mobile, 64.954; Pensacola, Fla., 84.165; average hourly velocity, 6.6 miles at Montgomery and 7.4 at Mobile.

Frost—Average date of last killing in spring: Northern section, April 4th; southern section, March 4th. Average date of first killing in autumn: Northern section, November 6th; southern section, November 25th.

Long Distance Telephones to be Placed.

W. S. Ford, of Boston, chief engineer of the American Bell Telephone Company, and W. T. Gentry, assistant superintendent of the Southern Bell Telephone Company of Atlanta, are in Birmingham arranging for making extensive improvements in Birmingham's telephone service. The Bell Company has recently purchased the two-story brick building on Second avenue, next to the postoffice. It will be at once remodelled and fitted up for a telephone office. A switch board that will cost more than $20,000 will be put in, and before very many months long-distance telephone lines will connect Birmingham with Atlanta, Nashville, Montgomery and other cities.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Ex-Congressman Cobb is a candidate for attorney-general.

The Mobile Register has passed its seventy-eighth anniversary.

Eighty per cent of the Lauderdale county taxes is paid by Florence.

Galem, alias "Pig" Horton, was shot and instantly killed by Lige Hall at Huntsville Friday night.

Marshall county populists will hold a convention at Guntersville March 12 to select candidates to make the race for county offices.

The new town of Brock, in Coffee county, is coming along handsomely. A central school is to be built, and land has been donated for churches of several denominations.

The first train over the new road reached Enterprise the past week. On to Elba is the watchword and Coffee county will soon be in railroad communication with the world.

Hon. Charles A. Towne, former member of congress from Duluth, Minn., chirman of the silver republican party, delivered an address in Birmingham Monday night.

Last week Mr. J. T. Watt sold to Mr. J. B. Mitchell, of Letohatchie, probably the largest hog that was ever raised in Greenville. Mr. Watt says the hog was only two years old and weighed 700 pounds. It was a Berkshire boar.

The grand jury at Selma reported Tuesday thirty-three true bills, making a total of ninety-two in all, and still there are several more cases to be investigated. There were fifteen homicides to be investigated by the present grand jury.

Two Mormon elders are in Selma this week, and declare their intention of establishing a Mormon church there. They are making a house-to-house canvass of the city, and when permitted, enter and discuss their doctrines. They claim to have eighteen organizations, consisting of 865 members, in the state.

Fred Nabors and the two Dempey boys, all white, aged 12, 9 and 7 years, set on fire two barns in Montgomery Friday morning, which were a total loss. They confessed also to setting on fire the Baptist church the day previous and another stable, besides other attempts at incendiarism. They say did it with coal oil, and wanted to see the fire engines run.

Preparing for the Chautauqua.

Mr. Wellington Vandiver has been elected manager of the Alabama Chautauqua and he will associate with him twenty of Talladega's best business men, who will constitute a board of control. All receipts of the Chautauqua will be retained by the citizens and devoted to the improvement and continuation of the Chautauqua. The manager will conduct it free of charge, and without compensation, except as the board of control may determine. The amount to be paid for talent will be $1,000. The program will last but fifteen days—from June 30th to July 16th. Some of the attractions the management will try to secure will be Hon. Jerry Simpson, of Kansas; James Whitcomb Riley, the Bell Ringers, the Moving Pictures, Eli Perkins, Wm. J. Bryan, John Temple Graves, Jerry Black's Picture Play, Slayton Jubilee Singers, Arion Quartette, President Geo. Hindley, Miss Hearn, Kellogg Bird Carnival and other well known attractions.

Of Interest to Confederates.

Governor Johnston is in receipt of a letter from an old federal soldier at East Beady, Pa., seeking to ascertain the names and whereabouts of the relatives of one J. D. Brown, a Confederate soldier and member of Company K, Nineteenth regiment, Alabama volunteers, who fell a victim on the battlefield at Missionary Ridge.

Teacher Accidentally Kills a Pupil.

A deplorable accident occurred at Yantley, Butler county, last week. John D. Phillips, who is teaching at that place noticed two of his scholars quarreling, and went out to quell the disturbance. He told the boys to desist and go into the house. One of them went in very readily, but the other, James Wilson, refused to go. Phillips started toward him to assert his authority as master of the school. Wilson refused and struck him twice with a base ball bat. In the meantime Phillips had picked up another bat and struck Wilson a light blow on the temple, at which he dropped to the ground and became unconscious. He never rallied, and soon after he died.

ALABAMA COAL FIELDS

In Marion and Western Counties Will be Developed.

There is no longer any doubt that the coal fields in the western part of the state in Marion county will be speedily developed and opened up to the world. Captain W. H. Spradin is now at Winfield on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroad to make the survey for a railroad from that town to some point where direct transportation can be had to the seaboard. A survey will first be made to Tuskaloosa by way of Fayette. By this route the Winfield coal can be taken to the Warrior river at Tuskaloosa, and loaded on the barges there for Mobile, or distributed throughout the southern part of the state by means of the new Mobile & Ohio extension from Tuskaloosa to Montgomery. Coal could also be shipped from Tuskaloosa down the Alabama Great Southern to New Orleans.

Three other surveys will be made from Winfield, one to Columbus, another to West Point via Vernon, and the third to Aberdeen. For a direct route to New Orleans, the route by way of West Point seems to be the most favorable. At that point it can connect with the Illinois Central.

This scheme is being carried out by the Mississippi Valley Coal and Railway company, and not by the Illinois Central or any other of the big roads, as has been stated. In this company are Henry Wellman, president of the Teutonic Savings bank of New Orleans, and several other capitalists of that city and Mississippi. The object of the company is to get a splint coal into New Orleans that can compete with the Pittsburg product. They sent a coal expert throughout the south to look up the best field of this coal, and the very best quality was found in Marion county. The bed is six by eight miles in size, the seam is from three feet to forty inches thick and is very easily mined. This company bought it all up, 18,000 acres.

Capt. W. H. Spradlin, the chief engineer, who is to make the surveys, is one of the pioneer railroad builders of this state, having had charge of the work on the South & North and other roads in Alabama. He has already sent a carload of surveying and camping implements necessary to make the survey to Winfield.

Will Participate in Democratic Primaries.

Twelve leading populists of Jefferson county have issued a call to the members of the people's party in that county to hold a meeting in Birmingham February 19, to determine whether or not they will participate in the democratic primaries. Following is the list of names signed to the call: G. W. Ellis, M. C. Ragsdale, G. U. Belcher, J. B. M'Cormack, C. P. Ward, R. M. Inzer, T. W. M'Donald, W. A. J. Reed, W. F. Lambert, W. H. Fitzpatrick, M. A. McCutcheon, Jere Fountain.

Six Million Tons.

State Mine Inspector J. D. Hillhouse has received reports from all the coal mines in the state except four on last year's output. The total so far foots up 5,800,000 tons, and Hillhouse says when all are heard from it will go to the six million ton mark. The total output of 1896, heretofore the largest in the state's history, was 5,743,697 tons. Last year's showing even breaks this big record. Alabama's coal industry was never so prosperous before as now.

Marion Nominates City Officers.

As a result of the mass meeting of citizens held in the court house last Friday afternoon to nominate municipal officers to be voted for at the coming election on the 1st day of March. Mr. E. T. Robinson received the nomination for mayor, Messrs. R. B. Wallace, S. A. Nelms, T. T. Daughdrill, James Gregory, W. H. Mason, Sr., and A. L. Pope for councilmen.

Murdered His Parents.

One of the most horrible crimes ever perpetrated in the state took place five miles north of Mulberry, in Franklin county, Arkansas, Thursday night. Sol F. Autrey, a farmer, accompanied by his family, went out to visit his aged father and mother, living neor Mulberry. Shortly after his arrival Autrey became engaged in a religious argument with the old folks. Suddenly he grasped an iron bar, killing his aged father, mother and his 10-year-old son and seriously wounded his wife and three remaining children, two of whom are not expected to live. The murderer is insane, declaring that witches were the cause of the act.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS.

Three Big English Squadrons Have Been Ordered to Be in Readiness.

A special from Shanghai says : "The North China Gazette says the British Indian, Australian and Pacific squadrons have been ordered to be ready to reinforce the fleet in the far East, thus giving the British Admiral a fleet capable of coping with "any combination opposing the British policy."

"In the meanwhile," adds the Gazette, "the British claim in Yang Tse Kiang will be supported by a strong squadron stationed at Chusan, to which place two other warships are en route. In the event of Russia hoisting her flag over the fort at Port Arthur, the British Admiral has been ordered to hoist the English flag over Chusan, and the Japanese fleet will ascend the Yang Tse Kiang so soon as the river rises.

"About 7,500 Russian artillery and cavalry and quantities of stores and munitions have arrived at Kirin, the capital of the Manchurian province of Kirin."

IS IT RETALIATION?

Sixteen Thousand Barrels of American Apples Denied Admittance by Germans.

A special from Berlin says: The Prussian minister of finance, Dr. Miguel, issued a decree the past week, which goes into effect immediately, prohibiting the importation of every kind of American fresh fruit. The decree has been sent to all the German ports and frontier stations excepting Bavaria, Saxony and Wurtemburg.

The United States embassy was not previously warned, and the United States ambassador, Mr. Andrew D. White, sent a formal letter to the foreign office inquiring upon what authority this inimical step was taken.

The United States consul at Hamburg, Dr. Hugh Pitcairn, telegraphs that 16,000 barrels of American apples have been forbidden to be unloaded and that two trains of American fruit have also been forbidden to cross the frontier at Emmerich, which, aside from Hamburg, is the principal place of entry.

BISCUIT TRUST ORGANIZED.

Over 90 Per Cent of All Big Bakeries in in the Consolidation.

All the big biscuit and cracker companies between Salt Lake City on the west, Portland, Me., on the east, St. Paul in the north and New Orleans on the south, are now under one management, under the name of the National Biscuit Company. It is capitalized at $25,000,000 of preferred and $30,000,000 of common stock.

Incorporation papers were taken out in New Jersey. The new company has purchased for cash all the assets, bills receivable and operating plants of all the bakeries which were controlled by the American Biscuit and Manufacturing Company, United States Baking Company and New York Biscuit Company.

United States Car Plant Sold.

The properties of the United States Car Company, comprising the plants in Anniston and Decatur, Ala., saw mills and timber lands in Etowah, Calhoun and Cherokee counties, were sold Thursday. The sale was made by J. A. W. Smith, special master, and the property was bought by Richard Reid Rogers, of New York, representing the reorganization committee, for $60,000. The property is now being operated by the Illinois Car and Equipment Company, a corporation formed by the reorganization committee.

Klondike Speculators.

The steamer Queen sailed from Tacoma Friday for Skaguay and Dyea. She carries northward 1,000 passengers, 1,300 tons of freight, 200 dogs, 30 horses and a score of carcasses of dressed cattle, hogs and sheep. The women wore short skirts, knickerbockers and other snug costumes. Nearly all the passengers on the Queen intend to ultimately go to the interior of Alaska. The passengers are from every quarter of the globe.

Reindeer Start for America.

A cablegram received at the war department Friday from Dr. Jackson, at Altena, Norway, announced that the steamship Manitoban, chartered by the United States government, had just sailed from that port for New York with 530 reindeer and 87 Lapp men and women to care for the animals and drive them on the government relief expedition when they arrive in Alaska.

May Exclude American Horses.

Baron Von Hammedstein-Loxten, the German minister of agriculture, at Friday's session of the Prussian diet, declared that American horses developed influenza after importation. He added: "If the importations increase we shall certainly be forced to adopt a suitable quarantine in order to protect ourselves."

Opposed to Sectarian Institutions.

Judge Hagner, in the equity court at Washington, has made a ruling of far-reaching importance, holding in effect, that it is unconstitutional for congress to appropriate money for sectarian institutions.

NEWS ITEMS OF THE WEEK.

Topics of the Times Chronicled in Brief Paragraphs.

GEN. GOMEZ CALLED TO NEW YORK.

A Woman and Grand-Child Burned to Death—Strike May be Ordered at New Bedford—Sheriff Martin's Trial in Progress—Other Items.

The State bank of Crawford, Neb., has failed.

The Illinois legislature favors the annexation of Hawaii.

A strike may be ordered in the New Bedford, Mass., cotton mills.

At Savannah, Ga., E. L. Patton committed suicide by taking laudanum.

The United States cruiser Montgomery has arrived at Mantanzas, Cuba.

At Hattiesburg, Miss., Mrs. Willie Ward was so badly burned that she died.

At Camilla, Ga., Kim Smith shot and instantly killed J. H. Baggs Saturday.

The insurgents have dynamited and destroyed a pontoon railroad line near San Felipe, province of Havana.

The Lake Shore and the New York Central railroads have combined, and are now under one management.

Capt. J. J. Arnold, chief of the Dallas, Tex., police department, accidentally shot and killed himself.

Joseph Smith, director of the Bureau of America Republics, died at Miami, Fla., Saturday, of heart failure.

Miss Blount, a patient in the lunatic asylum at Jackson, Miss., was found dead in a bath tub the past week.

State of the condition of the treasury: Available cash balance, $224,155,713; gold reserve, $164,566,000.

Jack Delaney's nine-year-old daughter and her grandmother were burned to death about five miles from Swainsboro, Ga.

The trial of Sheriff Martin, who figured in the slaughter of the miners in the Hazeltown, Pa., district, is now in progress.

Winter grasshoppers have appeared in great numbers on the farm of Sam Blackwell, near Wilhoite, Marshall county, Tenn.

It is asserted on high military authority that General Gomez has been called to New York by the Cuban Revolutionary Junta.

The Rhode Island Locomotive Works has filed a petition of insolvency, placing its assets at $818,000 and its liabilities at $616,700.

Will Dyer, watchman on the Vicksburg and Yazoo river packet Memphis, fell overboard from that boat near Yazoo City, Miss., and was drowned.

Commissioner of Health Reynolds, of Chicago, has accepted an invitation to be present at the National Quarantine convention at Mobile, Ala., Feb. 9.

The republicans have organized their congressional campaign committee in Washington. Representatives were chosen and work for the campaign laid out.

The corner-stone of Sam Houston college was laid at Austin, Texas, with appropriate ceremonies. The college is for the Christian education of colored youth.

The South Carolina legislature has passed an act putting telegraph and express companies under the control of the state railroad commission, just as railroads are.

Archibald McLaren, has been arrested at Cleveland, O., on the charge of appropriating to his own use $15,000 belonging to the order of Scottish Clans, of which he was treasurer.

Ethan A. Hitchcook, of Missouri, now minister to Russia, has had the title of ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Russia conferred upon him by the president.

A horrible accident occurred in King George county, Va., by which Mrs. Thadeus Sordell and a young daughter of hers were so severely burned that they died within a few hours of each other.

A secret organization, known as the American Patriotic League, has been organized in New Mexico, the object of which is to accomplish the death of the president and his cabinet by the use of dynamite.

The Mobile & Ohio railroad has ordered 1,000 new freight cars, ten new locomotives, and 10,000 tons of steel rails are said to have been contracted for for use of the Montgomery extension of that line.

President Diaz, of Mexico, says he cannot leave his country without the consent of congress, and that body not being in session, he is forced to decline the invitation of New Orleans to visit their Mardi Gras.

Fire at Wayne, W. Va., destroyed Walker's dry goods store, Bean's grocery house, Burgess' millinery store, Walker's hotel, Pritchard's Inn, Smith's hotel and several smaller buildings. Loss estimated at $600,000, with but little insurance.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

At southern trade centers, business, as reported by The Tradesman's many correspondents shows a healthy increase, with indications favorable for still greater improvement when the spring season opens.

While this is the "waiting season," the demand for iron continues good and the furnaces are well stocked with orders. While the consumption of pig iron is gaining, the production at present somewhat exceeds the demand, though not enough to cause prices to decline. The demand for finished products and car material is especially heavy.

The southern lumber market is firm, the mills are all busy and prices are advancing. An encouraging feature of the trade is the increased demand for common grades of lumber, for which there has heretofore been practically no market.

Business at the coal mines continues active and the textile mills report a good sale for their products.

Among the most prominent new industries for the week The Tradesman reports the following:

The Rose Manufacturing Co., capital, $50,000, Dallas, Tex.; brick works at Natchez, Miss., and brick and tile works at St. Augustine, Fla.; a $25,000 brewery at Louisville, Ky.; the Oak Hill Roller Flouring Mill, capital, $10,000, at Greensboro, N. C., and other flouring mills at Green Forest and Pedro, Ark., High Point, N. C., and Gibbs Tenn., glass works at Morgantown, W. Va.; the Georgetown Ice Co., capital $10,000, at Georgetown, Tex., and two ice factories at Rocky Mount, N. C. The Kellett-Chatham Machinery Co., capital, $50,000, has been chartered at Waco, Tex.; the Gilreath Coal and Iron Co., capital, $25,000, at Birmingham, Ala.: the Copper River Gold Mining and Prospecting Co., at Fort Worth, Tex., and the Alpha Mining Co., capital, $30,000, at Rockford, N. C. The Helena Box Factory, capital, $60,000, has been incorporated at Helena, Ark.; the Velasco, Box Factory, capital, $10,000, at Velasco, Tex., the Brooks Lumber Co., capital, $100,000, at Bath, S. C., and the Lexington Lumber and Manufacturing Co., capital, $20,000, at Lexington, Ky. Saw mills will be erected at Cluttsville and Jemison, Ala., and at Hale, Miss.

Crosby Surrenders.

German H. Crosby, a convicted murderer, in Chilton Co., Ala., who escaped soon after sentenced, has surrendered. The case of Crosby and the circumstances surrounding make it indeed remarkable in view of the fact that he surrendered to serve out the ten years' sentence imposed upon him by the court at its fall term, 1895, not knowing that his case had been passed upon by the supreme court. His case was reversed and remanded and set for a re-hearing.

Japan No Longer Objects.

Japan has been removed as an element in the opposition to the consummation of the annexation of the Hawaiian islands by the United States. This result has been attained by the conclusion of an agreement between our government and that of Japan, presented by Minister Toro Hoshi, which by practically settling the status of the Japanese in Hawaii, removes the only substantial difference that has existed between the two governments.

His Nerve Was a Surprise.

"Boys, string me up if you like, but remember you are hanging the steadiest man with a six-shooter that ever came out of Montana. You say it's all right to hang me, and I guess it is. I am only sorry I did not get the rest of them." These were the last words spoken by Doc Tanner when he faced his executioners near Seattle, Wash., a few days since, who was lynched for the crime of murdering two of his companions.

Southern Labor Organization.

A movement to organize "The Southern Confederacy of Labor" has been started in Atlanta, Ga., and is now so far under way that a convention probably will be held to formally launch the new organization. The plan is to call a convention of the white organizations of the South for the purpose of bringing about harmony and concert of action among them, independent of big labor unions and federations of the North.

New Railroad for Arkansas.

The White River, Lonoke & Western railroad company, with a capital stock of $350,000, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state of Arkansas. It is the intention of the promoters of the enterprise to build the road from a point near Jacksonville, in Pulaski county, to the town of Lonoke; thence in an eastern direction to Arkansas county, on the White river.

Fire in Anniston.

The handsome residence of John B. Knox, at Anniston, Ala., valued at $10,000, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday. It was insured for about one-fourth the value.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

The House—Monday.

The Teller resolution from the senate, declairing the bonds of the United States payable in either gold or silver at the option of the government, was taken up in the house today. There was a great deal of activity among the leaders of both sides before the house met in anticipation of a very exciting debate over the resolution, which those in control had decided to defeat before sundown. The members on both sides had been notified in advance and the attendance on the floor was very large. The struggle opened immediately after the journal, when Mr. Dingley of Maine, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported back the resolution with the recommendation that "it do not pass." The debate consumed the entire day, when at 5 o'clock the vote was taken, resulting in its defeat by a vote of 182 to 132. Party ranks were held intact on the vote and only three breaks occurred. Republicans cheered long and loud over their victory, and then at 5:35 the house adjourned.

The Senate.

John C. McLaurin was sworn in as senator from South Carolina to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Earle.... The bill introduced by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, providing that all pensioners now receiving less than $10 per month receive that amount after the bill's passage was reported adversely.... The agricultural appropriation bill was placed on the calendar.... Mr. Morgan presented a resolution requesting the president, if consistent with public service, to send to the senate the correspondence relating to the negotiations and exchange of ratifications upon a treaty between the United States and Great Britain relating to compensation for the seizure of British ships in Bering sea.... Mr. Foraker called up the bill providing for the purchase of the Kansas Pacific branch of the Union Pacific railroad. The bill went over.... The army appropriation bill was passed, carrying $23,143,492.... The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, with slight amendments, was passed. The bill carried $21,505,245.... The senate then went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

The House—Tuesday.

The military academy appropriation bill was reported to the house today. The anti-civil service reformers won a slight victory when Mr. Perkins, of Iowa, presented a resolution for printing the hearings of the civil service committee.... A bill was passed authorizing the secretary of the treasury to build or purchase a suitable vessel for revenue cutter service on the Yukon river, to cost not exceeding $40,000.... The senate resolution for the relief of Ex-Senator Call, of Florida, was adopted.... Then at 12:30 p. m. the house went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill which was begun on Saturday.... At 1 o'clock the debate drifted into politics.... Mr. Mahany, of New York, presented to the house a petition of 100,000 voters in opposition to the Lodge immigration bill. He made an impassioned speech against the tolerance of those who desired to close the gates to immigration, after which the house adjourned.

The Senate.

At the opening of the session of the senate today Mr. Clark rose to a point of personal privilege to defend his vote for the Nelson amendment to the Teller resolution, providing that gold and silver coins should be maintained at a parity.... The resolution of Mr. Pettigrew declaring it to be the policy of the United States not to acquire territory to defend which a navy would be required, went over until tomorrow at the request of the author.... Mr. Morgan's resolutions presented yesterday calling upon the president for correspondence and information relating to the arbitration of the British seizure claims was adopted.... The senate then, at 12:40 p. m., on motion of Mr. Davis, chairman of the foreign relations committee, went into executive session.... At 4:45 p. m. the senate adjourned.

The House—Wednesday.

At the opening of the session of the house today Mr. Grow, of Pennsylvania, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution directing the secretary of war to issue medals to 530 Pennsylvania soldiers who belonged to the command which passed through the mob at Baltimore April 13, 1861, and who received the thanks of Congress July 22, 1861. Consideration was objected to, and the resolution went over.... The army appropriation bill was sent to conference.... The house then resumed consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The bill was completed and passed, after which the house took up the fortification appropriation bill. It was arranged that the general debate should close tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Debate for the day was closed at 5 o'clock and the house adjourned.

The Senate.

In the senate today Mr. Hawley, of Connecticut, secured the adoption of a resolution directing the secretary of the interior to furnish the senate the total per capita cost of educating Indian children at certain schools; the total cost of transporting pupils to and from the schools, including the number transported; approximately what proportion of the children educated in the schools return to the blanket and camp condition, and what can be done to prevent such retrogression and continue the children in the lines of progress on which they have ente ed. .... At 12:35 p. m. the vice president laid before the senate the resolution of Mr. Pettigrew, declaring it to be opposed to the policy of the United States to acquire territory to defend which a navy would be required. On motion of Mr. Hale the senate went into executive session to consider the resolution, which was concluded at 4:20. The senate then proceeded to the consideration of open session business. The agricultural appropriation bill was called up, and after being read, the senate adjourned.

The House—Thursday.

A bill was passed in the house today appropriating $10,000 for a survey and report on the practicability of securing a 35-foot channel in the southwest pass of the Mississippi river. The house then resumed consideration of the fortifications appropriation bill. At 3 o'clock general debate closed and the bill was taken up for consideration under the five minutes rule. Mr. McClellan, of New York, offered an amendment to increase the appropriation for gun and mortar batteries from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000. It was voted down. Without completing the bill, at 5 o'clock the house adjourned.

The Senate.

A bill repealing an act granting American register to the steamers Claribel and others, was reported and passed.... Germany's order prohibiting the importation of American fruits into that empire called out a resolution from Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, calling upon the president to transmit to the senate the correspondence and other information bearing upon the matter in his possession, or in that of the state department. The resolution was agreed to.... Mr. White, of California, introduced the following resolution and asked that it lie on the table: Resolved, That of right, it belongs wholly to the people of the Hawaiian islands to establish and maintain their own form of government and domestic policy; that the United States ought in nowise to interfere therewith and that any intervention in the political affairs of those islands by any other government will be regarded as an act unfriendly to the United States. .... Mr. Cullom then called up the agricultural appropriation bill, the reading of which was concluded last evening. An amendment was offered to the effect that $20,000 be included to provide for gathering information and other data on the subject of irrigating arid western lands. The amendment was adopted and the bill carrying $3,527,202 was passed.... A bill providing for the appointment of an additional district judge for Texas was passed.... The senate then adjourned.

The House—Friday.

In the house today a bill was passed to amend the act of January 31, 1895, granting rights of way through the public domain for tramways, canals and reservoirs so as to grant those rights for cities and private corporations.... Mr. Fleming, of Georgia, asked unanimous consent to set aside next Monday for the consideration of the bill reported by the Pacific railroad committee to grant additional powers to the president in the matter of the sale of the Kansas Pacific railroad. It was objected to.... The house proceeded to the consideration of private bills. The private pension bills favorably acted upon at the session last Friday night were first considered. A desultory debate followed upon the measure.... Mr. Fleming during the consideration of one of the pension bills took advantage of the latitude allowed for debate to discuss the question of protecting the government's interests in the approaching sale of the Kansas Pacific road.... At 5 p. m. the house recessed until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

The Senate.

A bill providing for the erection of a public building at Beaumont, Tex., at a cost not to exceed $100,000, was passed.... Mr. Platt, of New York, offered a resolution which was referred to the committee on military affairs, directing the secretary of war to return to the Seventh regiment artillery (formerly the 113th New York, V. I.), the flags of the regiment.... A bill authorizing the construction of two bridges across the Choctawhatchie river, a navigable stream, in Dale county, Alabama, was passed.... Mr. Lindsay then took the floor to speak on the resolution of the Kentucky legislature asking him to resign, during which he spoke briefly in defense of his course in the senate.... At 12:35 o'clock the senate went into executive session, and at 3:40 p. m. adjourned until Monday.

The House—Saturday.

At the opening of the session of the house today a resolution was presented declaring that in the contest between Samuel Hudson and William McAleer, of Pennsylvania, for a seat in the house Mr. McAleer is entitled to the seat. Without division the report was adopted.... A bill granting to the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad Company the right to construct a branch of its railroad in the Indian Territory was passed.... A senate bill authorizing the Muscogee Coal and Railway Company to construct and operate a railway through the Indian Territory and Oklahoma was passed. .... The house then went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the fortifications appropriation bill. After several minor amendments were offered and defeated, the bill was passed, and the house adjourned until Monday.

A Good Worker.

We find the following among the resolutions passed by the white Teachers' Institute, of Montgomery county, before they adjourned Friday.

"Resolved third, That thanks be extended to Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president of the Troy Normal State College, for the invaluable services he rendered in making the institute beneficial and interesting. Time will never efface from our minds the important information which he imparted while in our midst."

Dr. Eldridge is an untiring worker in the cause of education and leaves an impress on the minds of teachers wherever he may be called. He is doing a great work for the cause in the state and more especially for the institution over which he presides.—Citizen-Journal, Troy, Ala.

Up-to-Date Jokes and Witticisms From the Comic Papers.

HE PROPOSED.

He—I leave here to-morrow. How long shall you remain, Miss Grey?

She—That depends upon you.

LABOR THROWN AWAY.

Waggles—I tell you, I talked to him like a father.

Wiggles—It won't do any good, if he listened to you like a son.

EXPRESSIVE.

Mother—And what did the professor say of our daughter's voice?

Father—He—he says she sings as Patti don't.

AS THEY PASS.

Mabel—There's that Jones girl. Don't you bow to her?

Maud—I never even look at her—what an atrocious gown she's wearing.

AND THE DANCE WENT ON.

Mr. Dashing (of Chicago)—Are you fond of codfish balls, Miss Olive?

Miss Olive (of St. Louis)—I don't believe I ever attended one.

TOO EASILY SATISFIED.

He—If I could even kiss you once a week I would be perfectly happy.

She—Once a week? You have been trifling with me, sir.

AND THEN THEY MADE UP.

"Men's promises," the young wife said between sobs, "are like pie crust——"

"That's tough," said the young husband, and then she got angry enough to cry.

INDICATIONS.

The Bookkeeper (confidentially)—The boss is contemplating the discharge of somebody.

The Typewriter—I noticed that there was fire in his eye.

FEELS SO, TOO.

Patience—What is the cheapest-looking thing you ever saw about a bargain counter?

Patrice—A husband waiting for his wife.

HOME REMEDIES.

"When my wife gets a cold I can cure it in a day."

"What do you give her?"

"Nothing; I simply say that if she is well by night I will take her to the theatre."

AFTER THE EVICTION.

"In one respect at least," said Eve, "you have been an exceptional husband."

"How is that?" asked Adam.

"Never since our marriage," she replied, "have you once pronounced my biscuits inferior to those your mother manufactured."

NARROW ESCAPE.

Perry Patettic—"I hear you was caught takin' a bath, more or less."

Wayworn Watson—"Wot could I do? A woman throwed a whole bucket of soapsuds on me, an' you didn't think I was goin' to let it stay on an' soak into me system, did ye?"

THE CLOUD ON HER FACE.

"Anabel!" he exclaimed rapturously.

A cloud flitted across the face of the beautiful typewriter.

For she had her head out of the window.

And his office, you understand, was in the forty-eighth story.

Don't Eat Biscuits

When You Can Get Good Bread.

BEST'S BAKERY

BAKES FRESH BREAD EVERY DAY.

BEST

Bakes the BEST Bread!

ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Will Bake Anything to Order!

Cakes, Buns and Rolls Always on Hand!

Don't Forget Best's Bakery!

Patronize Home Industry.

DO YOU EAT?

If So, You Need Good Meat.

You Will Find Everything You Need at the City Market.

We buy Country Produce in Connection with our Restaurant. Meals at all hours.

NEWTON, NOLEN & CO.

P. B. RANDALL, Pres., Calera, Ala. C. W. CARY, Mg'r. Montevallo, Ala. W. E. BRINKERHOFF, Sec. & Treas. Dogwood, Ala.

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL MINING CO.,

Miners and shippers of the CELEBRATED MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL, DOGWOOD, ALA. We have the written report of JOSEPH SQUIRE, STATE GEOLOGIST, that we have the MONTEVALLO COAL SEAM in the "MONTEVALLO COAL BASIN." Mr. Squire has had forty years or more experience in testing, locating and making maps of the Alabama Coal Fields, and his reports are the highest authority. We are manufacturer's agents for which is 99.65 per cent. pure, and will make mortar almost equal to cement. We guarantee the COAL and LIME to be the highest grade.

SHELBY, ALA., LIME,

Yours truly,

MONTEVALLO LUMP COAL CO.

Do You Want Bricks?

WELL, WE MAKE THEM.

BANKS BROS.'

Hand-Made Bricks are the Best on the Market

We do all kinds of Brick Work and always keep .....

LIME, CEMENT AND SAND

At Lowest Possible Prices.

Examine our Work and Prices and you Will be Convinced.

BANKS BROS.

OWNERS OF MONTEVALLO BRICK YARD,

Montevallo, Alabama.

Brierfield -:- Normal -:- College AND COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE!

Is Not a University, Nor is it the Best School in the State.

It is simply a new institution designed to meet the demands of aspiring young people by giving them thorough training, in all the ordinary courses, cheaper than other schools of like grade.

It is thoroughly and permanently organized with a Board of Control composed of men of affairs, and a splendid corps of trained teachers.

It earnestly solicits the patronage of those desiring thorough work, and desires to be judged strictly by its results.

It affords many superior advantages, some of which are as follows:

HEALTHY LOCATION.

SPLENDID BUILDING.

GOOD SOCIAL ADVANTAGES.

FIVE INSTRUCTORS.

VERY REASONABLE TERMS

For further information, address

J. M. COLLIER, President,

or W. A. GIBBON, Vice President.

A $2,000 Word!

This paper announces, in connection with The Atlanta Weekly Constitutution, a new offer in which everyone may have a chance to supply the missing word in this sentence:

"AT FIRST IT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE '_____' AS A GOOD OMEN."

The sentence is taken from a well-known publication. The word is a familiar one, and it may readily suggest itself.

Contest Began Jan. 1--Ends March 1, '98

TO ENTER THIS CONTEST SUBSCRIBE FOR

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE NEWS

AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $1.50

In connection with this Clubbing Rate, we will, if you send your guess with the subscription price, forward all for you and thus

GIVE YOU A CHANCE AT THE MISSING WORD FUND

At the end of period covered by this contest The Constitution will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest. The plan is simple and these contests have become so popular and have been conducted with such absolute fairness to all that they have been widely copied after, but none have become equal to The Constitution's great original series.

IN ONE YEAR THE CONSTITUTION HAS PAID OUT

NEARLY $6,000 IN CASH

in these missing word contests. It sets aside 10 per cent of the subscription fund received from subscribers guessing at the missing word, and this fund is given to the successful guesser or guessers in the contest. The fund is distributed with absolute fairness, and the fact that The Weekly Constitution has MORE THAN 150,000 subscribers and that it puts aside 10 per cent from all guessers' subscriptions for this distribution fund shows that the amount to be divided at each interval is large enough to be worth striving for. It is not a catch-penny or a deceitful proposition, but the plan is open and simple and IS ADMITTED to the mails by the Post Office Department as a meritorious contest.

☞ The book from which the sentence is taken is deposited in a safety vault, under seal, and will be opened at the close of the contest before a competent committee, which makes the award after an examination of the subscription books.

In one of these contests there was only one successful guesser, who received more than $1,500; and in addition to this in one year $5,000 has been distributed among successful guessers.

Remember that, whether the missing word is supplied or not, it costs nothing to guess, and even though not successful, the guesser gets

THE GREATEST OF ALL WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

Keep that in view and send your guess with your clubbing subscription for your home paper and The Weekly Constitution.

Should you already be a subscriber to your home paper, remit $1 to this paper for The Weekly Constitution for one year, and it will be forwarded to The Constitution with your guess.

The Constitution guarantees that the amount of the award will not be less than $500 in cash, and it may be as much as $2,000.

THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION IS THE GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD. It is a TWELVE-PAGE, SEVEN-COLUMNS-TO-THE-PAGE NEWSPAPER, containing EIGHTY-FOUR COLUMNS every week. It has no equal as a Weekly Newspaper in America; its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick of the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE it prints more matter than is ordinarily found in any magazine in the country.

AS AN EDUCATOR it is a schoolhouse in itself; a year's reading of The Constitution is a liberal education.

ITS SPECIAL FEATURES commend it especially to every farm home in America.

ITS FARM AND FARMERS' DEPARTMENTS, Its Woman's Department and Its Children's Department are all under able direction, and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. The Constitution is Democratic in Politics, and it is a hearty advocate of the principles enunciated in the National Platform of the Party.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

Ten Per Cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for this period then the fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000.

THE CONSTITUTION PUTS 10 PER CENT of the amount it receives for subscriptions from parties entering the Missing Word Contest into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. If only one contestant gets the right word, he or she will be given the entire fund. If more than one supplies the missing word, the same will be proportionately divided among the successful guessers.

THE CONDITION PRECEDENT FOR SENDING A GUESS at the Missing Word, is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution. If sent through the paper publishing this advertisement in acceptance of our clubbing offer, the guess at the missing word will be forwarded. The guess must be sent with the subscription. Should one person send more than one answer, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct answer. There will be no capital prize—everyone will get a first prize. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

IN MAKING YOUR ANSWER you need not write the sentence out in full—just say the Missing Word for the above particular period (designating it) is "....."

.....ADDRESS ALL CLUBBING ORDERS TO.....

THE NEWS,

Montevallo, Alabama.

LANIER BROOM MFG. CO.

Blocton, Ala.

—Manufacturers of all kinds of—

BROOMS

—AND—

BRUSHES.

Hearth and Whisk Brooms a Specialty.

Write for Prices.

Lanier Broom M'f'g. Co.,

P. O. Box 353, - BLOCTON, ALA.

Do You Know

RAMON'S LIVER PILLS

and Tonic Pellets Cure

All forms of disease caused by a Sluggish Liver and Biliousness?

The Pink Pill Cleanses

The Tonic Pellet Invigorates

The little "Doctor's Book" tells all about it and a week's Treatment free proves every word true. Complete Treatment 25 cents.

Brown Mf'g. Co., N. Y. & Greeneville, Tenn.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

And other specialties for Gentlemen, Ladies, Boys and Misses are the Best in the World.

See descriptive advertisement which will appear in this paper.

Take no Substitute, but insist on having W. L. DOUGLAS' SHOES, with name and price stamped on bottom. Sold by

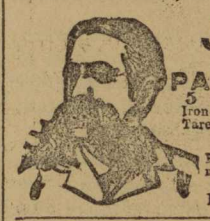
---



JONES OF BINGHAMTON

HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

This would be a comparatively happy world if everybody knew the virtues of SMITH'S BILE BEANS as a family medicine, and acted upon that knowledge. One half the misery of the world comes from ailments which arise from a bad stomach or a bad liver. Chiefest among these are dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache and Neuralgia.

BILE BEANS will cure all of these, besides all miasmatic diseases. Dose: One Bean.

Many a person is starving with a full table before them. Appetite gone! Ambition gone! Life a burden!! What is the matter? The Liver has ceased to do its proper work. The life channels are clogged. Poisonous fluids are thrown back into the blood, which should be thrown out. SMITH'S BILE BEANS will surely stimulate the liver to do its work well, and headache, sallowness and bad breath will flee away. Price, 25 cents per bottle. All druggists.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.

Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

MONTEVALLO NEWS.

VOL. III MONTEVALLO, ALA., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, '98. NO. 7

THE BILLVILLE DEBATE.

Bretherin had a meetin'—jest as lively as could be;
Subject fer discussion: "Is Salvation Really Free?"
Fer the rival meetin' houses talked it out from dark ter dawn,
That they'd save the Presbyterians, but—the Methodists wuz gone!

Th e Baptists said 'twuz sartin as the mornin' follered night
Th at they had the road ter glory an' wuz runnin' of it right;
An' the proud Episcopalians said the thing wuz plain as day
That they'd have ter take the gospel the Episcopalian way!

The Methodists wuz 'mong 'em an' holdin' ter their place,
An' stickin' ter their privilege of fallin' way from grace;
An' so, they met together, jest as earnest as could be,
Ter settle that big question: "Is Salvation Really Free?"

They talked from dark ter day time—they shouted out their views;
They made the pulpit tremble—ripped the railin' off the pews;
But they come ter no decision till a preacher says, says he:
"It's sartin' in this neighborhood, salvation's really free!

"An' I'll prove it! Come up, brethren, 'till you're all in hearin' reach:
Jest tell me whar's that salary you promised me to preach?
You've been feedin' on the gospel till the souls of you are fat,
An' the preacher's coat is threadbare an' the wind howls through his hat!

"You listen to the sarmont, but the whole contented crowd
When we takes up a collection are a-snorin' long and loud!
Can't hear the hymn we're singin'—the basket never see,
An' it's my onbiased jedgment that you've got salvation free!"

The Presbyterian preacher said he'd sign his name ter that;
The Baptists said 'twuz sartin that the brother had it pat!
The Episcopalians j'ined him thar. 'Twuz plain as plain could be
The people in that neighborhood had got salvation free!

One man laid down a dollar; another one give five;
Then tens and twenties fluttered till the meetin' looked alive!
An' the last seen of the preachers—they wuz jottin' down their notes
An' havin' of their measures took fer bran' new broadcloth coats!

—(Atlanta Constitution.

What It Cost to Get a Seat in Congress to Which Another Man Was Elected.

The Washington Post gives out the following in its "Under the Dome" column, as to the Aldrich-Plowman contest case:

"Representative Taylor, of Ohio, in the exhaustive Aldrich Plowman contested election case, made some peculiar discoveries in the course of his investigation. The particular case cited by him was in one of the Fourth Alabama district precincts, where the democratic politicians had the name of Nathan Lewis on their poll books as voting.

"Now, it is not uncommon," said Mr. Taylor, "in these elections throughout the South to discover that some dead man has voted; but in the case of Nathan Lewis, we not only know that he is dead, but we have a receipt for his coffin, and the receipt is in evidence, showing that not only did he die, but that somebody had to pay for burying."

This was too much for the equanimity of either republicans or democrats, and both sides laughed at Mr. Taylor's peculiar discovery.

Taxing Bachelors.

Montgomery Advertiser.

New Jersey is bound to make herself noted for something besides cranberries and mosquitoes. One of her legislators named Weller, who may be a relation of the original Samuel, has introduced a bill to levy an annual tax on bachelors, and what is more to the purpose he says he is in dead earnest about it, and isn't working any buncombe business. The tax is to be two dollars a year on each unmarried man, and, to prevent any young fellow hiding behind parental barricades, the tax is to be enforced whether the man lives with his parents or not. The law is intended to be so framed as to catch every man who is not provided with at least one wife. If a man prefers to live out his days alone he must pay for the privilege. But the question naturally arises, whether this tax is a punishment for misfortune or for bad taste. If a man has been so unfortunate as not to have been able to take unto himself a wife, it seems hard to add to his mortification and suffering by taxation, but if he remains single because he is too lazy to support a wife, perhaps he ought to pay for it.

It may be news to many to learn that this proposed tax is not a new idea in that State. There was formerly a law of the same kind on the statute books, which was repealed sixty years ago. The bachelors of that day were as much opposed to such sumptuary legislation as they are now, and were able to bring such arguments to bear on the legislature as caused the repeal of the obnoxious law. The committee having the question of repeal in charge, claimed that all bachelors were not guilty of celibacy of malice prepense, and that their enforced single blessedness rendered them more worthy of pity than of blame.

Doubtless if the matter should be left to the fair sex they would decide in favor of the tax. They would argue that any man could get married if he would, and that if he remained single it was of his own choice and he ought to be required to pay for it. It will be interesting, if this bill becomes a law, to watch the result, and note the workings of such legislation. It may afford some novelty, if but little revenue.

The Sackville-West Episode.

Selma Journal.

The dismissal of De Lome, the obnoxious Spanish minister at Washington, recalls the Sackville-West episode several years ago during the Cleveland administration, when Mr. Bayard was Secretary of State. Sir Lionel Sackville West, the predecessor of Sir Julien Pauncefort, was the minister at Washington. A Mr. Murchison, of Pomona, Cal., an American citizen, but born in England, asked the minister's advice as to how he should vote in the presidential election, and received a reply that any political party which openly favored the mother country at that time would be unpopular, but he (Sackville West) believed that President Cleveland would manifest a spirit of conciliation in dealing with the questions involved in his message.

These letters were published and Secretary Bayard was very indignant at what he thought was an unwarranted interference of a foreign minister in the domestic affairs of this country. Minister Phelps at London was directed to call Lord Salisbury's attention to this breach of decorum, but the English prime minister refused to recall Sackville West, whereupon he was dismissed by Bayard. The British government took offense at this, and for some time it had no minister at Washington and was represented only by a charge d'affairs.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Mattie May Barker has returned to school after an absence of three weeks at her home, where she was called by the illness of her mother, who, we are glad to say, is now greatly improved.

***

Among our visitors this week were Mrs. Wm. Lyman, Miss Mary Kroell, and Mrs. Isaac Price, of Avondale. We are always glad to have our home folk, as well as strangers, visit us.

***

Our elocution teacher, Miss Francis, gives physical culture lessons to the entire school twice a week.

***

A class of thirty-eight pupils has been formed in Elocution, and to this class Miss Francis gives Delsarte once a week.

***

Miss Christabel Mahan of Brierfield, a former pupil of the A. P. I., spent Sunday with the Misses Kroell.

***

It is rumored that our president has ordered several tennis sets for us, and, if this be true, ere long the cry of "love, fifteen," will be heard ringing ever the campus.

***

Miss Julia Grey left for her home at Troy, much to the regret of her many friends at the Dormitory.

***

Miss Minnie Meyer was delighted by a visit from her sister, who spent Saturday and Sunday with her.

***

Mrs. G. Nelson is now in Montgomery, where she was accompanied by Misses Mamie Guy and Rhoda Latham, who are taking orders for some very handsome costumes, to be made in the dressmaking department. She was so busy that she telegraphed for two more young ladies, and Misses Wilma Saunders and Lucy Leeper were sent to her rescue.

***

Miss Neil Chandler enjoyed a pleasant visit from her brother this week.

***

Mr. H. A. McArdle, who has recently been sojourning in Colorado and New Mexico, paid his sister, Miss Margaret, a flying visit last week, which was a most pleasant surprise.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Methodist Sunday School, Dr. D. L Wilkinson, superintendent; C. C. Vandegrift, secretary.

February 13th: Officers and teachers present, 16; scholars present, 156; total, 172: on roll, 210; visitors, 2; collection, $2.00.

Baptist Sunday School, Will Lyman, superintendent; J H. McMath, secretary.

February 13: Scholars present, 127; scholars absent, 59; officers and teachers present, 13; officers and teachers absent, 7; visitors, 6; total, 146. Collection, 88 cents.

Miss Allie Hughes, Norfolk, Va., was frightfully burned on the face and neck. Pain was instantly relieved by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which healed the injury without leaving a scar. It is the famous pile remedy. F. F. Crowe & Co.

Subscribers to the NEWS can get it and the Weekly Atlanta Constitution for one year for $1.50, as advertised on page 8 of this issue. Read that offer, then send or bring your subscription to the office of the NEWS.

If you want to buy cheap goods, cal on C. C. Vandegrift, as he is closing out

Kroell can supply anything.

For The Man

WHO fails to save a Dollar.

YOU CAN SAVE SEVERAL

By doing your trading with

H. C. & W. B. REYNOLDS.

Montevallo, - - Ala.

The Womans' Press Association of Alabama has just been organized at Montgomery with Mrs. George C. Ball, of Birmingham, as President, and Mrs. Margaret E. O'Brien Davis as Secretary. The names enrolled in the association embrace many of the finest women writers in the State. We note that Mrs. Kate Jarvis (Alma) of this city, is appointed one of the delegates to the woman's convention at New Orleans. The Journal congratulates the association on its excellent work and wishes for it success in the future.—Selma Journal.

Montevallo News.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

MONTEVALLO, - ALABAMA.

Two items in the budget of the bank at Monte Carlo, for the year ending October 31: "Payments to ruined gamblers, one hundred thousand francs; for the prevention of suicides, one hundred thousand francs." Here is a sermon, "writ large," on the question. Does gambling pay?

In South Germany finishing schools, to train young women in presiding over a home, have been recently developed. The girls admitted must have an ordinary grammar-school education. Not over twenty boarders are taken in each school. These girls are obliged to take care of their rooms, and every week four are selected who must manage the household for the week, buying supplies and attending to all the details of cooking and other work, including sewing and making of garments. Under proper supervision this ought to make girls good housekeepers, and it certainly ought to have a tendency to keep down the divorces in Germany.

Although the so-called curfew ordinances have encountered considerable ridicule, the police reports from Lincoln, Neb.; Omaha, St. Joseph, Mo., Denver, Col., and Des Moines Iowa, declare that it has been a success. There is a large decrease in the arrests of youths; there is an improvement in study. and a reduction in commitments to the reform school. The law in many places no longer needs enforcement, for the children are no longer on the streets. With the exception of Omaha, no attempt has been made to put such a law in force in any metropolis. There is no question, however, comments the Washington Star, about the evil it undertakes to remedy. The steps in many instances of free night roaming on the streets are clearly marked and inevitable. First amusement; second, mischief; third, crime.

A writer in the New York Observer says: New York, in its government, its climate and conveniences for living, its religious, educational and social advantages, its opportunities for varied exercise and amusement, has a fair place among the greatest and the best. It has one of the finest situations in the world, and sanitary opportunities which are unrivalled. It has an abundant water supply, and every effort has been made by its rulers to keep this supply commensurate with the rapid growth of the city. In no large city of Europe is life as safe for the simple and unwary as it is here. No young woman could walk in the streets of Paris with the absolute security against insult which is almost guaranteed in New York. It is customary to abuse and denounce the public means of conveyance in New York, and certainly there is much room for improvement, but who that has waited an hour for his turn at an omnibus station in London or Paris, or been packed with a crowd of sausage eaters and rank tobacco smokers in a little horse car in Vienna, or tested the vileness of a Naples cab, does not judge with leniency the much criticised "elevated" and crowded "cable" of Gotham? I used to criticise the docks and streets, when I returned from frequent excursions to the old world, but I do so no more. Both are improved, and when the present temporary disturbances are over, New York will have more miles of well paved streets than any city in the world. The abuses from which we suffer are those which are common to mankind. We have no monopoly of corrupt politicians, and plotting leaders, and dishonest contractors, and bribe taking officials. Those who read contemporaneous history in English and French and German papers, or who even pay attention to the foreign items which are collected in our own journals, do not need to be told that politics is much alike the world over, and that a French legislator and an English cabinet officer, and a Spanish general—not to say anything of Germans or Russians are not so immaculate as to throw any stain upon American office-holders with comparative success.

THE NEWS IN ALABAMA

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT THE MOBILE CONVENTION ASKING NATIONAL AID IN QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

Coal Production of the State for 1897—Goodwyn-Brewer Contested Election Case—E. & W. Bondholders Lose—Other Interesting Items.

THE QUARANTINE CONVENTION

Adopts Resolutions Asking Congress to Aid in Regulating Quarantine Affairs.

The quarantine convention, which was in session at Mobile the past week, adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention:

"1. That congress be required to provide for a department of public health as soon as possible.

"2 That it is the sense of this convention that congress should enact laws to provide for an efficient maritime quarantine to be uniform and impartial in its application to the different commercial ports of this country, so as to give to no one or more of them undue commercial advantage over the others, and to be enforced by the several state and municipal quarantine or health boards if they will undertake to do so, leaving to the states the power to prescribe and enforce additional reasonable safeguards of the health of their communities, provided that such state action shall not unreasonably obstruct commerce.

"3. That congress should aid the several states in establishing and maintaining uniform, reasonable and efficient quarantine lines, affecting but not regulating interstate commerce, leaving to each state adequate power to protect as it shall deem best the lives and health of its people.

"4. That congress should leave exclusively to the states the regulation of their purely internal commerce and the provision of such quarantine and sanitary laws and regulations as they may deem advisable to that end.

"5. That in the framing of quarantine laws and regulations and their enforcement congress should avail itself of the learning, experience and ability of the medical profession in the fullest manner possible, and especially by way of an advisory council."

BONDHOLDERS LOSE.

Kelly Estate in Control of the East & West Railroad.

Judge Dowdell of the chancery court at Ashville Friday rendered a decree in the case of W. C. Browning and other bondholders of the East & West Alabama railroad against the estate of the late Eugene Kelly, of New York, declaring that $625,000 of receiver's certificates bought by Kelly are prior to all other claims against the property. He also decided that Browning and others, who claim that Kelly entered into an agreement unless they paid to the Kelly estate the value of the receiver's certificates and other advances, amounting to about $1,000,000. The decision, in effect, if sustained by the supreme court, places the Kelly estate in absolute control of the road.

Goodwyn-Brewer Case.

The contested election case of Goodwyn vs. Brewer, from the Fifth Alabama district, was argued before the house committe on elections No. 1 Saturday. Mr. Goodwyn contested the seat held by Judge Cobb in the last house and was given the seat. Mr. Goodwyn was represented in the committee by Gen. W. W. Dudley, of Indiana, and Mr. Vaughan, of Alabama, and Mr. Brewer by A. D. Pitts and G. H. Patrick. Cobb's plurality on the face of the returns was 700; Brewer's almost 6,000. As in the Aldrich-Plowman contest, the principal allegation of fraud is made against the returns from the county (Lowndes in this case) where there is a large excess of colored population over white. The census shows that the population of Lowndes county consisted of 4,563 whites and 6,985 colored persons. The official returns from this county gave Brewer, democrat, 3,407, and Goodwyn, republican, 272.

Value of Diversified Crops.

Henry Stumpe, a German farmer of the St. Florian neighborhood, in Colbert county, has the past year demonstrated that it is not necessary to plant cotton to make a living. He states that last year he made an average of $110 per acre on his farm, planting potatoes, onions, etc., and not a stalk of cotton.

Tour of Inspection.

Adjutant General Ligon announced that at an early date officers will be detailed to inspect each and every military company in Alabama. Lieutenant Sam Jones and Colonel Barber, the staff inspector general, will make the tour.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

A new hotel and bank will be erected at Centerville.

Mamie Wade, a negro woman, shot herself to death at Avondale.

A big grain elevator and flour mill will be erected at Tuskaloosa.

John H. Hooper, one of the most prominent men of Dallas county, died Friday.

Birmingham's cotton receipts since the first of last September have been 101,073 bales.

The supreme court adjourned for the term Friday. The court will meet again on the first Monday in April.

W. J. Siddall, who was shot on the streets of Opelika a few days since, died from the effects of the wounds.

The senate in executive session Friday recommitted the nomination of Dallas B. Smith to be postmaster at Opelika.

Hon. W. F. Fontaine, of Arlington, Wilcox county, died last week. He represented Wilcox county in the legislature of 1892–3.

Florence is now on a firm financial basis. The collections of January exceeded the collections of January of last year by $2,000.

The city council of Dothan has decreed that no hog, cow or other live stock shall be allowed to run at large in the streets of that city.

The work of track laying on the extension of the Mobile & Ohio railroad from Columbus, Miss., to Montgomery, will be completed within two weeks.

Congressman O. W. Underwood has announced his candidacy for re-election to the house of representatives from the Ninth district. He is for the Chicago platform.

Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, has accepted an invitation of the Commercial Club of Birmingham to be their guest at an early date.

Mrs. Florence Forbes, state superintendent of the railroad department of the W. C. T. U., has published an appeal to the members of the state to preach a special temperance sermon to railroad men on the first Sunday in March.

There are now 242 horses wintering at the race track at Selma and the expense of keeping them is about $12,000 per month, all of which is spent in Selma. Next year many more stables will be built, and an effort will be made to have at least 500 horses winter in Selma.

The Woman's Alabama Press Association met in Montgomery Friday for organization. Mrs. George C. Ball, of the Birmingham Age-Herald, was made president; Mrs. H. C. Hildreth, of the Decatur News, vice-president; Mrs. Dr. J. D. S. Davis, of Birmingham, secretary and treasurer; Miss Claudia Hood, of the Montgomery Journal corresponding secretary.

The following recent hog killings are noted in and near Alexander City: George McWhorter, one, weight 556; W. M. Jackson, two, weight 478 and 381; John Coley, three, weight 456, 432 and 326; W. L. Thomas, one, weight 440; Ed Rush, one, weight 416; W. B. Peterns, one, weight 365; R. M. Templeton, one, weight, 334; E. P. Duncan, two, weight 350 and 336; Joe Knight, two, weight 336 and 323; Jim Seats, one, weight 276, ten months old.

Alabama Coal Production.

J. D. Hillhouse, chief mine inspector, Saturday gave out the final figures on Alabama coal production in 1897. The total is 5,868,271 tons, the largest in the state's history, and 122,654 tons greater than last year. The total number of men employed was 11,091. The total coke production was 1,395,252 tons, as compared to 1,689,307 tons for 1896, thus showing a falling off. He places the total number of coke ovens in blast last year at 4,662.

Saved by a Miracle.

A wreck occurred on the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroad, near Ensley City, in which Engineer J. T. Loveless and Fireman Dave Ingram were seriously injured. That five men, the entire crew, were not killed is a miracle, for an engine and caboose left the track while running at the rate of twenty miles an hour and the engine turned completely over down a little fill. There were three men on the engine, and with the exception of the engineer, who had two ribs broken, a slight fracture of the skull and a badly sprained leg, no injuries that could possibly result fatally were received.

FIGHTING IN GUATEMALA.

Strife and Bloodshed Has Followed the Assassination of Barrios.

A special from San Jose de Guatemala says civil strife and bloodshed have followed the killing of Barrios. Before the body of the late ruler had found sepulchre the factions were flying at each other's throats, and as a result General Marroquin, the chief supporter of Prospero Morales, one of the aspirants to the presidency, is dead, and his forces are seeking safety in flight.

Thursday night General Marroquin attempted to seize the reins of government in behalf of Morales. He made an attack in force on the palace barracks. The assault was vigorously resisted, and in the fighting General Marroquin and a few others were killed. Seeing that their efforts would not prove successful, the attacking forces, consisting of 2,000 men, headed by General Majera and Colonel Arrevalo, fled from the city.

General Toledo, who has been appointed minister of war by Manuel Gabrera, the president pro tem. of the republic, ordered the artillery in pursuit of the fleeing revolutionists.

The populace and soldiers are now demanding that General Mendoza be proclaimed president. The situation is becoming more alarming and the crisis is acute.

President Barrios' cabinet resigned Friday.

A BARON SUICIDES.

The Famous Prince of Trinidad Takes His Own Life.

Baron Harden Hickey, better known as the Prince of Trinidad, committed suicide by taking morphine at the Pierson hotel in El Paso, Tex. He left a letter addressed to his wife at Corona, Cal., in which he stated that he was going to die. Deceased was married to a daughter of John H. Flagler, of New York, the Standard Oil magnate, in 1891. Baron Hickey attained notoriety some time ago when he took possession of Trinidad Island and proclaimed himself military dictator.

Baron Harden Hickey was the first of the royal dynasty of Trinidad. He was born in San Francisco on December 8, 1854, of a Catholic and old royalist family. His ancestors, the Hickeys, originally came from Ireland, having accompanied the banished royal Stuarts of England in their flight to France.

PLEASED WITH FLORIDA.

Secretary Wilson Has Made a Tour of the State.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has completed a comprehensive tour of Florida, He visited orange groves, winter truck gardens, the sugar plantations of the Kissimmee valley on rich lands reclaimed by the Disston Company, the pineapple plantations of the east coast and tobacco plantations of many sections of the state. He was greatly impressed and astonished with the quality of leaf grown in Florida and of the development of the industry since the war in Cuba has limited the exports from that country; also of Florida's possibilities as a sugar producing state.

At Lake City he was presented with one hundred cigars made of '97 Florida tobacco, the box to be opened at the next cabinet meeting that he attends.

FIVE KILLED

In a Head End Collision on the L. & N. Near Brewton, Ala.

A terrible head end collision between freight trains occurred seven miles north of Brewton, Ala., at 1:30 o'clock Friday morning. Both engineers, Davidson and Ussery, a colored fireman, a negro railroad laborer and a white tramp were killed. Two white brakemen, a colored fireman and a tramp were injured seriously.

A disregard of orders by Engineer Davidson to meet the other train at Kirkland was the cause. The collision was on a straight stretch, but a dense fog prevented the enginemen from seeing the danger in time to save themselves.

Beyond a Million.

Savannah's cotton receipts reached the million mark Friday and went beyond. Friday's receipts of 3,190 bales carried the total to 1,000,025 bales. This is the earliest date in the season at which Savannah's receipts have gone to 1,000,000 bales.

The Thief Discovered.

The letter which encompassed DeLome's downfall was stolen by Manuel Zerafin Richardo, son-in-law of Senor Arturo Amblard, deputy of the cortes in Cuba. Richardo is the close business associate of Canalejas, the editor of El Heraldo, of Madrid, to whom the letter was addressed and delivered, and is the Havana correspondent of that newspaper.

The democrats made heavy gains in the municipal elections in New York State. In seventeen counties the democrats made gains in thirty-three towns and the republicans in only one. Oleon elected its first democratic mayor.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Happenings of General Interest Fresh From the Wires.

GEORGIA'S SECRETARY OF STATE RESIGNS.

Ensign Breckenridge Washed Overboard and Drowned—Italian Warship Ordered to Hayti—No Apology to be Asked of Spain.

A canning factory will be built at McMinnville, Tenn.

W. L. Trent has been appointed postmaster of Knoxville, Tenn.

Judge John M. Taylor, of Lexington, has announced his candidacy for governor of Tennessee.

McKisson, the defeated senatorial candidate in Ohio, will contest the election of Mark Hanna.

Levi P. Morton's seven story office building in New York was destroyed by fire. Loss $500,000.

Edwin S. Cunningham, of Tennessee, has been appointed by the president to be consul at Aden, Arabia.

President McKinley will not demund an apology from Spain, as he is satisfied with De Lome's departure.

Italian warships have been ordered to Hayti to enforce pending claims of the Italian government to the amount of $120,000.

Ensign J. R. Breckenridge was washed overboard from the torpedo boat Cushing, now in Havana harbor, and was drowned.

Hon. Allen D. Candler, of Georgia, has tendered his resignation to the governor as secretary of state, to make the race for governor.

The corner stone of the Coleman Cotton mill, ot Concord, N. C., was laid Friday. It is the only mill in the world owned and operated by negro labor.

J. Hadley Clack who has been chief of police of Nashville for many years was defeated by the new police board and Robert Sidebottom elected in his place.

A proposition is before the Louisiana Constitutional convention to pension ex-Confederates, which will probably become a part of the new constitution.

After celebrating his 56th birthday. George Hartman, living near Louisville, Ky., became suddenly despondent and plunged into a cistern, and was drowned.

[illegible] American [illegible], Captain Stenger, from Rotterdam for New York. The passengers and crew of the Veendam were saved by the St. Louis.

The Goebel election law passed the Kentucky senate Thursday and will be rushed through the house. The governor will veto it and then it will be passed over his head. The law is such as to keep the republicans from carrying the elections in that the franchise will be regulated to the interest of the democrats.

The Spanish government has requested the Clyde Bank Ship Building Company to push Spanish work. The company has dispatched to Spain a high-speed torpedo cruiser, fully manned by Spaniards. In addition, two torpedo boat destroyers are being completed for Spain, the crews for which have arrived at Glasgow.

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

"I will suppose that John Oakburn really saved the money his daughter supposed he did, and that it was in his small, private safe. Kredge, knowing about this money, might have opened the safe, taken the money, relocked the 'strong box,' and returned the key to Oakburn's pocket. Or, it is possible that he may have privately provided himself with a duplicate. Though the safe was not found open it does not follow that it was not robbed. I was very near committing an oversight in neglecting this point in the case," thought Paxton.

Paxton shadowed Kredge back to the city.

The detective next instituted an investigation which elicited the information that Donald Wayburn, the author of the threatening letter found among John Oakburn's correspondence, was a young man who had been obliged to flee from New York on account of having been the promoter of a gigantic swindle, which had resulted in the financial ruin of a large number of people.

Some of his information the detective received from Jason Garrison, who remarked in the course of the conversation:

"Yes, Wayburn was a scoundrel. My old cashier, John Oakburn, could have told you more about him than I can, for he had several thousand dollars in the swindle of which that man was the head. Poor old John! He was never tired of denouncing Wayburn as a villain."

"Ha!" thought Paxton. "This information favors my theory that Wayburn may have been the assassin, with Kredge for a confederate. But stay! The name Pratt & Weeks gave the man who carried the skeleton keys was Garnar, and yet that does not prove that he is not really Wayburn. Garnar may be an alias."

Paxton continued his investigation relating to Wayburn, hoping to thereby arrive at a revelation of the truth regarding the secret of the supposed assassin's identity.

He did not succeed in establishing the fact which he had hoped to prove, that Wayburn had returned to New York and was in the city at the time of the murder.

This failure left his theory wanting in a most important link of presumptive evidence.

But Paxton thought:

"If Donald Wayburn returned to the city he would have the best possible reason for concealing the fact, since discovery would no doubt result in his arrest by the parties whom he swindled years ago. Even if he did return it is not surprising that I have been unable to establish the fact."

A day or two later one of Paxton's agents shadowed Judith Kredge to a savings bank, where she was seen to deposit money, and inquiry solicited the fact that the woman had opened an account there.

At Paxton's request an examination of the books was made, which resulted in the discovery that all the money to Judith Kredge's credit had been deposited since John Oakburn's murder.

This the detective regarded as significant.

The bank had received no marked money, however.

Prompted by a suspicion which he had all along entertained, Paxton visited the window at which Stanmore and himself had spied when the detective was shadowing Kredge.

Crouching at the kitchen window of Oakburn's apartment as before, he again saw Marion and Judith.

The curtains were drawn, but at the side of the window there was a narrow space which the curtain did not cover, through which he could command a view of the room.

Paxton witnessed a scene which served to further mystify and perplex him, and it also occasioned him the greatest surprise.

He saw Marion Oakburn count out a large sum of money and give it to Judith Kredge.

The detective was confident that the amount thus given to the woman by Marion could not have been less than five hundred dollars.

The recollection of the conversation which he had overheard between Judith Kredge and her brother Levi returned to Paxton's mind, freighted with startling significance.

"It is then from Marion Oakburn that Judith Kredge has received her money. But wherefore? If I can read the expression on Marion Oakburn's face aright, she is in deadly fear of Judith Kredge. Can it be that there is another mystery here?"

Paxton remained at the window until Marion and Judith withdrew.

He learned nothing further, for darkness closed upon the scene in the room where the money changed hands a few moments after the transfer was made.

The detective then returned to his office to examine a report made by one of his agents, which established the fact that all of Levi Kredge's time on the night of the murder had been accounted for except one hour—from one quarter or fifteen minutes after twelve to the same time after one o'clock.

We know that John Oakburn met his death between the hours of twelve and one o'clock.

Here was another item of presumptive evidence against Kredge.

Since the cunning agent of the detective had been able to trace Kredge for every moment of the night of the murder with unerring certitude, except for the one fatal hour of the murder, the detective inferred that Kredge must have surrounded his movements for that one hour with every precaution of secrecy.

Paxton could arrest Kredge at any time, but as yet he regarded such a course as premature.

CHAPTER XV.

The agent to whom Paxton had intrusted the task of ascertaining where Levi Kredge was on the night of the murder, and at the hour when the crime was committed, had neglected one proceeding which his principal had advised. He had failed to search the janitor's room.

Paxton resolved to visit this apartment in person.

The next evening the detective repaired to his boarding place.

The landlady admitted him, and he said:

"I called to see Mr. Kredge."

"He is not at home, sir," replied the landlady.

"In that case I will wait, if you please. I have an engagement with Levi. He asked me to run up to his room and make myself at home in case I arrived before he returned."

"Very well. The second door on the right at the head of the stairs."

Paxton ascended to Levi Kredge's room, entered and closed and secured the door.

The janitor's room was a small sleeping apartment, with a closet opening from it.

Besides the usual furniture, the room contained Kedge's trunk. It was locked, but Paxton opened it by means of a skeleton key, and searched it. He discovered nothing to reward his quest.

Then he ransacked all the drawers, and still he made no discovery.

Completing the search of the sleeping-room, he entered the closet.

Presently Paxton emerged from the closet with a small canvas bag, such as gold coin is packed in at the mint, in his hand.

"I thought some discovery might be made here," said the detective to himself, in a tone of satisfaction, as he placed the small canvas bag in his pocket.

Then he ran down stairs.

The landlady met him in the hall.

"Are you going, sir?" she asked.

"Yes, I'll run round and see Levi at the office."

Paxton was well satisfied.

He had made something of a discovery, he fancied, but regarding it he maintained the most profound secrecy.

At the time when Paxton undertook the solution of the mystery of John Oakburn's murder, he was engaged in another investigation which related to certain affairs which do not interest us.

Some business pertaining to the matter induced Paxton to make a visit to a certain obscure East Side street, where the dangerous undercurrent of the great city's human tide was ever to be dreaded, one night soon after the occurrence last recorded.

The detective was elaborately disguised, for he was too well known to the criminal classes, and he had too many enemies among them to think of venturing among them in his own proper personality.

As he traversed the dimly lighted way, Paxton noticed a female form flitting along before him, and he fancied there was something familiar about the woman's appearance.

In a moment or so he was at the woman's side, and as she passed beneath a street lamp at a corner the night wind lifted a veil which she wore, and he caught a glimpse of her face and recognized it.

The woman was Marion Oakburn.

Of course Paxton was surprised at finding Marion alone at night in such a dangerous locality.

But his curiosity and his detective instinct prompted him to follow her.

A few blocks further down the street, the detective saw Marion pause before the door of a gloomy building.

The cashier's daughter glanced about as though she expected to meet some one, but she did not discover the detective, who had promptly stepped back into the alley.

A moment elapsed, and, peering from his hiding place, the detective's espionage was rewarded by the appearance of a man who came skulking stealthily along the street as though fearful of discovery, and joined Marion at the door.

The girl gave the man both her hands and seemed to greet him warmly.

The detective was so near that, as the man presently raised his voice a trifle, he heard him say:

"Come, let us enter the parlor. I have much to say to you."

Then they opened the door and disappeared within the house.

Paxton remained where he was.

He did not follow Marion and her companion into the house, for, as it was not an ordinary public resort, he deemed it advisable to proceed with caution.

A moment or so elapsed, and then the detective saw a faint light reflected through the opening between the blinds of a couple of windows in the side of the building fronting the alley.

He glided to the nearest window, thinking it might be the window to the little back parlor mentioned by the man who had met Marion Oakburn.

Paxton hoped to see and hear more of the parties who had just entered the house, but as he reached the window heavy inside curtains were drawn, and he was unable to see anything, neither could he hear a word.

There was no help for it, and so the detective waited patiently in the alley for Marion and her companion to reappear on the street.

At the expiration of half an hour, perhaps, the door through which the subject of Paxton's surveillance had entered opened, and they came out.

A brightly burning gas-jet in the hall, which must have been lighted since they entered the place, reflected a brilliant light upon the couple as they stood for a moment in the open door addressing some remarks to a person within.

For two minutes Paxton scrutinized the face of Marion's companion under the glare of the gas light.

He saw that the man was in disguise.

The next instant Paxton believed that he had made a great discovery.

He saw a scar on the man's eyebrow, and from this as well as his general appearance, which corresponded with the general description given by Stuart Harland, the detective believed that Marion's companion was the suspected assassin of her father—the man called "Garnar" by Pratt & Weeks, who carried the skeleton keys and wax impressions in his overcoat pocket.

Marion and her companion walked away, but at a neighboring corner they parted.

But Paxton did not mean that the man who had thus far evaded discovery and whom the most skillful of his agents had failed to "locate" should escape now.

He bounded forward and seized his man.

But, like a flash, the other wheeled and dealt the detective a blow that staggered him.

Then the stranger darted away and vanished in a passage between two buildings.

Paxton pursued, but he did not overtake or even sight him.

Enraged with himself at his want of caution in attempting the arrest, and fully satisfied that he had a desperate man to deal with, Paxton retraced his steps.

All thought of the business which had brought him to that locality was, for the time, banished from his mind, and he hastened in the direction of Jason Garrison's office, hoping to intercept Marion Oakburn.

Meanwhile, after parting with her mysterious companion, Marion hurried homeward.

She had reached the door and was about to enter her home when Paxton overtook her. The detective had resolved upon a bold and determined course, and, gliding forward, he placed his hand on Marion's arm.

The girl turned with a frightened exclamation, and by reason of his disguise, she did not recognize Paxton.

"Who are you, sir?" demanded Marion, as she indignantly confronted the detective.

"I am your friend, Miss Oakburn, and I am seeking to discover your father's assassin. Tell me who the man was whom you met to-night, and who escaped me?"

Marion leaned against the door and her form trembled with agitation, but she did not speak.

"Will you not answer me?" persisted Paxton.

Still Marion was silent.

Paxton became impatient.

"I will tell you who the man you met is. He is Donald Wayburn!" he cried, suddenly. "I am Gerald Paxton," he added.

He sought to surprise Marion into some confirmation of his statement, if it was the truth.

"I believe that man is your father's murderer. Miss Oakburn, I warn you that the time has come when you should explain the cause of your mysterious conduct since your father's death. You are venturing into peril, it may be. Will you not save yourself! Will you not trust me?" the detective continued, as Marion made no sign in confirmation of his statement that her recent companion's name was Donald Wayburn.

"What is there in my conduct that you regard as mysterious?" said Marion at last.

"This night meeting. Your having given your inheritance to Judith Kredge. Your positive declaration that Harland is an innocent man," replied Paxton.

"You wrong me cruelly. I can explain nothing; but, by my dead father's memory, I swear that Donald Wayburn has no knowledge of my father's murder. He is innocent!"

With these words she unlocked the door and entered the house.

"Now, indeed, is my cup of misery filled to the brim. Too late I discover that I have made a fatal mistake, but I cannot determine to abandon my purpose yet," thought Marion, as she crept to her room.

Paxton made no attempt to detain Marion, and as the evening was not far advanced and he had concluded to abandon the business which had taken him out that night, for the present, he proceeded to visit certain shops devoted to the sale of curiosities in the way of ancient coins, weapons, and the like. In every shop he exhibited the bullet which had caused John Oakburn's death, and asked if they ever had a pistol which the ball would fit.

In every instance the detective received a negative answer, until at last he entered a little shop whose proprietor informed the detective that he had sold an ancient air pistol provided with such bullets as the one Paxton exhibited.

"Can you tell me the purchaser's name?" asked Paxton, thinking a positive clue to the solution of the mystery was found at last.

"I keep a memorandum of purchasers names and addresses when, instead of taking the goods with them at the time of the sale, they order them to be sent home. I believe I wrote the name of the man who bought the air pistol in my book. Yes, here it is," answered the shopkeeper.

"Read it?" cried Paxton breathlessly.

There was a surprise in store for him he little dreamed of.

CHAPTER XVI.

The proprietor of the curiosity shop did not share the detective's excitement, and he very deliberately read the following memorandum from his order book:

May 8th, 18—,
John Oakburn, No— Wall Street, City,
One ancient air pistol $8.
To be delivered to-day.

The name of the murdered man was the very last one the detective anticipated hearing announced as that of the purchaser of the air pistol, and he was completely surprised.

Paxton had entertained the hope that the fatal bullet which had occasioned the death of John Oakburn would serve as an important clue in tracing the unfortunate man's assassin.

From the first it had been the detective's purpose to trace the weapon of death to the assassin, by means of the bullet.

Now the purpose of the man-trailer was no longer possible to be executed and the hope which the possession of the death-missile had given him was destroyed.

"So John Oakburn was murdered with his own weapon. The assassin probably found the weapon in the office and used it to kill Oakburn, very possibly, with the intention of perplexing the investigator, should the weapon be traced," thought the detective.

He recalled to mind the fact that no one had mentioned having ever seen such a weapon as the air-pistol in the possession of John Oakburn, and as a new idea entered his mind he cried:

"I have it! The strange weapon with which Oakburn was murdered formed one of his collection of curious, ancient weapons.

"The assassin had opened the old cashier's little safe, robbed it, and secured the air-pistol when he heard Oakburn coming. The wretch had discovered that the pistol was loaded and ready for use. He used it to kill his victim because it made no sound."

Paxton was satisfied with this theory.

On this very evening, while Paxton was visiting the curiosity shop, Levi Kredge was on his way to visit his sister.

The treacherous scoundrel had taken the alarm, and he was thoroughly on his guard.

From the evening when Paxton had shadowed him to the office of Pratt & Weeks, Levi Kredge had experienced the keenest anxiety for his personal safety.

"They are on my trail! Do they suspect the truth?" he asked himself over and over again.

For the present he did not visit Pratt & Weeks, for the wily brokers had instructed him not to do so.

Levi Kredge met his sister in the rear of Garrison's office by appointment, and the moment Judith saw his face she knew that he was troubled.

"What is it Levi; you look frightened?" said Judith.

"I am frightened, Judith; the detectives are shadowing me day and night."

"Is that a fact!" cried Judith, starting.

"Yes. They surely have some suspicion against me."

"What do you fear?"

"You know well enough, I fear I shall be charged with John Oakburn's murder."

"That should not alarm you. You didn't kill the old man."

"No, that's a fact. But there are circumstances against me, Judith, of which you do not know."

"Ah, you have secrets from your affectionate sister, eh?"

"I tell you I fear I shall yet be placed in peril of my life, on account of John Oakburn's murder."

"If it comes to that, I'll save you. I'll point out the real assassin, and prove that person's guilt."

After this, they conversed at some length, but they discussed personal affairs, of no interest to our readers.

Paxton's faithful auxiliary, whose duty it was to track Kredge, overheard this conversation, for he had not neglected to track the janitor on this occasion.

The detective agent repeated what he had overheard of the conversation just recorded to his principal.

This intelligence seemed, at the first view, to overthrow the detective's theory of the guilt of Kredge. But Paxton was not yet ready to admit that Kredge was not the assassin or his accomplice, and he thought:

"Kredge may have been concerned in the crime, and Judith be ignorant of the fact."

One point, however, seemed established. Judith Kredge was sincere in believing she could produce enough to procure the conviction of some one, who was not Stuart Harland.

The perplexing complications and mysteries with which the case abounded would have confused a non-professional, but Paxton saw his way clear. His next step was indicated by the intelligence he had just received.

Judith Kredge must be compelled to reveal the knowledge of the crime which she was concealing.

To accomplish this, Paxton resolved to arrest Levi Kredge and charge him with John Oakburn's murder.

He meant to thoroughly frighten Kredge, and lead them to believe that the danger of conviction, as Oakburn's assassin, was imminent, and he counted on Judith keeping her promise and revealing what she claimed to know, thinking only by such a course could Levi be saved.

But meanwhile, during the time occupied by Paxton in making the investigations recorded, the Grand Jury had held a session. Stuart Harland's case had been considered, and a true bill was returned against him.

Stuart Harland had endured his imprisonment bravely.

Edna Garrison was an almost constant visitor to his cell, and the imperilled young man was cheered and sustained by her unfailing devotion.

Harland's attorney was a shrewd and successful criminal lawyer, and when Stuart had positively answered him that the real truth regarding the motive for his visit to Albany on the night of the crime could not be told under any circumstances, he said:

"I will not question your motive, but we must invent some plausible defense or you are lost."

"What, resort to falsehood?" demanded Stuart.

"A story must be told to account for your midnight journey. Listen to me. I have made a study of the case, and here is what you must say when you are brought to trial.

"Your aunt, whose prospective heir you are said to be, resides in Albany. Very good. You made your midnight journey to visit her.

"Some one had informed you that the first train in the morning would take Weeks to Albany to see your aunt, to whom he meant to reveal that you had become involved in stock gambling, to the extent of ten thousand dollars.

"You had obtained a sight of your note for one thousand dollars, which you had given the scoundrel, and when you saw it had been raised to ten, you knew Pratt and Weeks meant to swindle your aunt.

"You secretly took the midnight train in order to see your aunt and explain matters before Weeks came.

"You did not tell the truth at the Coroner's inquest, because to do so would have been to lead to the betrayal of the person who had warned you of Weeks' intention of visiting Albany, on the morning following the night of the murder. That person was a young clerk, John Sand by name, employed by Pratt & Weeks, and the sole support of a widowed mother and invalid sister.

"You knew that if it came out that he had warned you, he would be discharged by Pratt & Weeks. In that event, you thought the helpless ones dependent upon his salary for support might suffer. This consideration prevented your risking the betrayal of your friend by telling the truth. Besides you will add that you did not at the time of your examination fully realize how great your peril was."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

DR. WILDER has made an interesting note relative to prairie dogs. They seem to lack any sense of height or distance, owing, it is thought, to the nature of their ordinary surroundings—a flat, level plain, destitute of pitfalls of any kind. Several dogs, experimented with, walked over the edges of tables, chairs and other pieces of furniture, and seemed to be greatly surprised when their adventure ended in a fall to the ground. One dog fell from a window-sill twenty feet above a granite pavement.

DRY ropes immersed for four days in a bath containing twenty grains of sulphite of copper to a quart of water are for some time preserved from the attacks of animal parasites and rot.

JOHN W. TOMLINSON

Feels the Political Pulse at the Nation's Capitol.

Hon. John W. Tomlinson, of Birmingham, has returned from a brief visit to Washington. He was there during the stirring fight in the senate over the Teller resolution and was a guest at the annual banquet of the Grid Iron club Saturday night at the Arlington. Mr. Tomlinson stated to a reporter that he had a lengthy conversation with Chairman Jones, and he said that "systematic work was being quietly but effectively done all over the country in preparation for the great contest in 1900. He declared there must be no wavering in Alabama or any other state, and to prevent this the people should be very careful and select the right men to go to the county conventions and state conventions, and see that the executive committees are made up of the right material.

"What is the sentiment regarding Mr. Bryan?" and before continuing Mr. Tomlinson repeated the question. "The concluding paragraph in an editorial of the Washington Post Sunday expresses the almost universal opinion in Washington, when it says: 'Mr. Bryan is the acknowledged leader of his party, and is daily becoming more securely entrenched in the confidence and affections of the democratic masses.'"

Tamping Done by Air.

A force of 200,000 men is required to keep the beds of the railroads in order, and the expense of the work is $70,000,000 a year. But an inventor has come forward who propose to do the work with compressed air, and promises greater expedition and a saving of more than $10,000,000 annually. The machine consists of a Root blower driven at the rate of perhaps 800 revolutions a minute. It is set on top of one rail, and has two small wheels on which it can be trundled along the rail like a wheelbarrow. When it is to be used a lever clips it fast to the rail. Attached to it is a hose twelve feet long, ending in a metal feeder for the broken stone, which has a hopper at the top, where the stone or other suitable ballasting material is shoveled in, and a bent end at the bottom, which is put under the ties to direct the stream of filling. In using it none of the ballast between the ties need be removed. A shovelful is removed at one end of the raised tie until the bent end of the hopper tube can be poked under, and then the filling material is blown in and packed tight by the machine.

Georgia Farmer Found Dead.

Bob Keith, aged about forty years, who resides at Dunns, Ga., was found dead near Cohutta Springs with his skull crushed. Several men with him the night previous, who say that he came to his death by being thrown from his horse, but others think it was foul play and that he was brutally murdered. Mr. Keith was a well-to-do farmer, and leaves a wife and eight small children.

THE WEEKLY NEWS,

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

MONTEVALLO PUBLISHING COMPANY,
PUBLISHERS.
BURGESS LITTLE, - EDITOR.

Entered at the postoffice at Montevallo, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.

Thursday, Feb. 17, '98.

The "Maine" topic of the day is what has just happened at Havana.

The Democratic State Convention is called to meet at Montgomery on the 20th of April.

The removal of the court house from Jacksonville to Anniston will be made an issue in the election in Calhoun county this year.

A Danville, Ill., jury recently ordered the male defendant in a breach of promise case to pay the afflicted fair one the neat little sum of $54.333 33. Pretty good price for a broken heart.

The State Democratic Executive Committee met at Montgomery Tuesday for the purpose of fixing the time and place for holding the State convention, and determining the qualification of voters in the primaries.

The young men of Atlanta, Ga., have formed a club barring kissing in public. A fine of $10 is imposed upon every member who kisses a girl in public, and a remittance of 25 per cent. allowed if a transgression in private can be proven.

If, perchance, we all don't go to war against Spain, Montevallo will soon have a main street fronted only by handsome brick business houses. H. C. & W. B. Reynolds will soon have the walls of their new drug store above the foundation.

A terrible explosion occurred in Havana harbor Tuesday night at 9.45 o'clock. The United States cruiser Maine was blown to atoms and 100 soldiers were killed. A number of the surviving sailors are outspoken in their declaration of belief that the explosion was a deep-laid scheme of the Spaniards.

Nowhere between Montgomery and Birmingham is there a town with the hotel accommodations that Montevallo has. While we only have one regular hotel, it is newly and handsomely equipped with the latest designs, and has an ample corps of servants. Nothing can be said that will add to the laurels already won by the proprietor of the "St. George"—Mr. Alex. A. Wall.

The steamship Clara Nevada, of Seattle, Wash., bound for Alaska, was wrecked and burned in Lynn canal, and forty men who were on board are supposed to have perished.

Aboard the Clara Nevada was a party of Birmingham boys, bound for the Klondike in the interest of the Birmingham Gold Mining Company. The party consisted of Joe Biddle, Jim Biddle, Charles J. Smith, John Neale and G. W. Stapleton, who left Birmingham only a few weeks ago for Seattle, where they embarked on the 5th inst. aboard the ill-fated steamer.

WORDS OF PRAISE

SPOKEN OF THE NEW NEWS BY AN OLD FRIEND OF THE EDITOR.

The last issue of the Columbiana Chronicle contained the following complimentary notice of the NEWS under its recent management. We have known the editor of the Chronicle for a number of years—being a schoolmate of his at Six Mile during our childhood days. We thank him for these words of praise:

"THE MONTEVALLO NEWS has passed into the editorial and business control of Mr. Burgess Little, the cashier of the Shelby County Bank. This is a new venture for Mr. Little, but he promises well for the future of his paper. Montevallo is a growing town and deserves to be represented by a first class newspaper. A good paper is a benefit to any town; a poor one is an injury. The best way to have a good paper is to support it, giving the publisher encouragement to make it what it ought to be. With this kind of support we feel sure that Montevallo will have a successful representative in THE NEWS.

COTTON TAKING A BACK SEAT.

When a person takes upon himself the trouble to canvass a portion of this county, he will find that the progressive farmer is already discarding the fleecy staple except as a side line. Wheat, oats and hay are to be the principal leaders this year, and the farmers of this county will come out ahead next fall and ride home in a new wagon, wrapped in a new overcoat. The South holds out a great deal more to farmers than to any other class of people. When our farmers shall succeed in living at home, it will bring the dawn of the long looked for prosperity. Let us not inflict our minds this year by trying to keep up with things political, which is but the blighting frost of a "winter of discontent."

In the near future we will give our readers a bit of information regarding our most enterprising farmers who have made the greatest progress in experimental farming.

THE L. & N. MUST COME BY MONTEVALLO.

A number of the representative citizens of Montevallo informed a NEWS man this week that $20,000 could be raised here to induce the L. & N. to extend its Mineral branch from Calera to Gurnee Junction. When you take into consideration what this place has already done towards helping public enterprises, this move will be credited as "no merry jest." Every man in this community is ready and willing to assist in the movement. Already a lengthy correspondence has been carried on between one of our citizens and the L. & N. officials.

If you want a desirable building lot or a cheap home, call on or write to the Shelby County Bank.

One Minute Cough Cure Cures quickly. That's what you want! F. F. Crowe & Co.

Dr. E. A. WILSON,
DENTIST,
BIRMINGHAM, - - - ALA.

R. B. EVANS,
Proprietor of the only first class
COLORED
BARBER SHOP
IN THE CITY.
☞ Shop east end of town.
MONTEVALLO, - - ALA.

FACTS! NOT POETRY.

We do not blow,
But we do know
Where'er you go
None are so low
In prices, so
For all things go
☞ To

Yours to please,

C. L. MERONEY & CO.

Turkey Tracks

☞ Are numerous in the bottoms but are seldom found in the uplands. MORGAN BROS. have sold enough SHOES in the past few weeks to cover up every turkey track in the State, with a few coon tracks thrown in for the trouble.

WAGON TRACKS.

☞ These are also numerous. Follow any of them and you will haul up at MORGAN BROS., who sell anything that can be used by men, women or children. New goods and low prices, with genial, clever and courteous clerks to deal with.

JOB PRINTING.
LETTER-HEADS,
NOTE-HEADS,
BILL-HEADS,
STATEMENTS,
CIRCULARS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS, Etc.,
Done in first-class style on short notice, at the
NEWS : OFFICE,

It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure. F. F. Crowe & Co.

E. S. LYMAN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MONTEVALLO, - ALA.

FELIX DOTSON,
The First-Class Barber,
Montevallo, - - Ala
Ladies' and children's hair dressing a specialty. Work solicited.

THE BRICK HOTEL,
ST GEORGE,
ALEX. A. WALL, Prop.,
Montevallo, - - - Ala.
New and Centrally Located.
☞ Special attention given the commercial man.
Rates $2 00 per day.
Large sample room free

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

For Sale.—Poland China sow and eight shoats for sale. Apply at Newton's market, Montevallo, Ala.

J. W. Martin, Montevallo, pays good prices for all old gold and silver.

Girls who like good candy can get it at F. F. Crowe & Co.

Plain girls will look beautiful if adorned with the ribbons just received by Morgan Bros.

Prescriptions carefully compounded by F. F. Crowe & Co.

For Sale, Very Cheap.

I will sell, at a very low price, a two-horse wagon, in good fix; just overhauled and repaired.
J. D. MORELAND.

DR. G. W. SHACKELFORD,
DENTIST,
ATLANTA, - - - GA.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U.S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE LATEST TRIUMPH OF MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL.
THE MOST PERFECT AND ELEGANT PREPARATION AND SCIENTIFIC COMBINATION EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.
In the largest hospitals in the world, presided over by the most skillful of living physicians, the ingredients are prescribed more than twice as often as all others put together.
RIPANS TABULES
A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR
DYSPEPSIA, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, HEADACHE,
And every other Symptom or Disease that results from any Disorder of the Stomach, Liver or Bowels.
Ripans Tabules banish pain and prolong life.
Ripans Tabules contain nothing that can be injurious to the most delicate.
Ripans Tabules are pleasant to take, safe and always effectual. One dose gives relief.
The best general family medicine ever offered to the public. Circulars sent on application.
Experienced and thoroughly qualified physicians are connected with the Ripans Chemical Company, and patients are invited to write for special instructions in peculiar cases. Their letters will receive such attention as they require, free of charge.
Always keep Ripans Tabules in the house, and when you travel take some with you. They are put up in small vials, which may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket or portmonnaie.
Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail in the following quantities upon receipt of price:
1 Bottle, - 15 cents. | 12 Bottles, - $1.25
6 Bottles, - 75 cents. | 24 Bottles, - 2.00
ADDRESS
THE RIPANS CHEMICAL CO.,
10 SPRUCE ST., NEW YORK.

TO CONSUMERS - - - -
THE ARTESIAN EXPORT BEER
Manufactured by the Montgomery, Ala., Brewing Co., has no superior in the world, and this assertion is verified by all persons competent to judge who have tried it. If you have not tasted it GIVE IT A TRIAL, and you will THANK us for telling you about it. The marvellous purity and adaptability of the WATER used in its manufacture contribute to its superior FLAVOR and wholesomeness, which gained for it the GOLD MEDAL at PARIS and the HIGHEST AWARDS WHEREEVER ELSE EXHIBITED.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

EXTRACT
ACID IRON EARTH
NATURE'S OWN REMEDY.
TRADE MARK.
Is an aqueous solution of the soluble matter in a mineral earth found in Choctaw county, Ala., near the famous Bladon mineral springs. This earth had great local celebrity as "Rogers' Earth," from the name of the discoverer of the bed or mine, now owned by the Acid Iron Earth Company, of Mobile, Ala.
For Dyspepsia, all derangements of the Digestive Organs and the Liver, Skin Diseases, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Bruises, ACID IRON EARTH is a specific. Rheumatism and other chronic diseases yield to its curative power without fail.
Entirely free from Alcohol or any drug whatever, ACID IRON EARTH fully deserves the words embraced in its trademark, "NATURE'S OWN REMEDY." See free pamphlet, to be had of druggists.

DIRECTORY.

CHURCHES.

BAPTIST.—Rev. M. P. Reynolds, pastor; preaching every second and fourth Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., W. Lyman, Superintendent. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at 7:30. Sunbeam Society first and third Sundays at 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid Society meets at 4 p. m. on Monday after the second and fourth Sundays.

METHODIST—Rev. P. L. Abernethy, pastor; preaching every first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school every Sunday at 9:30 a. m., D. L. Wilkinson, Superintendent. Christian Endeavor Society every Sunday at 5:30 p. m.

LODGES.

Central Lodge No. 70, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on Monday night before the first full moon in each month.
J. ALEX. MOORE, W. M
F. F. CROWE, Sec'y.

W. J. Hardy Lodge No. 52, K. of P.—Meets every second and fourth Monday nights in each month.
C. F. ROBINS, C. C.
G. B. MONROE, K. of R. & S.

Knights of Honor—Meets the second and fourth Tuesday nights in each month.
GEO. B. MORRIS, Dictator.
E. S. LYMAN, Reporter.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One year, cash in advance.....$1.00
Six months, cash in advance .... .50
Three months, cash in advance.. .25

LOCAL.

A big lot of fresh garden seed just received. F. F. CROWE.

